Wheat Program Benefits For Livestock Feeders Told

All Around the Town
 by Mary Ann Sarchet

The Joy of Being An Editor
 Getting out this paper is no picnic. If I print jokes, people say I am silly; if I don't they say I am too serious. If I stick close to the office all day, I ought to be around hunting material. If I go out and try to hustle news, I ought to be on the job in the office. If I don't print contributions, I don't appreciate genius; and if I do print them, the paper is filled with junk. If I edit the other fellow's writeup, I am too critical; if I don't, I am asleep. If I clip things from other papers, I'm too lazy to write them myself; if I don't, I'm stuck on my own stuff. Now, like as not, some guy will say I swiped this from some other paper . . . I did.

The following article was written some time ago by the society editor of the Denver City Press. It is supposed to have been an accumulation of the mistakes made on wedding report blanks over a period of years. The combination of errors makes a wedding report for which she would surely be used if the true names of the couple had been used.

"Emanuel Luthren church was chosen by Mary Jones for her recent marriage to John Brown. The bride came down the aisle decorated with white satin bows and greenery. She walked on the arm of her father, William Jones, to meet the bridegroom at the altar. The altar was planked with bokays of stephanitis, gladiolas and carnations.

"The bride, carrying a cortege of pale pink and white roses, centered with a white orchard, was a fusion as she approached the altar where the minister stood, Bible in hand, to deprecate at the exchange of neptune vows.

"Miss Jones' parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Jones, live in the city. Mr. Brown's parents are deceased.

"The bride wore a gown of white pottsauu with side drapping. The encaloped neckling was enhanced with erredescent sequence, beads, and pearls. The embroydred bouffede skirt had a chapel length trail embedded with sequence. The gown had long tapered sleeves, fingertip lenth, a priences stile bodish, and the skirt drapping fell into a carriage.

"The bride's hedpiece was a princess crown style with perales. A tearer of perleses and rheinstones held a vale of silk illusion.

"The bride attendance, fiends of the bride for many years, wore gowns of water-shrimp colored ornanza with taffeta underskirts. The gowns had vee neck scoups, and were fashioned with flared skirts.

"The attendance wore small hats trimmed with pearls and nose vales. The bridesmaids carried conomial bouquets of white sembidium orchids as they prede the bride down the wite-curpeted ayle to the altar.

"The mother of the bride was check in a dress of satire blue. It was made sheeth-stile and she wore a matching floured hat. She pined a white orchard courasge to her dress, and her costume was completed with white assories.

"A reception was held at the bride's home immediately following the ceremony. The mother's attendants wore white. Flowers were used throughout the house. A spray arrangement of blue iris was centered on the piano and baskets of pink gadiolas, waxed orange blasons and confetti were used about the room.

"A bouffet supper was served to 50 guests after which the newlyweds left for a short honeymoon. Before leaving the bride threw her banquet at the bridesmaids."

"Oh, the life of a society editor! The above account, we presume, is an exaggerated one, or an accumulation of all the mistakes made on the wedding forms turned in over a period of years.

Did you hear about the ball team that played so badly last year that the Gillette Company wrote letters asking the players to return their razors?

Three Complete 50-Mile Bike Hike

Nine Silverton High School students were accompanied by Mrs. Jimmy Scott Whitfill, wife of the senior class sponsor, on a bike hike Sunday afternoon. The group left Silverton at 12:30 p.m. from the city park and arrived in Turkey, 25 miles east of here, at about 4:00 p.m.

The three boys in the group, Emmett Tomlin, David House and Jay Towe, completed the return trip to Silverton at 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

Others participating in their version of the current 50-mile hike fad which is sweeping the nation were Linda Harvell, Martha Mills, Sandi House, Sheila Jarnagin, Kiela Oneal, and Jeanne Davis.

The group ran into a shower at the Cap Rock Grocery on their trip to Turkey, and as Sheila Jarnagin put it, "I thought I was going to have to get windshield wipers for my glasses."

A pickup was on hand at Turkey into which the bicycles and tired female cyclists were brought home.

The trio who pedaler the entire 50 miles rode into Silverton between rain showers, with aching leg muscles after riding uphill all the way home. The elevation at Turkey is 2,348 feet, while Silverton is located on the cap-rock escarpment at 3,261 feet above sea level.

"I'm so tired I think I'll just push this bicycle the rest of the way home," sighed Jay Towe on their arrival in the city.

Several members of the group were so enthusiastic that they had been "practicing" their riding the week before the trip. Some have suggested that they might pedal to Burson Lakes some day soon.

State Maintenance For Scout Camp Road Is Approved

A letter was received by County Judge M. G. Moreland this week from D. C. Greer, State Highway Engineer, stating that a request for state maintenance of the road from Highway 256 down into Haynes Boy Scout Camp has been approved.

A committee composed of Judge Moreland, Jimmy Webb and Bill Long, appeared before the State Highway Commission in March to request the state maintenance of the road.

The approval indicated that a permanent road will be maintained. The road has been repaired, and is now passable after many months of severe deterioration.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Williams, Mrs. Wayne Rice and baby of Providence, Brenda and Shirley Beames and Mrs. Fleeter Boydston visited in Oklahoma over the week end.

PEDALING HOME BETWEEN RAIN SHOWERS were Emmett Tomlin, Jay Towe and David House. The three put 50 miles on each bicycle in six hours, and at this point in their bike hike would probably have gladly accepted a ride in an automobile. —Briscoe County News Photo

Feed-Grain Program Sign-Up Reported

As of the closing date, March 22, farmers in Briscoe County had signed up 344 farms to participate in the 1963 feed grain program, John R. Fowler, county office manager for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, reports. The "intentions to participate" forms show 14,820.0 acres to be diverted from the production of corn, grain sorghum and barley. The diversion is from base acreages (1959-60 average plantings) of 53,917.0 acres.

For farms signed up, estimated total payments for diverting acreage amount to $227,603.00, not including price-support payments to be made this fall.

These are the latest available figures on the feed grain program sign-up, the county office manager said. They "may be changed somewhat, but are not expected to be changed very much" when tabulations on the sign-up are completed.

National program totals through March 7 showed 642,835 farms signed up to divert 13,126,000 acres, from base acreages of 34,796,400 acres. Estimated total payments for diverting acreage on farms signed up amount to $253,813,300 not including price support payments to be made to co-operators.

In general, provisions for the 1963 program follow those for 1961 and 1962 crops by giving feed grain producers an opportunity to participate in the program by reducing acreages and devoting the land to conserving uses. By participating, they will receive diversion payments and price-support payments (new to the 1963 program), and be eligible to take part in the price-support loan program. Price support for 1963 to farmers participating in the program will be made available on corn, grain sorghum, and barley partly through loans and purchase agreements and partly through an in-kind payment based on the normal production of the acreage planted this year to one or more of the three feed grains.

The 1961 and 1962 feed grain programs have brought down a reversal of a 10-year buildup in feed grain surpluses. By October 1, of this year, estimated total feed grain stocks of 61 million tons will be down about 28 percent from the record 84.7 million tons on October 1, 1961. Continued participation around levels of the past two years should bring feed grain stocks near desirable reserve levels by October 1, 1964.

FROM THE HOPPER
by W. H. Graham, Jr.

in the State Line Tribune, Farwell

One of the most striking differences in small towns and good sized cities shows itself every time I am in the company of a friend when visiting.

Whenever I drop in to see an acquaintance at a newspaper in a neighboring town, invariably the publisher will offer to go get some coffee or a Coke, and as we hike a block or so to the refreshment house he will pass scores of persons he knows intimately.

To anyone within hailing distance, he will raise his hand in salutation and call out, "Hi there, Bill," or "Hello Bob." This continues on into the cafe or drug store and sometimes his friends stroll over and plop down and join in on the conversation we are having—not needing any invitation.

The hospitality is just as warm when I visit an acquaintance in a larger town, and again we usually slip off for coffee or a Coke. But most of the time we make the trip without much arm waving, and usually we sit in a booth surrounded by strangers.

I think nearly any businessman in a town of fewer than 5000 would be amazed if he could sit down and think of the persons he knows well enough to address them by their given name.

THE COUNTRY EDITOR

by H. M. Baggarly
in The Tulia Herald

The religious issue and the Presidency probably never would have been raised to the extent it was had people not been looking for an excuse. For example, had Eisenhower been a Catholic instead of nothing when he ran for President, it is doubtful that it would have been the major issue that it was eight years later. In 1928, many people hated Al Smith because he was against prohibition and because he wasn't the most refined person in the world. His background lacked some of the things desired in a President. So it was that those who hated him because of the prohibition issue found it convenient to add Catholicism to his many "vices." In 1960, many people hated Kennedy primarily because he was pictured as a liberal. So it was convenient to add Catholicism to his "vices."

If a person wants to make Catholicism an issue, it is much more logical to oppose a Catholic in the Legislative department of the government. If a person wants to advance his religion as a public official, there is much more he can do in those hundreds of is-issues that come before a Congressman or a Senator every day. It is Congress that can give financial aid to parochial schools, not the President.

Yet, last fall we had a man from Houston by the name of Desmond Barry running for Congressman at Large on the Republican ticket. He was the darling of all the Kennedy haters. He hated labor, and that made him friends. He was perhaps the most popular Republican running for office. At least almost everyone gave him a stronger chance of winning than any other GOPer on the ticket.

Yet Mr. Barry is a devout Roman Catholic. And we never heard a cheep from any of the Kennedy haters and Barry supporters because Barry is a Catholic. That's why we say the religious issue is just what people want to make of it.

Mr. Romney is a Mormon. Wes Izzard is a Christian Scientist. Mr. Nixon was a Quaker until he went to Washington. And Quakers normally are pacifists. No one would ever criticize these men for their religious beliefs—unless they happened to run for office as liberal Democrats!

A Strickland family reunion was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Nance, Wayne, Nancy and Juannah, from Friday through Sunday. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Chester Strickland of Denton; Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Strickland of Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Trimmof, Richmond, Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. Alton Strickland and Ann of Lubbock. Mrs. Trimmof, the former Mavis Strickland, remained here for a longer visit.

Mrs. A. L. McMurtry, Mrs. Dean Allard and Mrs. Carl D. Bamar were in Amarillo one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Zeph Fogerson of Clovis, New Mexico, were guests over a long weekend with her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Rhoderick. They spent some time in the Plainview area and visited Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rhoderick and family. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rhoderick and family. Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Rhoderick and Scott of Aiken were also Sunday dinner guests in the Rhoderick home.

Mrs. D. N. McGavock of Tulia, who lived here for many years, attended Sunday services at the local Church of Christ and was an overnight guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Brooksheir.

TEXAS COTTON GROWERS REPORT:

Entire Season Control of Thrips, Aphids and Mites...

Untreated plant at four weeks

Di-Syston treated plant at four weeks

Di-Syston Treated Plants Are Stronger, Straighter . . . Produce More Squares Earlier

West Texas and New Mexico cotton growers now have a new way to control thrip damage and early-season stunting . . . with Di-Syston granular insecticide. Di-Syston is placed in the soil with the seed or side dressed after planting. The chemical is then absorbed by the growing roots and carried to all parts of the plant through the sap stream—as soon as the plant emerges. No part of the plant is unprotected—even tender new growth as it is formed.

The result? With Di-Syston, your early cotton grows faster, has stronger, straighter stems, more vigorous foliage. Squares form earlier and the plant produces more of them. Many growers in the Lubbock area have reported full season control of thrip with just the one application. You get higher yields because of the good Di-Syston start. This year, get your crop off to a good start with Di-Syston. Complete instructions for use are printed on the label on every package. Use Di-Syston.

NITROGEN FERTILIZER

FORM The farmer is in the fortunate position of being able to choose from a number of good nitrogen fertilizers. Compounds that supply nitrogen are available in three forms — dry, water solutions and anhydrous ammonia. These forms supply nitrogen in various concentrations. There are a number of different brands of each form of fertilizer, so the choice is broad.

We recommend anhydrous ammonia generally and Nitromite specifically for these reasons: 1) Anhydrous ammonia provides almost twice the nitrogen by volume as the next most concentrated fertilizer.* 2) As it is in a gaseous form in the soil, it permeates freely and uniformly throughout the zone of crop roots. 3) Since it is electrostatically affixed to the clays in the soil, it is less subject to leaching and dissipation.

We recommend Shamrock Nitromite specifically because we know how it is made, how it is handled and transported, the reliability of the dealers who sell it and the collateral services and benefits offered to the farmer.

Your Nitromite dealer is ready now to put this profit maker to work in your fields. Call him right away. He has all the information on the Shamrock Farm Credit Plan.

% N	COMMERCIAL FERTILIZERS	(1)	(2)
82.2	SHAMROCK NITROMITE	2,000	1,640
45.0	Urea (Dry)	3,660	900
32.0 (Max)	Urea (Liquid)	5,120	640
33.5	Ammonium Nitrate (Dry)	4,900	670
25.0	Aqua Ammonia (Liquid)	6,580	500
20.5	Ammonium Sulfate (Dry)	8,000	410

(1) The number of pounds of other nitrogenous fertilizers that must be bought and applied to the soil to equal one ton of SHAMROCK Nitromite in nitrogen content; and, (2) The number of pounds of Nitrogen (N) in a ton of each commercial fertilizer.

Tule Canyon Is Subject of "Tolbert's Texas" Column

In the Sunday edition of the Dallas Morning News, the "Tolbert's Texas" column was entitled, "The Tule Shocked Early Explorers." The column, written by Frank X. Tolbert, is of interest to those living on the canyon's rim:

Tule Canyon, a monster, 1,000-foot-deep, many-colored chasm in the Texas Panhandle, is at once one of this state's most spectacular and least known pieces of real estate. Tule's beautiful sister canyon, Palo Duro, is far more famous, partly because it contains a 15,000-acre state park, while much of the Tule is shielded off from you and I by ranch fences.

Was driving along a Briscoe County road one day last week, and I'd forgotten that Tule was up ahead. Was rolling through the yellow, flat rangelands and then, almost without warning, the road dived off into this great and gaudy rent in the earth which is Tule Canyon.

On the floor of Tule are red and yellow mesas and buttes and other often huge rock formations, carved by wind and water into fantastic and yet somehow artistically orderly patterns.

No one has described Tule more lovingly than old George Wilkins Kendall, a newspaperman for whom they named a Texas county. Mr. Kendall came to Tule in 1841 as a member of the unfortunate Republic of Texas expedition to Santa Fe, New Mexico.

The Santa Fe expedition in 1841 crossed the Tule twice and, apparently, at places not approachable by roadways today.

The Republic of Texas adventurers had climbed up on The Staked Plain or Llano Estacado, the greatest tableland which Kendall styled The Staked Prairie. And he wrote: "Spread before us was a perfectly level plain, extending as far as the eye could reach, and without a tree to break the monotony... We were going forward at a rapid pace, the prairies before us presenting no other appearance than a slight undulating but smooth surface when, suddenly and without previous sign or warning, we found ourselves upon the very brink of a vast and yawning chasm, or canyon.

"As the front ranks suddenly checked their onward course, and diverged at right angles, the rear sections were utterly at loss to account for a movement so irregular; they could not see even the edge of fearsome abyss at a distance of 15 yards from its very brink."

Kendall estimated the dimensions of the Tule pretty accurately, "not less than 800 to 1,000 feet deep" and 300 to 500 yards in width.

The 1841 wandering newspaperman, and his companions, seemed to be bothered more by heights than this 1963 correspondent. For Kendall wrote that as they stood on the brink of Tule "a sickly sensation of dizziness was felt by all as we looked down, as it were into the very depths of the earth... In the valley were immense walls, columns, and, in some places, what appeared to be arches, modeled by the wear of water, and yet so perfect in form that we could have believed that the hand of man had fashioned them."

On the floor of Tule, Kendall saw "a running stream on a lower level of the chasm... with a romantic dell, covered with short grass and a few scatterings of cottonwoods." Of the walls and columns in the canyon, he said: "So much of chaste grandeur was there about them, that we were lost in wonder and admiration."

In Kendall's fancy, the Tule formations appeared as "breastworks of a fort, frowning turrets of castles, and cumbruous pillars of some mighty pile... Imagination carried us back to Thebes, to Palmyra, and ancient Athens, and we could not help thinking that we were among their ruins."

Charles Sarchet, editor of the Briscoe County News at Silverton, told me: "Everyone raves about Palo Duro, but the Tule is my favorite canyon."

Incidentally, the City of Tulia, Swisher County, was supposed to be named for Tule Creek or Tule Canyon. Only some poor spellers of the 1880's write it "Tullie," and then someone in the postal department in Washington changed it to

"Tulia."

Tule Creek and Tule Canyon start in eastern Swisher County, and stream and canyon unite with Palo Duro Canyon and the Prairie Dog Town Fork of the Red River in western Briscoe County. The long wars with the Comanches and other horse Indians of the Panhandle ended in Tule and Palo Duro Canyons. And while up here I visited some scenes of these passage-of-arms, and will report about this in columns soon.
