

Cuban Refugee Addresses Panhandle Press Meeting

THIS AERIAL PHOTOGRAPH shows a silo-type launching site similar to the Air Force Atlas ICBM launcher which was toured by members attending the Panhandle Press Association convention in Quanah on November 4. In the center of the construction area can be seen the two huge concrete doors standing open over the silo. These two doors weigh approximately one million pounds. The quartz buildings are constructed at the sites to house equipment and supplies. Cameras were not allowed among the visitors to the site and this is the nearest to the actual site which could be obtained.

Sr. Ruben Machado, a Baptist minister in Havana for seven years, who escaped from Communist Cuba only last August, addressed the Fall meeting of the Panhandle Press Association which convened in Quanah Saturday, November 4.

"I know freedom better than you do," he told the group in halting English most of which he has learned in the three months he has been in the United States. "You may not be able to see this, but no one can truly know freedom until it is lost," he added.

He described Cuba under Batista and under Castro. The big difference between Batista and Castro, he related, was that Batista was a Cuban. Many people did not think that Castro was a Communist when he came into power, but he had been taken to Russia many years ago and schooled in Communism. He did not show his Communist tendencies until after he was in power, and then he let us know by seizing everything into his power.

Castro, he continued, is a big, dirty man who wears dirty clothing with a horrible smell about him. He never cleans up and he never dresses up. He is like a mad-dog—with brains, but brains that know nothing but Communism.

We used to have freedom in Cuba, he continued. We were free to move from place to place as we chose; we could work where we pleased; we could go to school as we pleased. But no more is Cuba this way. We did not know what was happening in our country until it was too late. Do you know what is happening in your country? How many Communists are in your government? How many Communists are in this room?

Sr. Machado was head of the Baptist Student Union at the University of Havana when all the changes began to take place. When the Communists became aware that the students were learning at the University, Russian and Czech professors were brought in and all the instructors were replaced. If it were not bad enough to have Russian-speaking professors and Spanish-speaking students, they further complicated the situation by replacing all the Spanish textbooks with books printed in English. Can you imagine the confusion?

Sr. Machado continued his work with the Baptist Student Union, preaching the difference between Christianity and Communism to the students. Before too long, however, the Communists discovered him, and soon he was forced to resign. He was also preaching at a Baptist Church in another city near Havana. He decided to move from Havana, in order to be nearer his congregation. But Communist Committees had been placed in each block of the city, and permission had to be secured from the Committee before he could move his possessions away. He had his house, had paid for it, had the truck in which to move, but could not get permission.

He tried all during 1960 to move, and for a whole year was unable to do so. Continuing his preaching caused him to be in an increasingly bad position with the Communists, who now followed him everywhere he went, wired his phone and sat in his congregation. Things became increasingly worse. Instead of being able to go to the market and buy groceries with the money they had, he and all other citizens were given a card with a number on it. They were told that the card could be exchanged at the market once a week for half a pound of meat each. But when they arrived at the market, there would be only half enough meat, and only half would get their one-half pound each. The next week the same thing would happen again, and often the same ones who had received meat before would get it again, and others would go into their second week without. This was not only the procedure with meat, but also with rice, bread, potatoes, and all the other foodstuffs in their diet.

As the Communists tightened their control over Cuba, fewer and fewer of Sr. Machado's congregation were present for services. The factories and businesses, all of which were now under government control, required the men and women to work increasingly long hours for "freedom" and for the "revolution" and they were permitted no free time in which to worship. In this way they cut them off from the church, for if they did follow orders in the factories, their work and hence their meager food supply would be cut off. And they were unable to secure another job because all were government controlled, and a recommendation and permission had to be secured to change from one job to another.

Friends advised Sr. Machado to leave Cuba, for they feared he was soon to be arrested and executed. Day after day he prayed that God would help him make a decision. He did not fear to die for Christ, but he wanted God's guidance. Finally, he decided that nothing would be gained by his death, and he felt if he could live he could continue to serve his Master. So he began going daily to the airport in an attempt to fly out of Cuba. Every day thousands crowded the terminal, each also hoping to leave.

Finally, he was brought into contact with another minister who told him he could take a ferry from Cuba to Key West, Florida, and safety. Finally, he decided to do so, but there was such a little bit of room on the ten passenger ferry (which was already loaded with more than sixty) that his wife was unable to board.

All Around the Town
by Mary Ann Sarchet

We were fortunate last Saturday to be included among a group of newspaper men and women from the Panhandle of Texas who were taken on a guided tour of one of the twelve Atlas ICBM underground launching sites which circle the Altus, Oklahoma, Air Force Base. The site we visited was Number Seven, near Lawton, Oklahoma. We were especially interested in this tour, first, because very few are allowed to do so, and secondly, because it is expected that a number of these missile launching sites will be constructed in our immediate area.

Our area is a logical location for the missile sites due to our position in relation to both the Amarillo and Lubbock Air Force Bases. The location of the helium plant in Amarillo makes the security of that area even more vital. Preliminary work has been going on in this area, we understand. However, this preliminary work may take two years or longer to complete.

On the assumption that our readers may also be interested in these strategic bases, I will endeavor to present a few facts that we learned about the missile site launching sites.

The sites are being constructed for the U. S. Air Force and will be under the operational jurisdiction of the Strategic Air Command when completed and accepted by the Air Force.

Integrating contractor for the construction of the sites is General Dynamics Astronautics, a division of General Dynamics Corporation, formerly known as Convair, which builds the Atlas missiles. Some sixty-five separate contractors will be used in the Oklahoma project.

The silo installation is so called because it is constructed vertically underground for a maximum protection. The silo launcher is 174 feet deep and 52 feet in diameter. Its cylindrical wall of concrete and steel varies between nine and three feet in thickness. Within the silo is an octagonal structural steel crib divided into eight levels and suspended by a system of huge mechanical springs. Mounted within the crib are many systems and mechanisms necessary to launch the missile.

Entrance is through a subway-type entrance which leads down into the Launch Control Center—an underground room connected to the silo launcher by a tunnel. The entrance tunnel is guarded by a television eye which permits base personnel to see who is entering and inspect their credentials before allowing them to enter. An efficiency apartment is contained

In this unit which is thirty feet underground. Huge concrete and steel doors separate the tunnel and personnel quarters from the silo so that they are completely safe from a direct atomic hit or any accident inside the silo. An intricate safety system warns base personnel if the slightest thing goes wrong inside the silo. An escape hatch is provided.

Care has been taken to insure that the missile will not be fired by accident, nor will a homicidal maniac fire it, because of a system similar to that used when you visit your safety deposit box. Two keys are required.

Instruments are now being installed in the launch control room through which we were taken. Part of the nerve center impressed me as looking very much like the inside of a telephone office, with many brightly colored wires linked in many mysterious combinations.

After we entered the silo, the floor on which we walked, similar to the mesh covering on a floor furnace, revealed the installation many feet below. There is quite a lot of danger in such a place for the workmen, but only three lives have been lost on the Oklahoma project. In relation to the huge number of man hours (over a year in all) their safety record is an amazing 8 to date.

The concrete silo is reinforced with steel approximately the size of a man's wrist and the perpendicular and horizontal supports are similar to the wire which reinforces an ordinary concrete drive.

We (the ladies) rode down in the elevator while some of our husbands climbed down a tiny spiral stairway some 150 feet into the silo, noting the equipment and installation on the trip. Cleanliness is such a factor in keeping the fuel and liquid oxygen, that huge vacuum-bottle type tanks made of stainless steel are found in the seventh level of the silo. Workmen putting together the fuel tanks garb themselves in gauze masks, white clothes and gloves and resemble doctors coming into surgery.

I talked with a man from General Dynamics Astronautics who sat on my right during a luncheon and he explained many things about the silo which were very interesting to me. The missiles will be periodically taken out of the silo, replaced with another missile and taken to be checked out in every minute detail. The importance of a perfect firing is so acute that every precaution against its failure to fire will be taken at regular intervals. A missile will always be in the silo ready to be fired. The installation is a one-shot type thing. He explained that it would only take eight or ten days to reload and prepare for another shot, but in the case of an attack, that would be too long.

The cost of these dozen missile sites to date has been $44 million. Another $45 million will be required to complete them. Broken down, each missile silo costs us about $7 1/2 million. Five men will man the silo. One SAC bomber ready for the air costs us about $8 million, and requires a crew of about five men. It can be seen that the investment is very nearly the same.

The men from General Dynamics Astronautics do not seem to think it will ever be necessary to fire any of these missiles. They hope very much that they will never be needed. This is a part of our military preparedness, and its importance cannot be overlooked.

On the other hand, General Dynamics men talk very positively of putting a man on the moon. They do not speak in terms of "if" we place a man on the moon, but "when" the man reaches the moon. In some very interesting color slide pictures we viewed before touring the missile base, we were shown approximately the type of vehicle in which our man will ed that she was donating her wedding ring to the cause of the revolution. This, he added, was not uncommon, for often the people were made to sign some paper or another which was sent on to Latin America for propaganda. If the people refused to sign, they faced losing their lives or their jobs and food, which was almost as bad.

Four days after Sr. Machado left Cuba, his wife was crowded onto the ferry and also reached safety. Two days later, the ferry was shut down and no more were able to escape.

ED NOTE: Ruben Machado is now a student at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth. On weekends he preaches to Spanish-speaking people at Quanah, and in other towns. His faith in God and his intense desire to preach are evident, and members of the press were very impressed. The address of this young man can be obtained at the News Office. He told us that he would be happy to speak to a group in Silvertown or another city that is interested. We are hopeful that we may be able to gather an audience for him in this city at some future date.

make his soft landing on the moon, and the type of re-entry vehicle in which they expect him to make his return.

It is not surprising to note that these General Dynamics Astronautics men are young men. By young, I should add, they are men in their thirties and forties, predominately.

Another fact which will be of interest in our area is that when construction begins nearby is that some 100 men are employed in the work during the building of the silo. Right now only 30 men are working at Number Seven base in Oklahoma. Rumors have now and then cropped up that there will be a number of families moving here in the future who will be employed in this work. We have not been able to find out anything about this for sure, but we do know if a base is built in our immediate area there will be a number of families involved, and we are certainly hoping they may choose to live in our city while construction is underway. The only certain thing that we have been able to determine is that much testing and inspecting will be done before actual construction is begun.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Kirk of Arlington are parents of a baby girl, Kelly Leigh, born there Monday, October 30, 1961. Grandparents are Mrs. Jewel Kirk, Amarillo, and Mr. and Mrs. True Burson. Mrs. Una Burson is the great grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. McMurtry and Mrs. Dean Allard attended the funeral of W. C. Young, 90, a pioneer Swisher County farmer, in Tulia Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Shafe Weaver escaped serious injury early this week when the car which she was driving overturned on a country road near her home. Mrs. Weaver reportedly swerved into the ditch to avoid a collision with a pickup which was driven by her husband.

Edwin Davis received a severe head injury Monday afternoon when a rope saving device weighing about 15 pounds fell from a height of about 30 feet and struck his forehead. He was at the time working under a well drilling derrick. He was taken to Tulia where fifteen stitches were required to close the wound. He was later returned to his home.

Mrs. George Edmonds of Happy visited her mother, Mrs. Mary Bragg, Sunday.

SPANISH HALLOWE'EN PARTY LENDS HAND TO CANCER DRIVE

An effort to get a few businessmen and women together for a noon luncheon on Halloween Day exploded into a Spanish Fiesta in the home of Mrs. Watson Douglas recently. Mrs. Douglas had expressed a desire several weeks earlier to host the business people of the city because "Some of them I don't even know, and I want to have them up so I can meet them."

The get-acquainted affair began to grow as she added the names of old friends and schoolmates to her list, and when she was finished some one hundred and fifty had been invited.

In the beginning she had hoped that her campaign would amount to $50 or so for the American Cancer Society, and when it was all finished, the funds amounted to $180, and the affair was pronounced a huge success.

Assisted by her Spanish cooks and a number of friends who helped with the serving, Mrs. Douglas served a plate of tamales, rice, tocas, enchiladas, frijoles, guacamole and a piece of pumpkin pie topped with whipped cream, to her guests. Mrs. Barney Stephens, Mrs. Charles Wayne Mayfield, Mrs. Edwin Crass, Mrs. Truman Stephens, Mrs. Roy Mayfield, Mrs. Rusty Arnold, Mrs. Melvin Yancy, Ralph Roberts and Mrs. Jord Hollingsworth assisted with the hospitalities, making sure that all were made to feel at home.

A trio composed of Mrs. Farris Martin, Mrs. Kenneth Tate and Mrs. Shafe Weaver added atmosphere to the occasion by singing a number of songs with South American flavor, accompanied by Mrs. Bill Edwards. All four señoritas were gaily dressed in Spanish style and had had flowers caught in their hair.

Charles Wayne Mayfield extended a welcome to the group on behalf of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Douglas. W. E. Schott responded

AT THE ENTRANCE to the Douglas home, a Spanish Caballero in a big sombrero greeted the guests and directed them inside. A horrifying real live witch brushed them to the yawning contribution pot. Guests were tricked into treating the pot generously—and with a tribute to Clarice and a few words on the esteem in which she is held by those of the community.

Clarice is known as a person to whom most all look in times of distress and trouble. Recently she was called upon to give assistance when there was a fire and the fire truck had not yet arrived. All these things she takes in her stride, and her tireless efforts to serve this community don't go unnoticed. Her reservation in connection with the dinner was that she was unable to throw open her doors and say "Y'all Come" in true Texas style to everyone in the community.

Perry Whittemore made a short plea for funds for the American Cancer Society after Clarice had demonstrated that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach. A wide-mouthed gold jar was prominently placed for receiving the contributions.

Tiny Mexican fans were place favors, and Clarice laughingly told her guests they were provided in case the chilies were too hot. She later discovered and jovially said that after tasting the sauce she knew her guests made good use of the fans.

A Mexican Halloween scene was made of Mrs. Douglas' big home. Furniture had been moved out and banquet tables covered with orange and black cloths were set up in the dining room, den and big garage. Hugh black styrofoam witches rode their brooms around the walls, where curtains were drawn and the rooms dimly lit by miniature lanterns. In the gigantic Halloween tree, lighted by a glowing-eyed owl, hung black cats chasing trick or treat sacks.

Mrs. Hugh Nance, Nancy and Juannah were weekend guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Strickland and family in Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. Carman Rhode and Rev. and Mrs. Carlos McLeod visited Mrs. Gerald Arnold Sunday afternoon in St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo, where she had been a patient since Friday of last week.

ASCS Office News

Farmers who divert more than the minimum 10 per cent of their acreage to conservation uses under the 1962 wheat stabilization program will not lose wheat acreage history by such action, Milton G. Martin, Chairman, Briscoe County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee has said. His statement was issued in an attempt to clear up any possible misunderstanding of program provisions by farmers.

The Chairman explained that the wheat stabilization program provides that full history credit be given producers on all the acreage they divert under the program. This history credit will apply in the establishment of all future farm, county and State wheat allotments. A similar provision now applies to wheat acreage history on farms retired under the Conservation Reserve and Great Plains program.

The 1962 allotments sent to wheat producers by County ASCS Offices before the recent marketing quota referendum reflected a 10-per cent diversion in wheat acreage—to be subsequently devoted to an approved conservation use, for which payments will be made to offset income loss during the period of adjusting production to needs. Cooperators may divert additional wheat acreage under the program and receive larger payments. Any wheat acreage diverted under the program must be in addition to the normal conserving acreage on the farm.

Farmers in commercial wheat States — including Texas — who comply with the wheat stabilization program will be eligible to receive price support on their 1962 wheat crop as well as payments for the diverted acreage provided an application to participate is filed with the local ASCS office before December 1, 1961.

December 12 is the date set for the referendum on marketing quotas for the 1962 cotton crop, the Briscoe County ASCS Committee reminds cotton growers. At least two-thirds of the upland cotton farmers voting must approve the quotas if they are to be effective. The Committee points out that the national acreage available for distribution to growers for the 1962 upland cotton crop totals from other sources; and be without sufficient resources to provide the necessary housing on his own account. He must also have or be able to obtain sufficient income to meet payments on existing debts, take care of his other expenses, and make the payments on the proposed loan.

RURAL HOUSING —

The local county supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration will review building plans and inspect the housing construction as it progresses in order to make certain that the borrower obtains sound and acceptable construction.

The local county committee of the Farmers Home Administration determines the eligibility of applicants.

Farmers who need to enlarge or develop their farming operations in order to obtain enough income to pay for housing loans may obtain farm enlargement and development loans and farm management help from the Farmers Home Administration.

All loans are secured to the extent necessary to protect the Government's interest. Small improvement loans made in amounts of less than $1,500 with repayments scheduled over periods up to 10 years may be secured by a promissory note. Other loans are secured by mortgages.

More than $400 million has been authorized for rural housing loans over the next four years.

The Housing Act of 1961 also authorizes the Farmers Home Administration to insure loans for housing and related facilities for domestic farm labor. These loans may be made to farm owners, associations of farmers, state and local government units and non-profit associations.

Funds for these insured loans are provided by private investors. The Farmers Home Administration will make and service the loans, and insure their repayment. The total volume of insured loans may not exceed $25 million in any one year.

Further information on rural housing loans may be obtained at the county office of the Farmers Home Administration located on the second floor of the Tullia Bank and Trust Company Building, on Second Street in Tullia, Texas, or on Tuesday morning of each week in the basement of the Courthouse in Silverton, Texas.

CLASS NEWS

By Orlin Grabbe

At the first of this six weeks the students of Mrs. McAlpin's English class interviewed certain people, such as the County Agent, the County Commissioners, Rev. McLeod, Judge Lyon, the editor of the newspaper, and other important officials of the town on Civil Defense. We, the Eighth Grade, express our appreciation for your cooperation and the trouble you went to in helping us.

You never saw such a happy English teacher when she saw one certain boy cleaning out his clambord.

In Arithmetic, Mr. Whitfill who teaches the girls, and Mr. Snell's classes had a contest. No comment on the results.

FIFTH GRADE

By Rick Martin

Our class has been making experiments about soil conservation. We mixed soil and water and waited until most of the soil had settled to the bottom of the jar. Then we took a pan and filled it with dirt and poured water over the dirt. We watched the water after it had run down through the soil. We found that water takes the soil from the ground and deposits the dirt at the mouth of a river.

We are finishing our geography chapter on England. We have had fun studying about New England and making our maps.

Diana Strange gave out our spelling words for our spelling match, as she was at the head of the line.

MRS. MARTIN'S FOURTH GRADE

We have just finished reading about the Navajo Indians. The Navajo Indians live in the United States. They live along the Colorado River. They are a kind of nomadic people. They live on the desert. Most of them buy goods like ours. Now we are started on a new chapter.

We are telling make-believe stories in Language called myths.

We have started our fourth chapter in science. The name of the chapter is THINGS THAT DIS-SOLVE. We have studied chapters, NIGHT COMES, INSECTS THAT CARRY DISEASE, GROWING PLANTS INDOORS, and THINGS THAT DISSOLVE.

MRS. LEE'S FOURTH GRADE

Early Wednesday morning, Mrs. Lee's son, who is a teacher in Roswell, New Mexico, called to tell her that she has a new grandson, Mitchell David Lee.

Wade Brannon had his tenth birthday last Thursday. Happy birthday, Wade!

Roy Dale's head is slightly larger this week because her sister, Raye, was elected High School Hallowe'en Queen.

Tuesday afternoon after school, Cynthia and Rhonda Sutton had a Hallowe'en party. They had two girls each out to their house. That night they went trick-or-treating. When they got back, all the girls went to bed.

We had a fish pond at the carnival. Mrs. Teeple, Mrs. Sutton, and Mrs. Garrison helped in the booth. We made $25 out of the fish pond. In all we made $60. We are going to spend the money on books and supplies for the room.

Ralph Willis' father has been to Oklahoma to bring Ralph a grandmother to Silverton.

Steve's father went hunting in Colorado. He brought back an elk. Mrs. Lee has been trying to trade Steve an "A" for an elk steak.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Smithee and Mr. and Mrs. William Strange and Donald were Sunday visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Smithee and children in Memphis. Other guests there included Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Tunnell, of Farwell; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Tunnell and daughters of Amarillo; and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Babb and daughters, of Wetonga, Oklahoma. All are very glad that Richard Tunnell, a Pharmacist in Clarendon, has received a deferment from being recalled to active duty with the armed forces.

CHRISTMAS

NOVEMBER?

NO, INDEED! THAT WOULD BE RUSHING THE SEASON TOO MUCH...

But It Is Time To Begin Thinking About Christmas.

The Briscoe County News already is planning our special Christmas Greeting Issue which will be delivered to every resident of Briscoe County and countless former residents across the nation the Thursday before Christmas.

Last year we used color in the Christmas Edition. We are planning more color for this year to be used with some of the finest Religious art work to be found.

Merchants will be contacted early in December and asked to select their artwork. This year we are also offering the pages of our local newspaper to private citizen (Living in Silverton, or anywhere in the world). We will be happy if you will consider placing your Christmas Greeting to your friends in the Briscoe County News.

Consider these advantages of a Christmas greeting in your home paper:

- (1) Your personal greeting will be read in more than 1,500 homes . . . by friends and neighbors living in Briscoe County . . . as well as former residents whose present addresses you may not even know.
- (2) You save the cost of postage, the time required for preparing the Christmas mail, as well as time spent preparing lists and buying cards.
- (3) Former residents may use a personal Briscoe County News Christmas Greeting to convey their sentiments to old friends living here as well as others who have moved away through the years.

The cost of greetings in the Briscoe County News is very reasonable when compared to today's rising prices. In most cases you can purchase a very nice Greeting for the price of Postage alone.

Pictures can be used in your personal greeting at the small extra cost of 10c per square inch (of picture).

Deadline for Christmas advertising will be December 10th. More information will follow during November as to the quality and price of the Christmas Greetings.
