School board asked to support sex education program

During the open forum part of a meeting Monday night, Ruth Locker addressed the Muleshoe Independent School District Board of Trustees, seeking their support of a proposed sexual education course.

Locker and Liz Tipps want to conduct a two-week sexual education program geared towards students in sixth grade, junior high and high school.

They have received financing for the program entitled "Sex Respect" from the Bailey County Child Welfare Board. They have also received funding from the Muleshoe Rotary Club and Beta Sigma Phi.

The board could not take any action on the topic on Monday night because it was not on the agenda. Superintendent Bill Moore said that the item will be placed on the agenda for the next school board meeting on Monday, Oct. 24 at 7 p.m. at the Administration Building.

Locker said that the group is also seeking suggestions from the school board.

While no action was taken Monday night, Moore said, "I whole heartedly support what these ladies are doing and I feel it (sex education) is important to everyone because the schools cannot do it all by themselves."

Locker will also give additional material for school board members to examine regarding the program prior to the next meeting.

In other business Monday night, the board appointed 15 people to the District Textbook Committee. They include: Kindergarten reading-Helen Grigsby and Kay Lepart at Dillman Elementary School; Music-Barbara Finney and Bobbie Johnson at DeShazo Elementary School; Science

Muleshoe hoping to get back on track Friday at Friona

After a district-opening loss to Littlefield last week, the Muleshoe High School football team travels to Friona to attempt to even their district record and snap a two-game losing streak.

"We're struggling right now," said Muleshoe head coach Randy Adair. "We lost a close one to Seminole that we should've won and got blasted by Littlefield last week."

To make matters worse, the Mules have been plagued by injuries. Already without the services of Jake Adair, Bryan Field, Robert Toscano and Robert Jaime, the Mules lost much of their offensive spark in Daniel Garbarino and John Bryan Cowart against Littlefield.

"When you start out with 25 players and lose six to injury and four of the six start both ways, it doesn't take a mathematician to figure out that we're thin," Adair said. "I've never had a team more devastated by injuries."

Friona enters the game fresh off the heels of a 14-14 tie against Shallowater in their District 2-3A opener.

Prior to that, the Chieftans had wins over Tulia, Dalhart and Portales, NM.

"Friona lost to Springlake-Earth and then had big wins against Tulia and Dalhart. The Tulia win was huge for them."

Typically, the Muleshoe-Friona rivalry is strong and Adair expects that fact to fuel his players, despite the recent rash of injuries.

"I expect the rivalry is still

Grand opening of new Alco store set for October 25th

Alco Department Store in Muleshoe is set to open its doors to the community with its official grand opening on Tuesday, Oct. 25. Kevin Stenson will be heading the store as manager.

Stenson, who is a native of Valentine, Neb. has already made his move to Muleshoe, a community he says he plans to become active in. Stenson and his wife Pam have a two-year-old son Logan.

Prior to coming to Muleshoe, Stenson served as assistant manager at an Alco store in Nebraska. Stenson has been with Alco company for two years now.

"I think this store will be a good addition to Muleshoe," Stenson said. "It is something town's people here have wanted for some time. Hopefully the store will keep more people shopping in Muleshoe."

Before beginning his career with Alco, Stenson worked for another retail company for three years. He has a degree in business.

"We (Alco) are glad to be here and we think we will do well here and be a good addition to the community," Stenson said.

Alco Store in Muleshoe has employed about 30 employees and will offer more than 10,000 different kind of merchandise at the store.

Stenson added, "Alco has had a warm reception here in Muleshoe every since we announced we were coming here."

Alco Discount Stores represents a division of Duckwall-Alco Stores, Inc., and is headquartered in Abilene, Kan. There are currently 95 Alco stores in 12 states.

Torres wins grid contest

The awards were cut and dried for the Muleshoe Journal/Bailey County Merchants football contest for games of the week of Oct. 7-10.

Francisco Torres of 814 W. 2nd, Muleshoe, finished alone atop the list of 33 entries with a 13-3 mark. Though he didn't need the tie-breaker to win the $10 first prize, Torres still managed to correctly pick Littlefield to defeat Muleshoe and Dallas to win over Phoenix. Both scores were extremely close to the actual numbers as well.

Second place and $7.50 goes to Donnie McDonald of Rt. 3, Box 835 Muleshoe. McDonald had a 12-4 record for the week and was alone in second place. He also correctly picked the tie-breaker winners.

Third and $5 goes to Eufemia Torres, also of 814 W. 2nd, Muleshoe. Torres was the lone contestant to have an 11-5 record for the week and had both Littlefield and the Cowboys to win.

Duck population rebounds due to improved habitat

After years of declines caused by drought and generally poor habitat conditions, the estimated breeding population of ducks in North America rebounded sharply this year in response to widespread precipitation in key breeding areas, resulting in greatly improved wetlands and nesting conditions.

Aerial surveys conducted by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in May revealed that overall breeding duck populations were up 24 percent to 32.5 million, compared with a population of 26.3 million in 1993. This is 2 percent above the 1955-93 average.

In addition, the Service's fall flight index, an estimate of autumn migrants compiled since the late 1960s, shows a similar improvement. This year's index is 71 million ducks, compared to a record low of 55 million ducks in 1985.

"While this is just one year's results, we finally have some good news to cheer about," said Service Director Mollie Beattie. "At the same time, the crisis in our nation's wetlands is by no means over; we're still losing tens of thousands of acres of wetlands every year. The dramatic improvement in duck breeding populations should be a rallying point to redouble our efforts to conserve and restore the wetland habitat on which waterfowl and other wildlife depend."

Wet conditions were present throughout nearly all of the survey area, which covered 1.3 million square miles across the north-central United States, western and northern Canada, and Alaska. The estimated number of ponds in prairie Canada and the north-central U.S. totaled 6 million, 47 percent greater than in 1993 and 32 percent above the long-term average.

The Fish and Wildlife Service administers or participates in a number of programs to manage, conserve or restore waterfowl habitat. The North American Waterfowl Management Plan, a partnership effort involving Canada, the U.S. and Mexico, has protected, restored or enhanced more than 2.2 million acres of wetland habitat since 1986.

The Service also has worked with land owners to protect, restore or enhance more than 210,000 acres of wetlands and associated upland habitat on private lands. In addition, private lands enrolled in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Conservation Reserve Program have provided millions of acres of upland habitat for waterfowl and many other bird species. This program has played a major roll in restoring nesting cover, which was substantially reduced over the years due to agriculture.

"While nature played the biggest role in this year's good news, we shouldn't underestimate the role of all the people and organizations that contributed to habitat preservation and restoration," said Beattie. "There are thousands upon thousands of acres of wetlands that would have disappeared had it not been for their efforts.

Football

there, even though we're a little down right now and Friona is up," he said. "It's always a good ball game when we take the field against Friona."

"Friona is a potent offensive team," Adair said. "They run the ball extremely well behind (Juan) Gamboa. They run a wishbone attack, but they come out in multiple offensive sets. They'll have probably 30 or 40 different sets.

"The challenge for Muleshoe will be to come out defend all their different looks."

Defensively, Friona runs an "Arizona flex" or 53, according to Adair and are led by middle linebacker Colby Garthel (6-2, 210).

"Garthel is the leader of their defense, no doubt about it," Adair said.

Last week, Muleshoe gained 262 yards of offense but gave up 573 yards to Littlefield. Tailback Rashad Kirven was again a factor in the backfield with his third 100-yard game in a row since replacing injured Robert Toscano. Quarterback Jimmy Gauna was also over 100 yards on the ground, but the two were the only players who were able to produce against a stingy, "bend-but-don't break" defense by Littlefield.

Name: Irene Dilts
Age: 77
Hometown: Muleshoe
Town born in: Oil City, La.
Affiliations: Muleshoe Area Medical Center Volunteer Services, Bailey County Senior Citizens, Baptist church, Thrift Shop
Quote from someone who knows her well: "Irene is an inspiration to everyone she comes in contact with. She is the reason we have an active volunteer program at our hospital and visiting with her makes everyone's day a little brighter." (Kay Swint, R.N., Director of Nursing, Muleshoe Area Medical Center)

Irene Dilts

Irene Dilts has been chosen as the Muleshoe Journal's Amigo of the week and Irene is certainly no stranger at Muleshoe Area Medical Center, where she heads Volunteer Services, a department she formed several years ago.

"I feel anytime I can make someone smile it is worth it. It is very rewarding to be a volunteer," Irene said.

Irene said that at the hospital, where she volunteers two days a week, she does everything a nurse does, except administer medicine. She is a woman who is very familiar with hospitals. Irene's first husband Jewell Brockman, as well as her second husband Reece Harlan and third Bob Dilts, all died of cancer.

Because of her experiences, Irene knows that it is also very important for volunteers to also take care of the family of patients at the hospital as well. "If you have a happy family, then you also have happy patients," she said.

Irene came to Bailey County in 1941. She has lived in Maple, where she was once assistant postmaster, and in Enochs. She has worked at city hall in the water department, worked in the probation office and even owned three different restaurants.

She has two children, Jerry Brockman and Jewellene Scoggin, five grandchildren, four great-grandchildren and a poodle name Suzette, who won 1st place in the best trained and small animal category at the Bailey County Fair last month.

Irene sings in the choir at First Baptist Church in Muleshoe and enjoys painting, sewing, collecting dolls, fishing and loves flowers. She also works at the Senior Citizens Thrift Store. Profits from the store are used to maintain the Heritage Depot.

Every Thursday the Muleshoe Journal spotlights an individual from this area who contributes a great deal to this community through their volunteer and other efforts by contributing their time or resources to help improve the lives and quality of living of others around them.

County approves worker's compensation coverage

The Bailey County Commissioner's Court on Monday approved a motion to offer worker's compensation coverage to six new volunteers with the Maple and Bula-Enochs Fire Fighter volunteers. The six approved recently became active. Other volunteers are already offered the same coverage.

The Court also awarded a bid to the Texas Association of Counties (TAC), who will continue to provide Law Enforcement and Public Officials Liability Insurance, including errors and omissions coverage for the county and district clerk's offices. A bid was also received from Blackwell and Associates of Canyon.

In other business Monday, the Court approved the following motions which are routine every year: approved the tax roll, approved an order to compensate officials on salary basis rather than fee basis and directed by order that all money that would otherwise be deposited into a salary fund be deposited in the general fund.

The Court also authorized the county judge to advertise for bids on salvage and surplus property from all departments of the county.

According to Bailey County Judge Marilyn Cox, the county is required by law to take bids on items. Items which are not sold may then be thrown away or burned.

Farm and Ranch Show to be held in Amarillo

BURNSVILLE - Champion Farm Shows is pleased to announce the Tenth Annual Amarillo Farm and Ranch Show at the Amarillo Civic Center in Amarillo on November 29, 30 & December 1. New this year - The show has expanded to over 725 booth spaces indoor with an additional 100 booths in a temporary structure next to the Civic Center bringing the total to 825 booths.

Agri-business companies from throughout the United States and Canada will again be displaying their products and services to farmers and ranchers from the Texas Panhandle, Western Oklahoma, Southwestern Kansas, Southeastern Colorado and Eastern New Mexico. The attendance last year increased to over 34,000 farmers and ranchers.

The show is still one of the top five indoor farm shows in the entire country. The many exhibitors will be displaying tractors, combines, tillage equipment, livestock equipment, seed and irrigation equipment and much more!

The Texas Wheat Producers Association, the Panhandle Farm Management Symposium and many other free meetings and seminars will be held in conjunction with the show.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK PROCLAIMED - The week of Oct. 9-15 has been proclaimed Fire Prevention Week. Pictured is (Left) Curtis Hunt and Gary Don Gartin, members of the Farm Bureau Board of Directors and (Front) Bailey County Judge Marilyn Cox, who signed the proclamation.

October 9-15 is Fire Prevention Week

Bailey County Judge Marilyn Cox has proclaimed the week of Oct. 9-15 as Fire Prevention Week in the county.

The week commemorates the Great Chicago Fire of 1871 which killed 250 people, injured countless others, left 100,000 homeless and destroyed more than 17,400 buildings. More than 4,000 people died from smoke inhalation and fire each year in the United States and some 78 percent of all U.S. fire deaths occur in homes. Every home should have a safety plan.

Escape plans at home, at work and at school should be practiced, including knowing two ways out and having a pre-planned meeting place outside, crawling low under smoke and holding the head 12-24 inches off the floor when necessary. Also, everyone should know that once they are safely outside, they must not re-enter the burning building.

The Bailey County fire service is dedicated to the safety of life and property from devastating effects of fire and these members are joined by other concerned citizens of this county, as well as businesses, schools, service clubs and organizations in their fire safety efforts.

People in Bailey County are being called upon to participate in fire prevention activities at home, work and school and to heed the message, "Test your smoke detector for life" as the 1994 Fire Prevention Week theme suggests."

NOTICE OF RATE CHANGE REQUEST RELATING TO IRRIGATION INTERRUPTION CREDIT AND RECOVERY OF POWER COSTS

Notice is hereby given that Bailey County Electric Cooperative, Inc. (the "Utility") intends to change rates for electric utility service by implementing an irrigation interruption credit applicable to irrigation customers who agree by contract that their service may be interrupted and by revising the Utility's power cost recovery factor ("PCRF"), effective November 15, 1994, or as soon thereafter as may be permitted by law. The proposed changes are not expected to have any effect on the revenues of the Utility. The changes are applicable to all electric utility service, all areas served by the Utility, all customer classes, and all customers.

Copies of the proposed revised tariffs, schedules, and supporting testimony and other pertinent data may be inspected in the office of the Utility located at 305 East Avenue B, Muleshoe, Texas 79347, and at the office of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Austin, Texas 78757. Inquiries should be directed to Mr. Duane Lloyd, (806) 272-4504.

The Utility's wholesale power supplier currently allows a credit on the Utility's Wholesale power bills in exchange for the ability to interrupt a portion of the Utility's irrigation load. The Utility's existing retail rates, which were established before the wholesale interruption credit became available, apply the interruption credit to all customers of the Utility regardless of whether such customers have agreed that their service may be interrupted. This occurs because the Utility's power cost is reduced by the amount of the irrigation interruption credit from the Utility's wholesale power supplier and the reduced level of power cost is flowed through to all consumers through the PCRF.

The rate revisions are proposed for the purposes of: (1) establishing a tariff authorizing payment of an interruptible credit to irrigators who agree by contract to allow their service to be interrupted, and (2) allocating the irrigation interruption credit received from the Utility's wholesale power supplier to the irrigation customers who have agreed to allow interruption of their load in the event the Utility's wholesale power supplier required the Utility to shed load. Irrigation customers who agree to have their service interrupted should receive the benefit of the interruptible credit from the Utility's wholesale power supplier. The proposed changes will not increase or decrease the revenues of the Utility, however, the proposed changes are expected to increase the revenues derived from all customer classes other than irrigation.

Persons who wish to intervene in or comment upon these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible, as an intervention deadline will be imposed. A request to intervene or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission's Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256, or (512) 458-0221 for text telephone. The deadline for intervention in the proceeding is 45 days after the date the application was filed with the Commission.

Weddings

Curtis, Aycock unite in marriage during ceremony

Sonya Grace Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Curtis, and Charles Christopher Aycock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Aycock, were united in marriage on June 18, 1994 in a candlelight ceremony at Hamlin Memorial United Methodist Church in Farwell.

Sonya wore a white satin princess-style gown featuring a chapel train and trimmed with beaded lace. Her veil was a crown of flowers with tulle flowing the length of the train. The gown and veil were made by Sonya.

She carried a bouquet of white lillies and stephanotis. She wore a gold-engraved bangle bracelet handed down from her great-grandmother for something old. Something new was her gown and veil. Something borrowed was earrings and the garter was something blue.

She also wore a strand of pearls given to her by her parents upon her college graduation and in her shoes she put pennies minted in the year she and Chris were born.

DeAnn Ogilvie of Las Cruces, N.M., and Amanda Curtis of Lubbock, sisters of the bride, attended as matron and maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Karen Aycock of Abilene, sister of the groom, and Karyn and Debra Curtis, sisters of the bride.

Chris wore a black tuxedo with a silver-gray vest and black tie and cummerbund.

Candlelighters were Karyn Curtis and Ted Ogilvie. Flower girl was Debra Curtis. April Andrews of Tahoka registered guests.

Providing music for the ceremony were organist Judith Hawkins of San Antonio, aunt of the groom and vocalist Jeanie Wozencraft-Ornellas of Portales, N.M. Officiating for the ceremony was Rick Sullivan of Farwell.

Grandparents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. A.D. Stancell of Muleshoe. Groom's grandparents are Mrs. J.P. Moss of Floydada and Mr. and Mrs. Rex Aycock of Tulia.

Other special guests attending the ceremony were Gary Stancell of Muleshoe, Mr.

and Mrs. Danny Stancell, Chris and Cynthia Aycock of Irving, Gene Hawkins of San Antonio, Mr. and Mrs. John

Mr and Mrs. Charles Christopher Aycock

Moss of Floydada and Mrs. Jim Dixon of Sylvester.

Sonya and Chris are 1990 graduates of Farwell High School. Sonya graduated from Lubbock Christian University in May of 1994 with a degree in elementary education. Chris graduated in December of 1993 from Texas Tech University. He is currently attending Baylor School of Law in Waco, where the couple is making their home.

Blood drive in Muleshoe to be held October 20

The United Blood Services Muleshoe Advisory Council and First Assembly of God Church will conduct a community blood drive from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 20. The drive will be held in the church Fellowship Hall, 521 S. First.

Since their license was suspended by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) in early June, United Blood Services of Lubbock has been working to rebuild their operations. In the meantime, they have been bringing in blood from other centers around the country to continue meeting this area's patient needs.

"We are grateful for the support of UBS Albuquerque," said Cheryl Keefer of United Blood Services of Lubbock, "They are a vital link as we continue to supply area hospitals and meet the constant demand for blood."

Since blood may be separated into as many as four components, each donor is helping to save or sustain the lives of several people. Advisory Council Chairperson Glenda Powell urges the public to participate. For more information, contact Glenda at 272-5676.

THE $51 PER BALE ADVANTAGE FOR COTTON PRODUCERS

More than $51 per bale paid in cash for the 1993 crop.

Your local and regional cotton cooperatives offer a vertically integrated system that takes your cotton from the field to the textile mill. It's a system that adds valuable income to your farming operation. Ginning, warehousing, marketing, textile manufacturing, and cottonseed processing all work to increase the value of your cotton crop every step of the way. For the 1993 cotton crop, combined cash payments from the local and regional cotton cooperatives averaged $51.62 per bale, over and above the value of your lint cotton. Thus, the more cotton you send through the cooperative system, the more you can add to your net profits. Consider the cooperative advantage for your cotton crop. From your local cooperative gin to the warehouses, the oil mill, the marketing association and the denim mill - it's just good business. See your local or regional cotton cooperative today.

Legal Matters

By Dan Morales, Attorney General

Most of us, at some point in our lives, have bought a used car. Although it may be a dependable source of transportation - there are many reputable dealers - we have all heard the occasional horror story. In fact, we receive more complaints about defective used cars than any other consumer complaint.

Know before you go

Although there are no absolute guarantees, there are some things you can do to maximize your chances of satisfaction and minimize the likelihood that you'll end up with a lemon. Cars are high-ticket items. When making any major purchase, you should look before you leap. A bit of research up front can save headaches later on.

Before you begin looking at used cars, think about what car models and options you want, and how much you are able or willing to spend. Check out your local library - it has books and magazines that compare and contrast car models, reliability statistics, and prices. Libraries also can provide information about safety tests and mileage. Many on-line computer services have discussion forums where people trade information.

When you settle on what you want, shop around. More than one palace will offer you the car you want, but the price may vary.

Kick the tires

Once you find the car you want, check it out thoroughly. You should consider have a knowledgeable friend or mechanic look over the car before you buy it. Some cities even have "lemon-busting" services that will come out and do a thorough and professional inspection of the auto for a reasonable price. An initial investment of a few dollars can conceivably save you from making a mistake worth thousands to your bank account.

If the seller refuses to allow you to inspect the vehicle, that's a clear sign that you should walk away from the deal.

There are some things you can do on your own. Don't believe everything you read. Investigations by our office in the past have uncovered odometer shops that roll back the mileage of cars and provide "legitimate" certificates of authenticity. So when you look at an automobile, see that everything is consistent with the odometer. Are the brake pedals and seat worn and slick? That doesn't gibe with a reading of 40,000 miles.

Some people say not to buy a car that has had more than one owner. While that may be extreme, you can always ask to see maintenance records. The very existence of a record of oil changes and routine repairs may indicate that a car has had good care.

If you have problems

If something goes wrong with your car and it is covered by a warranty or a service contract, there are several steps you can take to get service. First, read the warranty or contract; the document should have instructions on how to get service. Try to resolve the problem with the salesperson or owner of the dealership. However, if you think you are entitled to service, but the dealer disagrees, you can take other steps.

If the warranty is backed by the manufacturer, contact the local representative of the car company. This local, or "zone," representative, has the authority to adjust and make decisions about warranty service and repairs.

You might also consider using a dispute resolution organization to arbitrate your disagreement - if both you and the dealer are willing. Under the terms of many warranties, this may be required before you can sue a dealer or manufacturer.

In addition, you may contact our Consumer Protection Division (800-337-3928), which mediates consumer complaints.

If none of these steps are successful, consider going to a small claims court, where you can resolve disputes involving amounts of less than $5,000.

For more information

The U.S. Department of Transportation has an Auto Safety Hotline (800-424-9393) that can tell you if a car model has ever been recalled, and send you information about a recall. You also can contact the Federal Trade Commission for free brochures on warranties, service contracts, and car ads. Write the FTC at Public Reference, Federal Trade Commission, Washington, DC 20580.

Area farmers going back to school

LEVELLAND – You probably won't find tractors in the parking lots, but area farmers may soon be leaving the fields and entering the classroom at South Plains College.

With the passage of the 1990 Farm Bill, the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) now requires all of its direct and guaranteed borrowers to complete and pass educational courses involving agricultural finance and agricultural production.

The continuing education requirement was the impetus behind the development of "Bottom Line Farming," a financial training curriculum tailored specifically for farmers and ranchers by Ron Presley, assistant professor of agribusiness at South Plains College, in conjunction with the Texas A & M Extension Service and Texas Rural Communities.

A non-profit organization, Texas Rural Communities, based in Austin which was chartered to develop programs that aid rural communities, hired Presley in 1991 as a consultant to develop a curriculum which would meet the requirements specified by the FmHA to teach farmers advanced financial techniques.

In addition, an agreement recently was reached permitting Presley to run a pilot program designed to test the curriculum at South Plains College and four other community colleges in the state.

"I'm thrilled to get to be a part of this exciting new challenge and opportunity," said Presley, who was assisted in coordinating plans and course scheduling by Jim Jenkins, associate professor of agriculture, and Dave Cleavinger, instructor of agriculture.

"South Plains College is really getting to be the leader in this project. By working in the development of the curriculum, I have improved my abilities to teach agricultural finance, and as SPC offers this course in our community, we can be proud of the fact that we're serving area farmers and ranchers."

South Plains College will be the institution that serves as the central communication point within the network of other Texas institutions that offer the "Bottom Line Farming" financial training curriculum. Presley also will be charged with managing communications between the FmHA and the other participating community colleges. Financial support will be provided by Texas Rural Communities.

The course consists of 36 classroom hours that can be designed to fit the schedule of the farmers and ranchers. The curriculum begins with goal setting and priority management, and continues to cover interpretation and use of financial statements, strategic planning, operational planning and other practical aspects of farm financial management.

Presley estimates that 5,000 to 8,000 participants will be involved in the course across the state during the next three years, including some 500 participants at South Plains College. Presley adds that there are plans to offer a course in agricultural finance to all area farmers.

"South Plains College can claim the distinction of being the community college that took the lead in working to organize this effort," Presley says. "South Plains College had the goal-based foresight to work with other institutions and agencies to develop a partnership to better serve our community."

Survival Seminar for Small Businesses to be held

A "Survival Seminar for Small Businesses," presented by Don Taylor, will be held Thursday, Oct. 20 from 1-5 p.m. at the Bailey County Coliseum Green Room. Taylor is the executive director of the West Texas A & M University Small Business Development Center.

Lunch will be catered. Seminar costs is $5 for chamber members or $10 for chamber members including lunch. The cost for non-chamber members including lunch is $15.

Lunch will be served from 11:45 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The seminar is being sponsored by the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce & Agriculture.

Taylor is also president and chief executive officer of Data Staar Communications, a Texas-based business information and training company.

Before becoming an entrepreneur, Taylor worked in corporate marketing and advertising in Chicago and Los Angeles. He was the national number one salesman for the Riley Company in 1976 and was regional marketing director in charge of west coast operations when he left the company to start his first business in 1978.

An accomplished writer and lecturer, Taylor authors the syndicated column, "Minding Your Own Business," which is published in 55 newspaper across the country, including the Bailey County Journal.

His new book, Up Against Wal-Marts, will be on bookstands in October. Taylor is the author of other books and guides. He presents nearly 120 business development, training programs every year and speaks regularly to trade associations and corporate, civic and service organizations.

In 1993, Taylor received the Distinguished Leadership and Communication Award from Toastmaster's International.

He was one of 70 business and community leaders worldwide to receive this distinction.

Taylor is past president and served on the board of directors of the Amarillo Area Chapter of the American Marketing Association, is a member of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce Business Council and is a former member of the executive committee and board of directors. He has been involved in numerous charitable organizations.

For more information contact the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce & Agriculture at 272-4248.

Taylor's book sells out

A large number of independent business people apparently want to find out what it takes to compete successfully with Wal-Mart and other retail giants.

"Up Against the Wal-Marts, How Your Business Can Prosper in the Shadow of Retail Giants," a book co-written by Don Taylor and Jeanne Smalling Archer of Amarillo and published by AMACOM, has sold out its first edition, Taylor said.

Taylor, director of West Texas A&M University's Small Business Development Center and author of the syndicated column "Minding Your Own Business," developed the basic idea for the book from three columns on competing with Wal-Mart that ran in in the Amarillo Sunday News-Globe in August 1991.

The columns generated a large volume of mail and telephone calls, including a letter from the late Sam Walton, Wal-Mart founder, who told Taylor "it was nice to have someone tell the truth" about his discount store chain.

Taylor eventually developed a popular lecture series titled "Co-existing with Wal-Mart."

Taylor will be featured on an interview on CNN's "Managing With Lou Dobbs" on Saturday, Oct. 22.

"It (the book) has been received exceptionally well. I was flabbergasted the first edition sold out," Taylor said.
