

All Around the Town

by Mary Ann Sarchet

Early this fall more than 100,000 young Texans will be entering both private and public schools for the first time.

Even though the opening of school is still some weeks away, parents should be busy making preparations to insure that their child will make a smooth adjustment to his new environment.

The child's adjustment will be more rapid and satisfactory if he starts his school life in good sound health.

The child should be given a complete physical by your family doctor including an eye check. His teeth should also be checked by the family dentist.

Examinations show there are ailments or defects that can and should be looked after, then follow the doctor's and dentist's advice and have them corrected, if possible, before you enroll the child in school.

It's likely that your child has already been immunized against certain of the childhood diseases such as diphtheria, whooping cough and perhaps smallpox.

Proper nutrition is very important. When school starts, allow enough time for a wholesome breakfast. A good breakfast includes citrus fruit or juice, milk, whole grain cereal or bread, eggs or bacon or both.

Nearly every school district in Texas, including our own, requires proof-of-age for first year students in the form of a certificate of birth.

First Lieutenant Pat L. Northcutt is spending two weeks at Fort Polk, Louisiana, with the National Guardsmen of the 36th Infantry Division of Texas in Tactical Training.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Middleton and Jo Ann of Amarillo, were Sunday visitors in Quitaque and Silverton. They visited Mrs. C. R. Badgett while here.

Cancer Memorials Program Increasing In Popularity

An indication of the growing popularity of the American Cancer Society's Memorials Program was given today by Mrs. W. E. Schott, jr., Memorials Chairman of the Society's Briscoe County Unit.

"The rapid growth of memorial giving is due to a keener public appreciation of the fact that more tools are needed in the fight against cancer," Mrs. Schott stated.

"Research against cancer has widened tremendously, and most scientists now believe that the disease will be conquered before many more years have passed," she said.

"Some donors," she said, "have established the habit of making memorial gifts at regular intervals of months or a year."

Scientists Cause Mixup of Sexes

March of Dimes-supported scientists have found that if they dip an egg into the right kind of hormone solution, they can change the sex of the unhatched chick from what it started out to be.

This, of course, is of concern to a chick which is supposed to be a rooster and hatches out with most of the features of a hen, or vice versa.

The research also is of direct concern to people, because the scientists believe they are on the track of what may cause some human beings to be born with mixed-up sex characteristics.

A few cases of sex changes in people have become world famous. But according to Dr. Virginia Apgar, director of the birth defects division of The National Foundation-March of Dimes, "It is a more common and important problem than most people realize. More and more infants and children are being found who are somewhere between pure male and pure female sex."

Such "intersex" is a biologic contradiction and a major mystery. How does it come about? Perhaps if we had the explanation, doctors could devise ways to prevent it or treat it to straighten things out again.

That's why March of Dimes funds have been awarded to support investigations by Dr. Gregory Pincus, an internationally recognized authority on hormones and research director of the Worcester Foundation for Experimental Biology, Shrewsbury, Mass.

It is known that heredity factors can lead to sex abnormalities. But Dr. Pincus points out, "obviously heredity isn't the whole story." Hormones are undoubtedly involved, too. Scientists speculate that certain hormones or other substances in a pregnant mother's body may reach the cells of her unborn baby during the critical early days of growth and completely change the direction of the baby's sex development.

Though their project is still in its early stages, Dr. Pincus and his associate, Dr. Alan Erickson, have found that this theory holds water.

If an egg containing a four-day-old chick embryo is dipped for just ten seconds into a solution containing a female sex hormone, a budding rooster can be "feminized."

If such birds are allowed to hatch and mature without any

Dr. Gregory Pincus holds tray of eggs before dipping them into solution containing a female sex hormone which will "feminize" an embryonic rooster. He is a March of Dimes research grantee.

For the hormone that "masculinized" female chick embryos was progesterone. This isn't a male sex hormone by a long shot. In fact, it is mostly connected with female ovaries and its primary function is to keep things going smoothly during the course of pregnancy.

Just why a "pregnancy hormone" should have such drastic effect on the sex of a female chick is another puzzling element in the birth development riddle that Dr. Pincus and his colleagues are trying to decipher.

Their long-range study, they believe, will help explain some of the earliest stages of human development. Their results have already pinned down one important point beyond contention: heredity is by no means the only factor that determines sex. Whatever comes in contact with embryonic cells may alter them, or even destroy them.

"Certainly the possible influence of hormones needs further investigation," Dr. Apgar states. "We already know, for instance, that excessive hormone treatment of a pregnant woman sometimes 'feminizes' her baby if it is a male, producing changes parallel to those observed by Dr. Pincus in his experiments."

Dr. Alan Erickson holds rooster hatched with characteristics of a hen. March of Dimes-supported scientists found that in time nature reasserted itself and "hen" began to crow like a rooster.

further hormone treatment, most of them eventually revert to the maleness that nature had intended for them. They grow combs and wattles and crow like any self-respecting rooster. Internally, too, matters are corrected and organs usually appear to be normal.

But once in a while there's an exception. The bird doesn't revert to male, but stays somewhere in-between. As a potential rooster, the bird is sterile. As a potential hen, it does not lay eggs.

When they came to trying the reverse egg-dipping experiment, changing the sex of a female chick to male, the Worcester Foundation researchers ran into a baffling obstacle.

The obvious procedure — dipping the eggs into a solution of male hormone — didn't work.

So they checked a variety of other hormones. When they finally found a hormone that did the trick, it went against all textbook expectations.

Approaching Marriage Announced

The approaching marriage of her foster daughter, Miss Triena Louise Dotson to Mr. Roy Deavenport, son of Mrs. Lee Deavenport of Silverton and the late Mr. Deavenport, was made by Mrs. Tom Lineberry of Midland and Kermit at a luncheon recently in the Gold Room at Hemphill-Wells in Monterey Center.

The wedding will take place on August 25 in the Broadway Church of Christ in Lubbock.

Pink peonies, baby's breath and satin streamers were arranged as a centerpiece where places were laid for 36 guests.

From out-of-town were the future bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Deavenport; his sister, Mrs. Arley Barnett of Amarillo; and Mmes. C. A. Blakeney, L. L. Young, John Haley, jr., F. E. Summers, W. H. McClure and Miss Janice Young of Kermit.

Miss Dotson is a former resident of Lubbock Children's Home. She has studied at Abilene Christian College and Lubbock Christian College.

Her fiance is to receive his master's degree from Texas Tech in August.

Miss Donna Wallace of Lubbock came to spend the week of June 23 through June 30 with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dolen Rackley and Aunt Kay. When Mama Rackley became ill, it was Donna's pleasure to visit with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Dickie Mayfield. Donna was really surprised to find herself in Dr. Muckleroy's office on Friday, but all was well when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wallace, arrived Saturday afternoon to take her home.
