Foundations, Roofs Damaged By Severe Winter Weather

Record winter storms, high winds and run-off water from sudden spring thaws have taken a heavy toll of farm buildings. Surveys indicate that the greatest damage has been done to foundations and to roofs. Inadequate yard drainage is primarily responsible for washed-out foundations, according to J. L. Strahan, a member of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers. He points out that run-off water quickly pulls soil away from a foundation, particularly if the wall does not extend below the frost line. Buildings which settle should not be allowed to remain in this condition, Mr. Strahan says, but should be squared up quickly. A building allowed to stand in a wrecked condition for a period of time is difficult to repair.

When gutters and downspouts are clogged, melting snow and ice back up under shingles. Seeping into the interior, the moisture cracks plaster, stains wallpaper and rots the structure. A light roof is the first fundamental of sound shelter.

Clean Gutters, Downspouts
Once the building is squared up, steps need to be taken to avoid the same trouble in the future. Mr. Strahan recommends:
1—Grading the ground around buildings so that the water will flow away from foundations.
2—Making sure gutters and downspouts are free of debris and ample in size to carry off water.
3—When the eaves of a hay barn or dairy barn are not more than 8 or 10 feet above the ground, a concrete trough on the ground under the eaves and parallel to the foundation helps to protect the foundation from erosion.

Ice and snow attack latent weak spots in old roofs, says Mr. Strahan, who is technical director of the Asphalt Roofing Industry Bureau. Old roofing, which last fall appeared to have several years of useful life, may have been badly damaged by the unusually severe winter. Ice on roofs actually tears and splits old roofing.

As water is the principal enemy of frame buildings, Mr. Strahan urges farmers to recover damaged roofs this spring. "Otherwise, water seeping through the roof will warp the roof deck and raise the shingles. Moisture making its way down through the walls of the farm home will crack plaster and stain wallpaper. Left unchecked, moisture causes any building to rot and decay."

1—A roofing material, such as fire-resistant asphalt shingles, which can be applied right over the old roof. This saves time and dollars as it is unnecessary to tear off old roofing. In addition, most any roof, regardless of its condition, still has useful life which is preserved by the new, weather-tight surface.

2—In applying new roofing, use an eaves flashing strip of roll roofing which extends from the eaves up the roof to a point at least 12 inches inside the inside wall of the building. This will help to prevent the damage which occurs when the roof drainage system is clogged with ice and snow, and the water backs up under the first few courses of shingles into the interior of the building.

Joy Deavenport Elected Freshman Favorite at College

Joy Deavenport, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Deavenport, was elected as Freshman Favorite and as a runner-up for All School Beauty of Abilene Christian College recently. She was featured on a full page of the 1949 Prickly Pear, college annual.

Following is a report from Clyde T. Ellis, executive manager of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association to all directors of the Rural Electric System, and should be of special interest to all rural people of Briscoe County:

"This is a special report and urgent appeal to you regarding the bill, now in Congress, which would authorize REA to make loans for the expansion and improvement of rural telephone service. 'Frankly, it is our opinion that the bill will not be approved by the Congress unless it receives immediate aggressive and widespread support from rural people. Although the proposed legislation would help hundreds of small mutual and independent telephone companies, strong opposition to it has developed from the larger operators and some smaller companies, which have been misled as to the intent of the legislation. Congressmen and Senators are being flooded with mail opposed to it.

"Something must be done at once to reverse this tide if millions of rural people who want adequate and reliable telephone service are to get it. Our best hope of passing this legislation is in the present Congress. If it is defeated now, it may be another generation before it is revived. Furthermore, if the bill fails to pass now, present suppliers of telephone service will, we believe, 'expansion' operations as they have announced or started, taking from thousands of farm families any chance of getting telephone service in their lifetime.

"We would like to point out that the pending legislation does not propose to put REA co-ops into the telephone business against their wishes. Doubtless most of the loans under this program would be made to existing independent and mutual telephone companies and the new telephone cooperatives that would be organized to serve those areas which the existing companies are unable or unwilling to serve on an area-wide basis at reasonable rates.

"Far less than half of the farmers of the country have any telephone service at all. Most of those who have service have very poor service. The pending bills would help both groups.

"As you know, the National Association adopted a resolution unanimously at its recent New York meeting, urging the passage of this legislation. We are doing all we can here, but Congressmen tell us they are getting practically nothing from the farmers themselves in support of the bills, whereas the big 'phone companies are raising Cain.

You can help in this matter, if you will. Here is now: Make sure your neighbors, including those who may not be members of your co-op, know about the present legislation and what it would mean to rural people. Then, make sure your Congressmen and Senators know how you and your neighbors feel about it. Many of the Congressmen will be home for the holidays soon. See them or write them, or both, urging support of the Hill and Poage bills (S. 121 and H. R. 2960) without any crippling amendments. Address your Congressman in care of the House Office Building, and your Senator in care of the Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C."

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Hall and daughter, of Memphis, Mr. and Mrs. Troy Cox and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Berton Hughes and sons, visited Sunday in Canyon, Texas.

Judge Kenneth Bain and son, Kenneth Bain, Jr., were business visitors in Silverton Monday.

Mildred Bean County's Representative in Spelling Bee

On April 30, there will be an old-fashioned spelling bee in Amarillo. Contestants in this bee will be representatives from the thirty nine panhandle counties. One speller, who is under 15 years of age and not higher than the eighth grade in school, from each is the quota.

The winner of this spelling bee will be given an expense paid trip to Washington, D. C., starting May 30.

Briscoe County's representative is Mildred Bean, seventh grade student in our local school.

Social Security Tips Worth Remembering On Pay-days

The Amarillo social security office points out that while employers usually report all cash payments to their employees, they do not always include the money value of other pay which is made in some medium other than cash. This has come to the attention of the office during the handling of claims for benefit payments in this area.

J. R. Sanderson, manager of Amarillo social security office explained that the word "wages" used in the Social Security Act includes pay of various types. It includes cash, payments in kind such as meals, lodging, rent, or goods, and of course, salaries, bonuses, back pay, as well as pay by the hour, day or week.

Workers who receive part or all other pay in the form of meals or lodging, rent, or goods of any sort, and have reason to believe their wage accounts are incorrect, should contact the Amarillo social security office, located in room 324, Post Office Building. Ask for a postcard form which makes it easy to obtain a statement of wages credited to the employee's account.

All persons covered by Federal old-age and survivors insurance should keep in mind that benefit payments to them or their survivors are based on wages from jobs covered by the Social Security Act.

Silverton continued their winning ways Thursday as they ran rough shod over the Lockney Longhorns 16-4 in four innings. In the initial inning Lockney banded away for 3 runs and it looked as if the game was going to be a run away. As it turned out, the game was just that, except it was Silverton that ran away with it and the game was called at the end of four and one-half innings.

Satterfield and Rhea were the moundsmen for the Owls and what time Rhea wasn't pitching he was behind the plate catching. Wayne Hamilton also did a fine job of catching until he had to be removed from the game because of a pulled muscle.

The heavy hitters for the Owls in the Lockney game seemed to be D. Bean, D. Paige and D. Rhea, each garnering 2 safeties while Robert McPherson banded out a four bagger. The Longhorns threw every pitcher available into the onslaught to halt the Owls and finally threw in the water boy. By the way, the water boy did as good as the other pitchers.

Saturday, April 30, the Owls, Flomot, Turkey, Carey, Lakeview, Estelline and Kirkland battle it out in Turkey for the district championship and the right to represent the district in the bi-district game.

Oldsmobile Officially Presents Its New Futuramic '88'

Oldsmobile officially presents its new Futuramic '88' Series to the public today in dealer showrooms throughout the nation. In introducing the third new line of Futuramics for 1949, D. E. Ralston, general sales manager of this GM Division, predicted that because of its brand new styling and flashing performance the new Series '88' is destined to become one of the most popular offerings in Oldsmobile's long history.

"The new Oldsmobile Series '88' is the only car in its class that combines the distinctive 'Futuramic' design and the revolutionary 'Rocket' engine," Ralston said. "It also is the first car to make the high-compression performance of that new power plant available in the new, wider 'Body by Fisher.' This gives it an extremely favorable power-to-weight ratio, and provides perfect 'balance' between big car comfort and roadability, but easy maneuverability."

Oldsmobile's new Series '88'

will be available in six body styles and a full range of colors. The various models will include a full range of colors. The various models will include a Four-door Sedan, a Four-Door Town Sedan, a Club Sedan, a Club Coupe, a Convertible Coupe, and a newly styled Station Wagon.

"The new '88' Series will offer General Motors' Hydra-Matic Drive as standard equipment," Mr. Ralston said. "Hydra-Matic Drive is now standard equipment on the Futuramic Series '98' and optional on the Series '76' line. The combination of the 'Rocket' engine's 135 horsepower, with the extra comfort and visibility of the new Fisher Body, plus the ease of Hydra-Matic Driving, makes the '88' a sure winner," Oldsmobile's sales chief continued. "Add to this the fact that the '88' will sell for considerably less than any previous Futuramic Eight, and you can understand our great expectations for the new line," he said.

Mr. Ralston explained that the public announcement of the Series '88' was purposely scheduled for announcement in February, partly for production reasons, and partly because it was felt that sensational new car was deserving of maximum attention from the automobile-buying public.

Crass motor Company will have the new car on the floor this week and specially invite you to see this outstanding new automobile.

MIRACLE SURGERY

Doctors End Long Torture

SAN FRANCISCO—An unprecedented operation which restored the ability of a 43-year-old man to swallow has been reported by three University of California surgeons. A gunshot wound caused the affliction of the unnamed patient. He had to take all food and liquid through a tube that by-passed his throat. Any attempt to swallow caused coughing and strangling. He could not appear in public.

After three years of this torture, the man was on the verge of suicide, the surgeons said in a medical publication, The Annals of Surgery.

Bullet Cut Nerves

The doctors, Howard C. Naffziger, H. Glenn Bell, and Cooper Davis, found the bullet had cut four important face and head nerves. The nerves could not be restored. The surgeons decided to try to cross-connect some of the healthy muscles of the throat to replace those made useless by nerve degeneration.

Medical books did not show the surgeons all they needed to know about swallowing. Slow-motion X-ray movies of normal swallowing and the patient's attempts to swallow showed for the first time, they said, the mechanism of the procedure.

Before operating on the patient the doctors experimented on three monkeys.

One of the things about the patient was that some of the useless muscles in his neck bulged out when he tried to swallow, obstructing the throat passage.

The doctors bound these muscles with a strip of thick, tough sheathing tissue which normally covers the main bundles of blood vessels and nerves in the neck.

The other main difficulty was that the patient's Adams apple would not rise. This is one of the important movements in swallowing.

Surgeons Split Muscle

The surgeons made a lengthwise split in a muscle which runs from the back of the head to the base of the tongue and the chin. This muscle normally retracts the tongue. Part of the muscle was left for the tongue. The other part was tied to the Adam's apple, restoring its ability to rise.

The patient was afraid to try his rebuilt throat at first, but now is swallowing normally, the doctors said.

The new operation may help some war wounded.

Filibuster Would Permit Senators to Die Talking

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The ancient and honorable custom of filibustering is based on the proposition that a senator may talk himself to death if he chooses.

American legislators have been taking advantage of the filibuster "right" ever since the nation was born, but now some senators think it's time to put an end to it. Sponsored by Republicans, a proposal to change senate debate rules also have support from some Democrats.

If they have the voice and constitution, senators may now, under certain circumstances, talk as long as they wish. Senators have kept the floor for hours or days and—in relays—for weeks and even months to defeat a proposed law.

They don't talk, necessarily, to persuade opposing senators. They may just talk to make the opposition so weary it will give up out of boredom.

The fabulous Huey Long of Louisiana read the Bible, offered advice on love affairs, told how to fry oysters and make "pot likker," read a biographical sketch of Frederick the Great and quoted Victor Hugo.

Long was supporting an amendment to the national industrial recovery act in June, 1935. He talked 15½ hours but lost the debate.

Police Called to Rid Dwelling of Noisy Cats

ROSELLE, N. J. — In the home of Mrs. David J. Schulman it was the cats' meow—with five of them vocalizing until police drove them out with blackjacks.

One was chased out by the first officer to arrive, but returned. They took to the rafters when attacked. Concerted police effort finally was successful in ridding the home of cats—and howls.

"I can't understand how they get in," said Mrs. Schulman. "The doors are locked."

The cats move too fast to be counted accurately. But Mrs. Schulman said she thought there were five. The howling in the basement, from soprano to bass, perhaps boosts her estimate.

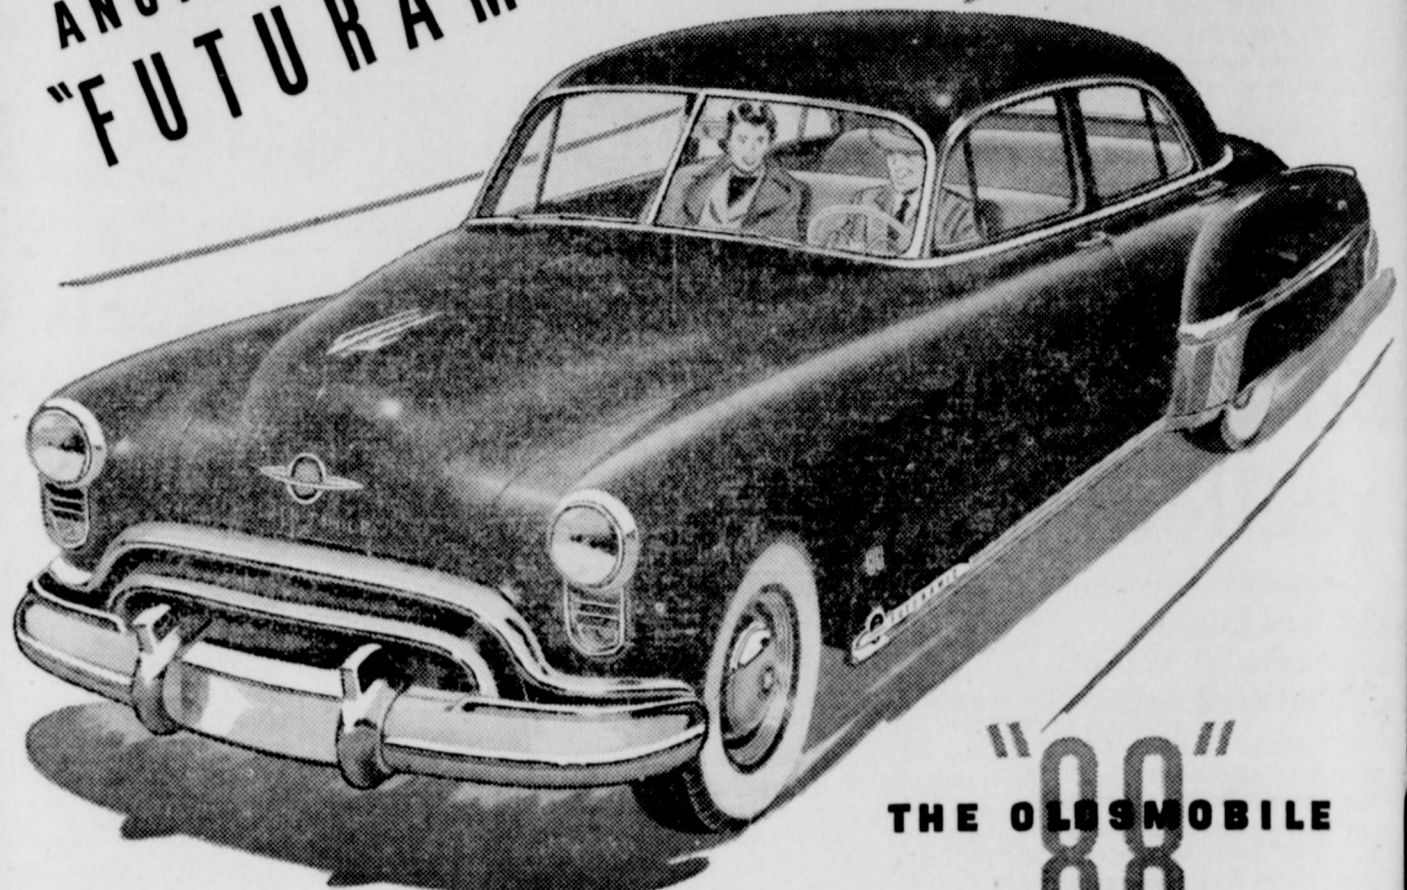

Mrs. Schulman thinks the cats were courting a female feline which belongs to her household "more or less." She said the female just adopted the Schulmans.

When the lady cat goes, Mrs. Schulman hopes the rest of the beasts won't find the house so attractive.

"Last year," sighed Mrs. Schulman, "they were in the attic. We got them out of there, and now they're in the basement."

Also, said Mrs. Schulman, her daughter Valerie, 5, is allergic to cats.

SANITATION BEING STRESSED BY STATE HEALTH OFFICER

Austin, Texas, April 28.—Emphasizing the importance of proper sanitation standards in public eating establishments, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer urges the patrons of such establishments to insist upon cleanliness in the preparation and dispensing of foods.

The health authorities cannot maintain daily inspection of cafes and other food handling places, and if the public is careless in accepting insanitary conditions, dozens of infectious diseases can be transmitted to the public from insanitary food and utensils.

"Food handlers schools are being taught constantly throughout the State," Dr. Cox said, "and every cafe owner should take advantage of these schools to see that his personnel is trained in the sanitary methods of preparing, storing and dispensing food to the public. If that is their profession, they should qualify themselves to do the work safely. This is the restaurant owner's responsibility to his patrons."

The public should insist upon a cafe being free from roaches, flies, and other insects; cracked dishes should never be used; tables and linens, as well as dishes and silverware should be scrupulously clean, and milk should be served in the original container, with the cap intact. They should note whether or not cafe displays a placard stating that its standards of sanitation have been approved by local or state health officials.

"Obviously the best in sanitation can be had only through close cooperation between the public, and health officials. As long as the public approves and accepts insanitary conditions in eating establishments, they will continue to exist," Dr. Cox warned.

BUSINESS FAILURES ARE ON INCREASE IN TEXAS

The number of business failures in Texas almost doubled from February to March, Dun and Bradstreet reports to the University of Texas showed.

Business fatalities totaled 22 in March, as compared with 12 in February, 6 in March a year ago, and 4 in February 1948.

Liabilities per failure averaged $51,000 in March, $35,000 in February, and $46,000 a year earlier. For the first quarter in 1949, 40 Texas business firms failed as compared to 18 for the comparable period in 1948.

Waitress Puts Out Fire, Fined

PASADENA, CALIF.—Gloria Miller, 24-year-old waitress, was fined $25 because she put out a fire in her apartment and neglected to notify the fire department until 12 hours later.

Her landlord, William Berk, produced the $25 and spoke glowingly of his tenant.

"Hers was a heroic action which prevented greater property damage and possibly loss of life," the landlord said. "I spoke to several firemen about the state law requiring all fires to be reported, no matter how trivial. They admitted they had never heard of it."

Then Berk announced he was cutting Miss Miller's rent 10 per cent.

"Hot ziggy!" she exclaimed. "Oops! Maybe I'll have to report that!"

Oak Ridge Opens First Public Museum On 'Man And Atom'

OAK RIDGE, TENN.—As part of a broad program of public education in the field of nuclear sciences, the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies has established the world's first permanent museum dealing with atomic energy.

To be known as the American Museum of Atomic Energy, the exhibit was opened to the public on March 19, when the security gates to the town of Oak Ridge were removed and the community itself adopted a normal residential and business role.

The museum is operated by the institute, a non-profit educational corporation of nineteen Southern universities which conducts a program of research and training in the nuclear sciences under a contract with the atomic energy commission.

The exhibit includes the "man and the atom" show which was shown at the New York City golden jubilee last summer. It is described as the most complete exhibit ever assembled in the field of atomic energy.

The display is housed in a 32,000-square-foot structure used as a cafeteria during the war. A nominal fee is charged for admission and the proceeds will be used for improvements in the exhibit. The institute has assembled a trained staff for the museum.

Hamburg Night Life Irks British Occupation Force

HAMBURG.—The sign on the door of the plush Atlantik Hotel still says verboten to Germans.

Sickly kids beg cigarettes as British cars roll up.

Half a mile away across the Alster, the picturesque lake in the middle of Hamburg, stands another hotel, The Esplanade. There are no signs here because this is a German place.

Inside The Esplanade, waiters in tails hover over prosperous-looking men with beautiful, expensively dressed women. A band plays far better jazz than you can hear in a British club.

Outside stand the kids, this time begging from Germans.

This is Hamburg, 1949. The feverish pulse of currency reform has given the city a Parisian glow. Everyone agrees it's the most luxurious place in Germany. One reason may be that it's a port, another that the bombs which wrecked the out-skirts spared the center. At night thousands of lights twinkle around the beautiful Alster.

If it's night life you want, you can go to The Esplanade, or The Tarantella, or a place called Er und Sie (he and she), done in cream and dark blue in the best New York tradition.

A bottle of good champagne costs 35 marks. At the official rate of exchange, this is $12.

Navy Official Chides 'Gadget War' Beliefs

WHITE OAK, MD.—The assistant secretary of the navy for air, John Nicholas Brown, has chided scientists for spreading the idea that wars might be won easily with gadgets and "extraordinary" weapons.

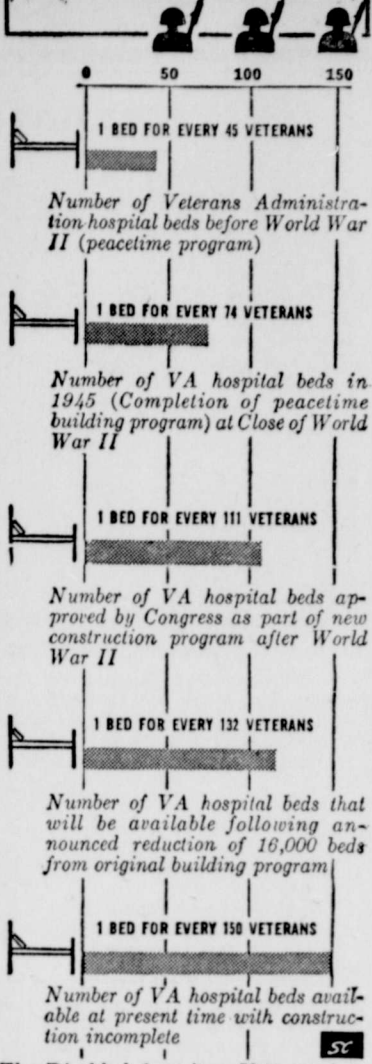

"The ability of a human being to survive the blows of his enemies, in whatever form delivered, is immense," he said in a speech for the dedication of the central unit of a new $35,000,000 navy ordnance laboratory.

"His capacity not only to survive, but his faculty of continuing to fight, is amazing," Brown continued. "The facility with which he finds means to counter the most highly developed machines of warfare is discouraging."

"The idea of war easily won by means of extraordinary weapons is an old one and very appealing. It is an extremely dangerous concept to propagate. I fear it may tend to give our people an idea of war very far indeed from that justified by the facts as we know them."

"It must be confessed that much of the misapprehension regarding the nature of war stems from commentaries by men whose knowledge of science vastly exceeds their experience in the actualities of combat."

HOSPITAL BEDS FOR VETERANS

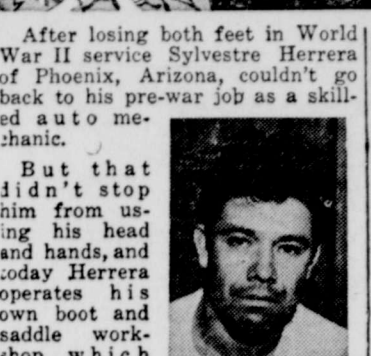

The Disabled American Veterans has announced it will vigorously oppose the reduction of the originally approved hospital program—which it contends was insufficient in itself—by 16,000 beds. However, the main concern of the DAV at the present time is the rapid completion of the hospital building program even as it has been cut.

HERO of the Month AS SELECTED BY THE D.A.V.

SYLVESTRE HERRERA

After losing both feet in World War II service Sylvestre Herrera of Phoenix, Arizona, couldn't go back to his pre-war job as a skilled auto mechanic.

But that didn't stop him from using his head and hands, and today Herrera operates his own boot and saddle workshop which provides a successful living for himself, his wife and their four children.

And because he refuses to let a serious handicap keep him from being a useful citizen, Herrera has been selected as the "Hero of the Month" by the Disabled American Veterans.

The selection is part of a national program to honor each month a seriously disabled veteran who has successfully rehabilitated himself.

Herrera is an outstanding example of the DAV conviction that with proper assistance a disabled veteran can succeed.

Winner of the Congressional Medal of Honor, Purple Heart, Combat Infantryman's Badge, ETO ribbon and Victory Medal, and the Mexican Military Merit, he returned to Phoenix with a brilliant war record.

He was a PFC with the 142nd Infantry, 36th Division and lost both feet when he stepped on a mine near Mertzwiller, France. His outstanding heroism during the attack which cost him his legs brought him the Congressional Medal.

Following months of hospitalization, Herrera returned home with two artificial feet.

The entire city of Phoenix turned out to give Mexican born but Phoenix reared Sylvestre Herrera the only hero's reception accorded any returned local serviceman.

Public subscription raised more than $14,000 for the Herreras; businesses, banks and the unions joined to furnish land, material and labor for a fine brick home.

Through the Veterans Administration training program, Herrera took on the job training at the Brown Boot and Saddle leather workshop where he learned the leatherworking trade. So adept was Herrera and so much a craftsman, that he completed in 11 months a course that normally takes four years.

An accomplished workman, he now sells purses, billfolds and belts. He has his own workshop adjacent to his home.

Herrera attributes his rehabilitation to the Veterans Administration training, his life membership in Chapter No. 1 of the Disabled American Veterans in Phoenix, and the open heartedness of a town that opened its pursestrings to a man that needed assistance.

THESE are the people who own your electric light and power company. Chances are you are one of this group, too. They represent a cross-section of America — housewives, doctors, teachers — industrial workers, craftsmen, farmers — mechanics and milkmen. Yes, people from all walks of life have put their savings into companies like ours. They're direct owners. But there are countless indirect owners, too — many who don't know they have a stake in the electric industry. They're people with life insurance policies and savings accounts. When banks and insurance companies accept your money, they must invest it wisely. And because business-managed electric companies have a long record of successful service, much of that money is invested in utility securities. So, you see, the electric industry is owned by the people it serves.

Do You Know the Definition of a Dirt Farmer?

A dirt farmer is a man who starts out with nothing, loses on everything, he grows and comes out even at the end of the year. Nobody knows how he does it, he doesn't even know himself. Heaven help the family that depends on him for support; Heaven help the country that doesn't depend on him for its support.

Attractive Salad Mold

Molded salads have a crisp, cool look that makes you eager to taste. And when you make the mold with flavorful cream cheese and salad dressing, fruit nectar, crushed pineapple and celery, you have a salad supreme in flavor, color and good eating.

- Serve with dainty bread and butter sandwiches and a beverage.
- | | |
|---------------------------|---------------------------------|
| 2 tablespoons gelatin | 2 3-ounce packages cream cheese |
| 1/2 cup cold water | 1 cup chopped celery |
| 2 cups apricot nectar | 1/2 cup chopped pecans |
| Dash of salt | 2 teaspoons gelatin |
| 3 tablespoons lemon juice | 1/4 cup cold water |
| 1 cup crushed pineapple | Apricot halves |
| 1/2 cup salad dressing | Pineapple Slice halves |

Soften the 2 tablespoons of gelatin in the 1/2 cup cold water. Dissolve over hot water, and add to the apricot nectar blended with the salt and lemon juice. Chill. When the aspic begins to thicken add the crushed pineapple. Pour half of this mixture into an 8 1/2-inch ring mold which has been brushed with salad oil. Chill until firm.

Blend the salad dressing into the cream cheese. Add celery and pecans. Soften 2 teaspoons of gelatin in the 1/4 cup water. Dissolve over hot water and add to the cheese mixture. Spread this mixture over the firm apricot aspic. Chill.

Pour the remaining apricot aspic over the cream cheese layer and chill again.

When firm, unmold on crisp lettuce. Fill the center with small lettuce leaves and salad dressing. Surround the mold with the apricot and pineapple halves.

Wanted:
A MAN TO STEAL SOME MONEY!

We're looking for a man (don't care how old or young he is) who loves money.
A man who likes the feeling of having a little extra money on hand, just in case something unexpected pops up.
A man who swears he's going to save some money, and yet never seems to get started, because—well, because he just never seems to get started.
We want this man to steal some money—from himself.
That's right, we want him to go down to his bank or into his boss (either one) and sign up for the Automatic Savings Plan.
Then he can sit back and watch his Savings Bonds pile up, like pennies in a kid's bank. Only there's none of the temptation of a piggy bank. No pain, when you save this automatic way.
It's just like getting extra money from yourself, except that you never know it's happening—you hardly miss it when it comes around to paying the bills or balancing the budget, because it's worked out so well. And you get every cent of it back, with a handsome interest—$4 on every $3 you put in.
The automatic Payroll Savings or Bond-A-Month Plans make saving money almost as easy as spending it. See about whichever of these two plans is best for you today.

It Isn't Too Late to Plant the Green Bush Beans

What is a home garden without beans, asks J. F. Rosborough, extension horticulturist of Texas A. and M. College.

It isn't too late to plant the green bush beans. The Giant Stringless Green Pod variety is standard among home gardeners. A new kind called Logan is the latest model in beans. This variety is outstanding in quality, and is recommended for use as a fresh vegetable, or for freezing or canning, Rosborough says.

It's a little early for the pole bean varieties right now. And a point to remember about the pole beans is that these plants must be set out further apart in the row because they grow larger than the bush types. Kentucky Wonder is standard in the pole varieties, but the Blue Lake is higher in quality and yields as well as the Kentucky Wonder.

As for the lima beans, the Henderson Bush or Bordhook are good bush types, says Rosborough. The Silva and Florida Speckled are excellent pole types. The Silva is a white bean, while the Florida Speckled is a brown mottled type.

In East Texas, the Florida Speckled seems to do best, while in the damp Gulf Coastal area the Silva is preferred, he concludes.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Effect Disputed as Pact Signed; Bradley Urges European Fortress; Senate Okays More Aid for Chinese

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

PACT SIGNED:

Hopes & Fears

For better or worse . . . for a hope of peace or a step toward war . . . the North Atlantic pact was now a reality. Whether it would insure peace or aggravate tensions into war, no one could say with finality. There could be no doubt anywhere, however, that its signing was completed in a world atmosphere redolent of both hopes and fears.

STRIPPED of its mumbo-jumbo phraseology, the intent of the pact is simple: It declares that an act of aggression against any of the signatory nations shall be construed as an attack against all. It does not make mandatory military help by any signatory to any pact member who may be attacked. The degree of assistance is optional.

Therein, as many observers have pointed out, lies the pact's strength and its weakness. The strength inherent in the proviso lies in its leaving to signatory nations exercise of their own judgment regarding the degree of emergency in the event of attack, and does not precipitate hurl all pact signatories into war willy-nilly. Its weakness stems from the fact that aggressor nations may be willing to gamble that great powers will not be willing to wage all-out war to come to the assistance of a smaller signatory.

THERE WAS STAUNCH denial that the pact was aimed at any particular nation, but only a moron would concede the truth in that. The pact definitely was aimed at blocking Russian aggression against the smaller signatories, and there was little effort to hide the hope that the pact would do just that.

On the other hand, there were those who felt the step was one which would ultimately lead to war as Russia would brook no actions short of war to stop the tide of Soviet imperialism.

Pact signatories were the United States, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Iceland, Italy, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Norway, Portugal and the United Kingdom.

DEFENSE:

Arms for Europe

The United States was urged to follow up swiftly its peace-insurance action in signing the North Atlantic pact. General Omar N. Bradley, U.S. chief of staff, called for a military aid program which would strengthen western Europe as a fortress and stop an aggressor before he could overrun the continent.

Bradley rejected the idea widely held among some military men that it would be impossible to stop Russia from conquering all Europe if it chose. The best thing the United States could do, according to that theory, would be to strike back with air power and lead a counterattack which would eventually liberate the continent.

BRADLEY flatly contended that such strategy would breed despair among potential allies in Europe and render them impotent.

His remarks carried added significance because he stated he had been requested by the state department to comment publicly on the military security significance of the North Atlantic pact and its implementation.

He took a hefty swing at the Soviets, although omitting them by name, when he declared: "If to be resolute is to be hostile, then we shall have to endure the slanders of those who call us hostile. For their slanders are the expressions of angry resentment from jackals denied their plunder."

HE DECLARED the Atlantic pact had removed the world crisis from a "cold war" stage, and warned that America could all "too readily become the victim of our own slogans . . . if we do not soon renounce our catch-word addiction in all too many minds that 'cold war' is the overtone to real war, we may find ourselves with a mentality that accepts real war as inevitable."

But did his urging to strengthen the "ramparts" of Europe in favor of air power and liberation later, mean strengthen the pact countries' defenses with men as well as guns and munitions.

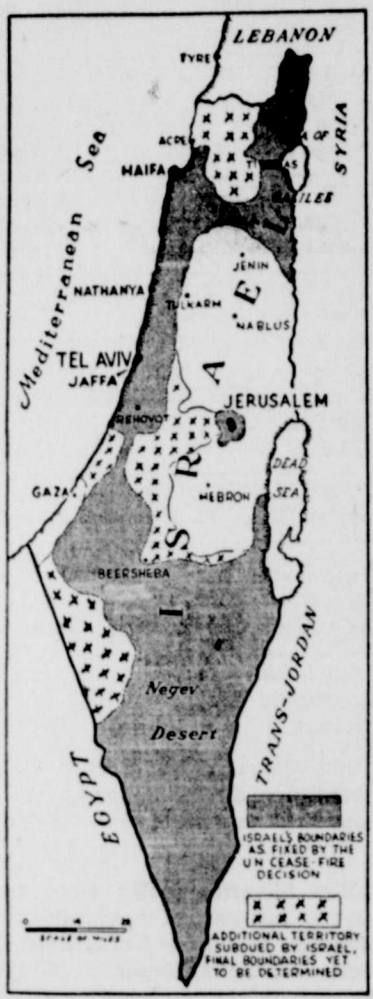

That was a possibility the people of the U.S. would have to consider.

RUSSIANS ON RAMPAGE

Soviet Troops Attack Army Post in Iran

Even as the North Atlantic pact was being signed in an actual, though disavowed, effort to stem the spread of Russian imperialism, a military informant in Tehran reported Russian forces had attacked an Iranian army post. The report stated a Russian regiment, supported by tanks and armored cars had made a new foray into Azerbaijan province.

ARMISTICE:

Jews in Dissent

Amid verbal strife and dissension, the government of Israel consummated an armistice with Trans-Jordan. Despite vociferous opposition, the government won a test vote of confidence in parliament.

WHATEVER ELSE the armistice may have effected, a foreign office spokesman said it had added 150 square miles to Israel. This area was to be pared off the northwestern area of the bulge by an Arab withdrawal from the Hadera-Afula road and off the western edge by a withdrawal from the Tel Aviv-Haifa railroad.

But the armistice was not effected without bitterness. Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion's opponents charged the armistice was tantamount to recognizing the incorporation of the Jenin-Tulkarm-Nablue bulge north of Jerusalem into the Hashemite Jordan kingdom of monarch Abdullah.

The vote followed a stormy five-hour debate. Opponents charged the armistice opened Israel to Anglo-American influence. Ben-Gurion retorted that possibly Trans-Jordan was a puppet government (of Britain) but there were also puppet parties in Israel serving outside interests.

CHINA:

More Aid

There would be more aid from the United States—but, locking the door too late—there was a condition. The senate wrote into the aid bill a ban on shipments to Communist-controlled areas.

IT LONG HAD BEEN public information that much of the supplies and munitions sent by this country to aid the Chinese Nationalists in their fight against communism had fallen into Communist hands. The procedure was beginning to make America and its Far East policy appear a bit silly.

Now, congress had moved to stop a procedure which must have afforded no little amusement to Russia and her Communist hordes in China.

THE U.S. SENATE accepted an amendment to the aid measure to make available 54 million dollars in "frozen" China aid funds—provided it is spent only in areas controlled by the Nationalist government.

Love Among Lawmakers

BOISE, IDAHO.—Rep. Ed. Snow arose in the Idaho house of representatives and asked: "Will the lady from Ada yield to a question?" Pretty, red haired Rep. Edith Miller replied: "I'll yield, but only to the question. And I don't guarantee the answer." "I was wondering if the lady from Ada would consent to marry me," Snow said. The house roared with laughter. Speaker Larry Mills hampered for order and ruled that the question need not be answered. Miss Miller disappeared, flushing. She returned a few minutes later and announced that "on point of personal privilege, I accept Mr. Snow's proposal." Details of their legislative romance were entered in the records of the house.

Are Old Volume Treasure Trove 'Tongue Tanglers'

WORCESTER, MASS.—The Society of American Antiquarians acquired an alliterative asset—a rare early edition of the children's nursery book "Peter Piper's Practical Principles of Plain and Perfect Pronunciation." Published in near-by Lancaster in 1700, it goes through the alphabet with a tongue twister for each letter. Best known is the famous: Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers; Peter Piper pick a peck of pickled peppers? Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers, where's the peck of pickled peppers Peter Piper picked? The astonishing alliterative addition in the preface goes: "Peter Piper, without pretensions of precocity or profundness, puts up to paper to produce these puzzling pages, purposely to please the tastes of pretty prattling play-folks, proudly presuming that the proper penetration it will probably, and perhaps positively, prove a peculiarly pleasant and profitable path to proper, plain and precise pronunciation."

Escaped Prisoner Calls Jailor for Room Rent

LOUISVILLE.—The crowning incident, according to Lt. Frank Callan, warden of the county jail, was the telegram he received from Frank Madish, 40, a Huber law prisoner who failed to return to the county jail. The telegram, Callan informed District Judge Harvey L. Neelen yesterday, read: "Please forward room rent." Madish, Callan said, was picked up Sunday at a downtown hotel, where he had been living since taking French leave. And his arrest, according to Callan, ended one of the unhappiest periods in Callan's experience as a jailer. For, in addition to the telegram, there were a dozen or more telephone calls that Callan received at his office and at his home from Madish. And each time Madish referred to Callan in ungentlemanly terms, the warden said. Madish had been sentenced to six months in the county jail Jan. 7 on a charge of malicious injury to property. Under the Huber law, Judge Neelen permitted him to leave the jail to work during the day in order to support his estranged wife and his children. But Thursday, when Madish failed to return to jail, Callan learned that Madish had quit his job and had cashed his pay check.

Notesque Items Hold Interest at Museums

MILWAUKEE.—If the persons who annually make more than a million and one-half visits to the public museum were to be polled as to their favorite exhibits, it's a safe bet that they'd place shrunken heads and mummies high on the popularity list. More questions are asked about the shriveled heads of dark skinned Yuro Indians, who ploded the jungles of Ecuador some 50 years ago, and the bound forms of two Egyptian priests than any other exhibits, according to museum guards. Some visitors return annually to see whether the heads have shrunk any more or if the glaring Jivaros still have their teeth. They do. Young and old, they gaze with fascination at the mummies, one of whom is 2,600 and the other 3,600 years old. "I've often wondered why the shrunken heads and mummies are so popular," commented Dr. Walter Kline, associate curator of education at the museum. "I guess it's the grotesqueness of it all. That tendency is evident in the extreme interest of some children in seeing skeletons of both animals and humans. Only, in those cases, they don't take much of a look to satisfy them. One glance and they're ready to take in something else." Visitors find it difficult to believe that birds mounted with the original feathers are not faked reproductions.

Weed Control Meeting in Amarillo Draws 400 Farmers

Some 400 farmers and ranchers from many parts of West Texas, were in Amarillo Thursday for the second annual conference of the Texas Weed Control Association, heard various agricultural leaders and authorities explain how the magic 2,4-D compound can still do a great job despite the debatable reputation it has achieved in some sections of Texas and the southwest.

M. K. Thornton, agriculture chemist for the A. and M. College Extension Service, warned that "the careless use of 2,4-D has gotten some of us kicked in the pants." He had pointed out that some cotton and truck farmers in South Texas had become aroused when their crops were damaged by careless use of the now famous compound.

Other speakers had lauded the compound and declared it will kill bindweed "if applied for several seasons in succession." Most of the delegates had come to the conference to learn, if possible, what can be done to exterminate the bindweed that has infested so many crops all over the southwest.

Dave Savage, agronomist with the experiment station in Woodward, Oklahoma, considered one of the best authorities on research for improvement of rangelands, submitted proof that 2,4-D does kill sagebrush on ranches in this section. He pointed out that cattle on ranches which have undertaken the program to eradicate its sagebrush have shown an average gain of 40 pounds each in a year's time on the same range after it was given two-years' treatment of brush control.

"But we have not yet determined if 2,4-D, or any formulation of it will kill shinnery brush," he told the group. "We are making tests now, combining 2,4-D and 3,4,5-T compounds, to see if the shinnery growth can be killed but we will not know the results until next spring."

County Agent Charley Reed of Claude told the conference an airplane had been used in his county to spray 2,4-D four years in succession on bindweed and that the operator of the farm says the project has been a profitable one. The formulation will reach into the taproot but not the lateral roots of the bindweed but continual and successive applications will eventually kill the nuisance plant, the agent believes.

County Agent Art Bralley of Potter county cited an instance where 300 acres of volunteer wheat, about to be plowed under, was saved when an airplane was used to spray it with 2,4-D, which killed out the abundant growth of big weeds. The farmer paid out $100 for the spraying job and harvested $6,000 worth of wheat.

Bralley also cited the fact that "the fight on bindweed is very encouraging." His talk had followed reports from Park Supt.
