Briscoe County's Oldest Citizen Dies

Broken Hip Proves Fatal To A. P. DONNELL, 92

Briscoe County's oldest citizen, Mr. A. P. Donnell, passed away Sunday, April 12, 1942, being nearly 92 years of age. His death came as a result of a fractured hip received April 3. He was taken to Canyon, where he was under the care of a son, Dr. C. E. Donnell until his death.

Alfred Pierce Donnell was born September 20, 1850, and passed away April 12, 1942, being 91 years, 6 months and 22 days of age. He was born at Hickory County, Missouri.

He was married to Miss Elizabeth Frances Langford, February 25, 1875 at Cross Timbers, Mo. To this union were born five children, four of whom are still living. They are Dr. C. E. Donnell and L. A. Donnell, both of Canyon; Mrs. D. H. Alexander, Hereford; and Mrs. R. G. Alexander, of Silverton. He was preceded in death by his wife, who passed away December 26, 1937; and one son S. A. who died in 1906.

Mr. Donnell and his family moved to Seymour, Texas in 1888 and they came to Briscoe County in 1891. He homesteaded the place northwest of Silverton where he was living at the time of his death.

He was Silverton's first Sunday School Superintendent, and a charter member of the Presbyterian Church which he helped to organize in 1892. Every Sunday all his life he found Mr. Donnell in church unless prevented by bad weather or illness. Few men attain the sincerity and consistency that he did in his Christian work.

He was a member of Silverton's first school board, and took a very active part in all community affairs all of his life. In spite of his advanced age he was always abreast of the news, and always had an opinion on any war or the other on most any topic.

Besides his immediate family he is survived by eleven grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren, several nieces and nephews and a great host of friends.

Funeral services were held at the First Presbyterian Church in Silverton, Monday, April 13, and attended by a great crowd who wished to pay tribute to their friend. The last rites were spoken by Rev. Dorsett, pastor at Canyon.

Pall bearers were John Arnold, Fred Lemons, W. Coffee, Jr., Sid Richards, Clyde Wright and Ben O. King. Honorary pall bearers included all the pioneers of this section.

Joseph B. E. Pool was born September 22, 1866 near Rome Georgia and died April 6, 1942 at the age of 75 years 6 months and 14 days.

He came to Erath Co., Tex. when a young man and married Sarah Enbry Jane Smith on December 23, 1888. They moved to Briscoe County in 1901, where he lived until death. His wife died April 21, 1928. Nance, Lockney; Oma Pool, Branson, Colorado; Mrs. J. B. Garvin, Silverton; Odell Pool, Trinidad, Colorado; Doyle Pool, U. S. Army.

Former Resident Dies In Elevator Blast

Adgie McDaniel, 38, former resident of the Silverton Community, was one of two men killed at Lubbock Monday when a blast wrecked the Burris elevators.

McDaniel will be remembered here as making his home with the D. H. Davis family about fourteen years ago. He is survived by his wife, and two boys, 11 and 13 years old.

Mrs. Milton Dudley, and Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Davis attended the funeral services.

Notice

Everyone wants to do his bit to help some way, these days. And one way to do that is to cut all stamps from envelopes received through the mail, and give them to some member of the 1925 Study Club. The stamps will be given to the Texas D.A.R. ladies, who have the dye extracted to sell for the upkeep of beds in the air-bombed district of London where there is a hospital for "war injured children."

The request this year is to leave the piece of envelopes sticking to each stamp, for support. Last year they asked that stamps be worked free of all paper on their backs. But now they want the paper left on, though both ways will be accepted.

Therefore cut the stamps out with scissors, close around the edge. Texas is now trying to care for three beds alone from the dye-fund. Don't waste any old stamps. Cut them out and help make London's shattered children more comfortable. —Mrs. Clyde Wright

Fist Fight Ends In Tragedy Friday

WASHINGTON EXPERT SAYS BRISCOE HAS STRATEGIC METAL DEPOSITS

According to an expert on metals and mining from Washington, there are several metal deposits in Briscoe County that are very rich right now to our national war effort.

Chief among these deposits is manganese, a metal that is badly needed for the fusing and toughening of other metals. These manganese deposits have been known in the United States, but in the past it has been cheaper to import the metal than it has been to try to develop our home deposits.

A metals expert was called in from Washington last week to look at deposits of the strategic metal in this county. The deposits were said to be of a practical workable content, and the Washington man said that he believed that his trip was worthwhile.

Besides manganese, there were several other metal deposits in the county that may prove workable.

Revival at Rock Creek Church

Rev. Van Banneau, of Dodson, will open a revival meeting at the Rock Creek Church of Christ, Friday, April 17. The meeting will last over Sunday, April 26, with services every night at 9 o'clock.

Rev. Van Banneau is well known in this vicinity and held meetings here in 1936 at Rock Creek. He is an interesting speaker and the Rock Creek Church invites you to come out and hear him. Wade Steele will lead the song service, which is always one of the most interesting parts of the Rock Creek meetings.

Amarillo Glee Club Coming To Silverton

Silverton's Harmony Club will be host to the Amarillo Glee Club when they give a public recital in the High School Auditorium here next Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend this outstanding musical event, which is made possible through the efforts of members of the local club, and the Amarillo group's "good neighbor" policy. They are appearing in many Panhandle towns. There is no admission charge.

The Amarillo Glee Club, composed of 51 talented boys and girls is under the capable direction of Miss Mabel Gowan, who herself is a former Silverton resident, and taught piano in Silverton several years ago. Miss Jan Castleberry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Castleberry, is a member of the glee club.

Miss Gowan organized the glee club seven years ago and has never had any help financially of the public school funds. The boys and girls have won high honors in many parts of the state and nation, and Silverton is indeed fortunate in having them here. A good attendance next Wednesday will be our best way of showing appreciation to the Amarillo visitors and to the Harmony Club here.

STEVENSON — GROVER

Miss Zell Stevenson of Cheyenne, Wyoming and Martell Grover of Rexburg, Idaho were united in marriage March 21 at Kimbell, Nebraska.

Mrs. Grover is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Stevenson of Silverton and until one year ago was employed at the Farmers Food Store in Silverton. For the past year she has been employed by Garrett Drug Store No. 2 in Cheyenne, Wyoming.

Mr. Grover attended Ricks College in Rexburg, Idaho and was also in Jewelry Business there prior to his induction into the army. He spent two years, 1938-1939 in Germany and was there at the out break of war. He spent 3 weeks of 1939 in Denmark and Norway trying to find passage to the United States finally obtaining passage on a U. S. Freighter. Mr. Grover is stationed at present in Fort Warren, Wyoming near Cheyenne where the young couple are home at present.

Revival at Calvary Baptist Church

Rev. B. P. Harrison, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church is announcing the opening of their Spring Revival next Sunday, April 19th. The meeting will continue for a week, with services each evening.

NEWS from the BOYS IN SERVICE

BUSTER HARRIS, formerly of Silverton, is spending a part of a 15-day furlough here with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kenrick. Buster has become officially in the U. S. Air Corps 1st Class Private John R. Harris and is stationed at Mitchell Field, New York.

ANDREW EDWARDS is with the Engineers at Camp Barkley. He writes as follows: "Well, here is at you from Andy at Camp Barkley. This is a swell place to be in the army. We have the best officers and no-coms in the U.S.A. They are pals with all of the boys. Oh yes, we have been to a dance every Friday night and it is free to the boys. The USO send out four or five hundred girls to the post. It is your hard luck if you can't get one and hold on to her. There is a lot of competition in it. I haven't seen any of the Silverton boys here yet. If there is any I would like to know it. Well, so long. They have blown taps—that means lights out."

ROY JARNIGAN writes from the U. S. Navy. His letter was written April 10 and postmarked April 9. Figure that one out. He is well—was unable to tell any real news because of censorship.

GARNER GUEST, who has been here on leave for the past week, left for San Diego Tuesday night. He is slated for a Sergeants rating shortly after his return.

JOHN R. PORTER, writes his grandmother that he is slated for a corporal's rating at Camp Wolters. Writes that he has a good chance of entering the officer's training. He is with a machine gun outfit and expects to be sent to a combat zone soon.

ELLIOTT LEE WRITES his grandparents: How are you two getting along. For me I am just as good as the last time you saw me. But I don't know how long I will be that way for this army is a killing me. I guess you have heard that I am down in the deep south where it is hotter than everything and rains every day. I like it here just fine, for the people sure show you that old southern hospitality. What I like is that fried chicken but would like a good piece of steak. They don't know what good steak is here. What they have costs you more than a cow would there.

It sure is pretty here. All the zales are in bloom along with other flowers. The trees are so thick that you can't see anything, only about ten feet in front of you. But the gulf breezes help a lot when it gets terribly hot.

There are a lot of interesting things to see here, such as Old Fort Whiting and old southern homes. There are a lot of old confederate places to see. What part of Alabama did you all live. Most all the people that live here are Jews and Catholics. The streets are about as wide as a good West Texas cow trail. But never did I think that when I joined the Air Corps that I would be in Alabama. You see negroes here that look like they are a hundred years old.

The Field where I stay is just across the street from the bay. So I guess they don't want us to miss the b at across to Australia or some other port, but I don't think I will have to go any ways soon. I think I will get to come home on a furlough sometime in July. They wouldn't let me go home Christmas or New Years. But if I could go home and see my Mama I would be alright for a while. I guess I should have gotten married but the trouble there I would have to fight a war the rest of my life. I guess I would have to find someone to marry me first. So there I am hooked again. Oh well, I think this thing will be over in a year or two, so all I can do is just fight it out.

I will see you when I get to come. You all write me and maybe I can tell you more next time.

BONDS — WARRICK

Miss Juanita Warrick of Tulia, Mr. Sherrill Bonds of Vigo were united in marriage Saturday, April 11 at Plainview.

Louie Bonds, brother of the bridegroom, was the only attendant. The young couple will make their home in Tulia.

RED CROSS IS ASKING FOR QUILT SCRAPS

The Red Cross is asking for quilt scraps, cotton and quilt linings. Any club or person that is interested in piecing tops or quilts is asked to take an active part in preparing quilts for the Red Cross. If you have materials give them to Mrs. Sanders or Mrs. Simons.

AGGIE BRIEFS

Secretary Briscoe Co. Committee By Ray S. McEntire

Volunteer Wheat

On Monday, April 13, 1942, the Briscoe County ACA office was advised of a change in the regulations relative to volunteer wheat for 1942. This change has been authorized by the Department of Agriculture and is official. Volunteer wheat may be harvested provided the following conditions are met:

- (1) The seeded wheat for 1942 must be within allotment.
- (2) The threshed volunteer wheat must be stored on the farm as long as it is subject to marketing quotas. This grain can not be used for feed; however there has been some discussion as to a change whereby the volunteer wheat may be used for feed.
- (3) The seeded wheat for 1943 must be within the allotment.

The wheat stored on the farm will be eligible for 50% loan, if there is a loan. Benefit payments will not be made until the 1943 seeded acreage of wheat has been checked and found to be within the allotment.

Further information may be obtained at your AAA office. Any further change in the regulations will be passed on to the producers as soon as received.

Wheat Quota Referendum

On Saturday, May 2, Briscoe farmers will go to the polls to decide whether to continue the use of marketing quotas.

Wheat farmers will be deciding more than just the question of whether to continue marketing quotas. They will be deciding whether to continue a "business-as-usual" policy which will endanger the success of the production of food needed to win this war or whether they want to devote all their means to winning the war.

They will be deciding whether they want to produce great surpluses of a commodity of which we already have a huge supply or whether they will produce as much wheat as can be used.

They will be deciding whether they want to help win the war by devoting as much of their acreage possible to the production of crops vital to the war effort or whether they want to overproduce wheat for which no market exists.

They will be deciding whether they want to continue to conserve their soil so as to produce abundantly for America and her Allies or whether they want to forget about conservation and endanger the whole war effort.

This is not to say that wheat is very important food—the staff of life—but we HAVE PLENTY OF WHEAT.

We have enough wheat on hand to take care of all conceivable domestic needs. Our supply on July 1, 1942 will be large enough to take care of all expected demands for a 2 year period.

United States farmers have never produced less than 500 million bushels of wheat in any year since 1890. Even during poorest years we produce almost as much as we can use domestically. In the extreme-drought years of the middle-thirties our production was only about 150 million bushels less than our consumption. Our reserves of better than 10 million bushels would carry through four such years if we could ever see them again. Forecasts for 1942 indicate that our wheat crop will exceed domestic consumption by nearly 100 million bushels which will be added to already tremendous reserves. This would result in an estimated carry-over of 753 million bushels July 1, a carry-over bigger than annual harvests.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

Anti-Nazi Unity in Norway, Denmark Brings New War Threat to Sweden; Advent of Spring Weather Heralded By Increased Battlefield Activity

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

TOLL: Of U. S.-Jap War

News, some good, some bad, continued from the various battlefronts on which American troops and sailors were meeting the might of Nippon.

The navy had admitted the loss of three warships, the aircraft tender and former carrier Langley, the navy tanker Pecos and the destroyer Peary, with the loss of some 700 lives.

This had been a bitter tragedy of the waters off Java, adding to the awful toll of the Battle of Java Sea. First the Langley, spotted by Jap planes, had been "smothered in bombs."

Her crew, all but about a dozen men, got safely off, swam about, clinging to debris, until picked up by destroyers, later transferred to the Pecos. The latter, trying to escape to Australia, was caught by flights of Jap dive bombers, evaded the first run but was smashed in the second. With two crews aboard one boat, the loss of life was heavy.

The Peary was done to death in the Aussies' port of Darwin, but went to the bottom with all guns blazing, her commander dying at his post.

Not all was to be defeat, however, for our naval forces. American submarines had taken a heavy toll of Japanese shipping in the neighborhood of Bali and south of Java, and in the Christmas island region.

Following these disclosures, the navy reported that since the start of the war 47 Japanese ships of war had certainly been sent to the bottom against 24 for the American navy.

More than 200 ships of all types had been sunk, many of them by plane action, many by submarines, many by army planes and shore guns.

This rate of loss was deemed certain to be more than the Japs could stand, while America was increasing her production average of more than two ships of war daily going into the water, and more than this number of merchant vessels.

With the attack on Australia definitely turned back, at least for the time being, military leaders were taking a more optimistic tone as to the chances for a 1942 offensive in the South Pacific.

UNREST: In Norway, Denmark

Observers, still writing frankly and against the Nazis in the Stockholm press, saw the spring season bringing even more anti-German unity to the Danes and the Norwegians.

Both nations were finally realizing that all German promises of post-war freedom were obviously false, and that occupation and puppet government meant simply conquest.

The Danes were king and the minister to the United States. Henrik de Kauffmann, the latter, one German had been angrily quoted, was the No. 1 Danish Hero in the eyes of the people.

As to the Norwegians, their resistance to the Quisling government had solidified until no risk was too great for the people to impede the puppet leaders. Evidence was that Germany plans on giving Quisling enough rope to hang himself.

Sweden was not inclined to view these developments with joy, but rather with fear, seeing the day not far distant when she, too, would be drawn into the war.

Profits: Agreement by a senate committee on the principle of limitation of war profits by industry had brought to light reported profits running as high as 4,000 per cent on invested capital.

While, with the government pouring capital into essential industry, such profits always would be great, the senators felt that a sliding scale of maximum permissible profits might be the answer.

Some companies had returned excess profits, one check to the government amounting to $40,000,000.

HARMONY: And Discord

All had not been too harmonious in this country, though in general the nation was moving swiftly enough along the path of production for the war to meet the goals and schedules set by President Roosevelt.

But there were manifold bickerings along the pathway. News stories said that there was to be a sugar rationing beginning in May. Then other dispatches cited that the SEN. WALTER F. GEORGE "Victory Day" for labor.

War Production board and the Office of Price Administration were at odds on the sugar situation, and the whole thing might be called off—that there really was plenty of sugar.

This was hotly and instantly denied by Donald Nelson, who said not only was there no friction, but that the sugar rationing was necessary and would be carried out.

There also was a terrific argument in progress over the time and a half overtime paid war workers for the 48-hour week, under the law that the work week at straight time should not exceed 40 hours.

The President had maintained his position as squarely behind the 40-hour week, and while some senators and congressmen fought against excess profits by employers, others were busy going after labor's overtime.

Senator George of Georgia was a leader in the battle, suggesting that the 48-hour week be adopted and the sixth day of work be called a "victory day," the workers passing up their overtime, but to be paid if it the seventh day were worked.

THAW: Russian for Slush

Just what the great Russian thaw had meant was vividly described in dispatches from Kuibyshev. They called it "more formidable than a moated citadel."

One writer said: "Imagine all the swamps you ever saw. Imagine all the muddy ditches your automobile had whizzed past. Imagine millions and millions of mudbaths. Into all this dump billions of tons of grayish snow and stir thoroughly."

That's a thaw in Russia. The Russian mud clings to feet and to tanks. One correspondent said he saw a truckwalker on the railroad jump off the track to let a train pass. The man was buried to his waist in muddy slush. His comrades had to pull him out with a rope.

CRITICAL YEAR: War Tempo Speeded

The World could feel, with the quickening of life in springtime fields and trees, the speeding of the tempo of the war on half a dozen fronts, and the vigorous battering of nation against nation that was to make 1942 the critical year of the World war.

In the "land down under" the seasons were reversed, with Australia moving into the fall season, but as the threat was to the tropical north of the continent, weather made little difference.

But in Russia, in occupied Europe, and on the embattled oceans the changing weather was bringing faster reports of action afloat and in the air.

Across the English channel had been moving huge flights of bombing planes, of late more often than not accompanied by high and low squadrons of fighter planes, giving the "big berthas" protection from the defending Nazi ships, and they were dropping death and destruction over a widening area.

The Japs were ripping at full speed into India's flanks, the Nazis on the eastern front were redoubling their pressure against the Soviet, and were said to be rushing 4,000,000 new troops into action. The Russ were countering, so it was reported, with upward of 7,000,000 men, many of them fresh troops.

Temperatures had gone above freezing on much of the Russian front, and the torrential rains of springtime had been falling. The battle of the central and southern fronts in Russia were expected to be the most bitter of the war.

Uncle Sam's 'Stingers' Guard Panama Canal

These are the first pictures to show the maneuvers of the patrol-torpedo (PT) fleet that is guarding the Panama canal with the co-operation of the army and air forces. In picture at left Charles Klefer keeps a light rein on a .50 caliber anti-aircraft gun aboard the command boat of the mosquito fleet. Upper right: A gunner vigilantly scans sea and sky for the approach of enemy forces. Below: The fast traveling 77-footers of the navy skim through the sea looking for trouble.

Horse Finds Place in U. S. War Effort

The horse is not yet "through," as far as war is concerned, his value having been demonstrated this winter on the Russian front. These pictures show two phases of cavalry action in a day's training of the cavalry soldiers stationed at Fort Bliss, Texas. Above, the horse artillery is awaiting the command to move forward to their gun positions. Below, men are demonstrating the speed at which they ride their horses.

All Ready to Dynamite Bridge and Japs

This photograph was taken somewhere in the embattled Philippine Islands. It shows Filipino soldiers who are determined to see that the bridge is completely destroyed, if necessary. The soldier in the foreground is distributing sticks of dynamite to be placed all over the bridge to play havoc with Jap troops, if and when they come.

Nation's Pressure Groups Threat to War Production

Organized Minorities, Anxious to Maintain Hard-Won Advantages, Overlook Importance of 'All-American Front.'

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N-W Washington, D. C.

The United States is having a time of it trying to do its share in a war where the guardians of every one of the United Nations' many fronts think theirs is the most important one.

One reason why Australia pressed so hard for a Pacific Council, on which representatives of the Anzac nations could raise their voices along with Great Britain, was because they wanted to keep the importance of their part of the world before the President. Any Chinese can demonstrate to you that unless China is kept supplied the war will be lost and even Mr. Churchill insists that his front—which right now is Russia's, is the number one hot-spot.

These conflicting demands, however, are not impossible to answer. We simply divide up what we have and pass it around. Because there are not enough ships to carry it all away (and because of the watchful eyes of our army and navy) our own forces are at last getting pretty well equipped.

As a matter of fact this competition really helps speed production. But there is another kind of competition which doesn't help production. It is the competition of the various pressure groups inside the country.

Each one wants to maintain the advantages it has won and in most cases justly won in the past with long and hard work. The great pressure groups which exert a powerful influence on congress in peacetime are: the Legion, which seldom fails to get what it asks for; labor, which has had a long, uphill job but which now can call the turns; the farm bloc, which during the hard years in spite of its efforts was unable to do much for the farmer's lot until recently.

Even Big Business, which nobody could call the spoiled child of the New Deal, probably has quite as much influence as Citizen John Q. Nobody-in-particular.

Many of these groups are now fighting for what they consider their just rights. But what they overlook is this: a large part of the population has no lobby at all. In fact, the majority of the white collar folk, partly due to their indifference to politics, just don't count when the roll is called up yonder on Capitol Hill.

This middle class, the unorganized salary earners who are sometimes politely referred to as the backbone of the nation, don't even rate deferments. They pay their taxes and in wartime they aren't important enough to do anything more than go to war. They don't make much trouble, but they do holler when they think they aren't getting an even break.

The organized folks, on the other hand, who are just as good patriots and many of whose sons are in the army, nevertheless, are the ones who because of their political power cause a lot of pulling and hauling, and that makes more trouble for the government than the conflicting desires of our Allies. They each think their front—the farm front, or the business or the labor front—is the most important. It isn't. There is only one that is important: it is the all-American front.

British Farmers Increase Yield

When the war broke in earnest about the British Isles a terrific challenge faced the British farmer.

He was told that 3,000,000 tons of imported feed for cows and poultry would be cut off. He had to cut down on his livestock and grow more potatoes and grain.

Meadows went under the plow and 4,000,000 additional acres of arable land were put under cultivation. The number of farm horses dropped in two years by 300,000 head. In one typical county alone the acreage in potatoes was increased by 22,000.

In order to bring about this situation aid to obtain co-operation for a "Food for Victory" program the minister of agriculture divided the country up into districts, appointed directors of each district and named a committee to work under each director. These committees classified all farms as A, B, C, according to the efficiency of management.

The C class was the problem. The owners or the tenants working them had either to show full co-operation within a limited time or get out. Sometimes the new proprietor called on the 4-H members to help him.

According to L. K. Elmhorst, writing in the magazine Free World, "the system worked well." It was a highly arbitrary method, but the British farmer, who is an independent person with a century of stubborn tradition of non-interference from government, yielded to the later necessity.

Thirst Versus Sweet Tooth

America's alcoholic thirst is the suffer in order to satisfy America's sweet tooth.

And 50,000,000 bushels of grain, wheat and corn—are going to a market most of which will go in smoke. Rapidly the whiskey distilleries of America are being turned into distillers of industrial alcohol to be turned into explosives. Most of this war demand for alcohol now being satisfied with sugar because the industrial alcohol plants are equipped for the distillation of sugar (molasses) and not grain.

25 whiskey plants, already equipped for the distillation of grain, have stopped turning out a beverage and are working for the government.

The President recently signed an order to take over the plants which make high wines, which means to distill 40-proof alcohol. They have to be equipped to make 190 proof required for industrial use.

Then all whiskey making stops. In fact the whiskey making business already has a crimp in it. The gin business has virtually ceased—or will as soon as the distillers use up such alcohol as they have in storage.

There is still four years' supply of whiskey in storage. Soon as it will be distilled. The blended whiskey making and gin making when the 140-proof neutral grain alcohol is exhausted.

One bushel of wheat or corn can make 2 1/2 gallons of alcohol, say make 2 1/2 that it will take a lot of grain to make the 200,000,000 gallons a year of alcohol which the government expects to be turned out for war by 1943.

It takes time to convert the sugar distilleries because a man is able to make very good whiskey cannot necessarily make alcohol. Takes installation of equipment some plants not fully equipped. Other words there is a "change over" necessary just as when the automaker changes over his factory to make planes or tanks.

That is the reason why a meantime sugar has to be used, why we have to ration it for so long.

Many people have written in asking that sugar rationing was necessary when there was plenty of grain. It is just as foolish as saying that because you have a nation of a hundred million people you have to feed soldiers you need. It takes time to change a civilian into a soldier. It takes time to convert a sugar distillery to a grain distillery.

Peanut Oil

Peanuts to you! What do they mean to you? Something for the monkey in the zoo, elephant in the circus? Or perhaps your daily bread, or merely peanut butter.

In Washington, peanuts have another meaning today. That's the war, we need more peanuts to feed to Japanese prisoners, to squeeze. Peanut oil is needed to fill the demand for essential oils off when the enemy took over the Netherlands Indies.

The department of agriculture asked that 2 1/2 times as many peanuts be planted to replace other producers stopped by the war (to feed squirrels). As of March the indications that we would get only a two-thirds plus crop.

Isn't enough. And so we must buy more soy beans which yield oils many other things from vitamins to plastic ashtrays. The soy crop already increased almost as rapidly as the price of the beans. But we won't get all the peanuts we need this year, the cry is "More soys!"

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

Farmers who have a cash market for skim milk can contribute to the Food-for-Freedom dairy products by selling some of the skim milk they have been feeding to the calves. Calves will make satisfactory growth if the skim milk is discontinued at three months of age, provided the grain mixture and plenty of other feed.

More than $800,000,000 worth of farm commodities were bought between March 15, 1941, and March 15, 1942, largely as supplies available for shipment to the United States under provisions of the lend-lease act. Long after the snow of Washington's record spring blizzard had melted a shrinking snow-man still stands in the White House grounds.

SHE LOVED A SPY

by SYLVIA TAYLOR W-N-U Release

THE STORY SO FAR: Joan Leland is trapped, when her employer, Karl Miller, with whom she is in love, shoots his business partner, Eric Strom. He asks her to pick up the gun, then threatens to accuse her of the murder unless she continues her work and remains silent. She is horrified when he confesses to her that he is a German spy and has a wife in Germany. Warned against Karl by her sister, Sybil, and Karl's manager, Paul Sherman, Joan had blindly defended the man she felt in love with. Paul reveals he is really Paul O'Malley, an FBI agent trying to trap the Nazi spy ring. Sybil is missing and Paul believes Karl is holding her as a hostage. Karl dines with a beautiful young girl hired as a singer, in reality Paul's young run-away sister, Patricia, who innocently betrays Paul's identity. Joan and Paul discover a secret foreign radio transmitter belonging to Karl, with bomber plans, but are captured by Karl, who imprisons them on a boat. They announce their love to each other and meet Thomas, another victim of Karl's. Paul succeeds in altering the bomber plans, then decides to try and get a radio message through the ship's set.

She had scarcely uttered the words when Karl Miller's powerful figure loomed in the doorway. He held a pistol.

Farm Youths Guard 'Home Front'

Above photo shows one way thousands of rural youths from coast to coast are learning new trades this year under a $15,000,000 "out-of-school" training program being supervised by the U. S. office of education. One purpose of the project is to train young men who can take the place in civilian jobs of skilled workmen being called for service in America's fast-expanding war industry program. Secondary aims are to prepare farm and small town youths to work in agriculture as it becomes increasingly more mechanized, and to fit them for mechanical work in the army should they be called for service. Almost every state in the Union is now offering instruction under direction of a state vocational office.

Metalworking, forging, woodworking, operation and repair of motors are among the courses being offered. Above, students learn how to cut metal at the Schenley company's machine shop at Frankfort, Ky., where these pictures were taken. Plant technicians donate their services as instructors.

At left, youths learn how to use a power drill, while student at right is getting his first lesson in forging. Officials estimate that 75 per cent of courses are being given in rural areas, because big city youths can usually secure similar training at regular trade schools.

Youth is being trained today for a mechanized tomorrow.

CHAPTER XV

It was less than half an hour later when Thomas returned saying, "Come on deck. It's here!" They followed him to the rail. The misty rain and gray sky and sea made it difficult to focus their vision but Joan suddenly saw the periscope of a submarine rising slowly from the water. "There it is! I see it!" "Yes. That is it," Paul said quietly. Karl appeared from the captain's quarters. They could see him descending the narrow flight of stairs. He was dressed in uniform and called sharp commands to three sailors who stood at the rail preparing to lower a small boat. "Is Karl going to the submarine?" Joan asked. "Probably they will come to the ship," Paul said speculatively. "Yes, that's right," Thomas put in, nodding his head. "I've seen them do it before. Karl gives them the papers and they're gone again." "You don't think Karl has found out that you changed those plans?" Joan said nervously. "He doesn't seem to." Men appeared from the hold of the ship. All stood at attention as the hatch of the submarine opened and two officers appeared. As Thomas had predicted, the boat carried them to the ship and they all went to the pilot house. "What will they do now?" Joan asked. "Get the papers and go back." "And all those plans will be used?" "Yes. Not only plans for bombing planes, but formulas for explosives and poison gas. This spy ring has connections in every part of our country. It's a powerful organization and the leader's the one we want. Getting Karl alone wouldn't do any good. If he were in jail the rest of his life, it wouldn't stop the rest of them." "How terrible!" Joan shuddered. "That isn't the worst of it," Paul went on. "They intimidate people who have relatives in Germany, threatening to harm them unless money and aid is given. Many people are drawn into it this way." "Yes!" Thomas cried. "That's what happened to me. Karl told me my wife would be put into a concentration camp if I didn't give him five thousand dollars. She was still in Germany, you see, so I tried to raise the money but I couldn't. Karl offered to put it up for me. I would come on this ship. But I never heard from my wife since." "We may as well go inside," Paul said. "Apparently this conference is going to take some time." "I don't like the look of it," Thomas insisted. "Usually they're here only a few minutes." "Do you really think anything is wrong?" Joan asked anxiously as she and Paul went into the lounge. "It doesn't look too good," Paul admitted. "Be ready for anything. You want your purse, you'd better get it now. We may be off the ship before another hour passes." Automatically Joan went into her cabin and gathered up her things. She seemed fantastic that they could escape from a boat in mid-ocean. "All set?" Paul said as she stood absolutely before him. "Ready for anything!" Joan said bravely. But almost an hour passed and nothing happened. The ship rested tranquilly by the side of the submarine. The rain continued. Thomas watched from the deck. Paul smoked endless cigarettes as he paced the length of the cabin. "I don't like this delay," he admitted. "Things aren't going as I had planned."

hand instinctively touched the gun in her coat pocket. "Karl won't kill anyone," Paul said, calmly lighting a cigarette. Joan had already noticed that Paul had the faculty of inspiring trust. Thomas seemed to be relieved by his assurance, vague and indefinite though it was. Joan, too, felt some inner faith, some conviction that Paul could master any situation. It was a little after seven when Thomas motioned them to come outside. Karl and the officers were on the lower deck. They watched as the officers descended the rope ladder and were rowed back to the submarine. In the darkness it was hard to distinguish them. It was like some evil mirage, as their vague shapes disappeared down the hatch, then slowly the submarine submerged. "It's the most terrible thing I've ever seen," Joan said, moving closer to Paul. "It's symbolic of all the hidden terror in the world today." "And it's my job to do all I can to stop it," said Paul. "You'll never stop Karl and his kind. There are too many of them." Thomas said sadly. "It would take years." "We'll stop them all right, no matter how long it takes, and every little bit helps. If we can get to the bottom of this unit, it will frighten the others. Every man in the FBI is working day and night tracking down these people. We'll catch up with every one of them eventually." Joan's heart was full of pride in his words. Paul caught her glance and smiled. She was clutching her purse and gloves, ready to depart, as he had said, "at a moment's notice." "We're not going to get out of this as soon as I thought," he told her now as they went back into the lounge. "May as well sit down and relax." "Not me," Thomas insisted. "I'm going to stay on deck. If Karl does come, I don't want to make things look any worse than they already are." "Odd that Karl trusts you here with us," Paul meditated. "He trusts me," Thomas declared. "because he knows I'm afraid of him." But though neither Joan nor Paul would admit it, both thought that Karl was too clever to overlook the possibility that Thomas might aid Karl's prisoners. Had he deliberately planned it this way? "Drink your tea, dear," Paul advised. "This may be the last food we'll have for quite a while." They smiled, sending each other a message of courage. The ship lay quietly. They had not moved since the arrival of the submarine. Thomas stood patiently outside. The rain on his slicker gleamed in the darkness. "I think he's more worried than we are," Paul commented. "Thomas' shuffling footsteps came suddenly to their ears; also a hard tread ascending the stairs. "It's Karl!" Joan whispered. She had scarcely uttered the words when Karl Miller's powerful figure loomed in the doorway. He held a pistol. Paul and Joan faced him silently. Behind his back Joan saw the terrified eyes of Thomas. "You amaze me, Mr. O'Malley," Karl said coolly. "A man in the government service should be more clever than you have been." "Meaning what?" Paul inquired with assumed indifference. "Do you really think me so stupid?" Karl smiled. "Do you think I would hand over important papers without checking them first?" "Sorry to disrupt your little plan. You could see for yourself that they are quite worthless now." "Quite," Karl said coolly. "But I feel that your government would have preferred to lose the plans and have you alive." "No!" Joan screamed, sensing his meaning. "Shut up! I will deal with you later. Perhaps you will learn that death is preferable to some things." "If you imagine that I am afraid to die, you are wrong," Paul said calmly. "To die for a purpose like this could almost be called a pleasure." Joan wondered how he could talk like that at a time like this, but Karl had a faint glimmer of approval in his cold eyes. "I admire your courage, Mr. O'Malley. Too bad that you fight on the wrong side. If you had joined with me, we might have gone far together." His hand raised the pistol, his finger was pressed against the trigger. Joan saw Thomas motion to her and she knew instantly what she must do. She snatched the gun from her pocket and fired it directly at Karl Miller. With an expression of complete incredulity, he crumpled to the floor. The gun fell from Joan's hand as she stared with unseeing eyes before her. "I've killed him," she whispered. Paul's arm was about her. "Don't think about it. We're getting out of here." Thomas took a timid step forward. "It served him right," he declared with satisfaction. "Where did she get that gun?" Paul demanded. "I gave it to her." "I've killed him," Joan repeated. Paul motioned to Thomas and together they helped her from the cabin. Outside—complete darkness, a slight wind and the misty rain. "Do you think you can get those papers from the safe?" Paul asked Thomas. "I'll wait here with Joan." Thomas looked fearfully over his shoulder. "There's nothing to be afraid of now," Paul said. "Go quickly before the others find out what has happened." Paul and Joan waited under the narrow ledge of canvas. Large drops of rain splattered down on the deck. Joan clung to Paul's arm unable to speak. "It won't be long now, honey," he said. "Try to bear up just a little while longer." Thomas returned almost instantly with the papers and handed them to Paul. "I didn't see anyone," he reported. "This all seems too easy." "Never mind that," Paul said. "Do you think we can lower a boat?" "Sure. But we'll have to go down to the boat deck and one of them will see us. They all know what's what. They'd shoot us down like Karl would have. We haven't a chance of getting off this boat." "There's no time to argue," Paul insisted. "I know what I'm doing. Now let's go." As they descended the stairs there was no one in sight. The boat used to take the officers back to the submarine was still in the water. "What luck!" Thomas said. "Not luck," Paul replied. "It's there for a purpose. You go down first and I'll help Joan." Thomas disappeared over the side. "Do you think you can make it honey?" Paul asked Joan, looking anxiously into her white face. "I'll go first and you follow me." Tremulously Joan obeyed. The ladder swayed with her weight and she grasped it fiercely. Step by step she went down until at last she felt Paul's arms lifting her to safety. Thomas loosened the rope that held them to the ship. "This won't work, Mr. O'Malley. They'll shoot us like dogs. We haven't a chance." But he was wrong. They rowed away unmolested. The ship was like a ghost; not one of the crew was in sight. Later fatigue held her prisoner and with her head buried in her arms she fell into a deep sleep. When she awoke it was to brilliant sunshine streaming from a blue cloudless sky. Her muscles were stiff and cramped. Paul watched her, smiling. "Feel better?" She sat up and stretched her aching back. "I don't know how I could have slept like that." "If you want the truth," Paul grinned. "I put a sleeping powder in your tea late yesterday afternoon. I figured on something like this." (TO BE CONTINUED)

HERE'S ONE THAT Hudie McClendon was telling me: Down at the Fat Stock Show they had put the Grand Champion Bull on exhibition at 25c per look. This bull was a really fine animal, with a long production record. Well, to the window there came a little fellow and trailing behind him were 16 children. "We'd like to see the bull, but can't you make me a special price because of having so many children?" Do you mean to tell me that they are all your children? "Yes, they are," answered the father. "Well come on in brother! I won't charge you a thing. I just want the bull to see YOU!"

HERE'S AN OLD, old World War poem that Clyde Hutsell gave me. He said he thought that he clipped it from a Silverton paper. The clipping was yellowed with age, but the sentiment is as new as ever, and we need more of it:

YOUR LAD AND MY LAD

Down toward the deep-blue water, marching to the throb of drum, From city street and country lane the lines of khaki come; The rumbling guns, the sturdy tread, are full of grim appeal. While rays of western sunshine flash back from burnished steel. With eager eyes and cheeks aflame the serried ranks advance; And your dear lad, and my dear lad are on their way to France.

A sob clings choking in the throat as file on file sweep by, Between those cheering multitude where the great ships lie; The batteries halt, the columns wheel to clear-toned bugle call, With shoulder squared and faces front they stand a khaki wall, Tears shine on every watcher's cheek love speaks in every glance; For your dear lad, and my dear lad are on their way to France.

Before them through a mist of years in soldiers buff or blue, Brave comrades from a thousand fields watch now in proud review; The names old Flag, the same old Faith—the Freedom of the world.

Spells duty in those flapping folds above long ranks unfurled. Strong are the hearts which bear along Democracy's advance, As your dear lad, and my dear lad, go on their way to France.

The word rings out: a million feet tramp forward on the road, Along the path of sacrifice o'er which their fathers strode, With eager eyes and cheeks aflame with cheers on smiling lips, These fighting men of '17 move onward to their ships, Nor even love may hold them back or halt that stern advance, As your dear lad, and my dear lad, go on their way to France.

Thought for the day:
A man may have a greasy hat and the seat of his pants may be shiny but if his children have their noses flattened against the window pane half an hour before he is due home for supper, you can trust him with anything you have.

A cow—according to the Sulphur Springs News-Telegram—is an angular feminine bovine, with four legs, an alto voice, a well established milk route and a face that inspires confidence.

A cow's husband is a bull. A cow's brat is a calf. Calves are generally used in the manufacture of a chicken salad. When part of a calf gets breaded, it is called a cutlet.

A cow provides vitamins for double chocolate malted milks until she is old enough to enter a can of corn-beef hash.

OUR HALF OF THE BARGAIN

America needs Men . . . Materials . . . Money! And the money must come from you! Every man, woman and child must buy stamps and bonds if we are to keep our half of the bargain with the boys.

Briscoe County is doing her part and more with men! Briscoe County boys have flocked to the colors until more than 4% of our population is in uniform.

Are the rest of us in Briscoe County doing our share? Look at the Bond Meter on the right and see where we stand. Our quota for 1942 is very light for our county — $126,800.

Let's go OVER THE TOP! Let's not have our boys from Briscoe County say that we didn't keep our half of the bargain!

Sentinels of Health
Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Cool and Decorative—Salad-Muffin Luncheon (See Recipes Below)

Spring Luncheons

As spring spreads its fragrance and gayety once more across the days, do your thoughts turn to thoughts of exquisite, gracious luncheons? Yes, to be sure, they do. You get lovely visions of picnics, fare-plate luncheons, crisp green salads, tiny, moist sandwiches, the tinkle of china on cool, crisply laundered cloths, centerpieces of delicate flowers.

But this year's luncheons are different from last year's. The plates are pictures to behold, true, but the menus are kind to purse strings and food shortages.

A bowl of colorful greens, curly endive, crisp lettuce, tossed together with grapefruit and orange sections with red slivers of strawberries are perfect with these muffins and all you would want for luncheon:

- *Molasses Nut Muffins.
(Makes 24 small or 18 large)
3 tablespoons butter
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
1½ cups flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup chopped Brazil nuts
¾ cup milk
¾ cup pure, dark molasses

Cream butter, stir in sugar gradually and cream together. Stir in well-beaten egg and blend. Mix and sift flour with spices, salt, soda and baking powder, then mix in Brazil nuts. Add alternately with milk and molasses to the first mixture. Bake in well-greased muffin pans in moderate (350-degree) oven 25 minutes.

You can have a veritable smorgasbord on your main luncheon plate if you carry out the general idea by serving several different kinds of salads in frilly lettuce cups. Pick out some combinations you like best from these ideas here:

*Chicken Salad.

- (Serves 8)
2 cups diced, cooked chicken
1 cup finely chopped celery
1 cup halved, seeded grapes
¼ cup toasted pecans
¼ cup mayonnaise

Combine all ingredients lightly. Chill, add mayonnaise and toss lightly together.

*Fruit Salad.

- (Serves 8)
4 thick slices grapefruit
4 thick slices oranges
4 slices pineapple
8 whole apricots
1 small package cream cheese
- Pare oranges and grapefruit. Cut into slices. Cut pineapple, oranges and grapefruit slices into halves. Arrange in a fan shape on curly endive or lettuce. Stuff apricots with cream cheese and place at lower edge of the fan.

Lynn Says:

The Score Card: Latest reports reaching me assure us that: we have enough black pepper and most spices for at least two years. Coffee and cocoa supplies are adequate from South America, and tea stocks are still good. Domestic fats and oils will have to replace imported palm and coconut oils used for frying fats, soaps and oleomargarines, and homemakers must conserve all soaps and frying fats carefully.

Tin will be available for canning foods that cannot be preserved in other ways, but you will be wise homemakers if you learn to use dried fruits properly, and can from your own defense gardens this summer. Be kind to your kitchen equipment and gadgets made out of tin, for there will be no more after that is used. Pineapple is still being planted and shipped to the mainland, and no serious shortage is yet noticeable.

This Week's Menu

- Guest Luncheon
Assorted Salad Plate:
*Chicken Salad
*Fruit Salad
*Egg Salad in Tomato Cups
*Molasses-Nut Muffins or
*Cheese Rings
Coffee or Tea
*Recipes Given.

*Egg Salad in Tomato Cups.

- (Serves 4)
4 medium sized tomatoes
1 package cream cheese
1 tablespoon finely chopped green onion
2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper
½ medium sized cucumber, chopped
3 hard cooked eggs, chopped
¼ cup mayonnaise

Wash tomatoes, peel. Slice off top, and scoop out the center. Toss the other ingredients lightly together and fill the tomato cups. Chill well and serve on lettuce.

All three of the salads given can be served on one individual platter. Arrange them attractively, a scoop of the chicken salad, a fan of fruit salad, and then the tomato cups. Your platter is complete for a luncheon and a very pretty sight to behold! A hot muffin to accompany and a fragrant cup of tea or coffee completes the luncheon.

On the other hand, if you prefer salad bowls which the guests will serve themselves, here are ideas:
Greens: chunks of lettuce, watercress, sliced green onions, radishes.

Oranges: Use sections on a bed of curly endive or curly garden lettuce, with raspberries or strawberries for color.

Vegetables: Cooked green beans in lengthwise slices, carrots, raw or cooked, in slivers, cooked limas, chopped ham.

Fruits: Beds of lettuce, lengthwise slices of bananas, berries in season, cheese balls dipped in chopped nuts.

Dressing makes an important addition to salad, and many times this is left to your own preference. For, if you like, have the choice of two permitted for your guests. Save sugar in the little ways, is our motto, so here is one way to do it. This dressing uses molasses for sweetness.

Piquant French Dressing.

- ½ cup salad
¼ cup vinegar
¼ cup chili sauce
¼ cup pure, dark molasses
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon onion, grated

Mix all ingredients together and beat thoroughly.

When you invite your friends over for salad and rolls for these luncheons, this may seem like so little, but it's guaranteed to make a hit if you do the little details up right. Have the salads crisp and cool and well blended. If having rolls, these should be piping hot for contrast. If you don't feel inspired to make rolls, then do other things like getting ready-made rolls and pretty them up:

Toasted Long Rolls: Split, butter and sprinkle with grated cheese. Pop into the oven until cheese melts. Serve hot.

Cheese Rings: Use day-old bread and cut rings with a doughnut cutter. Brush with butter or salad oil, dip in cheese, and bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven until golden brown.

Orange Biscuits: Add grated rind of orange to a baking powder biscuit recipe. Roll and cut. Dip a cube of sugar in orange juice and press into top of each biscuit. Bake in a hot oven 12 to 15 minutes.

Lynn Chambers will be happy to give you advice on your luncheon or salad problems. Write to her at Western Newspaper Union, 210 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your reply.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for April 19

GROWING TENSION WITH FALSE LEADERS

LESSON TEXT—Luke 11:37-48, 52-54.
GOLDEN TEXT—He that is not with me is against me; and he that gathereth not with me scattereth.—Luke 11:23.

Opposition to Christ and to Christian teaching has come down through the centuries practically unchanged. Hence, we find in Christ's dealings with the enemies of His day helpful indication of what may be done in our time.

It is sad to note that the chief opposition came from those who professed to be religious leaders. It is expected that the world, the flesh, and the devil should fight God's truth, but one might expect better of those who profess His name. The difficulty is that there is only profession, with no real life.

I. Hypocrisy Unmasked (vv. 37-44).

The Pharisees professed great interest in the observance of religious laws, but their concern was for the outward appearance, while God judges the heart. First we note a false profession of cleanliness. Christ came to the Pharisees' table with clean hands, but He had not observed all their ceremonial washings. When rebuked He struck home with terrific force at the heart of the whole matter (v. 39); namely, that inward filthiness of heart which often makes folk meticulous about outward cleansing. This leads to a substitution of technical observance of the letter of the law that ignores love and judgment (v. 42), which are so precious to God. There can be a dead, dry, and technical orthodoxy which entirely misses the point.

But worst of all is the covering up of spiritual death (v. 44). Sometimes we speak of those who are "dead and don't know it," and that may actually be true spiritually. There may be death within and yet a brave and sometimes self-deluding outward show of life.

II. Theological Deadness Condemned (vv. 45-52).

The lawyers of that day were those learned in the Mosaic law, hence were really the teachers of theology and ethics. They came under the rebuke of Christ as He pronounced three "woes" upon them.

First, they were guilty of heaping upon others burdensome requirements which they did not themselves keep, and which they did not help the people to keep. There are such teachers today who set up standards they do not themselves observe, a sort of signpost pointing the right way, while they are not themselves going that way. Then there are those who present high ethical standards without the spiritual dynamic needed to live up to them. To tell a man to be good without telling him of the Saviour who can make him good is mockery.

Then, those of Christ's day were condemned for hating God's wideness. They were willing to build sepulchers for the dead prophets (killed by their fathers), but were not willing to hear the living prophets. How true to life that is! The very ones who hate and hinder those who are preaching God's Word, speak and sing smoothly of the faith of our fathers, and claim as their own the witness of a past day.

Christ also pointed out that while professing to interpret the law they obscured its meaning. They threw away the key to knowledge so that neither they nor their people could learn—and yet they continued to teach. Have not the false teachers of our day done likewise? They deny the integrity and authority of the only infallible Word—the Bible; they reject the deity of our Saviour, Christ, and yet talk about being Christians and preachers of the truth. Woe be unto them in the day of God's judgment and wrath!

III. Enmity Intensified (vv. 53, 54).

The scribes and Pharisees had two approaches: they sought vehemently to provoke Him to overstep, and they craftily laid in wait for Him. The writer of these notes has seen both methods at work in our day. Liberals, or modernists as they are called, profess for the most part to be a suave courtesy which makes them speak smoothly and gently about the conservative and orthodox believer or teacher; but if one only has eyes to see, there is often the strong and cruel hand of iron hidden under the velvet glove.

Whatever may be the approach, be assured of this—every effort to reveal false teaching in its true light, or to deal with hypocrisy in spiritual things will bring intensified opposition. Christ took it—we too can take it in His name and for His sake.

Praise the Lord

I will greatly praise the Lord with my mouth; yes, I will praise him among the multitude. For he shall stand at the right hand of the poor, to save him from those who condemn his soul.—Psalm 109:30-31.

Keep Food Values In Vegetables

THE vitality in vegetables—their health-giving cargo of vitamins and minerals—is retained or lost through cooking methods. The following simple rules for cooking by boiling will preserve a maximum of their food values:

1. Cook vegetable in small amount of water; a general rule is 1/2 inch. Too much water dissolves out nutrients.
2. Use utensil with tight-fitting lid to keep steam inside; it shortens cooking time, prevents evaporation of water.
3. Start vegetables in boiling water; resume boiling quickly, then lower flame. The simmer unit of top gas burner is ideal for this.
4. Cook amount needed for the meal. Do not peel, dice or shred vegetable too long before cooking, and never soak; exposure to air and soaking in water reduces vitamin content.
5. Cook vegetable only until "tender crisp." And do not reheat quantity for another meal. Utilize in salad instead. Reheating adds up to over-cooking.
6. Avoid stirring; it lets in air; follow directions above, and little stirring is necessary.
7. Never use soda; it destroys vitamins. Cooking time and using less water is better preserved by shorter cooking time and using less water.
8. Cook what vegetables you can in the skin, many minerals being directly under it; otherwise peel thinly.
9. Use cooking water in vegetable or tomato juice cooking or to enrich soups, sauces, gravies.
10. Serve vegetables immediately.
