SOCIAL SECURITY
It is good business to check your social security account at least every three or four years. John R. Sanderson, manager of the Amarillo Social Security District office, reminds all persons by the social security law. By checking your account, you can be sure that all your earnings that count toward old-age and survivors insurance were reported and credited correctly. If you find that all wages or self-employment income that can be are not credited, you should then notify the local social security district office and the necessary action will be taken to correct your account.

Since all survivor and retirement benefits are based on your covered earnings, it is important that all wages and self-employment income are correctly credited through the years.

Sanderson pointed out, however, that the earnings statements for the year 1955 are not available at this time since the posting of wages is not completed until six or nine months after the wages were paid. Therefore, a record of wages paid through the last week in December, 1955, will not be available before July, 1956.

Sanderson stated that the local social security office, located at Amarillo, has available a post-card form for those who wish to obtain a record of past earnings credited to their social security account.

HOW TO CLEANSE FRESH FOODS OF FALLOUT

TIP TO HOUSEWIVES on how to cleanse fruits and vegetables of radioactive material if they become contaminated is provided by radiological expert and housewife Dr. Rosalind Yalow of the U. S. Veterans Hospital, New York. At a demonstration during a Radiological School sponsored by the Federal Civil Defense Administration, she showed how to prepare fruits or vegetables for eating when the outside is "contaminated" by fallout particles. (FCDA Photos)

Housewives might have to handle radioactively contaminated fruits and vegetables as gingerly as a newborn baby for a time if their food stocks are ever exposed to fallout. Under those circumstances, radiological expert Dr. Rosalind Yalow, a housewife and staff member of the New York Veterans Administration Hospital, emphasizes that a housewife would have to take special precautions to avoid contact with radioactive particles in preparing food.

FRESH FOODS most likely to be exposed to fallout contamination would be those coming directly from home garden plots, open fruit stands, or left near an open window in a fallout area. Fruits and vegetables left on open pantry shelves would have more of a chance of being contaminated than those in closed cupboards or refrigerators.

This so-called "contamination" would affect only the surface of fruits and vegetables unless, through careless peeling or washing, a housewife allowed the center of the fruit to become contaminated.

Dr. Yalow had the following tips to avoid this:
1. Use fruits and vegetables which were wrapped, or kept away from the open air such as they would be in a refrigerator.

2. When washing produce, use running water if possible, providing it comes from a covered source such as a well or a known uncontaminated supply. If running water is not available, be sure the water used to wash the vegetables is changed frequently.

3. Fruits and vegetables with thick skins, such as bananas, or those that may be easily washed, such as apples, would be preferable. Housewife would be wise to handle these with disposable towels during cleaning.

WITHOUT SPECIAL "know-how" and care, Dr. Yalow points out, it would be easy for a person accidentally to transmit radioactive contamination into fruits or vegetables by washing them with "contaminated" water, or simply by handling peeled fruits with "contaminated" gloves or towels.

With this knowledge, a farmer's wife, for example, could in most cases make the produce from her fallout-exposed garden safe and usable again by her family.

After an attack, housewives would find out by radio whether their homes were located in a fallout zone. Then they would learn whether to take these precautions or not.

berland Gap National Park

... WASHINGTON—Cumberland Appalachian mountain that hunched untold thousands into the promise of a national park. The Cumberland Gap National Historical Park culminated a 25-year effort to preserve the area. Recalling Daniel Boone and his frontiersmen who plodded the Wilderness Trail, states contributed more than 600 acres of scenic mound to the park. The Gap is where the sharp southward wedge of Virginia joins the Tennessee and Kentucky mountains. The Gap was known to the Indians as a "natural bridge." It was discovered by Dr. Thomas Walker, an Englishman, in 1751. He was on a search for a route to the west. He found it and named it the Cumberland Gap. It was later named the Cumberland Gap National Historical Park.

Gentle Dog Has 'Country Cousin' With Bad Manners

... WASHINGTON—The gentle dog that sleeps by man's hearth and eats from his hand has "country cousins" that tear food from tigers and put leopards and panthers to flight. Pierce wild-dog packs in India and Malay jungles are led by canine chiefs. They strike swiftly and back off only before man, elephant and rhinoceros. They move quietly, Indian file at night, avoiding dried leaves and branches. They have been known to devour an exhausted, 240-pound stag in 15 minutes.

Few except professional hunters and woodcutters ever see the wild dogs and on these rare occasions the dogs usually appear startled, look at one another, and run.

... The fierce, strong Red Dogs of India's Deccan largely favor the uplands of the Ghats for hunting. One planter reported witnessing action in which a pack of bold dogs feasted on the fresh-killed prey of a tiger who evidently chose to go elsewhere for another meal rather than tangle with the vicious dogs. Sportsmen of the Nilgiri Hills of India have exploited the tigers' fear of wild dogs by hunting them with trained ones. Hearing their approach and believing them packs of wild dogs, the tigers flee or take safety in trees.

... The spotted wild dogs of Africa are relentless pack hunters and strike terror among animal life with their hunting cries. One night in Northern Rhodesia a camper heard their bark and then a rushing of feet as if an animal were trying to escape. Within moments an antelope bounded into the camp and stood in terror near the men, while snarling dogs circled the place.

Tortoise Initials Don't Last Forever

... LOS ANGELES—If you want to carve your initials for posterity, don't pick a live tortoise's shell. Dr. Loye Miller, professor emeritus of zoology at the University of California, has been observing desert tortoise for many years. He takes with a grain of salt the oft-repeated tales about tortoises that have survived in the wilds for a century or so as evidenced by initials and dates carved on their shells by historical pioneers.

... He has found that such carvings disappear within a year or two due to remarkable regeneration characteristics of the animal. Dr. Miller says that tortoises: 1. Commonly have bladder stones which do not generally have serious effect on the animals. 2. Males achieve maturity at about the same age as human males, that is, from about 16 to 20 years of age. 3. Egg laying is a big event with the female. She will not eat or drink for some time preceding the event. 4. Females may lay eggs twice a year and up to 14 eggs at one sitting.

Old Steam Operators Hold Annual Meeting

... BRYAN, Ohio—Remember the Avery 40? You will if you grew up in the Midwest wheat belt where this old steam-operated thresher held forth before it was displaced by modern combines. More than 4,000 Americans who remember the steam-power harvesters have joined the National Threshers Association, organized 10 years ago by a handful of old steam operators in nearby Alverton. They had 30 of their old machines at their latest annual meeting. Focal point of the meeting was firing up one of the venerable machines for a short demonstration of old-time steam threshing—the way it was done 50 years ago.

More Newlyweds Buy Their Own Homes

... CHICAGO—More newlyweds own their own homes than ever before in the history of the country, due to credit financing, says Richard Nelson, a real estate research man. Nelson said: "Homes are becoming directly competitive with apartments in view of the low down payments and long period of amortization which makes it possible for a young couple with very little liquid saving to buy a home of their own." Figures show that between 10 and 20 per cent of the newlyweds plan on their own homes in preference to renting, Nelson said.

REDDY'S Farm Report

FROM THE AGRICULTURAL DEVELOPMENT DEPARTMENT SOUTHWESTERN PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY

To survive, little pigs must have heat. Under natural conditions they depend on each other and good weather for their heat. Little pigs piling up creates a hazard, also the mother sow often rolls over or lies down on the piglets crushing out their lives. The next best bet (safe, too) is the artificial heat created by electric energy.

While most pig raisers will use electric heat lamps, Panhandle Agricultural and Mechanical College at Goodwell, Oklahoma, has been using a manufactured brooder for the last nine years.

Baby pigs get the heat they need to survive in a safe dry corner of the pen, under the electric brooder.

thirty-five head of brooding sows for 1956.

At current feed prices Professor England calculated that a baby pig is worth about $10.00 at weaning time. So obviously every pig that can be saved to go to market is a ten dollar bill in the seller's pocket. Conversely, every baby pig that dies is a ten dollar loss. A few cents worth of electricity can prevent this loss.

While the professor has had good results from the pig brooders using the electric heating elements, he expresses the opinion that heat lamps would do the same job. The main thing is to give your baby pigs the warmth they need at birth continuing until they are large enough to withstand the cold. One sure thing, there's no chance of electric heat rolling over on a baby pig and crushing out its life.

Professor Milton England, Head of the Agriculture Department, Panhandle A & M College at Goodwell, Oklahoma, shows the working parts of a pig brooder used by the College Farm.

IT'S MAGIC — NO TRICK ELECTRIC DRYING'S SLICK!

SEE YOUR REDDY KILOWATT APPLIANCE DEALER

... My big interest in owning a clothes dryer is the time that I can save. I make all the pies for our cafe, and spend several hours a day there, and I have four children, and must wash every day. Now that I have my dryer it takes fewer clothes for my children, and less time to launder them."

... "I choose many of the materials that need no ironing for our clothes, especially the dresses for my little girl. I haven't time to iron the many ruffled dresses she wears every week. With the no-iron materials, her dresses are ready to wear when they come out of the clothes dryer. MY YOUNGEST SON WILL SOON BE TWO, AND I HAVE NEVER HAD TO IRON ANY OF HIS CLOTHES."

... "Sandy says our towels are as soft as her kitten. And she is so right, because my towels are so fluffy, soft and clean smelling after being dried in my electric clothes dryer."

WHEN A CRISIS COMES

- ... and you need a prescription filled at midnight

DO YOU saddle up and take a day off to get the matter taken care of in the City, or do you write to a catalog house for help?

OF COURSE NOT. Likely you hardly recognize these and similar predicaments as crises.

Because YOU'VE GOT NEIGHBORS, right here at home . . . with their skill and their money invested in establishments able to take most of your troubles on their own shoulders so quickly that you scarcely notice they are difficulties at all.

But HOW MANY skilled craftsmen, and good business men, and good neighbors, and good workers in civic and church affairs, and good taxpayers . . . how many of these have cut down their stocks, laid off employees, or left the country . . . because all you were buying from them was the things you couldn't wait to get somewhere else . . . and how many will leave in the future to go where your money is going?

Moisture a Determining Factor for Range Reseeding

Presently there is an estimated 12 million acres of abandoned cropland and an additional million acres of denuded barren rangeland in Texas. Reseeding with adapted grasses is a method which may be used to bring at least a part of this land back into profitable forage production, says A. H. Walker, extension range specialist, provided moisture conditions are favorable.

In the case of the abandoned cropland, Walker suggests reseeding the best land first. A soil test is a logical starting point. He points out that if reseeding is to be a success, the operation should be carried out in the same thorough manner as the seeding of any other crop. Use the best adapted seed, methods and equipment available.

The land should be prepared by disking and harrowing. The soil should be drilled or seeded with rows and culipacker or roller to firm the soil. Plant only adapted grasses and cover the soil from a fourth to three-eighths of an inch deep. Most grasses should be planted in the late or early spring before the rainy season. Mowing the first year will aid in controlling weeds. Spraying with chemicals can be used for this job the second year. If the grass is to become established, controlled grazing and range management are musts, says Walker.

In the barren or denuded rangelands, Walker says if 15 per cent of the better grasses are deferred grazing may do the trick quicker and a lot cheaper than reseeding.

Early good results from seedling pits have been obtained on the Edwards Plateau, Rolling Plains and Trans-Pecos areas. Reseeding following root plow in the Rio Grande Plains has similar results. Scattering hay where plant litter is present has given fair results in some areas but it's expensive. Watering seed under protecting it on rocky areas usually gives poor results.

The chances of success by any method depends upon the moisture supply and the management practices used while the grass seedlings are becoming established, says Walker.

The laying cage system of commercial egg production has grown like "Jack's beanstalk" of fairy tale fame since 1953 in Texas. At the end of 1953, only 272,000 hens were in cages but by December, 1955, the number stood at more than 1,243,000 and they were producing approximately 10 per cent of the state's market eggs.

KEEP HOMETOWN MONEY HOME

Money spent in Silvertown by you stay here and work for all of us. For instance: Housewife buys from the grocer; the grocer banks his money, pays help and buys merchandise; the banker lends money to contractors pays his men who in turn provide household money for housewives.

Perhaps this is an oversimplified manner in depicting how "Hometown Money" spent at home helps all the community but it is a clear example of how it does.

So let each of us determine to buy everything possible right here in Silvertown, so that our town can continue to be prosperous and one that all of us will be proud to live in.
