Briscoe F. Davis Funeral Held at Portales,

Briscoe Franklin Davis, 37 year well driller, died at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Davis Monday night after an illness of 18 months.

Death was attributed to a dissection of the blood stream. He had been in hospitals in several states and was brought to the home of his parents a month ago.

He is survived by his widow, the former Miss Beatrice Johnson, a daughter, Daphne and a son, James Edward.

Also surviving are his parents, a brother, S. J. Davis, Jr., and sisters, Mrs. Oleta Pearson, John Putnam, Mrs. Doyle, and Miss Darlene Davis, all of Portales.

Born in Turkey, Texas, July 1912, he moved to Portales in 1928 with his parents from Borland. He married Miss Johnson in Portales in 1936, and they moved to House in 1946 where he engaged in the well drilling business.

The Silvertown Owls won their fourth consecutive baseball game Thursday beating Flomot 23-9 but Monday saw that string broken by the Floydada Whirlwinds 9-6.

The Flomot encounter started off with a bang with both sides scoring frequently and Flomot went ahead by two points in the 5th inning but this was short lived as the Owls opened up with their big guns. When the firing was over the Owls had tallied 8 points to put the game on ice 23-9.

Floydada packed too much power for the Owls but there was some consolation the home team derived from the game and that is—a new pitching prospect was unveiled in the person of Billie Ray Satterfield. Satterfield whiffed 8 of the opponents via the strike out route and possibly would have won the game with more support from his teammates. However, it was one of these games where everything went wrong for the home team.

The players wish to express their appreciation to the local merchants in the community that made it possible for them to have uniforms. The boys will have the suits by game time next Tuesday, April 18 when they face the Turkey Turks at Silvertown at 2:45. The boys will show their appreciation with an unyielding effort on the field and good sportsmanship on and off the field to the extent to make the merchants and the community proud of them.

The Lockney game that was scheduled for Tuesday was postponed and will be played Thursday, April 21.

Local Teachers Hosts to Quitaque Teachers

If You Need Plans for Any Farm Building See the County Agent

Do you need any farm building or equipment plans? Are you looking for ideas on how to build a cattle feeder or a barbecue furnace? If so, check with the county agent.

He has a 1949 catalogue chock full of all kinds of plans for anything from houses to homemade machines. This new catalogue was compiled by W. S. Allen, extension agriculture buildings engineer of Texas A. and M. College. It also contains a listing of many supporting publications on any subject dealing with or about the farm.

First thing in the catalogue is a list of plans for houses of two to nine rooms. Next are plans for barns—general purpose, beef cattle, horse and mule or dairy barns. No fewer than 19 different 5-room houses. Twenty-one different general-purpose barns and seven horse and mule barns are among those plans in the list.

But that's not all. There are plans for hog houses and equipment, poultry houses, cattle feeders, sheep barns, grain and hay storage, implement sheds, garages and shops, and other farm buildings and equipment that may be of interest to the Texas farmer.

These plans and publications listed in the new catalogue are available to the farm and ranch people of Texas. They may be obtained free of charge by asking for them at the office of the county agent.

Other plans for certain specific jobs are available, Allen says, but the ones listed in this catalogue are the ones in biggest demand. If the one desired is not included, write to the Extension Service.

Teachers of Silvertown were hosts Tuesday night to the teachers of Quitaque in the third meeting of the newly organized Briscoe County Teachers Association.

Dinner was served to forty people in the basement of the Methodist Church. During the evening delightful musical numbers were rendered by three of the High School girls, Misses Beth Joiner, La Rue Gilkeyson, and Martha Jean Dennis.

Following the meal the guests repaired to the auditorium of the church where the main speaker of the evening, Dr. S. H. Condron of W. T. S. C. of Canyon, talked on the subject "Social Science in the World of To-day." His address was both entertaining and educational, presenting, as it did, a challenge to both teachers and parents to make better citizens of the youth of our community in order to prepare them to take their places as citizens in the world of to-morrow.

Accompanying Dr. Condron was Mr. Ted Reid, instructor and co-ordinator of aviation in the same college. Mr. Reid is a former resident of Silvertown and the father of one of our teachers, Mrs. G. W. Lee. He spoke briefly of his pleasure in being back among friends and claimed that he was still a resident of Silvertown.

Weather Gives Rattlers Break In Oklahoma

Okeene, Oklahoma. — Golfers and fishermen weren't the only sportsmen today who looked at Oklahoma's gray, overcast skies and sodden ground—the rattlesnake hunters had their beef also.

The big rattlesnake hunt near here today was postponed again because of the weather. Some 300 persons showed up for the rattler roundup last Sunday but it had to be cancelled for the same reason.

But the hunters went out anyway, only to come back with less than 100 of the reptiles.

The Okeene Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the annual roundup, watched the sunny skies during the past week and had issued a warning to hunters this week end—be careful, the snakes will be out of hibernation, they'll be hungry and dangerous.

The rattlers got a "stay of execution" this time for two weeks. As next Sunday is Easter, the roundup has been set for April 24th.

Meantime, the rattlers will have just that much more time to work up a healthy appetite and a nasty attitude.

Mrs. R. E. Brookshier and Mrs. Pearl Simpson were business visitors in Floydada Tuesday afternoon.

April 30 Founder's Day at John Tarleton College

Near Santo, Texas, still stands a small ranch house—the home of an early day Texan who will be commemorated in a Founder's Day program at John Tarleton College April 30.

There, on a 10,000 acre ranch John Tarleton lived the last 15 years of his obscure life, and there he conceived the idea of founding a school which today has grown until its physical plant is worth $1,600,000.

A man of little formal education, he was astute in business. Through perseverance, thrift, and hard work, he accumulated a fortune large enough to leave, at his death in 1895, $86,000 for a school that would provide educational opportunities for children "over six years of age, of good moral character, and unable to educate themselves."

Coming to Texas a-foot in the early 1860's, he established a mercantile store in Waco. Before that, he had led a dull monotonous life, clerking for the same man in the same store for 40 years. Even so, he had saved $1,000 and acquired title to 20,000 acres of land in the Middle Western states through trading for land warrants.

In Waco he made and lost a fortune in early cattle drives, ran a prosperous mercantile business, and married and was divorced by a socially prominent Waco widow when he was well past 65.

Leaving Waco after this as he had entered it, on foot and dressed as a tramp, he walked to his ranch near Santo, which he had bought when he first came to Texas. There on the first land to be fenced in this section, he lived a lonely life, weathering the

PETROLEUM STUDENTS WILL VIEW OFF-SHORE DRILLING ACTIVITIES

Forty-five students in petroleum engineering at Texas Technological college who will graduate in 1949 will make a field trip to Galveston April 25 to observe an oil company's offshore drilling operations.

The group expects to visit a number of other petroleum industry installations in the Galveston area. Faculty members William Ducker and Phillip Johnson will accompany the students.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Jones and son, Billy, have moved to Lubbock to make their home. Mr. and Mrs. Austin Bailey and son, have moved into the Geo. Jones home.

Deaths of 1896-88 and becoming a prosperous and respected ranchman.

Many are the tales told of his peculiarities. He always kept large sums of money in an old trunk in his bare little room. This he counted behind curtains every night. He never wrote a check to an individual, always insisting on giving and receiving cash. When he walked to Santo, he always carried two rolls of money hidden separately about his body.

In September, 1899, four years after Tarleton's death, John Tarleton College opened its doors. Like its founder, the school has weathered many a storm, and today after 50 years of service, its growth is a monument to the man who wanted to help educate the children of the little man. Twenty-four people who knew Tarleton personally have been invited to attend the Founder's Day Ceremonies.

New Yorkers Share 'Gawks' With Visitors

NEW YORK—You can tell the tourists here by the way they look up, a bit self-consciously, at the towering buildings. You can tell the natives by the way they look into shop windows.

If you haven't been in New York recently, the latter statement may require a bit of explanation. Two characteristics mark the typical New Yorker: His affinity for crowds and a certain peculiar nervous curiosity about everything.

Combined, these traits make the Gothamite the world's most enthusiastic gazer into store windows. It matters little what is in the window. No display of neckties or girdles is too commonplace to attract a little knot of loyal lookers. And if, as is sometimes the case, there is something going on behind the plate glass, it's as good as a Katherine Cornell opening night.

A chef's helper standing in the window of Toffenetti's restaurant at Times square peeling potatoes or cleaning oysters often attracts a crowd of a hundred or more. A television receiver tuned into a program of cooking advice will draw half a hundred males who look incapable of so much as boiling an egg.

Watch Store Windows
The New Yorker does not pause to watch the blinkings of the complex electric signs around Times square. Nor does he stop to look at the big city's biggest show—the faces and dress of the polyglot crowd hurrying by. But let a storekeeper step into a display window and move a dress model from front to back and the New Yorker stops transfixed, gazing at the phenomenon in dumb wonder.

The reporter decided to experiment with this strange Manhattan habit. Walking along W. 43rd st., he stopped and looked casually at an unusually dull collection of pipes in a tobacconist's window. Immediately, half a dozen passers-by joined him, standing there mutely gazing at the $1.98 specials.

Leaving this little knot behind, the reporter strolled along until he came to another window which no one was watching at the moment. He stopped and looked in. As though it sprang from the sidewalk a crowd was with him on the instant. Together they looked solemnly at the three dead fish which the restaurateur had placed in the window to lure patrons.

Always The Same

The reporter tried it again and again. Each time he had no sooner stopped than from three to a dozen of the passers-by joined him. It mattered not whether the window display was a sad, red-skinned lobster or a collection of $5.98 lingerie, a dozen strings of salami or a window full of bottled hair oil. The reaction was the same.

One of the most loyal followings in town is that of the little show put on by a notions shop in a corner of the Times square subway station. Three of the shop's employees apparently spend all of their time standing just inside the open doorway winding up children's mechanical toys. At 3 p.m. or 3 a.m., there is a crowd ranging from a dozen to 50 city dwellers standing silently watching the tin cats and toy men doing their simple tricks.

Retired Policeman Makes Things Tough for Crooks

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y.—Melvin H. Rauch still is making things tough for the crook even though he has retired from the Mount Vernon police department.

Rauch, 48, is not toting a gun or a night stick any longer. His new role in the battle against crime is that of an inventor.

His invention is a simple, inexpensive metal device that looks something like a slide rule. With it, almost any door can be locked from the inside and no key in the world will open the door from the outside.

The invention is aimed at those thieves who use skeleton keys, or pass keys, to open doors in hotels, apartments and private homes. The device also guards against a lock being picked.

It operates simply. One hooked end of the device is placed in the strike plate, or jam. The door is then closed and most of the device, which is a thin strip of metal, extends on the inside of the door.

A latch then is slid into tight position against the door. Pronto, the door is locked so that no key can open it. The latch is slid backward when a person desires to remove the device and open the door.

Rauch said the idea of the invention came to him during one of his many investigations of robberies by thieves who had used skeleton keys to enter a home.

His invention is protected by patent and a large manufacturer now is putting the device into production.

The device weighs only a few ounces and is no larger than a tooth brush. It can be carried in a man's pocket or in a woman's handbag. Rauch says his invention should prove especially helpful to those who travel.

It's official name will be the "fool thief."

Train Arabs In Methods Used In 4-H Crops Program

King Ibn Saud of Arabia has hired American agents to show his people how to grow more and better crops. Gradually the Arabs are replacing 4,000 year old farming methods with modern American ways. Their goal is to raise all the food they can eat instead of importing 80 per cent. Toward this end, these county agents hope to organize Arab-style 4-H Clubs which may one day conduct a field crops program just as Texas is doing now.

Good farm practices and expert use of farm machinery are part of the 1949 National 4-H Field Crops program, declared Guy L. Noble, director, National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work. The project—which stresses increased production of certified seed, feed and fibre crops—is off to a good start in the Lone Star state.

With the help of county extension agents and local club leaders, 4-H boys and girls learn to use scientific farming methods. Included are seed bed preparation, plant parasite and disease control, soil analysis and contour farming.

Time Here to Make Plans for Annual Vacation

The month of April usually brings the first days of near-summer weather to Texas, and literally thousands of Texans commence to make serious and detailed plans for their annual vacation which is of great importance to the health and well being of every man and child.

A vacation can relax nervous tension, bring renewed vigor, and usually supply an opportunity for more sunlight and outdoor activities than is customary for office workers and those of sedentary occupations. But traveling to vacation spots for the purpose of "roughing it" can also bring a serious health menace in the form of typhoid germs from impure water supplies, and for this reason, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, advises all persons contemplating such a vacation to first be inoculated against typhoid.

"Persons planning a vacation where sanitation standards may not be carefully observed, should protect their health by typhoid inoculation, and thus avoid the risk of serious illness from this debilitating and sometimes fatal disease," Dr. Cox said. "An individual not previously rendered immune, can establish immunity by having one typhoid vaccine injection administered each week for three weeks; if he has kept his immunity from a previous inoculation, one 'booster' shot each year will keep him protected from typhoid."

Dr. Cox warned that impure water is not the only means of spreading typhoid, and cautioned against the careless exposure of food and milk to flies, roaches, rodents, and other germ-spreading pests.

From there they will stop at Dallas, Garland and Sherman, April 13; Sulphur Springs, Mount Pleasant and Tyler, April 14; Palestine, College Station and Houston, April 15; Corpus Christi, April 16; Kingsville and Harlingen, April 17; Falfurrias and San Antonio, April 18, and Abilene, April 19.

Louis Philippi Gets Paid for Scrambling Movie Stars' Faces

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF.—This is about the man who wreaks mayhem on the movie stars.

The man is Louis Philippi. He has bloodied the noses and messed up the ears of a half dozen high salaried stars. He gets paid for it.

If you have been in a night club brawl, Hollywood is full of people who'll disguise your black eye and repair your hangover. If you haven't, Philippi will make you look as if you had.

It's not easy. It takes Philippi two and a half hours every morning to make up Marshall Thompson for "Roseanna McCoy." A McCoy who happened to meet a Hatfield, Thompson suffers a bullet wound in the right shoulder, bruised cheekbone, black eye, cut under left eyebrow, scalp wound, scraped chin, torn earlobe and bloody nose.

"They all are inflicted, painlessly, by Philippi. I keep a file of pictures from the newspaper of people who get drunk or battered up," Philippi said. "They are indexed according to the type of work required. I can produce about a hundred different types of lacerations."

He designs and executes each scratch with the care of a portrait artist, fixing it on with a palette knife and dark lipstick. He uses a small brush and an assortment of grease paints for bruises and a rubber sponge with rouge for abrasions.

"The day has passed when you could smear on some lipstick and lampblack and call it a day," he said. "Even flesh wounds have to be documentary these days. A black eye, for instance, isn't really black but red or blue or yellow-green, depending on how long since it got hit."

So before he wets his sponge Philippi demands to know when the fight happened, how and where and by whom the blows were delivered and what if any weapons were employed.

Artificial blood, something new on the market, makes Philippi's job easier. It comes in two colors—bright for fresh wounds and dark for old ones—and coagulates like the real thing. He squirts it on with a syringe.

The only film fight in which Philippi directly participated was in "The Red Pony." Bob Mitchum was knocked under a table and came up with a bloody nose.

"I was hiding under the table," Philippi whispered, "with a sponge soaked in blood. When Bob came down, I pasted him on the nose."

Man Begins Third Year Of "Life Like Death"

FRAMINGHAM, MASS.—For 32-year-old Ralph C. Abbott the third year of life like death. He has been unconscious in a hospital bed since February 17, 1947.

On that morning his car hit a tree and he was flung headlong against a stone wall. The darkness has never lifted once. It has touched, too, his wife and mother and father, Isaac Abbott, 62.

Every day for two full years now the elderly father has come to sit beside his son's bed. Surgeons have said that Ralph will never awake. Past repair, they said, is that part of the brain which could stir his mind or open his eyes.

Every hour the sleeping man is fed concentrated liquid food through a nose tube. Every two hours attendants at Cushing Veterans Administration hospital turn him in his bed.

Every day his father sits beside him. A nurse said "That's all he can do. Sit beside him and hope."

Three-Year Old Tot Safe After Night in Forest

READING, PA.—Weary searchers who hunted through the night found Reading's babe in the woods unharmed but "terribly scared."

Three-year-old Billy Abbott vanished at 4:30 p. m. the day before. A thousand men, women and children pitched into the search. They found him lying in a clump of grass at 1:40 p. m.

Billy was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital and dismissed 10 minutes later after an examination disclosed no injury but that his temperature was low.

"It doesn't seem possible," one attendant said, "that he stayed out doors throughout the night."

He was taken home in the official car of the assistant fire chief in his home town of Laureldale, a Reading suburb. All the fire sirens in Laureldale were turned loose to hail discovery of the boy.

His father, Arthur, who said earlier that Billy was "a very timid boy" and that "he never wandered off before," accompanied his son home in the fire car. For a while, Billy said nothing. Then he reached into his father's coat and took out a cigarette lighter.

"I played with one of these last night," Billy said. "Where?" his father asked him. "At the house where I slept," Billy replied. Further questioning failed to uncover any more details of how the little boy spent the night.

HOW TO SHOOT A RIFLE

By ARTHUR E. COOK
National and Olympic Rifle Champion

Trigger Control

Control of the trigger can make or break you as a shooter. The accepted movie hero technique of yanking at the trigger with hardly more than a glance at the target is bosh. You can't hit anything consistently that way.

When your sights are aligned on the target the only way to get off the shot is to squeeze the trigger with such a smooth and steady motion that you do not disturb that aim. The trigger is squeezed by a steady movement of the forefinger only.

Speed and smoothness in the trigger squeeze can be combined but it takes practice and the best way to practice is with an empty gun. Aim at a small bulls-eye across the room and carefully let-off each shot. Since the rifle does not actually fire you can see your mistakes. Another thing—while squeezing the trigger stop breathing and relax. The rise and fall of the chest while breathing will throw your sights off the target. Relaxation will reduce your pulse beat, which is another disturbing factor in precision aiming.

One final hint—always follow through. By that I mean keep looking through the sights at the target even after the shot is fired. This prevents movement of the gun before the shot has left the muzzle and often enables you to see where your shot hit when you are shooting in the field.

(This instruction based on the booklet, "HOW TO SHOOT A RIFLE," published by The National Rifle Association, Washington, D. C.)

Be sure of your target!

C. A. TUNNELL, OWNER

Do you tell time by Baby?

At his feeding times, yes. He sounds off on the dot when a meal's due. But the rest of your day, you're wise to depend on electric clocks.

With a baby in the house, it's surprising how much you depend on electric service—to prepare and refrigerate his food, heat water for his bath and laundry, wash his clothes, and so on.

Of course, you depend on electricity to help take the work out of your housework too. Always ready, it lends a willing hand with heavy chores, provides comfort, ease and even entertainment. And best of all, you can depend on its economy—for what other item in your budget does so much for so little?

Your friends and neighbors in this company—under sound business management—are continually using their technical skill and practical experience to keep electricity the biggest bargain in that budget of yours. You can depend on that too!

Seed Treatment Is a Good Insurance For Your Cotton

Nobody can guarantee that your cotton will produce a good crop, but there is a good insurance in chemical seed treatment.

There's often quite a difference in a cotton crop that has been planted with chemically treated seed and a crop that wasn't. Here's the difference. With chemically treated seed, chances are good for better stands and greater yields because the chemicals kill seed-borne germs and protect the seeds against molds and fungi in the soil.

Without seed treatment, it is harder to get a good stand for producing a good crop, says E. A. Miller, extension agronomist of Texas A. and M. College. Unprotected seed rots easily in the soil before it has a chance to germinate, especially if the ground is too cold or wet for quick germination. Even after the seed germinates, many young seedlings are killed by angular leaf spot, soreshin or bacterial boll rot.

One of the worst cotton diseases is angular leaf spot. It often shows up first on the young seed leaves, and during damp weather after the seedlings come up, many of them will die unless they were treated with a chemical before planting. This same disease also destroys some of the early buds, and may prevent the growth of early fruiting branches. As the cotton plant grows, the disease shows up as angular spots on the leaves, and also as bacterial boll rot, Miller says.

Brown spots or cankers at the ground level or slightly below on a stem is a good sign of soreshin. Many plants will recover from this disease, but they are often late in developing.

Experiments have shown that seed treatment greatly reduces these troubles and helps to promote more vigorous seedlings, which often can be chopped and cultivated earlier.

In a four year test by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station with chemical seed treatment, results showed good increases. There was a 25 percent increase at College Station, a 15 percent increase at Temple, a 10 percent increase in the Brazos bottoms near College Station, and a 4 percent increase in the average yield at Lubbock.

In another test at the Temple Substation, treated seed gave 25 to 30 percent better stands than untreated seed. At the same time, the plants made greater yields per acre, and had less angular leaf spot. The difference in yields between treated and untreated seed varied from year to year, depending on the amount of disease germs on the seed and the condition of the soil at planting time, Miller says.

Chemicals which have proved effective are ceresan M, common ceresan (2 percent), new improved ceresan (5 percent), Dow 9B and spergon.

Directions on the containers should be followed very closely, and the delinted as well as the fuzzy seeds should be treated. It is very important that the seeds are thoroughly and evenly covered with the dust in a container, such as a can on an axle that can be rotated, he concludes.

SEEKS PERFECTION

Wright Plans New Theater

HARTFORD, CONN.—A theatre where every gesture and tone of voice of the actors on stage can be seen or heard by every member of the audience. . . . A theatre where there are no "bad" seats. . . . A theatre, which in the opinion of its designer, Frank Lloyd Wright, will be so restful that it will be a pleasure just to sit in it.

This is the theatre, that if all goes well, will be built here in Hartford, a city that has made enough money from its insurance and arms manufacturing businesses to afford such community enterprises. At a Hartford club luncheon this week, Wright told leading townspeople and visiting theatrical lights what the proposed building would do for them and for culture in general.

Gray But Sprightly

The Wisconsin born architect, gray but still sprightly at 79, declared that the legitimate theatre, unless it mended its ways, was not long for this world. But with playhouses such as the one proposed for Hartford scattered about the country, he went on, the stage would be given the intimacy and excitement that it now so sorely needs.

"We want to have the kind of a theatre that can belong to a community, not simply be imposed on it," he declared.

The Hartford venture, to be called the New theatre, has been commissioned by Paton Price, director for the last two years of the Canton summer theatre near Hartford, and two associates. Price plans to organize a professional resident company for the new playhouse, offering both winter and summer seasons.

As illustrated by a scale model Wright brought with him from Texas, the proposed theatre will be built on simple functional lines. The eight-sided main auditorium will seat the audience on a gradual downward slope, with the slightly raised stage at the bottom. There will be no balcony and no posts.

The stage itself will be circular, with the inner portion revolving for quick scene changes.

Viewers Enthused

Theatrical people who viewed the model were enthusiastic. Cornelia Otis Skinner, declaring that the road had been dying partly because of a lack of suitable theatres, said, "All of us are going to be keen to play in the new theatre here."

Two possible obstacles were seen by some theatre spokesmen, however. The circular stage would make different type of sets necessary, a drawback for touring companies. And the proposed seating capacity, which Wright wants to hold to about 750 to insure the "intimacy" of atmosphere he is striving for, might not be enough to attract top flight road shows.

Wright contended, however, that the smaller seating capacity—about 500 less than most Broadway playhouses—would be compensated for by simpler scenery arrangements which would require less expensive equipment and personnel.

Elderly Miner Rescued After 10 Hours in Shaft

SHAMOKIN, PA.—A 62-year-old miner was rescued after he had been trapped for almost 10 hours by a cave-in at the bottom of a 20 foot anthracite mine shaft.

Efforts of the rescue workers were rewarded after a day-long series of trials as new coal falls threatened to take the life of Alexander Pochekillo before they could clear away the first coal slide.

The man was buried upright by a slide of coal and dirt while he and his son, Joseph, 22, worked in their independent mine at near-by Sagon. Joseph, trapped to his waist, was freed within an hour. Chinks in the coal allowed air to reach the father. To prevent further slides, the rescuers built a fence of timbers around him. Then, scooping the dirt in a five-gallon bucket and pulling it to the surface with a winch, they freed him. He was brought up with a rope.

Expert Says Man Must Turn More to Ocean for His Food

AUCKLAND, N. Z.—Man must turn more to the ocean for food to survive, Dr. J. L. Kask of the United Nations food and agriculture organization told the Pacific Science Congress.

"The ocean is man's next frontier—it may be his last," the speaker told the congress, holding its first session here since the war.

He said that the Pacific Ocean, which covers more than one-third of the world's surface supplies less than half the world's fish supplies.

There was sufficient evidence of untouched stocks of fish to warrant the United States government in appropriating a million dollars this year to investigate the fisheries of the Central Pacific, Dr. Kask said.

Most fishing has been done in relatively shallow waters, the speaker explained. Echo sounders found huge schools of edible fish at considerable depths. He urged wise exploitation of fishery resources and elimination of wasteful, cutthroat competition.

Man, 91, Cracks Nuts on Birthday, Plans Motorbike Programs

APPLETON, WIS.—(AP)—JOE Leppla was cracking hickory nuts on his 91st birthday, waiting for the day when he can renew his claim of being the world's oldest motorcycle rider.

The man who figures he's the granddaddy of the motorcycle isn't usually put away his bike until the winter. He kept riding a year when the icy season set in. But Joe picked up a cold this winter—the first in 40 years, he says—so he decided to sit out the winter and cold for the first time.

Leppla retired from farming at the age of 60 and took to the motorcycle so he'd have something to do and so he could keep on getting out of fresh air. Since then he's ridden out five bikes and has well over 100,000 miles on his sixth.

When he winds up, Joe usually goes for a fishing spot in this area. He's taken many long jaunts out on the water.

Leppla might claim another title as he climbs aboard his cycle in the spring. Those hickory nuts he's been cracking at the home of his daughter here aren't merely for the passers. Joe says he has 85 pounds of nut meats so far and is on his way to becoming the champion hickory nut cracker of the world.

Says Russia May Have Atomic Weapons

WASHINGTON, D. C. — (Soundphoto) — Dr. David Bradley, an atomic scientist, declared that Russia "has the scientific secret of atomic bombs" and "may already be manufacturing atomic weapons." Bradley made the statement in a speech to the annual conference of U.S. Mayors. L. to R.: Dr. David Bradley; David Lilienthal, chairman of the atomic energy commission; Sen. Brien McMahon, (D) of Conn., chairman of the joint Congressional committee on atomic energy; and Ralph J. Watkins, director of plans and programs for the national security resources board.

Mr. and Mrs. John Montague, of Plainview, visited in Silvertown Saturday with relatives and friends.

Guests in the R. C. Hutless home Sunday afternoon were: Mr. and Mrs. H. L. O. Riddell, Mr. and Mrs. Lee D. Bomar, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Fisher and Mrs. Pearl Simpson.

Price of Grain Crops This Year is Still Unknown

What about the price of grains? Nobody knows exactly what price wheat will bring Texas growers this season. But if they can get enough rain at the right time, they'll likely get a heavy crop. The outlook is about the same with grain sorghums, corn and other feed grains.

C. H. Bates, extension farm management specialist of Texas A. and M. College, says there is one thing that looks pretty certain. That is, that the market prices at harvest time will be below the government support price level. How much below will depend on a couple of things. First, is the total production or prospective national crop, and the second, is the amount of storage facilities available for placing the grain under government loan.

Grain must be properly stored before the farmers will get the full benefit of the guaranteed price support loans. Late reports indicate that above two-thirds of all elevator capacity still holds last year's crops, Bates says. And it doesn't look as though this grain will move into export channels very fast during the next few months.

It is a case of a pretty heavy carry-over of grains. Government storage facilities will probably not be able to handle more than average production, Bates says. So, farmers will have to take the storage business into their own hands on the farm.

Any grain storage building must be weather tight and strongly built to qualify for a crop loan. The type selected will depend on the farmer's needs, and the cost per bushel of storage will depend on the size building erected. W. S. Allen, extension agricultural buildings engineer of Texas A. and M. College, says that a small 500-bushel bin costs around 50 to 60 cents per bushel of storage. Larger storage bins—the 40 thousand bushel size—may be built for 15 to 20 cents per bushel of storage. Many farmers are building facilities that can be used for other things when not needed for the storage of grain, Allen points out.

Looks like a case of being able to raise the price while raising the crop, he concludes.

Bank Suspends Business After Three Robberies

VIRGIL, ILL.—The Virgil State bank, pillaged by hold-up men three times in the last few months, has decided to "call it quits."

Directors called a stockholders meeting to vote on proposed liquidation. The reason, directors said in a statement, is the "recent succession of robberies and the evident necessity of continued protection outlays."

Protection outlays have included a burglar-alarm system and an armed guard at the front door at all times. Customers must convince him before they can get in.

The bank was robbed of $4,000 October 20 by Spencer Peterson of near-by Little Rock and Joseph Hornyan of Aurora. It was taken for $2,000 November 13 by Peterson and Louis Rabenburg of Aurora. It was looted of $1,917 January 14 by Arthur Otowski and John Minister, both of Chicago.

Singer Outlines Technique for Bathroom Sinatras

BOSTON.—Do they laugh when you sit down in the bathtub to sing? "It shouldn't happen," singer Bobby Wayne says. "Anyone can sing. All he has to do is brush up on the three R's of music."

Just let the bathroom warblers sing their own voices, he said, and would eliminate the wifely complaints about squawking seals.

Wayne, who gets no complaints because he whippers lyrics, believes best of the shower and bathtub singers have good voices, but try to do the wrong things with them. Some are the Sinatra type and try to sing opera. Others are crooners who try to yodel.

"It can't be done," he said as he called an effort by Lawrence Tibbett to sing the "Hat-Sut Song."

"The opera fans screamed. The yobby sockers screamed, too. Tibbett is terrific at opera, but he got out of his vocal circle."

The three musical R's—resonance, range and rhythm—will put anyone in his proper niche, Wayne said, and tag him as a yodeler, balladier, crooner, light classical or opera singer.

500 People to Share Two-Million Dollars

NEW YORK.—A New York company has announced it has been ordered to look for 4,500 persons to whom two recently organized Chicago companies want to give $2,298,000.

The pleasing part about the whole thing for the missing 4,500 if they're found—is that they don't know they have the money coming. The potentially lucky 4,500 are missing stockholders in the Midland Utilities co. and the Midland Oil co., both of Chicago. The company hired to find the stockholders is the Tracers Company of America, in New York.

The last known addresses of the missing persons are scattered in Alaska, Hawaii, 15 foreign nations and in 500 cities, towns and villages of America, including Pawnee and Midland, Mich., Nectar, Pa., and Broken Bow, Ohio.

Under a court order last year in proceedings for reorganization of the Chicago companies, the court decreed that stockholders entitled to participate in the exchange of securities under the plan of reorganization must surrender their securities before June 30, 1953, otherwise they lose their rights in any securities or cash held for them.
