FmHA Moves To Speed Up Loan Process

"Texas farmers applying for assistance from Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) will experience a breath of fresh air this year," George Ellis, FmHA Texas State Director said today.

"I have today taken action to delegate the full loan approval authority allowed under the Federal regulations to FmHA County Offices in Texas," Ellis said.

"As this new year begins, I feel this will be a real help to our farm customers, and I intend to pursue this type of change in the future, wherever I can," said Ellis.

FmHA County Supervisors were previously subject to a complicated system of reviews and re-views of loan applications in order to approve an FmHA Loan. This system was instituted several years ago in order to insure fewer mistakes and more uniformity from County to County.

"I still intend to hold FmHA Supervisors to the same high standards as in the past, however, I am also dedicated to streamlining the process so that our farm customers will have funds available to them at the time they are needed," said Ellis. Farmers Home Administration, as an Equal Opportunity Lender, makes loans or grants to individuals or groups and guarantees to approved lenders without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin,

THREE WAY — The entry numbers weren't excessive, but the quality high and the competition was stiff as the Threeway School community held its annual stock show last Saturday (Jan. 22).

More than 125 persons enjoyed a traditional barbecue lunch, sponsored by the Three Way FmHA chapter between shows.

The big winner of the day was 18-year-old senior Melissa Bennett, who had the grand champions in both the lamb and swine divisions. The granddaughter of Jack and Annalee Lane, Melissa also had the reserve grand champion lamb and was the reserve champion in the lamb showmanship contest.

Another multiple winner was Russell Pollard, son of Janice and Terry Pollard. The 14-year-old 8th grader had the reserve grand champion steer and the reserve grand champion swine.

Cody Wilson, the son of Rod and Jeri Wilson, won the steer show. A 14-year-old 8th grader, Cody was also the reserve champion steer showman.

Other showmanship winners were Josh Tooley, 13-year-old son of Howard and Jan Tooley, in the steers; Rebecca Robertson, 12-year-old daughter of Darwin and Mary Ellen Robertson, in the lambs; and Kyle Kindel, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kindel, in the swine. Kasey Wright, son of Murray and Jo Ann Wright, was the reserve champion swine showman.

The steer show saw Wilson with a pair of breed champions; in the English and the American breeds. Also in the champion drive was Pollard, with the champion Cross.

Breed champions in the champion drive for lambs included Bennett with the champion Finewool, Finewool Cross, and Hampshire; and Josh Tooley with the champion Southdown and champion Suffolk.

Dirk Aaron, Extension Agent for Terry County, judged the steer show, while Wesley Fraze of the Texas Tech Livestock Judging Team judged the lamb show. Judging the swine show was Jake Coleman, ag science teacher at Meadow High School.

Easements May Help FmHA Borrowers Restructure Debts

"Farmers with loans from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) may be able to put flood-damaged land under conservation easements in exchange for a reduction in their debt," George Ellis, FmHA State Director, said today.

Use of the easements is not limited to flood areas, but it may be particularly helpful in such areas.

"Eligible lands may include wetlands, marginal farmland, highly erodible land, woodland, wildlife areas, and several other," Ellis said. "In certain areas, there may be instances where farmland was damaged so severely by the recent flooding that restoring it may cost more than its agricultural value."

"In those cases, a conservation easement may be a solution. Under this program, a voluntary easement can be placed on a portion of the land in return for a reduction in the amount owed to FmHA."

Ellis said the easements are for 50 years or more and can help rebuild soil conditions and well as encourage development of wildlife habitat.

"Not only can FmHA farm borrowers take marginal acreage out of production in this way, they also can materially reduce their farm operating cost," Ellis said.

Farmers who think they may be eligible should contact their local FmHA county office for further information.

ON THE DRIVE — Lady Mule Brenna Wheeler works against Friona's Julie Goddard during District 2-3A action last week. The Lady Mules rebounded from a loss to Friona to beat Dimmitt Tuesday night on the road and maintained their lead in the district race.

DIMMITT — Muleshoe's Lady Mules shut down the Dimmitt offense in the fourth period and beat the Bobbies 57-45 to hold the lead in the District 2-3A race at the half-way point.

Coupled with Littlefield's 57-54 win over Tulia, the Lady Mules have a one-game lead over a trio of teams in the league. Littlefield, Tulia and Friona (a 48-23 winner over Floydada Tuesday) are all 3-2, while Dimmitt fell to 2-3.

Muleshoe led the Bobbies 20-15 after one period and 31-27 at the half. Dimmitt cut the margin to 40-34 in the third period, but a late spurt by the Lady Mules sent them into the fourth period with a 46-37 advantage.

The Bobbies, the defending 3A state champions, scored just two field goals over the final DIMMITT — Muleshoe got off to a poor start and never recovered, falling 72-29 to the Dimmitt Bobcats here Tuesday in District 2-3A action.

The Mules scored just two points in the opening period, finding themselves down 15-2. By halftime it was 28-13 and Muleshoe played catch-up the rest of the way.

Derrick Thomas scored 13 points and Joe Lara added 12 for the Bobcats, who improved to 12-11 overall and 4-1 in the district.

Mark Miller had 11 and Gage Angeley 8 for the Mules, who fell to 5-16 and 1-4.

Muleshoe got its first District 2-3A victory of the season last Friday, beating Friona 66-52 at the MHS Gym.

Jimmy Gauna scored 19 points to pace the Mules, who improved to 5-15 overall and 1-3 in the district. Gauna hit 11 of 14 free throws in the contest.

Chad Montgomery added 13 and Mark Miller 11 for the Mules, who broke the game open in the second half.

eight minutes. "This win was definitely good for us," Muleshoe coach Jim Gruhlkey told the Amarillo Daily News. "I don't know how long it has been since we've beaten them on the road. I don't care if we had beat them on a behind-our-head half-court shot at the buzzer. After we got so close last year, this was really big to beat them this time."

Dimmitt played without leading scorer and rebounder Kim Thomas, who injured an ankle during pre-game warm-ups.

Misty Davenport led the Lady Mules with 18 points, while Kristin Holmans finished with 17. Allyson Field had 10.

Katrina Acker led the Bobbies with 12 points and Kara Josselet added 11.

The Friona Squaws threw a wrench into Muleshoe's lead in the District 2-3A race with a 49-42 victory over the Lady Mules last Friday (Jan. 21) at the MHS gym.

The loss dropped the Lady Mules into a tie for first place in the district with Tulia, both at 3-1. Friona improved to 2-2 and moved into a tie for third place with Littlefield and Dimmitt.

Before a highly vocal, near capacity crowd at the MHS Gym, the Squaws capitalized on poor Lady Mule shooting in the first two periods to build a 21-12 halftime lead.

Friona extended that margin to as much as 15 points, 27-12, with 6:00 left in the third period. But the Lady Mules weren't done.

The Lady Mules upped their defensive pressure all over the floor, forcing Friona turnovers.

Muleshoe's Brenna Wheeler downed a three-pointer off an inbounds play with :06 left in the third to cut Friona's margin to 32-28.

Donna Pucket hit an eight-footer and Misty Davenport hit back-to-back buckets off the fast break to open the final period and put the Lady Mules up 34-32.

The game was tied at 34, 36 and 38, before Downey's trey lifted the Squaws to a 41-38 margin with 4:10 to play. She fouled out just seconds later, but Friona never trailed again.

The Lady Mules will start the second half of the district season Friday when they travel to Tulia. They remain on the road next Tuesday (Feb. 1) at Floydada, then return home Feb. 4 to host Littlefield.

In junior varsity action, the JV Squaws hit a bucket with eight seconds to play to take a 24-23 win over the JV Lady Mules.

Jody Foster led Muleshoe, now 10-7, with 8 points, while Michelle Williams and Lauri Puckett had 4 each. Rounding out the scoring were Julie Gilleland, Crista Trussell and Keetha Glover with 2 each and Tiffany Copley with 1.

Jazz Smithsonian Premieres on American Public Radio

Jazz — that uniquely American art form — has the ability to swing any audience and shake the house almost anywhere around the globe. Although most of its original practitioners have given their last encores, their music can be heard again on Jazz Smithsonian, the new performance series created by Radio Smithsonian for American Public Radio (APR), with the legendary jazz singer Lena Horne as host. Premiering in January 1994, the series launches a 52-week season of jazz.

What makes this series so distinctive is that it features the music of the acclaimed Smithsonian Jazz Masterworks Orchestra, whose mission is to bring "living sound" to the music of the 1920s, 30s, 40s, and 50s that is too often heard today only on old, technically flawed recordings. The orchestra was created in 1991 with a congressional appropriation in recognition of the importance of jazz, to preserve the music before it was lost forever. Founded by Smithsonian curator John Edward Hasse, who is also its executive director, the orchestra is the only jazz orchestra resident in a museum, and builds on a 20-year record of Smithsonian efforts in the field of jazz.

Both musical directors feel the composers, arrangers, and original musicians who played this music were geniuses. One of them is the celebrated jazz singer Lena Horne, host of Jazz Smithsonian. Throughout the series, she provides her own anecdotal comments and shares insights about the music and musicians with whom she performed. The program will be broadcast Saturdays at 9:00 p.m. on KENW/KMTH-FM.

Legal Matters

By Texas Attorney General Dan Morales

Raffles Without Hassles

Texas depends on more than 25,000 charities to provide needed funds for religious, educational, and public welfare projects. However, it was only recently that the Charitable Raffle Enabling Act legalized raffles. The law is intended to prevent fraudulent fund-raising activities while allowing legitimate charities to conduct raffles legally.

Who Can Hold A Raffle?

Only qualified organizations may hold raffles, including:

- Nonprofit organizations that have existed in Texas for at least three years, and are exempt from federal income tax;
- Religious organizations that have existed in Texas for at least 10 years;
- Volunteer emergency medical or fire departments.

How Many Raffles Can Be Held?

If your group is a qualified organization, it may hold two raffles per year, although only one at a time.

What Prizes May Be Offered?

Your organization may not offer money as a prize. It may offer a prize worth more than $25,000, but only if it has not paid anything to acquire the prize. For example, a car dealership may donate an automobile with a retail value of $30,000 for auction. But the organization may not buy the car for a discounted price, and then raffle it off.

Also, the organization must have each raffle prize in its possession, or it must post a bond for the full value of the prize with the local county clerk.

Also, the organization must have each raffle prize in its possession, or it must post a bond for the full value of the prize with the local county clerk.

Key Points To Remember

- Only members of your organization may sell raffle tickets. The raffle may not be advertised statewide or through paid advertising.
- No one may be paid for organizing or conducting a raffle or for selling tickets.
- All raffle proceeds must be spent for charitable purposes.
- Each raffle ticket must state the name and address of the organization holding the raffle, as well as the name of an officer of the organization. The ticket also must list the price and a general description of each prize valued more than $10.

It's The Law

Under state law, an unauthorized raffle is considered gambling. Conducting an unauthorized raffle constitutes a third degree felony, which carries a maximum punishment of 10 years in the state penitentiary and a $10,000 fine.

Participating in an unauthorized raffle is a Class C misdemeanor, which carries a fine up to $500. A county or district attorney, or the Attorney General, may bring action in a state court to stop an unauthorized raffle or other violations of the Charitable Raffle Enabling Act.

What To Do?

The language of this law is very technical. If you are considering holding a raffle to benefit an organization, you should read the act or consult your attorney.

For more information about charitable raffles, please call our toll-free hot line at 800-621-0508.

Healthy Eating

By Harold Ligon, M.D.

Many experts think the smart diet is one designed to help prevent cancer, containing foods converted by the body into helpful enzymes.

Harmful enzymes are created by many foods and can cause damage to the body's cells.

Good enzymes offset this effect. A source of good enzymes is broccoli, bok choy, brussels sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, collards, kale, radishes and turnips.

Lifelong Cattleman Still Makes Sales

George Mitchell, a cattleman nearly all of his life, has been a cattle buyer for over thirty years. At the spry age of eighty, he is still found in Tulia on Mondays, Clovis on Wednesdays, Lubbock on Thursdays and Muleshoe on Saturdays buying cattle at the at the same time, could get complicated at times. But when it came to payment time, he carried the farms' checks, and that made it easier.

Mitchell and his wife, Clydetta, have lived in the Clovis area all their lives, moving to Muleshoe in 1975. They both graduated from House High School, and they have been married for 59 years.

Other than working with cattle, Mitchell has spent a lot of his time in church work. They belong to the Methodist Church in Muleshoe, and he has been a trustee going on twelve years.

They have two sons, Bill of Santa Rosa and Jim of Memphis, Texas, and two daughters, Marilyn Wilson and Helen Head, both of Muleshoe. Both of their sons have followed in his footsteps, and are in the cattle business. He says that even though both daughters are not in the cattle business, they are both devoted to their work. They have been associates with Radio Shack for many years.

Mitchell turned eighty years old on January 21, 1994. A celebration is planned on Saturday, January 30 at the United Methodist Church fellowship hall, in Muleshoe from 2:30-4:00 p.m. in honor of his birthday.

Mitchell says he's always been around cattle, and he can't remember when he didn't know anything about them. "You've got to be able to judge the weight and quality right off, and watch for cripples at a sale in order to be a good buyer" he says. He remembers lots of times that yearlings will come through the ring, and you know right off, if his tail is dragging the ground, that he has got to be a two year old, and he just isn't going to grow. Buying as much as $40,000 to $50,000 worth of cattle for one buyer at a sale, he says that buying for various people Bomer Attends National Young Leaders Conference In Wash.

Miss Emily Bomer of Muleshoe has been selected to attend the National Young Leaders Conference from January 25 to 30, 1994 in Washington, D.C. The National Young Leaders Conference is a unique leadership development program for outstanding high school students who have demonstrated leadership potential and scholastic merit. Emily, a junior at Muleshoe High School, will be among 350 students attending the conference from across America.

The theme of the National Young Leaders Conference is The Leaders of Tomorrow Meeting the Leaders of Today. Throughout the six-day conference, Emily will interact with key leaders and newsmakers from the three branches of government, the media and the diplomatic corps.

Highlights of the program include welcoming remarks from a member of Congress on the Floor of the House of Representatives and a panel discussion with prominent journalists at the National Press Club. Students will visit foreign embassies and receive policy briefings from senior government officials. Emily may also meet with Senator Phil Gramm, Senator Kay Bailey Hutchison and Representative Larry Combest or designated members of their staffs to discuss important issues facing Muleshoe and the nation.

To complement these special meetings and briefings, Emily will participate in a number of leadership skillbuilding activities. In one activity, Foreign Policy and the President, students role-play the President and members of the Cabinet who must respond to an interational crisis in the Balkans. Culminating the conference is the Mock Congress on National Service, in which students assume the roles of United States Representatives by debating, amending and voting on proposed service legislation.

The National Young Leaders Conference is sponsored by the Congressional Youth Leadership Council, a non-profit, nonpartisan educational organization. Founded in 1985, the council is committed to "Fostering and inspiring young people to achieve their full leadership potential." Over 300 Members of the United States Congress join this commitment as members of the Council's Honorary Congressional Board of Advisors. Each year, more than 7,000 outstanding youth nationwide participate in one of 20 sessions of the National Young Leaders Conference.

"The conference provides the opportunity for students, like Emily, to distinguish themselves as tomorrow's leaders," said John Hines, Council Executive Director. "Students not only gain knowledge and experience in the nation's capital, they leave with a sense of accomplishment and an increased ability to face the challenges of the future."

Emily, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bomer of Muleshoe, is presently on the cheerleading squad, proudly serving as the mascot. She also is a member of the Spirit Club, a member of Student Council for the past two years, a Mighty M Band member for the past three years, HERO member for one year, and basketball for one year. Emily is an active member of the First United Methodist Church. She serves as the Chairman for the worship committee for the First United Methodist Youth, a member of the youth choir, and the Spirit Wind Choir for the past four years, which tours for two weeks during June.

Emily would like to show her appreciation to the Muleshoe Kiwanis Club and the Muleshoe Rotary Club for their sponsorships which is helping her to attend the National Youth Leadership Conference.

Money Talk

By Charles B. Carlson

Expect to see a kinder, gentler Wall Street, judging from comments at the annual Securities Industry Association conference.

Brokers hope to upgrade their image, plan to implement a variety of policies to rid the industry of "rogue" brokers.

The SIA and member firms plan to overhaul business' U-4 and U-5 forms--essentially permanent records of complaints and termination kept on every broker. The moves would call for greater disclosure on the statements.

One reason for increased self-policing is that the brokerage industry fears if it doesn't do a better job regulators will.

In Fashion

Say good-bye to the blues of the coldest month with outfits in shades of basic colors. Dress yourself with sunshine in layers of lemon hues and warm mustardy shades. Warmth seems to be the feeling when shades of magenta, mauve and pink are combined.

Another interesting combination is basic shades of blue. You can perform magic with the many shades of red as well as a range of soft purples with a deep purple accent.

A Disasterous Way To Combat For Emergencies

By Congressman Larry Combest

On the Southern California earthquake alone, the federal government expects to spend at least $1 billion for repairs and relief. The reality of federal budgeting is that while no one can predict the California fires and earthquakes, hurricanes Andrew and Hugo, and Midwest floods for the coming year, it is clear that Congress never budgets enough money for natural disasters. Yet, the disasters happen. Although it has a $250 million budget, each year FEMA (the Federal Emergency Management Agency) has to ask Congress for approximately $1 billion in extra emergency funds.

The real trouble is that when funding is designated as an emergency, then Congress is not required to offset the extra spending by making budget cuts elsewhere. The result is hundreds of millions of dollars added to the national debt. In fact, the 1990 Budget Deal (which I voted against) actually gives Congress the incentive to "low-ball" FEMA's budget. Overspenders in Congress plan to use every bit of their budget for the Veteran's Administration and Housing and Urban Development Agency appropriation that is also intended for funding FEMA. Then, when the inevitable happens, Congress rushes to fund FEMA on an emergency spending basis that adds directly to the year's deficit and the total debt. During the Bush Administration, those emergency spending bills averaged five a year.

One possible solution to the inevitable emergency spending needs might be to require the federal agencies that help provide housing, small business assistance and health services to set aside at least one percent of their budget into a relief fund. Most notably during last year's northeast snowstorms, federal taxpayers provided the full $150 million requested for snow removal. Actually, the snow melted by itself in a few days, but the states kept the $150 million. FEMA was in effect, literally used as a real political "slush" fund.

Taxpayers deserve better. Disaster victims deserve to be counted in planning for federal assistance in an emergency.

American Know How Meets Russian Farmers

A cooperative effort between state Farm Bureaus and Russian farmers is breathing new life into an agricultural system that is ailing after decades of Communism and the downfall of the Soviet Union.

Agricultural exchanges between the Texas Farm Bureau and its Russian counterpart, Akkor, are allowing Russian farmers to observe American farming practices and adapt them to their country's needs. The exchanges are funded by an American coalition called the Citizens Network, which was created to respond to the historic events taking place in the former USSR.

Steve Cochran, Texas Farm Bureau field services director, recently returned from a two week exchange in Krasnodar, a state in the southern part of the former USSR near the Black Sea, where he observed Russian farmers and their way of life.

The exchange started, Cochran said, when seven state Farm Bureaus, including Texas, "adopted" seven Russian states. Their intent was to help the Russians develop a new internal agricultural structure, replacing the state-run farming system utilized before the Soviet Union dissolved.

Cochran said that Akkor is similar in structure to the American Farm Bureau Federation.

"When Gorbachev came into power," he said, "he sent some people over to study the American Farm Bureau Akkor is structured just like we are."

The Citizens Network and 30 American agribusinesses have raised $200 million to fund the exchange. The program will assist the Russians in the development of a democratic and market-based agricultural economy, while exhibiting to them the creativity, technology and capital resources of American enterprises and agribusinesses.

The United States can benefit from the exchanges, too. Trade and investment links, formed through American ties to Russia's emerging economy, will benefit American business and workers.

Major problems exist

The former Soviet government rarely updated farming technologies. Cochran reported that major Russian farming problems stem from inadequate equipment and poorly conditioned soil.

"With their farming equipment," he said, "it's like going back to the 1930s and 1940s in the U.S. For years the Russian government took every bit of capital they had and put it into defense, and it shows."

Other problems stem from poor land management practices. The farmers Cochran visited with put no organic matter back into the soil, which he described as, "five to six feet of the richest, blackest dirt you've ever seen. Unfortunately, it's gotten to the point where they have to farm it wet, because when it's dry, it's like a brick."

Limited lines of communication throughout the agricultural community keep up-to date agricultural knowledge from reaching farmers. Extension services, like those found in the United States, are nonexistent in Russia, in spite of the country having top-notch agricultural schools.

Availability of electricity is also a major problem for farmers, as there are only main lines running from town to town. Many farmers live in town and commute to their farms.

"Unless you're on one of those main electric lines with your farm or the government built a line straight to a collective farm," Cochran said, "you're out of luck."

Texas visits planned

Eight Russians will visit Texas in pairs during 1994, with some scheduled to explore all facets of farm cooperatives. During their stay, one pair of farmers will stop at the Van Zandt County Farm Bureau store in northeast Texas, as well as at the denim mill in Lubbock.

They will also visit the Rural Electrification Administration (REA) office in Dickens County to examine the benefits REA programs have provided for rural Texans.

Other Russian exchanges will examine the banking industry; the insurance system and how it pertains to crop, automobile and life coverage; and computer technology for crop management.

While in Russia, visiting Texas farmers and ranchers will attempt to reinforce the farm organization already established. They will also advise Russians on how to set up cooperative programs that will help Russian farmers improve the marketing and production of their crops.

Knox county farmer Larry Smith will visit Krasnodar for a month in mid-February to assist the farmers in their restructuring process. Look for details in a future issue of Texas Agriculture.

Cochran believes that, with the help of American institutions like the Farm Bureau, the Russian people can prosper and continue to move toward a more democratic system of government. He also believes that farming techniques in the country can be brought into present day technology in five to ten years.

RIBBON CUTTING—Members of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce look on as the ribbon is cut to welcome Kay Wiseman, the new owner of the H & R Block Tax Office at 224 West 2nd Street in Muleshoe. A "first dollar of profit" was also presented to Mrs. Wiseman in appreciation of the business. Mrs. Wiseman opened her doors for business on January 3, 1994.

Clovis Holds Town Meeting Monday

A meeting was held in Clovis, N.M. on Monday concerning a 25 cent sales tax increase. The city election is scheduled to be held on March 1.

Residents were asked their views on how the tax should be spent.

According to new proposals, a new police station and two new fire substations within the city are on the agenda, along with several recreation improvements.

Only two people out of approximately forty attending the meeting voiced their opinions. Those participants were in no way involved with any of the new projects, and they voted against the proposals.

One of the Clovis residents, Charles Ferguson, who voiced his opinion against the proposal, said that the city should think about saving on wasted money to pay for the projects. He proposed the wasteful use of ballpark lighting and using sprinklers, even when it was raining, as two areas where the city could cut down on their wasteful spending.
