State Marriage Law Is Changed Effective October 5th

It's going to be a little bit harder to get married in Texas since the new law became effective October 5.

It requires both prospective bride and bridegroom to have a physical examination, including a blood test, before the marriage license may be issued.

The marriage must be performed within 15 days after a physical examination is taken for the requirements of the law. The law also provides that county clerks may charge a 50 cent fee for issuing a certificate certifying that both applicants for a marriage license have presented evidence of having taken the examination, thus upping the cost of a marriage license from $2.50 to $3.00.

Twelve words sum up the remarkable rehabilitation of a World War II disabled veteran who sacrificed as much as any man can possibly sacrifice and still continue to live.

"I felt like I could do it and so I did it."

Those are the words of John W. Westmoreland of Batesburg, South Carolina, operator of a filling station—though blind—and proprietor of a short order lunch counter—though he has but one leg.

Because he has had the courage to overcome a multitude of injuries and disabilities caused by war service and succeeded in a new field of endeavor, Westmoreland has been selected by the Disabled American Veterans as its "Hero of the Month."

The selection is part of a national program to honor each month a seriously disabled veteran who has successfully rehabilitated himself.

Westmoreland left his job as a physically fit loom tender in a textile mill to join the 23rd Infantry Division in the fall of 1942.

One June 15, 1944, near St. Lo, France, enemy fire felled him. Shrapnel struck both eyes and his right leg.

Pvt. John W. Westmoreland was discharged following hospitalization with the Purple Heart, Arrow Head, and Bronze Campaign Star—but without his sight and his right leg.

Upon discharge from government hospitals, Westmoreland was given special instruction by the Vocational Rehabilitation and Education Division of the Veterans Administration as an operator of a filling station.

Today, at Batesburg, he has his own place of business and has added a short lunch counter to his gas station. He has a thriving business.

During the recent state department convention of the Disabled American Veterans—which adopted a resolution recommending his as a "Hero of the Month"—Westmoreland "out-jitterbugged" every disabled veteran at the convention dance.

Popcorn Does Best on Nitrogen-Treated Soil Test Show

Popcorn grown on nitrogen-treated test plots in the Plainview area has netted yields up to approximately double those on untreated plots, according to scientists of the Texas Research Foundation, who have just announced results derived from preliminary popcorn fertilizer tests.

Announcement of these findings was made by M. L. Kinman, in charge of the Texas Research Foundation's popcorn project, assisted by D. B. Grissom, who has just returned to Renner from Plainview where he has harvested test plots and other popcorn experiments located at that point. In line with these results, plans are being made to investigate the fertilizer problem for popcorn more thoroughly next year.

The tests were conducted on the Glen A. Beard farm, one mile west of Plainview, and on the S. E. Curry farm, seven miles north of the city, using nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium, alone and in all possible combinations with each other.

Grissom reported that popcorn yields were increased on the nitrogen-treated plots to 3,300 to 4,000 pounds per acre, from approximately 2,000 pounds for the untreated plots. This is the equivalent of increase in profits ranging from $36 to $60 per acre, realized from use of $10 to $20 worth of nitrogenous fertilizers, it was pointed out.

As best judged from these tests, optimum rate of application seemed to lie between 60 and 120 pounds of elemental nitrogen per acre. Results indicated that nitrogen was the only element which gave increased yields, the other fertilizers apparently having little effect. Very little difference was noted in time of application, whether made at planting time or as a side dressing at the first cultivation.

Virtually all the popcorn produced in Texas is grown in the South Plains area.

DEAF SMITH COUNTY OK'S ROAD BOND ISSUE

Hereford, October 2 — Deaf Smith voters expressed overwhelming approval of a half-million dollar road bond issue Saturday in a county-wide election.

Tabulation of votes Sunday afternoon showed 574 for the $500,000 in bonds, with 142 opposing the issue. Two small boxes remain to be counted, but they will not materially affect the final totals, County Clerk R. L. Thompson said.

A two-thirds majority was necessary to approve the issue, which will be used to build about 56 miles of rural roads in this county. Engineering will be furnished by the State Highway Department.

The Highway Department will assume maintenance of the roads after they are completed.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Templeton, of Amherst, Mrs. Floyd Brock, of Levelland, Mrs. W. O. Pentycuff, of Waco, were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brannon last week. Mrs. Brannon accompanied Mrs. Pentycuff home for a weeks visit.

Rain Makers

Back to Laboratories

NEW YORK. — Scientists can make it rain—but they agree that they can't make it any time, any place. So they are going back to their laboratories to see what they can do about it.

The making of rain with dry ice, experiments with which began some three years ago, cannot be done just with any old cloud or at any old place.

The United States weather bureau has recently concluded three rain-making experiments with negative results they got more than a year ago in tests over Ohio when 150 attempts failed to show how to make rain of economic importance to farmers.

Scientific rainmaking, however, has proved one new point beyond doubt — namely, that clouds, their structure, why the rain and why they develop the power to cause disasters are a lot more intricate than has been supposed.

Old Indian Village Is to Be Restored By Wisconsin State

AZTALAN, WIS. — Today about 350 persons live here at Aztalan where five hundred years ago about 1,000 Indians dwelt in a thriving village. The Indian inhabitants vanished about 1500 and now the site of the once busy Indian village is a big, bumpy field knee-deep in weeds; but the state of Wisconsin plans someday to reconstruct the village to look just as it did centuries ago.

The state of Wisconsin has purchased the site for a state park. But no construction of the village can be done until the topsoil is carefully scraped away and the undisturbed ground below the plow zone scrutinized.

Ten brawny, sun tanned archaeologists are spending the summer in the middle of the field, carefully scraping the soil off and cataloging everything they find. The expedition, headed by Chandler Rowe, assistant professor of anthropology at Lawrence college, has uncovered many broken jugs, bird and deer bones, shell hoes and an occasional sharp bone used by the Indians as a shuttle in weaving.

From the materials found, the archaeologists reconstruct the culture of the Indians who lived here. Rowe pointed to a circular blackish area about six inches across, and explained that it was a decayed post. Series of such post holes have indicated the exact location of a stockade that surrounded the village and the size and shape of the houses. When the conservation department restores the village, it will be able to sink posts in the exact places where the Indians did.

Archaeologists have been excavating Aztalan off and on since 1919. Their discoveries show pretty certainly that the Indians were from the middle Mississippi valley.

Talking Crow Enrolled At Illinois University

CHAMPAIGN, ILL.—George M. Crowham, a talking crow, is going to school at the University of Illinois.

Dr. O. H. Mowrer, director of the psychological clinic, hopes to establish from George M. Crowham just how babies learn to talk.

David Maxwell, 17, Edwardsville, Ill., who taught the bird to talk gave it to Mowrer. Mowrer believes the process by which the crow was taught to speak is the same as that by which a mother coaxes the first words from a child.

New York Track Athlete Outwalks Horse Opponent

Then, without pausing for breath, he swam a half mile, walked a half mile and ran a half mile in 14 minutes, 25 2/10 seconds.

Scarlet Fever is Dangerous and Disabling Disease

Austin, October 5—Scarlet fever is one of the most disabling and dangerous diseases usually associated with childhood, although actually it is confined to no age limit, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. While only six cases were reported in the state during the week ending September 24, it brought the year's total to 911 cases.

The doctor described scarlet fever as an acute infectious disease, the onset of which is sudden. The first symptoms including sore throat, vomiting, fever, and headache, may appear in three to five days after exposure. These are followed by the distinctive red rash which gives this disease its name, Dr. Cox stated.

Complications may cause prolonged disability or death. Children suffering with scarlet fever may develop sinusitis and middle-ear infections which can lead to mastoiditis. As the germs spread through the child's system, the joints, kidneys, and heart may become involved, causing life-long invalidism or crippling.

"A child with any kind of a sore throat should be seen by the family physician promptly," Dr. Cox asserted. "If scarlet fever is present, the treatment recommended will do much to alleviate discomfort and reduce the possibility of serious complications."

Dr. Cox stated that children under ten years of age are most susceptible, and that those persons who fail to contract scarlet fever until grown stand an excellent chance of never having the disease.

Ape Guards of Tradition Declining on Gibraltar

Only a thin simian line holds strategic Gibraltar for Britain these days, or so tradition has it.

The legend is that "when the apes go, the British go, too," and the celebrated Barbary apes that inhabit the famous 1,350-foot Rock have been declining in numbers of late.

Gibraltar's apes, the only members of the monkey family living wild in all Europe, have roamed the cactus-covered upper reaches of the Rock for centuries—perhaps since Roman times, notes the National Geographic society. Numbering 100 or more early in the 19th century, they have dwindled alarmingly close to the disappearing point several times since.

The British, however, are very conscious of the legend prophecy and each time the size of the ape colony has fallen too low, they have arranged to reinforce this unique garrison.

Most of the few apes at large on the Rock today are replacements brought in from Africa after World War II. Gibraltar in wartime was a bustling military citadel where monkeys on the loose could cause untimely confusion and serious damage. As the war clouds gathered, captivity became the lot of the "Gib" apes that had been free.

The powerful, tailless creatures are not actually apes at all. They are macaques. The size of a big Alredale, they are Gibraltar's only wild animal. They are common to the forests of Barbary, south across the Strait of Gibraltar in northwest Africa.

Baia, City of Festivals, Celebrates 400th Birthday

In 1549—nearly three quarters of a century before the Pilgrims landed, and 16 years before the founding of St. Augustine, oldest of U. S. cities—a little Portuguese settlement was born at a strategic site under the "hump" of the Brazilian coast.

Its full name was Sao Salvador da Bahia de Todos os Santos, "Holy Savior of the Bay of All Saints." Now more popularly known as Bahia, or Baia, according to the new simplified spelling, it is celebrating its 400th anniversary this year in colorful religious festivals.

Baia is both a museum of early Brazil and a center of modern Brazilian industry, notes the National Geographic society. Its double personality is expressed on two separate levels, linked by elevators, cable cars and steep roads.

Around the broad shimmering bay are the wharves, warehouses, and banks, the big export offices, and the city market. High above, amidst tropically luxuriant vegetation, rise the old colonial mansions, state buildings, libraries, colleges, and many churches.

Baia was the Brazilian capital until the government seat was removed to Rio de Janeiro in 1763. It is still the capital of rich and fertile Bahia state. Traces of the city's original military character remain in the old forts built in and around the harbor when rival European powers were seeking land and treasure in the new world.

Neighbors of Shakespeare

Not everyone knows that George Washington's ancestors were near neighbors of William Shakespeare. The Washington family home is only a few miles from Stratford-upon-Avon and stood there centuries before the Bard traded genius for applause. Sulgrave Manor, in fact, is first mentioned in the Domesday Book in 1086 and later belonged to the Friary of St. Andrew of Northampton until seized by the Crown in 1539. In the same year Henry VIII turned his attention temporarily from matrimony to real estate and sold the property to Lawrence Washington, who built the present house. His descendants continued to live there for the next 120 years and it was Lawrence's great-grandson, Colonel John Washington, who left England in 1656 to manage the land in Virginia, now Mount Vernon.

Mostly About Frogs

There are frogs that live both in and out of the water; some that live only in the water, and still others that never leave the land, depending on rainfall for their necessary moisture. Certain frogs, equipped with spade-shaped feet, lead an almost hermit life, burrowing into the ground like moles. The "flying frog" of Borneo leaps spectacularly from tree to tree. One tropical frog lays its eggs in the rain-filled crevices of tall palms, sometimes 60 or more feet high. Another carefully builds a circular wall of mud in a stream or pond, enclosing a sheltered nursery where the young can hatch.

Chemistry of Altitudes

Transformation of boiling water into ice takes place at high altitudes where the boiling point of the liquid falls below what would be its freezing point on the ground. Laboratory tests, in which high altitudes are simulated, show ice forming in boiling water at approximately 116,000 feet. The piece of ice appears in the center of the boiling, bubbling water. It grows rapidly and, almost as if by magic, the water is transformed into solid ice.

Delicate Operation Untangles an Artery Choking Girl Child

BOSTON. — The once tangled heart of a baby girl has been freed by a famed surgeon in a "very rare" operation which cut a "ring" which might have squeezed out her lifebeat.

Sandra (Sandy) Kaplan, six-month-old blond daughter of a noted athlete, was reported in "good condition."

"We think she's cured," the spokesman said after the hour and a half of surgery by the noted specialist, Dr. Richard Sweet, severed part of a great artery from the heart which threatened to choke her.

It was the fourth such operation in the history of the hospital.

Sandy is the daughter of Bernard Kaplan of New Rochelle, N. Y., a one-time football flash for the University of Western Maryland and later a pro star with the New York Giants.

From birth the girl was afflicted with an "aortic ring" which caused fits of near-strangulation and difficulty in swallowing.

Sandy's mother said that twice during the attacks she held the little girl upright against her chest all through the night. A nurse stood by to administer oxygen.

The hospital spokesman said any of those attacks could have been fatal. He described the "aortic ring" in this fashion:

The aorta is the principal blood vessel, or artery, of the human heart. In a normal person it arches across the heart and then passes in front of the windpipe (trachea) and gullet (esophagus), which are parallel tubes.

But the girl's aorta had split and divided in such a way that it passed both in front of and behind the windpipe and gullet, thus enclosing them in a ring. This ring squeezed against the two essential breathing and swallowing tubes of the throat.

Expectant Dads Are Taught How to Act With Children

CHICAGO. — Expectant fathers are taught what to expect when the stork comes.

A series of three sessions for prospective fathers is conducted four times a year at Chicago Lying-in hospital and dispensary of the university of Chicago.

Chicago lying-in, which is primarily a research institution, started classes for fathers a year ago. Since then more than 500 husbands have attended classes open to every expectant father in Chicago. Instruction is free.

Dr. William J. Dieckmann, chairman of the department of obstetrics and chief of staff, said the fathers' classes were an effort to pull the father into family activity.

"It's a 90-50 business, and a father can make things much easier for his wife if he is made to realize that there is a lot of work and mental strain before and after the baby is born," he said.

Opposition Developing To T. R. Memorial Spot

OYSTER BAY, L. I.—An unexpected volume of opposition has developed against a plan to create a national shrine at Sagamore Hill, home of former President Theodore Roosevelt and one-time summer White House. As a result, Mayor Lee Loomis of Cove Neck, and trustees of that incorporated village, where Sagamore Hill is situated, are awaiting further developments and perhaps abandonment of the proposal.

At a public hearing in the tennis court building of Cove Neck to consider an application from the Roosevelt memorial association for a change of zoning to permit the establishment of the memorial, a large number of estate owners in the community stated their opposition to making a public shrine in the midst of a strictly residential section.

There is no business area in Cove Neck. It is a colony of estates approached by a narrow winding road along the waters of Oyster Bay Cove, and to establish a public shrine where visitors would pay entrance fees and roam over the twenty acres of hills was out of keeping with the wishes of property owners, according to the tenor of most of the protests at the meeting.

Woman to Get Back Ring She Lost Fifty Years Ago

ESCANABA, MICH.—Mrs. Oscar Hornblad, Escanaba, will soon receive the gold wedding ring she lost as a bride in Sweden 50 years ago.

Word was received from Sweden that a farmer who bought the old family farm in Sweden had found the ring on a prong of his harrowing machine. It was as shiny as the day it left the jeweler's shop, the honest finder reported. He identified the ring and is sending it forthwith.

Mrs. Hornblad said she lost the ring shortly after her wedding while helping her parents in the fields. The ring was never replaced. Mrs. Hornblad said she just had a feeling it would be found some day.

When depositing a check to your account, it is best to use a restrictive form of endorsement. This can be done by writing the words "For Deposit Only" on the back of the check and adding your signature. Should a check endorsed in this fashion be lost in the mail, it could not be cashed by a dishonest person into whose hands it might fall. Endorse checks carefully.

TEENICIDE

Road Deaths On Uptrend

CHICAGO. — A car full of teenage boys recently drove through a red traffic light in a suburb near here and rammed their automobile at breakneck speed into the machine of an elderly couple. The innocent couple was killed instantly and all of the boys were seriously injured—some perhaps for life.

This accident typifies a new form of mass murder and self-destruction on the highways known as "teenicide."

Teenicide is violent death caused by an automobile driver under 25 years of age, usually the result of recklessness or immature judgment. Last year, teenicide figures soared to 7,500 killed and an estimated 275,000 injured. This shocking total represents 10 times more casualties than our armed forces suffered at Iwo Jima and cost the nation 600 million dollars in cold cash.

Can anything be done to reduce this slaughter? Scores of insurance agencies, automobile associations and other organizations are throwing their weight into the teenicide problem.

Three-Way Problem

James S. Kemper, chairman of the Lumbermen's mutual casualty company and a pioneer in highway safety, believes the present death and accident rate can be cut only by changing the frivolous and irresponsible attitude of youth.

"The teenicide problem must be attacked in three ways," Kemper says. "First, youngsters must be taught the techniques of safe driving, preferably in schools. Second, traffic rules must be enforced and stricter license requirements established. The third approach—and most important—is that parents should not only teach good driving but set an example themselves."

Kemper points out that any teenage boy who sees his parents driving 50 miles an hour in a 40-mile zone—and getting by with it—can almost invariably be expected to drive 60 miles an hour under the same conditions from natural vitality and exuberance.

According to statistics, a car in the hands of a teen-ager is about twice as dangerous as a car driven by a mature adult. The 16-20 age group is involved in five times as many accidents as the 45-50 group; and sixteen-year-old drivers cause nine times as many accidents as the 45-50 group.

Instruction Effective

High school instruction in safe driving has proved highly effective in reducing teenicide. But, unfortunately, only 600 out of 20,000 U. S. high schools offer this course. The American automobile association is prepared to lend staff educators who will train high-school teachers in safe driving.

In addition to pouring out tons of safety literature and advertising each year, Lumbermen helps to pay expenses for Northwestern university's traffic institute. This company also sponsored a safe-driving contest among college newspapers last fall.

The National Safety Council is directing much of its highway material toward teenicide. These organizations and many others are all eager to help solve this serious problem.

If school boards and parents would cooperate against teenicide, thousands of lives and limbs—not to mention the personal agony—could be saved.

Air Forces Now Making Cupid's Task Easier

WASHINGTON.—The air force has made things easier for Cupid. Sometime ago an official directive stated that would-be bridegrooms in the four lowest pay ranks must obtain consent of squadron commanders before saying "I do."

The air force's position was that the lower-paid soldier—because of the shortage of service accommodations and benefits—should, among other things, prove his ability to carry the financial end of a marriage.

This caused "confusion," according to The Beam, weekly newspaper of Bolling Field air base here. It also caused a decline in weddings.

Under the new order a prospective bridegroom must write a "letter of intent" to the commander. Then the officer "counsels" the enlisted man on finances, housing, transportation, and other matters of armed-services married life. After this it's up to the couple whether they want to be married.

Experimenter Gives Up Neckless-Chicken Try

BYRON, CALIF.—A chicken with no neck would be a bigger boon to white meat lovers than even the new wingless variety. That idea occurred to Lorenzo Armstrong when he read about wingless birds developed in the midwest.

So Armstrong built his hen houses with low roofs. Feeding troughs were breast high. The wire over the chicken runs was lowered. He figured if they kept their heads down the chickens' necks wouldn't grow. He gave up finally. The chickens just got humped.

Let Contracts for Floyd Paving Jobs

Lockney Sept. 28—Contract was let last week by the Floyd County commissioners to Cooper & Woodruff for paving 4 of a mile from Highway 287 at South Plains to the South Plains school building.

The commissioners also signed a contract last week with the State Highway Commission for paving the road south from Lockney to the Pleasant Valley schoolhouse, 2 miles west and thence south to Sandhill. Also included in the contracts were roads from Sandhill to Barwirth and a road south from Dougherty to the Crosby County line.

Funds for the road projects will be provided under the Gilmer-Aiken law. County officials said they have no idea when paving will be completed.

Floyd County commissioners expect to let a contract soon on hardsurfacing a road from Highway 70 south to Baker schoolhouse, a distance of 6 or 7 miles. This is entirely a county project, and the state is not participating, officials said.

Betty Jean Bradley spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. J. H. Bradley.

Yes, about 2000 cow years through 21 years of dairy feeding research at the Purina Research Farm have gone into building Purina Milking Chows and the Purina Dairy Program.

And this program has produced profitable results at the Purina Farm. Look at the record: From an average of 6800 lbs. milk, 238 lbs. fat to 14,167 lbs. milk, 505 lbs. fat! And the Purina herd is an all grade herd—and there have been no purchased female replacements.

Local dairymen on the Purina Dairy Program are getting good results, too. Come in, let's talk about your herd.

Going to get your $2,064 bait back?

Your shiny new automobile—with prices averaging about $2,064—has to get you a whale of a lot of use to justify its cost.

Winter wear is the worst bait-snatcher. It can strip your car of plenty of service . . .

Unless you OIL-PLATE it!

1. Oil-Plating—a feature of patented Conoco Nth Motor Oil—performs a wear-preventing miracle by fastening a shield of special lubricant to working parts. OIL-PLATING can't all drain down—even overnight!

2. Always on Guard! Even when the fine lubricating oil itself isn't covering a part, OIL-PLATING is! It protects your engine against grinding "dry-friction" starts . . . from corrosive combustion acids . . . from sludge and carbon caused by wear.

3. Watch Out for Winter! The frigid months are the most dangerous months for these car-killers. New and older cars both urgently need Conoco Nth. Don't wait . . . drive yours in today and armor it against winter with Conoco Nth.

Supervisors for Cap Rock District—Earl I. Cantwell, Chairman; Obra Watson, Bray H. Cook, L. A. McJimsey and R. L. Brunson

The Board of Supervisors of the Cap Rock Soil Conservation District met Tuesday, September 27, 1931. Applications for assistance were approved for the following farmers in the district: Joe H. Smith, J. E. Barnhill, Fred Mercer, Lem Weaver, E. G. Johnson, John A. Johnson, James F. Bailey and A. F. Van Meter. A farmer-district agreement was approved for Mrs. Jeannette Barnhill Case.

Soil Conservation Service technicians ran ditch lines for Allen Kellum Monday, October 3. These ditch lines will be used in irrigating about 45 acres of improved pasture that Mr. Kellum planted recently. The pasture is made up of perennial ryegrass and clover. Mr. Kellum's farm is located 9 miles south and 3 west of Silverton.

Contour level border irrigation which is often called bench leveling is one of the best systems of conservation. Approximately 12 acres of Mr. Earl I. Cantwell's land has been leveled and borders constructed. An additional 16 acres has been surveyed for level irrigation by Soil Conservation Service technicians and construction is now under way. I think Mr. Cantwell is especially impressed by the ease of water application with this type of system. If you have not had the opportunity to see a level border irrigation system, I am sure that Mr. Cantwell will be more than happy for you to observe the construction of the new borders and also those that are finished. His farm is located 5 miles south and 1-2 mile west of the Rock Creek Store. Although we should be interested in the ease of water application, even more important are: reduced erosion, evenly distributed water, conservation of irrigation water and full utilization of rainfall. For additional information concerning level border irrigation contact the Soil Conservation Service.

Water in West Texas Has Top Billing at Fort Worth Show

Abilene, September 5—The need of water in West Texas now has top billing in the Bureau of Reclamation of the Department of Interior and the biggest show of its kind will be held in Ft. Worth, Tuesday, November 22.

J. A. Krug, secretary of the Department of Interior, has accepted the invitation of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to speak at its annual banquet there on that date. The WTCC has promised a thousand water-thirsty West Texans there to hear him, along with Reclamation Commissioner Nathan Strauss and Senator Lyndon Johnson.

This, the annual meeting of the WTCC board of directors, will be the climax of the year's work of the organization in defining water needs of the area, and establishing economic loss through lack of water companion to flood loss.

"The federal government will learn how badly West Texas needs water at this meeting," said WTCC President John D. Mitchell in reporting the plans to his executive board in session here this week. "We have been sitting over water holes with Winchesters or fighting to keep our domestic water rights in West Texas for a long time."

"This is a program to develop new water, a program so big it can only be handled in a big way and that's what we are doing in bringing a man at cabinet level here to hear our story and tell us what the federal government can do to protect our economic loss from lack of water."

The WTCC has a nominal board of approximately 200 among its 6000 membership in the 132 county area, but the organization hopes to take interested officials from all the towns to help the water cause, according to Manager D. A. Banderen.

Already the Bureau of Reclamation has authorized three West Texas surveys under the direction of Harry P. Burleigh, state planning engineer, according to Banderen. One will provide for all the area on the Brazos river shed above Possum Kingdom and below the Caprock; another is on the Colorado above the mouth of Pecan Bayou, while the other under authorization is a survey of the Prairie Dog creek area and tributaries of the Red river in the Memphis-Childress area.

These are in addition to the $85 million Canadian project already approved by the Bureau, to supply water to a dozen West Texas towns between Borger and Lamesa.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Welch, of Gainesville, Texas were guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Dudley last week.
