Farmers are requested by the Census Bureau, U. S. Department of Commerce, to fill in the questionnaires in time to have them ready to give to census takers who will call on and after April 1 to take the census of population and housing and to collect the census of agriculture reports.

Distribution of the agriculture questionnaire is being made in advance of the census enumerator's visit to afford farmers time to consult their records for information about their farms and farm production during the year 1949, Mr. Shaller said. The Silverton Owl Baseball team opens their season Tuesday, March 28, at Floydada against the Whirlwinds.

In a meeting at Quitaque, the schools voted to divide the district up into an eastern and western half. The western half will be made up of teams from Silverton, Turkey and Polmat; and the eastern half will be teams from Hedley, Carey, Estelline and Kirkland.

The teams in each half will play each other two times and the top two teams at the end of the schedule will go against each other in a district meet at Turkey May 5 and 6.

Practice opened Tuesday at the local field with a round of infield work and batting practice. One bright spot of the afternoon was the manner in which Donald Bean held down the third base position, a spot vacated by big brother, Walter.

Little dynamite John Francis did a commendable job at short stop as did Wayne McMurry at second base. Robert McPherson will be out for a few weeks because of a sprained ankle sustained in a volley ball game. However, Dean McWilliams looked as if he wants that position for himself and he may prove to do just that.

The team lost some good boys from last year, Johnnie Bingham, Walter Bean, Jimmie Nance, Carl Graham and others but this year's team looms as a potent possibility. With a battery like Billie Satterfield and Donald Rhea the team will be strengthened to a great extent.

The Schedule Follows:

Some Things to Check As Spring Weather Comes In

Spring weather is bringing on the usual crop of weeds and new growth in pastures. To most livestock producers this is a welcome development but to the dairyman who is selling milk it brings on problems. Chief among them, says H. T. Burleson, associate extension dairy husbandman of Texas A and M College, is the off flavors in milk. To prevent this condition, he says the pastures should be grazed during the morning. The cows should be in several hours before milking time.

Dairyman, says Burleson, are justified in spending money for fertilizers and for other practices that will lead to better pastures. He points out that a good dairy cow will return approximately 7 times a much income from an acre of improved pasture as will any other type of livestock. For this same reason, he continues, dairy cows also require better pastures to do an efficient job of producing milk.

It should be remembered, he says that feed costs represent about 50 to 60 percent of the total cost of producing milk and anything that can be done to reduce this cost will increase income. In one dairy herd improvement association, a few dairymen are producing milk at a feed cost of around $2 per hundred pounds while the costs for other members in the same association is running over $4 per hundred.

The difference, he says, is the feeding program being followed by the dairymen. The cheapest production comes from improved pastures followed by silage, hay and concentrates. He reports that 1949 cost figures show that 100 pounds of 4 percent milk can be produced from grazing on an improved pasture for forty cents as against $3.60 for concentrates. The cost of production factor is going to determine which dairymen are going to stay in business and make money and which will be forced out because of inefficiency. With these facts in mind, he says the conclusion is obvious: dairymen must produce as much milk as possible from roughages, including improved pastures, silage and hay.

Commercial fertilizers can be used to fertilize the farm fish pond. The local county agent can supply a schedule of applications. The use of fertilizers in the farm fish ponds has made possible the production of pounds of "fish by the acre."

Eight pounds of 50 percent wettable DDT powder and four pounds of six percent gamma BHC in 100 gallons of water and used as a dip will control the Lone Star tick and protect the cattle against reinestation for a period of two to four weeks.

'Suicide Tag' Gave Engineer His Worst Days

NEW YORK — Ernest Evans pulled his motorman's cap down tight on his head and turned to the photographers.

"If you want to take my picture," he said, "you'll have to do it with my cap on. Without it I look to be 100 years old, but I'm not 70 yet." The flashbulbs popped. Evans grinned, pulled the throttle and train No. 75 pulled out of the Pennsylvania station for Philadelphia. It was Evans' last run after 50 years of service with the railroad system. He didn't know it, but his wife, daughter and grandson were waiting in Philadelphia to greet him and hold a big party.

Party Kept Secret The news about the party was given by another grandson, Donald, while Evans wasn't listening. Donald rode along with his grandfather to celebrate the "old man's" last official ride.

Before the train left, Evans, talking about his experiences, said that if he could start all over again he "would do the same thing for another 50 years."

One summer a few years ago stands out in his memory. That was when several children of Philadelphia invented a wild game called "suicide tag."

"The kids would stand on the tracks," said Evans, "and their game was to run off just as the train was approaching. From what I gathered the winner was the kid who came closest to being hit by the locomotive. I had to stop, whistle the lungs out of the train, and crawl until rail yard workers chased them off the tracks. I sure was happy when they finally put an end to that game."

Was Crew Caller Evans began working for the Pennsylvania in Jersey City as a crew caller. His job was to ride around on a bicycle calling the train crews together. A year later he was made a fireman, and in 1910 he was promoted to engineman. His route has been the same for the last 40 years—New York to Philadelphia and back.

He estimated that since 1910 he had driven his trains, without an accident, more than 1,800,000 miles.

Evans expects to "loaf, maybe watch a baseball game now and then, and rest," at home with his wife Anna in Pitman, N. J.

"I've only got one hobby," he said. "That'll be playing with my little grandson when he starts running his electric trains around the house. I just love those electric trains."

Woman 'Comes to Life' While Lying in Coffin

PORT-AU-PRINCE, HAITI — Doctors are still studying the strange case of a young woman discovered to be alive in her coffin just as she was being borne to the burial grounds.

Medical authorities said the woman, Anita Souffrant, 26, had lost consciousness after a six-month disease. The family decided she was dead and decided to bury her.

On the way to the church, mourners were startled to hear noises coming from Anita's coffin.

They looked inside and found her breathing.

A priest ordered the girl taken to General Hospital at Port-au-Prince. Dr. Paul Desmangles, head of the hospital staff, said Anita gained full consciousness three days after her "funeral" and was able to talk intelligently.

He said her illness had been diagnosed as a type of malaria. Her condition now is fair, he said.

Electric arc welders are safe only so long as the operator observes proper safety precautions. All electric farm welders should have safety controls and the farmers should be effectively grounded.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

During the last two weeks, Soil Conservation Service technicians have been spending a large part of their time in laying out terrace systems and irrigation ditch systems. The terracing season has been fairly good in the Cap Rock Soil Conservation District and over 100 miles of terrace lines have been run this season. Although the demand for lines is slackening off to some extent, we hope there will be several more miles built before listing time. Since March 7, terrace lines have been run on the following farms:

Kelly Patrick—He has two farms. One is located 3 miles west of Quitaque and the other is located 2 miles east and 2 north of Quitaque.

Jane Hughes—Her farm is located 2 miles south and 1 mile west of Quitaque.

G. W. Selmon—His farm is in Antelope Flat.

J. B. Tiffin—Located 2 1-2 miles east of Gasoline.

Bill Helms—His farm is located 1 mile east and 1 mile south of Gasoline.

A. B. Ramsey—His farm is located 6 miles northwest of Silvertown.

"Slim" Eddleman—His farm is located 4 miles west of Quitaque.

As can be seen by this list of names, terracing is not limited to any certain area in the District.

Farmers living on the deeper, tighter soils are beginning to realize the value of terraces in water conservation and erosion control. Part of these terraces have already been constructed, and they have been built large enough so that they can be farmed with large equipment.

Several farmers have received assistance from Soil Conservation Service technicians in laying irrigation systems during the last two weeks. They are as follows:

Lee D. Bomar, 1 mile south and 1 mile west of Silvertown.

Troy Burson, 2 miles east of Silvertown.

Ennis Autry, 4 miles east and 3 miles south of Silvertown.

Parker Rampley, 4 east and 2 1-2 miles south of Silvertown.

Judd Donnell, 5 miles east of Silvertown.

Troy Cox, 3 miles south and 2 miles west of Silvertown.

Part of these irrigation wells have been dug recently, and due to the fact that the land has not been leveled or floated, only temporary ditches could be run. By installing a correct ditch system or using the proper irrigation methods, less water wastage will result with greater irrigation efficiency.

Many farmers are running their own ditch lines now. This procedure allows the farmer to have his lines when he wants them.

The Board of Supervisors of the Cap Rock Soil Conservation District held their regular meeting March 15, 1950 with all supervisors present. Other than regular business, applications for assistance were approved for: Preston Woods, Quitaque; M. E. Lovington, Quitaque; J. B. Tiffin, Quitaque; G. W. Selman, Antelope Flat; 2 for A. P. Dickerson, Silvertown; and Lee D. Bomar.

Farmer - District agreements were approved for: A. B. Ramsey, J. B. Tiffin, Will Currie, John Currie, R. B. Persons, Jake Merrill all of Quitaque; G. W. Selman, and Don Grady, located in Antelope Flat; and Troy Burson and J. B. Webster, located near Silvertown.

Troop 62 met at the light office to go on an outing Friday evening. Mr. Blackshear carried the troop halfway to Claude crossing and then he hiked the rest of the way. The troop carried a completely uncooked meal and we had a meeting while the meal was cooking. Joe Ned Vardell and Lenard Perkins the two boys who could go to Philmont Camp drew straws. Joe Ned drew the shortest straw. We all enjoyed the trip.

Bob Wills Hears Folks Tell Of Hadacol's Many Blessings

Hundreds of folks, who are benefiting every day from taking HADACOL meet at the Trianon Building in Oklahoma City where Bob Wills, famous band leader, and his Texas Playboys broadcast each noon for HADACOL.

"It looks like all my fans are getting wonderful benefits from HADACOL," said Wills. "It is a real pleasure to broadcast for HADACOL because the folks taking HADACOL are so enthusiastic that I feel like I am performing a real service for mankind."

Hundreds have told Wills of the blessed benefits of HADACOL and the following statement by Miss Carol Jean White, 2636 West Park St., Oklahoma City, is a good example:

"One of the luckiest days of my life was when I heard Bob Wills tell about the wonderful blessings of HADACOL. I had lost my appetite, my energy was down. I suffered with gastric disturbances and indigestion. I took the advice of Bob Wills and took HADACOL. I felt better right off and have continued to take HADACOL. I now recommend HADACOL to my friends."

Miss White suffered with a deficiency of B Vitamins and important Minerals which HADACOL contains.

A lack of only a small amount of the B Vitamins and certain Minerals will cause digestive disturbances. . . . Your food will not agree with you. . . . You will have an upset stomach. . . . You will suffer from heartburns, gas pains, and your food will sour on your stomach, and you will not be able to eat the things you like for fear of being in misery afterwards. Many people also suffer from constipation. And while these symptoms may be the results of other causes, they are surely and certainly the symptoms and signs of the lack of the B Vitamins and Minerals which HADACOL contains. And if you suffer from such a disorder, there is no known cure except the administration of the Vitamins and the Minerals which your system lacks.

HADACOL contains not only one, but 5 of the B Vitamins, but 4 of the necessary Minerals. It comes to you in liquid form, easily assimilated in the blood stream so that it can go to work right away.

It is easy to understand, therefore, why countless thousands have already been benefited by this amazing tonic, HADACOL.

So, it matters not who you are . . . it matters not where you live . . . or if you have tried all the medicines under the sun, give this wonderful preparation a trial. Don't go on suffering. Don't continue to lead a miserable life. Many persons who have suffered even longer, are able now to live happy, comfortable lives again because HADACOL supplied the Vitamins and Minerals which their systems needed. Be fair to yourself. Give HADACOL a trial. Demand the genuine HADACOL. Accept no substitutes.

Milk Concentrates In Frozen Form May Be Boon to Mankind

CHICAGO, ILL. — Frozen milk concentrate may be available to retail customers within two years, according to John M. Fox, president of a large dairy corporation.

Fox said that many companies, encouraged by the boom in frozen orange juice ice, were working on methods of putting milk concentrate in the familiar six-ounce cans. The concentrate would be cheaper than fluid milk, he added.

Although still facing some serious laboratory difficulties, milk concentrate is in about the same position as frozen orange juice concentrate was in 1944, and the industry has much more technical knowledge to apply to existing problems, Fox said.

Fox said that milk concentrate was the industry's "most exciting" potential product because of the possibilities of cost reduction in dairy commodities. One of the economies, he explained, would be in handling milk at the time of surplus production.

Similar in some respects to that used in orange juice, the milk concentration process involves taking the water out at low temperatures in a high vacuum, he said.

"It does present some serious technical problems," he added. "The proteins in milk are a new element to work with. So far no one has solved the complete stabilization of the end product so that it will keep well in storage."

Another frozen food firm executive said that in the future housewives would be able to keep a month's supply of milk in the refrigerator in six ounce cans. The six ounce can will make a pint and one-half (24 ounces) of whole milk when water is added, he reported. He said that about half a dozen firms currently were working to perfect the process.

Termite Invasion Endangers Vatican's Valuable Records

NEW YORK.—An invasion by white ants at the Vatican not long ago caused concern for the safety of the Holy City's valuable archives, according to the Times of London.

The insects first were noticed in the apartment of Cardinal Giovanni Mercati, librarian and archivist of the Holy Roman Church, and in the adjacent courtyard of the Pappagallo, near which the archives of the Vatican secretariat are kept.

The termites evidently had been doing their constructive work for a long time, for in the cardinal's apartment a ceiling beam had cracked and threatened to collapse.

Men Freed from Buchenwald Detail Russian Cruelties

BERLIN, GERMANY — Weary men, trudging into the safety of west Berlin from Russian-operated concentration camps of Buchenwald were telling grisly stories of mistreatment and horror.

They were released German prisoners drifting in since the Russians closed the camp. Latest arrivals said that about 24,000 persons had perished in the camp since the Russians reopened it for political prisoners. One refugee said that deaths during an epidemic in the first four months of 1947 were at the rate of 60 to 80 a day.

And there was hunger, a companion added.

Another man said that some mornings the Russian guards would call out the regular work detail with the words: "Come on, come on. Today we kill three fascists." He said the Russians guarding timber cutting details then would order all men to stand rigid when a tree was felled, on pain of being shot.

"Usually a tree fell on one or two men. Of course, they were killed. One more death and the quota was filled for the day."

The men said the Russians found prisoners trading hoarded trinkets to Russian guards for cigarettes or bits of food.

"So one day a Russian beckoned to a prisoner. The prisoner went to the fence and the guard turned his Tommy gun loose. They had a detail carry the man through the camp as an object lesson."

The refugees wouldn't give their names. All said they had relatives in the Soviet zone of Germany.

Immigrant Boy Proves Hero In Routing Would-Be Bandit

CLEVELAND, OHIO.—A sixth-grade boy who came to the United States two years ago from Croatia boldly attacked a masked gunman here and prevented the intruder from robbing the youngster's beverage store.

John Badovinac, Jr., 12, knocked a .38 caliber pistol from the robber's hand after a driver for the store had distracted the bandit's attention by throwing a can of beer. The boy snatched a mask from the intruder's face.

John Badovinac, Sr., then came out of a stockroom and kicked the robber in the stomach. That was enough for the disarmed gunman—he fled through a glass door without bothering to open it.

Get Good Turkey Poults and Produce Profitable Grade

The quality of turkeys produced in Texas is definitely on the up-grade. To keep it there, Texas turkey producers must continue to select only the best quality poults and then do a good job of growing them out, says W. J. Moore, associate extension poultry husbandman of Texas A and M College.

He points out that now is the time to start making plans for getting the poults that will make this fall's turkeys.

One of the most important considerations, he says, is to get them from a Texas hatchery and as close to home as is possible. Poults shipped long distances are subjected to many hazards that cause plenty of trouble once they are in the brooder house, he adds.

Much of the progress made in Texas during recent years has been due to the National Turkey Improvement Plan. This plan, he points out, sets up standards that must be met by hatcherymen and breeders and it assures the poults buyers of getting the highest quality poults. The hatcheries that operate under the plan are supervised by men who do inspection work on both flock selection and blood testing. This means that the supervisors see that all birds are removed from the flock that do not meet the required standards for good breeders and after blood testing all pullorum reactors are also removed. This is the reason that Moore recommends that you purchase your poults from a hatchery that operates under the National Turkey Improvement Plan. It is just good insurance for getting what you pay for.

He says that poults should be purchased from 26 to 28 weeks prior to the expected date of marketing. In other words, six and one-half to seven months are required for the growing and fattening period for turkeys.

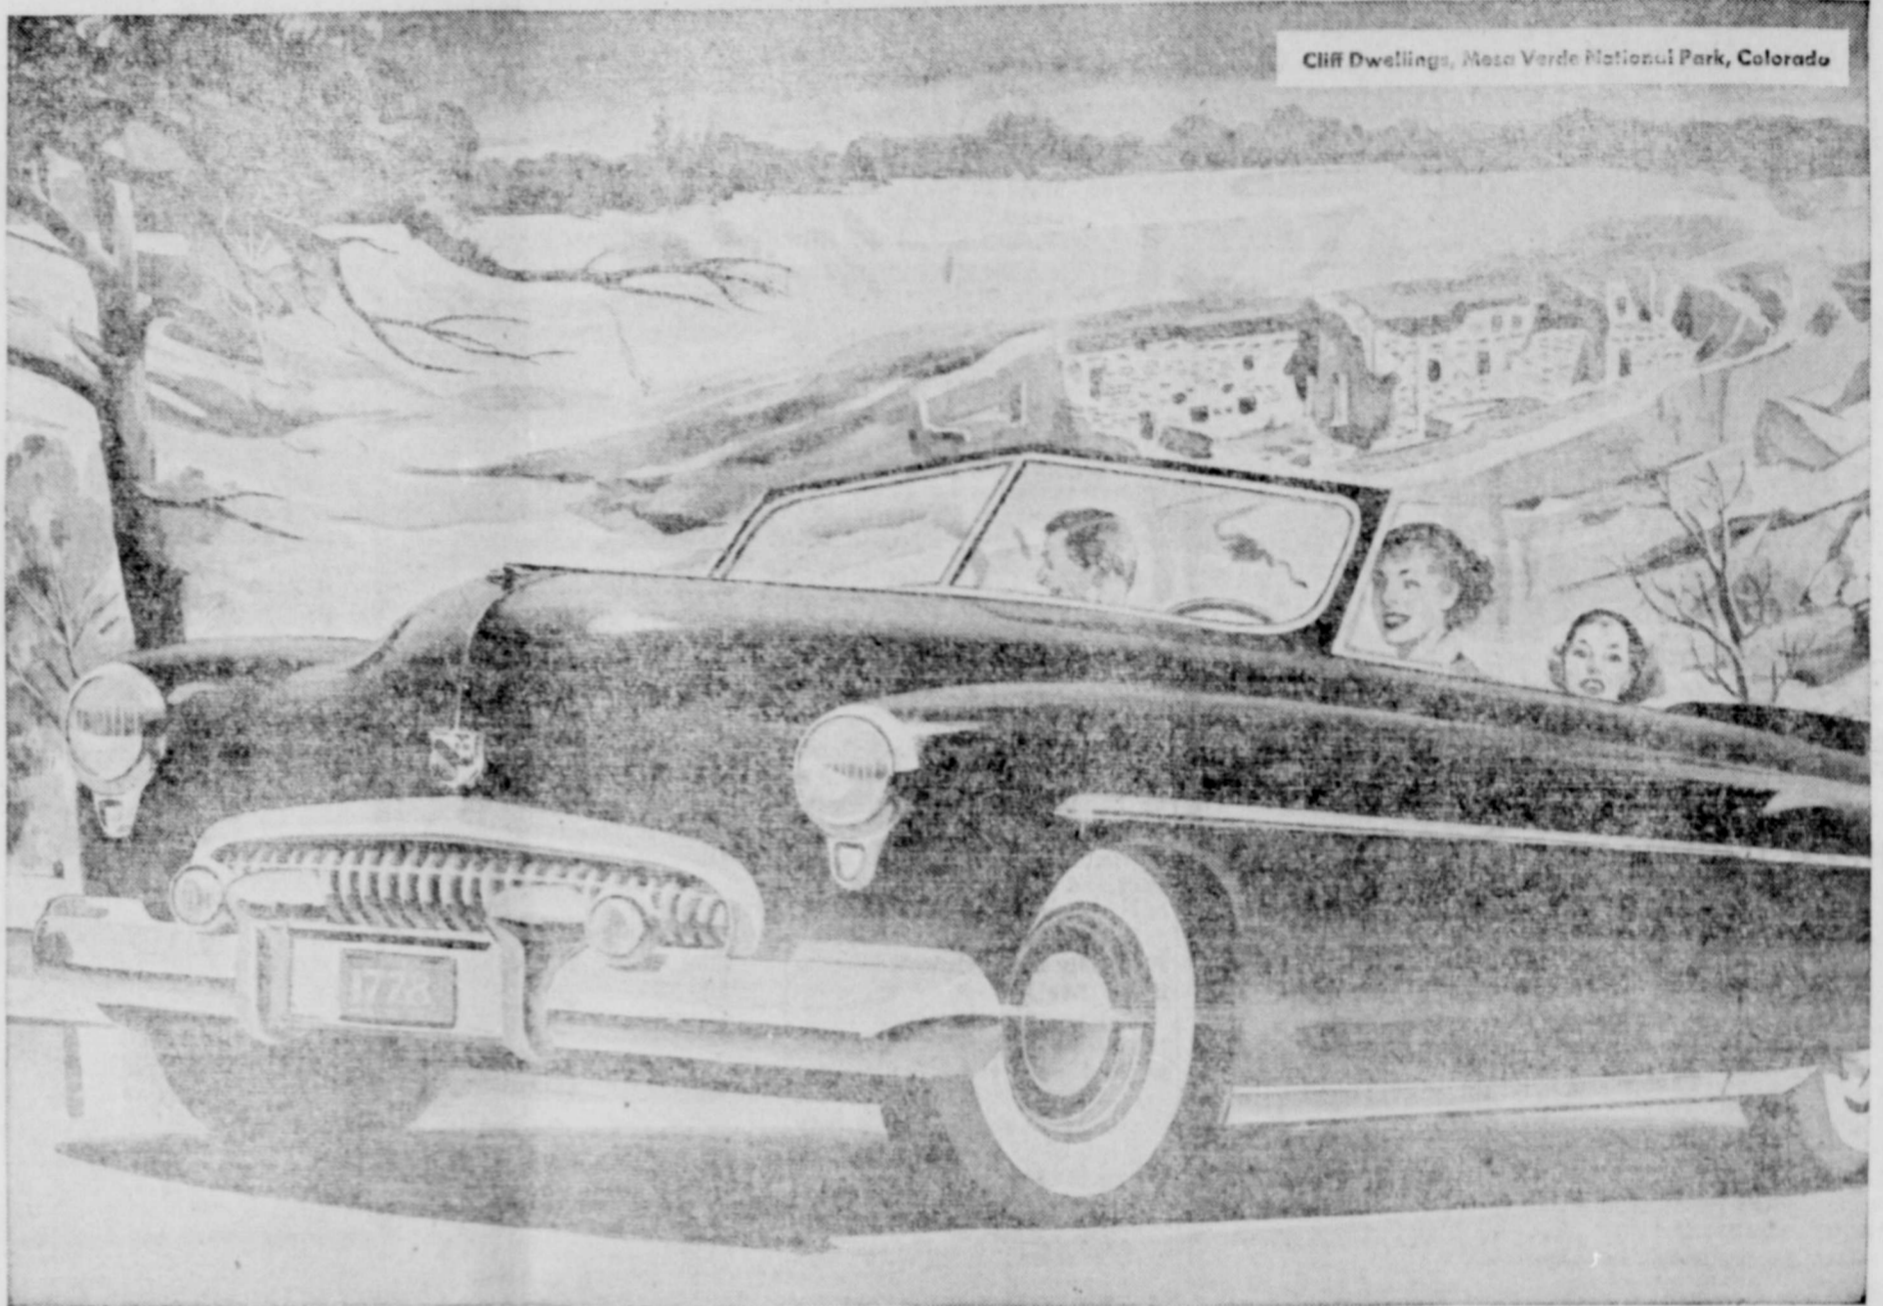

In conclusion, he says, it is not possible to take a poor quality poult and grow it into a high quality finished bird. The inherited qualities must be in the poult to begin with and if you expect to market the kind of bird that consumers want, you must do a good job of feeding and managing these poults as they develop.

The cheapest milk production comes from improved pastures followed by silage, hay and concentrates. A good dairy cow will return approximately 7 times as much income from an acre of improved pasture as will any other type of livestock.

The quality of turkeys produced in Texas is definitely on the up-grade, and can be continued if producers will select only the best quality poults and then do a good job of growing them out.

Vet Amputee Kills Self After Trapped Under Wrecked Car

DANVILLE, VA.—Andrew Louis Blasko, World War II amputee, whose conscience hurt him, resolved all his problems as he lay pinned beneath the wreckage of his automobile. He shot himself through the head with a pistol.

But before he committed the act in the presence of horrified bystanders, Blasko cried out that he wanted to clear a World War II buddy whom he said he had implicated in military offenses while the two were in Germany.

Brandishing the pistol, Blasko had held off the crowd who sought to move the wrecked car off his artificial legs. He called for a newspaperman to take his "confession."

John Tate, Danville Bee photographer, complied.

Tate scribbled as Blasko told of how he had testified that a sergeant buddy had flogged German prisoners, stole a jeep load of canteen and then ran out on their platoon when 13 of them were captured.

"I want to clear him before I kill myself," Blasko said.

Tate passed the paper to the man and the latter scribbled his name.

The photographer then tried to get Blasko to agree to the moving of the car from his legs, but the response was: "They're artificial anyway—don't hurt at all."

Then he said, "Well, one-two-three—" and fired and slumped over.

The buddy about whom Blasko talked, said later that the "poor fellow was lying," that nothing of what he told had ever occurred.

Professor Thinks Perfumed Lures to Be Best for Fish

NORMAN, OKLA. — Women long have been told that perfume can help them hook their men. Now comes a college professor who believes fish will go heavily for a scented lure.

Ralph Blamfang, professor of pharmacy at the University of Oklahoma, has produced a kit that he calls the "finny dinner" which contains nine chemically-treated lures.

Each of the lures gives off a different aroma. These perfumed lures are the result of two years of research.

A Los Angeles company is testing the kit for commercial fishing in the Pacific.

Missouri Boys Town Said Now to Be Coming of Age

ST. JAMES, MO.—Boys Town of Missouri on a 120-acre estate two and a half miles southeast of this little city is coming of age.

The project is only a few months old, but Gordon Atkins, its executive director, is definitely optimistic about the job it is doing in giving a new start to young Missourians who got off on the wrong foot.

Boys Town of Missouri started officially when a handful of sorry-looking youngsters reported here to Atkins. His sleeves rolled up, Atkins talked to them man to man. "As far as I'm concerned," he told them, "you're all right guys. Now let's work together."

The lads were surprised to find that there were no bars at Boys Town.

The story of Boys Town of Missouri began actually seven years ago, when the ship bearing W. F. James of St. Louis was sunk by the Germans. James was a gunnery officer on the ship, the USS Joseph Hewes, a combat transport, which was landing assault troops at Casablanca when attacked. James found himself on a raft with German machine gun bullets drilling the boards all about him.

"If I ever get out of this war alive," James vowed, "I'm going to do something worthwhile."

Of those on the raft James was the only survivor. He later served in the North African campaign, where he was temporarily blinded by a flash blast and also was gassed.

When he returned from the war he immediately went to work to make good his vow to "do something worthwhile." He formed an organization of veterans and young businessmen in the St. Louis area, where he is a motor car dealer, and became commander of an American Legion post.

On the alert for worthwhile projects, he became interested in a "Boys Town" type undertaking in neighboring Illinois. He decided to sponsor a project for Missouri which would help him reclaim his young citizens. Thus Boys Town of Missouri was born.

When he returned from the war he immediately went to work to make good his vow to "do something worthwhile." He formed an organization of veterans and young businessmen in the St. Louis area, where he is a motor car dealer, and became commander of an American Legion post.

On the alert for worthwhile projects, he became interested in a "Boys Town" type undertaking in neighboring Illinois. He decided to sponsor a project for Missouri which would help him reclaim his young citizens. Thus Boys Town of Missouri was born.

Trick of Nature Retards Effectiveness of New Drug

Hopes that vast tropical areas may be made livable for farm animals through use of a new drug are being dimmed by a trick of nature.

The drug is antrycide, developed by British scientists and heralded as a means of preventing and curing trypanosomiasis in livestock.

The trick of nature is the ability of certain germs and parasites to build up resistance against drugs intended to destroy them.

Trypanosomiasis, a deadly blood disease, is caused by tiny parasites that are spread from the blood stream of one animal to another by biting insects, especially tsetse flies. It is so prevalent in certain fly-infested tropical regions that it is practically impossible to raise healthy livestock of any kind. Human beings also are affected by the disease.

Belief that antrycide would solve the problem was based on extensive research which showed that single injections of the drug protected animals against infection for a considerable time, and the drug also was effective in treating animals already down with the disease.

But when field trials were carried on in Africa to test it further, veterinarians observed that the microscopic parasites responsible for the disease were often able to fight back against antrycide so as to overcome its effects. Instead of being killed or knocked out when they came into contact with it in the animal's blood stream, many of them were found able to build up resistance quickly against it.

Hopes are still high, however, that antrycide will prove its worth in further trials, and that its use will make possible a much-needed expansion in tropical livestock production.

Answer These Questions Before Making Purchases

There is nothing like a white elephant party to betray the weakness of homemakers for acquiring seldom-used kitchen tools or utensils. Strangely enough, some of us rush to grab tools that other homemakers have banished. That's what makes white elephant parties such a success!

Why don't women think before buying the myriad gadgets now in colorful array in the shops? Try answering these questions before we make the purchases:

Do I have ample space for storing it? Does it warrant that much space? Do I really need this? Will it make my work easier? Is it safe? What will the upkeep cost? How many years of service can I expect from it? Is the initial cost really too much when spread over a period of years?

Appliances that can be used for more than one job to save foods or labor—these are not white elephants.

THOROUGH CLEANUP OF COMMUNITY SHOULD BE CARRIED OUT NOW

"There is no easy road to the abatement of insects and rodents," says Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. Frequently people get enthusiastic about the destruction of the insects and believe that, if an airplane flies over the town, or if a huge fogging machine rolls through town spreading an insecticide, the insects will be killed instantly and peace from the insect nuisance will remain forever. This is an erroneous and, unfortunately, bad practice, because it creates an unwarranted sense of security.

Before any killing is anticipated, a thorough clean-up of the community should be carried out. This means cleaning up the rubbish and garbage and eliminating all insect feeding and breeding places. It might mean the draining or filling in of wet areas for destruction of the mosquito larvae. When this is done, one will be surprised how few insects are left to become a nuisance and, perhaps, a public health problem.

Following this, it is suggested that insecticides be employed judiciously in those places inhabited by the insects. Experience has shown that a 2 per cent to 3 per cent solution of DDT is still the most effective insecticide to use for general sanitation. This is spread to form a thin coat on the surface, where it can remain for future destruction. A spray that will just moisten the surface is sufficient to be effective. Spray only those areas where you know the insects gather.

Sanitation is mighty important to the turkey poult. Brooder houses, brooders and all brooder house equipment should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected before the poulters are put in the brooder house.

Pasture plants need a rest period to regain their vigor and to allow them to produce a seed crop. Correctly planned programs of deferred grazing will give them this needed rest period.

Every Texas farmer and ranchman should completely execute the farm census questionnaire when it is received. Census figures are widely used for many purposes and they need to be accurate.
