Der fewer Der Fuehlers der better.

IF IT WASN'T for the kids, there wouldn't be much to laugh about these days, but war or no war, we need a few laughs. Any way here's one that should go down in history as the height of ghost stories. The two six-year-olds down at Charley Herndon's were scaring each other with big ghost stories. It was Annette's turn and she was just winding up a big'un. She ended with "And the ghost ate up God and then he ate up Jesus." Her mother said, "Annette, you mustn't say things like that—it's sacrilegious." "Well, the ghost ate up Sacreligious too" ended the ghost story.

AND SPEAKING OF kids—we are going to have a baby at our house. That's right. Barb's niece and her husband and baby are due to stop in with us Thursday. He is on his way back to camp and Eleanor and the baby will visit for awhile. Lewis, by the way, is Uncle Sam's No. 1 private. In fact, he and Uncle had quite a time getting their finances all in line. Lewis had a pretty good job when he went in and had never been used to cutting too many financial corners. When his first pay day came and all the deductions and charges made, he owed them eight bucks. He should be awarded the Distinguished Medal of the Art of the Charge Account, methinks.

COLONEL BROWN WENT to Lubbock Wednesday to take his physical exam. I was asking him where Marcella was going to live, and various other pertinent, but none-of-my-business questions & I ventured the remark that $80 a month wasn't a whole lot of money for a wife and baby to live on. Colonel has it figured out that they'll get by all right. He thinks it will take about $50 for living expenses and $30 F. O. B. I asked him what the F. O. B. meant, and he told me—confidentially, of course—"It means For Old Brown" — Not bad, Brown, Not bad."

I COULD HAVE a story this week telling of the casualties, patrol action, and strategic withdrawals on the Home Front, but I won't. The less said about some happenings that were a distinct disgrace to the community and everyone concerned, the better."

INVASION OF EUROPE seems to be certain to come within the next few days or weeks. Or so say the commentators and experts in this thing called war. The actual assault on the continent is sure to be a bloody and a terrible thing. We are told to expect that the fighting will be the deadliest in all the history of the world.

YET, TOO MANY of us are taking it with that cocksure attitude that lost us our fleet in the Pacific—the attitude of "What the H—, we'll win it in a walk." We are looking forward to it now much as we used to look forward to a World Series ball game—we are already thinking of the glory of announcing the victory.

SOME TOWNS ARE planning that every whistle in town will be tied down as soon as the news of the invasion is flashed to America. Folks are looking forward to a celebration, one would think, from the announcements being made today in our papers.

SOME OF OUR news commentators seem to think that we still need our morale built up. What we need here at home is to have the air let out of a few loud talking radio and newspaper experts.

DO YOU KNOW—bets are being made now on how far we will crash inland the opening smash. How many days it will take to get Paris, and a jillion other foolish bets that go with a football game—not with an undertaking of this serious nature.

TIE THE WHISTLES down and let 'em roar—and know in the meantime that two million American mothers' hearts will be as stones in their breasts because every minute they will be knowing that their son is in the midst of his most terrible ordeal.

WE DON'T NEED the fanfare nor the fireworks. We need some straight, quiet thinking, and some prayers for the judgment of our leaders. By our very thoughts we can impart comfort and courage to the men doing the fighting. Likewise, by our thoughtless, and loose talk, we can hinder them.

WE ARE STILL wanting those pictures of the men in service. We have enough for this week and next. It costs $1.25 to have the cut made. I believe that the pictures cause folks more satisfaction than any number of carefully worded stories. Don't let anyone kid you—the boys too, like those pictures in uniform. They are proud of that uniform and with good reason. I know of no better place to go on dress parade than on the front page of the Briscoe County News. The engravings, incidentally, are YOURS. We do want to keep them for you until after we use them again in a Victory Paper after the war.

I'M GOING TO write a blanket letter one of these days to every man I know who's in the service. I'll really give you some stuff. I just haven't wound it up yet in my mind. Chief among the things I'll say though will be a special, personal request, demand, or what have you for letters. If you guys in there, could see how every letter is read and discussed here at

Purr-r-r-s just like Daddy's Car

A sweet-running motor doesn't just happen, especially in a car that is three or more years old. It is the result of the owner's good driving habits, of regular service, and the use of a quality lubricant.

These facts are so clear, so well understood by most motorists, that it is practically a proverb that "good oil is cheaper than repairs." Today, with both practical and patriotic reasons for prolonging the life of every automobile, no sane car owner will risk using anything but high quality motor oil.

That is why his most frequent question is: How can I judge quality? How can I be sure? The answer is easy: Phillips tells you simply and frankly that if you want our best oil, we specify that Phillips 66 Motor Oil is our finest quality... the highest grade and greatest value... among all the oils we offer to average motorists!

These are days when cars must last. Hence experts now recommend changing oil every two months. Do the wise thing, do the safe thing, by asking for Phillips 66 Motor Oil when draining winter-worn lubricant or making regular changes.

D. H. YANCY died this week in action against the Japanese. He died that the folks in Briscoe County could keep on enjoying life. What are we going to do about it—us folks here. Are we going ahead fighting the war in our spare time, buying bonds with our spare change?

I DIDN'T KNOW D. H. Yancy personally, but I know his Dad. That is enough to warrant me to say that D. H. was one of our finest young men.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

The inclination of our people to square up their old instalment debts and to pay as they go is a significant change in human affairs. Some of the best authorities seem to think that a great many people with good incomes are "feathering their nests" because of the uncertainties of the future.

On the other hand there is a theory that many individuals are building up large savings during war time and that when peace arrives they will play safe and keep most of their cash but use the advantage of the old-time system of instalment credit to buy automobiles, household furniture, electrical devices and new houses.

Entirely reliable figures show that the consumer credit of the American nation dropped from $9,499,000,000 at the end of 1941 to $4,674,000,000 at the present time a decline of 51 per cent. At the end of 1941 the instalment credit in the country was $5,921,000,000 and that instalment debt has now been reduced to $1,785,000,000.

BOB HILL, Owner

S. L. GRAVES C. M. 2-c writes "My Dear Roy, I am asking you to send me the paper to my new address. I had you send it to my wife but she is in Childress and I am up here in the hospital."

I am feeling some better this morning.

How is everything in Silverton? I hope fine. I will close. Hoping to get the Briscoe County News soon."

JACK LOUDERMILK, Cox, says "Just a few lines Roy to let you know my change in address. I wrote a couple letters but guess you didn't get them. (We didn't.)"

I got a paper tonight, that is some idea about the tall tales contest, if it wasn't so late I might try it myself. I have heard some tall tales in the navy and some of them are true. I wish you could hear some of these bull sessions that we have around here, you would really need boots.

Well Roy, I don't know anything that you would care about so I will shove off for now."

PFC. HENRY DAVULT writes to his sister Mrs. J. J. Satterfield from England. "Dear Sis: Received your letter to-day and was glad to hear from you all."

This leave me O. K. Sure happy to know everyone at home is well. Yes, I got the picture of the kids you sent to me they were sure good. They have grown so much.

I get the paper about once a month. Although it does take longer sometime's to get here. Boy I get a kick out of reading it and the other guys read the paper as much as I do. Yes, every time they read it, they look to see if my name is in it, and boy when they read those letters that I wrote home I mean they get a kick out of it.

I hope you'll excuse this writing I am using one of these Irish fountain pens.

You talk about these Irish girls. Well I guess they are pretty nice in a way. We all thought they were cold natured. Why? Well all the panties we see hanging on the clothes lines through the country look like diving suits. But maybe we have the wrong idea. They may not be cold natured.

I shouldn't talk about the Irish girls like that, but I had to write something and news is scarce around here.

The days are getting long now it is almost 11:00 P. M. and it isn't dark yet. They say in the summer time here, that there is about twenty days of daylight.

Well there goes the bugle. 11:00 P. M., so I had better close. I have to get up early in the morning.

Tell everyone hello for me. I must close and crowd in this Irish bed. Oh Boy! it's swell. Its one of these late models, the Irish style, all oat straw."

Soldier Writes of Abbey Raid

A stirring account of the Allied bombing of the Benedictine Monastery of Monte Cassino on Abbey Hill and the fight for Cassino has been received by the Star-Telegram from Tech. Walter R. Smock of Hale Center, who is serving with an engineer mine clearance company.

"You read about it in the newspapers. I had the opportunity to see it. Let me tell you the eye-witness story", writes Smock.

"Only a few miles ahead of us is Abbey Hill. In the crystal clear mountain air the high walls of the monastery stand out. During all the years the abbey stood as the symbol of faith not only to the pleasant valleys around it but to millions throughout the civilized world. Almost 1,600 years of history, art, and literary treasures lay behind its massive 10-foot-thick walls.

"Loved and respected by the Italian population, it finally became a link in the German defense lines. Its solid stone walls were attractive as a fortress. The solid rock of the hill made ideal pill boxes. What value is history or tradition to the "master race" with war as its god? The old abbey became a valuable outpost, a solid fortress," he relates.

Smock explains how the Allied advance was delayed for many days by the Germans entrenched in the monastery and how radio messages and thousands of circulars reached the Germans asking that they evacuate the abbey and declare it free of all military concentrations that it might be spared. When the zero hour set for the German answer by the Allies came with no response, wave after wave of Flying Fortresses came over the mountains.

"Regardless of religious faith, everyone had two thoughts in mind—it had to be done and the realization of such a heavy loss to the civilized world. Catholic and Protestant alike felt the same. That feeling of loss gripped us all. Yet on Abbey Hill lay the bodies of many American boys. The price had been too high.

"As the first load of bombs landed on the abbey, the silence of all was profound. Then, as the smoke and wreckage soared hundreds of feet in the air, the tension seemed to break in one great burst of relief. Cheers rang up and down the valley from the throats of thousands of men. Tears streamed down the faces of the natives."
