Emergency Grain Storage Plans May be Worked Out

War Assets Administration today placed an official endorsement on plans to release unused portions of public airports for emergency grain storage and prepared to launch, through its Grand Prairie regional office, a field survey to determine additional surplus government buildings for leasing by grain men.

Duncan D. Myers, regional office executive in charge of the agency's storage program, announced he will visit two West Texas centers of the grain area next week. He said he will make inspection tours of the South Plains Air Field near Lubbock and the Pantex Ordnance Works near Amarillo to ascertain the condition of the government facilities for both long and short period storage.

Myers, who will be in Lubbock Thursday and Amarillo Friday, said he planned conferences with warehousemen, elevator men, growers and others to explain leasing arrangements at available sites in the areas.

He said the WAA will give blanket approval for the release of all available buildings still under the agency's jurisdiction. In the case of property, such as air fields, which have been conveyed by WAA to cities, counties or other owners under the provisions of Public Law 289, it will be necessary for the present owner to receive the concurrence of the Civil Aeronautics Administration before the release can be obtained so as not to interrupt operation of the airport, it was explained.

By this method major portions of the Childress Army Air Field, recently transferred to the City of Childress, already have been approved for grain storage leasing. Several other cities, Myers said, have expressed a willingness to provide airport buildings not now in use.

The regional WAA office is co-operating with Congressman. Mahon, head of a congressional committee seeking solution to the storage crisis, and with the agricultural extension service in allocating space for harvested and anticipated heavy small grain crops. Reports received this week from a grain belt area which includes Oklahoma and New Mexico as well as Texas indicate widely varying needs among counties of the area.

Some counties, in the heart of the harvest area, report no immediate shortage of storage space while others, even where crops like wheat and sorghum have suffered badly from drought, report unprecedented storage problem.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Strickland and children of Crosbyton, visited his mother, Mrs. C. M. Strickland Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Billingsley and Bo, spent the week end in Lubbock with relatives. Bo remained for a longer visit.

Reports from various parts of the county indicated that rain was received. Some reports as little as one-quarter while others received as much as an inch. Silvertown received one inch according to the Bomar One-Stop Station gauge.

Reports from around South Plains are that they almost had a cloud burst early Tuesday evening, and some hail damage was also received.

Where rains measured as much as a half an inch, benefit to crops is expected. Wheat, already sowed also will be helped, and land not yet sown, will be in good shape for seeding.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Happenings that affect the dinner pails, dividend checks and tax bills of every individual national and international problems inseparable from local welfare.

The American people, by and large, are wary of spy scares. For years, a great deal of fun has been poked at the notion that "Moscow gold" streamed into this country by devious routes to finance Soviet agents and their American aides. Then, during the war, we developed a warm admiration for the Russians' magnificent defense of their homeland, and most of us felt that in the postwar era the great communist power and the great capitalist power would live together on a basis of friendly frankness and mutual resolve to put the world back on its feet.

A good deal of water has gone over the dam since then. And the current Congressional investigation into spying and allied activities—even though many of the accusations may be exaggerated, and some of them may be completely unfounded—indicates that the communist underground in the United States has been far more extensive, and has reached into far more places, than anyone believed. As Life stated it, "Some of the details of the underground were obscured by conflicting testimony, but the general pattern was clear and damning."

The list of those who have been accused of either being communists, fellow travelers, or dupes, is a long one. It includes an assistant to President Roosevelt, an official of standing in the State Department, a man who held an important war position in the Commerce Department, and others whose work gave them a knowledge of highly confidential information. The principle witness—a woman who testified she had acted as a sort of coordinator of information on behalf of a Russian agent with whom she was in love—said she sometimes obtained so much information that it was necessary to photograph it on microfilm to lessen the physical bulk. The Russians in charge of espionage work—and this seems to have involved practically every employe and representative of the Soviet government—didn't miss a single bet if they could help it.

From the record as so far written, it does not appear that anything so crass as bribery with money was used to any great extent. If the evidence is to be believed, even in part, some of the informants were stirred by idealistic considerations—a feeling that Communism was the only road to justice and peace. It will be remembered that during the thirties Stalin officially dissolved the Comintern, whose objective was world revolution, and the Communist Party within this country abruptly changed its tune. It pledged itself to attain its objective through strictly legal means, paid lip service to democratic principles and procedures, denied that it had any connection with the Kremlin, and went all out to appear homespun and respectable. Many people who fell for this have since disavowed their connection with the party and have become aggressively anti red. One of these is at present a senior editor of Time, and he has furnished some of the most startling testimony produced at the hearings.

Other people who served the Communist cause may not have known what they were doing—they just talked too much and at the wrong time. Finally, there is a hard core of men and women whose loyalty, regardless of nationality, belongs to the Soviet Union, and who are willing to do practically anything to serve the cause.

Just how much really valuable and secret information did the Soviet agents get? The probability is that they didn't get a great deal. Some of it, indeed, was available to anyone who wanted it. And some of it, while classified, was of no particular importance. At the same time, it is probable that out of all the mass of material which was correlated and sent to Russia, there was at least a modicum of information which really belonged in the secret category.

The general feeling seems to be that the government's crackdown on disloyal employes and the communist underground was long overdue—and that responsible officials were unbelievably lethargic in starting the work. As an example, one government employe held important jobs for four years in spite of constant objections by Navall Intelligence. It is significant that this man refused to answer when a committee investigator asked him formally if he was or had ever been a Communist. Many of those called did the same thing, on the constitutional grounds that to answer might incriminate them. It is a matter of record that communists and fellow travelers are always ready to take full advantage of our legal protections for the individual—protections which are totally nonexistent in the Soviet Union.

The case of the Russian school teachers who don't want to go home for fear of being shot—one of them jumped from the third floor of the Russian consulate in New York in order to escape—has further complicated the matter. It looks as if the Russians distrust their own people, as well as the Americans.

At any rate, the job of ferriting out the communists in the government is really underway at last. Several hundred Federal employes have either been discharged or have resigned after being investigated by the Loyalty Review Board, which has been helped by the FBI. Many more are scheduled for investigation in the future. And it's a safe bet that we aren't through with disclosures which will make big headlines in the newspapers.

FANTASTIC!

The Dallas Morning News recently ran an editorial on the government's suit against the railroads for allegedly overcharging the government $2,000,000,000 on freight moved during the war. In it, it made this all-important point: "This is not a case originated by a hostile party taking over the books of previous incumbents. It is a series of claims made against an operation which could not have occurred at all without the official sanction of the administration."

The railroads did not quote the government rates on a take-it-or-leave-it basis. Instead—at the government's request—they set up a committee of experts to arrange the charges. This committee was given the formal approval of the then assistant attorney general who had charge of anti-trust proceedings. Every rate arrangement made had to be approved by the responsible government official concerned before it became operative. In not a single instance was the government charged a rate higher than that quoted to commercial shippers. In most instances, the government paid the railroads $5,606,000,000 in freight charges during 1942-45, inclusive. In those same years the railroads paid back $3,668,000,000 in taxes. Thus, if the government were now to win its case for $2,000,000,000, the railroads would have paid out $62,000,000 more than they received for the magnificent job they did in moving war freight!

These are facts of record. During the war, when speed was all-important, the railroads followed a system of rate making which was both suggested and approved by the government. What more could they have done?

THE SMART MERCHANT

An independent retail merchant recently published an unusual advertisement in an Arkansas paper. He said: "A lot of years ago when we first went into business we sold milk from a pure bred Jersey cow and prided ourselves on the fact that we got at least two cents more for each quart than anyone else in town and now after many years of watching business concerns come and go we have decided that the smart merchant is the one who gives the most he can and not the guy who charges 'all the traffic will bear.'"

DOCTORS REVOLT

A new socialized medicine scheme was due to go into operation in Australia on the 1st of June. However, it is in a state of practically complete doldrums. The reason: The Australia division of the British Medical Association has boycotted it.

These doctors haven't done that out of stubbornness. They have many valid objections to the scheme and the most important one, from the standpoint of both practitioner and patient, is that in its present form it would seriously endanger professional freedom. It is significant that, according to a Christian Science Monitor report, there has been an almost complete absence of public resentment against the BMA's position.

The Australian doctors have seen what socialized medicine has done in other parts of the world. In every instance, despite optimistic forecasts by the governments involved, it has burdened the practitioner with an enervating mass of red tape, has destroyed initiative and the incentive to progress, and has led to a steady decline in the standards of medical care. When we mix politics with medicine, medicine comes out on the short end.

Congress realized this fact when it refused to pass a compulsory health insurance bill which would have been the forerunner to socialized medicine here. It should keep it in mind when the same or similar bills appear in the future.

TOPS for DIRT MOVING
for LAND LEVELING
for SEED BED PREPARATION

You Get These BIG ADVANTAGES with EVERSMAN

The ONLY machine with grader blade suspended on movable sub-frame balanced with springs connected to wheels through an eccentric axle that gives automatic action.

Not just another scraper. It's a 3-way machine used not only for the initial job of dirt moving and leveling but for maintaining contours and preparing seed beds year after year.

Gets land in "table-top" condition, making better drainage possible, irrigating and cultivating easier, and mechanical harvesting faster. A must on permanent seeding, saving seed cost, giving more years of bigger yields from each seeding. Comes in 4 sizes to fit wheel tractors up to large crawlers.

Only one leveler, the EVERSMAN, has the eccentric (crank) axle—when wheels go on a high place the blade AUTOMATICALLY lowers to gather a load—when wheels go into a low place the blade raises to release enough dirt to fill.

Front clod buster and rear smoother blade breaks clods, pulverizes the soil, smooths and packs the surface as the machine moves along, producing a fine seed bed while AUTOMATICALLY LEVELING.

Also excellent DIRT MOVER with patented wheel lift which raises and lowers the whole machine and gathers or releases a big load of dirt whenever you wish. After dirt is moved with the EVERSMAN it can be graded down and AUTOMATICALLY LEVELED with the same machine. One experienced man driving your present tractor handles this ALL PURPOSE machine. Moves fast on rubber tired wheels. Inexpensive to buy.

SHIP TO BE NAMED FOR TEXAS HERO

A Texas Infantryman who won the nation's highest award for heroic action that cost his own life will have a ship named for him when the Transportation Corps cargo vessel Acron Knot steams into its home port at San Francisco and is redesignated the USAT Sergeant George D. Keathley.

A native of Olney, Texas, Sgt. Keathley was posthumously awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for his exploits as a member of the 85th Infantry Division on the Italian front.

He was killed on Mount Altuzo on September 14, 1944, after forcing back three enemy counter-attacks in which all commissioned and non-commissioned officers of the second and third platoons of his company had become casualties.

Sgt. Keathley is survived by his widow, Mrs. Geneva Keathley, 502 Miller St., Lamesa, Texas.

Two other cargo ships are also scheduled to be renamed for World War II Congressional Medal of Honor winners. They are the Check Knot—for Sgt. Joseph E. Muller of Taunton, Mass., and the Costal Guide—for Sgt. George Peterson of Brooklyn, N. Y.

 A special, added ingredient in Nth oil (Patented) fastens extra lubricant magnet-like to your engine's working parts. So strongly is this extra film attached to cylinder walls, it won't all drain down, even overnight!

That means your engine's finished metal surfaces are extra-protected from corrosive combustion acids... from destructive "dry" friction starts. You're extra-protected, too, from power-clogging sludge and carbon.

U.S. Watchmakers Battle Swiss for Top Market Spot

Clockmakers Contend Their Existence Is Necessary For U. S. Defense

NEW YORK.—Foreign competition may make its first postwar appearance in a battle between Swiss and American clock manufacturers, a survey indicated.

At present, watch and clock manufacturers are enjoying a pent-up demand for their products, but some spokesmen in the American industry say a real threat will come when the sellers' market ends.

There is no general agreement among Americans concerning the importance of Swiss imports in the life of this country's watchmakers. Sentiment ranges from those who feel that imports are draining the lifeblood from the American industry to those who contend as firmly that there is room for both.

The industry has three divisions—the jeweled watch manufacturers, the nonjeweled watchmakers and the clockmakers. All three spent the war years making chronometers, time fuses for shells and numberless other timing mechanisms.

As far as the American watch and clockmaker was concerned civilian production was out and the imports from Switzerland rose to new highs.

Demand Is Great
The pent-up demand was tremendous at the war's end. The same people who couldn't replace their automobile or their washing machine couldn't get a new wrist watch or alarm clock.

The leading American manufacturers found they were producing more watches and clocks than before the war to keep up with the demand. The household that had a clock in the kitchen and an alarm clock in the bedroom added a timepiece to the kitchen stove.

Price is one of the things that enters into the "foreign competition" argument.

Spokesmen for the American industry say they can't compete with Swiss wages. They say the wages of Swiss watch workers are from one-quarter to one-third that of American watch workers.

And, they add, the American consumer in purchasing a Swiss watch pays as much at retail as he does for one manufactured in the United States.

Importer Profits
The difference in the cost of production, a spokesman for the American industry said, is the gain of the importer not the consumer.

A spokesman for the American industry said that of the retail price of all so-called Swiss watches sold in this country 88 per cent of the dollar remains here and 12 per cent goes abroad.

A clock manufacturer came as near as anyone to a middle-of-the-road viewpoint. He said that at present the situation is not "too bad"—the tariff on clock imports is adequate for now. The same manufacturer added, however, that he felt the tariff on watches was too low.

One of the arguments put forward by the American manufacturer is the need for protection of the home industry as an adjunct to national defense.

If the American jeweled watch industry is allowed to perish, an industry spokesman said, the skills of the American watch worker are lost forever to national defense. Then he said the American army and navy would be dependent upon a foreign country for their mechanisms.

A spokesman for American watch workers conceded the skill of the American and the Swiss was equal.

Firemen Rout Swallows From Chimney With Chemical Bomb

WELLS BEACH, ME.—Instead of fighting a chimney blaze, Wells Beach firemen spent two hours as traffic policemen and undertakers to hundreds of chimney swifts, commonly known as swallows.

Called to Russell Guest's house, the firemen dropped a chemical bomb down the chimney, routine in fighting such fires.

Then the excitement really began. Out popped a couple hundred swallows. Smoke continued to billow into the five-room house. Puzzled firemen disconnected the pipe connecting the stove and flue. It was choked with dead swallows.

The pipe finally was cleared. Then from the roof, a fireman, armed with a long pole, dislodged more birds still alive in the chimney, forcing them to leave through the flue hole. Other firemen, waving brooms, routed birds through the house to open doors.

The house became a mess. The soot-covered birds smeared the ceiling, walls and furnishings in their crazy flight.

Many of the swallows, Firechief Donald Moody said, tried to return to the chimney, adding to the chore of the man on the roof.

Before firemen left, Moody said, 200 dead birds had been gathered up.

Judge Condemns Robber; He's Disgrace to His Profession

PITTSBURGH. — Marshall Johnson, 30, hung his head as Judge Henry X. O'Brien scolded him for being a disgrace to his profession—robbery. Johnson was convicted of stealing a dozen bottles of Scotch from a cafe. He left behind his fingerprints on a bottle of creme de menthe; his wife's picture and his social security number. Judge O'Brien gave Johnson 18 months to three years in the work-house and told him, "you are undoubtedly the most careless robber ever brought before me."

Mailman Wears Out 100 Pairs of Shoes

After 42 Years He Covers 159,000 Miles

ATLANTA.—Wylie T. Mann believes he has walked more than any person in the United States. For 42 years a postman, he has been on Route 104 here for all but two of them.

On that route he has worn out 100 pairs of shoes, and estimates he has walked more than 159,000 miles—more than five times around the earth.

Besides carrying mail, he also takes long walks on his days off. Mann will be 67 his next birthday. He never had foot troubles.

His clerk in charge, Walter A. Curry, says "Ol Pop" gets out and back before the young fellows do, and climbs steps as fast as any young mail carrier in the city.

"My motto is—make friends with the dogs, and then the people—because people won't bite you," Mann says. "It works out pretty well. One dog followed me from house to house for eight years.

"Outside of occasional pants-leg tuggings, I have only had one dog try to bite me, and that was when I started to hand a letter to a blind lady who owned the dog."

Although Mann isn't scheduled to retire until 1951, the Atlanta postal division has had a sample of what Route 104 residents will have to say. About a year ago, the department lopped off a couple of blocks of his route. The people raised such a howl they had to put the blocks back on his route.

War Pilots Dust Farm Crops In Converted Military Planes

CALEXICO, CALIF. — Some 25 former war pilots are operating converted army and navy training planes in what is probably the largest crop dusting campaign in the world.

The 25 planes can dust 25,000 acres a day and the 500,000 acres in Imperial valley are dusted at least once each year. Some sections are dusted twice and even three times a year.

The work is dangerous because the pilots fly only two to four feet above the ground, but only three planes have cracked up in the last year and no pilot has been injured.

Poison used in the spraying is the wartime-developed DDT powder, which is used in 5 and 10 per cent strengths.

About 500 acres can be handled in a morning, with a cost to the farmer of about $2.50 an acre.

Wildcat Leads Policeman On Merry Chase, Gets Away

OCEANSIDE, CALIF. — Police Officer Tony Telebar answered a telephone call from an excited woman who reported that her dog had treed a cat near her home.

As he arrived on the scene, the dog left the treed cat and chased the officers. The cat then jumped from the tree and bounded down a canyon. The dog switched to the cat and again treed the feline. This time the officer turned a flashlight on the tree and saw not a housecat but a full grown wildcat.

He fired his service revolver and the animal fell into a clump of bushes. There were many snarls and growls from the area but Officer Telebar declined to approach it.

In the morning there was no sign of either a dead or wounded wildcat.

Steamboat Whistle Sounds Still Linger Along River

MEMPHIS, TENN.—Most of the famous old Mississippi River boats have been scrapped, but to old-timers their memories linger on.

Each boat was a personality to the men who followed the river or just loafed along its shore.

Probably the most distinguishing thing about each craft was its whistle.

In the golden years of steamboating, no owner would think of sending a new packet to ply the Ohio or the Big Muddy without a beautifully toned blaster.

Now, like the steamboats they once graced, the whistles and bells are gone from the scene, though many still are close to the river.

They can be heard at cotton gins, lumber mills and steam powered plants, or calling hands to work on the big plantations.

New Technique In Weeding By Air

Today's modern method of killing weeds with low flying, high speed airplanes utilizing a "selective chemical killer" is being hailed by farmers and cattle raisers throughout the country.

Farmers of the great wheat belt have found a solution to their most difficult problem, weed growth, by the new technique of rapid, economical spraying from the air.

Since April of this year thousands of acres of spring wheat in Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado and neighboring states have been successfully treated. Thus far, estimated savings to farm operators total many thousands of dollars as a result of increased yields and better quality crops.

The airborne technique as a specialized commercial operation has been engineer-perfected and the liquid-chemical compound, mixed with refined petroleum oils of a controlled specific gravity, is sprayed from converted Stearman biplanes travelling near 100 miles per hour in crosswinds about 20 feet above the fields. The mixture is a "selective killer." It immediately attacks the weeds that rob fertility from such slender, thin-leaved grains as wheat, corn, barley, rye and oats.

Wheat farmers have reported increases of more than 25 per cent as a result of air spraying. In the heart of the wheat belt of Kansas, fields rendered non-productive by weed growth have been restored to normal yield through application of the liquid killer by air. Grain thus treated arrives at elevators free from weed seeds, eliminating "dockage." The new method has also salvaged thousands of acres of pasture land, eliminating weeds and without injury to pasture grasses. Hundreds of abandoned pasture acres in the Flint Hills of Kansas have been saved in this manner.

The costly operation of ground spraying, in which a tractor or truck covers a mere 40 acres a day. A plane completes an 80 acre spraying, from take-off to landing, in 30 minutes. Cost of the operation is about two dollars per acre. Farmers contracting for the service state that increased yields from fields more than offset this expense.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Tadlock, Jr., and children, and Mrs. A. A. Tadlock, Sr., of Fort Worth, Texas, are visiting friends and relatives in Silverton this week.

Bachelor's Coins Will Pay for One More Free School

'Pinch Penny' Stipulates in Will That Penniless Be Provided Education

NEW ORLEANS.—They used to call John McDonogh a "pinch penny" in the 1840s when he commuted to New Orleans in a battered old skiff and then walked miles into town rather than spend a pica-yune for horse-drawn transportation. But when he died in 1850 the lone-ly old bachelor left all of his large fortune in real estate to the cities of New Orleans and Baltimore for the establishment of free public schools.

The fund, which has financed between 30 and 36 schools here, has dwindled now, and when one more school has been constructed the money will all be gone.

Construction of a new Gentilly-Lake area school with the remainder of the fund has been authorized by the Commission Council in an ordinance which will convert securities to be used for the new school.

At the height of his business career, McDonogh was the largest individual land owner in the United States with vast acres of waste and suburban land under his name. His holdings included squares and lots in New Orleans proper, warehouses, stores, residences, land in 16 parishes of Louisiana, and enormous tracts in Florida, Mississippi and Texas.

McDonogh's will divided his estate equally between New Orleans and Baltimore for the establishment of schools for children unable to pay their way.

The legacy, however, became the subject of much contention. Litigation and the Civil War caused the amount to diminish. When the Supreme Court finally passed upon the will, New Orleans, as its portion, received most of the extensive properties.

The vagueness which surrounds the history of the earliest McDonogh schools was increased by the disappearance of the minutes of the old board which administered the school fund.

Francis P. Burns, former city attorney said that the ancient records disappeared in 1927 during rehabilitation and rearrangement of the city hall. Burns said it was supposed that $500,000 from the fund was contributed in aid of defense of the city in the war between the states.

Available records show evidence that 28 schools in New Orleans and two in Jefferson parish were constructed from the fund. Although all of the schools that remain in existence are now under the control of or operated by the Orleans or Jefferson parish school boards, 19 of them still bear McDonogh's name. McDonogh No. 1, constructed shortly after the will was probated, is the oldest.

McDonogh was born in Baltimore, Dec. 29, 1779, but took up residence here in 1817. He devoted his entire life to the acquisition of wealth for the establishment of philanthropies to be carried out after his death.

A bronze statue of John McDonogh stands in Lafayette Square facing city hall here, and every year, on his birthday, the children gather to shower the monument with flowers.

Out in the world are thousands of teachers, authors, doctors and businessmen who learned to read and write because of the generosity of a man who in life was known as a "tight man with a nickel."

Heat Treatments Expedite Growth of Sockeye Salmon

SEATTLE.—Some 40,000 sockeye salmon are about to end their quest for "higher learning." But they've been apt pupils.

The young salmon, fed on scientifically prepared diets and pampered in heated tanks throughout the winter, are being shipped from the University of Washington to the Fraser river in Canada.

The heated tanks enabled the fish to skip an entire year in their normal life cycle. They have reached two years' growth in a single year.

Under a project directed by Dr. Lauren Donaldson, head of the university's applied fisheries laboratory, sockeye eggs were taken from the Baron lake area in Northern British Columbia.

They hatched in tanks heated to 50 degrees. A month later they went on special diets—mostly proteins, minerals, vitamins and blood-forming factors.

Now they've been graduated. They take their place in the outside world in the horsefly-quesnel district, and head for the ocean, returning in 1950. Ordinarily sockeye do not start for the sea until their second year in the spawning grounds.

Each salmon has been marked by removal of two fins to permit a check on future movements.

VETERANS' NEWS

Dependents of deceased World War II veterans who get death compensation checks from the Veterans Administration will receive individual reminders of their possible entitlement to income tax refunds, and of the necessity for applying for them before the end of the year, VA reports.

The refunds, authorized by Public Law 367 of the 80th Congress, apply to certain income taxes of members of the armed forces who died while in active service between December 7, 1941 and December 31, 1947. Application must be made by December 31, 1948.

Subject to refund under the law are all Federal income taxes paid by or on behalf of such members of the armed forces for the taxable year in which they died, and for prior tax years dating back to December 7, 1941, during any part of which they served.

Most members of the armed forces—particularly enlisted men—were exempt from income tax under special wartime law. Consequently, the number entitled to rebates is not expected to be large, and the VA notice advises dependents first to make sure taxes actually were paid before seeking refunds.

Forms for applying may be obtained from the office of any collector of internal revenue (Form 843). Applications for refunds and any correspondence on the subject also should be directed to the Collector of Internal Revenue where the tax was paid, and not to VA or the Bureau of Internal Revenue in Washington.

Mrs. Marie Edwards is visiting this week in Erick, Oklahoma, the guest of her sister, Mrs. A. M. Hill.

Rev. Grady Adcock attended a pastors school at S. M. U., in Dallas last week. Mrs. Adcock and daughters visited her mother at Haskell while Rev. Adcock was away.

Dorothy Lynn Bailey and C. E. Anderson Jr., Are Wed Sept. 1 in Candlelight Ceremony

A candlelight ceremony united in marriage Miss Dorothy Lynn Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Bailey, and C. E. Anderson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Anderson, Sr., Wednesday evening, September 1, 1948, in the First Baptist Church of Silverton.

Rev. G. A. Elrod, pastor read the double-ring ceremony before an altar. Sprays of palm leaves formed a background for the exchange of vows. Candles were revealed in a Gothic setting. Aisles were marked with candles arranged in a bouquet of flowers. Preceding the ceremony, Miss LaRue Gilkeyson played appropriate music. Introducing the ceremony, Miss Betty Burson played as Toby Penn sang "Because" and "Always." Traditional wedding marches were used and Miss Burson played "Clair De Lune" and "I Love You Truly" as a soft background for the ceremony.

Attending the bride as maid-of-honor was Miss Jeanne Dudley, wearing a lime green net dress fashioned with a wide V neckline, long sleeves and tight bodice. She wore a sun-kissed hat with a detachable corsage of gardenias and rosebuds and carried a satin muff with gardenias and showers of stepanotes forming streamers. Mrs. Kenneth Morehouse, bridesmaid, wore an identically fashioned gown in yellow net. She also wore the sun-kissed hat and carried a yellow satin muff.

Little Miss Sue Anderson of Phillips, Texas, flower girl, wore a green dress and carried a ma-line basket from which she dropped rose petals.

Leon McCracken of Quitaque was best man. Doss Hamilton was groomsmen and Kenneth Morehouse and Ernest Barby were ushers. L. B. Garvin, Bobbie Jack Ham, Jo Dean Bedwell, and Patsy Stark were candle lighters. Little Teddy Hancock and Celine Lanham, carried white satin pillows bearing the rings. Misses Bedwell, Stark and Lanham wore identical dresses fashioned in orchid, pink and blue with gardenia and rosebud corsages. Rug rollers were Stanley Price and Jett Mason.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of white slipper satin, styled with long fitted sleeves and a fitted bodice and having a sweetheart neckline. The gathered skirt fell into a full length train. Her fingertip veil of chantilly lace fell from a tiara of stepanotes and silver maline. She wore a double strand of pearls and carried a cascade bouquet of orchids surrounded by white mums. For something old and borrowed, she wore her mother's wedding band, and for something new her wedding dress.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Ben Garvin. The two-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bell centered the serving table.

The couple left on a wedding trip to Colorado. After their return, they will be at home in Quitaque.

Mrs. Anderson was graduated from Silverton High School. She attended Arline's Beauty School at Lubbock and has been employed at the Smith Beauty Shop in Silverton. Mr. Anderson graduated from Quitaque High School. He served in the Merchant Marine and is now farming near Quitaque.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brooks honored their little daughter, Nancy Jane with a birthday party Saturday from 2:30 to 5:00. Mrs. J. L. Self supervised a group of outdoor games. Mrs. Rags Riddle had charge of the fishing pond which afforded a degree of laughter and cheer as each little guest drew out their fish. The group was taken to the bedroom where Nancy opened a lovely display of gifts which were passed to each guest.

In the center of the big dining room table which was laid with a white linen table cloth was the two-tier birthday cake decorated in pink and white with five pink candles. The little guests stood around the table and as Mrs. G. R. Dowdy led in singing "Happy Birthday" each guest was served a very generous helping of pink homemade ice cream and cake was served to about fifty guests and the honoree.

A great time was expressed by all as the guests bade Nancy Jane good-bye, each wished for her many more happy birthdays.

West Texas State College Buffaloes Open Season

Coach Frank Kimbrough will herd his West Texas State College Buffaloes into the Border Conference football season Saturday night, September 11. The Flagstaff, Arizona, State College Lumberjacks will be the opponents. The game will start promptly at 8 P. M. under the new lights in Buffalo Stadium.

Coach Kimbrough and Odie Crowell, his line coach, predict the Buffaloes will be ready for the Lumberjacks, but will not be near the point of perfection the coaches would prefer.

"We are going to be a better ball club this year than last," said Kimbrough at the opening of the pre-season training period on September 1. He explained that last year's 19 freshmen ought to be greatly improved because of the year's experience.

"But," Kimbrough continued "all of our opponents should be better, too." He said his squad of 41 candidates has a great team spirit. "One of the best I've ever seen," he declared, "and although we lack speed and weight, we are going to try to make up for this handicap by being in top physical condition and having a high morale."

With only nine days of practice behind them, the Buffs will not have a wide variety of plays for the opening game. Too, they naturally are going to save something for the Texas Tech game in Lubbock on September 18.

However, Panhandle fans will see the famed Double C combination of Sophomores Bill Cross and Eddie Conner, halfbacks, in plays with no punches pulled. Cross is the Canadian lad who was a sensation in 1947 as a freshman. Conner, The Kid from Floydada, also starred last year as a freshman. Kimbrough is building a tricky set of plays built around these two carriers. Cloyce Box, big, long-passing quarterback, and Lloyd Johnson, Wheeler, at fullback.
