National Red Cross Releases Report on Mrs. Lillie Thompson

Louis 8, Mo.—The courage-struggle of a Silverton, Texas, wife to recover from injuries sustained by a tornado which struck her home on May 16 last year is inspiration to her family and neighbors, and to the Red Cross workers who are bringing her what sympathetic neighbors can...

Lillie Thompson was critically injured by the tornado, which injured her husband, Luke, their daughter, LaJuna. She taken to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo with timber impaled in her left thigh and abdomen, and her right arm lacerated and broken, and remained there until June 23, 1957. At this time, Mrs. Thompson had no dental or medical insurance and her finances were severely depleted to meet damages inflicted by the tornado, the Red Cross repaying all her medical expenses including the cost of private nursing care. Two points of infection transused during surgery were replaced by Red Cross through the Texas Regional Blood Bank at Waco.

This was the beginning of a road back for Mrs. Thompson. At the same time, two other members of the family were hospitalized with tornado injuries. Only to escape the twister, the demolished Thompson home with all its contents and the equipment of Mrs. Thompson's service station, was a who was away in Army service.

Fourteen-year-old LaJuna was taken to Swisher County Hospital with brain concussion and severely mutilated left hand. Two days later she was transferred to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo where she remained until June 22, her recovery delayed by onset of gas gangrene in the leg.

LOCAL LADIES ATTEND BWC MEETING IN LOCKNEY

The Floyd Associational BWC met with the Lockney Church Monday evening. After the salad supper the group enjoyed an inspirational program. Mrs. Amelia Morton Bishop, of Plainview, was guest speaker for the evening.

Those attending from Silverton were: Mesdames Glenn Lindsey, Don Smith, Grady Wimberly, Alvin Redin, A. D. Arnold, Roy S. Brown, Jim Clemmer, Bud McMinn, Ray C. Bomar and J. E. Patton.

Rev. and Mrs. James P. Patterson were in Wellington on Thursday of last week.

again. This time, no operation was performed but when she went home it was with orders to spend six hours each day with her injured leg in traction. After a few pain-filled days at home, Mrs. Thompson was taken again to the hospital. On March 2, the local Red Cross volunteer who is visiting the family regularly and approving all bills for payment, wrote to the disaster casework supervisor at the Midwestern Area headquarters of the American Red Cross in St. Louis: "She is back in the hospital and we do not know when we will bring her home."

Pain and shock were not the only injuries to the family who, like other victims of the tornado, lost most of their possessions. The Thompson family returned from hospitals to a rented house, for which the Red Cross made the first month's payment since Mr. Thompson was unable to work during his brief convalescence. His parents moved in to help until Mrs. Thompson was well enough to manage the household.

The Red Cross provided essential household furnishings at a cost of $1,264.00, as well as occupational supplies and equipment costing $729.83, needed by Mr. Thompson to resume operation of his service station. In September, the Thompson's son was discharged from the Army and returned home to help his father.

By the end of February this year, Red Cross payments for the medical expenses of the family totalled $4,194.55, not including Mrs. Thompson's current hospital expenses. The total cost of Red Cross help for the Thompsons, a free gift from the American people through their contributions every March, has now reached $6,243.82. It represents the sympathy of millions of Americans for their neighbors in need.

Richard F. (Frank) Stovall, Jr. Makes Announcement

In announcing my candidacy for State Representative for the 89th District, I do so with full realization of the many problems that will confront the next Legislature. Though I do not claim to know the answer to all of these problems, I do believe that I understand the connection between the needs and welfare of the people of the 89th District and the duties and responsibilities of the office.

If Frank Stovall is to be your Representative, you are entitled to know where he stands. First of all, Frank Stovall stands for the people of the 89th District. Secondly, he believes that it is time that we stop giving lip service to economy in government and start practicing economy.

Crankcase Crisis!

It seems this nice old lady drove into a Phillips 66 Station to fill up with Filite-Fuel. When the attendant checked the dipstick, he found she had only about a quart of oil left in her car. When he pointed this out, she replied: "Fine . . . as soon as I use that up, I'll put in some more!"

Of course the Phillips Dealer explained that she needed five quarts of oil for adequate lubrication!

Now that spring is here, it's time to think about the oil in your crankcase. If you are still using "winter grade" oil, it's time to change it. But why use two, when one will do? Better switch to Phillips 66 Trop-Artic* which gives you the effects of 10w, 20 and 30 grade oils. Compared to old-fashioned oils Trop-Artic Motor Oil can actually double engine life. Drive in today for your spring change-over. *A trademark

Superstitions Have Lingered on through Centuries

CHICAGO — Throughout history man has been prone to believe strange things about the eyes and the power of these superstitions linger today, in spite of all that radio, television, and the press are doing to spread scientific knowledge.

Stories of the evil eye are scattered through the folk-lore of most primitive peoples. Polish folk-lore tells us about a Slav who was sure he had it and blinded himself to protect his children. Sometimes the nations have been so convinced of the power of the evil eye that laws have been passed to prevent the injury of crops by deadly spells.

The Neapolitans have always feared the evil eye, and even today they believe in it more strongly than any other group of people. They think only men can be bewitched with it. In modern Egypt, a child is sickly-looking, the mother blames it on evil eye influence. In India the superstition is universal, and in Turkey and Arabia horses and camels are believed to be subject to the evil eye.

During the twelfth century the ancestor of this dire power was visualized as a wizened old woman with a squint or one who had double pupils. Grimm's Fairy Tales tell you can recognize a witch because if you look her in the eye you can see your image upside down due to the evil characteristics of her eyes.

Employment Picture Underwent Changes In Recent Years

NEW YORK — The structure of employment in manufacturing has been undergoing a significant change in recent years as between production and nonproduction workers, according to data compiled by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The figures show that the rise in manufacturing employment in the period since the end of World War II has been dominated by the non-production classification, embracing executives through research personnel to clerical staffs. Of the 1.6 million persons added to manufacturing payrolls between 1945 and 1956, 1.3 million, or four out of every five, have been in the non-production group.

As a result, the number of non-production workers rose to a record high of more than 3.7 million last year. This was the equivalent of 22 per cent of all persons employed in manufacturing, a proportion seldom approximated in the past. The number of production workers came to 13.2 million in 1956, and has fluctuated in a comparatively narrow range in recent years.

This shift in the composition of jobs in manufacturing is in line with the long-term trend of employment throughout the economy, with the white-collar worker catching up with and passing the blue collar classification as the biggest single group in the working population.

Witchcraft Still Has a Place in This Modern World

LOS ANGELES — Burn witches, if you will, but you won't kill witchcraft. It's still alive and cackling, brewing deeds of dark evil, even in California's bright sunshine.

Dr. Wayland Hand, professor of German and folklore at the University of California, Los Angeles, said that superstition and witchcraft are among the forms of folklore which are still very much alive.

He defined witchcraft as a belief in and a fear of supernatural creatures and forces with power to do evil and to cause physical harm. These creatures are often thought to be in league with the Devil himself.

"Witchcraft is among the oldest forms of folklore and is still known in its primitive forms all over the world," Dr. Hand said.

From his extensive files, which he sometimes plans to convert into a published Dictionary of American Popular Beliefs and Superstitions, and from Western Folklore, published by the University of California Press, he drew a few examples of present-day witchcraft:

A woman in the San Jose area was jailed earlier this year for offering to cure a child's deafness with dirt stolen from a cemetery on nine consecutive midnights. She was arrested while accepting a down payment from the child's parents.

Mrs. V. R. Gardner, of Tulia, and son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Berlin Gardner and Danny, of Amarillo, visited Mrs. R. M. Hill Sunday afternoon. Mesdames V. R. Gardner and Hill are sisters-in-law.

Doodle Zachry spent last Thursday and Friday in Henrietta with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Zachry. He also attended to business while there.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Stapp, Jr., of Fort Hood, are the parents of a baby son, Robert Lee Strapp III, born there on March 19; weight 7 pounds, 6 ounces. Mr. and Mrs. R. N. McDaniel, Sr., of Plainview, and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Stapp, Sr., of Oklahoma, are the grandparents. Her mother, Mrs. R. N. McDaniel, Sr., of Plainview, is spending a few days at Fort Hood with Linda Beth and family.

Search Needed New Cosmetics

CHICAGO — As cosmetics leave a realm of luxury and become of necessity, more and more research into the fundamental properties of the skin also becomes necessary, according to a Federal and Drug Administration official.

Fortunately, carefully conducted research into the fundamental principles of skin proper and mechanisms and the action of various chemicals and on skin has "not kept pace" with the many new products and claims made on their behalf.

Main unobjectionable claims have been advanced for the effectiveness of certain preparations in reducing skin dryness and hiding blemishes and wrinkles.

However, in recent years, there has been to advertise such claims as being more than just cosmetics — that they serve as foods, rejuvenators or tonics. "Contour creams" for bust support or bust reducing, "eradicators," and "deep cleaners."

At present, however, no conclusive evidence has been offered in support of many of these claims," he said.

Sun Glare Can Cause Accidents

URBANA, Ill. — Sometimes the sun can be an enemy. This is particularly true in the summer months when the sun's glare can be a decided safety threat to drivers, says O. L. Hogsett, extension safety specialist at the University of Illinois.

Glare from the sun, or reflections from cars and pavement, combined with high speed will produce numerous accidents during the coming vacation season.

Many other accidents will result from "visual fatigue" caused by the strain of looking against sun glare.

The new styling of cars, with greater glass area, lavish chrome trims and light-reflecting colors, has greatly increased the hazard from glare. Another factor is the popularity of convertibles and sport cars, whose drivers have little protection from the sun.

Here are Hogsett's suggestions for reducing glare and decreasing danger:

Use a visor to protect your eyes from overhead glare.

Avoid driving at sunrise and sunset, when the rays of the sun hit directly into the windshield.

Wise Credit Use Called a 'Thrift'

CHICAGO — Intelligent use of installment buying has been called an actual thrift.

"The dynamic thrift of the American people has been a major factor in keeping our economy at its present high level," says Richard E. Meier, chairman of the executive committee of the American Finance Conference, national association of independent sales finance companies.

"With the intelligent use of installment buying," Meier declares, "American consumers have raised their standard of living, increased their personal capital assets, and kept national employment at a record peak fulfilling the demand for new products."

Meier emphasized that installment buying is a form of budgeted saving that permits families to own cars, homes and appliances they need and want. People are not "going into debt," he said, but are acquiring capital assets out of current income. They are accumulating possessions with substantial cash value while holding on to their cash reserves for future emergencies.

Drug May Help Radiation Cases

LOS ANGELES — Fatalities from radiation exposure may be significantly reduced by pre-administration of a new experimental drug, according to research at the University of California, Los Angeles.

The research, which has been reported by Dr. Thomas Haley, Dr. R. Veomett, and J. J. O'Connell of the Atomic Energy Commission, has been concerned with the complex chemical name of Quinoxaline 1,4-dioxide.

Irradiated mice suffered 100 per cent mortality at 16 days. Mice which received injections of the new drug prior to irradiation had 5 per cent mortality rate 16 days. Postirradiation treatment with the drug reduced the mortality rate only slightly.

Of the beneficial effects of the drug was related to reduction of bacterial infection, which multiply following radiation inducing acute bacteremia. This is a major cause of following radiation injury.

Prenatal Mortality Continues a Problem

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Prenatal mortality—death of infants before or soon after birth—continues to be a major medical problem, according to a recent study. In recent years prenatal deaths have averaged more than 135,000 a year in the United States. Approximately half of these are stillbirths, and the remaining half are babies dying within one week of birth.

Some progress has been made in reducing the prenatal mortality rate—it fell about one-third between 1940 and 1954—but the improvement has lagged far behind that for childbirth mortality among mothers, which decreased 86 per cent in the same period.

The major factors contributing to the death toll in the prenatal period, the study shows, are lack of early and adequate prenatal care; twin and other plural births; puerperal toxemia; chronic and infectious diseases in the mother; and the use of inadequately trained midwives, a practice which is still fairly common in some sections of the country. Cesarean births, while quite safe for the mother, are still attended with high risk to the infant.

Water Supply May Be Critical in Future

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — The tremendous growth of population, agriculture and industry in recent years has caused the spectre of a water shortage to plague government and industrial leaders.

Dr. Wakefield Dort, Jr., assistant professor of geology at the Pennsylvania State University, says the greatest possible use must be made of existing water supplies, new sources must be located, and basic research concerning water problems encouraged if serious water shortages are to be avoided.

Even Pennsylvania, a State which has a fairly good rainfall average, will face serious trouble if steps are not taken soon, according to the Penn State geologist.

"In most parts of the State there are supplies of surface and subsurface water sufficient to satisfy local demands," Dort says. "However, in some areas, especially centers of recent population increases and the sites of rapid industrial expansion, supplies of chemically and biologically pure water are far from adequate."

Year-Old Proves Bouncin' Baby

PHILADELPHIA — One-year-old little Acosta likes to climb. One night her parents, Anne and Patricia Acosta, were asleep and forgot to remove a bed from a window of the second floor apartment. Next morning Anne Michele was found hanging under the window.

She had a few bumps and cuts, but otherwise was unharmed. Best was able to figure out how she had climbed upon the window and tumbled through the window to the street below.

Heart Diseases Hurt American Industry

CHICAGO — Heart diseases rob business and industry of trained men during their most productive years. They deplete manpower of skilled employees and are responsible for a tremendous labor turnover and time loss.

Studies have indicated that these diseases are far more costly than strikes from a standpoint of lost productivity and are about 40 times as costly as on-the-job accidents.

Cockroach Is Lending Science Helping Hand

LOS ANGELES — At last they've found a use for the pesky cockroach.

Make him radioactive, and he becomes a useful tool in the quest for more effective insecticides and in furthering the knowledge of heredity chemistry.

Researchers at the University of California are using radioactive carbon to trace pathways of life chemistry in the cockroach. In general they are seeking the ways in which these pathways differ in insects and higher animals, including humans.

Thus the lowly cockroach may contribute to the doom of his own kind as well as other troublesome insects to the benefit of mankind.

Vast Research Attack to Probe Theory That Viruses May Cause Human Cancer

Minute particles so small that the most powerful microscope can scarcely reveal them may hold the secret of cancer, according to new clues in the greatest research attack ever mounted against a disease.

Scientists are actively interested in viruses as a cause of cancer today. This year larger sums of money than ever before will be spent to probe this theory, according to the American Cancer Society.

The ACS so far this year has awarded 35 grants totalling more than $1,000,000 for this one aspect of the cancer research problem. This is almost ten per cent of the total the ACS will devote to research this year.

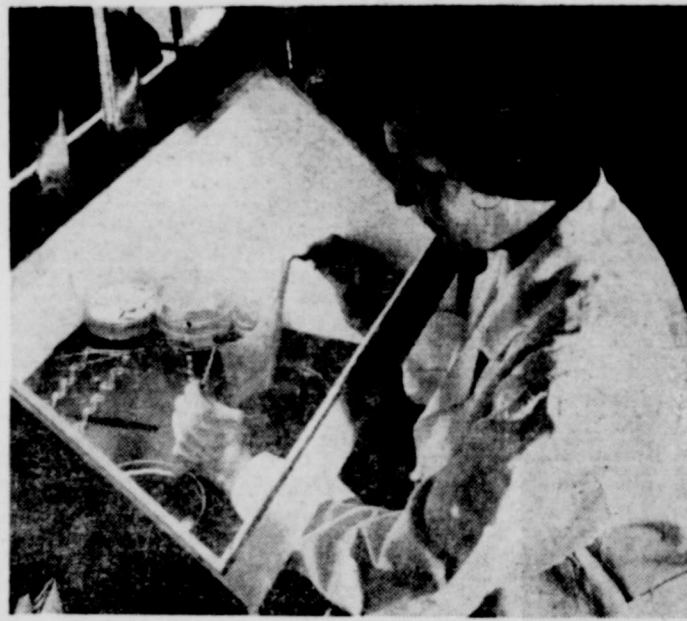

Already some good clues are turning up that may indicate viruses as human cancer causes. For years it has been known that some forms of cancer are caused by viruses in chickens, rabbits and mice.

Mice Play A Part

Now a mid-western scientist has been able to induce leukemia, a form of blood cancer, in mice by injecting a substance filtered out from the brain tissue of persons who died of leukemia. Another investigator has obtained a virus-like substance from a strain of mice which spontaneously develop leukemia and has induced the disease with it in a non-susceptible breed of mice.

Minute particles which resemble a virus have been observed under the electron microscope by eastern scientists. They were obtained from kidney cancer cells of frogs. Further work is expected to determine whether these particles are viruses.

A large part of the research effort is going toward learning how a virus may indeed start cancer. It begins to appear that viruses take over the role of chemicals controlling cell growth and if this turns out to be so, there remains the possibility that factors other than viruses also may disrupt this machinery.

VIRUS TESTING—A skilled technician in one of the ACS-supported laboratories prepares a membrane of living human cells which are used for virus studies. Scientists are testing to find out if some viruses can cause growth abnormalities in the cells which could lead to cancer.

Lung Cancer Is Studied

Viruses as a cause of lung cancer in man are being investigated. A west coast scientist is exploring the possibility that repeated respiratory virus infections induced in mice eventually will cause cancer. In humans, it has been observed that lung cancer frequently is first detected after an onslaught of a bronchial infection which cannot be attributed to the usual cold, flu or grippie.

Viruses too may play a dual role—both villain and hero. There have been classic cases of cancer halted or slowed down when the patient was stricken by a virus-caused disease. Now a mid-west scientist has found that human cancer cells injected into rats will grow but, when mixed with a type of virus, no cancer growth occurs. Transplanted tumors, injected with this same virus, decrease for a time as much as 50 per cent.

Will the cancer problem finally be solved because a specific vaccine is developed to prevent the disease? Or because a chemical will be found that will halt cancer virus growth? No one is yet willing to go this far but the first concerted push to find out is now underway.

MOLECULE MODELS—A scientist who is probing the causes of cancer has fashioned models of basic molecules of nucleic acids which are believed to be the growth controlling substances in living cells. These substances, known as DNA and RNA also occur in viruses which are being studied for their possible role as a cause of cancer.

FARM HOUSING PROGRAM EXPLAINED

An expanded farm housing loan program, designed to speed up farm building construction improvement as well as act as an additional anti-recession measure, was announced today by Walter T. McKay, Farmers Home Administration State Director, according to Ralph E. Griffiths the agency's local County Supervisor.

Now an owner of a farm in agricultural production and on which the operator plans to produce at least $400 worth of farm commodities for sale or home use may qualify for the 4 percent long-term housing loan provided that he meets other standard eligibility requirements.

Formerly an eligible applicant had to own a farm that produced a more substantial part of the operator's annual cash income.

Loans may be made to build, improve, or repair farm houses or other essential farm buildings, and to provide water for farmstead and household use. Mr. Griffiths said that in addition to financing major construction, the loan funds can help meet other needs for farm and farm home modernization such as adding bathrooms, utility rooms, better kitchens, and many other improvements to the home as well as to farm service buildings. While tenants and farm laborers are not eligible, the owner may borrow to do the construction work, or make improvements for them.

The loans made to farm owners who need credit to finance building improvements or repairs, but find that adequate credit is not available through banks or other regular credit channels. The interest rate is 4 percent and loans may be amortized over periods up to 33 years.

Eligibility for loan assistance is determined by the three-member County Farmers Home Administration committee, and applications are now being accepted in FHA county offices.
