What Did The Texas Legislature Accomplish?

In spite of its failure to provide the money with which to finance the state's social security program, the Forty-Sixth Legislature at its regular session enacted many measures of far-reaching importance.

FAIR TRADE ACT—This bill, passed after a six-week filibuster in the Senate, will give the manufacturer the right to fix the minimum retail prices on their articles.

SOIL CONSERVATION—A bill which will have immeasurable effect on the future prosperity of Texas by setting up the machinery that can help to save the soil from the ravages of wind and water.

NEW LIQUOR CONTROL ACT—This bill revised the state's liquor control act to remove conflicting penalty provisions and to revise regulations for local option elections.

TAX REMISSION—The state beat a partial retreat out of the field of property taxation when the Legislature passed this law giving back to the counties one-half of all state property taxes collected for general revenue purposes.

New Superintendent

PAUL S. ROGERS

Above is shown our new school superintendent, Paul S. Rogers, who succeeds A. L. Kelsay as superintendent of schools. Mr. and Mrs. Rogers are moving here this week, and we have not had the pleasure of meeting them personally.

Mr. Rogers became superintendent of Girard School six years ago. At that time the school had only short terms of six to seven months and there was no affiliation with the school.

Mr. and Mrs. Judd Donnell and Mr. and Mrs. Reeves Donnell of Canyon spent Thursday visiting in the Alfred and Donnell homes in Silverton.

Shotgun Wound Causes Hand To Be Removed

Tragedy struck quickly at Bill Long Friday noon when an accidental gunshot wound mangled his right hand so badly that it was necessary to remove it.

Long, who is about seventeen years old, was carrying a shotgun with him on the tractor during harvest. The gun slipped from his hand as he started to set it down, and dropped several inches against the tractor drawbar.

Bill is a student in the local high school and will be a junior next year, and is a leader in the FFA organization. He is taking his loss in a philosophical manner.

THE CURE FOR FEAR

The late Dr. Patton of Princeton in one of his famous addresses on Christian Evidence put the matter thus: "Sometimes men say, 'Granted that the arguments in favor of Christianity make the system as a whole probably true, but is it not possible that some other theory of things will do just as well?'"

The chances of your ever reaching port in it are very doubtful, but you can take it if you want to! The man replies: "I will think it over!"

Excavation Work Is Almost Completed

PAVING DREAM BECOMES REALITY

The first actual work of paving the streets began Saturday when a gang of men began work on the concrete gutter south of the courthouse. Monday morning, early work really got underway, when W. E. Schott, Jr. local dirt-moving contractor, began the excavation work for the Austin Construction Company.

The work of hauling the caliche will begin immediately. The base of the street work will be eight inches of caliche, compacted to six. This will be topped by a double coat of asphalt and gravel, and will make a smooth, solid street for years to come.

Arrangement have been made to pave the west and south sides of the square, as well as the streets proper. This will make those two blocks completely paved to the courthouse lawn.

Given dry weather, and good luck, the work should be complete within ten days or two weeks, according to Mr. Whiteside, street commissioner.

Merchants are talking now of a big day when the streets are completed. Some want a big trades day, some a free dance, and others a "treasure hunt" in the merchant's display windows.

SAM INGRAM DEAD

Sam H. Ingram died this morning (Thursday) suddenly at the Veterans Hospital at Waco. He was a veteran of the World War.

FRED BRANNON AWARDED HIGH FFA HONOR AND IS A LONE STAR FARMER

Fred Brannon, local FFA boy, has made application to the state committee, and has been approved as a "Lone Star Farmer," one of the highest honors in the FFA organization.

Must have earned and saved $250 from his Agriculture. Must be in the upper 50% of the class.

SUBMIT TO HI-JACKING

By T. C. Richardson

of the work of making a crop has already been cotton is generally from weeks to a month later than in the Southwest. The insect-jackers may yet rob us of our labor, if we are not on the alert to meet them more than half way with dusting and the proper ammunition. "gun" may be a shoulder or a power outfit capable of firing five to seven rows at a time, the ammunition for boll weevil and boll worm is arsenate. If the insect-jump occurs at this time it sometimes pays to add Paris green to the calcium of the northern cotton territory the Southwest the flea may still be the most serious pest at this season of the year this tiny insect migrates considerable distances from the cotton fields, and is rapidly from early when the first eggs hatch in the season. It deposits small fruit buds which become large enough for the weevil to deposit eggs, severe infestations, also the plant itself to assume deformed forms. The treatment of the flea hopper is dusting sulphur just any sulphur, but prepared especially for the use—and applied to the plants with a machine which gives a high coverage of the plants. Both flea hoppers and boll weevils are present at the same time they are likely to be at the same time, the dusting machine with a mixture one-third arsenate and two-thirds dusting sulphur, and one application of the mixture is made about every five days until both insects are under control. Two to three applications may be required; occasionally more if the dust is "rained off" the same day it is applied.

The amount per acre for each dusting is governed by the size of the cotton. Enough must be applied to give you a complete coverage each time, and in rank cotton this may run to fifteen pounds of the mixture—five pounds of calcium arsenate and ten pounds of sulphur. Records show that the cost of a season's dusting may be anywhere from $2 to $4 per acre, but the extra cotton saved in a three-year test was worth about $10 per acre. Last season many farmers did no dusting until leaf worms threatened to destroy the crop, and flea hoppers had already destroyed the "bottom crop." Some Erath county (Texas) growers doubled their yield by thorough dusting and some of those who did not dust turned the cows in to harvest the stalks—the cotton wasn't worth picking.

"Better late than never" is a good slogan to use in the fight against insect hi-jackers which threaten the cotton crop, but "do it right or not at all" should be the other part of the slogan. It is always a mistake to "try" something "to see if it will work," and experimenting with all sorts of machines and insecticides is too expensive for the average farmer to risk.

The methods and machinery for the control of flea hopper, boll weevil, leaf worm and boll worm have been thoroughly tested and worked out by the state and Federal agencies supported by your taxes for that purpose. The best available information on how and when to fight insects can be had by any cotton grower, on request to his county agent or state experiment station. Whenever new and better methods are discovered the experiment stations will test them and report on them, and until they do, the best the grower can do is to leave the experimenting to them.

Those who buy a good dusting machine to fight this year's late pests will be prepared to start the battle at the right time next year—when the insects first attack the crop.

LONGER LIFE FOR TEXANS

That Texas is headed for an era of quieter, more mature living, is the prediction of Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

The basis of this prediction is the declining birth rate and the increasing life span of the average Texan.

While the population may continue to increase until 1955, as Government census experts predict, the percentage of youth is decreasing. By 1975 today's total American population over 65 years will have trebled their number from seven and a half million to twenty-two and a half million.

Two reasons for this change in the age ratio are smaller families and stricter immigration laws.

Third and most important reason is the longer average life expectancy due to increasingly widespread use of medical and public health knowledge, which reduces mortality, particularly in childhood and allows the average person to live a longer span of life. For instance, a baby born in 1789 lived on the average until he was 35 years old. A baby born in 1900 had a life expectation of 48 years. A baby born in 1935 could normally expect to be 61 years old.

Repercussions to this change in our population from youth to middle age will be gradual. Both young and old will do less productive labor, while the middle aged do more. Fewer schools will be needed. Golf and other mild games will gain favor. Travel will be more popular as more people will have leisure. The jutting era of dancing will fade. The population will tend to decentralize as older people move to quiet suburbs or the country.

In the long run, America and Texas will undoubtedly benefit in the advent of experience and seasoned judgements in government and business.

When our population becomes more or less static, our scale of living will automatically rise, and the science of medicine and public health will have much to do with this change toward a longer and better life for more and more people.

THE ENTIRE COST OF THE C.C.C.

COULD BE PAID FOR BY

THE TAXES OF THE BREWING INDUSTRY!

The Treasury Department shows expenditures of 326 million dollars for the Civilian Conservation Corps for the fiscal year of 1938. The brewing industry pays over a million dollars a day in taxes.

What Beer contributes to the re-building of America would fill a great volume

Over 400 million dollars in taxes every year. Over 1,000,000 jobs. A market for 3,000,000 farm acres of produce.

The brewing industry would like to preserve for itself and the people the many economic benefits it has created in the past five years. Brewers everywhere realize that this is a question bound up with the proper distribution of their mild and wholesome beverage through retail outlets whose character will be a credit to the community. Obviously, the brewers can enforce no laws. But they can—and will—cooperate with the local law-enforcement authorities. They will cooperate with every group—friend or critic—to the end that retail beer outlets give no offense to anyone.

EAST AND WEST

TALBOT MUNDY

"WHERE THERE AIN'T NO TEN COMMANDMENTS..."

... that's where Captain Carl Norwood of the British Army Engineers and his indispensable manservant, Moses O'Leary, were stationed.

Their domain was the Kadur River district in exotic, mysterious India, land of intrigue and enchantment. Norwood's struggle to save Lynn Harding, beautiful American girl, from the unwholesome influence of Prince Rundhia, suave, charming heir to Kadur's throne, is one of the best stories ever to come from Talbot Mundy's pen.

"East and West" brims with adventure and romance. It is a tale of the age-old conflict between Oriental and New World philosophy and culture—the story of a girl entranced with the glamor of the thrilling, inscrutable East. It is one of the most thoroughly fascinating stories ever written of India.

There comes a time when all things are to be considered. And there comes a time when we consider all things.

WHAT A FOURTH! Or was it? Excitement in this town was kept very well hidden, if there was any. Isn't it awful to be poor and have to work for a living?

WE WENT TO the Gainesville Community Circus at Floydada Monday night. It is quite a show. There are bigger circuses, but I guess they are right about it being the only one of its kind in the world. There was only one thing that I didn't like, and that was the seat. I was too stingy to buy a pillow and believe me I almost went through the board. I got out and sat down in the good old car seat, and boy, it was like putting unguentine on a burn. I really enjoyed that first contact with the cushion more than any thing on the program. They say that I am heavy on my feet, but I found out that night that it isn't just my feet.

JAKE HONEA HAS been giving singing lessons I think. I heard one of his star pupils doing his lung exercises Tuesday afternoon and evening, and Eddy Nelson has nothing on that voice.

MILTON PERRY dropped in a few minutes and asked me to run a squib thanking folks for their cooperation in keeping the courthouse grounds and rest rooms in shape. Milton is really pretty proud of the appearance of things over there, but he says, "I couldn't do a thing over there if it weren't for having people's help, and I want you to thank them for me."

AND SAY, BY the way, do you know of any courthouse yard that looks any better than ours? And when the street gets paved in front, I don't believe you can beat it anywhere in Texas.

IN AN EXCHANGE, I found an explanation of the where and whyfore of the shelter belts. "According to that paper, the administration has made monkeys out of so many folks, that they are planting trees for them to swing around in . . ."

DAN DEAN OF Antelope Flat brought in a stalk of cotton from his field this week. It had bolls as big as plums. Dan said that there was some cotton further along than that, and that a lot of it looked pretty good.

ON PAGE THREE this week you will find the North Ward News, a new column written by Mrs. George Seaney. You folks out north of town, can help Mrs. Seaney a lot by letting her know your news. It doesn't have to be a big story to make news. Little homey things about your neighbors and yourselves is always interesting.

BLAND BURSON, the one-man army, has declared war on the U. S. Postal authorities. He came unrolled the other day about the new mail service to Antelope Flat. The quickest way to get mail out there he says, is to hand it to a hitch hiker and save your stamps. Then confidentially, and putting on the soft pedal, he added, "I don't know who thought of that route change, but whoever he is, and where ever he is, I hope he chokes to death before midnight." Call out the reserves!

THE BEST hard luck story I've heard this week comes from Cooney Alexander: "I just had one can in the ice box—and Dad drank it . . ."

THE AUSTIN TIMES, each week gives a dollar to the person sending in the best "most embarrassing moment". The lady who won it last week said: "I was in a shoe store trying on a pair of shoes. The salesman was bald, and as he was fitting my shoe, I happened to glance down and saw his bald head. For some reason I thought it was my bare knee, and reached down and pulled my dress over his head . . . that was a very embarrassing moment."

MY MOST EMBARRASING moment came one time when I was working as a linotype operator.

A young fellow had been loafing in the shop all afternoon, asking foolish things (as they will sometimes in a print shop). For some time I had paid no attention to him—hadn't even answered him. Finally he hollered and said, "Hey Roy". I replied, in a loud voice, "Well what the h— do you want?"—and turned around and looked square in the face of the preacher's wife. She had brought in her church notes, and the boy simply was "heyng" me to tell me I had a customer. . . . That, by the way was when I coined the phrase, "Was my face red?"

JINGLING JEANS

There are at least 603 wheat farmers in Texas who have money in their jeans that wouldn't be there is not for federal crop insurance.

That many in the state whose 1939 wheat harvest hopes are gone have collected indemnities under policies issued last fall by the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, according to a report by E. R. Duke, state crop insurance supervisor at Amarillo, to the Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee here this week. The committee supervises crop insurance along with other phases of the AAA program.

Indemnities sum up to around 263,350 bushels, equivalent to $148,260. A number of these farmers have used part of their indemnities to deposit with the Corporation premiums to assure policies for 1940, the report showed.

Settlement is hanging fire on more than 250 other Texas claims for reimbursements amounting to almost 120,000 bushels.

Counties which have collected as much as $10,000 in indemnities include Briscoe, $23,008; Floyd, $14,450; Hale, $14,185; Haskell, $15,392; and Young, $10,777.

Largest settlement made so far was made with C. F. Reninger of Hale Center, for $3,779.46. He had paid a premium of 772 bushels, which insured him for production of 6,999 bushels, or 75 percent of the normal yield of 618 acres of land.

NOT HOW MUCH, BUT WHAT'S IN IT

Not how much, but what's in it, is the question that decides the value of hay.

The stage at which hay is cut has a lot to do with determining its quality. If cut well before maturity—that is, before the seed stage—it will be more palatable, digestible, and contain greater food value.

Hay cut later may yield more tonnage, but the total value will be less.

The greatest amount of digestible protein will be secured through early mowing and this protein value has a lot to do with the quality classification, according to R. R. Lancaster, pasture specialist of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service.

"Tests based on 41 percent protein cottonseed meal worth $28.60 a ton, and assuming that the cottonseed meal is bought for protein only, show that the value of the protein in a ton of alfalfa cut just before the plants start to bloom is about $14," Lancaster said. "As a comparison, the value of the protein in a ton of alfalfa cut after the seeds are formed is only about $8."

Leaves of legumes contain about two-thirds of the desired digestible protein, he said, plus most of the Vitamin A and calcium.

Pastures that "get away from the cows" are improved by mowing, and reserves of hay and silage are necessary for best returns from grazing land, Lancaster pointed out.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By Boyce House

Vagrant memories from south of the Rio Grande—

A "believe-it-or-not": The only thing in English on the menu in one of Mexico City's leading restaurants read, in large type, "Chilli a la Texas."

An eating stand bore this sign: "Los mejores hot dogs en Mexico."—"The best hot dogs in Mexico."

Mexico has more dogs—not speaking now of "hot dogs"—than you can imagine, and all of them are hungry-looking. One beautiful lady in our Lions' group felt such pity for the "skinny dogs" that we avoided the reproach, in her gaze as we guiltily ate our box lunches in the little park at the foot of the Pyramid of the Sun. In vain, we explained that—best—only two or three of the creatures could be fed and that even they would be desperately hungry again the next day. So we went on short rations and were rewarded with a radiant smile as the lady fed bread, bananas, ham, candy, oranges and pie to the animals while their eyes were rapturous and their tails wagged ecstatically.

This—and that: Congressman Martin Dies, whose work of the committee investigating American activities, spoke patriotic mass meeting recently at Fort Worth, with 20,000 present. Dies has been frequently as a likely candidate for the United States Senate and undoubtedly would be a strong contender.

Former State Senator Dies' favorite story is that of the man who said, "Don't squish the fish; all I'm going to do is eat you."

Charles Harris, Fort Worth Telegram editorial writer, putting a dog he had trained a set of tricks when his neighbor commented, "I never had nary dog that I ever learn to do nothing."

CARL CROW'S MOTHER DIES AT FLOYDADA

Following a brief illness, Mrs. J. A. Crow passed away early last Friday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. R. Griggs at Floydada. She had been in failing health for some time.

For many years Mrs. Crow was a member of the Methodist church. She was a devout Christian and her life was a noble example of true devotion to her church, her family and her large circle of friends. She was universally esteemed and her death comes as a great sorrow to members of her family, and a distinct loss to her numerous acquaintances.

Funeral services were held at Alvarado Saturday at the First Methodist Church and burial was made in Glenwood Cemetery in this city.—Alvarado Bulletin.

Two sons, Carl and Stanton live here, and Mrs. Crow has visited in this community several times in the past few years.

PIONEERS TO BE HONORED AT TULIA

Stories of the early day—of the Indian scare in 1890, of the Amarillo lawyer who went hunting mustangs and shot two hobbled horses, of ranches, fences, railroads—will all be re-lived when Panhandle pioneers gather in Tulia July 14 and 15 for a two day celebration of the forty-ninth anniversary of Swisher County.

An elaborate program has been arranged for the two day festivities. Prominent state officials have accepted invitations for speaking engagements; a motorcycleman will crash a burning wall; and a variety of different races for young and old will afford ample entertainment for everyone.

Men and women who aided in the organization of the county, together with other early settlers, will be honor guests of the day.

A well balanced rodeo has been arranged as additional entertainment to reflect round-up scenes of the open ranges during the settlement of the Plains.

A free barbecue will be staged on the opening day.

A booster trip sponsored by Tulia business men will circuit several Panhandle cities this week, inviting and soliciting participation in Swisher County's birthday party.

JEROBOAM: A MAN WITH A GREAT OPPORTUNITY

GOLDEN TEXT - In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths. - Proverbs 3:6.

Strength of personality apart from good character will not assure success but will, on the other hand, cause only intensified failure and disaster. We may even add divine promises of blessing which are given on condition of right living, and the man of courage and strength without good moral or spiritual character will only dissipate both promise and power and will become what is even worse than a failure—a bad example and a leader of wickedness.

I. Opportunity and Treachery (vv. 26-28).

Opportunity misused may become a curse, but that is the result when a man takes what might be a blessing and turns it into a blight. The life of Jeroboam is a warning against such selfishness and at the same time it offers us an occasion to encourage young people to make the most of their opportunities for the glory of God.

That which commended Jeroboam to Solomon was that he was a man of courage and industry (v. 28). That combination will carry a man or woman to unlimited heights. The world is so full of timid and lazy folk, that the one who has a heart of valor and a willingness to work hard stands out in bold relief. Every sensible employer knows that fact and is quick to lay hold of and advance such an individual. Times are hard and work is scarce, but opportunity still knocks at the door of the boy or girl, man or woman who is brave and diligent.

The sad thing was that there was treachery in the heart of Jeroboam. Had he been willing to wait God's time he would have received all that he did ultimately receive and more, but his strength of personality did not include good character, and he at once began to plot against the king who had given him his chance to develop and advance. Let us teach our young people to be loyal and true, as well as to be brave and ambitious.

II. Promise and Condition (vv. 29-31, 37-39).

God had reached the end of His patience with Solomon. He had begun on his knees in the house of God, seeking wisdom that he might rule his people aright, had come to the end of his life in apostasy and in wicked indulgence of the wishes of his heathen wives. Through His prophet Ahijah, God made known the purpose to divide the kingdom into ten tribes and two—a separation which knew no reunion while Israel was in the land.

Jeroboam was promised the ten tribes with the assurance of the great blessing which had been given to David, but this was definitely on the condition that he would "hearken—walk—do—keep" (v. 38) God's statutes. The fact that he failed only emphasizes the folly and wickedness of the man, for he went on his way to destruction in spite of opportunity and blessing. Men are doing the same thing today. Oh, that we teach this lesson might be enabled to stop some such prodigal on this coming Lord's Day.

III. Danger and Exile (v. 40).

Although Jeroboam in accordance with God's promise did ultimately come to his throne, it was by way of danger and a flight into Egypt. Solomon determined to destroy him and Jeroboam had to flee into exile.

If he had gone God's way to the throne and had abided God's time, he might have spared himself both danger and exile in a heathen land.

Perchance some one who reads these lines is just now languishing in the exile of an Egypt of despair because he has failed to obey God. To such a one we say, do not follow Jeroboam who went from exile into greater sin and sorrow. Turn back now, seek God in confession and contrition, and if need be, in salvation. Get back to God's way and enjoy His blessing.

In making application of the lessons learned from the life of Jeroboam, let us not fail to point out that all down through the historical records he is referred to repeatedly as the man "who made Israel to sin." "Jeroboam's sins were not the sins of a common man. It is only kings, and kings' counselors, and popes, and bishops, and ministers, and elders, and such like, who can sin and make nations and churches and congregations to sin. But they can do it. And they are doing it every day. . . . The commonest and meanest man among us has more than enough of this terrible power of both sinning himself and making other men to sin" (Alexander Whyte).

To Be Saved

When a man is saved he is saved from something that does him harm. But that isn't all. He is saved to something that is good for him and everybody he comes in contact with.

WHAT DID THE TEXAS LEGISLATURE ACCOMPLISH?

(Continued from front page) as road-building, payment of salaries, or the financing of a direct relief program. Moreover, several local tax remission bills for Harris County, the Corpus Christi area, and the East Texas forest area were written into law.

PENSION RACKETS—Taking cognizance of the mushroom growth of organizations which had as their chief purpose the collection of funds from old age pensioners under the guise of helping them to get bigger and better pensions, the Legislature made it a felony to solicit funds from social security applicants. Lawyers are still allowed to represent pensioners, but their fees are limited to $10.

PENSION LIBERALIZATION

This bill to open up the pension doors may become the most irritating law passed during the session. The measure will add from 50,000 to 100,000 names to the pension rolls during the next few months by relaxing requirements for applicants. There is grave doubt as to whether the Federal Government will approve the liberalization because, in the judgment of many, the bill removes the state pension program from the basis of paying pensions only to the needy, as prescribed by Federal law.

WELFARE DEPARTMENT—The chief new bureau created by the Legislature is actually a department split off the State Board of Control. The Old Age Assistance Commission, the child welfare division, the Relief Commission, and the programs to aid the blind and the destitute children were lumped together in a new Department of Public Welfare to be headed by a three-man board selected by Governor O'Daniel. By grouping these social security programs together, a saving of $600,000 a year in administrative costs was forecast.

INSURANCE REGULATION

As the result of a determined newspaper crusade against insurance racketeers, the Legislature passed two bills regulating mutual assessment life insurance and reciprocal insurance companies. Both of these fields had been sore spots on the state's economic life, with a resultant loss of millions annually to policyholders who were chiefly the low income groups and the laboring men. The House also named a committee to investigate the rates of fire and casualty insurance companies.

ITEMIZED APPROPRIATIONS

—For the first time in history, the state's spending bills—the appropriations measures—reflect an accurate picture of how much money will be spent and what it will be spent for. In past years special funds were turned over to departments to be spent as they saw fit. This year these special funds were itemized and each state job was given a separate listing in the appropriation bill. This gives the citizen a much better chance to find out where his money is going.

EDUCATION BILLS

—For several years the State Board of Education and the Automatic Tax Board have squabbled over the authority to set the apportionment and tax rate which will bring in money for the available school fund. Two bills were passed clearing up this dispute. The Board of Education will have the right to set the apportionment, but it must not exceed $22.50 per year, and once the apportionment figure is set, the Automatic Board must set the state property tax at a figure to bring in the money pledged under the apportionment. At the present time 1,560,000 Texas school children are receiving an apportionment of $22 each, which likely will jump to $22.50 next year.

FREIGHT RATES

—For the first time in history the Legislature took cognizance of the disparity between Southwestern and Northwestern freight rates which have prevented the South and Southwest from industrializing and from getting a larger return on their produce. The Legislature gave the Attorney General $15,000 a year with which to push cases before the Interstate Commerce Commission to force a reduction of rates to a level more nearly that of the Northeast.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

—In contrast to most regular sessions, this session did not agree on a single constitutional amendment of any consequence. Usually several important issues are referred to the voters in the form of proposed constitutional amendments. But this session sent only four measures—all of them of indifferent importance—back for a popular referendum.

Most important was a proposal to let all cases involving the constitutionality of a state law be jumped on appeal from the districting the costly and delaying proting the costly and delaying procedure of going through the courts of civil appeals which is now in effect. This delay in the appellate courts is blamed for heavy state losses in cases affecting the constitutionality of tax laws.

Notary publics would be appointed by the Secretary of State rather than the Governor in another proposed amendment, while cities would be allowed to institute civil service systems for their workers without observing the constitutional provision limiting terms of employees to two years. The fourth constitutional amendment applies only to a Red River county bond election and has no state-wide interest.

LEGAL REGULATION—Lawyers backed and got a law which allows the Supreme Court to band Texas lawyers into a State Bar. The Court will draw up a code of ethics for the bar which must be approved by a vote of the lawyers. The Bar does not have the right to disbar a man from the profession; only the courts can do that. Also passed was a law giving the Supreme Court the right to promulgate rules of procedure for lower courts. The U. S. Supreme Court has a similar power for Federal courts.

HIGHWAY BONDS—After a bitter fight the Legislature passed a law revising the use of the one cent of the state gasoline tax which is now being used to retire bonds issued to build state highways. A surplus has been built up in the retirement fund and under the new law it will be divided among the counties for use in paying off right-of-way debts, outstanding local highway bonds, and the construction of new lateral roads. The money will be divided among counties on the following bases: four-tenths on ateral road mileage, three-tenths on car registrations, two-tenths on population, and one-tenth on area.

REAL ESTATE REGULATION—Real estate dealers must be licensed by the Secretary of State from now on, and a code of ethics for the profession will be drawn up. This licensing law was passed
