L.C. Jasper to Receive Hobbs Knight of Road Award

L. C. Jasper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milt Jasper, will receive a Hobbs Knight of the Road highway courtesy award at the Silvertown Lions Club meeting, Thursday night, January 16. Jasper, a truck operator for J. C. Jones, will be recognized by the award for his courteous and quick action at the scene of an accident at one Dallas' busiest traffic intersections.

When it became apparent that a long delay in removing the wrecked vehicles would cause a traffic tie-up, Jasper volunteered to use his truck-trailer in clearing the wreckage from the middle of the intersection.

Investigating officers at the scene had been advised that it would be 30 to 40 minutes before a city wrecker could remove the two automobiles and Jasper's quick action cleared the situation almost immediately.

The Hobbs Knight of the Road Award is set up to recognize drivers for their courtesy and thoughtfulness along the streets and highways of Texas. Captain James L. Miller, License and Weight Function of the Texas Department of Public Safety in Lubbock, will present the gift award, billfold card and parchment citation to Jasper at the Lions meeting. Company's Unique Program Sending Many Kids to Camp

NEW YORK—Many underprivileged children went to camp this summer as a result of a unique program instituted by a Pennsylvania manufacturing company.

The company, the Niagara Therapy Corporation of Adamsville, Pa., recruited its sales force of more than 1,000 distributors, dealers and salesman behind the unusual campaign which it termed "Operation Holiday."

Owen K. Murphy, president of the company, said that each of his dealer and distributor organizations were asked to sponsor at least one or more children in their community for camp.

In describing the plan, Murphy said that each dealer organization set up a Crown Pin Club made up of local salesmen who have done outstanding sales jobs. The primary function of each club is to aid underprivileged children. Each member of the club makes a weekly contribution towards the maintenance of the organization. "Many of our sales personnel have made the club their principal avocation," Murphy said.

"Not only do they finance the youngsters to camp, but they also visit, write, and send them gift parcels," he added. "For many of our people it's like going to camp themselves."

Completely subsidized by its members, each club holds regular meetings to consider and map plans for aiding the underprivileged children of the community. The organizations cooperate closely with local welfare agencies and civic organizations in placing the youngsters in camp.
