All Around the Town

by Mary Ann Sarchet

All of us make decisions every day, some good, some bad. The public is seldom discovered which is which until it's too late. Will we ever be able to recognize a right decision before we make it? If we're prone to good decisions or bad ones?

According to an article in a recent PARADE magazine, the answer may not be too far off. John Townsend, a professor of psychology, and Jack Huffner, a manager of human factors engineering at ACF Electronics, have launched a research program to unlock the secrets of good decision-making. And what they have learned in 18 months of study has opened many previous notions— and may help you to make better decisions in the future.

This research also has important applications for the world. For the men believe that soon science will be able to predict which government leaders and politicians will be good decision-makers. It will even be possible to forecast what their decisions will be. By testing statesmen on small matters, scientists will know how they will react to big ones.

This finding may also help in man-space program. ACF, which designs and builds pilot-training devices, expects to use them in planning gear for training space-men, who must make quick, important decisions.

The same principles apply today to you. To find out how you make decisions and what can be predicted about them, Townsend and Huffner selected 202 Air ROTC cadets for experiment. They ran them through personality and intelligence tests, then put the cadets to work on a special testing machine.

Each student was given 5,000 problems, with a number of possible answers. He had to choose one within a limited time, taking into consideration all given circumstances. The one was rated on the number of good, bad and just-ir decisions.

When the examiners totled up results, they reached some startling conclusions. The findings contradicted notions about decision-making long cherished by both scientists and laymen.

For instance, most people believe a businessman-husband makes better, faster decisions than his homemaker wife — because of practice, because he thinks faster, because of his interests, and because he's a man. But here's what Townsend and Huffner say:

1. Men make their business decisions and wives make their home decisions in essentially the same way.

2. A husband's quick decision may only mean he hasn't taken time to weigh the facts.

3. Occupational interests are no indicator of decision-making ability.

4. Being manly isn't related to ability to make decisions.

How good are your decisions? According to Townsend and Huffner, this is one of those questions science can't yet answer. Too many variables are involved. But in the future, they expect, decisions can be made scientifically.

Meanwhile, they are certain of these facts about decision-making. Adventures individuals will risk higher stakes than stay-at-homers; worry-warts and those with fixed ideas will make fewer good decisions and have less confidence in those they do make.

These guidelines are added to help you make a good decision:
1. Don't make snap decisions. Analyze all the factors that you have time for.

2. When you make a good decision, stick to it. Change it only if the facts change.

3. Remember the definition of a good decision — it is one in which you reach your goal with the least risk after weighing carefully all the facts.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

Surface irrigation requires land over which water can flow evenly without causing erosion.

Land leveling is used only for surface irrigation and not generally required where sprinkler irrigation is used.

Before taking steps to grade land for surface irrigation, answers for the following questions are needed.

1. Is the site suitable for surface irrigation?
2. Which method of surface irrigation should be used?

After deciding that the site is feasible and economical for surface irrigation, choosing the method of irrigating to be used, the work is usually started by making a topographic map of the area to be leveled. Locate the ditches or pipelines and the row direction of irrigation.

The area to be leveled should be staked in one hundred foot squares and the cuts and fills marked on the stakes for the contractor.

The grade per 100 foot direction of irrigation should not exceed 0.5 percent except that small areas of greater slopes may be included to permit use of the entire area.

The area to be leveled should be the entire length of the field. The cuts should not exceed one-half the depth of the top soil unless cut areas are reconditioned.

Cooperators with the assistance of the Soil Conservation District and Soil Conservation Service have carried out this practice recently are W. D. Peugh, who leveled 19 acres last year, and is very well pleased with the irrigation system.

W. J. Bryant also land leveled 15 acres, and has obtained good results.

The local A.S.C. office has assistance set up for this practice the same right of appeal to the Railroad Commission as is presently enjoyed by incorporated cities, towns and villages. When the farmers are served by gas companies who also sell to domestic consumers within the limits of incorporated cities, towns or villages.

The meeting was attended by more than 100 farmers and businessmen, which was the largest delegation ever present at a Board of Directors meeting of the Plains Irrigation Gas Users Association. Burgess commended the group on the conduct of their effort to secure the legislation in Austin, and the group enthusiastically responded and without exception expressed determination that no effort would be spared until relief had

SWEET TREATS YOUNG COOKS CAN MAKE

By JANE ASHLEY

Young cooks naturally like to make goodies which they and their friends can enjoy eating after the kitchen chores are finished. So here are directions for making candy and popcorn treats which will surely turn out right if instructions are followed carefully. And here's a hint to the wise: If no sticky smudges are left on table top, stove or kitchen floor, it will be found that kitchen privileges will be granted quite happily next time they're wanted. With a damp cloth or sponge it's easy to clean up as one goes along. Finally, bowls, pans and other utensils used should be washed, dried and returned to their proper places before the cook leaves the scene of action.

Nation's Mailmen Are Potent Force In March of Dimes Disease Battle

A small, yellow envelope serving as a harbinger of an expanding war on crippling disease arrives in the mailboxes of 40 million American families this week.

It brings the "mailer" of the 1962 March of Dimes, now dedicated to seeking the answers to birth defects and arthritis while continuing its work in polio. Printed on each envelope is the confident prophecy, "Your Dimes Will Do It Again!"

Addressed by tens of thousands of volunteers in the county chapters of The National Foundation - March of Dimes across the nation, this symbol of scientific research and total medical care for the victims of these diseases promises immediate help and future hope through the generosity of the American people.

The prediction on the mailer, "Your Dimes Will Do It Again!" is a reference, of course, to development of the Salk anti-polio vaccine and to the later Sabin oral vaccine. Both were made possible, as were the medical care and rehabilitation of many of those paralyzed by polio, by public contributions to the March of Dimes. Many millions of the dollars so well used to bring about these accomplishments came to local chapters through similar mailers in years past.

Recipients of these mailers, including those in distant Hawaii and Alaska, were urged by March of Dimes leaders this week to return the mailers to local chapters as promptly as possible.

As one chapter chairman said: "Aside from financial outlays needed urgently for research and for total medical care of victims, The National Foundation - March of Dimes must expand its already existing national network of chapter-supported clinics helping those stricken by birth defects or by arthritis.

"The figures give you an idea of the appalling magnitude of the problem. Each year in this country, at least 250,000 infants are born with significant birth defects and 21,000 die. This we must prevent.

"As to rheumatoid arthritis, fully 30,000 children and adolescents are crippled. Altogether, more than 11 million Americans suffer from the arthritic diseases. This must not happen in the future.

"When we say to the public that 'Your Dimes Will Do It Again!' it's not an empty boast. We mean precisely that. Some folks believed that the answer to polio would never be found.

But our scientists never abandoned hope and, because of March of Dimes contributions from those who believed as we did, the answer was found. Tens of thousands of lives have been saved since then, and tens of thousands saved from crippling.

"None of us, scientists included, knows when the answers will be found to birth defects and arthritis. We just know, as we knew with confidence before the Salk vaccine, that those answers will be found provided sufficient public support is forthcoming."

1962 NEIGHBORS ON THE JOB ROUNDUP

Glimpses of Briscoe County History
Since 1892

Briscoe County was organized March 15, 1892. It was originally a part of Jack County for judicial purposes until Donley County was organized, then it was annexed to Donley County until organized in 1892.

Silverton, Linguas and Tarlton were in the race for county seat. Dick Bomar recalls that the Tarlton location was as near the exact center of the county as could be found. It was about two miles from the rim of the Caprock.

T. J. Braidfoot filed on the land at the Silverton location and it was awarded to him by the state. Silverton became the county seat and the town section was paid for by the settlers. Mr. Braidfoot reserved 40 acres for his services in filing on the land. This is called the Braidfoot Reservation and is located in the northwest part of the town section.

The first settler here was Charles Goodnight, who established the old "F" Ranch on Quitaque Creek. He and L. R. Dyer brought a herd of cattle from Raton Mountain in New Mexico, and settled on Quitaque Creek in 1877. The ranch was bought by Charles Goodnight from John D. Adair, later owner of the famous JA Ranch.

Taken from the Briscoe County News issue of April 2, 1930.

The planting of a live oak tree on the San Jacinto Battleground in commemoration of Andrew Briscoe, early Texas hero, calls back the early days of Briscoe County. This county received its name from Andrew Briscoe, who fought in the Texas War of Independence in 1836 against Mexico.

Briscoe was captain, according to the records compiled by J. M. Howe of Houston, living grandson of the pioneer, who had the tree planted recently in memory of his honored ancestor. He took part in the Battle of Conception and then joined Ben Milan who lost his life in forcing San Antonio to capitulate. He remained with the army until elected a delegate to the convention to draw up a Declaration of Independence.

Briscoe was one of the signers of the Declaration, and when the Alamo fell to Santa Anna he moved that an express be sent to the United States with the intelligence. It was then he wrote what was perhaps the first account of the disaster and massacre to be published in the United States.

Captain Briscoe chartered and began construction of the first railroad in Texas, the Harrisburg and Brazos.

Newspaper's History

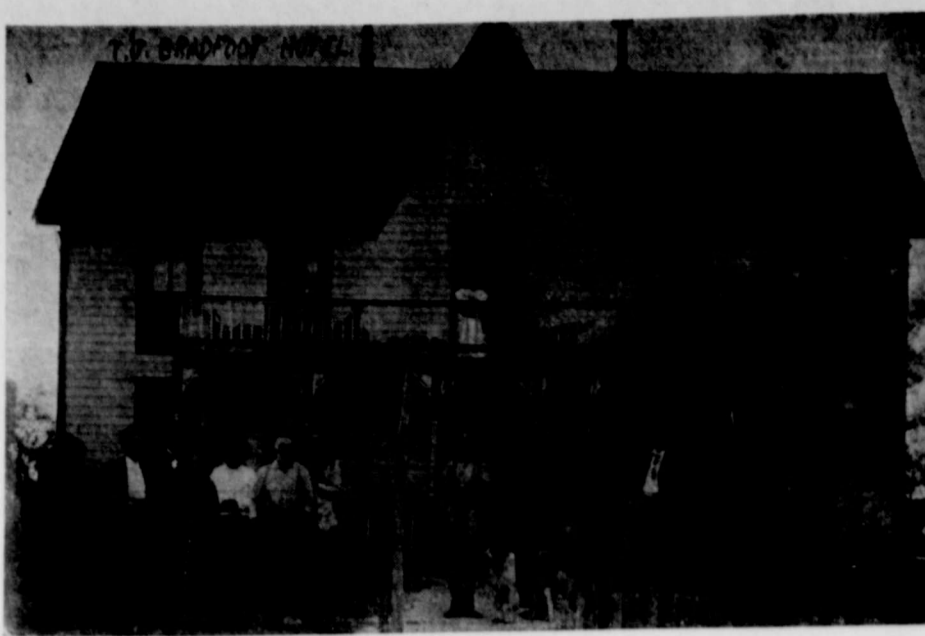

By Clyde Thomas for the Briscoe County News of June 12, 1925.

Among the other things to be found of interest relating to the early history of Briscoe County are the old newspapers. There are copies of several different papers which have operated in Silverton. The first newspaper was established here in 1893. It was edited by J. T. Briscoe, who incidentally, was the first man to be married in Briscoe County.

Other papers that old settlers still have copies of include the Silverton Light, of which there is a copy dated June 9th, 1894. This was a four-page, six-column paper edited by J. G. Davidson. It contained much local news and a large amount of local advertisements as well as a number of ads from Amarillo firms. There is a copy of the Silverton Courier dated October 7, 1897, which is exceptionally well edited by Benj. Smith. It seems more historical because of the fact that it carries much news about the Spanish-American war, which was then in progress. Another paper was the Silverton Enterprise of which there is a copy dated July 17, 1903. It carries many advertisements from Clarendon firms because it was about this time that a passable road was constructed across the canyon between here and Clarendon.

The Stayer was founded in Silverton in July, 1897. It was a well printed paper which sometimes had four and sometimes five columns, and contained much local news and advertising. It was edited by R. W. Morgan.

In looking over these papers one finds the names of many people who are still residing in Briscoe County. The papers also boosted the Plains country and the editors were really far-sighted in stating that the Plains country would one-day become the greatest agricultural land in the world. It is very interesting to look over the records of the country and trace its growth from a broad level plain with no apparent life to a well developed and thriving country where anything in the world can be grown. The old settlers of Briscoe County had faith in the possibilities of agriculture here and were willing to try to develop the county as is shown by some of the old relics of early agriculture still in evidence.

In the early days of the county, as found in reading the advertisements in the old newspapers, Amarillo, Estelline and Childress were the main trading points for the people of Silverton. At the time the county was organized, Amarillo was a town of only a few hundred inhabitants and all the goods brought to Silverton came from Estelline, which was only a little smaller than Amarillo. Canyon at that time did not have a railroad and neither did Floydada, Lockney or Plainview. All of these towns were organized but were of no size. Clarendon was an old town but at the time of the organization of the county there was no road between here and Clarendon. Two years after the county was organized, a passable freight road was built and after that much of the supplies came from Clarendon.

To The People of the 18th Dist. HOW ABOUT DE-URBANIZATION?

Much has been said and written about the problems and difficulties of the urban population.

It is an assumed fact of human nature that a great many of Man's problems are caused by overcrowding.

Only recently it was estimated that by 1980 our population will have increased by 65 million people.

perts estimated that by 1975 we would have 175 million people.

The migration from the farms to the cities is caused by the increasing difficulties encountered by farmers in making a living.

National P.T.A. Reaches 65th Birthday With Glance Back, Plans for Future

An organization that devotes itself to children and their welfare reaches senior citizen status this February.

The National Congress of Parents and Teachers celebrates its 65th birthday on February 17.

This session marked the beginning of the P.T.A. Its founding by Alice McLellan Birney and Phoebe Apperson Hearst.

Like other inventions, she notes in her Founders Day anniversary message, "it was created out of need—the need of parents for more knowledge about children's health, growth, and development."

Historic-minded P.T.A.'s across the country may mark the Founders Day observance with a glance back to the time of the first Congress.

—Establishing and supporting public kindergartens; —Pioneering hot school lunch programs and supporting adequate appropriations for them;

—Sponsoring safety legislation and programs of home and traffic safety education; —Urging regular physical examinations for millions of children from birth through high school; and programs of home and traffic safety education; —Urging regular physical examinations for millions of children from birth through high school;

—Raising the standards of treatment for youthful offenders and helping establish juvenile courts for minors;

—Backing bond issues directed toward improving facilities for children's education and recreation.

Large as such achievements may seem, Mrs. Jenkins points out that "much remains to be done for children, in this changing world of 1962."

"Through the P.T.A.," she says "we help alleviate the hardships and confusion that result from change, and we help to establish services to meet new needs."

In short, it is my feeling that emphasis should be placed on de-urbanizing our population if we are to solve the problems of health of social justice, of freedom from exploitation, of crime, and create an opportunity for the freedom which many of the people have never tasted. They might like it.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

How Do Brakes Work?

A gentle touch on the brake pedal by a dainty shoe and two tons of metal, zooming along at a mile a minute, are brought safely to a stop. As the woman who drives the family car, you should know how it's done.

The brake pedal is attached to a lever assembly that increases your "push." That is, a pound of foot pressure can make as much as 7 1/2 pounds of pressure at the end of the assembly. Twenty pounds of foot pressure makes 150 pounds, etc.

The increased foot pressure works a kind of pump—called the master cylinder. The master cylinder forces liquid—called hydraulic brake fluid—through metal tubes. A tube goes to each wheel, and each wheel has its own pump—or hydraulic cylinder. When the pressurized liquid reaches the cylinders in the wheels it forces the cylinders to move the brake "shoes." (In each wheel a set of brake shoes grips a heavy drum as your hands grip a heavy jar you want to lift.) So...you push the pedal, the pedal pushes fluid, the fluid pushes brake shoes, the shoes grip the drum—which is part of the wheel—and the car slows down.

A 200 horsepower car can reach 60 mph from a standing start in 12 seconds. Its brakes can stop it in four seconds; they have a stopping ability of 3 times the engine's propelling ability. In distance, it takes the car 500 feet to hit 60 mph, but the brakes can stop it in 150 feet. Be sure yours can do it. Have your service station dealer check them regularly.

Mrs. Ben Martin, of Pampa, who formerly lived here came Sunday for a visit with friends. Mmes L. C. Yates and Riley Yates met her in Tulia. Mrs. E. C. Newman took her to Roaring Springs Wednesday where she will visit her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Mellroy, a few days before going home.

Cherry Chutney Enhances Meat

Cherry Chutney Sauce, spicy sweet and distinctive, imparts zest and sparkle to roast lamb for an East Indian dinner. Sweet dark cherries, spiked with fragrant spices, give a unique flavor of the East to this specialty fruit of the Pacific Northwest. For fresh interest and contrast, combine both the light and dark sweet cherries. Either variety makes an exotic dress-up for the entire course.

Cherry Chutney Sauce is the perfect escort for other meats, fowl or wild game. Enjoy its tangy goodness and piquancy with pheasant, duck, venison, elk or other game brought in by your family hunter.

Cherries, one of the historic fruits of old, dates back to the cave man days. The original cherry was of the sour variety. The famous sweet cherries of today are the result of years of technical propagation and development.

Cherry Chutney Sauce

- 1 can (1 lb.) dark or light sweet cherries, pitted
- 1/4 cup vinegar
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- few grains cayenne pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon cloves
- 1/4 teaspoon ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon mustard
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice

Drain cherries reserving the cup of syrup. Combine syrup, vinegar, sugar, seasonings and spices. Bring to a boil and let simmer, uncovered, one hour or until liquid has thickened. Remove from heat. Stir in lemon juice and cherries. Let stand a few hours before serving to develop flavor. Serve as accompaniment with entire dishes. Makes 1 1/2 cups sauce.

MAN'S OBLIGATION TO SELF

Man's first obligation is to himself. That he has obligation to others is beyond controversy, but only after having met his obligation to self. Our civil law demands us to respect the rights of others, but also recognizes our right of freedom, life, and pursuit of happiness to be FIRST in our lives.

Intelligent man, realizing that if he would have the best for self must provide that best, and what sensible person is there who doesn't work for his own best interests? God placed in man the desire to have the best for himself. It is God's will that we work toward that end—man's obligation to himself.

There is a diversity of opinion, however, as to what IS man's best interests. Some appear to think that the gain of material things is man's best interest. Some seem to think that worldly pleasure is the most important thing in the world, thus they deny themselves nothing within their ability. Still others make effort in an opposite direction—thinking that by denying worldly pleasures and personal material gain, they are doing the very BEST FOR THEMSELVES.

Suffice it to say, if there be no life after the grave, then it is foolish to give up the pleasures of this world, and in the words of Paul, "We are of all men most miserable," but if there be an "after life", then the best thing we can possibly do for ourselves is to obtain it. Such is worth more than all the pleasures that this world can offer, and worth more than all the wealth this world holds. If there is a life after "this life" in which there is no pain, no sorrow, no tears, no parting, and that is ETERNAL, it is worth any price you have to pay for it. A man is a fool who doesn't desire it, and he that would risk his soul for the few paltry possessions and pleasures that this short life can offer isn't working toward his own best interests. His sense of values has become clouded; he is deceived. He has become his OWN ENEMY.

"What is a man profited if he gain the WHOLE WORLD—but lose HIS SOUL?"

COUNSELOR WHITTINGTON STRESSES IMPORTANCE OF GUIDANCE PROGRAM

This is the first year Silverton High School has had a guidance counselor on its faculty. Because of the relative newness of this position to Silverton, many people do not fully understand the many functions which the guidance counselor performs. This week, "Talks With Teachers" interviews Mr. Jess Whittington, school guidance counselor, in order to inform the public of the many duties and services which Mr. Whittington performs.

A. The role of a counselor presupposes a demonstrated interest in literary and social service fields along with a background of successful teaching experience. The West Texas State College program (1961-62) requires 42 college hours of work, the majority of which must be in psychology at the graduate level before one is qualified as a counselor. This includes 6 hours of internship.

Q. What special training and background is necessary for one to become a qualified guidance counselor?

A. Perhaps it's somewhat of an evolutionary interest growing out of years of teaching experience. My work in this field was done as a direct effort to be more scientific in various advisory capacities relative to school work.

Classes Participate In Assembly

The combined talents of Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors made up the high school assembly on Wednesday, February 7, during Activity Period.

Each class was required to present some form of entertainment to the student body and faculty, and the forms were many and varied.

The Freshmen presented a short humorous skit that consisted of the disinclination of hill-billies to move more than a few inches at a time. Jeanne Davis also sang "Sad Movies."

The Sophomore Class was represented by a chorus of girls that sang "Moonlight Bay." They were accompanied by Jerry Garrison at the piano.

Klela Oneal presented a reading to represent the Junior Class in the assembly. Klela, assisted by Robbie Sue McMimsey, succeeded in starting the entire student body with a surprise ending.

The Senior Class was represented by Larry Elms, Robert Rhode, Kenny Thornton, and Robert Hughes singing "The Birch Hymn of the Republic." They were accompanied by Jerry Williamson at the piano.

PEEPIN' TOM

A Freshman boy called the news office to persuade Jerry not to put anything in the paper about his relationship to a pack of cigarettes. Of course, he was perfectly innocent, but the funny part was that nothing had been turned in! Now Tom wonders . . .

Last week Ronald Hughes found a package of fire crackers that someone had put in his desk. Not knowing where they came from, and anxious to get rid of them, he gave them to Dwight. He eagerly accepted them and proceeded to go home and light one under a tin can. If you saw the hole in the side of his head you can guess what happened.

And then there is the old, old story of running out of gas on the way home! Jackie, Pat, Mert, Tena, AND Camellia were taking Tony Allison home after the show when it happened. Tom hasn't figured out who planned it.

There was an awfully lot of excitement involved in decorating for the Sweetheart Banquet. Kenneth Peugh broke through the ceiling, but managed to catch himself and avoided a long fall.

Deanna wasn't so lucky; she fell from the top of a TALL ladder, cut her leg and banged herself up in general.

Mrs. Whittington didn't do any falling—but "Mrs. Whittington, will you get me out of class so I can work?" is still ringing in her ears.

Sandi Rhode broke her date with Freddie from the Sweetheart Banquet but finally repented and decided to take him anyway. Better be careful boy, you may push your luck too far!

The boys rather enjoyed having the tables turned for one week. Maybe the girls should be allowed dating permits to last longer than a week. Some new couples might arise from such a situation.

Some new couples are opposed to "going steady" and have passed the ruling that their daughter can go with a particular boy only after having been dated by at least two other boys. This may be the solution to the "going steady" problem, but Tom wonders how the "two other boys" feel about the matter. Do they have doubts as to why she accepted their date?

NOTABLE NOTES

By Robert Hughes
Fading Freedoms

"Oh, say, does that star-spangled banner yet wave o'er the land of the free . . ." The answer to that time-honored question sung in reverence by millions of Americans was once a "yes" which resounded the world over. Regrettably, perhaps tragically, the answer to that question has lost its meaning to millions of Americans who but mouth the words without thinking of their meaning; and who as Americans have let their watchfulness over the freedoms they enjoy fade.

As proof of this disregard examine some of the rulings of the Supreme Court in the past few years. In 1960 the Supreme Court ruled that health inspectors would no longer need a warrant to enter and search your home. This is in direct contradiction to Article IV of the Bill of Rights of the Constitution of the United States of America which states that neither individuals, nor their houses, nor their possessions can be seized or searched without a sworn warrant describing who or what to seize or to search.

A minor thing you say? Consider what it could lead to. If an exception to such a basic freedom as this one can be permitted, how long will it be until there are others? Bit by bit the Supreme Court could "exception" away every one of our freedoms and leave us with nothing but a police state striped bare of all individual rights.

Another example of this quiet freedom chipping of the Supreme Court is a ruling handed down only last year in which atheism was officially declared a religion. Is it not absurd to believe that atheism, the belief that there is no God or supreme being—in other words a belief in nothing—is actually a religion?

Our country was founded on, has been based on, and is based on a belief in all-powerful God over us all; yet, the Supreme Court has declared that not believing in God is a religion.

Are these examples not proof that we have become less watchful over our freedoms? Millions of Americans are totally unaware of these and other rulings by the Supreme Court and of their implications for us in the future. Is it not time for us Americans to awaken, become aware of these things, and stop them while we still can?

Wildcats Leap Past Owls 54-42

The leading district team swept past the Silverton Owls to the tune of 54-42 Tuesday night, Feb. 6. The Owls led at the end of the first quarter by 13-12, after a very hard-fought eight minutes. The half-time score, however, showed the Idalou quintet on top with a 25-21 tally.

The Wildcats showed their determination not to be denied their perfect conference record and surged ahead during the last two stanzas of play to lead by 12 points at the ending buzzer.

Individual scores: Jay Towe, 15; Fred Stafford, 8; Robert Rhode, 7; Kenneth Peugh, 5; Larry May, 4; Larry Elms, 2.

Accuracy Contest Papers Submitted

The Third Annual Facit Accuracy Contest in typewriting is well under way, and the two winning papers from the Silverton School have been submitted to the national contest.

The writer of the best perfect paper (5 minute writing) in each class will receive from Facit a medal in recognition of that achievement. Susie Hill and Lester Grabbe will receive these awards. Susie typed 49 words per minute and Lester typed 47 words per minute in first year typewriting.

There is a possibility that Susie and Lester may be invited to compete in a regional contest. If they are chosen, they will be notified by the Facit contest judges in the near future.

are put up to tell the water which way to run when it rains.

When a Blue Norther hits the Rio Grande Valley, all the fires freeze. Mexicans grind them up, and that is where chili powder comes from.

FBLA Salad Supper Planned

It was reported this week that the annual FBLA Salad Supper will be April 5. All members are looking forward to the annual affair which has become a tradition with the club.

Sheila Jarnagin, club reporter, reports that several members have not paid their second semester dues and are urged to do so immediately.

All members who do not yet have their Supervisor's Degree are advised to meet the necessary requirements and complete their degrees. No member may hold an office unless he has received his Supervisor's Degree.

S.H.S. TALL TALK

The biggest things going in S. H. S. this week were preparations for the Sweetheart Banquet and the warm weather.

It is said that no one but fools and strangers predict Texas weather. If you don't like it as it is, just wait a minute. We are due at least one more snow before spring stays on for sure.

The temperature drops so low in the Panhandle, words freeze when they are spoken, and folks have to wait for a thaw to find out what's been said. And the best way to explain how dusty a dust storm can be is to tell about the prairie dog seen digging a hole 100 feet in the air.

One sultry day in the '80's a teamster was hauling a load of corn across the prairie. The heat was too much for one of his mules and it fell dead from stroke. While the driver was unhitching the dead mule, the wagon caught fire and all the corn popped. Two cowboys riding by saw the white pop corn falling all around, thought it was snow, and their hands got frostbit. A flash rain came up and put out the fire, but the wagon bogged down. While the teamster was studying his predicament, a blue norther struck and his other mule froze to death.

Some prairie towns use logging chains tied to tall poles for weather vanes. When the wind blows them out straight, the farmers know they should put their cows in the barn to keep the gale from dehorning them. When the chain comes down off the pole and wriggles to a shady spot under a tree, the farmers hurry to dig their potatoes to keep them from baking in the ground. When it was frozen so brittle that they can chip the links with an ice pick, they know the time has come for red flannels. When it can't be seen at 10 paces because of the rain, it's too wet to plow.

Mused a gas purchasing stranger at a filling station, "It looks like rain." Commented the station operator, "Well, I hope so. Not for me so much as for my 20 year-old son. I've seen rain."

SHOWN ABOVE preparing for the 1962 FFA Sweetheart Banquet are Jealeta Eddleman and Helen Lewis, Sophomores. Those two girls were but a small percentage of the many FFA girls, FFA boys, and sponsors who spent much time and energy in preparing for the banquet. ANNUAL FFA-FHA SWEETHEART BANQUET IS TEXAS-SIZE SUCCESS

Approximately 160 students and faculty members enjoyed a real Texas banquet Saturday night as the annual FFA-FHA Sweetheart Banquet climaxed weeks of careful preparation with a banquet that was really "Deep in the Heart of Texas."

As the couples entered the front door of the high school building, a tall Texan greeted them with a "Howdy" and pointing the way upstairs. At the top of the stairs all Alaskans were warned by a "Posted, All Alaskans Keep Out" sign that they weren't welcome.

To one side of the head table was a Texas flag and a seven-foot tall model of an oil well complete with oil spurting out its top. The head table itself was decorated with a beautiful red rose centerpiece.

SENIOR PLAY TO BE HELD MARCH 8

Is Hollywood all glitter, glamour, and great big homes? Ever wonder what Hollywood looks like on the other side of the tracks? Well, you'll see and hear the answer to both those questions at the Senior play, STARS IN THEIR EYES.

This play definitely presents a "different" view of Hollywood life; it takes place not in a beautiful mansion but in the Kelton's shabby apartment in a condemned apartment house.

You'd be surprised at the things that do happen when a whole family tries to break into the movie business at one time.

And if things weren't already confused enough, Kenny LeRoy, a too, too dramatic student keeps pestering the Kelton's eldest daughter Julie. But all isn't rosy for Kenny either. Gertie, a muscle woman who lives in the same apartment house, nearly breaks his back showing him some jujitsu.

These troubles are all compounded by the fact that the Kelton's bathroom serves every family in the entire apartment house, a fact which nearly gives the health inspector, Mr. Bounce, a heart attack. He can never get in the bathroom to inspect it. One of the zany characters is always occupying it.

The play will be presented Thursday night, March 8, as a grand finale to Public School Week. Start making your plans now to come and enjoy a real evening of entertainment.

Former Teacher Visits School

On Wednesday of last week Mrs. Buster Miller and sons of Hereford, Texas, paid a surprise visit to the school. Students and teachers alike were pleased to see her; Beryl was especially proud to show off his five months old brother. Mrs. Miller and sons spent the night with the Rampleys before going to Darruzzett to visit her family.

FFA Chapter Farmers Initiated

Tuesday, February 6, the local FFA Chapter met to initiate the Chapter Farmers. The Chapter Farmers are those boys who made at least $50 profit from their projects during the last year. The initiation started off with a barbecued hamburger supper for all the FFA members after which the initiation took place. All in all, all the boys had a fine time—even the ones being initiated.

Young People's Citizenship Poll

This week the "Young People's Citizenship Poll" has taken a poll of forty members of the Sophomore class as to their opinions and actions on various moral questions.

Of the forty members of the class only eleven, or 27.5%, have never smoked at least one cigarette in their lives. The other 72.5% have at one time or another smoked.

However, in direct opposition to these figures are those on how
