

Marr to hear fired officer's termination appeal

An appeal hearing concerning the termination of a Muleshoe Police officer is expected to be held in the next week, Muleshoe City Manager Dave Marr said Monday.

Former officer Chris Lopez was terminated by Chief Julian Dominguez April 13, following an early-morning traffic stop of a vehicle driven by Marr April 9. No citations were issued in connection with the stop. Marr said the termination was made on his recommendation.

Lopez' appeal will be heard by Marr in accordance with Muleshoe city policy. The city manager is the final appeal level for any terminated city employee, Marr said.

Lopez confirmed he had been fired after stopping Marr for driving erratically. He said he was appealing his termination and was trying to get his job back. He refused further comment.

A letter from the South Plains Criminal Investigators Association (SPCIA) that ran in the Sunday, April 30 edition of the Bailey County Journal protested Lopez' termination, charging the officer was unjustly fired for stopping Marr for failure to drive in a single lane of traffic.

TRAVELING THE OLD-FASHION WAY—Youth in the VisionQuest program who recently spent several days at Muleshoe Wildlife Refuge, are part of an innovative program that teaches them about assimilating back into society by teaching them to get back into contact with nature and the great outdoors. The boys in the program pictured here are responsible for taking care of animals, including mules which pull this wagon as they travel throughout the country.

VisionQuest helps youth reform through nature

Successful program brings troubled youths for stay in Bailey County

They didn't stroll into Muleshoe the conventional way that many people do — by automobile. Youth from Texas, California, Arizona, Utah, Missouri and Illinois came into Muleshoe last week by covered wagons pulled by mules and stayed in teepees at Muleshoe Wildlife Refuge.

These youth are part of an innovative program for juvenile delinquents who are ordered to undergo such a program by judges who determine a corrections facility is not adequate for their needs.

"These are kids who would otherwise be sitting in a jail cell," said Dan Johnston, a wagon master with VisionQuest.

"Out here, they are taught how to take care of animals and are given responsibilities. The program encourages kids not to quit, while also teaching them about how to deal with the outdoors and weather. It is a way for the kids to deal with their frustrations," Johnston said.

The VisionQuest group were visited at the Muleshoe Wildlife Refuge on Thursday by members of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce & Agriculture. They were also

MHS students complete life skills, leadership retreat

Selected Muleshoe High School students this month began the seventh year of participation in a program directed toward helping students build a more positive self image and to work toward goals which will help lead them to the education they need to become productive citizens.

The Life Management Skills and Leadership Training Retreat program is sponsored by Region 17 Education Service Center and Muleshoe ISD. Over 200 students have been selected to participate in the program for the past six years and there is always a waiting list of students who want to be chosen.

Students and sponsors travel to a camp near Floydada, where students settle into dormitories with students from five or six other area towns. The number usually totals 30 to 40, with a sponsor for every three or four students. The setting is perfect for learning and fun — with no telephones or television and an extremely supportive environment. Most of the students agree that the food is great and there is a lot of it.

A whirlwind of activities are scheduled from early morning to late at night, all of which help the students learn a

Four MHS athletes qualify for state track meet May 12-13

Flores, Faver win regional titles

ODESSA — Four Muleshoe athletes qualified for the State Track Meet during the Region 1-3A meet April 28-29 here.

The four qualified for state competition by taking a first or second in their event. The state meet will be held in Austin on May 12 and 13.

Those athletes advancing to state competition are Cari Faver, in the 1600 meters; LaTonya Payne, shot put; Jesus Flores, 800 meter run; and Daniel Garbarino, 300 meter intermediate hurdles.

Cari Faver, a sophomore, won the 1600 meters on Saturday in a race to the finish line against Leah Jones from Abilene Wylie. A strong determined athlete, Faver recovered from a sprained ankle after the district qualifying meet to spring back and take the regional title in the 1600. Faver also ran the 3200 meter run at the regional meet.

LaTonya Payne finished second in the shot put behind Shanna Paehl from Kermit. Paehl won with a 39' 71/2" effort. LaTonya bought her ticket to state with a second place distance of 36' 7". A senior at MHS, Payne has qualified for the regional meet before, but this will be her first trip to state.

Producers consider options for wheat

AMARILLO — Producers in major hard red winter wheat-producing areas are grappling with decisions on whether to replant wheat fields to spring crops following a hard freeze in mid-April.

Below freezing temperatures hit southwestern Kansas and the Oklahoma and Texas panhandles in mid-April, with temperatures dropping into the mid-teens to low 20s. Though damage estimates are still being finalized, calculations of the potential loss has ranged from 30 to 70 million bushels for the region, area agronomists say.

Producers have several options. Damaged wheat fields may be used for hay, grazing, silage or replanted to corn or sorghum, according to Brent Bean, agronomist for Texas A&M University. The decision whether to replant may be based on what, if any, herbicide program is in place and how much time is left in the

Bush applauds legislators for teamwork, cooperation

AUSTIN— Governor George W. Bush last week launched day 100 of his administration by hosting a lunch to thank members of the Texas Legislature for the "teamwork and bipartisan spirit of cooperation which has characterized our work for a better Texas."

"We are forging consensus based on our conservative philosophy and the best interests of Texas," the Governor said. "We are doing in the state Capitol what we promised to do in the neighborhoods of Texas. The people of Texas can be proud of their legislators and leaders for rising above pettiness or partisan ship and building consensus for positive, fundamental change in the way our state government does business," said the Governor.

"During the next 33 days, we must finish the job of reforming welfare, strengthening our juvenile and criminal justice laws, ending lawsuit abuse and bringing local control to our schools," said the Governor. "Thank you for the progress that is being made. I look forward to joining with you in telling the people of Texas we have done what they sent us here to do," he told legislators gathered at the Governor's mansion.

"I want to especially thank Governor Bullock and Speaker Laney for their friendship and willingness to work together to find common ground. I want to thank the people of Texas for giving me the opportunity to serve them. This job is more challenging, more demanding lot about life and that "it's how you handle the things that come your way that really counts."

Emphasis is placed on staying in school and going on to training after graduation that will enable them to make a living for themselves.

"Con Ganas!" is their motto. The rough English translation is "With Determination" — determination to set goals for their lives and not to give up until they are accomplished.

Fifteen sponsors have accompanied the students on weekend retreats, giving up a weekend with their families to participate with these students.

Each participating student receives a "Con Ganas" T-shirt they proudly wear, a certificate, new friends and lots of good memories. Muleshoe students have earned the reputation of being exceptional participants and have brought home more than their share of awards.

The Con Ganas Club at MHS was formed to continue to reinforce what the students learned on the retreat. It is one school and is expected to continue to grow as students attend the Life Management Skills and Leadership Training Retreats.

Gloria Pena, special education program director for Muleshoe ISD, said, "I have seen this program work miracles for some of our students and I heartily support it and the young people involved."

Echoing Pena's statements was Margie Alarcon, the MSRTS clerk for the Muleshoe ISD.

"It has been truly rewarding to go through several retreats with the students and see them eventually graduate and go on to better things."

Janie Balderas, Migrant Service Coordinator, added, "I believe in this program because I have seen many students benefit from it. It helps them to set goals and become better achievers in school. One of the most inspiring things is the friendships that are started. The students come away with the feeling that someone really cares for them."

given various souvenirs from Joe's Boot's Shop, including postcards.

The group that pulled into Muleshoe last week has been on the road for 23 months. They started in Arizona, went to California and are headed toward Colorado.

In passing through the town, Johnston said, "Muleshoe is close to our heart because we have all mules out here, helping pull our wagons."

In addition to learning about the outdoors first hand, the children are also required to attend daily classes in the afternoon by certified teachers who are a part of the VisionQuest staff.

The VisionQuest group came into town with trailers pulled by trucks, 18 trailers, two trucks, two vans, 15 vehicles, nine wagons, 65 animals, 60 children and 45 staff.

The VisionQuest program was founded by Bob Burton and Steve Rogers of Arizona.

"This is a better way to deal with kids," Johnston said.

The philosophy behind the VisionQuest program is borrowed from Native Americans and gives young people an honorable way to grow up and instills positive values in them, Johnston said.

Johnston said that a corporation did a study on VisionQuest. The study found that 73 percent of the kids who undergo the program make it in life, compared to an estimated 12 percent in a California program which had juvenile delinquents confined in a facility. Many more of the students in the corrections facility went on to commit crimes again.

The letter chastised the City of Muleshoe and Dominguez for the firing, charging that a police officer is "powerless to provide equal and impartial law enforcement services to a community without the support of city government and the police chief."

"When social status, position or political clout determines who a police officer may contact in performing his duties, equal and impartial law enforcement beats a hasty retreat. This not only hurts the peace officer, it hurts the community as well."

The letter, signed by Farwell Police Chief and SPCIA president Roy L. McGaa, says the organization is composed of city, county, state and federal officers throughout the South Plains.

The letter said the SPCIA membership had met April 25 and that due to the action, voted to reject the MPD's application for agency membership in the organization.

Dominguez, saying he had a story of his own and wished he could respond, said he could not comment on the matter because it was an unresolved personnel matter. Dominguez did say his department has never made application for membership in the SPCIA, although some local officers may be members of the organization.

Marr confirmed the traffic stop was made, but also declined to comment on the matter because the hearing is still pending.

spring planting season. The window for planting corn in this region of the Corn Belt is open until mid-to-late May, while sorghum can be planted until late June and still have enough time to develop. Also, there may be cropping restrictions for some herbicides, Bean added.

Additionally, the decision on whether to replant with corn or sorghum may be linked to water availability. On irrigated ground, farmers may choose to replant to corn if they have adequate water supply to take care of additional corn acres. If their water supply is tight and farmers have already allocated those resources to corn acres, they may choose to replant to sorghum. The sorghum will have lower water requirements, plus the timing of water use will be different from peak water demand for corn.

Though producers in the panhandle of Texas don't have to worry about maturity dates as much as their northern counterparts, they still need to be choosy when it comes to selecting hybrids for replanting, Kunz said. Hybrids with good heat and moisture stress tolerances should be selected since the hot days of August could hit late-planted hybrids with full force. Producers that are planting later in the spring also may consider slightly lowering their planting rates to further reduce moisture stress on the crop.

Financial assistance is a big consideration when deciding whether to replant.

"Farmers, agronomists, insurance adjusters and county appraisers for Consolidated Farm Services Agency have been out in fields during the past couple of weeks surveying the damage, with losses ranging from slight to near complete yield loss," Kunz said. "Many farmers in this area are involved in farm programs and will need to seek approval from their CFSA appraiser before making any decisions on replanting their wheat acres."

In Texas, wheat fields from Amarillo to the northern part of the panhandle suffered the most damage from the freeze, Bean said. Most of the wheat in the affected area had reached the jointing stage, with some fields already into the boot state. The further along the wheat plants were in development, the more susceptible they were to freeze injury.

and more rewarding than I ever imagined and I am truly honored to be your Governor."

Bush applauded legislators for working toward a no new taxes budget and said he is pleased with progress on his four legislative priorities: tort reform, welfare reform, juvenile justice reform and education reform.

Tort Reform: The Legislature approved the Governor Bush signed into law a cornerstone piece of tort reform, a cap on punitive damages which protects the rights of the injured while bringing much needed certainty to the civil justice system. Other major reforms are moving through the legislative process. They include proposals to end court and judge shopping, enact medical malpractice reform, the deceptive trade practices act and reform joint and several liability.

Education Reform: The Senate has passed a comprehensive bill expanding local control of schools; the House education committee is working on a reform plan that is expected to include home rule education districts, which will free local school districts from state mandates. The education reforms are expected to curb the regulatory authority of the Texas Education Agency, adopt zero tolerance for classroom violence, create alternative schools for disruptive students, emphasize a core curriculum of basic subjects and set progress toward a standard of excellence as the consistent measure of school performance.

Welfare Reform: The Senate and House have approved comprehensive bills which set limits on welfare benefits, require welfare recipients to train, work or learn while on welfare and require recipients to assume certain responsibilities in return for taxpayers' assistance. The Legislature has also approved plans to suspend any license issued by the state for parents who fail to pay court-ordered child support. The reform measures also call for fingerprinting of welfare recipients to crack down on welfare fraud. The Senate bill consolidates work force development programs in one agency, accountability and ensuring that welfare recipients are trained for jobs which are available. Differences between the House and Senate bills are expected to be resolved in conference committee.

Juvenile and Criminal Justice Reform: Both the House and Senate have approved major juvenile justice reform bills which lower the age at which the most violent juveniles can be tried as adults, add additional beds to the juvenile justice system, strengthen laws for dealing with violent juveniles and provide community-based services for at risk youth. Other major crime initiatives include limiting appeals for death-row inmates, fine-tuning the new penal code, ending abuse of mandatory supervision and strengthening victims' rights.

No New Taxes Budgets: Both houses of the Legislature have approved responsible, no new taxes budgets which devote the lion's share of new state funds to education. Differences between the two budget bills are being worked on in conference committee.

Appointments: Governor Bush has appointed a total of 142 people to state boards and commissions. He sent a strong signal that quality and capability, not politics, would be his standards with his very first appointment of South Texan Tony Garza as Secretary of State. Garza came from Cameron County in South Texas, one of the few areas of the state Bush did not win in the November election.

Bush made it clear he believes in Texas educators when he named Mike Moses, a former teacher, principal and superintendent in various Texas school districts, as head of the Texas Education Agency. He reached across party lines to name Elton Bomer, a conservative East Texan and former Democrat state representative, as Insurance Commissioner. He re-

The Art of Delegating

The best leader is the one who has sense enough to pick good men to do what he wants done, and the self-restraint to keep from meddling with them while they do it. - Theodore Roosevelt.

A friend once told me that nothing is impossible provided you don't have to do it yourself. This may be true, but sometimes it's hard to find other folks just to do the possible.

Over the years, I've worked with many highly motivated business owners and managers. I've only met a few who would admit they were very good at delegating. More often than not, these highly competent and very self-confident people have difficulty in giving authority to others.

That is exactly what delegation is: Empowering others to do certain tasks or accomplish specific results. While it is difficult to do, there are definite advantages in learning how to delegate effectively.

Benefits of delegating

One of the key benefits of delegation is that it frees up more time for you. As the delegator, you can use this time to plan, think or do other work.

Another advantage is that a team can accomplish more work than you can produce alone. The total output now equals what you - the delegator - can manage, not just what you can do by yourself.

Better, happier employees is another benefit. When you spread responsibility, co-workers are more likely to feel as if they are part of your team. They also have opportunities to build skills, develop creative solutions and gain knowledge.

Finally, delegation can improve communication between you and your employees. Good delegation will improve dialogue and keep open direct lines of communication.

How to delegate

Though it is easier to write about than do, delegation includes three basic steps. First, you must know the person to whom you are delegating the task or work.

When you know their strengths, weaknesses, skills and experience you can pass on responsibilities that will be appropriate. You should also take personality types into consideration.

Second, you should be specific in determining the tasks and making assignments. Frequently, workers botch or mishandle tasks because the instructions were unclear. Some workers may be quite comfortable with minimal instruction, while others require very detailed directions. In most cases, it is best to err on the side of too much information rather than too little.

Finally, monitor progress and results. Praise positive progress and achievement. Gently coach and redirect efforts that are not in keeping with the desired outcome.

I want to add a few thoughts just for you beginning delegators. Please be patient.

Though it is difficult, don't jump in and do the work just because you can do it better or faster. Coach you employees gently. Go over the routine again, then turn them loose. Gradually, they will grow and become more confident as they build skills and gain knowledge.

Finally, ask members of your team questions like: "How can we improve this operation next time?" "Did we learn anything new?" "What would you suggest we do differently?" Then listen and learn.

Developing good delegation skills is a win-win situation. Start turning loose some responsibility today.

Muleshoe Girl Scout update

By Nelda Merriott

Muleshoe has three groups of girls scouts beginning with Kindergarten aged children.

The Daisies (Kindergarten) are lead by Sylvia Kennemer. The Brownies (1st, 2nd and 3rd grade) are led by Florinda Almanza and assisted by Darla Stovall and the older Brownie and Junior Troop are led by Ranae Rudd and assisted by Doris Lewis and Renae Newton.

The Muleshoe Girl Scouts appreciate the Kiwanis Club for sponsoring them and for furnishing the telephone at the Scout Hut, it is a tremendous asset to the group and provides contact with Scouts and parents.

The Muleshoe Girl Scouts recently completed their cookie sales. This endeavor was whole-heartedly supported by the Muleshoe community. There were approximately 1,530 boxes of Girl Scout Cookies sold. This supports the Caprock Council and our local troops.

Memorial and honorarium donations are accepted and appreciated by the local Girl Scout Service Unit. Notifications and acknowledgments are sent.

A Day Camp has been set for June 10 here in Muleshoe. The Muleshoe Scouts will be hosting scouts from surrounding counties and badges will be earned at the full-day camp, plus there will be fun, food and fellowship with these sister scouts.

Muleshoe is a member of the Caprock Girl Scout Council which is comprised of 18 counties: Bailey, Briscoe, Castro, Cochran, Crosby, Dickens, Floyd, Garza, Hale, Hockley, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Motley, Farmer, Swisher, Terry and Yoakum.

Daniel Garbarino arrived at the regional track meet on Friday to compete in four individual events and the 1600 meter relay. He took second in the 300 intermediate hurdles with a time of 38.9.

"I could tell after the third Garbarino took 6th place in the triple jump with 43' 7" and competed in the high jump and the 110 meter hurdles as well.

The Mules' 1600 meter relay team finished second with a time of 3:23.08, but was disqualified because of a lane violation. The members of the team were Garbarino, Flores, Edward Olivas, and Greg Cortez.

of Medicaid and health and human service programs and funding is virtually unparalleled, as Director of Health and Human Services. He has appointed a number of African Americans as Judges based on their outstanding legal qualifications.

"I said throughout my campaign that I would seek people of excellence from all walks of life to serve in my administration, and I am doing so," said Governor Bush. "We are asking state agencies, boards and commissions what expertise they need to improve the jobs they do, and then finding individuals who bring that expertise to state government."

Bush has appointed 30 women and 103 men: 33 of his 142 appointees are African-American, Hispanic or Asian-American.

Bush is also actively involved with the executive branch of state government. At a recent meeting of state agency directors, he asked them to set excellence and efficiency as the standards for their agencies.

First Lady Laura Bush is actively involved with a variety of events in three major areas of interest: highlighting the talents of Texas writers and artists, showcasing reading and libraries, and focusing public attention on programs to intercede in the lives of at-risk children. She has also participated in several historic renovation projects through the Main Street Texas program and Capitol Restoration celebration.

Nursing Home News

By Joy Stancell

The Rev. and Mrs. Phillip Ensmiger from the New Covenant Church brought the lesson Thursday morning in our devotional time.

Thursday afternoon Irene Splawn and Shelby Murphy came to visit and play games with us.

Each Saturday morning Mr. J.C. Shanks gives the men shaves and haircuts.

It was Bingo Time with Melvin and Wanda Griffin Saturday afternoon.

Tuesday morning Jane Reeder baked and brought homemade chocolate chip cookies for Coffee Time. "umm" good!

Tuesday afternoon Lanell Stancell, Claudine Embry, Mary Archer, Thora Baker and Thursie, Viki and Joy shampooed and set the ladies hair. The main attraction of the afternoon was our new Recliner Shampoo Chair. It is amazing! We did folks hair that we don't normally do. Right Guy?

Roxie Hoover's son and daughter visited her Tuesday. They played Skip-Bo along with Eva Ashford.

We had many gracious and lovely lady residents modeling hats at our hat show Tuesday morning and maybe a man or two - "oops"! I'm sorry fellows - I promised not to tell.

We received a donation from the Truth Seekers Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church.

We received many lovely flower arrangements from the

We had help from Mr. Phillips, Melvin Griffin, Viki Donaldson, Jessie and Scott, it was greatly appreciated.

Following Coffee/Spudnut time Wednesday morning, the residents and visitors were escorted to the new dining room for a Gravy Party. The residents and guest sampled chocolate, cowboy and red eye gravy served on hot biscuits. Wanda Kittrell was the chef and Buster, Vikki and Thursie helped her serve. This was a new taste experience for some of us, but an enjoyable one.

Better Business Bureau

You have a great idea for a new product, and now you need to launch it commercially as a sellable item. Many individuals turn to invention promotion firms for help. Some promotion firms may help to get your idea or invention into the marketplace. The Federal Trade Commission reports, however, that some inventors have paid thousands of dollars to firms that promised to evaluate, develop, patent, and market inventions, but received nothing for their money.

A questionable firm may require an upfront fee of as much as $10,000 and a percentage of the royalties the invention may earn. A reputable company typically does not rely on large upfront fees. Instead, it will rely on the royalties from the successful licensing of client inventions, and therefore, will be very selective about which ideas and inventions it pursues. Check the company out with us at 763-0459.

When you get a call or a letter asking you to give to a police or firefighter group, your first reaction is probably a generous one, after all, they put their lives on the line to protect you, your family and your community.

If you donate to groups like these, your hardworking local police or firefighters might not be helped much, if at all. Don't give cash. Make your check out to the organization. Don't give in to pressure to give on the spot. Don't believe promises or suggestions that your donation will give you "special treatment" from your police or firefighters.

ROADRIDERS DONATE TO MEALS ON WHEELS - The Muleshoe Roadriders Club last week donated $500 to the Bailey County Meals on Wheels program. "The Way West"

A Six-Hour Saga of How the West Was Won . . . AND LOST!

The American Experience "The Way West," a six hour documentary, is the sweeping saga of how, in five decades of unprecedented expansion, the American West was won, and lost.

"The Way West" begins in 1845, the year the phrase "manifest destiny" was coined, and carries viewers through fifty tumultuous years to the bitter finale of the Indian Wars at Wounded Knee in 1893. Narrated by New York Times columnist and Masterpiece Theater host Russell Baker, the film portrays how the American dream of endless frontiers, opportunities, and free land was a nightmare for those who did not share these values - Native Americans. "The Way West" offers an intimate look at this clash of cultures through the voices, actions, and haunting photographic images of the era's legendary figures: Red Cloud, Sitting Bull, Crazy Horse, Colonel George Armstrong Custer, General William Tecumseh Sherman, William F. Cody, and General Philip Sheridan.

From the very beginning, America's expansion West in the 19th century carried hints of the dark side of the American dream. The ambitions and motives that propelled European-Americans west involved powerful forces and impulses: the belief that you could become anything you wanted to become, and that the West was an inexhaustible resource.

In 1845, only a few hundred Americans lived in all of the Mexican province of Upper California. One year later, almost two million square miles of new territory had been added to the United States. Within six years, half a million people had flooded the state looking for gold, and that was only the beginning. By 1890, there were nine million people in the West. The frontier had closed. The buffalo were gone. Hundreds of thousands of Native Americans had been forced to give up their traditional culture and move onto reservations. Five trans-continental railroads were built. Thousands of miles of telegraph wire had been strung from one end of the country to the other. Not only the physical, but the imaginative geography of the country had been rapidly conquered and violently installed.

"The Way West" on The American Experience will be broadcast Monday and Tuesday, May 8th and 9th from 8:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m. each evening on KENW-TV.

Lazbuddie Homemakers busy with activities

The Lazbuddie Young Homemakers have been involved in several activities during the months of March and April. At the March meeting, Kerri Tunnell from Amarillo showed the group beautiful Longaberger baskets. Also in March, the Young Homemakers provided a St. Patrick's Day party for the residence of the Muleshoe Area Healthcare Center. On April 4, the annual Senior Citizens Tea was held at the Lazbuddie School. The guests were treated to banana splits, as well as a presentation by Julie Templeton and Wylene Cleavinger of Denim Patch in Earth. They displayed a large variety of wonderfully hand-decorated denim shirts, vests and a jackets. It was a fun day for all involved. In addition to these activities, the Young Homemakers also supplied colored eggs for the Easter egg hunt at the Lazbuddie School.

TCFA supports private property legislation

Cattle feeders throughout Cattle Feeding Country of Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico have thrown their support behind legislation designed to help private property owners protect the environment. And they traveled to Washington, D.C. to express their views first-hand to their elected representatives.

"Officers, the Executive Committee and staff of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association (TCFA) were in Washington, D.C. April 5-8 to participate in the spring Board Meeting of the National Cattlemen's Association and to share their legislative concerns with the congressional delegation from Cattle Feeding Country," said TCFA President Ron Davenport. "TCFA has long felt that action from the grassroots is the most effective way to participate in the political process, and we're making sure we talk to as many of our senators and representatives as possible, plus many government agencies, during our short stay in Washington."

Among the bills in the U.S. Congress that TCFA supports is the Omnibus Regulatory Overhaul Act of 1995, according to Davenport. "This important legislation provides compensation to property owners when government action reduces property values by 20% and requires federal agencies to conduct a regulatory impact analysis before proposing regulations which have an annual impact on the economy of $50 million or more," Davenport said.

Upward bound prepares students for college

PORTALES - Upward Bound means college-bound for underprivileged students. The Upward Bound program at Eastern, under the direction of JoAnn Gibson, prepares high school freshmen to graduating seniors for the college experience academically and personally.

Three programs are run through Eastern: the Academic Year Program where freshmen through juniors take weekend classes concurrent with the regular school year; the Summer component consisting of an intensive six-week residence program of classes, counseling and recreational events; and a post-high school Bridge Program which gives students all the benefits in tutoring and counseling of the Upward Bound Programs while they attend a summer semester of college.
