German Corner on Munitions Makes U. S. Embargo Provision Help Reich's Cause, Is Charge

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.

NEUTRALITY: Co-operation?

German domination over lesser European nations need not only mean dependence on the Reich for peacetime manufactured goods...

CZECHIA'S SKODA WORKS It may change U. S. policy.

bought by lesser nations only in exchange for concessions. Aggravating the situation is the Anglo-French rearmament program...

This forceful argument against current U. S. neutrality legislation was apparently saved for the crucial moment. Not offered early this session during house and senate committee hearings...

It seemed a fairly sound basis for changing U. S. policy, isolationists notwithstanding. Since the Nazi government has become No. 1 source of military supplies...

On the surface less pressing when war scares have temporarily died down, neutrality revision seemed out of the question...

JESSE JONES, Texan chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, is expected to be named administrator of the consolidated federal lending agency effective July 1 under President Roosevelt's first government reorganization plan.

TREASURY: News Notes

June 15 is quarterly U. S. treasury refinancing time. Only re-financing this June is an offer to exchange $426,554,000 in 1 1/2 per cent notes maturing next September for new five year, 3/4 per cent notes maturing June 15, 1944.

During the first 11 months of the 1938-39 fiscal year the U. S. operated with a deficit of $3,240,467,092, which will probably hit $4,000,000,000 by year's end on June 30.

MOUNTAIN MAN

HAROLD CHANNING WIRE

COPYRIGHT-HAROLD CHANNING WIRE W. N. U. SERVICE

Breck sprang up, shot by the suggestion of Irene's words. "What did Art say? Anything about a fire?" "It might have been that," she admitted.

"Tonight?" "He said later he had some important business," Irene sighed. "Please don't make me use my brain. It's tired."

Breck looked down into her face. It was wholly innocent of any definite knowledge. No doubt Art had bragged in vague terms; nothing she might repeat.

"Irene," he asked, "did Tillson give any names? Or places, or people?" "She turned imploring eyes to him. "Must I think?"

"Enough to remember what you were talking about. Was any mountain or meadow brought up?" Irene counted on her fingers. "I slept well last night and remarked on it. He said something about sleeping too. Then we talked some more. Then he bragged about knowing so much. He said if I would look at the sky tonight—there is a sleeping mountain?"

"Sleeping Beauty," Breck urged. Irene shook her head with a little scowl. "I really don't know. Where are you going?"

Breck had untied Kit. Now he said quickly, "Promise me you'll say nothing about this." "Have I told you something?" "Perhaps. Promise me." "I'll not talk," Irene promised.

He strode on to the telephone, dropped Kit's reins, and rang headquarters. Cook answered. "Dad," Breck asked, "is Slim there? No, don't call him. Tell him to take the trail and meet me halfway. I've got some letters that must go out."

"It's sort of late in the afternoon," Cook began. "They're important!" Breck cut in. He could not trust the wire. Too much chance of his word being intercepted from one of the patrol instruments.

Without going into details as to the source of his information, Breck told what he had learned. "The best way I can figure it," he finished, "is for me to go up Sleeping Beauty and lay for the fire-bug, while you watch the trail where the Tillsons will come out of Sulphur Creek. I have a hunch where that is."

Sierra wagged his head thoughtfully. "That might be the way to do it. Looks like the Tillson outfit is figurin' to use Quakin' Asp trail down the valley. But you and me had better stick together. Jud won't have till the fire's big and all us rangers is onto it. Looks like our play is to pick up the gentleman on Sleepin' Beauty first and see the color of his eyes. We might make him tell something. How about it?"

"I thought so," said Breck. "They wouldn't want to meet me coming from Rock House, nor you and Cook from headquarters. That leaves their way open to the south."

Abruptly Slim wheeled his horse. "Then let's move. It's gettin' dark and too shut up in here." They went on, riding at a walk into the canyon mouth. "This will do," Sierra said at last. "I'll climb up to the left bank, you take the right. Don't go far on top—just set there and watch."

Breck turned Kit up the slope, moved for a time in the blackness of trees, but emerged again into starlight when he reached the backbone. There he halted in the shadow of a pine snag with his face toward Sleeping Beauty. From this position the crest lost its human form, and his gaze swept over a high, dark mass of woods, broken only by the line of rock upon which he waited.

He glanced at his watch. Nine-thirty. Full night had come. It seemed if a fire were to be started, now was the time. As minutes passed and no flare shot through the black slope, he began to doubt his judgment. Kit grew restless and struck the rock with his forefeet.

"Easy boy," Breck soothed him, "you're not the only one." Almost as he spoke, a yellow point of light came before his eyes. For an instant it failed to arouse him. It seemed nothing. Then abruptly he knew it was the fire, far up, hidden in the pines. Silence of the forest lay unbroken. He sat listening. There was no sound of flame. It was perhaps five minutes that he waited.

The clatter burst suddenly; someone was riding down the backbone, leaping a sure-footed horse over the rubble of rock. Breck remained behind his snag until the figure was within gun range, the moving Kit only a step, shouted, "Halt there! Hands up!"

Speed of approach was not slackened. A spurt of flame darted toward him. He answered with three shots from the Luger, aimed high; a fourth he put close to the man's side. A sharp oath burst out. "Then halt!" Breck ordered.

he is now." Sierra shifted in his saddle. "Tillson pay you right well for this job, Cowan?"

The man looked up sullenly from a black-bearded face, but said nothing. Breck swung to his horse. "We'd better hit that fire, Slim, before it gets away from us."

"Right, pardner." Sierra jerked a thumb toward the one aloft. "Bring him along. If he don't run fast enough, drag him."

They climbed the ridge, with Breck leading his captive on a rope. The fire was in brush, yet had not had time to eat far, and they circled it at once, Breck chopping a line with his ax, Sierra shoveling earth onto the flames. In half an hour it could be left to burn itself out.

Returning to where he had left Kit and the man, both tied to a tree, Breck mounted immediately, then gave his prisoner over to Sierra. "He's all yours, Slim. Which way do you go from here? I'm dropping down to Temple where I can call Cook."

"Me, I'll head straight north," Sierra answered. "Just you sleep light from now on." That was his casual farewell.

It was past one o'clock in the morning when Breck reached Temple's cow camp. He rode through a meadow with cattle lying in dark blobs on silvery, dew-laden grass, then came to the corrals, and continued beyond them, purposely avoiding the two cabins as he approached the forest service telephone. So far he had aroused no sign of life. He hoped to put in his call without waking Temple and Louise.

But as he cranked four rings and stood waiting, one cabin door opened and the old man peered out. Temple had not stopped to dress, but was prepared with a rifle across the bend in his arm. Breck turned away as headquarters answered.

"Hello, Cook," he said, and let the sound of his voice give identity. Nor in the brief report did he tell his location. "All OK," he offered tersely. "Slim is bringing back my mail."

The line became silent. Then: "Good enough. I'll call you later." Breck closed the iron box. Tom Temple had drawn on his boots and breeches and stood a short distance from his cabin. Breck motioned with one arm, saying as the man approached, "Sorry to get you up. Those bells do sound loud at night."

"No matter," Temple asserted. "I heard you before you rang. Thought maybe someone was looking over my horses." He pointed his rifle toward the corral. "Got some good stuff in there tonight; JG sent 'em over for the rodeo."

Temple shivered. "Gettin' cold here. Will you put up, Ranger?" "Thanks, but I've got to go on." Breck swung into his saddle, and then, riding away from camp, cast a swift glance backward.

BOLL WEEVIL AND FLEA-HOPPER CONTROL

By T. C. Richardson
Associate Editor, Farm and Ranch
Breeder-Feeder Association

It is one of the ironies of nature that soil and rainfall conditions which are most favorable for the growth of the cotton plant are also most favorable for the multiplication of insect pests. The more luxuriant the growth the better the soil, the flea hopper, and the leaf worm like it. It is not uncommon for a casual observer to remark on the promising appearance of a field of cotton, in which these examination will show that the flea-hopper is destroying the budding buds, the boll weevil is eating the squares which are forming, and the leaf worm has deposited her eggs on the lower side of the ten-lobed foliage—the more luxuriant the better she likes it.

Some of these insects will attack slow-growing, drought-stricken cotton by preference, but may cause considerable damage on any cotton if that is all they find to feed on. What we are trying to say is that when cotton is growing fast it is mighty important to watch for the insects that they do not destroy fruit to such an extent that "red" is all that is left.

At this stage cotton should rapidly set squares and the squares some blooms. If rank-growing cotton doesn't look "like a flower garden" every morning there is something the matter. Every cotton grower knows that cotton naturally "throws off" a part of the embryo fruit, but natural shedding and insect damage are two quite different matters. The early and mid-season blooms and bolls are most important in the yield, and must be saved from insect damage in order to insure a normal yield.

With the greatly reduced acreage in cotton under the AAA it becomes the more important to secure good yields from the acreage we have, and controlling insect depredations is one proven means of so doing. Besides, insect control which permits the "weed" to hold all the early fruit it can carry brings the main crop to maturity earlier in the season and a higher percentage of it is harvested at the first picking, when the grades are better than later.

A good many people do not get excited about insect pests until the leaf worm appears, and yet the leaf worm destroys for less cotton than either the flea-hopper or the boll weevil. By the time the leaf worm becomes numerous enough to do real damage the flea-hopper and the boll weevil have already got in most of their deadly work.

The fight against cotton insect pests is greatly simplified by the fact that a good dusting machine will handle all four—flea-hoppers, boll weevils, leaf worm, and boll worms—if used properly at the proper time. Dusting sulphur and calcium arsenate are the only in-secticides necessary, if the campaign begins on time and is continued at intervals of five to eight days until the insects are under control. If no early dusting is done, heavier dusting, or extra arsenicals in the mixture may be needed to handle a heavy infestation of leaf worms, but it is both less effective and more expensive than a program which begins while the cotton is comparatively small and is followed up at regular intervals.

It is all right to make a count of the pests present if one knows how and wants to do so. The safest, surest, and in the long run, the cheapest, plan is to prevent rather than cure. When the flea-hopper begins to destroy the little fruit buds use sulphur. When the boll weevil comes out of hibernation, or begin to sting the squares which have escaped the flea-hopper, a one-to-two mixture of calcium arsenate and sulphur is best. When leaf worms appear calcium arsenate alone will handle them if properly applied. No wet spray is necessary.

CHAMPION TIRES

FIRESTONE WINS 20th Consecutive Victory In Indianapolis 500-Mile Race

WILBUR SHAW, the 1939 winner
On May 30th, Wilbur Shaw drove to his second victory in the 500-mile Indianapolis Race on Firestone Champion Tires at an average speed of 115.03 miles an hour. Champion race drivers, whose lives and chances of victory depend on tire safety, know tire construction. That is why they select and buy Firestone Tires for their racing cars.

A merciless sun beat down upon the speedway as Wilbur Shaw drove to victory on Firestone Champion Tires. The blistering brick of the main stretch and the granite-hard surface of the turns and the back stretch put tire safety to the test supreme! Record after record was shattered. Speeds reached as high as 160 miles an hour on the straightaways, as 33 of the fastest drivers in the world waged a breath-taking battle for gold and glory.

Never before in the history of the motor car have tires been put to such a torturous test. And never before has any tire so firmly established itself as a Champion in construction and performance, as well as in name. Here is dramatic proof of the extra strength which the revolutionary new Safety-Lock cord body provides in Firestone Champion Tires—of the extra protection against blowouts assured by the new and advanced Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process—of the extra mileage resulting from the tougher, wear-resisting rubber compounds in the sensational new Gear-Grip tread.

No longer can there be any question of which tire is safest. One tire—and only one—provides these exclusive safety construction features. One tire—and only one—has been on the winning cars at Indianapolis for 20 consecutive years. Motor car manufacturers enthusiastically adopted the Firestone Champion Tire for their 1939 models. Order your new car equipped with this amazing tire. Or drive in and let us equip your present car with a set of new Firestone Champion Tires, the one tire—and only one that is safety-proved on the speedway for your protection on the highway.

See Firestone Tires made in the Firestone Factory and Exhibition Building at New York World's Fair. Also visit the Firestone Exhibit at the Golden Gate International Exposition at San Francisco.

I JUST HEARD what I believe is absolutely the latest story about the World's Fair . . . a balleyhoo man made the announcement that in just fifteen minutes a white horse would appear on the street ridden by a nude woman. He moved on down the street and made the same announcement. After making the announcement for the fifth time he stopped in a cafe for a cold drink. Before he finished, the proprietor came around, with orders for everyone to move out that he was closing up for a few minutes. "What for?" he was asked. "What for?" he cried, "Don't be foolish. I haven't seen a white horse in over thirty years."

I SAW BABE Richie, "Texas White Hope", in action last Friday night at Lubbock, and personally I think he's a faint ray of hope. He fought Babe Hunt of Ponca City, Oklahoma. I saw Hunt fight the first time at Dodge City, Kansas in 1928, 11 years ago. At that time he was rated at about tenth in the U. S. In the fight Friday night, he made Babe Richie look like a crude schoolboy. He made Richie force the fighting, and made him do it just like Mr. Hunt wanted him to. I got the impression that Hunt's left hand could have done a whole of a lot more damage than it did. The thought was borne out when the referee called the bout a draw and they will be rematched. Hunt is smart, and although they call him old, he can still fight circles around the Lubbock Babe. The only time he extended himself was when he made a rush for the cold drink stand after the fight.

ALTHOUGH HE doesn't know much about it, June 15, is a very important date in the life of Collin Thomas Hahn. He will have arrived at the ripe old age of two years. I am printing this issue of the Briscoe County News today as a new and different kind of celebration. His mother has baked an angel food cake. Efforts are being made to gather up enough candles for the occasion.

ANOTHER WARNING is made this week to kids and their parents about the danger of electricity. Mrs. Womack found several boys the other day (including Raymond Lee) playing on the tin roof back of the Utilities Office. Several live wires were within reaching distance of the boys. Each one was a sure death if a little insulation happened to be off. It's wording it a little harshly maybe, to say that, should any boy be harmed, it is the parents fault. It's not the Utilities Company's place to ride herd on the boys, and you can't blame a boy of that age much, for being careless. And here's a thought for the parents to think about. "A live wire won't harm a boy—it just KILLS him."

UNCLE CHARLIE Goodwin told me a couple of believe-it-or-nots yesterday. One was of the shortest state highway in Texas. He travels it regularly and says that it is 1.2 miles long . . . told too, of what he said was probably the only self sustaining church in the world. It's at Kilgore and an oil well is right in the middle of the church auditorium. No need for a collection plate there . . . I'll bet they have a good membership.

SATURDAY IS THE day for opening the bids on the street paving. I don't know who will get it of course . . . maybe no one. I might have to do the job myself yet. I did hear that the plans and specifications were not yet available . . . but of course, I don't take any stock in such stuff.

THIS WATSON Douglas just can't be satisfied with doing advertising in the regular ads. He always has something a little bigger and better. The latest is his cow feed. H says that their "Bishop's Special" is so good that a cow will start giving milk even if she has never had a calf. Tut, Tut, Watsie.

AND HERE I give what must be tops in incubation . . . Dallas Davis tells of a goose on the McMurtry place that has been setting for several weeks on an empty Four Roses bottle and a bottle of beer. She protects her nest with the same enthusiasm as if she had a dozen little geese, can whip any dog on the place and even took a bite out of Shorty's leg. I don't know, but I think he was trying to slip the bottle of beer out from under its mother . . . on second thought, that goose isn't dealing with the problem of incubation. She is conducting an experiment in distillation and fermentation. I wonder what the outcome will be and if she doesn't know this is a dry county . . .

THE WIFE WAS over to see the dentist at Tulia—Dr. McCasland. And lo, the office was crowded and almost every one was from Silverton. And a fellow told me today that he was in the dentist's office at Turkey and the same thing was there — five Silverton folks waiting—he didn't even get to see the man. I don't know whether or not Doc Ezzell had anything to do with this condition of tottering teeth, BUT, I have heard of filling station men who spread tacks in the road. Seriously, WE DO NEED A GOOD DENTIST.

I JUST TOOK a look at the thermometer in front of Bomar Drug. The silly thing said 107 plus. A couple more days like this and I'm going to throw away that long handled underwear that Jeanne Suits used to talk about . . . (before Jeanne became a city girl and found out the facts of life).

PAUL WRITES PERSONAL LETTERS

LESSON TEXT—II Timothy 1:1-14; Philemon 1:7, 21, 22. GOLDEN TEXT—Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth.—II Timothy 2:15.

Letters—what interest we all take in them! We go to town to get the mail, or we stop our work at the familiar signal of the postman. Too little thought is given to the possibility that our letters may be a means of blessing in God's hand. Paul has given us model Christian epistles. In considering our lesson it is difficult to indicate specific verses, but the reader can readily identify the truth taken from the lesson under each division.

I. Remembrance. Paul did not write letters which were impersonal and distant in spirit. The warmth of a loving heart, the refreshing recollection of past fellowship, a genuine interest in the joys and sorrows of his brethren put love into every sentence of his letters. We need to learn the art of writing letters. Even so-called business communications may often carry a touch of encouragement or inspiration. Personal letters should certainly be a constant medium of keeping bright the flame of affection between parents and children, brothers and sisters, and Christian friends separated by distance. Observe that the remembrance of Paul had to do with both personal and spiritual matters, and note how naturally and easily the two blend. There should be no need of being offensively "preachy" in writing letters. The personal and spiritual interests of our lives should be so close together that we normally and without effort can put them forth as one in spirit.

II. Inspiration. Who has not had the unforgettable experience of receiving a letter just when its cheering word was needed. Many a man has been saved from despair and possible destruction by such "a word fitly spoken" which is "like apples of gold in pictures of silver" (Prov. 25:11). "A word spoken in due season, how good is it!" (Prov. 15:23). We enjoy receiving such letters—do we make an effort to write them to others? Or do we excuse ourselves by saying, "You know I am such a poor letter-writer!" when the fact is that we are probably lazy or indifferent to the needs of our friends? Notice that Paul's inspiration and instruction to his friends revolved around two points—his constant prayers on their behalf and his faithful presentation of the teaching of God's Word. If we would follow his example we must first really pray and then study God's Word for ourselves before we shall be ready to pass it on to others.

III. Admonition. Scolding has no place in a letter, but kindly admonition is quite in order. Paul improved every opportunity to urge his readers to personal piety, Christian fellowship, attendance upon the means of grace, prayer, and the study of God's Word. He also urged his young brother in the Lord's service to "stir up the gift of God" which was in him. The influence of the world, the pressure of work, or some burden of spirit might cause a man to bog down in the slough of despond or of mediocrity. A letter from a true Christian friend at such a time might well be the means in God's hand of renewing holy resolves and of stimulating renewed endeavor. Do you think of someone who is waiting for that kind of a letter from you?

IV. Co-operation. Friendship and fellowship are not one-sided. The very words demand the existence and interaction of two personal beings. "A man that hath friends must show himself friendly" (Prov. 18:24). Paul recognized this, and when he wrote to Philemon he gave him opportunity to respond in loving obedience to a request while at the same time he showed the highest degree of Christian consideration and courtesy toward Philemon. The epistle is a "masterpiece of persuasive tact and delicacy and an enduring model of truest Christian courtesy" (Ellicott). No right thinking person is satisfied to be the constant recipient of the love and thoughtfulness of another with no opportunity to reciprocate. The smallest child or the humblest individual who must receive help wants to show his loving appreciation. A considerate friend will therefore open such an opportunity, not as a command or in a spirit of expecting something in return, but as an act of Christian courtesy.

God's Own Spirit To believe, not because we are learned and can prove, but because there is a something in us, even God's own spirit, which makes us feel light and truth as truth—this is the blessed faith.—F. W. Robertson.

By Virginia Vale

APPARENTLY Jesse Lasky, who is now conducting his second search for new faces for the screen, thinks that there is something in a name—at least, something in my name. For he has chosen “Virginia Vale” as the name which will be bestowed on the girl who is selected as the winner of this nation-wide talent quest.

The boy who wins will be called “Robert Stanton”—which makes me wonder if some man, somewhere, who really is named Robert Stanton, was as startled and exasperated as I was over discovering that his name had been kidnapped, as it were. There ought to be a law against it!

Freddie Bartholomew is no longer a star. Metro has demoted him, and promoted James Stewart.

whose popularity increases with every picture he makes—and he's making plenty of these days.

These are the days when the girls who are graduated from high school or college may be taking a screen test right along with their diplomas, without knowing it. Practically all of the major movie companies are in need of pretty girls, it's said, and talent scouts have gone forth to find them.

Of course, the very girls who come out best in these informal screen tests could probably go to Hollywood and try hopelessly for years to get into the studios.

Remember Wesley Barry, one of the screen's first child stars? He has been signed for a feature role in “Stunt Pilot,” the second in a series of Monogram pictures based on the “Tailspin Tommy” cartoon strip.

He has been in the real estate business for three years, and during the last nine months has been sales manager for a large realty firm in Hollywood.

George Hicks, the NBC announcer who has been down to the bottom of the ocean and up in the clouds for special broadcasts, and is to cover the American visit of the king and queen of England, has received more than a thousand letters from fans who enclosed blank sheets of paper with the request that he get the royal visitors to autograph them. Hicks is the kind of man who wouldn't make such a request even for himself!

Cecil B. DeMille always orders an extra microphone on the stage when Cary Grant is doing a play on that radio theater program. The extra microphone is used exclusively by Grant, who waves his arms and gesticulates while performing, and doesn't like to worry about accidentally striking the person beside him.

Over a period of two months The Three Marshalls (Peggy, Jack and Kay) have had to change their radio program five times because the songs they submitted to the stations before taking to the air were banned.

They couldn't sing “Hallelujah, I'm a Bum”—it was thought to be offensive. “My Heart Belongs to Daddy” was all right if only Peggy and Kay sang the lyrics; Jack could play the music, but he couldn't sing it's sung by a man.

They couldn't sing “The Preacher and the Bear” because the lyrics contain the word “coon.” “Shoot the Likker to Me, Jive Boy,” a jam session favorite, could be sung only if some word not suggesting an alcoholic beverage was substituted for “likker”—which in this instance was used as a musical term.

ODDS AND ENDS—“Captain Fury,” the first motion picture to be shown at New York's “World of Tomorrow,” is one of the most old-fashioned melodramas seen for a long time in the world of today. Here's an inspired title for you—the sequel to “Angels With Dirty Faces” will be called “Angels Wash Their Faces.” Mickey Rooney's going to England to make “A Yank in Eton” this summer. Jack Benny's “Man About Town” may revive the popularity of musical pictures. (Released by Universal Newspaper Union.)

OATMEAL MEAT PATTIES
See Recipe Below.

When the Allowance Is Low

Lucky is the homemaker who has tucked away on her pantry shelf a package or two of oatmeal, and in her recipe file a half-dozen clever suggestions for using it in her menus. For oatmeal is a quick change artist, and with a little ingenuity you can turn out a whole array of tempting, unusual dishes as delicious to eat as they are inexpensive to make.

For example, have you ever tried making light, flavorful raisin muffins with oatmeal? Or have you used oatmeal in a thick, hearty vegetable soup to give it that “stick-to-theribs” quality so much to be desired for active families? Had you thought of using it to stretch the meat budget, by making a little meat go a long way in meat patties or meat loaf? You've used oatmeal for luscious soft, chewy cookies, of course, but have you tried it for making the crust for a delectable apple pudding, or have you substituted it for nut meats in a rich-tasting torte?

You see, besides adding interest and variety to meals, and doing a first-class job of budget stretching, oatmeal may be trusted to add a large amount of low-cost food energy to the diet. Oatmeal, moreover, is an excellent source of vitamin B, modernly called thiamin. This vitamin is absolutely necessary to enable the body to transform food (especially carbohydrates) into muscular energy. Thiamin stimulates the appetite, too, and it helps in overcoming constipation, and acts as a prevention of nervousness.

Here, then, is a brand new series of carefully tested recipes, all of which contain oatmeal, all of which will be family favorites in your recipe box.

Oatmeal Apple Torte. (Makes eight servings)

CRUST:
2 cups flour
¾ cup oatmeal (uncooked)
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup brown sugar
¼ cup butter (melted)

Combine the ingredients in the order in which they are listed. Reserve one cup of this mixture for the top. Pack the remainder into the bottom of an eight-inch square pan.

FILLING:
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup water
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups apples (pared and chopped)

Combine the sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add the water and butter, and cook over a low flame for about 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Cool and add the vanilla and apples. Pour the filling over the crust, and cover with one cup of crust mixture reserved for this. Bake in a moderately slow oven (325 degrees) for about one hour. Serve warm with plain or whipped cream.

Oatmeal Raisin Muffins. (Makes 16-18 small muffins)

1 cup general purpose flour
4 teaspoons salt
¼ tablespoon sugar
2 cups oatmeal
½ cup seedless raisins
1 egg
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons shortening (melted)
Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Add oatmeal and the raisins. Beat the egg, add milk and melted shortening. Combine with dry ingredients and mix very lightly. Pour into greased muffin pans and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) for approximately 20 minutes.

Vegetable Oatmeal Soup. (Serves eight)

2 pounds soup bone (½ bone, ½ meat)
2 tablespoons fat
2 quarts water
4 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups tomatoes (canned)
1 cup carrots (cubed)
½ cup onion (chopped)
½ cup celery (chopped)
½ cup oatmeal or 1 cup regular rolled oats (uncooked)

Remove part of meat from cracked soup bone, cut meat into cubes and brown lightly in hot fat. Place meat, soup bone, water, salt and pepper in soup kettle. Cover tightly and simmer approximately two hours. Cool, strain, and chill sufficiently so that excess fat may be skimmed off. There should be 6½ cups of soup stock. Return stock to kettle and add vegetables. Bring to a boil, then slowly add oatmeal. Cover and simmer approximately ½ hour, or until vegetables are tender. Soup meat used in making the stock may be cut in small pieces and added. Serve with finely chopped parsley, if desired.

Old-Fashioned Oatmeal Cookies. (Makes five dozen)

¾ cup shortening
1½ cups dark brown sugar
¾ cup general purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon soda
3 cups oatmeal
¾ cup sour milk
½ teaspoon vanilla

Cream the shortening and sugar thoroughly. Sift together the flour, salt, and soda, and combine with oatmeal. Add to the creamed mixture, alternately with the milk. Stir in the vanilla. Roll out to ¼-inch thickness on a lightly floured board. Cut into 2½-inch rounds with a floured cookie cutter. Bake on a greased cookie sheet in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees) for about 10 minutes.

Meat Patties. (Serves six)

6 slices bacon
¾ pound beef (ground)
¾ pound pork (ground)
1 egg (beaten)
1 tablespoon onion (chopped)
1 cup tomatoes (canned or fresh)
¼ cup milk
¼ cup oatmeal
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper

Dash six muffin tins with strips of bacon. Combine remaining ingredients and mix well. Put into the muffin tins. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for approximately one hour.

As a Breakfast Food. Modern homemakers serve oatmeal porridge often and for variety add chopped dates, figs, seedless raisins, or dried prunes or apricots (cut in strips) while cooking.

AROUND THE HOUSE

After Washing Silver.—Stand silver in a jug of very hot water to which a little ammonia has been added, and it will remain bright much longer.

Keeping Dried Beef.—Dried beef will keep better if stored in a covered glass jar in the refrigerator rather than wrapped in parchment or waxed paper.

Tea Towels.—Add a little borax to the water when washing tea towels. It removes dirt and grease and makes the towels a good color. It also acts as a disinfectant.

Classifying Dessert Lists.—Dessert lists kept in the cookbook are a help in menu making, especially when they are classified as “hearty,” “light,” “quick,” “good for several days,” “oven made,” and “for children.”

THE EXTRA SMOKING IN EVERY PACK= 5 EXTRA SMOKES

ENJOY the smoking thrill... and ECONOMY... of Camel's extra-mild, ripe-tasting tobaccos. There is more tobacco weight in Camels, compared to the average weight of 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested. Besides, Camels burn slower than any other brand tested—25% slower than the average time of the others. So Camels give you the equivalent of 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK! On top of that, you get the mellow goodness, the smoking thrill of Camel's costlier tobaccos in a matchless blend. PLEASURE plus ECONOMY made Camel America's cigarette No. 1. Why not yours too?

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

THIS idea is the result of an experiment. A friend had a set of sadly out-of-date white linen drawn work scarves for buffet, serving and dining table. Her dining room was being done over with touches of turquoise blue in the draperies and wall paper, so she had the scarves dyed to match. They were so effective that the simplest part of the drawn work design was copied in coarse linen in various colors for mats and scarves throughout the house.

While the turquoise scarves were especially attractive, those in golden yellow and a bedroom set in soft rose were also full of charm. The sketch shows how the drawn work is done. If you are looking for something effective that is quick to make, here it is. Just pull out the threads of the linen to make an open space about an inch wide. The scarf may be hemmed at the same time the outside edge of the opening is being whipped. Just follow these sketches. No other directions are needed. Use either linen or mercerized thread in a matching color.

NOTE: Book 1—SEWING, for the Home Decorator, and No. 2.

Gifts, Novelties, and Embroideries, are now 15 cents each, or both books for 25 cents. Readers who have not secured their copies of these two books should send in their orders at once, as no more copies will be available when the present stock is sold. Your choice of the QUILT LEAFLET illustrating 36 authentic patchwork stitches; or the RAG RUG LEAFLET, will be included with orders for both books for the present, but the offer may be withdrawn at any time. Leaflets are 6 cents each when ordered without the books.

Everyone should have copies of these two books containing 96 HOW TO SEW articles by Mrs. Spears, that have not appeared in the paper. Send your order at once to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplains St., Chicago, Ill.

Bananas a Novelty

Sixty years ago few citizens of this country had ever seen or tasted a banana. Our formal introduction to this now popular fruit took place at the Philadelphia Centennial exposition in 1876 where they were wrapped in tin-foil and sold as novelties at ten cents apiece.—Collier's Weekly.
