Miss Anna Lee Anderson Retires

by Mrs. O. C. Rampley
A familiar face is missing from the Second Grade classroom of Silverton Grade School. Miss Anderson has retired.

MISS ANNA LEE ANDERSON

Anna Lee Anderson, who has forty-seven and one-half years of teaching experience, retired at mid-term of this year. Miss Anna Lee began her teaching career in the Flint School District in Swisher County in 1919. She taught there for one year and then came to Silverton to teach for three years. She returned to college in 1923 and was employed in Texhoma, Oklahoma, during the 1924-25 school year. She returned to the Silverton school system in September, 1925, and taught here continuously until January, 1967. During the forty-five and one-half years that she has spent teaching in Silverton, (most of the time in the second grade) she has taught three generations in the same families. She recalls three cases of third generation students and says there are probably several others. Wes Fleming, one of her students this year, was preceded in Miss Anna Lee's Second Grade by his mother, Peggy Davis, and his grandmother, Wilma Joyce Smith. Steve Brown, his father, Don, and his grandfather, Printz Brown, were all students of hers. She taught Printz reading in the Seventh Grade for about a month in the absence of the regular reading teacher.

Lee Ann and Pattie Tidwell were third-generation students and also members of one of the five entire families that Miss Anna Lee recalls having taught. Their mother, Pat Baird, and father, Carl (Pee Wee) Tidwell, and grandfather, R. A. (Snooks) Baird were all former students.

Other families taught by Miss Anna Lee were: Carl, Dorothy, Roy Ann and Terry Bomar; James, Lallie, J. E. and Jerry Patton; J. W., Evelyn and Truit Brannon; Kemp, Billie Lou, Tom and Harry Thompson.

There are hundreds of residents of Briscoe County who are former students of Miss Anna Lee. Many of us have also had children in her classroom. We all have our own fond memories of the time spent in her classroom. I shall always remember her for her thoughtfulness. She supplied me with a small box of rest my feet on because my legs were too short to reach the floor. Although school will not be the same without her, we wish her many years of pleasure in her well-deserved retirement.

by Charlie Brown

Why is it that Mr. Leggett always closes his door when he teaches the sixth period English class?

Mr. Grosdidier has been claiming to be sick lately. I wonder if the students could have anything to do with it.

Miss Self is still as helpful as ever when there are stars to be counted. Oh, by the way, why did she get very unhappy when she noticed the Sweetheart Banquet list.

Our ape-man is gone. Mitchell finally got a haircut.

Some people think that William is wearing a helmet instead of a head of hair.

I am 16 years old. My mother allows me to date once a week but she insists on accompanying me everywhere my date and I go. ## Senior News

Wednesday, January 26, the Senior Class ordered their graduation announcements. The play cast has met several times for practice.

A housewife was interviewing an applicant for a job as her cook. "Do you know how to serve company?" she asked. "Yes, Ma'am, both ways," was the applicant's reply. "Just what do you mean by 'both ways'?" "So's they'll want to come back again—and so's they won't."

A friend of ours, a well-known Hollywood pediatrician, got an urgent call from a scenario writer who said his small son had swallowed his fountain pen. "I'll be right over," declared the physician. "But tell me, what are you doing in the meantime?" "Using a pencil," replied the writer.

EDITORIAL CAN WE FEED THE WORLD?

Over the years, there have been so many wailing predictions of famine in the world that many people have stopped listening. We hear that there are millions of hungry Asians, Africans and South Americans, but so it has always been and so it will always be. Or so it seemed. Now, however, it appears that a global famine really is looming ahead of us. For the past six years the human race has not been able to produce as much food as it has eaten. Our stockpiled surpluses are gone. "Not long ago," says Lester R. Brown of the Agriculture Department's International Development Service, "we thought of the food-population crisis as being in the future. Now we have to readjust our thinking. That crisis is here now."

The center of the crisis is that sprawling misery, that anarchy of 500 million people, India. All this past year a gigantic armada of 600 ships has been ferrying American wheat to India at the rate of a million tons a month—one quarter of the entire U. S. crop. Yet up to 2 million people may still starve to death in the drought-plagued northern provinces of Uttar Pradesh and Bihar.

American reactions to the crisis have been widely divided. Emotional liberals, who feel that this rich land has a moral obligation to feed the world's hungry, have been wringing their hands at Washington's reluctance to send still greater shipments of food across the Pacific. Emotional conservatives, on the other hand, wonder aloud why we should continue to send help to the unresponsive and ungrateful. President Johnson characteristically followed a middle course, announcing, after some delay, the shipment of another 900,000 tons of grain in emergency aid.

Why the delay? Some suspected that the President might be irritated at India's outspoken opposition to his Vietnam policy, but there was no public confirmation of that. Others argued that the President wanted to pressure other nations into helping—"The United States can't do all this alone," said Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman—and the Soviets, whom we once would have tried to block from such a project, soon announced that they would send India 200,000 tons. But the best reason might be that President Johnson's new Food for Freedom Program requires that American food shipments go not just to the hungry but to those who show signs of helping themselves. And the tragedy of India is that so many of its wounds are repeatedly self-inflicted.

"India has as much cultivated farmland as the United States but uses less than one-tenth as much fertilizer and produces less than half as much food. Yet until last year the government maintained a state monopoly on fertilizer production and refused to let foreign countries build fertilizer plants. With modern methods, experts believe, India's food output could be quadrupled. "Age-old habits and rituals are another vexation. An estimated 20 percent of India's grain crop is eaten by rats, but there are still religious injunctions against using pesticides. And many Indians still revere the 200 million cattle that forage through the countryside, munching whatever they like. "Modern agriculture requires huge capital investments, but India annually uses $1.5 billion in precious funds on its military machine, mostly aimed against neighboring Pakistan. "Corruption, inefficiency and apathy magnify the problem. There have been widely reported instances of prosperous southern provinces refusing to help feed the northern ones, and of U. S. food shipments rotting in Indian ports. "Starvation in India is nothing new," one local official remarked. "Why make such a fuss about it?" Though India is at the center, the food crisis now extends over the whole underdeveloped world. It is not just the crisis of food, of course, but of food and population, of rising birth rates and lower death rates. In the past five years, while the world's food production has grown by one percent a year, its population has grown two percent a year. To some, this means that the underdeveloped nations must somehow be pressured into reducing their birth rates, but the prospects are none too encouraging, and the experts predict that the world's population will increase by one billion people in the next 15 years. Others, more hopeful, point out that less than

Teacher Appreciation Tea Held Recently

On Wednesday morning of last week, the Student Council hosted a tea for the teachers. Student Council President Buddy Comer welcomed the teachers with a word of appreciation for them. Refreshments were served. The highlight came when the "Misfits," Connie Dudley, Margaret Minyard, Nancy Long, Nancy Nance, Venita Teeple, Pam Thompson and Mary Lane Whitfill sang the following to the tune of "Green, Green."

Teach, teach is all they do, In this 'ol school of ours. Teach, teach the whole day thru, Until they're old and sour.

We didn't know Zobie liked books so well, Now you ask why that should be. It seems it's Leggett she sees, In the library.

There's Mrs. Carr, whose name is quite odd, Cause it sounds like an automobile. And then there's Grod, who's quite a guy, 'Cause the Democrats give'm a thrill.

Now Hinds and T.A.T. have a lot in common, One lacks a little, the other a lot. The place we're speaking of is very bare, And it should be covered with hair.

Herb and Nutt sound like a lot of food, And to think they both have chewed. If they don't both change to a pipe, Then they are going to have to change to stripe.

We have two teachers we'll call Mutt and Jeff, Mutt's taller from the right to the left.

We all know Jeff, but Wiggins is Mutt, And we don't mean this as a cut.

Wood and Redin have been here a while, But they both still wear a smile. Do they, or don't they—it doesn't show, For only their hairdresser knows.

Art isn't shy, he's quite a guy, But at ag do they hear him sigh. There's a little girl at the corner food store, He gives her kisses galore!

Oliver knows what's best for us, And he tells us every day. Don't go parking with her girl, Like he used to do with Faye.

Lois and Roy, so we have heard, You're expecting a visit from a bird. It's not a penguin, and it's not a lark, Could it be the stork!

These are the teachers we love and know, And we don't mean to step on your toe. Cause you've done so very much for us, And it's you we appreciate!

10 percent of the earth's surface is cultivated, and that the sea contains unmeasured riches. Can we then, with our technical resources, feed the rest of the world indefinitely? Perhaps, but as one former agriculture official put it, "All that free food depresses foreign markets, discourages their farmers, makes them victims of food imperialism. It's not good for them, and it's not good for us." Instead, the best answer probably lies in providing more technicians, know-how and supplies to help the hungry nations to feed themselves. But this answer is by no means infallible. "We have the techniques to do it," said one U. S. official. "But to put them to use means changing the habits of half of the world."

Norris - Pitchford Vows Exchanged Here In Candlelight Ceremony

In a lovely 6:00 p.m. candlelight ceremony in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Parker, her sister, Miss Ruby Ione Norris, became the bride of Donald Ray Pitchford.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mart Norris and the late Mr. Norris, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Pitchford of Texarkana, Arkansas.

The Rev. Clyde R. Cain, pastor of First Baptist Church, officiated at the single ring ceremony before lighted branch candelabra entwined with camador and pom pom mums and tied with blue bows.

Tapers were lighted by Susie Parker and Jackie Davis, niece and nephew of the bride.

Miss Jackie Carol Tate was accompanied by Mrs. L. B. Garvin, jr., as she sang "Twelfth of Never" and "The Wedding Prayer." Best man was David E. Nall of Shreveport, Louisiana.

Miss Linda Yancey, maid of honor, was attired in an A-line dress of blue bonded lace with matching accessories. She carried a colonial nosegay of pom poms showered with blue and white ribbons. She wore a band with circlet of illusion.

The bride's waltz-length dress of white peau de soie was styled with a portrait neckline and alencon lace. Her sleeves ended in petal points over her hands. Her tiered veil of illusion was secured by peau de soie roses encrusted with pearls. She carried a bouquet of feathered carnations surrounding an orchid atop her lace-covered Bible. For something old, she placed inside her Bible a silk handkerchief belonging to her paternal aunt. Her something borrowed was a string of pearls from a childhood friend. The bride placed the traditional penny in her shoe for luck.

For traveling, the bride lifted the orchid from her bridal bouquet. A reception was held immediately following the ceremony. The table was laid with white lace cloth over blue. The tiered wedding cake and the bridal bouquet completed the table decor.

Miss Brenda Beames registered the guests.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Alex Pitchford of Texarkana, Arkansas; Mr. and Mrs. David E. Nall of Shreveport, Louisiana; Mrs. Sam Ingram, Mrs. Idella Hyatt, Mrs. Ladell Luster, all of Tulia; and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin R. Norris of Plainview.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will be at home in New Orleans, Louisiana.

Anna Lee Anderson spent a week in Amarillo with Lalla Brown and Mrs. Margaret Burnet recently. She and Mrs. Burnet spent the weekend in Hereford with Mrs. R. L. Campbell, who is recuperating with a broken hip in the home of Roberta Campbell and Buddy Bob.

Mrs. A. T. Brooks and Mrs. Pete Hale were in Tulia Monday.

Home Demonstration Agent Only District II, of the 12 Extension Districts in Texas, has its own THDA (Texas Home Demonstration Association) College Scholarship. There are three State Scholarships: Maggie W. Berry, Helen Swift and Bonnie Cox. They are all $500.00 scholarships.

Money for the district scholarship is from donations from each HD Club in District II. $5.00 per club is the maximum contribution. The scholarship is awarded to a 4-H girl who is a senior in high school interested in attending Texas Tech and majoring in Home Economics.

June 15 is the deadline for entering your record for this award. I helped judge for the scholarship this past year, which was awarded to Iva Tanner of Lamb County.

Mrs. Wilbur Smith of Lynn County, who is president of the National Homemakers Extension Council encouraged THDA members to plan to attend the annual National Convention in South Dakota July 31 through August 3, at the recent THDA training meeting in Lubbock.

Recent Bride Feted With Shower Here

Mrs. Johnny Jowell was honored at a miscellaneous shower in the home of Mrs. Wade Steele on Saturday, January 28. Mrs. Steele, Mrs. Jowell and her mother-in-law, Mrs. J. E. Jowell, received the guests.

Mrs. Louie Kitchens presided at the guest registry securing names for the bride's book. Mrs. Lowell Callaway, Mrs. J. D. Nance, Mrs. J. D. McGavock, Mrs. Marlin Jarnagin, and Mrs. Sam Lewis showed the gifts.

Mrs. Alva Jasper and Mrs. Garland Francis served refreshments from a table laid with a white and blue linen cutwork cloth. The centerpiece was an arrangement of white carnations and blue candles in crystal container from which blue streamers extended to the edge of the table.

Hostesses were Mmes. Lowell Callaway, Aubrey Rowell, Frank Mercer, Jimmie House, Fred Brannon, Lenton Lanham, J. D. Nance, J. D. McGavock, Louie Kitchens, Garland Francis, Alva Jasper, Marlin Jarnagin, Sam Lewis and Wade Steele.

The annual District 2 THDA meeting April 13 will convene in Snyder this year. Mrs. Allen Kellum, your county THDA chairman, has registration forms for those planning to attend.

Mrs. Obra Watson and I attended the meeting in Seminole last year and felt it was a rewarding experience. Be making your plans and arrangements early so we will have a representative group there from Briscoe County. This will be the first year we are eligible to have voting delegates.

Congratulations, Mrs. Elton Cantwell. Six 4-H members have completed the Child Care Unit I project. Those turning in their records and now eligible for certificates of completion are Louise Croft, Ramona Martin, Laura Arnold, Barbara Ledbetter, Mary Chris Cantwell and Debbie Cantwell.

In this project they learned to understand the pre-school child. Many stated in their stories that they were now more patient with younger sisters and brothers. They made toys for children and studied how to help feed pre-school children a good snack.
