He died in about five minutes.

Nine Indictments Returned By Jury

PRELIMINARY SURVEY ON DAM IS OVER HALF COMPLETED THIS WEEK

The surveying crew stationed in Memphis to make a preliminary survey of this locality for the Upper Red River Water Conservation and Irrigating Dam project are approximately fifty per cent finished with their work according to C. L. Newsome, engineer in charge. Three crews are in the field and are made up of about twenty-four men.

According to Mr. Newsome the survey includes a study of the Prairie Dog Town Fork of Red River from the Briscoe-Armstrong county line to a point south of Plaska, Hall County; along Mulberry Creek from a point seven miles into Donley County to the junction with the Prairie Dog Town Fork; and along Tule Creek from the Briscoe-Swisher county lines to a junction with the Prairie Dog Town Fork.

Most of the work at present is being done on the JA Ranch several miles southwest of Clarendon, with two crews stationed in that locality. Another crew is working in the vicinity southwest of Lakeview.

Saturday Col. Page, army attaché from Vicksburg, Miss., and his assistant, Mr. Smelzer, visited the Memphis office of the army surveying crew and made a hurried economic survey of the work to determine the feasibility of the project for irrigation purposes. According to Mr. Newsome, the visiting army officials made no recommendations or offered no opinions from their findings.

"The work we are doing now is purely preliminary," stated Mr. Newsome, "and should the project in this locality go through our work will be only a drop in the bucket compared to the work that will be necessary before the dam can be built." When questioned in regard to where the proposed dam would be located, Mr. Newsome stated that it was from the findings of the preliminary survey that the dam site would eventually be selected by army engineers.

A similar survey has been ordered on the Pease River near Vernon and in all probability the surveying party that is stationed at Memphis will be transferred to that locality as soon as the work here is finished.

The crew has been stationed in Memphis for four weeks and has been in the field since August 18, coming to this locality from a similar project near Altus, Oklahoma.

JUNIOR CLASS MEETING

The Junior Class met September 19, 1938 with our vice-president presiding. We decided not to have a party this week but to wait until Halloween. FOOTBALL IN DISTRICT 4-B

Football season is rapidly getting under way in District 4-B, as well as in other places, and interest in growing as fast as the National Debt.

Let me urge you, if you intend to carry out your application for insurance on your wheat crop and need to borrow the money, to get in touch with the Farm Security Administration representative and make application for enough funds to pay your premiums. Remember it may be worth your time and trouble to look into this matter.

Go ahead and carry out your part of the contract. Seed your wheat at the proper time and in a workman like manner and no matter what happens to it, you are guaranteed the number of bushels shown on your premium notice.

Come in and talk this matter over with me and I will explain it in detail.

"Sonny" Wynn, who has been staying in the A. M. Allred for several months, left Thursday to join his mother, Mrs. Jerry ??? in California.

FIVE DEGREES AWARDED IN ONE FAMILY

It is always a proud day for a mother when her child accomplishes a goal or comes to a creditable completion of a difficult task. We have a mother here who enjoyed that experience not once but five times this summer—five of her children received degrees at the spring and summer commencements of several Texas colleges.

This must be some sort of a record. Nolan and Olan Tipps, twin brothers, received B. A. and B. S. degrees from Sul Ross Teachers college. Alpine, Arthur Rucker Tipps and Kelly Tipps received law degrees from the State University at Austin and are practicing at Wichita Falls. Miss Allie Mae Tipps was awarded her Masters Degree in science at Texas State College for Women, Denton, having majored in foods. The proud mother of these standard bearers of higher education is Mrs. A. V. Tipps of Quitaque.

CROP INSURANCE (WHEAT)

By Clyde Hutsell, Co. Supervisor
All of those who have not paid their crop insurance premiums will be interested to know that arrangements have been made with the Farm Security Administration to loan them enough money to pay their premiums.

This arrangement has been in the process of being completed for some time. Had it been completed earlier, more applicants would have applied for insurance but as the old saying goes—better late than never.

Let me urge you, if you intend to carry out your application for insurance on your wheat crop and need to borrow the money, to get in touch with the Farm Security Administration representative and make application for enough funds to pay your premiums. Remember it may be worth your time and trouble to look into this matter.

Go ahead and carry out your part of the contract. Seed your wheat at the proper time and in a workman like manner and no matter what happens to it, you are guaranteed the number of bushels shown on your premium notice.

Come in and talk this matter over with me and I will explain it in detail.

Silverton Owls To Meet Plainview Bull Pups

Coach Durham and his Silverton Owls will make their first appearance of the 1938 football season here Friday afternoon on the home field when they meet the Plainview 'B' team.

The boys have been going through the most strenuous training of any team in years and are in fine physical shape. With only two letter-men back, they have made rapid strides toward the smoothness and perfection that it takes to win games. Win or lose Coach Durham has worked wonders toward overcoming the inexperience handicap.

Plainview 'B' team is a strong experienced aggregation and it will be a good start toward a successful season if the Owls can take them into camp.

Things will be pepped up by the Silverton Pep Squad and by the Silverton Band. Both will be in high gear with music and yells. The whole school this year seems to be football minded. The team that beats us will have their hands full.

All Silverton business men, too, with the exception of one, signed up to close during the game time, which will be from 3:00 to 4:30.

The following men and their force will be out there boosting the team:

- Keith Pearce
- Bomar Pharmacy
- Roy Hahn

FARM SECURITY

Rural Rehabilitation applications are being accepted for Briscoe County by the local representative, Mr. Ross C. Stiles for wheat loans, and for set-ups in the Court House in Silverton, Texas. Loans for crop operations are made repayable in one year such as feed, seed, fuel and subsistence loans. Teams, equipment, cows, and hogs are repayable in one to five years under the Farm Security Administration Set-up. Those applicants eligible for assistance through Rural Rehabilitation are farmers that are unable to secure financial assistance elsewhere and at the same time where a sound farm and home plan can be worked out for repayment of such loans, and also for persons who depend on the farm for their living. Debt distressed farmers are being assisted by the Farm Debt Administration section in securing more satisfactory repayment schedules where crop failures and low prices have occurred in many instances.

Mr. and Mrs. Ash are the parents of a seven pound baby girl born the first part of the week. She been named Len Darlee.

CONSTIPATED! Gas Crowds Heart.

"For thirty years constipation caused me headaches and pains in the back. Awful gas blowing crowded my heart. Adierka helped right away. Now I eat bananas, lemons, etc. anything I want and never feel better." —Mrs. Mahal Schmitt. Two things happen when you are constipated. FIRST: Accumulated wastes swell up bowels and press on nerves in the digestive tract. SECOND: Partly digested food starts to decay forming GAS, trapping on your stomach, indigestion, and heartburn, blowing you up until you sometimes gasp for breath. Adierka gives double relief with DOUBLE ACTION. Adierka relieves STOMACH GAS almost at once. It often clears bowels in less than two hours. No griping, no after effects, just quick results. Lesson for September 25

DAVID: TRIUMPHANT FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Psalms 23 and 27:1-4. GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord is my shepherd: I shall not want. Psalm 23:1. PRIMARY TOPIC—The Song of the Shepherd. JUNIOR TOPIC—The Song of a Shepherd Boy. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Songs of Faith and Courage. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—A Steadfast and Triumphant Faith.

What a fitting conclusion to our three-month study of Old Testament characters it is to sound the note of "triumphant faith." The life stories which have passed in review have been true to life, as they have shifted from strength to weakness, from fear to courage, from moral responsibility to moral weakness. But God is the one who changeth not—and we would not close our series properly without the encouraging reminder that the man who truly believes God may know strength out of weakness, courage in place of fear, may like David rise out of degrading sin and defeat into the joy and victory of faith.

Two elemental needs are common to all mankind—provision for the maintenance of life, both physical and spiritual, and protection from the enemies of soul and body. Our first Scripture portion declares the faith of David in God as his providing shepherd and the second as his security from fear.

I. Provision (Ps. 23).

"The Lord is my shepherd." Putting God first in every detail of life means that there will be

1. No want (vv. 1-5). "My cup runneth over," and surely then there can be no lack of any good thing. God is able and willing. We, like David, should trust Him.

2. No weakness (v. 3). "He restoreth my soul." The world is puzzled by the rejuvenating power of the grace of God in the Christian's soul, but it becomes very real to us through the Word, through prayer, through the indwelling Holy Spirit Himself.

3. No wandering (v. 3). "He leadeth me." In an unknown or dangerous country the essential thing is to stay close to one's guide. In the wilderness of this sinful world, we must keep close to our divine Leader. He knows where the still waters and the green pastures are to be found, even in wildest and most barren land.

4. No worry (v. 6). "Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life." It was true of David, it is (or should be), pre-eminently true of the Christian. Someone has said, "If we trust we do not worry; if we worry we do not trust."

5. But—blessed assurance. Not only will the goodness of God follow us all our days, but we shall "dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

II. Protection (Ps. 27:1-6).

"The Lord is my light and my salvation"—could there be any greater certainty that we shall be delivered from every danger and difficulty? To the one who walks in that light there can be

1. No fear (v. 1). "The Lord is the strength of my life, of whom shall I be afraid?" He is the perfect and final answer to all the fears of life.

2. No failure (vv. 2, 3). "Though an host should encamp against me . . . in this will I be confident," that they shall not stumble and fall. One of the fears that dogs the footsteps of a man is that after all his effort and labor some enemy will come in and destroy. The Christian must often meet wicked and troublesome enemies—but though they be a host, he may be serene in his soul, knowing that if he is right with God the devices of man or devil against him shall only fail.

3. No falling (vv. 4, 5). "He shall set me up upon a rock," and that rock is in "the secret of his tabernacle." The assurance of the believer in Christ is in Him. His work upon the cross and His certain word of promise.

David longed for the house of the Lord; he wanted to return to the temple from which his many wanderings so often separated him. How blessed is our lot as Christians for we have in our own bodies the temple of the Holy Spirit (I Cor. 3:16, 6:19); we have Christ in us as the hope of glory (Col. 1:22). We also long to be in God's house (that is if we really love Him), but if we are born again we have the temple of God wherever we may be.

4. No fainting (v. 6). "Now shall mine head be lifted up above mine enemies round about me." Just when, humanly speaking, we would faint because of the enemies all around us, or by reason of the heat and pressure of the fight, then God causes our heads to be lifted up and in the moment of apparent defeat there is victory.

5. But—a song. "I will sing praises unto the Lord." The atmosphere of praise is one which the enemy of our soul cannot stand. It is too rare, too pure, too holy for him. Next time he tries to defeat you—why not "Try Praise"? It works!

ROY W. HAHN
Editor and Publisher

James L. Allred Sports Editor

Entered as second-class mail matter at the post office at Silvertown, Texas in accordance with an act of Congress on March 3, 1879.

I raised such men as had the fear of God before them, and made some conscience of what they did; and from that forward I must say to you they were never beaten.

—Oliver Cromwell

I HEREBY RESOLVE—that this line shall remain in the Briscoe County News until our city managers start a little constructive work toward surfacing our streets, or at least until the death of Yours Truly. Dated this 9th day of June, 1938. (I've been wanting to know for a long time, how long a linotype slug will last.)

FRIDAY AFTERNOON opens the football season for Silvertown. They go forth to do battle against the Plainview "B" team. They have a pretty good team over there. Ralls had a hard fight last week downing them 13 to 6.

I'VE WATCHED THESE boys of ours a time or two and they have come out of the kinks in a surprising way. They don't act like veterans, but on the other hand they don't act like greenhorns. And there's one thing they have PLENTY of and that is fight.

LET'S GET OUT THERE tomorrow afternoon and show the lads that we have a little fight too. Enough at least to be there and backing them to win. It will be a good game, guaranteed to your satisfaction.

AND I HAVE THE inside dope on it that there will be no passes issued except for work done on the grounds and these must be signed with the true signature of Aulton Durham. It will do you no good to tell that your grand dad came over on the Mayflower and played with the Redskins; or that you are going to substitute for the referee in case he gets knocked out. Little excuses like that won't work. From what I hear it won't even do anyone any good to say that they are running a newspaper and have given free publicity.

WHICH IS AS it should be: The boys and the coach are working hard. They are going to need a few things before the season is over and the gate receipts (if any surplus) will be put to good use. Thirty-five cents is little enough to see a football game—let's pay it cheerfully.

I'M STILL WORKING on the little project to reward the boys. Mr. Whiteside has already offered a dollar's worth of merchandise to the outstanding Silvertown player. Quality Cleaners will clean and press a suit free for the lineman who plays the best game of the day. I'll give a ream of good typewriter paper for the back who makes the most yardage. Cranberry says he will give four bits (on the credit) for every blocked punt. If anyone else wants to dig a little prize money, leave your offer at the News Office or at Whiteside's.

PRACTICALLY every business house will be closed for the football game tomorrow. There should be a much better crowd because of it—and at the end of the week no one has missed the time one bit.

MR. BOGY, at the Farmers Food Store refused to SIGN up to close, but gave his word of honor that he would be closed. A case of a man's word being as good or even better than his bond, I guess.

SAY, THIS BUD Kelsay is pretty good over the radio isn't he? He has a very nice voice for the radio, although I don't know whether he could sing as well or not. And that was a right nice speech that Mrs. Kelsay had prepared for him too.

THE BOYS AT THE Silvertown

Bakery heaped a few "coals of fire" upon my head yesterday. I had been shopping around trying to find some holes out of doughnuts. Not finding any holes, I made so bold as to comment upon Scotch natures, as found sometimes among bakers. The next night as I walked by they called me in and gave me a little gift. It was a doughnut fully eight inches across and about three inches thick. And the "hole" was there too—made into a regular size doughnut. I feel deeply squelched.

NEWS NOTE—The Grand Jury is on its regular treasure hunt.

RICHARD STOVALL, in telling of the "Cavalcade of Hits" at the Tri-State Fair says that it all goes to prove that "A woman is as old as she looks, but a man isn't old until he stops looking."

I FELL FAR SHORT of the mark I intended to set when last week's paper was being set. About the gay life, I mean—never even made the circus, and have very little chance to make the fair.—Well better luck next year Roy.

WE HAVE IN OUR collection at the News Office a "Mirror of Events" printed during the Civil War and showing the results of all battles up to that time. Then we have two copies of "The Stay-er" published in 1898 and telling of Spanish American War battles. A copy of The Frederick Leader, dated September 12, 1918, says, PERSHING ATTACKS—Million Americans Begin Drive". If you have any old papers with a historical value and would like to display them, bring them for us. We'll take good care of them for you.

IN A COPY OF "The Stay-er" that was brought in by Nig Reid, dated June 25, 1898, we find Cassy McClendon heading the Honor Roll of the first grade. Clay Fowler says "There must be some mistake".

COMES A LETTER from Jack Haynes, Jim Haynes and Homer Sanders, who are at Austin. The letter starts "Dear Editor, including Cranberry" and goes on to state that inasmuch as they wanted to keep track of home folks to send them the "headache"—and Junior adds "We know that you will keep us abreast of world events."—The letter just seemed to me to have a right good smattering of what college boys consider as "cracks"—for instance that "abreast of the times"—Junior you know as well as I do that readers of the Briscoe County News are considered to be "ahead of the times" and that our motto is "tomorrow's news yesterday or not at all."—There is one thing about the letter that I especially enjoyed and that was the check. There's some darn good reading on a check. I just hope that it isn't a fairy tale.

MURDER!!

W. B. Hughes just brought in a pair of Black Widow spiders (in a safe glass jar). They have demonstrated just where they get the name, for before Mr. Hughes left the office, one had attacked the other, and had put him to sleep for good. These spiders you know are very poisonous and are said to get their name "black widow" from the fact that the female kills the male after mating. Come in and see these critters, but for Pete's Sake don't tip over the jar!

STATE POLICE URGE PROTECTION OF CHILDREN

State police voiced today to parents and others charged with the safety of children to provide for their safe transportation to and from schools.

Safety officials particularly urged that drivers of vehicles transporting school children use caution in discharging their passengers. Never permit them to alight from automobiles or buses except at the curb nearest the school or other destination, they warned.

Capt. Homer Garrison, Jr., assistant director of state police, declared that precautions should be taken this school year to avoid the recurrence of tragic accidents that, last year, killed 106 children between the ages of five and fourteen and injured 1,87.

He urged that teachers instruct their students in safety particularly as to their conduct while walking or riding to and from classes. Capt. Garrison said parents and instructors alike should be able to forestall many school traffic accidents by warnings to:

Cross streets only at intersection, and then only after making sure that no vehicles are approaching.

Be guided by school patrols and others who direct school traffic. Not play games while walking to and from school and walk only on sidewalks.

Be particularly careful when retrieving footballs, baseballs, and other paraphernalia from streets as most accidents to children happen at those times.

A number of Texas schools have adopted traffic safety subjects as a requirement for their students, Capt. Garrison said. The State safety department, through its safety educational bureau, is assisting them with this type of instruction.

SYNOPSIS

Rex Hale calls on Casper Kneeland, friend of his father, in New York, and finds him proudly successful but deeply agitated. He tells Hale of his death while insane, invites him to the summer at Halcyon Camp, on Long Island, and promises to be "useful" as his secretary. Hale is joined at lunch by Fred Kneeland, an unpopular college mate, and an unpleasant mystery. He is at the train by Mrs. Wilbur Nash, who experiences a disturbing premonition. The premonition is barely noted by the comfortable hospitality of Mrs. Kneeland's elderly sister, and Mrs. Nash, middle-aged and sojourner in his room. Hale finds a paper, printed, "This place dangerous. Beware of the rest of the group—Dr. Craig, psychiatrist of Bert Kneeland, nervous young Casper, and beautiful but moody Kneeland's niece of the house. Ainsworth and Herbert added themselves to the little group, which began to take on the character of an assemblage. Craig ordered Hale to lie still a bit longer. He himself also sprawled contentedly on the sand, making no effort to contribute to the brisk conversation of the spectators.

"What I really want to know," Mrs. Nash admitted, "is how you like the people you're with."
"I like very much the person I'm with now."
"All right. But you can't carry on with me as you do with Mrs. Spencer Forbes. I'm a respectable widow with a son who has high standards for his mother's conduct."
"Has a scandal started in 18 hours?" Hale was amused.
"If it had, it wouldn't be anything new. The people in this lonely neck of the woods haven't much to interest them. They're talking their heads off about Halcyon Camp."
"What are they saying?"
"You're asking me?" Mrs. Nash smiled. "Well, they're saying for one thing that everyone in the house hates everyone else. I suppose we must except Hosanna. She's a good old soul, and of course she's fond of her brother and her nephew and niece. But as for the others—I've watched these people ever since they came here the first of May. I'm in and out all the time. There's something queer about them. I don't know yet what it is, but I don't like yes, I'll be mighty glad to lie down again, too. That wasn't a fair proposition," he amplified.

Hale laughed that off. The two lay down in perfect communion of spirit, while Mrs. Spencer Forbes prattled on, and Miss Hosanna offered more brandy.
"Asinine of me to set that pace," Craig muttered. He seemed really concerned. Hale found himself rather liking the man. It had been a fine race. Mrs. Wilbur Nash strolled up, looking flamboyant in a scarlet bathing suit and cap. The Nash cub, in the background, revealed his meager frame in a one-piece garment of somber black. Joan appeared from the water and congratulated the swimmers. Ainsworth and Herbert added themselves to the little group, which began to take on the character of an assemblage. Craig ordered Hale to lie still a bit longer. He himself also sprawled contentedly on the sand, making no effort to contribute to the brisk conversation of the spectators.
"I'll back Hale to best you in the same match within two weeks," Ainsworth told Craig. Hale shook

CHAPTER III

At the house Miss Hosanna soothed him with hot oyster stew and womanly sympathy. He had done a foolish thing, she told him. She sat beside him, before the fire in the living-room and watched him enjoy the stew. Hale gulped down the stew, kissed Miss Hosanna's plump hand, which wriggled in surprise under such attention, and went up to his room. Rose had been there. It was in perfect order. But as he approached the davenport between the windows, to stretch himself out and take the recommended nap, something caught his eye. It was something white, tucked partly under the davenport's silk-covered pillow.
He drew it out. It was a square white card. He looked at it frowningly. This time there was no writing on it, but it held its message nevertheless. In the center of the card, drawn with pen and ink, was an elaborate skull with cross-bones. It was a more literate offering than the one of the night before. The

Joan stared at Craig. Joan then spoke quickly, as if for a verbal life-line.
"I promised Mr. Hale a race you," she said. "Why not now? From here to the I'll be referee."
"Right," Craig spoke without interest, but he took in the man with one of his X-ray eyes, as Hale mentally classed both men rose and stood for the start.
"When I say go," Joan directed. "Swim any way you like that you reach the shore." Sudden voice was full of vitality and exuberance of youth. "One, two, three. Go!"
Hale and Craig went into the sea last word. A second later they were shooting through the water on their side. Hale had not expected any victory. Now he was disappointed to see Craig's dark head bobbing a trifle in advance of his own. No reserve in the doctor's far. He was plainly putting best efforts from the take-off, mounting on the shortness of the stroke to hold them to the finish. He quickened his stroke, came ast of Craig, and held his there. To his deep disgust he did not pass his rival. Craig was having a good time. He had sent Rex a flashing smile as he passed him. The smile seemed a phenomenon on that dark, stormy face. It lingered, too, as Craig again gained a few inches ahead. Hale could see it as he saw his own teeth and called on all reserve strength.
Craig, apparently, was out to beat and to break all records from shore. The sleek dark head bobbed a few inches more. That was not to do. It would not do at all with Joan Kneeland looking on. Hale called on the fight-heart that wins victory when gone. The shore was close—a matter of a hundred feet or fifty, of twenty. The two heads, his and Craig's, were on a par. He saw Miss Hosanna Mrs. Spencer Forbes, motioning shore, watching them. That Hale head was still on a line. . . . A heart seemed to fill his chest. His eyes were bursting. His eyes starting from his head. For the instant he saw nothing. In the instant the firm sand of the beach was under his feet. He staggered through a few yards of wall, rose again, fell once more, finally cast himself flat on the sand, breathless and gasping. He was gasping also. Miss Hosanna and Mrs. Spencer Forbes hurried toward the two prone figures, tactfully stopped and hesitated. Hale expelled a few mouthfuls of water, and feebly turned his head to meet Craig's eyes. Both men grinned sheepishly. On a man impulse each waved away covering women who again tensely approached.

card was clean. The sketch was well done—was, in fact, quite dashing. It could hardly have been made or left by the same hand that had written and conveyed the first message. Or could it? Hale didn't know. It irritated him. It wasn't funny. It wasn't disturbing. It was merely annoying childish nonsense. He wished whoever was back of it would let up. He tore it in two, dropped the pieces into the wastebasket, and simultaneously dropped the card from his mind.
He slept till he was awakened by the luncheon gong. He brushed his hair, shook the sand out of his new tan shoes, and went down to the dining-room. To his relief no one asked him how he felt. They had some tact, then. He was not to be regarded as a semi-invalid. He found Miss Hosanna, Mrs. Spencer Forbes and Joan alone at the table. Craig, Miss Hosanna said, was in his laboratory—a little room which had been fitted up for him at the top of the house. A tray had been sent to him there. He offered worked in his laboratory from the bathing hour till tea time.

Hale sat up, and steadied his swimming head.

a languid head and advised Ainsworth not to waste his money. Then he forgot Ainsworth and all the rest of them. Joan had sat down beside him.
"I'm ashamed of myself," she confessed. "I forgot completely."
"It was great fun. Did me no end of good."
Hale sat up, and steadied his swimming head. With a strong effort of will he grinned at the concerned look in her vivid eyes.
"He'll brighten our lives a little longer," Mrs. Spencer Forbes predicted. "I assume you weren't really trying to kill him off, Joan. One with a less trusting nature than mine would certainly think you were doing that. Has she anything to gain by your death, my lad?" she asked Hale.
"Only the removal of an obstruction from her path," Rex admitted. "I expect to be there a good deal."
Miss Hosanna did not like such jokes and told her Ruth. The party began to disintegrate. Joan returned to the water with Herbert and Craig. Ainsworth and Mrs. Spencer Forbes watched them from the shore. Ainsworth, Rex suspected, did not like water much more than the cat he resembled. Mrs. Spencer Forbes believed in keeping her blue bathing suit dry till the last possible moment. She strolled along the water's edge with Ainsworth, looking remote. Ainsworth's unpopularity with every member of the family was increasingly noticeable. Hale wondered why the devil the fellow continued to hang around. Miss Hosanna, with surprisingly white plump legs in ample view, was walking along the beach apparently investigating seaweed. Out on the float the Nash cub flocked by himself, practicing dives. His mother joined Hale and sat down beside him.
"Well," she asked alertly, "how do you like it?"
"It's great—and not too cold for one fresh from sunny climes."
"I don't mean the water. I mean life at Halcyon Camp?" Before he could reply she added, "Everybody's wondering how you will like it."
"Who's everybody?" Hale asked lazily.
"My son and I. No one else counts," the lady added.
"I'm having a great time," Rex testified. "Look at me. Yesterday I was a lonely orphan. Today I'm a guest at Halcyon Camp. There's contrast for you—and you ask me how I like it!"

He slept till he was awakened by the luncheon gong. He brushed his hair, shook the sand out of his new tan shoes, and went down to the dining-room. To his relief no one asked him how he felt. They had some tact, then. He was not to be regarded as a semi-invalid. He found Miss Hosanna, Mrs. Spencer Forbes and Joan alone at the table. Craig, Miss Hosanna said, was in his laboratory—a little room which had been fitted up for him at the top of the house. A tray had been sent to him there. He offered worked in his laboratory from the bathing hour till tea time.

Indian culture of the Middlewest and of Illinois, which University of Chicago anthropologists have shown to have been in existence at least 2,000 years ago, may be dated definitely to the exact year by study of charcoal from old campfires and burned village sites, Dr. Fay-Cooper Cole, chairman of the university's department of anthropology, said in announcing a novel research project.
The usefulness of the tree-ring method is now being determined by Dr. Florence Hawley, recently appointed research associate in anthropology. Doctor Hawley, who has proved that the tree-ring dating method is workable by using charcoal found in mounds and campsites, this week began field activities in Wisconsin.
Doctor Hawley's demonstration that charcoal remains of trees is as useful for dating purposes as are timbers and stumps, opened up the possibility of dating the middlewestern cultures. In the Southwest the dry climate has preserved timbers in buildings for centuries, but the moister climates of this section has rotted all early timber and tree stumps except those which have been burned into charcoal.

Doctor Hawley is gathering specimens of tree cuttings and borings from standing trees and stumps. These specimens, with the charcoal found by university expeditions will be used to compile a "master chart" of the region.
Principal of Basic English
Basic English was devised by Dr. C. K. Ogden, the English psychologist, who believes that 850 words are sufficient for all ordinary purposes. His simplified language, called "Basic" (from British-American Scientific International Commercial) uses 600 nouns, 100 adjectives, 100 adjectival opposites, 30 verbs and the remainder participles. Most of the nouns used can be defined in not more than 10 words. In addition to its 850 words, Basic is free to take in international words that are universally understood, such as coffee and tobacco. The literature of Basic is extensive, one of the most comprehensive textbooks being "The System of Basic English."

Puget Sound Fish Roundup

Picture Parade

IN WASHINGTON'S Puget Sound, fishermen catch salmon by cowboy tactics, building a "fence" around them and reducing the size of their corral until the salmon can be lifted out of the seine into the boat or tender. Nineteen hundred feet of net are strung over the side, held up by cork floats, kept down by lead weights.

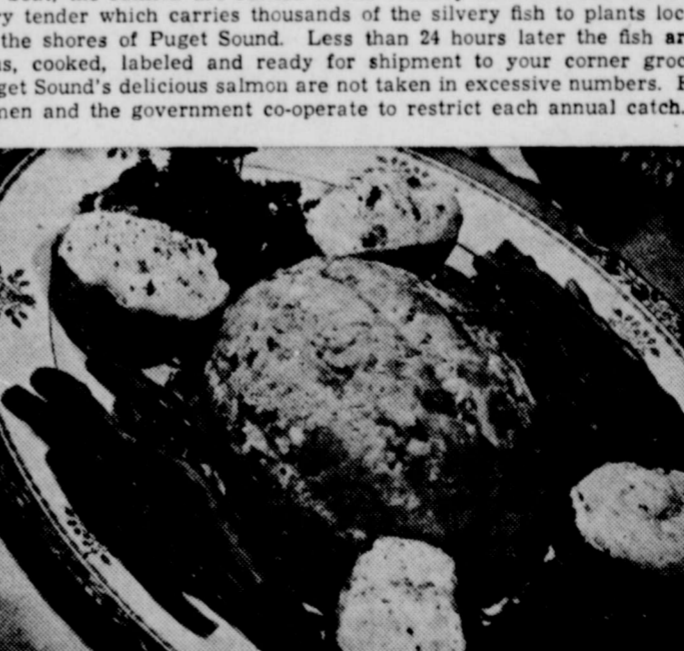

Going in a circle about 575 feet in diameter, the net soon encloses a school of salmon. The bottom of the net is closed by drawing the purse line which operates just like the string of a purse. Soon the net will be drawn in, bringing its cargo of fresh salmon.

Here is a closeup of taking in the net. The man in the foreground is handling the purse line, which is usually drawn in by steam power because of its tremendous weight. Thus modern steam winches have greatly increased the speed of fishing, enabling boats to surround and capture a school of salmon in quick order.

Here the salmon are being brailled aboard with a net. Once aboard the boat, the salmon are rushed to the cannery or transferred to a cannery tender which carries thousands of the silvery fish to plants located on the shores of Puget Sound. Less than 24 hours later the fish are in cans, cooked, labeled and ready for shipment to your corner grocery. Puget Sound's delicious salmon are not taken in excessive numbers. Fishermen and the government co-operate to restrict each annual catch.

The grand finale takes place on your own dining room table. Here's a delicious gift of the sea, steamed salmon pudding, one of the attractive new dishes which add nourishing protein, deep sea minerals and vitamins to your diet.

Smart Fall Styles That Are Flattering

HERE are two charming fashions with the crisp, slim-waisted, very feminine look that proves they are new and smart! And you'll notice that the sleeves are proudly puffed up, not out—they give height, not width, to the shoulders. These two simple designs, each accompanied by a detailed sew chart, make it very, very easy for you to have two leading fashions of the coming season at very little cost.

Two-Piece With Jacket Blouse.
This charming fashion is extremely good this fall. It's tailored or dressy, according to the materials in which you make it up. The skirt is slim and plain. The jacket-blouse is youthful and becoming as it can be. For street, make it of wool crepe, flannel or faille. For afternoon, choose velvet or broadcloth for the skirt; satin, velvet or silver cloth for the jacket blouse.

With Smart, Slenderizing Lines.
Notice that the front panel of the skirt is cut in one with the midriff section—that's a smart detail that you see in expensive models, and it's excellent for large women. You can trust the suave, slick lines of this dress to make you look several pounds slimmer. It fits beautifully. Shoulder darts, and gathers above the waistline, ease it over the bust, without any hint of bulkiness. Make this of satin, silk crepe, velvet or sheer wool, and you'll like it better than any dress you've had for a long time.

The Patterns.
1477 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 2 yards of 39 inch material for the jacket-blouse; 2 yards for the skirt.
1585 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 5 1/2 yards of 39 inch material for long-sleeved dress; 4 1/2 yards for short-sleeved.
Fall and Winter Fashion Book.
The new 32-page Fall and Winter Pattern Book which shows photographs of the dresses being worn is now out. (One pattern and the Fall and Winter Pattern Book—25 cents.) You can order the book separately for 15 cents.
Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

HELP KIDNEYS

To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste
Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress.
Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of kidney or bladder disturbance.
You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eye—feel weak, nervous, all played out.
In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

MONEY IN THE BANK
By T. C. Richardson, Secretary
Breeder-Feeder Association

"Feed in the silo is like money in the bank—safe as long as you leave it there and subject to checking out whenever you need it." That's what thousands of trench silo users will tell you after a year's experience. There are now known to be about 11,000 of these "money in the bank" ditches in Texas and probably that many more in the four adjoining states, for which figures are not available at the moment. They range in size from 6,000 tons capacity down to those just large enough to feed one or two family milk cows, the tiny ditch just as efficient for its purpose as the huge canyons holding feed for thousands of beef steers.

The Southwest probably has the greatest crop of feed, both grain and roughage, in history. Many farmers who diverted land from cotton or wheat into other crops, will have more feed than the livestock now on their farms can use in one season. If stored above ground as dry forage its palatability and feeding value gradually deteriorates, but if properly stored in a trench silo it will be as good ten years from now—if it should be that long before the next drought or hard winter—as it is a month after filling the silo.

The trench silo can be constructed with little or no cash outlay. Any dirt-moving tool from a spade to drag-line will do the work. It can be dug in a hillside or on the level, any length, depth or width to suit the conditions and the needs of the owner. If rock is too close to the surface or ground water too high for the desired depth, the dirt excavated can be piled up to raise the walls above the ground level, and increase the depth of the trench sufficiently to insure good packing of the ensilage, which is essential to proper curing and keeping of the material.

Any crop can be ensiled, even after the grain is mature and the stalks partially dried out. The ideal condition of course is while stalks and foliage are still green and succulent, but if drought or frost get in its work before the crop can be ensiled, adding water will supply the deficiency of moisture and make ensilage of dry, or partially dry, material.

Corn, sweet sorgo and grain sorghums carry sufficient sugars and easily convertible starches to insure the fermenting process which turns the material into ensilage. Sudan grass and the legumes require the addition of some fermenting material, and black strap molasses, a few gallons of the ton of ensilage, will do the job. Crops may be successfully ensiled in whole stalks or an ensilage cutter may be used. In either case success of failure depends on thorough packing in order to exclude air pockets. It is easier to properly pack cut ensilage than stalks, and it is easier to feed out, but the lack of a cutter has not prevented hundreds of farmers from making and using whole-stalk ensilage. Those who haven't had previous experience in storing ensilage should consult their neighbor who has, or the county agent, who will supply detailed information in person or by bulletin.

Ensilage is more digestible than dry forage, hence an acre of feed in the silo is worth more as feed than the same acre cured dry. There is also less waste, and the acre of feed will go farther in the silo. It furnishes succulent feed when green pastures are not available, and is therefore relished by all livestock. It keeps the digestive apparatus of cattle and sheep functioning better, they get more nourishment from dry grain feed, and therefore produce more milk or weight for each pound of expensive grain they eat.

No farm, even if it has only a family milk cow and the work stock, can afford to do without a trench silo. One year's use will pay for it, and if not needed this winter, think what it would mean to have "money in the bank" when the next drought hits!
