TIME FOR ACTION!

Safety, like freedom, is everybody's business. No one escapes the effects of job accidents—neither the worker who gets hurt, his family and the community which suffer from his loss of earning power, the employer who loses a valued employee's service, nor the nation itself which cannot afford this waste of skill and production.

Nevertheless, 70 men and women continue to be killed and more than 8,000 others injured at their jobs each and every day of the year. The cost of these accidents last year, according to the Association of Casualty and Surety Company, amounted to more than $4,500,000. Aside from the humanitarian angle, think of the stupendous losses that are suffered by our economy as a result of more than 2,000,000 job accidents each year!

Since the birth of the industrial safety movement 40 years ago, some industries, some establishments and some states have made remarkable progress in reducing the toll of occupational accidents; others have not done so well. This is true in spite of the fact that, in 99 out of 100 cases, it has been proven that the safe factory or farm is the efficient one.

Like pestilence, accidents strike everywhere. There is no single cause or cure for occupational accidents. Each may be created by a variety of factors, all of which can and must be controlled. Accidents don't "just happen". They are caused and, therefore, can be prevented.

Two million job accidents annually are a national disgrace. Every one can join the crusade to stamp out occupational hazards and their progeny—preventable accidents. It's high time, the President's Conference on Industrial Safety correctly says, for a positive program to accomplish these ends.

Texas School Lunch Program Extended

A new contract was made last week by the State Board of Education with the US Dept. of Agriculture, providing for the continuation of the school lunch program in Texas during the next school year. The board approved spending of $20,000 during the year to administer the program.

Texas Tech Completes Renovation Program

A $20,000 renovation program in men's dormitories at Texas Technological college is nearing completion.

Both 11-year-old Sneed hall and 17-year-old West hall are receiving a complete interior paint job, walls and ceilings are being repaired and given coats of paint and varnish. An additional bathroom has been added in Sneed and worn pipe has been replaced. Tech has three other dormitories for men, including two million-dollar structures.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the people of Silvertown for the many kind deeds and courtesies shown us during our brief stay in your town.

We deeply appreciate the many thoughtful acts in behalf of our brother and the consideration shown his wife.

May God bless each of you.
The LOVE BROTHERS.

Oberammergau Passion Play Is Revived

OBERAMMERGAU, Germany—For the first time in 16 years, the world-famous Oberammergau Passion play was presented in the village where it originated.

And something new was added to the revival. Six year old Johnny McMahan, son of Major and Mrs. John McMahan, Boise, Idaho, appeared with his fellow students at the German school as part of the choral background. Major McMahan is stationed in Germany with the U. S. Army. Johnny, incidentally, speaks better Bavarian than English.

Eyes of the capacity audience, however, were centered on the bearded and long-haired Anton Preisinger, 37, a self-admitted former Nazi who played the role of Christ. A demure 16-year-old woodcarving student, Annelie Mayr, played the Virgin Mary.

Innkeeper Plays Christ

A stocky and mild-mannered innkeeper, Preisinger gave a forceful performance. Clad in a pale-yellow robe with a crimson cloak over his right shoulder, he appeared in the first scene driving the money changers from the temple.

He has appeared in three other Passion plays—the first time in 1922 as an angel. But this was his first appearance as Christ.

Gray haired Alois Lang, who played the part of Christ in the last performance in 1924, read the prologue. Garbed in a golden robe, he was accompanied by a gray-robed choir of 50 men and women.

As the choir filed off the stage, the curtain fell back revealing a street scene in Jerusalem with hundreds of men, women and children in red, blue, green and yellow costumes strolling in the scene.

Christ then stepped into the throng and the first words of the play rang clear:

"What do I see here? Is this the house of God? Or is it the market place?"

Let Hair Grow for Years

The men and boys in the scene had let their hair grow to their shoulders during the past year to give themselves a biblical appearance.

The Passion play was first staged by the townspeople in 1634 in gratitude for the ending of the black plague which had stricken the population. At the time of the plague the people vowed to put on the pageant periodically if it would stop. There were interruptions during the first and second world wars.

Preisinger was chosen to portray Christ only after a heated controversy. Several other former Nazis, all of whom have been declared denazified, also were in the cast.

Little Johnny McMahan, costumed in a pale-blue robe resembling a nightshirt and with his hair down to his shoulders like the rest of the boys, played the part of one of the town boys in the Jerusalem street scene. He also appeared in several tableaux.

After it was over, Johnny said, "It was fun."

Youth Learns How Much Difference 72 Hours Makes

WASHINGTON—Just 72 hours can make all the difference in the world in anyone's life. Charles G. Keefer learned the hard way recently.

Keefer lost both legs in an automobile accident. The U. S. court of appeals affirmed a lower court decision awarding him $25 a week for 300 weeks as compensation. In its decision, the court noted that the grant was the maximum permitted under the city's compensation law at the time of the mishap.

"Seventy-two hours after appellant was injured, the schedule of damages was amended so that appellant, had he come under the new law, would have received $25 a week for life," the court said.

The court added: "We regret we cannot render judgment in favor of a young man who has been struck down in the very prime of life.

Keefer is 22, married and has two children.

Priest Who Refused to Take Oath Reappointed by Pope

VIENNA, Austria—The Roman Catholic priest who abruptly refused to take the oath as he was being consecrated archbishop, has been reappointed to the post by Pope Pious XII.

The ceremony was held in the same church where Msgr. Franz Jachym suddenly declared himself "unworthy" to be a bishop and declined to take the oath, leaving church dignitaries stunned.

Church officials reported the appointment: "There is no doubt he will go through with the ceremony. Since the pope had reappointed him, Msgr. Jachym must now feel that his excuse for not accepting the post is no longer valid."

Women Make
Business of Hat
800 Years Old

SEATTLE — Two Seattle housewives have become fashion experts with a booming business more or less by accident. They are Mrs. Wesley V. Korman, wife of an architect, and Mrs. Julian P. Jenner, wife of a bank official. It all began after the two began buying bamboo blinds from Japan and taking orders on a small scale from neighbors. They asked the importer about other native Japanese work. He remembers an 800-year-old hat he had seen during his boyhood in Japan.

The girls took one look and knew it was for a high fashion market and set out to sell it. They wrote a friend, Billie Beach Stiff, suggesting that she join their partnership and contact eastern stores with the "Sudari" hat.

Hat Is Great Success

Billie liked the idea and hooked a set of silver fox furs to finance a trip to Washington and New York. The first store she approached took 50 hats.

The Seattle girls quote Billie, "I think the reason I was such a success is that I was too dumb to go through regular channels. I went right to the top officials."

The eastern success inspired the housewives to undertake a 4,000 miles western tour covering leading resorts and shops in nine western states.

Everywhere they went the hat was a success. In a Colorado store patrons and help elbowed, pushed and crowded around when it was shown. One owner of a swank shop closed up so he could talk hats without interruption.

Work Twenty Hour Day

Orders poured in and Lou and Jo returned home to a 20-hour day. This is the way their day goes, one of them reports:

"First we spoon food into the babies and then do diapers. Then we open mail, pack hats, do invoices, figure prices on our other products, whip down to see the patent attorney, the banker, the broker, the importer; get tests made on our newest products, go back home and pack some more hats until 11 or 12 o'clock, then dash down to the express office to get them off. The phone rings all day and we can't keep up with our correspondence."

Once they learned the ropes of selling the products, they branched out in all directions. They went in with a manufacturer of a device that converts walnut, birch, mahogany or other woods into fine slats. These slats are used in weaving drapes, blinds, lamp shades and other such items. Some of their customers have such confidence in them they have a standing order of a dozen of anything new.

Convicted Government Girl
Announces Plans to Marry

NEW YORK — Judith Coplon has been married. The 28-year-old former justice department analyst, at liberty pending appeal of two convictions of spying for Russia, announced her engagement to Albert H. Socolov, 29, a New York attorney and war veteran.

The romance began, the couple said, while Socolov was doing research work on the government case in which the girl and Valentin Gubitehev, a Russian engineer, were jointly convicted of spying for Russia.

Now that we are married," Socolov said, "we hope we will be left alone and allowed to lead a peaceful married life. We want happiness. We want sympathetic understanding by the people. We want our love to stay untarnished by public scorn."

The attorney said he was sure the courts would absolve his bride of guilt.

A reporter asked the couple if they had considered what would happen if Miss Coplon's appeals were denied and she found herself an expectant mother.

"Our marriage is not an attempt to interfere with justice in this case," Socolov said. "We are just two people who happen to be in love, and wanted to get married."

Policeman Commandeers
Train to Chase Bandit

COVINGTON, Ky. — Horses, automobiles, and even planes have been used to capture bandits, but seldom has a policeman commandeered a railroad engine for the chase.

Frank Flate's hardware store was robbed of $51. The owner rushed into the street after the bandit fled shouting that he had been robbed.

Patrolman Richard Harlow and another officer gave chase. The suspect took off down a railroad track, so police left the cruiser and commandeered a switch engine.

Harlow, a former railroad man, directed the engineer and fireman. After a mile they overtook the fugitive.

Baptists Proud of New Camp in Blanco Canyon

Baptists of District Nine, comprised of eight associations and more than 180 churches, are realizing more than ever what a gem of a location they have on Blanco canyon six miles south of Floydada for their encampment grounds. Accordingly they have been pouring plans and money into improvement with greater energy this spring than ever before.

Scores of the churches have their camp homes already constructed and others continue to build.

The stream of living water flowing through the 70-acre site, together with an irrigation-type well on the side of the canyon walls, furnish ample water for all purposes, including fresh water for the large swimming pool, which is a great attraction for the youngsters.

Facilities to improve the ground, with the new church encampment homes, are being added so fast as to be amazing even to the local churchmen who visit the scene often.

The grounds represent probably the outstanding Baptist campsite in the state. It gets high praise and compliments from every visitor, Rev. R. E. L. Muncy of Floydada, said this week. Plans to greatly enhance the natural beauty of the grounds during the period of the next twelve months are said to be in the making at this time.

The Youth Camps now being held are the largest in Texas, and second in the United States. Investment of the Baptists including cost of the land, is near $100,000.

There are 186 churches in District nine, comprised of eight associations. The district goes as far north as Hereford, south to Spur and Dickens, west to the New Mexico line and east to Matador.

There is a beautiful swimming cabins or cottages there, and the pool, costing $12,000. Nearly all the churches of the district have average cost of them is around $1,500. The tabernacle is large and the cafeteria and kitchens are modern.

Make ROBERT HAMILTON Your Next County Judge

The Supervisors of The Cap Rock Soil Conservation District are: Chairman, Earl I. Cantwell; Vice Chairman, Bray Cook; Secretary, Chester Burnett; L. A. McJimsey and Glynn B. Morrison.

Terrace construction has been completed on Orville Turner's farm which is located one mile west and three miles north of Silverton. The terrace system was laid out by Soil Conservation Service technicians and will serve as one step towards erosion control and water conservation. Due to farming operations and recent rains, terracing has nearly come to a halt in the Cap Rock Soil Conservation District. However, it is expected that some of the farmers in the district will terrace wheat land and summer fallow land as soon as the weather becomes favorable.

During the past few weeks, several farmers have brought up various questions in regard to terracing. A number of the farmers want to know why we do not use graded terraces in the district or level the ends of the level terraces open. When it rains as it has the last few weeks, we are inclined to forget that we live in an area of limited rainfall. We think of needing terraces only as a means of keeping the land from washing away. Since this area has quite an uneven seasonal distribution of rainfall, any moisture that can be stored by the use of level terraces with closed ends will serve as a reservoir for the crops to draw on during dry periods. It has been shown at the Spur experiment station over a period of years that more rainfall is lost from fields with graded terraces than from those fields that had the rows run with the slope. The production was lowered accordingly. Level terraces with open ends will hold no more water on a field than contour cultivation. Another problem presented by graded terraces or level terraces with open ends is that proper outlets must be provided. The outlets have to be constructed and sown to adequate vegetation before the terraces are built. In this district it will be a constant job to prevent the outlets from silting down. Construction of waterways or outlets and the seeding of them to permanent vegetation is eliminated to a large extent by the use of level terraces with closed ends.

The main cause for the questions concerning graded and open ended terraces in the Cap Rock Soil Conservation District is the terraces that broke during the recent heavy rains. A large part of the rain fell fast and was accompanied by high winds which caused waves to slosh over the tops of the terraces. Since the terraces had not settled, they were easily cut by the water. Terraces with the ends open broke almost equally as bad as those with the ends closed. Although fields on which the terraces broke washed to some extent, those fields in the same area that were not terraced also eroded considerably.

Terrace systems are designed to care for the average rainfall. They are designed to be practical and useful. Although most of the farmers in the district understand this fact, there are a few that think their terraces should take care of anything that happens. A small ridge of dirt less than two feet high above natural ground can't be expected to handle rain storms that wash out roads and bridges. Terraces can be constructed that will handle almost any rain we have here, but they will be far from practical. The specifications would have to be more rigid in regard to size, length, spacing and outlets. The terraces would have to be built a good deal larger than those now in use; they would have to be spaced closer together; the length would have to be cut down considerably; and if graded, vegetated outlets would have to be provided. In one respect or the other all of the above things mean additional expense to the farmer, not only for the initial cost, but for the upkeep. I believe if we analyze the conditions, we will realize it is far more practical and less expensive to design the terraces for the average rainfall than for the maximum rainfall, although there will be a repair job occasionally.

As we have said before, terracing is not a "cure-all." It is only one step in a complete soil and moisture conservation program on the farm. Some of the land in the Cap Rock Soil Conservation District is too steep for terracing. Some of the land is too sandy or shallow for terracing. These farms can be properly cared for only by the use of vegetative practices. The Soil Conservation Service in Silverton is set up to assist you in the application of conservation practices. We will be glad to assist you in any way possible.

DISTRICT 11, ROUTE 3
BRENNHAM, TEXAS

Hon. J. Blake Timmons, Panhandle Dist. CHAIRMAN, House Commerce Committee April 20, 1949
Member, Conservation-Reclamation HOUSE of REPRESENTATIVES, Austin, Tex.

Dear Mr. Timmons,
I wish to express my appreciation to you for having voted for the McLellan Road Bill, H. B. 59. This was a vote for the rural people and their school children.
I hope that all country folks will become thoroughly informed of what you were trying to do for them and how you stood by your promises for Farm-to-Market roads.

I had the honor to serve as a House member for eighteen years and during that time I observed very closely the effect and growth of the multi-million-dollar special interest groups of the industrial North, East and West and how the influence kept spreading until it is apparent that these groups are about to control the House of Representatives as has been the case in the Texas Senate for many years. Special and big interest can and will always get along and it is the "Forgotten Man" that needs more attention, whether it be better health facilities, schools, rural roads, or equal opportunities to bring about a higher standard of agriculture. Once the voters find out that you have the courage and honest convictions, and that you have stood for them in principle and practice, they should always praise and admire you as a faithful servant.

With your help, H. B. 59 will still have a chance to pass this session, so let's try once more. Over 30,000 Farm Bureau members appreciate your active support.
Again, many thanks to you.

Sincerely yours,
R. A. Fuchs

in rural areas cannot have an education as good and in as many fields of endeavor as students in the centers of population," Miss Walker commented.

State aid to schools is offered on a variety of bases.

Schools are allowed funds for a supervisor or counselor on the basis of one to every forty classroom teachers. Supervisors work with the teachers to improve education. Counselors devote their time to guiding and advising children.

Librarians, health nurses, doctors and visiting and itinerant teachers are provided for on the basis of the school districts having their choice of one of those for each twenty classroom teachers.

Visiting teachers work with parents to overcome conditions which prevent children's regular attendance of school. Itinerant teachers are those specializing in such subjects as art, music or physical education who give instruction in several schools in the same district daily or several times a week.

School districts in the same county can combine teacher totals to be eligible for more of these specialists.

Vocational education departments increased during the last school year by more than 500, making a total of 2,687 in the 2,482 school districts in the state.

State aid has enabled these high schools, when they have enrollments of sixty or more pupils, to hire instructors in vocational agriculture, trades and industries and home economics.

There has also been a big demand for more distributive education and it is being met. In these courses high school students devote half of their school time to classroom work and the other half to gaining actual experience in their chosen field, whether it is in mechanics, printing, selling, farming, merchandizing or work as beauty operators.

Classes for handicapped children increased 50 per cent through out the state for the last school year. Another such increase is anticipated during the 1950-51 school year as more teachers trained in this highly specialized work become available.

Smaller school districts can also combine to establish joint classes for these handicapped children. Miss Walker expects that practice to be expanded.

"Handicapped children benefit greatly under specially trained teachers, but outside the larger centers of population there are so few in many school districts it is not feasible from an economic standpoint to hire instructors. Two or more districts generally have a sufficient number of children to make possible this badly needed service," the state association president declared.

Texas State Teachers Ass'n Like Gilmer-Aikin Law

Austin, Texas, July 15—The smaller public schools of Texas now have available many special services which have raised the standards of education and improved the health of the children.

Until enactment by the last legislature of the Gilmer-Aikin school laws, only the larger and richer school districts could afford the numerous services now being utilized throughout the state, Miss Waurine Walker, president of the Texas State Teachers Association, declared here today.

Increased state funds for districts, after they have met state requirements as to financing on the local level has made available teacher supervisors, student counselors, librarians, visiting teachers, nurses, physicians, itinerant teachers, more vocational teachers, home economics and trades and industries courses, distributive education, and more training of exceptional, or handicapped children, Miss Walker pointed out.

Human Artery Bank To Open New Era In Cancer Surgery

NEW YORK—New York physicians are predicting a new era in surgery with the establishment recently of a human artery bank, supplying pieces of arteries for operations, much as a blood bank supplies blood when needed. Its treasure now is seven pieces of arteries, totaling 21 inches. The spares can replace damaged, defective, or diseased arteries in living humans. They also promise to make possible bold new cancer operations that cannot be done now because arteries are affected and would have to be removed. The first such bank was established in Boston recently. They are expected to spread rapidly to other cities. According to physicians, the arteries are taken soon after death from young persons who have no arterial diseases or defects. Permission is granted by the donor before death, or is given by relatives. The arteries are kept living in a bath of nutrient fluids, but by quick freezing it may be possible to bank arteries for months or years. Arteries have been grafted successfully in animal experiments after having been kept frozen eight months, doctors report. The spare artery apparently doesn't live in the body, surgeons said. Like a bone graft, it apparently is replaced by new growth from both ends of the living artery. The spare supplies a skeleton for this growth. Medical men have eye banks and bone banks, too.

ALTAVENE CLARK For Congress

As far as politics are concerned, we usually follow the rule of letting the candidate do their own "horn tooting." We also generally adhere to the rule of letting the voters do their own choosing. We dislike having anyone tell us how to vote and we refrain from attempting to tell anyone else how to vote. We are not attempting to do that this time, but we see no harm in pointing out the good qualities of a candidate, especially if that candidate is deserving.

We think Mrs. Altavene Clark, candidate for Congress, is the type of candidate whose good qualities should be pointed out.

We have known Mrs. Altavene Clark for the past 24 years. She and I started working for the Panhandle Lumber Company in 1926. We both terminated our connections in 1933. During that time Mrs. Clark was purchasing agent for the Panhandle Lumber Company, who at that time owned approximately fifty lumber yards, scattered over the Panhandle and South Plains. She was an especially good lumber buyer and business woman at that time.

We have also known Mrs. Altavene Clark during the 17 years she has been in Washington, having had a great deal of correspondence with her, especially during the depression years.

We made one trip to Washington in the interest of the Panhandle and South Plains counties on the Food Stamp Program. Mrs. Clark was very helpful at that time. As a matter of fact she made all contacts with the various officials. After we left Washington she followed this up until most of the counties received the benefits of the Food Stamp Program.

Mrs. Altavene Clark, having been employed by Marvin Jones, head of the Agriculture Committee, naturally was in close contact with all agricultural legislation during the time the Hon. Marvin Jones was chairman of the committee.

Later in the employ of Gene Worley, who was also on the Agriculture Committee, she continued her close contact with the program.

Mrs. Altavene Clark was recently elected Executive Secretary of the Agriculture Committee by the members of Congress. This shows the high regard that Congress itself has for Mrs. Clark.

We believe that Mrs. Altavene Clark has a keener insight into the needs of all the people of the Panhandle and the workings of the government than does any other person in the Panhandle.

We know Mrs. Clark to be competent, aggressive, and meticulous.

Vote as you please, but consider Mrs. Altavene Clark's qualifications.

To The People of Briscoe County:

Friends:

Saturday, July 22nd is election day, and in seeking re-election as your County Judge and Ex-Officio County Superintendent, I do so with full realization of the duties of the office and the responsibilities connected therewith. I sincerely feel that the experience gained while serving as your County Judge in the past will enable me to serve you even better in the future.

To each of you, I wish to take this means and opportunity to express my sincere appreciation for the fine help and splendid cooperation given to me while serving as your County Judge, as the success of any County Official depends largely upon the help and cooperation of the people of the county in which he serves, and a continuation of this fine spirit of cooperation and support is earnestly solicited.

Although it has been impossible for me to make a house to house campaign without neglecting the duties of the office, I have endeavored to contact personally as many of you as I could, but should you be one of those whom I have missed, I trust that you will take this message as a personal request for your support and vote on Saturday, July 22nd.

Hungry Horse Dam Operators to Start 1953, Reported

HUNGRY HORSE, Mont. — Progresses on the fourth and third highest concrete in the world. It is located in a canyon in the foothills of Rocky mountains in northern Montana.

The project is scheduled for completion in 1953 at an estimated cost of $106,000,000. Its first hydroelectric generator is to go on line in the fall of 1952. When completed, its four generators will produce about 300,000 kilowatts to the northwest power pool.

Paul J. Ravier, director of Bonneville project on the Columbia river, reports Montana benefiting from the Hungry Horse project even before it is completed.

Montana Power company signed an agreement with the Nevada Power administration under the arrangement," he said, "in the summer we transferred power now to Montana from the lines of the Washington Power Company. This enabled the Montana Power Company to close down its generators and fill its reservoirs for use in winter, when the streams are low.

When the Montana Power company supplies power the year around to all rural electrification units in its territory at our rates. So, the REA is getting the benefits from Hungry Horse power before the dam is completed.

The Montana Power company agrees to put in rate reductions in 1952 as soon as it begins to produce Hungry Horse power." Despite the intergration of government and private systems in the northwest power pool, the reportedly still boosts hardy opinions of the theory that private industry should control the production and thus have a strong influence on the generation of power government projects.

American Youth in Czech Prison Given New Sentence

HILLSIDE, N. J.—The family of John Hvasta, 23, an American citizen, sentenced in 1948 to three years in prison on a charge of spying by the Czechoslovakia government, has announced that youth's sentence has been increased another 10 years.

Hvasta's family said they learned of the extended sentence from a letter from Gabriella, the youth's Czech wife. No reason for the increase was given. His release had been expected in October.

Bandit Apologizes Before Proceeding With Robbery

HOLLYWOOD — "I really must apologize," the robber said and gagged the lady's mouth.

Barkley Admirer Comes Up With Another Famous Story

WASHINGTON — Vice-president Barkley has become widely known for his stories. Now a new one comes to light.

Lewis L. Strauss, former member of the atomic energy commission, told an audience recently he did not intend to talk too long.

And that reminded him of a story that Barkley tells on himself. It seems that Barkley was in the midst of an oration when a member of the audience told him: "If your watch has stopped, here's a calendar on the wall."

Nation's Children to Have Real Atomic Toys This Year

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. — The children of the nation will have real atomic toys this Christmas.

The atomic energy commission has announced the shipping of radio-active isotopes to a toy manufacturer.

The ray-emitting isotope is zinc 65, described by scientists as a "harmless" isotope, or element, which will keep radioactively charged for more than eight months.

The manufacturer proposes to make toys in which kiddies can watch atomic disintegration. The zinc is made radioactive in the atomic furnaces at Oak Ridge.

WHEN HUMAN LIVES BECOME STATISTICS

70 killed!—More than 8,000 injured! You didn't read of this disaster in your local paper. It wasn't there. These killed and injured were working men and women all across the nation who were accident victims on their jobs yesterday. Today they are statistics!

The toll goes on—every hour, every day and at year's end some 16,000 workers have been killed and more than 2,000,000 injured. Time lost by disabling injuries would equal the working time of a million men for a whole year. For the dead there is no time.

About 3 out of every 4 occupational accident victims are workers in smaller plants, firms and businesses. In fact, in every job there is some hazard. Slipping on a floor, tripping on a stair or falling from a truck can incapacitate you as surely as some situation which would seem more dangerous. Know your job—know the hazards connected with it—and be prepared to avoid them.

Think before you act—before you expose yourself to danger and accident. Think safely. It's better to be a worker than a statistic!

FACES DEPORTATION

Former GI Held as Spy

NEW YORK — Frederick E. Bauer, who gave up his French citizenship in 1935 to become a citizen of the United States and a member of this country's armed forces, may give up the fight to stay in this country and be deported to Germany.

Bauer was arrested in 1945 for investigation of charges that he was a German spy. The charges were said to be based on information discovered in Germany.

If he is deported, his wife, Wilma, a native of Rockelle, Ind., and their two children, Carmen, 2½, and a son not yet six months old, will also be deported.

Served in U.S. Army

"I have been on Ellis Island with him for three and a half years," Mrs. Bauer said recently. "The children share a room with us. Unless we can get away from there within a few weeks we will have to give up and let them send us to Germany."

"It is like facing death. Even the Germans on Ellis Island called my husband a traitor to Germany. And those Germans, Nazis, were released on parole. Only my husband, who served loyally and well in the army here, was not allowed to be free under bond or on parole."

Mrs. Bauer first met her husband in Indianapolis. They were married on Christmas eve, 1944. He was a sergeant stationed at Fort Benjamin Harrison.

Bauer came to this country in 1930 and five years later became an American citizen. He studied law and was admitted to practice in the federal courts as a patent attorney. He was qualified by the U. S. supreme court.

In 1938 he returned to Germany to work. He related after his arrest that he had been appointed a spy by the Nazis, but that he had tricked them into this solely for the purpose of getting out of Germany. He acknowledged that the Germans had given him $2,000 and two escorts who put him on a ship in Spain that arrived here in 1941. But he maintained that he never had carried out his assignment.

Joined German Army

By joining the German army, Bauer nullified his American naturalization, the U. S. government charges. The department of justice also insists that in view of his alleged loss of citizenship, he is guilty of illegal entry into the country.

The immigration authorities hold that Bauer should be deported to Germany as an alien enemy. Bauer contends that, even if his American citizenship should be cancelled, he would revert to French citizenship, not German.

"We just can't stand it any longer," Mrs. Bauer declared recently. "If he is deported, his wife, an American, and two children born in this country, will go with him."

FORMER PLAYBOY

Expects War With Russia

NEW YORK — James Hazen Hyde, the man who once gave parties costing as much as $200,000 each and spent 36 years of self imposed exile in France, has returned to the United States to live.

"America is a great and wonderful country," he observed after so many years abroad. He lived in France until 1941.

Hyde fell heir at 23 to the controlling interest in Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, a company with a billion dollars worth of insurance on its books.

Shortly after he became head of the company, he was taken in tow by unscrupulous financiers with an eye on the 400 million dollars in Equitable assets. These funds were manipulated to make enormous profits for the operators.

Gave Expensive Parties

Meanwhile, Hyde was throwing some of his biggest parties. The last one was held at Sherry's ballroom in New York and is reported to have cost between $100,000 and $200,000. It drew criticism from newspapers throughout the country. Hyde was called a gilded, scented youth in editorials and the incident helped to end his career as an executive.

Insurance policy holders sued the company charging officers with squandering company funds and receiving extravagant salaries. As a result, Charles Evans Hughes directed a cleanup of the affair and enactment of legislation controlling insurance companies. It made Hughes a great public figure.

When the investigation reached the courts Hyde took the stand and hurled charges at nearly every important executive in the company. He indicated that he had been used as a catspaw.

When he left the stand, hundreds of people followed him through the streets, cheering.

Views Russian Power

To get himself out of the mess, however, Hyde sold his interests in the company for $2,500,000 and went to Paris to live. He had an important part in liaison during World War I.

Now, back in New York, Hyde said he is going to spend the coming war—he believes there will be one—in America.

In explaining the present European situation, Hyde said, "The only thing the Russians understand is force."

He believes our state department is doing a good job fighting communism in Europe through the Marshall plan, and favors the Atlantic pact.

But Americans do not always understand the position of western European countries, he said. Those nations admire and like the United States, but they are living in deadly fear of the huge military force maintained in Europe by Russia.

"Before the United States could ever come to their aid, England and France would be destroyed," he added.

Hyde said the western powers are handicapped in their battle

Two Pilots, Woman Saved From Plunge Over Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. — Several persons have plunged over Niagara Falls in barrels and lived to tell about their much publicized stunt, but none had been rescued from certain death after falling or jumping into the river above the cataract, until recently.

Two pilots and a woman were rescued by helicopter from a 100-foot plunge over Horseshoe Falls. The dramatic rescue was witnessed by hundreds of horrified spectators.

Early one morning recently park employees heard a woman's screams for help and found her clinging to a rock about 75 feet from shore.

She was Mrs. Jeannette Bugay, 25, wife of a Niagara Falls taxi driver and mother of three children.

The park employees tried to rescue her. One waded into the river while another held a rope fastened to her. The swift current, however, knocked him down and his companion pulled him to safety.

Firemen then tried to get a rowboat to the woman, but failed. A helicopter was then called to the rescue.

The craft, pontoon equipped, landed on the water near the rock to which the woman clung. Joseph A. Cannon, 30, one of the pilots, climbed out on a pontoon and slipped a rope about the woman. As he started pulling her toward the helicopter he slipped and lost his balance. The plane tipped over and the spinning rotor blades hit the water.

Still clinging to the woman, the pilots climbed back aboard the wrecked plane which drifted about 35 yards closer to the falls before lodging on a rock.

A hurried call was put in to the nearby Bell Aircraft Corp. plant and a second helicopter sped to the scene.

One end of a rope was dropped to the pilots in the wrecked craft. They tied it to the wreck. The second helicopter then dropped the other end to firemen on shore.

A rowboat moved cautiously along the rope to the trio and brought them safely to land.
