Briscoe County Agent Robert Ledbetter reported that there was still danger from grasshoppers eating the crops of the county. With their control in mind the following questions and answers are related below:

Question: What can I do about the many hoppers that are present?
 Answer: They should be sprayed with all haste and should be repeated as long as there are any grasshoppers to any extent.

Question: What should I use, how, and how much?
 Answer: Deildrin, Aldrin, Toxaphene, Heptachlor or Chlordane will kill grasshoppers. Use either one pint of Deildrin, 1½ pints Aldrin, 2 pints of Toxaphene or 1½ pints of Heptachlor per acre. Use two tablespoons of chlordane, deildrin or heptachlor per gallon of water in hand sprayers.

Question: Can I kill grasshoppers with these materials; I have heard that some sprays haven't done the job?
 Answer: The only reason that grasshoppers can't be killed is either the spray application was a poor job or the sprayer wasn't calibrated right and not enough poison was applied. Grasshoppers are easily killed when they are small if the material is put out right. High winds are often the culprit. Spraying should not be done in winds over 15 miles per hour. Dosage in aerial spraying should be increased 50 per cent.

Question: Will there be any kind of Government Program available?
 Answer: More than likely not. We cannot comply under the migratory grasshopper spraying program of road sides and right of ways because the grasshopper found here is not the migratory hopper. There has not been much demand for the range program. This program requires 20,000 acres in a block. This was sprayed two years ago and there has been little or no demand for this program. The rancher pays two-thirds of the cost here.

Question: Are baits effective? We used to use them in the late thirties.
 Answer: Baits are fairly effective but not nearly as good as spray applications of the listed, above insecticides. The hydrocarbon insecticides were not available in the thirties. They have outdated baits just like the modern farm tractor has the team of horses. Baits are recommended for the control of jumbo hoppers in place of the sprays.

Question: When can I tell whether I have received good kills?
 Answer: Contact kills, where the spray hits the hopper will occur right away, or within an hour or two. The major kill will be from eating poisoned plants. These will occur in three or four days. Do not expect a big kill the first day or two.

Question: Is there danger of these insecticides?
 Answer: There certainly is. They should be kept away from children and should be handled with rubber gloves.

Question: What about livestock and poultry where spray has been applied?
 Answer: The low dosages used are not usually harmful to livestock. Pastures may be sprayed without danger. The only precaution is not to ship any of the livestock into trade channels for thirty days. This is a must.

Question: With all this in mind, what should I do?
 Answer: If hoppers are present, spray all turnrows, fence rows, and pasture surrounding crop land as soon as possible. Delay may mean disaster.

Mr. and Mrs. Warner Boedker visited his father, Leo Boedker, of Plainview, in the Veterans hospital in Amarillo on Sunday.

Of Interest to Those Working Under Social Security Rule

Persons who are severely disabled and have worked under social security for a certain length of time now have protection under the social security law. John R. Sanderson, manager of the Amarillo office stated that disabled workers under 50 years of age may have their social security records frozen to protect their future benefits. A disabled worker who is age 50 or over may be paid monthly disability insurance benefits.

Disability benefits, however, will be reduced by the amount of any workmen's compensation payments or any other Federal disability benefit except payments made to veterans for service connected disabilities. For example, Sanderson explained if a disabled person became entitled to a disability benefit of $80 under the social security law and he was receiving $60 a month from workmen's compensation it would reduce the amount of his social security disability benefit so that he would receive only $20 from social security.

Sanderson at the same time pointed out that disability payments from private agencies do not reduce or affect the amount of the disability benefit. The reduction is made only for workmen's compensation payments and for a Federal disability benefit other than compensation paid by the Veterans Administration for service connected disabilities.

In any eligible person has failed to file an application to establish a period of disability, he should do so at once. All applications filed before July 1, 1958, will be effective to freeze a workers social security record as of the beginning of his disability period. Applications filed after June 30, 1958, may not be retroactive more than a year. Workers who have been severely disabled for a long time and who do not file before July 1, 1958, may lose their rights to have their social security record frozen and to receive disability insurance benefits.

To avoid any loss Sanderson advised persons severely disabled to contact their nearest social security district office as soon as possible. "Delay" he said "may result in loss of some or all future

HEALTH, FOOD AND BUDGETS

Omaha, Neb. — People who spend more than the average amount of their family budget for food aren't necessarily the best fed. Even at the top income levels there are many families whose diet is nutritionally inadequate.

These comments were included in an address by Dr. Willa Vaughn Tinsley, Dean of the School of Home Economics, Texas Technological College, Lubbock, at the recent meeting here of the Food and Nutrition Section of the Nebraska Home Economics and Dietetics state convention. She added that "people in all income groups need help in improving food habits."

"Although the scene of adolescence may be unrelated to nutrition, a good all-around diet will help to maintain a healthy condition of the skin, and together with cleanliness, may help to combat it," Dr. Tinsley said.

She added that the skin of a well-nourished person is usually smooth, slightly moist and tinged with pink. The skin of a poorly nourished person is likely to be dull and lifeless.

"It is important to protect each child from embarrassment over any shortcomings which study of his dietary habits may reveal. Food practices are personal and, as such, merit respect and confidential treatment," she declared.

"Good eating habits are important at all age levels... Nutrition is a lifetime business... it is an endless cycle—the child today is the adult and parent tomorrow—the problems of the years often having onset in earlier years and we being what we are because of our yesterday."

Most children like sweets, Dr. Tinsley said. That is all right, she said, but "we should get children to eat what they need, and then foods they consume which are superfluous to their needs will not loom in importance."

"It is important to recognize the good points in each child's food habits, the practices which should be encouraged to maintain as sort of bulwark against the realizations that there are other practices (most of them omissions) that need changing."

"Bread and cereals are a good start because this group of food is likely to measure up well... and the meat group might come next as it is about as likely to measure up well against recommendations—in all but extremely low economic circumstances."

Dean Tinsley pointed out that some nutrition teachers state pupils whose breakfasts consisted of beans, and that some families prefer their cereal food for supper.

"Nutritive value," she said, "is not dependent upon the time of the day."

"I cook complete broiler meals for my family thanks to my Electric Range!"

Broiler Recipe...

Here's the recipe Mrs. Wadley used when these pictures were taken. It's a complete, delicious broiler meal - one you'll want to try.

Steaks	2 cans Mexican Tomatoes
2 cans asparagus	1 can pimiento
	Grated Cheese

Drain liquid from cans of vegetables and arrange in bottom of the broiler pan. Place asparagus down center of pan. Place pimiento strips down the center of asparagus. Arrange 1 can of Mexican on each side of asparagus. Season vegetables with salt and pepper.

Wipe steaks with damp cloth, score fat around edges to prevent curling. Place on rack of cold broiler pan, season, and place under broiler unit of electric range so the top of the steak is four or five inches from the broiler unit.

Turn oven control to Broil. Leave oven door ajar. Cook on one side until brown (about 12 minutes). Turn and brown other side (about 10 minutes). Cut tomatoes in halves and put grated cheese on top. Arrange on broiler rack just before steaks are done.

says Mrs. Gary Wadley,
GUYMON, OKLAHOMA

That's the nice thing about an electric range - you can cook complete meals - at one time. There are several ways, too. You may cook complete deep well meals, complete oven meals, complete surface unit meals or, as Mrs. Wadley favors, complete broiler meals. All come out tasty, tempting and nutritious.

Free... Two Outdoor Bug Lamps!!!
