JUDGE JOE S. MOSS

The Law Can be in Simple Language

Any document signed by a Briscoe county citizen may someday have to be interpreted by the Court of Civil Appeals at Amarillo. In over 41 years the court has existed, it has decided over six thousand civil cases. It is to the interest of the people of Briscoe county that qualified members of the people sit on that high court. Judge Joe S. Moss of Garza county believes that legal papers and proceedings should be in the language of the people, rather than in legal fine print. Judge Moss will help simplify and speed up the machinery of the law. Ask the people who know him. Vote for Moss, A. C. 11 Judge for a Civil Court. (Pol. Adv. Paid by Joe S. Moss)

Much needed rain fell three times this week. The amount of rain varied over the area. Bomar's One Stop Service Station reported .85 of moisture Saturday morning, .18 Sunday night, and .51 Tuesday night here in town. In all we got 1.54 of moisture, which helped, but some farmers still need more. Mrs. Wylie Bomar made a business trip to Tulla Friday.

California, Florida, Pay More for School Teachers

Twenty-five states including traditional competitors like California and Florida, now are paying their public school teachers more than Texas does, Charles H. Tennyson, executive secretary of the Texas State Teachers Association, announced this week. In Texas the average classroom teacher is paid $2,960 a year, whereas in New York she makes $4,500 a year. California, the number-two state in the nation, pays an average salary to teachers of $3,900.

BOYS RANCH WILL PUT ON PROGRAM AT SAN JACINTO SCHOOL

Boys from Boys Ranch will give a program for San Jacinto at the San Jacinto School, on Friday, July 25, at 7:30 p. m. Each family is to bring sandwiches, cake and lemonade.

Briscoe County Lags In Car, Truck Inspection

The district highway director was in town Friday making a routine check of the records on automobile and truck inspections and indicated that Briscoe County operators were extremely lax in having their cars and trucks inspected and put in shape before the close of the time limit for the inspection. Out of 1720 vehicles registered in Briscoe county only 400 had been inspected at that time. The time limit is drawing near and folks should not wait until the last day to have this check made the highway director said.

Texas Department of Public Safety, Camp Mabry, Austin Has the Following to say:

There are some 37,000 people killed on our streets and highways in the United States every year. Nearly 2,000,000 people are injured on our streets and highways in the United States every year.

Let's compare these casualties with our United States Army. An Infantry Division in our United States Army is composed of approximately 18,000 men. With 37,000 people killed every year, this would mean that two entire Infantry Divisions would be annihilated every year. With 2,000,000 people injured every year, this would mean that the entire personnel of 111 Divisions would be injured every year. In war, it is extremely doubtful if our army could withstand such casualties as these every year. If our casualties ran this high in Korea, the manpower would soon be exhausted. If our casualties ran this high in Korea, the people of the United States would be screaming to the high heavens for someone to do something. Yet we continue every year to kill more people on our streets and highways than we have in all the wars the United States have participated in—and what do we do about it? Practically nothing.

In Texas alone last year we killed 2,546 people, injured 70,000 more and suffered an economic loss of 96,000,000 dollars.

Record - Keeping Requirements for Working Children

Dallas, July 16—Amendment of the Fair Labor Standards Act's record-keeping regulations as they apply to children employed on farms was announced today by the U. S. Department of Labor.

Issued by Michael J. Galvin as Acting Secretary of Labor, the amended regulations become effective August 11. Under them, the farmer will be required to record three items for children under 18 years of age who work on his farm on days when school is in session. They are: (1) the child's name; (2) his date of birth; and (3) the address of his permanent home, and where he lives while working if not at his permanent home. These items need be entered only once for each child hired by the farmer.

Galvin's action was taken under the Act's provisions which prohibit the employment of children under 16 in agriculture during school hours for the school district where the child lives while so employed. The Act as now written does not prohibit the employment of children outside school hours and does not apply to the farmer's own children who work on their parent's farm.

Galvin's action simplifies the present requirements applying to farmers.

Complete text of the amendments was scheduled for publication in the Federal Register for July 8. Copies may be obtained from the U. S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions.

In Texas, such offices are located in Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Harlingen, Houston, and San Antonio.

Farm Bureau Meeting is Postponed

The meeting of the Briscoe County Farm Bureau has been postponed one week in order to encourage the people of this area to attend a meeting in Lubbock and hear Mr. Allen Kline, the president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, when he speaks at Jones Stadium the night of July 28th.

The appearance of Mr. Kline is sponsored by the Lubbock County Farm Bureau and the Lubbock Agricultural Club. They have arranged for the Castro County Farm Bureau Choral Club to furnish the entertainment. Weaver said that those from this county who wished to travel as a group should meet at the Court House at 4:00 p. m. July 28 in order to cut down on travel expense. All Farm and City families are invited and urged to hear Mr. Kline and to enjoy the music and free lemonade. Cap Rock Soil Conservation District News

To many farmers in Texas hairy vetch has filled a need for a soil improving legume and a plant to furnish grazing when many of the grasses are dormant.

Hairy vetch is one of the legumes adapted to the Cap Rock Soil Conservation District, particularly the sandy and mixed lands below the cap rock. Hairy vetch is an annual, sometimes reseeding, winter legume. It produces large amounts of forage and organic matter. Like most, or all, legumes it responds well to fertilizer, especially superphosphate. The rate of application will vary with different soils and amounts of rainfall. Hairy vetch should be planted in late August or early September in the Cap Rock SCD. The seed can be drilled, planted in rows, or planted in cotton or grain sorghum middles. The seeding rate is 20-25 pounds to the acre drilled, 10-15 pounds in rows. The seed should be covered 2-4 inches deep. Vetch, like all legumes, should not be planted without first inoculating the seed with the proper inoculant. This inoculant can be secured from any seed dealer.

Anyone that is interested in trying this legume can secure more information, if needed, at the Soil Conservation Service office in Silvertown.

Douglas S. Yates Drowns Instead of Richard Yates

Phone Company To Change Name August 1, 1952

The name of the Southwestern Associated Telephone Company with General Offices in Dallas, Texas will be changed to General Telephone Company of the Southwest on August 1, 1952, it was announced today by Mr. Roy Autry, company president.

As in a previous announcement, Mr. Autry pointed out that the name change would in no way affect the present operation of the company or provide for any organizational changes.

"The idea of changing the company name is to have all operating companies of the General Telephone System carry the name 'General' in their respective titles," said Mr. Autry. "This plan for making uniform the names of all operating companies will bring wider knowledge of the General Telephone System and assist in marketing our securities, as well as bringing about many economies of operation."

Southwestern Associated Telephone Company is the largest of the independent (non-Bell) telephone companies in the Southwest serving nearly 130,000 telephones in Texas, New Mexico, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Louisiana. The company employs approximately 2,200 people and has its largest operations at Texarkana, Texas-Arkansas; Baytown, Texas; Hobbs and Carlsbad, New Mexico, as well as a considerable number of towns around Lubbock, Texas including Levelland, Littlefield, Brownfield, Lamesa and Tahoka.

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Newberry, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Conner and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Connor, of Dallas, were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Newberry Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cowart left Saturday afternoon for Hartman, Nebraska, on a vacation.

To The Voters and Others of Briscoe County:

Under prevailing conditions, due to the fact that I have had to work during the campaign period, I have been unable to see everyone in the county and ask them personally for their vote and influence. I want to take this means of soliciting everyone for their assistance in electing me your next county clerk. I assure you I will appreciate anything you may do for me. Respectfully yours, MRS. PAUL REID. (Paid Pol. Advertisement)

C. D. WRIGHT

To the People of Briscoe County

As election time is nearing, I again solicit your vote for the office of County Attorney. I thank you for the help you have given me. Also I thank all the County and District Officers for their loyal support. Your officers need the assistance of all citizens for without that, no incumbent can discharge the duties of his office as he should. We all need to pull together to enforce, law and then to try to lay premises in the lives of those apprehended which will help them back to respectable, useful citizenship.

I have accepted this office as my privilege to help my community and my brother. If re-elected I shall accept again in that spirit.

The percent of delinquency among us is lower than in many places. But there is still much to be done in combating wrongdoing; for there are still those who will try to get by with violations of the law. They should be apprehended and punished, and an effort made to raise their moral and spiritual evaluations, that the welfare of our community may be safeguarded. It is to you our local people, that the credit belongs for Briscoe's high type of citizenship, for it is the public's attitude towards law-abedience which must set the standards for any area. I ask your support in this election and then in the task of keeping high our standards for law and order and Christian decency.

Respectfully submitted, C. D. WRIGHT. (Political Advertisement)

575,000 4-H'ers Get Training to Cut Farm Accident Toll

Farm safety surveys made by 4-H'ers show that matches within reach of small children and stairways littered with toys, jars and other articles were much in evidence as fire and accident hazards in rural homes.

Farm safety surveys made by 4-H'ers show that matches within reach of small children and stairways littered with toys, jars and other articles were much in evidence as fire and accident hazards in rural homes.

Chicago—(Special)—More than 575,000 4-H Club boys and girls throughout the nation are receiving training in farm accident and fire prevention this year. The outstanding feature of this training is the National 4-H Farm and Home Safety program is to check and remove from farms and homes any conditions likely to cause fire, accidents or injuries. These 4-H surveys are acclaimed a valuable contribution to the nation-wide campaign to reduce the annual toll of 15,000 farm people dying and 1,300,000 being injured as a result of rural accidents each year.

Here is a report, made by a 4-H girl on behalf of her local club, after making a safety survey of every home in the community: "In all homes having stairways that we visited, the stairs were full of toys, jars, tools and other articles," she stated. "In many homes people used kerosene to build fires. They also had oily cloths and papers stored close to the stove and flue. Matches and unlabeled bottles of poisonous liquids were within reach of small children. "On several farms visited, boxes with rusty nails pointing upward were much in evidence. In our local schoolhouse, the ceiling plaster in the classroom was loose. If it fell it would cause severe injuries to the pupils.

"After we had made our survey, we called a community meeting. Attention was called to the hazards we had found. Immediately following the meeting everyone present began work necessary to make our community a safe one. Every hazard we had found was corrected."

Medals of honor are presented to five county winners having the best 4-H records in safety work, and a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago is awarded to the State champion. Eight of the latter will be selected as national winners, who will receive a $300 college scholarship. Awards are provided by General Motors for the eighth consecutive year. The program is conducted under the direction of the Co-operative Extension Service.

How to Run off Those Pesky Coackroaches Is Suggested

A dime store paint brush and a few ounces of chlordane are the only tools you need to run off those pesky coackroaches, State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox advises.

But he says keeping them off is a bigger job. Roaches are disease carriers from way back, the health officer pointed out. They've been found naturally infected with polio virus. And that alone, is reason enough to declare war against the filth ridden pests. Here's the way to do it:

First: get a 2 per cent chlordane spray and a two-bit paint brush from the drug store. Then take all the pots, pans, and dishes from the kitchen cabinet and wash them in soapy water.

Now paint the chlordane into all the cracks where shelves join walls, and around the drain and water pipes. That's all—don't paint the whole cabinet. While the spray is drying in the cabinets, paint in the corners of baseboards, behind the stove and the hot water heater where water and gas pipes enter the house.

Trade Districts In Large Cities May Disappear

NEW HAVEN, Conn. — The "downtown" business districts of American cities may soon become "ghost towns", a Yale University traffic expert says.

"The central business districts of our cities are confronted with problems of transportation which threaten their very existence," warns Theodore M. Matson, director of Yale's bureau of highway traffic. Matson says a city's business district is dependent on the number of people which can conveniently shop in that area.

"As traffic congestion increases, these business districts become harder and harder to get to," Matson adds.

In a speech on "Yale Interprets the News" over Station WTIC, Hartford, the Yale expert said that merchants in "downtown" areas are losing their customers to accessible suburban shopping centers.

Future Looks Dark

"Nationally-known brands, of course, are sold in all areas—in business centers as well as in the suburbs," Matson said. "But non-standardized and luxury items tend to remain in downtown shopping districts and for the moment, the central area serves an important function in a community's economy despite the inroads of suburban competition."

He warned, however, that the future looks dark for many of these downtown areas unless traffic congestion is decreased.

Matson said all cities exist largely because of their strategic location on routes of travel and that while transportation alone cannot make a city, a city cannot exist without it.

"Buses, street cars, taxis and subways are all vital to American cities," Matson said, "and when we add the fact that 70 percent of travel to business districts is made by private automobiles, we have genuine congestion."

Districts Must Change

Matson pointed out that congestion remedy is costly and local governments are reluctant to make any moves. He doubted, therefore, that really strong measures would be taken to relieve the congestion apparent in more and more downtown areas.

"Central business districts, if they are to survive, must change their functions to serve a growing population with an increasingly specialized line of goods and services," he said in offering one possible answer to the problems of the downtown business man.

Parishioners List Major Sermon Topics

ST. LOUIS PARK, Minn.—"If you could hear only five sermons the rest of your life, what five topics would you like to hear discussed?" The Rev. Roger C. Schmuck, rector of St. George's Episcopal church in this suburb of Minneapolis, asked this question of his parishioners.

The topics which got the most votes will form the basis for Mr. Schmuck's Sunday sermons. They are:

- (1) Immortality. Is there life after death? How can we be assured there is? Where can we find the key to the Pearly Gates?
 - (2) How can we keep faith in the face of adversity? Is greater faith developed by adversity?
 - (3) What can we do to secure and maintain world peace?
 - (4) How can adults keep children from losing faith?
 - (5) When all goes well with our lives, how can we keep from feeling self-sufficient and independent of God?
- Mr. Schmuck went to his flock for the topics after he decided he wanted his series to meet their needs and to answer their questions on the Christian religion or spiritual life.

The Perfect Friend Is Infantile Ideal

CHICAGO—The man who keeps looking for "the perfect friend," "the perfect mate," "the perfect secretary" and who refuses to make any compromises in his relations with other human beings, isn't an idealist.

"He's childish," writes Rhoda W. Bacmeister, Director, Manhattanville Day Nursery, New York City, in a monthly magazine.

Mrs. Bacmeister, who has had plenty of opportunity to study her own and other children at first hand, observes:

"Children keep searching for the perfect companion. They are pals today and 'mad' tomorrow. They think in terms of good or bad, friend or foe. That's simpler than realizing that all of us are both good and bad; that almost any two persons can find ways in which they can cooperate as friends.

"We cannot save them the resulting disillusionment, when they are children. As adults who never grew up emotionally, their marriages as well as their friendships will be wrecked on the rock of 'all or nothing,' while once again, we stand by helplessly."

Chinese Used Bamboo Pipes To Transmit Natural Gas

Natural gas transmission has a history dating back before the Christian era, when the Chinese piped gas through bamboo poles and used it to evaporate salt brine. Here in the United States, gas transmission got its start in 1821 when the first well was tapped and gas was piped through white pine logs a short distance to Fredonia, New York. But it was not until 1891 that gas was moved a long distance, some 120 miles, under high pressure from northern Indiana to Chicago.

Since then the network of steel arteries transmitting the hot breath of industry and the homemaker's silent partner has grown phenomenally. The period between the early 1920's to the mid-1930's saw the industry double, then from 1935 to 1945 double again and the next decade will see it doubled for the third time.

There are many characteristics which are unique to this type of carrier. Only one commodity . . . natural gas . . . is transported through the pipe line and in only one direction, with no possibility of a return haul. Gas is moved by a direct application of power, an impelling push, rather than a type of vehicle transporting. This eliminates the expensive deadheading of equipment back to origin.

Lowly Frankfurter Is One Hundred Years Old

The lowly frankfurter, that elongated, pork-filled sausage that made Frankfurt, Germany, famous, is 100 years old. The German butchers guild of that city developed the glorious sausage in 1852 for the growing force of industrial workers.

The butcher who hit on the final shape was inspired by his dog, a dachshund.

The frankfurter's big jump to international fame came at the 1893 Chicago World's Fair, where the imported model and its U.S. imitations were devoured by the thousands.

Frankfurter manufacturers keep their formula a secret. In addition to Persian casings, they will admit only that they use nothing but finely ground pork from electrically killed pigs and spices prepared by trusted cooks. But the real secret is the smoking.

Population, Growing Fast

Whopping gains continue to feature the nation's population outlook. Last year, total United States population rose by about 2.7 million—an increase about equal to the total population of the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont. The 1952 population gain will also be about 2.7 million. At the core of this spurt, of course, is the record number of births. More than 3 1/4 million births were registered in the United States in 1951—an all-time high. Despite the fact that the number of marriages is declining by about 100,000 per year to approximately 1.5 million in 1952, the trend toward families with two, three or more children will maintain births this year at about the record 1951 level. Between 1940 and 1950, the nation-wide growth in population was 14.5 per cent. An additional increase of 12 per cent is expected between 1950 and 1960.

Mole Crabs

The curious mole crabs found along the Atlantic and Pacific beaches of the United States, in some ways fill a unique place in the chain of animal evolution. These crabs (classified by zoologists in the genus Emerita) are of particular interest because of their adaptation to a special way of living. They bury themselves in the wet sand of sloping beaches covered by the wash of the waves. Here they extend their long antennae to collect food material from the water descending over them. As they are exposed by the receding waves, they quickly back themselves into the wet sand in a slanting position. Here they await the return wave, and when the downflow begins they spread the antennae out before them against the current. They move up or down the beach according to the tides.

X-Ray for Bangalls

One of the little known uses of x-ray is to examine and to help relieve pain, reduce swelling and cure various ailments of man's good friend, the horse. In 1949, a $200,000 x-ray unit was used to treat the leg injury of a professional bangall whose prizewinnings had slipped to a meager $5800. The treatment was a success. In 1950 the horse returned to the track to win $47,000 and another $18,000 in 1951. Horse ailments result from bowed tendons, calcium deposits, bursitis, and excess bone growth.

Safe Driving Rewarded

Millions of safe-driving motorists may soon be rewarded financially for their accident free records. The casualty insurance business is now considering the development of a plan which would reduce the cost of automobile liability coverage to the careful driver, probably by 10 per cent. Insurance executives estimate that about 90 per cent of all insured drivers would be eligible for the discount. To put the plan into effect, it would be necessary to boost insurance rates 9.9 per cent over their present levels.

Hawaii's First Redwood Tree Has Gone to Mill

Hawaii's first coast redwood tree—88 feet tall and 14 inches in diameter—has been felled and has gone to the mill.

It has been thriving in Hawaii for 25 years, one of a thousand yearlings transplanted from California. Foresters report that the trees have grown remarkably well.

Redwood lumber is especially useful in tropical countries because it is termite- and decay-resistant and has less shrinkage than any other commonly used wood. Its handsome, ruddy color comes from complex chemicals, found nowhere else in Nature. They penetrate every cell of the wood to make it durable—and unpalatable to insects.

Since the Glacial Age, the coast redwoods have been native only to the coast of California and southern Oregon. They and the Big Trees (Sequoia gigantea) of the Sierra Mountains and the dawn redwoods of China are the three known survivors of a family that once grew over the entire Northern Hemisphere. Like their contemporaries, the dinosaurs, they have left huge fossils buried in many countries.

Now, under modern forestry practices, the redwoods are beginning to reclaim their old range and even to extend it as in Hawaii.

Bluefin Tuna Spawning Area Is Discovered

Baby bluefin tuna have been discovered drifting in the Gulf Stream off Miami, the first time they have ever been found in the western Atlantic.

"The specimens show clearly that spawning must take place not very far south of Miami, possibly in the northern part of the Caribbean," the National Geographic Society announces. "From there, the young fishes drift north in the currents that eventually join the Gulf Stream."

Bluefin tuna are giants among salt water game fish, growing to a thousand pounds or more. Found in all warm seas, and caught as far north as Newfoundland, the tuna has rarely been taken during the early stages of its life. Very few individuals have been found weighing less than 10 pounds.

Hitherto, the area of spawning of the giant bluefin in the western Atlantic has been a matter of conjecture.

Zoological Gardens

The custom of keeping savage beasts in captivity is almost as ancient as recorded history. The Chinese king Wen had a special zoo where he housed animals captured from all parts of ancient China as early as 1200 B.C. In Egypt in the time of the Pharaohs, menageries were kept as adjuncts to the temples and the Empress Hatasu even sent out expeditions to bring back alive dogs, monkeys, leopards and giraffes for her own private zoo. Some of the reigning monarchs of biblical days kept animals. Monkeys and peacocks were King Solomon's pets; lions were kept in captivity by Nebuchadnezzar. In ancient Greece, many of the prominent citizens collected birds and mammals; the Romans went in for mass capture of scores of lions, leopards and tigers for use in their gladiatorial battles. Octavius Augustus had a vast menagerie of tigers, lions and African animals.

Static in Clothes

Chemists report an electric gremlin—static electricity—is causing trouble in the new synthetic "wonder clothes". The static makes clothes cling revealingly or hang uncomfortably and can cause clothes and blankets to rustle with sparks. The static charges attract soot and lint. They create problems in manufacturing man-made textiles that come from test tubes. The trouble comes from friction, and a build-up of static charges. That static is tiny-sized lightning. It long has caused trouble in the manufacture of cotton and woolen goods. Now it is a greater source of concern in the newer fibers, including nylon, orlon, dacron, vinylon, dynel and others, because they are not good conductors—they retain static charges.

School Enrollment

Enrollment data reported by the U.S. Office of Education reflect the relationships which have existed for more than half a century between population growth and school attendance. In 1870 only 57 per cent of the children and youth between the ages of 5 and 17 years were enrolled in public schools. By 1880 the percent had grown to 65.5; by 1890, to 68.6; and by 1900, to 72.4. The steady climb in percent of children enrolled in public schools continued until about 1930, since when it has remained consistently near to 80 per cent of the 5- to 17-year-olds.

World's Worst Drivers

The spoiled brat is one of the world's worst drivers, and parents who fail to properly discipline their children are often more to blame for traffic accidents among young drivers than the youngsters themselves, says a top motor vehicle official. You can't expect junior to bring the car and himself home safely unless you make sure before he takes it that he has proper respect for the right of other drivers and pedestrians.

Scientist Says Atlantic, Pacific Oceans Shrinking

Here's another thought to add to the worries of the world: the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans may be shrinking.

And if the shrinkage continues, whole new continents may appear on the surface of the Earth, dividing the two oceans into a series of small seas.

But all this would take another billion years or more, according to Hans Pettersen, noted Swedish scientist who is Director of the Oceanographic Institute of Gotesborg, Sweden.

The Earth may be following the planetary evolution that is suggested by a comparison with Venus and Mars, he said. Venus is probably still in a pre-oceanic stage, whereas Mars, the desert planet, may well have consumed its original share of water, drinking it into its crust or possibly squandering it into interplanetary space.

"This contrast," he continued, "makes us apprehend that our present oceanic splendor may be a transient stage and that the Earth is on its way towards a complete desiccation, ultimately approaching the Martian state."

Recent Big Fires

An all-time record number of "large loss fires" occurred in 1951. During the year there were 202 fires in the United States and Canada with individual losses of $250,000 or more which produced an aggregate loss of $213,310,000, a 40 per cent increase over the loss last year. This loss figure represents 24 per cent of the total fire loss in these two countries. The record number of large fires last year topped the previous all-time high set in 1948 by 34 fires and exceeded last year's total by 59. There were also 369 more fatalities in the 1951 large fires compared to 1950. Just as many large loss structural fires occurred in towns of less than 20,000 population (or in unincorporated areas) as in the larger cities of 20,000 or over. Ten per cent of all the large loss building fires occurred in unprotected areas.

Re-elect JOHN C. WHITE To A SECOND TERM AS TEXAS COMMISSIONER OF AGRICULTURE FOR CONTINUING PROGRESS IN TEXAS' LARGEST INDUSTRY

IN BITING WIND AND COLD AND SNOW... his numb fingers bent around an M-1 rifle...this soldier is living with the same hardships suffered by General Washington's troops at Valley Forge 174 years ago.

His equipment is immeasurably better than any those first Yankees could have dreamed of. His chances of survival are equally improved. But, like them, he is doing a grim, hard job for the defense of his country.

Defense is your job, too. It is your job to maintain and support America's economic strength as this soldier is supporting her military strength.

It's an easy job...and one of the best ways to do it is by buying United States Defense Bonds regularly. For with bonds and other forms of savings you are making yourself and your country stable and strong. And America must be kept strong—economically as well as militarily. For we must always remember... in this cold-warring world, peace is only for the strong!

The U. S. Defense Bonds you buy give you personal financial independence

Don't forget that bonds are now a better buy than ever. Because now every Series E Bond you own can automatically go on earning interest every year for 20 years from date of purchase instead of 10 as before! This means that the bond you bought for $18.75 can return you not just $25—but as much as $33.33! A $37.50 bond pays $66.66. And so on. For your security, and your country's too, buy U. S. Defense Bonds now! Bankers recommend them as one of the safest forms of investment.

Peace is for the strong... Buy U.S. Defense Bonds now!

America Is Lawless Nation, Reports Criminal Authority

NEW YORK—America's soaring crime rate is a direct reflection of the state of our national conscience and present-day moral standards. This is the opinion of Dr. Austin H. McCormick, noted criminologist and professor of criminology at the University of California, reporting on the history of crime in America recently to the "Conference on the Future" arranged in New York by 2500 mutual fire and casualty insurance companies.

"A climate of crime is created by the moral standards of our contemporary officials and citizens, our tolerance of wrongdoing, and our attitude toward law enforcement and the social controls opposed to crime," McCormick said.

Because of the national lapse in moral standards, McCormick reported, America today "has earned the unenviable title of 'the most lawless nation on earth!'"

We now have an estimated total of nearly two million major crimes and 15 million minor offenses committed in the United States each year, he said.

He outlined the transition of crime in America from the "need and greed" theory of motivation to present "highly organized criminal syndicates operating on a national level, skillfully integrated and distorting the latest advances in science and communication facilities to their unlawful uses."

A generation or two ago, he said, investigation of the youth caught holding up the corner grocer revealed he wanted the money for food or shelter or to impress his girl friend. "When that thief is captured today, all too often we find he got the gun from a higher-up who was selling him dope and thereby stood to gain from a successful robbery. And this intermediary in turn was being supplied with dope wholesale by a third member of a criminal hierarchy."

"Our present social and economic situation is producing a predominant motivation to crime," McCormick said. "And today we must face up to the presence of organized crime, committed by predatory racketeers combined in powerful syndicates with a greed for money and a greed for power."

Almost as important as supporting and strengthening our law-enforcement agencies, McCormick said, "is a national moral renaissance, a return to the moral precepts of our founders, a return on all levels to the old-fashioned principles of teaching and believing in the intrinsic difference between right and wrong."

Dr. McCormick was one of 11 outstanding scientists and educators speaking at the Conference on the Future.

Votemobile Begins Get-Out-the-Vote Tour in Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY—Gov. Johnston Murray has launched a red, white and blue panel sedan labeled the Votemobile on a statewide get-out-the-vote campaign sponsored by the Oklahoma farm bureau.

The ceremony officially opened the good citizenship campaign of that farmers' organization, which will send the Votemobile to every county of the state, advertising the registration and election dates and urging adult Oklahomans to register and vote.

Due to appear on the program with the governor are Floyd Carrier of Carrier and Smith Hester of Purcell, state chairmen of the Republican and Democratic parties respectively. They will emphasize the non-partisan policy of farm bureau and the Votemobile, and will point out that both parties want a large, representative vote in every election. Mayor Allen Street of Oklahoma City welcomed the Votemobile and called on citizens of the capital city to take part in their government.

After the governor's talk, the Votemobile left on its three-week tour of all counties, where county farm bureaus will have receptions waiting in principal towns and cities. There the Votemobile will stop briefly with mayors, civic leaders, county political leaders of both parties, and farm bureau members due to take part in short ceremonies.

"We are an organization of farmers; our first concern is to get out a large farm vote," John I. Taylor, OFB president, declared. "But at the same time, we can perform a service to all citizens by spotlighting the registration and election dates. We are urging that all adult Americans exercise their privilege of voting."

Motto of the campaign is "Your vote is your voice—let it be heard."

TAXES: I propose taking steps to place a ceiling on federal income taxes. We are paying too much for too many things we don't need and don't want.

CAR INSPECTION: I favor a repeal of the present Texas vehicle inspection law. It is the drivers of cars and not the cars themselves that cause accidents.

HIGHWAYS: I favor a reasonable and stable expansion of our highway system with equal consideration to expressways, main highways, and farm to market roads.

WATER: I oppose and will fight any attempt by the federal or state government to assume ownership or control of our underground water.

ISLANDS: I favor Texas retaining clear and absolute title to our off-shore lands, by whatever means necessary.

STATE RIGHTS: I favor the states taking back from Washington some of the powers they have handed over. Let Texas build its own highways, run its own schools, develop its own waterways, handle its own welfare problems—and then, keep its own tax money. Remember, there is no such thing as Federal Aid. It can only be a partial return of your own tax dollar.

Wedding Vow Changes Urged by Minister

COLUMBUS, O.—Wedding vow changes to stress the positive instead of the negative was urged here by Dr. Roy A. Burkhart, pastor of First Community church of this city.

He specifically recommended changing the wording of "for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health," to a thought such as "Will you stand by in all experiences of life?"

Dr. Burkhart also advocated that only sacred music be used at wedding ceremonies. He addressed the pastors section of the division of Christian education, national council of churches, at its annual meeting.

Pastor Must Master His Schedule, Duties

DES MOINES—A clergyman must not become "the chore boy of everybody in the community who wants a benediction at a banquet," but the master of his schedule.

This advice was given by the Rev. Dr. Charles E. Tupper, associate professor of applied Christianity at Drake bible college, who also said that a minister must guard his health.

"Some of us drag around with half the power we ought to have because of reduced vitality," he said.

Dr. Tupper addressed the Iowa ministerial institute of Christian (Disciples) churches here. He said that a half-completed daily schedule is depressing, and brings no "sense of victory" or pleasure in achievement.

"There are more demands than we can meet and we must make a choice," he said.

"I am not forgetting the minister's responsibility to the community," Dr. Tupper said, "but he must evaluate his calls on the basis of preference and importance."

Dr. Tupper said his basic thought was to keep alive the "spiritual glow" of clergymen, despite their difficulties, for the sake of the people they serve.

Seventy-Year-Old Tax Payers Are Thankful

SYRACUSE, N.Y.—A 70-year-old couple received a $27 refund check for an income tax overpayment. They returned it to the internal revenue collector, explaining their refusal to accept it as being due to their thankfulness for "the opportunity to continue working."

Prayers for Rains Answered in Texas

WACO, Texas—Prayers for rain were answered here by a thunderstorm and showers which ended a drought damaging to grazing and farm lands in central Texas.

The prayer meetings were held in Waco's First Baptist church after professional rain-makers had been seeding clouds for several weeks in an effort to coax some precipitation out of them. Except for a few weak showers, the professionals didn't have much luck.

Then the church group took over. For the first time in the memory of most Waco residents, citizens went to formal rain-prayer sessions. The Rev. Dr. Forrest C. Feezor, pastor of First Baptist church and first vice-president of the Southern Baptist Convention, conducted the interdenominational services.

Farmers attended afternoon prayer meetings, city-dwellers participated in evening services. One woman at the night session carried a rain-coat. A man prayed: "Help us to remember that the rain-makers can't make rain unless it be Thy will."

The storm which hit Waco after the prayer sessions lasted for an hour. In North Waco, residents reported, rain rain in the streets and gutters.

Music Seeds Are Sown Throughout Midwest

CAMDEN, N.J.—A "musical Johnny Appleseed" who toured the Midwest 43 years ago sowing the seeds of music appreciation today sees her work bearing fruit all over America.

Ninety-two-year-old Dr. Frances Elliott Clark, director emerita of RCA Victor, recalled the day in 1909 when she heard a phonograph recording for the first time and was inspired to launch a movement which has brought the knowledge and understanding of good music to millions of public school children.

For two years, Dr. Clark traveled in the footsteps of the legendary "Johnny Appleseed," selling educators on using the phonograph records for teaching purposes. Then the Victor Talking Machines company heard about "that crazy education woman out west," and asked her to develop and direct an educational department for the young company.

Dr. Clark's "planting" in the fertile minds of school children became national in scope and when she retired in 1947 to Salt Lake City she had seen her plan adopted universally. She founded the music Educators' National Conference in Keokuk, Iowa in 1907, and recently delivered the keynote address to its 6,000 delegates meeting in Philadelphia.

Disabled Veteran Refuses US Checks

SUFFOLK, Va.—A disabled veteran, who had learned a trade at government expense, notified the authorities that he would accept no more disability checks. In fact, he returned the last two checks sent him and refused to allow his name to be used for fear people would think he was "grandstanding."
