W. C. Smithee Is Claimed By Death

JIM DUDLEY OF TEXAS CITY PASSES AWAY

Mr. J. B. Dudley, father of Milton Dudley of this place, died Friday, August 29, 1941 at his home in Texas City, Texas. He was 75 years of age.

Mr. Dudley left here about five years ago and moved to Texas City. He farmed in the Haylake community for eleven years, and made many friends here. He was a member of the Baptist Church here and later transferred his membership to Texas City.

Funeral services were held at the Heights Baptist Church, August 31. Interment was made in the Galveston Cemetery. Alvin Dudley, Lockney; Claude Dudley and wife of Childress; and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Dudley of Silverton attended their father's funeral services.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our appreciation for the many expressions of sympathy in the death of our father, Mr. Jim Dudley last week. The flowers and cards helped a lot to lessen our grief. Thank you very much.

Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Dudley

McCLASLAND TO ATTEND DENTAL CONVENTION

Texas will be host to the American Dental Association in Houston October 27 to 31 when more than 8,000 dentists from all parts of the nation will gather for the 83rd annual meeting of the organization.

The delegates will represent more than 50,000 practicing dentists throughout America who are members of the American Dental Association. Among those will be Dr. Roy McCasland of Tulia, who will attend all sessions.

National attention will be focused on the meeting because of the important role dentists are playing in the national defense program. The fact that dental defects have proved to be the largest single cause for rejection of selectees, places a great responsibility on Dentistry, and will make the Houston dental convention one of the most important in many years, according to Dr. Wilford H. Robinson of Oakland, California, president of the American Dental Association, who will preside at the sessions.

Owls Meet Lockney In Scrimmage Game Friday

The Silverton Owls, coached by Mr. Robert King, will meet the Lockney eleven at Lockney Friday in a scrimmage game.

There are six letter men back from last year's team. They are: Billy Rampley, Louie Bonds, Bob Olive, J. W. Brannon, Lynn Welch, and Ervin Francis.

Although the team is light and inexperienced it is very enthusiastic, and plan to put up a good fight for their opponents.

Others coming out are George Long, Jack Reeves, Loyd and Floyd Jackson, Edger Mills, Jack Strange, Troy Brooks, Billie McWilliams, Bobby McWilliams, J. D. Self, and Coach King is expecting others.

Operations at Silverton's wild-cat oil test well, are temporarily at a standstill awaiting the arrival of the drilling crew and the testing of the water well. The rig crew completed the derrick Monday. It looms up across the prairie 120 feet high, and it can be seen for miles.

Lewis Francis completed his contract in drilling the water well Wednesday, and is now putting in the pipe for giving the well a test. The water well is 233 feet deep, but Francis expressed some doubt, as to whether there would be enough water for the oil drilling crew's operations. Just what steps will be taken in case the water is short, is not known.

The site of the test, was the highlight of interest last week and while the rig crew was at work, and Mr. Hampton expressed the view that he missed a bet by not having established a toll gate at the entrance to his farm.

So as far as can be found out, no change has been made in the drilling schedule, which called for the well to be spudded in about the fifteenth of this month.

Agricultural Conservation Program
Recently the Briscoe County Office has received preliminary information relative to the Agricultural Conservation Program. Generally the program is similar to the 1941 Agricultural Conservation Program with the exception that emphasis will be placed on soil-building practices.

Following changes are permitted and are passed on for your information:
The rates of deduction for exempting crop allotments will be the applicable payment for the farm.

The 1941 program provided respect to wheat that if the wheat was unintentionally planted by not more than the 3 percent or 3 acres, the wheat could be disposed of without limit and not be counted. The 1942 program provides no such tolerance provision. Up until this year the chief for the tolerance provision was that if the producer had exhausted his allotment by any means, however slight, he was liable for parity payments.

The legislation providing for parity payments where allotments have been slightly over-allocated now appears to partially negate the necessity for any provision in so far as the Agricultural Conservation Program are concerned.

Normal cotton yields will be based on the basis of yields for the five years 1936-40, which is the same period on which continued on Back Page)

Household Hints

After picking chickens, ducks or geese, rub them with a damp cloth dipped in cornmeal and see how well it cleans them.

As soon as you take a sponge cake from the oven, invert the pan on a cake rack until the cake is cool. This lets air circulate under the cake, helping to prevent gathering of moisture in the pan. When cake is cool loosen the sides with a spatula and slip the cake.

After you have washed small rugs, dry them on a flat surface. Then they will lay flat on the floor.

To steam bake means to place a pan of food in another shallow pan of hot water and then bake. This method is used for cooking souffles, timbales and other dishes requiring slow cooking.

Every two weeks your list of household tasks should include a thorough airing of the mattress. This can be done by opening the window wide.

Apparently everybody who saw Kathryn Grayson in that last Hardy film wanted to know what her next picture would be. She's but recently returned from her honeymoon—in private life she's now Mrs. John Shelton—and will be back before the cameras soon.

TRIMMED TO TEMPT . . .

Leftovers on purpose! There are so many delicious ways of using leftovers, why not call them "planned aheads"? Casseroles, meat loaves, salads, soups and so on will do much to turn the tag ends of yesterday's dinner into mealtime "come-ons."

The trick is not to serve the same old hash or stew in the same old way, but to give leftover foods fresh faces with fresh recipes. Like many thrifty homemakers, you, too, can discover the economy, both in time and money, of buying and preparing a large roast, or more than enough vegetables, with leftovers in mind.

You can't always make mealtime foods come out even. So, let's be practical about the situation. If you serve roast chicken or baked salmon for Sunday dinner, plan to do all sorts of things with the leftover portions for weekday meals.

Here's a roll call of leftovers and how to fix them—proof that "day-after" foods can be not only good, but delicious!

THIS WEEK'S MENU

- *Salmon a la Ring
- Buttered Peas
- Head Lettuce Salad
- French Dressing
- Apple Tarts, Cream Beverage
- Recipe given

Rice Ring.
Cook 1 cup of rice in 8 cups of boiling salted water. Cook rice until tender and fluffy. Remove from boiling water and rinse well with cold water. Drain thoroughly.
1 cup parsley, chopped fine
1 onion
1/2 green pepper
1 cup whole milk
2 tablespoons any well-flavored cheese
4 eggs
Salt and pepper to taste

Beat egg yolks until thick, then add the milk, rice and other ingredients. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites last. Pour into a well-greased ring mold. Set in a pan of hot water and bake from 30 to 40 minutes in a 350 to 375-degree F. oven. Or you may want to add leftover meat or fish to your rice foundations. Try one or all—you'll find the combinations tempting.

Romantic Meat Pie.
(Serves 6)
A very nutritious kind of pie is this one, with crescent biscuits riding a sea of meat, vegetables and gravy. And it's an excellent way to serve leftover meat. Almost any of the truit cuts can be used. You'll need:

4 tablespoons fat
3 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons green pepper
1/2 cup diced celery
1 cup diced cooked meat
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk or meat stock
1/2 cup diced cooked carrots

Slowly brown onions, pepper, celery and cooked meat in cooking fat, stirring often. Add flour slowly, stirring constantly until brown. Add remaining ingredients. Heat thoroughly. Pour into well-greased baking dish and cover with baking powder biscuits which have been cut in crescent shapes. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) about 15 minutes, or until biscuits are browned.

Why not try this sweet potato leftover which is sure to be a hit with either fish, fowl or meat? Mash the potatoes and shape into 1/2-inch cakes. Sprinkle with flour and brown quickly in hot fat. Then serve.

Sure, it's a big problem to figure ways of using assorted flakes and bits of yesterday's meal. But, don't eye them coldly—show them the heat again. Your family will love you for it!

Ham Souffle.
2 cups scalded milk
3 tablespoons butter or other fat
3 tablespoons flour
1/2 cup bread crumbs
1/2 teaspoon salt
Buttered bread crumbs
2 cups ground cooked ham
3 eggs
Grated cheese

Make a cream sauce of milk, fat, flour and salt. Add bread crumbs and cook 3 minutes. Add ham and egg yolks and carefully fold in whites beaten until stiff. Turn into well-greased baking pan or casserole, spread top with buttered crumbs and sprinkle with grated cheese. Bake about 30 minutes in moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Serves at once.

Meals that follow holiday feasts can be made beguiling by clever use of foods left from the feasts themselves.

Salvage leftovers from the relish tray, grind or chop them, moisten with a little salad dressing and out comes a brand new sandwich filler. Spread some between hot toasted rolls or bread slices at snack time. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for September 14

THE ETERNAL GOD, THE SOURCE OF HELP
LESSON TEXT—Revelation 7:9-17.
GOLDEN TEXT—Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, which was, and is, and is to come.—Revelation 4:8.

A look into the future is something that would interest most of us, and we have it in this lesson. We agree with Dr. Wilbur Smith that "this is an excellent opportunity to bring to the hearts of our pupils some of these divinely revealed truths which the world, in its mad rush today, so easily and tragically puts aside."

The portion of Revelation, chapter seven, which is before us comes immediately after a section dealing with Israel. The Church is not mentioned. The ones spoken of have come out of "the great tribulation" (as the Revised Version rightly translates it) and are evidently Gentiles who have come to believe in Christ during that time of unparalleled tribulation described in later chapters of this book.

Our lesson therefore deals with a specific time and a certain people in connection with an event yet to take place. But we find in this passage the description of the experiences of those who, like Christians of our day, triumphed through their saving faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. We may therefore here learn something of the future blessedness of the redeemed.

I. Saved Forever and Ever (vv. 9-12).
Salvation is a reality, and we are never going to be more certain of it than when we, like this multitude, stand in God's presence to praise Him for what He has done in our lives. It is real. Praise God!

Notice that there was an unnumbered multitude from all nations. The good tidings at the time of Christ's birth were for all people (Luke 2:10), and some from all nations respond. Note too that the hosts of the Lord are greater than we might at first suppose.

These redeemed ones had immediate access to God's throne, offering their praise direct. They were clad in the white robes of God's own purity and bore in their hands the palms of victory. They, with the angels, the elders (possibly representing the Church already caught up into heaven), and the living creatures (not "beasts" as in A.V.) they are divine beings of highest character, ascribed a seven-fold praise to God "forever and ever. Amen." It is a glorious picture of completed redemption.

II. Serving Day and Night (vv. 13-15a).
It should be observed that even those who came through the great tribulation did not look to their own deeds or faithfulness to save them. Their white robes of righteousness were washed in "the blood of the Lamb" (v. 14).

Now that they had reached eternity through peril, toil and pain, they would (according to many folks' idea of heaven) sit down for an eternal rest and retirement. Not at all—they found their joy in serving their blessed Lord "night and day"; that is, without any weakness or exhaustion, without any failures or defeat.

III. Satisfied Throughout Eternity (vv. 15b-17).
To be covered by the "tabernacle" of God (whatever it may mean) surely betokens the perfect and constant protection of His own presence. Everything destructive and disturbing will be gone. There will be no lack of any good thing needed to satisfy every desire. There will be no thirst unquenched and no hunger unsatisfied (see similar descriptive passage in Rev. 21:3, 4).

The redeemed are said to be under the tender care of the Good Shepherd Himself; the Lamb (our Redeemer) who is in the midst of God's throne shall lead them, not beside "the still waters" of the Twenty-third Psalm, but "unto living fountains of water." Thus in the beauty of figurative speech, we are assured that God's provision for His children, the redeemed in Christ Jesus, will perfectly satisfy every need of soul and spirit. There is no such satisfaction this side of eternity, but we shall find it there.

Then too, there is to be no sorrow. God Himself is the guarantee that there shall be nothing in that blessed land to cause anyone to shed a tear. Think what that means! Think of the weeping of boys and girls, men and women, who in this world of hatred, sin and suffering, shed bitter tears of pain or sorrow. Well, it were almost enough to know that heaven is a place where there shall be no tears.

Remember that the promises of joyous completed redemption for these, the Gentile believers of the great tribulation, will be for all God's children, for us who believe in Christ. Reader, will you not join us today if you are still an unbeliever? Take Christ now as your Saviour.

Being Happy

The world would be better and brighter if people were taught the duty of being happy, as well as the happiness of doing their duty. To be happy ourselves is a most effectual contribution to the happiness of others.—Sir John Lubbock.

The men in the service themselves have solved the problem of what they want in the way of gifts from the folks back home. First hand information from enlisted men on shipboard, in camps and barracks indicate that tobacco is first choice in the gift line-up. Actual sales figures from service stores show that the favorite cigarette with men in the Army, Navy, Marines and Coast Guard is Camel. Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco is another special favorite. Local dealers feature Camels by the carton and Prince Albert in the pound tins as doubly welcome gifts to the men in the service from the folks back home.—Adv.

No wonder Clabber Girl is the baking day favorite in millions of homes . . . the enthusiastic choice of millions of women, women who are proud of their baking, proud of their thrift.

HEDY LAMARR

Pulham, Esq." based on the Marquand novel—it's difficult to see how either of the two leading feminine roles can be twisted around to fit her, but stranger things are happening in Hollywood all the time.

Maybe you'll be crazy about the latest Walt Disney, "The Reluctant Dragon." But a lot of us wish that Mr. Disney would abandon these long features and stick to good short ones. Both this one and "Fantasia" could be cut into several good shorts.

In "Sullivan's Travels" you'll see a Veronica Lake who'll startle you—a boy hobo, apparently, in turtle-necked sweater, old cap, blue denim work trousers and a coat that's too large for her. Her daughter's birth interrupted her picture making for a while, but Paramount went right on making plans for her; she'll be starred next in "This Gun for Hire," in which she'll portray a magician who becomes involved with a munitions magnate in a mysterious murder. Which means that she'll have to take lessons in the art of magic.

Lewis Stone is taking time out from the "Judge Hardy" role, between the family chronicles, to play an army colonel in "Steel Cavalry," the new Wallace Beery picture. But he'll have to be careful not to do anything the Judge wouldn't do, or the fans will protest.

Charles Laughton (have you heard the new radio program, "Three Ring Time," starring him and Milton Berle?) would have been an inn keeper if Laughton, Sr., had had his way. He placed Charles at Claridge's, in London, to learn the hotel business. And his son learned one valuable thing—how to impress a haughty waiter. "Just order water and a poached egg on toast," says he. Seems that it gets them down every time, especially if they've been urging champagne on you.

The children who attend New York city's public schools ought to find at least some of their lessons pretty enjoyable. They'll be shown Warner Brothers' national defense and historical shorts as part of the curriculum.

ODDS AND ENDS—Raymond Gran Suing has just bought a 250 acre farm half-way up Putney mountain in Vermont . . . As a youngster Bob Hope used to do imitations of Charlie Chaplin at church socials . . . Paramount's "Air Raid" is a tale of adventure, love and murder during a practice blackout in an American city . . . Richard Whorf, who replaced John Garfield in Warner's "Bridges Built at Night," has been replaced by Craig Stevens . . . Andy Devine will join radio's Al Pearce and His Gang October 3rd . . . Columbia has given a new contract to Jinx Falkenberg, known as America's Number One model—perhaps you saw her in "Two Latins."

LYNN SAYS:

When brown sugar hardens so that it cannot be measured accurately, spread it in a shallow pan and heat it slowly in a 275-degree F. oven. If too high a heat is used, the sugar caramelizes. Stir, and mash it with a fork. Only enough sugar to be used at one time should be softened, as it hardens again as soon as it is cold.

To sour one cup of milk, put one tablespoon of vinegar in a cup and fill the cup with sweet milk. Stir well.

To clean silverware, mix one tablespoon soda and one tablespoon salt with one quart of water. Boil the silverware in this in an aluminum kettle until the tarnish is removed. Rinse and rub dry.

Give the baby his cod liver oil in the bath tub to avoid the brown stains on blankets and clothes that are so hard to remove.

WELL, IT'S JUST eleven o'clock and I'm back from Haylake. Not that anyone else is back. What I mean, folks out there act like they're having fun. My fun so far has been seeing folks have fun.

THIS HAYLAKE BUNCH of folks is just like a bunch of folks that I was raised up with. (Yes they were Kansas Yankees) Anyway, our community was called Garfield. Mom carried all of the kids three miles and a half to the Garfield school — all but me. I came along eight years late so after the first two years I didn't get to ride in the spring wagon—I had me a hoss.

BUT THAT GARFIELD community always had something doing though. I saw the first show I ever saw out there. It was a Punch and Judy affair and was it keen. We had "tacky" parties—pie suppers, skating parties and what have you. And no matter what it was, I believe that everyone had the best time, every time.

I'LL NEVER FORGET those times. Funny things. About the time I was in the third grade there was an old boy in the 8th grade (I graduated with him) and the teacher was trying to teach him a poem "On the Window Pane" that went "pitter, patter, pitter patter, on the window pane—where do you come from, little drops of rain?" And this old boy always made it, "Pitter, patter, pitter, patter, on the window pane—where do you come from little rain of drops?"

WELL THE OLD boy, (his name was Birtle) never did get much better. A year or so ago when I was up home, he had just had a fight at a big dance. And while he was waiting to get started, someone clipped his suspenders from behind and his pants started coming down. Between trying to hold up his pants with one hand and trying to fight with the other, Birtle got a whale of a thrashing.

SOME FUN THAT. But the main part of that fun is that everyone took part somewhere, somehow. Out at Haylake it seems like its kinda like those old times. This party out there tonight proves to me that work beats money.

I HAPPENED TO have charge of the Lions part of it. Well, I tried out that theory. The only cash outlay was for some Dr. Pepper drinks. About thirty Silverton ladies made a dozen sandwiches. Elmer Stinson put up the lights. Luke furnished the ice. Avis Cowart the coffee. John Haynes (and me and Mart) made it. Johnny Lanham hauled the platform. About eight of us got together and loaded it. Theron Crass and Maurice Foust furnished the batteries for the lights. Lem Weaver worked up the school house program (I hope it was good. I was over lighting the fire under John's Coffee). L. T. Wood got the loud speaker rounded up. Willie Weast Doc Brown, the Weast girls, H. L. O. Riddell, and Bryant Brooks, and several others furnished the music.

WHAT I'M TRYING TO say is that when you get in and help do it, it seems like that its your party. It beats giving $5.00 and saying "Now you do it". And that works in lots more ways than in just a party too.

TIMES ARE PRETTY prosperous at Haylake too. Bingham killed a chicken and found a nickel in its craw. I'll bet that's one lost nick that won't be claimed.

OVER AT THE Lions Club Wednesday, Quince Workman of Swisher County was there. He told a story on Victor Harman. Victor used to teach over there and the first morning he was trying to make an impressive speech. A bunch of kids were so noisy that Harman finally said, "Boys, you're going to have to quiet down. I can't even hear myself talk." And one of the kids came back with "Brother, you ain't missing a thing!"

By this time all of you have received the September calendars for the Palace. We sincerely hope you will like the pictures listed. Each one was picked with one thought in mind—that of giving each of you the very best entertainment possible.

Now for a few words about the pictures coming to the Palace during the week-end.

Friday and Saturday there will be one of those ever popular Hop-along Cassidy pictures "DOOMED CARAVANS". Here is an outdoor picture which will please each one. Besides this there will be a corking good comedy.

Folks, we sincerely appreciate the very nice Saturday Night Free-Vue business you have been giving us. It is ever our desire to give you the very best pictures possible. However, now and then there comes a special picture for which the producers charge an extra high price in addition to a large percentage.

One of these pictures is "MEET JOHN DOE" which will show at the Palace Saturday Midnight, Sunday and Monday. Co-starred in this outstanding picture is Gary Cooper and Barbara Stanwyck.

In view of the extra high price of this picture we are forced to charge of a separate price for the midnight show. This practice will not apply to all our Saturday night shows. Only to those which cost us a lot more money. Therefore, please remember that Saturday night the Prevue will start at 11:30 and that there will be no "Free-Vue" as you will have to have a ticket for the early show and one for "John Doe". So great is this picture that no one will object to the extra ticket.

Next Wednesday and Thursday night we will have Alexander Dumas' picture "THE MAN IN THE IRON MASK". Here is an old familiar story of history brought to the screen for your enjoyment. Besides this there will be another thrilling chapter of "Jungle Girl" which thrilled crowds Wednesday and Thursday of this week. Next week we will try to tell you a lot about the great pictures which we have coming to the Palace.

A BAD ONE DOES TURN UP ONCE IN A WHILE!

Good weather and a bumper crop! Even then one finds a poor stalk once in a while.

The retailing of beer is something like that. Most beer retailers operate respectable law-abiding establishments. Occasionally one finds an exception—a man who tries to beat the law or who permits anti-social conditions.

The beer industry wants this type of undesirable retailer stamped out. Your cooperation will help us in our clean-up efforts.

The beer industry brings important benefits to the community. Here in Texas, beer provides employment for 31,165 persons, supports an annual payroll of $22,076,182 and contributed $2,273,968.64 last year in state taxes.

Texas, too, has an important stake in the beer industry's purchases—for materials, equipment, and services—from over 100 other industries.

You can help us protect these benefits in two ways. First—patronize only the reputable places where beer is sold. Second—report to the proper authorities any law violation you may observe.

Spindle Top STARTED IT!

Forty years ago an oil gusher roared in on a low hill south of Beaumont to open a new industrial era for Texas.

That discovery at Spindletop started our modern Texas petroleum industry and made Texas the nation's leading oil state.

In the forty years since Spindletop blew in, nearly 200,000 wells have been drilled throughout Texas. Over 500 separate fields are now producing in all parts of the State. Today Texas supplies over one-third of the Nation's oil and has over half of its petroleum reserves.

Our industry, by refining almost all of this oil in Texas, has created our largest manufacturing enterprise. By furnishing cheap fuel it has laid the foundation for many other Texas industries.

From a handful of Texans forty years ago, this industry has grown until now, directly or indirectly, it supports almost one million of our people. Its expenditures reach into every section of the State and benefit every Texan.

The discovery of America's first gusher oil field at Spindletop has turned out to be one of the most important events in the history of our state.

Today all of Texas salutes Spindletop!

On October 9, 10 and 11, during its annual convention at Beaumont, the Texas-Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association will dedicate a monument to Spindletop.

Inscribed in ageless Texas granite will be the story of oil.

This is more than a monument to petroleum. It is a tribute to Texas enterprise and initiative which in forty years have built a great industry in our State—an industry in which you and every other Texan share.

Roosevelt Asserts Positive Stand Against Appeasement as Lindbergh Sees Trouble With Great Britain; Diplomats Try Their Hand in Far East

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

PEOPLE:

And Realization

President Roosevelt, realizing that he was faced with a determined anti-intervention bloc, both in press and congress, which was taking as its theme "pooh-pooh, there's no danger," had been making strides in his effort to bring about in the American public a realization of what he considered to be the real seriousness of the international situation. Coupled with this was an effort he was making to have Americans also make a more realistic evaluation of their own blessings. In recent utterances, particularly in one from Hyde Park, he quoted at length from a personal letter to him from an unnamed mother, in which she said, in part:

SEES PRESIDENT

Ambassador Nomura recently delivered a personal message to President Roosevelt from Prince Konoye, Japanese premier. This started rumors of "peace" negotiations for the Pacific.

"It is terrifying, coming from Europe, to realize that many of these people (in America) in their untroubled existence, seem to have no idea of what hangs over their heads today.

"They put themselves in a posture where they cannot squawk about what they don't see. "They go about their 'daily dozens' ignoring the threatening heel of human beings who want to destroy the freedom, the normal life to which they have been accustomed.

"In Europe there is not a nation of those who have suffered abuse whose people are not aware of what America stands for. They pray daily that America will save itself by helping greatly to defeat Hitlerism."

The President, echoing her sentiments, said:

"That is a thought we all feel. We want to keep America so that in all the years to come, long after all of us here are gone, someone will be able to meet as we are doing, as we hope to meet next year."

And, later, in a message particularly to labor, along the line of urging America to consider its own blessings, he said:

"Only in a democracy could there be a day set aside for millions of workers, free men and women in a free country.

"Only in a democracy could they spend the day in free worship, enjoying the right to speak their minds, to read uncensored news and to hear uncensored radio programs. "Today we in America are faced with the great task of preserving that democracy and we, too, will offer our utmost in labor and sacrifice just as our fathers and our fathers' fathers did." His Labor day talk declared unequivocally for the defeat of Hitlerism and his refusal to become "a Benedict Arnold" by accepting appeasement and "crumbs" from Hitler's "peace" table.

LINDBERGH:

Sees New Menace

Charles A. Lindbergh, chief administration critic, enlivened the discussion of extended aid to Britain and Russia by turning on England, and warning the American people in an address that if we banked too much on the British, we might find ourselves in the same company with Finland and France.

Pointing out that these two nations, like this country, started out in their participation of the war as allies of Britain, and now were finding themselves at least technical enemies of the British. Lindbergh's speech was headlined in many newspapers as "Lindbergh Says British May Fight U. S.," and given prominent position.

At about the same time Representative Cox of Georgia, bitterly denouncing the presidential shakeup of the defense production group, declared that the White House was letting the "left-wingers" take control of industry, and that the new alignment would "tie the hands" of William S. Knudsen, and "kick Stettinius out of the picture."

Yet on the same day Mr. Knudsen himself was quoted as saying: "I feel that the new arrangement will achieve splendid results in increasing the rate of production."

It was a succession of incidents like these which enlivened the American war effort at the same time confusing newspaper readers as to the thought of leaders on controversial subjects of how the effort should be conducted.

VICHY:

In Limelight

The shooting of Pierre Laval and Marcel Deat by Paul Collette, a Norman youthful assassin who had to join the French Legion to fight the Soviet in order to get close to the Nazi collaborator with his pistol, turned eyes suddenly toward Vichy, and the double assassination attempt seemed confirmatory of previous reports of serious unrest.

At almost the same time that stories were coming across the wires telling of the sudden arousal of sympathy for Collette, a New York newspaper writer uncovered a story about the operations in the United States of a clique of Vichy agents, working under the direct control of Gaston Henry-Haye, French ambassador to the United States.

It was a romantic yarn, telling how advance plans of General DeGaulle's ill-fated expedition against

SHOT

The shooting of former Premier Pierre Laval, Nazi collaborator, is believed to be but one instance of widespread opposition in France to the Pétain-Hitler program.

Dakar were smuggled into the U. S. in the gasoline tank of an automobile shipped to Hoboken from London and on a Greek steamer.

The plans presumably were turned over to the Vichy government by agents here. The story, evidently the result of long and careful investigation by the writer for his newspaper, named more than a dozen names, including that of the ambassador himself, and created a profound sensation, certain to bring repercussions.

It was charged, among other things, that a secret French police agent had been sent here and had established the undercover organization.

At the same time that Laval and Deat were near death from their wounds as a sort of culmination of French unrest and sabotage against the pro-Nazis, it was reported from Stockholm, mine of information about conditions in Norway, that Quisling himself had tried suicide by taking sleeping pills.

The report stated that the nervous puppet Nazi leader in conquered Norway had been found unconscious and that prompt medical attention saved his life.

The Swedish sources stated in passing that their country, as well as Switzerland and Portugal, the only three European nations not engaged in the struggle one way or another, were being strongly propagandized by Germany on taking sides, with considerable "advice" as to which side to take.

Although the pair escaped instant death, the town was thrown into darkness for several hours. There was annoyance but no casualties.

This sequence of pictures is said to be among the finest ever made of a tornado. They were made by Mrs. Omar Shields as the writhing funnel-shaped cloud neared her home at Lincolnville, Kan. The first photo, taken from a distance of approximately three miles, shows the dark, twisting menace as it first struck the ground. The second picture (center) taken when the twister was but a mile away, shows the tornado at the height of its fury as it rushed toward Lincolnville. The third picture (right) was taken after the gale had leveled Lincolnville. The tornado is seen swerving from its path as it began to disintegrate. An instant after first picture was made the twister ripped through the Highland rural school and demolished it.

Washington Digest 'Morale for Defense' Is National Problem

Lack of Rhythm Marks American Efforts to Arm; Wider Use of Plastics in Industry Would Benefit Farmer.

By BAUKHAGE

Use of Plastics Would Aid Farmer

If you've ever watched a slow-motion picture of a high-diver, a professional golfer, or any other trained athlete in action, the thing that strikes you first is the perfect rhythm.

If you come back to America's peace-capital of Washington from Canada's peace-capital of Ottawa, the first thing you notice is the lack of rhythm.

As one just-returned American who was comparing notes with me remarked: "Canada seems to be taking the war in her stride."

Certainly Washington is not. Today the one topic in the capital is—"Morale for defense," how to achieve it. And very few people can say how. Morale by speeches doesn't work so well because speech is free and there are always "un-morale" speeches, too. Morale by committee doesn't seem to work. There are plenty of committees. They solicit funds for advertising. Ads appear in the metropolitan papers. One greeted my eye this morning, the first line of which read:

"The next few weeks may decide what will happen in America in these next weeks. You can make people see the truth about the peril you face, that your family faces, that this whole nation faces. . . . But can you? Or do you want to?"

Civilian Defense Effort. A few days ago, as some of you may have heard me mention over the air, I sat in a little group in Washington where a very earnest, very emphatic man was talking about this very thing. He was an army officer in a branch of the service that is tied up very closely with the civilian defense effort. He is at his desk from 7:30 a. m. to 6:00 at night. I never heard a talk that sounded less like what the average person thinks a professional soldier says when he "sounds off."

"If things go the way they are going," he said—the referred to the lag in defense production and the lack of civilian support of our defense effort—"it will be fine for me. I'll be a major-general. But you civilians and your children will have to pay for a bigger and bigger army the rest of your lives. In the end, there will be nothing left of life as we have known it in America."

He went on to say that the time had come to explain to the American people that "it is no longer a question of whether you like Britain, whether you approve of the administration, what you think of the President, but just what is going to happen to you" if the United States doesn't end dissenation over defense, and build up an unbeatable machine right now which is stronger than the potentialities of the Axis.

Need for Co-operation. Objective observers here say that the trouble with the defense program itself boils down to this: civilian demands have been taken care of rather than defense demands. You can't have your guns and your butter, too. Nearly 9,000,000 man-days have been lost by strikes. Business that wants to help the government has frequently been given insufficient co-operation—that is the government has not been geared to tell just what it wants. Business that doesn't want to help has not been forced to.

Back of it all is public apathy. And that is the key note. Washington can't be described as apathetic. It is hectic. But there isn't sufficient drive from the people throughout the country to move congress into dynamic action. The leaders in Washington have not the sufficient assurance that congress and the people are back of them so that they can drive through their programs.

In Ottawa there are no bands playing, no soldiers on parade. But there is some tension. An Englishman just over said to me that after spending two days in the Canadian capital, he was worn out and "longed for the tranquillity of London." But Ottawa's tension is merely the strain of a nation with a relatively small population carrying a heavy burden.

Excitement seems to vary in direct proportion to the distance from the shooting. The nearer to the front, the more folk saw wood and the less they say.

Checking Up on Air Propaganda When I was broadcasting by days of the war from Germany it always gave me a strange feeling to sit in the government-controlled radio station in Berlin listening to the foreign broadcast in. I knew that that meant ties as high as death for the citizen to listen to what I was saying. Of course, German officials monitored the station.

Today the American government is monitoring foreign broadcasts. Not because they care what Americans listen or not—many do—but because, to quote a statement by the Federal communications commission: almost every political, diplomatic move is presaged in propaganda through study of propaganda trends, it is often predicted such moves. . . . I predict some of the foreign broadcast tone of foreign broadcast gave the first indication that many was about to invade Indo-China.

Propaganda by air, the F. B. I. uses "the old devices of distortion, suppressions, distortions, appeals to selfish pride and prejudices and exploitations of popular jealousies."

Remember that when you hear a foreign broadcast.

INSTALLMENT THREE

SO FAR: Larry Cutter was with Jacqueline Anthony, stenographer at the Hotel Rayne, watching her from the lobby. So I began to see Jack—as Jacqueline called—dictated an imaginary letter to a noted archeologist. When she told him about her great longing for travel, he casually replied that she could realize her dreams by marrying him. Another man entered the office before she could answer. Larry returned.

At the time the wife and mother passed unobtrusively from the family picture, Jacqueline had managed to complete a business course and was happy in her first position. Vince, harboring an idea that the motherless girl needed his care and protection, took time out to give the world some needed inventions. He always had intended to do that when he got around it. The Anthonys' living room promptly became a workshop, housing an amazing miscellany of gadgets financed from Jacqueline's meager salary.

Several years passed in this unusual situation. Jacqueline prospered, and finances became less of a problem.

The girl lived two separate lives. One was in the world of business where she exhibited unusual proficiency, appreciated by employers.

The other life was almost entirely between the four walls of that living room where she listened with patient enthusiasm to Vince as he puttered with his contraptions.

One of his favorite pursuits was to outline a world trip they would take as a first celebration. Vince would produce an old atlas and, with Jacqueline's shining head close to his,

Vince assumed a politely injured air.

Dennis was a partner in a large firm of Falk and Dennis. Jacqueline had made two investments with them and facts always had been with her partner.

There was a sharp-visaged little man engaged in some way to give an impression that anyone who was not a fool was more or less a fool. But if the fool was determined to part with his money, Falk and Dennis might as well be the commissions.

One morning, Dennis had come to the point of his errand in the city. He had a memorandum on his desk, Miss Anthony, that called.

She nodded apprehensive.

"I know where you got your money that stock in the first place. But you have plenty of common sense when it started going up the sky. We were a little suspicious inside manipulation. We see any logical reason. It was as though we might have been deceived."

"If you remember, I made investment before buying stock. I don't blame you for doing it. . . . the way it was going up. But you may have been long. Of course you've been long."

"If loss would be heavy at the time. It might be wiser to sell for a time. . . . But whatever you let us know at any time. . . . anything else?"

"Thank you very much, Dennis for your trouble."

"Dennis had hurried out. . . . Dennis had thrust deep into the folds of his flapping raincoat. . . . him went all of Jacqueline's dreams of the future. All in a state somewhere between inertia and panic, she had a renewal of Larry Cutter's proposal. In a moment of sheer and unreasoning despair, she had said she would marry him. She was sure by this time she had promised.

"Dennis was a gamble, the sort of or less. It was the sort of her father would have done, she reflected. Promise first, afterwards.

"She was more like her mother she suspected. . . . Anthony, loving and irritable failure that he was, had his daughter's outstanding trial her more mature years. She had him as her particular when she was seventeen, the little Madge Anthony down the same burden. . . . down the pair's only child. . . . always was in quest of a way to overtake "big money," work and systematic saving appeal for him. Let others care to. Anthony knew they struck it rich some day ready excuse for each such failure. With the fading of . . . he was off in fresh pursuit.

the mother who was forced to do most of the necessary for herself and Jacqueline, Vincent when he chose to live in a small home with his present.

—that was the name Jacqueline assumed upon her parent's death as she was able to do quite the most charming child could know.

when he left, to find Jacqueline greatly depressed. He offered a marriage contract permitting her to retain her mode of living and to cancel the marriage after six months. "I'll do it," she agreed. Now continue with the story.

was about what a father might expect these days. It wasn't the first time that a genius' family had proved a stumbling block.

It was a hard task for the girl to steel her heart against this martyr complex, but she knew instinctively that she was doing the right thing. For the two of them. It was doubly hard to witness his hurt air, going about like a small boy waiting for solacing negotiations.

Three days of the new order, then Vince was missing when Jacqueline came home to prepare dinner. She was almost ready to "give in," had her father known.

On the table was a note, a note the girl deciphered through blinding tears. Vince was very sorry, but he must conduct his work in a more congenial atmosphere.

Following her first season of depression and anxiety, Jacqueline was rather ashamed to find a certain feeling of relief taking possession of her. She found a modern one-room apartment in a much more attractive part of the city and established herself there.

She planned to start life over. To really live.

A great mental uplift came from that Courtland street home. Very different from Jones street.

And business at the hotel was satisfactory, for the most part. Miss Anthony, public stenographer, gained the reputation for rapid and accurate work. Slowly but surely, she built up a local trade in addition to the hotel's transients.

Dreams seemed to be coming true at last. Even the great dream of them all was slowly taking shape. Jacqueline was saving her money with calculating intent. First, there must be something against a rainy day. And Vince. When that was attended to . . .

The crossing!

It might be the one and only trip of her life. She might spend the rest of her days paying for it. But it would be glorious and daring.

There was but one trouble. If only there were some way to speed that cash reserve in the savings bank. It was a chance remark from old Martin Jacobs that showed her the way.

Jacqueline knew very little about Mr. Jacobs, save that his occasional dictations revealed the fact that he lived somewhere out of the city. He must be wealthy.

"How would you like to make some money?" had been his unexpected question to the stenographer. "You could use it, I dare say!"

"Of course," was Jacqueline's cautious reply.

"Do you ever invest in stocks, my dear?"

"No, sir."

"I'm amazed! You're probably the only girl in the city who doesn't." Mr. Jacobs lowered his voice. "Let me give you an inside tip. Watch an industrial called Southern Furnace. Something nice is going to happen to it. Buy some shares and hold them. You'll thank me, my dear girl."

Jacqueline pondered the information; she ventured some discreet questions to Archibald Potter the first time she had an opportunity.

"So the fever has caught you, Miss Anthony?" Mr. Potter was tolerantly amused. Yes, he recalled hearing Southern Furnace mentioned favorably. It might be good for a flier. Why didn't Miss Anthony talk to Falk and Dennis. She might tell Grant Dennis that Potter sent her.

Miss Anthony did. In a spirit of grand recklessness, Jacqueline invested a goodly share of her bank account in Southern Furnace.

Mr. Jacobs was right. Southern Furnace forged slowly but surely up in price.

She purchased another modest block against Grant Dennis's lukewarm advice. It was evident that Mr. Dennis wasn't much of a gambler.

Then something happened. The whole list grew erratic. Some stocks fell sharply and Southern Furnace showed an ambition to lead the retreat.

Almost in desperation she decided to have a talk with Dennis and learn the worst. He was not in when she called.

Today, he called upon her!

The great dream suddenly had vanished into oblivion. Reduced to ash in the devouring maw of Southern Furnace.

And now, Jacqueline Anthony had gambled her future. On a wild and unheard-of throw. For what? A snatched-at security? Paying for it with herself.

Things of that sort never happened in real life. When she saw Mr. Cutter again she would find that it all had been a hoax. If only she never had to see him. She couldn't run away, though. She needed the Rayne's worse than ever. She would tell Mr. Cutter . . .

What?

In some fashion, the day dragged to an end.

JUST KISS ME

A Kiss It Was!

There was a sudden screaming of brakes as the sports car skidded around the corner, struck a lamppost, careened across the pavement, turned back into the road, bumped into three cars, narrowly escaped knocking down a policeman, hit a wall, and finally came to a stop.

A breathless girl climbed out of the car, followed by an equally breathless young man. "Darling," he said, rapturously, "that's what I call a kiss!"
