Pre-School Children Target For Immunizations

A probability of epidemics increases as fewer pre-school children are immunized against preventable communicable diseases, one authority warns.

"In Texas, vaccines have reduced cases of communicable diseases, but the proportion of adequately immunized pre-schoolers is declining—causing great concern," Dr. Barbara A. Sears notes.

The health education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, cited figures from a recent American Medical Association report.

"In 1964, the U. S. Immunization Survey revealed that 88 percent of pre-school children, ages one to four, had received three or more doses of polio vaccine.

"By 1972, this figure dropped to 63 percent—the lowest in 15 years.

"Far too many parents—including those in higher income brackets—wait until their children start school to 'get their shots,'" she continued.

"If all children—including pre-schoolers—received complete immunizations, diphtheria, polio, measles, rubella (German measles), tetanus and pertussis (whooping cough) could be virtually eliminated."

Texas school children, Dr. Sears pointed out, have excellent protection against these diseases—largely because of mandatory school immunization laws.

"Since the U. S. has been relatively free of preventable communicable diseases—

Americans Need To Take Postive Action To Avoid Recession

LLOYD BENTSEN
 United States Senator

As Americans, we must take forceful, positive action to avoid the strong possibility of recession in coming months.

Many people are beginning to feel that forces beyond anyone's control have taken over our country's economic destiny.

There is a deepening feeling that our high standard of living is endangered by run-away inflation, recession, and unemployment — compounded by the energy shortage, the steel shortage and an endless list of other shortages and scarcities.

People are weary of economic phases and empty phrases which bring no relief to the nation's economic ills. They are beginning to feel overwhelmed and to lose confidence in the ability of government and our economic system to meet the problems.

Yet the fault lies not in our system — but in mismanagement of the system. We are not the victims of sinister or uncontrollable forces, but of wrong-headed policies and leaders who are doing a poor job.

REDUCE INTEREST RATES

There are plenty of things being done wrong. The Administration has deliberately driven up interest rates through a Federal Reserve Board policy of tight money supplies. The theory is that this will slow the rate of money lending

Current Decorating Trends Accent Wallpaper

Up-to-date home interiors accent with wallpaper. Dating back to ancient times, wallpaper popularity has fluctuated in recent years. Today's wallpaper, however, offers great diversity and challenges for creative imaginations with its broad ranges of color, pattern and texture.

Wallpaper isn't limited to walls. Innovative homemakers use it on screens, furnishings and other decorative accessories. Also, with proper use, wallpaper improves problem areas. For example, it can "clear" a spacious-looking room, or make a large, empty space seem more cozy. Wallpaper also can separate or coordinate areas where other means prove impractical. In addition, it easily covers or camouflages wall surface defects and blemishes.

On the "minus side," after two or three layers of wallpaper are applied to a surface, they must be removed before applying a new finish. Although time-consuming for an amateur, this process is relatively simple for persons using professional equipment.

When decorating with wallpaper, consumers should understand ing and stop inflation. But, as we've seen, it hasn't worked.

What we should do is work to lower interest rates — by loosening the money supply.

We should also take direct measures to help industries and employees adversely affected by the energy crisis. Federal guaranteed loans should be provided for industries to help them convert to cheaper, more abundant fuels or to produce other products. That would keep them moving, and their employees on the job.

There should be strong investment incentives to American industries that need help in meeting foreign competition.

And, we must make sure that our nation's farmers get enough fertilizer to produce the record crops we need to provide adequate food at fair prices. It would be hard to over-emphasize the importance of fertilizer in this time of rising food prices. I co-sponsored a Senate resolution urging the Administration to give a priority fuel allocation to fertilizer plants. This would enable them to produce an additional 300,000 tons of fertilizer this year, and help our farmers increase food supplies.

LONG-RANGE POLICY NEEDED
 It is important that we take immediate steps to deal with our economic problems, and the steps I have outlined speak to that need. But at the same time, we have to look ahead. The Joint Economic Committee has named me chairman of a new Subcommittee on Economic Growth to make an intensive study of economic trends and prospects on which to base long-range planning.

The area of inquiry for this new subcommittee will be all the long-range measures we should be taking to ensure our future economic health. Our country's potential remains strong. And, with proper care and attention, we face a bright, healthy economic future.

But it would serve no purpose to deceive ourselves with optimistic talk about the short run. There are some sober times ahead — and to deny it would be foolish.

about getting their children vaccinated.
"Yet, because of lower immunization levels in Mexico and the frequency of border crossings, Texas always faces the possibility of outbreaks.

"And the pre-school population represents the most susceptible age group at present."
The specialist, therefore, urges parents to start their children's immunizations early in life.

"Also, keep a personal immunization record on each child—showing dates and kinds of immunizations received.
"All must be validated by a physician or health clinic when a child starts to school," she added.
The Texas State Department of Health suggests the following immunization schedule, which can be changed as necessary by a private physician.

Weed Control Recommendations Given For Area

Prevention is the only way to go when it comes to weed control in sorghum, says Dr. James Supak, area agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Cultural practices such as crop rotation, good bed preparation and early season cultivation go a long way toward keeping weeds out of the fields, he says.

"Johnson grass and volunteer off-type sorghum infestations are extremely difficult to control in grain sorghum. Fields known to be infested with these weeds should be rotated to other crops such as soybeans, cotton or wheat," Supak advises. "Also, thorough seedbed preparation speeds crop seed germination for uniform stands that best compete with early germinating weeds.

"Herbicide treatments and early season cultivation also are effective in well prepared fields. Shallow working of seedbeds after pre-watering to destroy early germinating weeds effectively gets rid of the first weed crop without excessive losses of soil moisture."

Supak explains that Milogard may be applied preplant for broad-leaf and grass weed control by spraying land already bedded and incorporating with a rolling cultivator. "This treatment can be applied up to four weeks before pre-plant application than for a pre-emergence treatment because some of the chemical decomposes before planting.

"Preplant application necessitates bed planting to minimize the movement of herbicide-treated soil from the top of the bed," he continues. "On clay loam soils, a preplant application of three lbs./A Milogard (incorporated with rolling cultivator) just prior to pre-plant irrigation has been the most effective treatment for watergrass control. If watergrass emerges after this treatment, AAtrex can be applied at two lbs./A and incorporated with a rolling cultivator when sorghum is about six inches tall."

The specialist also says that Milogard will not control seedlings that emerge when sorghum is watered up with furrow irrigation, because weed roots are below the herbicide. Sprinkler irrigation, on the other hand, provides adequate herbicide movement into the soil to insure weed control.

"Milogard is a good preplant or pre-emergence herbicide, but it does have its limitations," he cautions. "This herbicide will not control perennial weeds such as bindweed, Johnsongrass and white-weed. Also, control of goatheads and devil's claw is usually poor if treatment rates are below two lbs./A. Deep germinating weeds such as pie melon, volunteer castor and annual morning glory are frequently not controlled because they germinate below the treated zone.

Milogard also is a stable compound which persists in soils for long periods, Supak notes. If more than 1.5 lbs./A are applied, corn and sorghum are the only summer crops that can be grown the next year but plantings of wheat, sugar beets, soybeans and vegetables should be delayed for at least 18 months following application. The use of Milogard also is restricted to fine sandy loams and heavier textured soils. Use of this herbicide on sandy or loamy sand soils can result in serious crop injury.

Residue problems associated with this chemical can be reduced by combining Milogard with short residual herbicides such as Lorox or Ramrod. The Lorox - Milogard combination (marketed under the tradenames of LOP-64 and Prolin) give good pigweed control but annual grass control has not been as effective with this mixture as Milogard alone. The Ramrod-Milogard mixture also gives good pigweed control and has been very effective against watergrass if rainfall or a sprinkler irrigation occurs within five days after application, according to the agronomist.

"Use of this mixture also is limited to the sandy loam and heavier textured soils," he adds. "Producers should pay close attention to suggested application rates for sandy loam and loam soil because this mixture is more prone to cause crop injury than Milogard alone. These mixtures were formulated to reduce Milogard residues, not crop injury problems. Company literature should be checked for proper rates and for the crops that can be grown in rotation."

Igran is a short residual pre-emergence sorghum herbicide that can be used in many crop rotation, he says. This herbicide can be used on sandy soils for pigweed con-control and on finer textured soils for annual grass and pigweed control without crop injury. When used in furrow planted sorghum on sandy land, only a 10-inch band of the chemical should be applied.

Concludes Supak, "A good weed control program must be based on management practices that combine the use of herbicides with sound cultural practices. Such things as destroying weed seed resources near waterways, tailwater pits and turnrows along with crop rotation, good seedbed preparation and timely cultivation and knifing operations go far in helping grain sorghum producers achieve good weed control year after year."

"I FELT IT"

I know I was saved because I felt it, is the answer some give as to the kind of evidence they have.

But this is not dependable evidence, is it? How do they know how a saved person is supposed to feel? They never felt that way before for they never claimed salvation before. If they do not know the particular feeling they had is evidence of salvation.

Has anyone ever felt he was saved and then later decided he was not? Yes, many have had this experience. Well, if it was possible for one person to be mistaken about feelings, might it be possible that you, too, are mistaken?

"There is a way which seemeth right unto man, but the end thereof are the way of death." (Prov. 14:12). Saul thought and felt he was right while persecuting the church: "I verily thought with myself, that I ought to do many things contrary to the name of Jesus." (Acts 26:9). Yes, a person can feel right and be wrong.

Of course, when a person is saved he ought to feel good about it, but he ought to have more reliable evidence than his own fallible feelings. "And hereby we do know that we know him, if we keep his commandments." (1 John 2:3). Read Mark 16:15-16; Acts 2:38; 10:47:148; 22:16.

Hamilton - Bean Nuptials Are Exchanged At Lubbock

Hodges Chapel of the First Christian Church in Lubbock Friday evening, March 22, at 7:30 p.m. Miss Debra Diane Hamilton and Kenneth Ray Bean exchanged marriage vows.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. B. Bob Hamilton of Lubbock and Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Hamilton of Tulia.

Rev. Harvie M. Pruitt, minister of the Smithlawn Church of Christ in Lubbock, performed the double ceremony. Miss Arlene Frost of Lubbock was soloist. Eddie Brown of Brownfield presented the organ music.

For the wedding the altar was decorated with three large bouquets of pink and better times gladiolas, red roses, Gigi carnations and baby's breath with leather leaf greenery. One large arch candelabra with 15" pink tapers was in the center. Two heart shaped candelabra with the same pink tapers were linked with smilax roping on either side. Next to them were two smaller arch candelabra with more pink tapers. The bride and groom each used a single white taper to light the white memory candle concluding their wedding service.

Hurricane lights with pink tapers served as pew markers. Pink bows with Gigi carnations were draped on each aisle.

Mrs. Johnnie Sanders of Canyon served as matron of honor. Miss Sherrie White of Lubbock was the bridesmaid. Miss Stacy Whitney was the junior bridesmaid and Miss Kelly Whitney was the flower girl. Both are cousins of the bride and the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Whitney of Lovelland.

The attendants were gowned in floor length pink double knit dresses trimmed in white lace. The long sashes were tied in the back in square knots. Each wore a pearl necklace that was given as a bridesmaid gift. Each attendant carried a cascade of Gigi carnations, pink

For something old the bride carried a lace handkerchief belonging to her great grandmother. Something borrowed was a pearl necklace. The traditional blue garter was worn and a penny placed in her shoe. For something new the bride wore a gold ring, a gift from the groom, with the mounting designed in the shape of a grape cluster using pearls accented by a single diamond.

rhinoculars, red sweetheart roses, baby's breath and needlepoint ivy with picoted ribbon streamers. They also wore a crown of flowers in their hair that accented their bouquets. The flower girl carried a small white basket of flowers in shades of pink.

The groom wore a blue western-cut tuxedo with a lily of the valley boutonniere. The men in the wedding party wore black tuxedos with pink Gigi carnation boutonnieres. Best man was Pat Estes of Lubbock, and groomsmen were Ken Miller of Dallas and Brent Hamilton, brother of the bride, of Lubbock. Ushers were Brad Hamilton, also a brother of the bride, and Don Bucholz, both of Lubbock.

The bride's mother selected a deep pink double knit floor length dress. The bodice, collar and long sleeves were of matching lace. The skirt fell in an A-line. The groom's mother chose a Nardis pale blue polyester floor length dress. It featured a roll collar over a V-shaped opening at the neck, long gathered sleeves, a self belt with a gold double-hooked buckle, and a gathered skirt. The mothers' corsages were white Jaffett orchids.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church. A white floor-length lace tablecloth covered the bride's table on which was used an arrangement of flowers in shades of pink. The punch service and appointments were silver. The three tiered white wedding cake was accented with a cascade of light and dark pink roses with light green leaves. Green and white mints were also served.

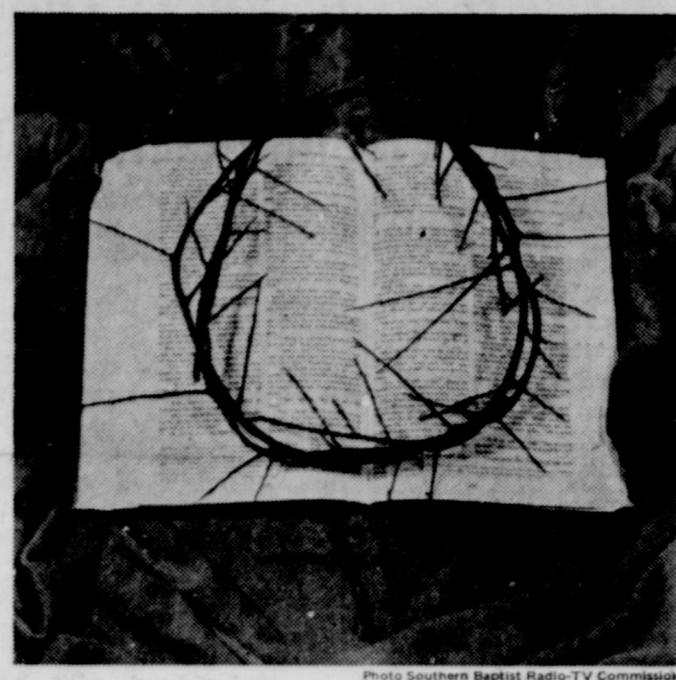

The groom's table had a green velvet runner. A gold coffee service and gold appointments were used. The two layer chocolate groom's cake was decorated with colorful marzipan fruit. Nuts were also served. The centerpiece was arranged in a gold container with orange spider mums, orange gladiolas, large golden and brown daisy mums and pink rhinoculars with leather leaf.

After the reception the bride changed to a navy blue and white floor length princess dress with a scooped neckline and long sleeves with ruffles at the wrists. Her going away corsage was a white gardenia with stephanotis.

After the couple return from their honeymoon, they will reside on Route 1, Tulia.

A rehearsal dinner Thursday evening was hosted by the bridegroom's parents at the Gridiron in Lubbock.

Nine courtesies were given the couple in Lubbock. An introductory shower was also given in Tulia in the new home of Mrs. Coy Carlisle.

GOOD FRIDAY - THE CRUCIFIXION
John 19:16-21 & Mark 15:33-39

From The Living Bible

Then Pilate gave Jesus to them to be crucified. So they had him at last, and he was taken out of the city, carrying his cross to the place known as "The Skull," in Hebrew, "Golgotha." There they crucified him and two others with him, one on either side, with Jesus between them. And Pilate posted a sign over him reading, "Jesus of Nazareth, the King of the Jews." The place where Jesus was crucified was near the city; and the signboard was written in Hebrew, Latin, and Greek, so that many people read it. Then the chief priests said to Pilate, "Change it from 'The King of the Jews' to 'HE SAID, I am King of the Jews.'" About noon, darkness fell across the entire land, lasting until three o'clock that afternoon. Then Jesus called out with a loud voice, "Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani?" ("My God, my God, why have you deserted me?") Some of the people standing there thought he was calling for the prophet Elijah. So one man ran and got a sponge and filled it with sour wine and held it up to him on a stick. "Let's see in Elijah will come and take him down!" he said. Then Jesus uttered another loud cry, and dismissed his spirit. And the curtain in the Temple was split apart from top to bottom. When the Roman officer standing beside his cross saw how he dismissed his spirit, he exclaimed, "Truly, this was the Son of God!"

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

and 256 were present for the luncheon on Saturday.

The convention was presided over by Mrs. O. C. Rampley of Silverton, who has served the district as president during 1972-74. In appreciation for her service, the Caprock District clubwomen presented her a lovely diamond and ruby drop and matching earrings. Their gift to the president's husband was a plaque, inscribed "In appreciation to O. C. Rampley for sharing Faye with Caprock District 1972-74."

Silverton's three federated clubs were represented at the convention, with local clubwomen taking part on the program and receiving awards for reports and projects completed during the past year.

Mrs. Leland Wood won second place in the General Division of the Fashions for Fun Contest with a three-piece ensemble she had made. The costume consisted of a brown linen A-line skirt with box pleat in front, an oatmeal linen jacket embroidered with brown and black roses and leaves, and a shirt of oyster handkerchief linen. Both the jacket and shirt were designed in a loose-fitting style with pointed collars on partial bands, five slits and long sleeves with plackets gathered onto buttoned cuffs. The jacket with patch pockets was fully lined and slightly gathered in back onto a one-piece yoke.

Mrs. Wood represented the Century of Progress Study Club.

Other awards won by Century of Progress Study Club were first places in the Conservation Department Conservation Education and Environmental Responsibility divisions and in Americanism; and second places for the Conservation Department Natural Resource Management Division and Historian.

Mrs. Jay Towe represented the L. O. A. Junior Study Club in the contemporary fashion show at the noon luncheon, modeling a slip-over dress.

L. O. A. Junior Study Club awards were a first place for the Conservation Department Report written by Mrs. Stanley Fogerson, and second place for the Poet Laureate Contest entry written by Mrs. Fogerson. Mrs. John Herring's District Texas Heritage Report won third place.

Attending from L. O. A. Junior Study Club were Mrs. John Schott, president, Mrs. Randall Eddleman, Mrs. Stanley Fogerson, Mrs. Gary

Weeks, president-elect, Mrs. John Herring, Mrs. Jerry Baird, Mrs. Jay Towe, Mrs. Bud Couch, Mrs. Orville B. Turner, Mrs. William Powell, Mrs. Terry Bomar, Mrs. Fred Edwards, Mrs. Mabry Greenhaw, Mrs. Roland Montague, Mrs. Wayne Nance, Mrs. Mike Pigg and Mrs. John Wyatt.

Mrs. Fred Mercer, Caprock District Recording Secretary, and Mrs. Roy Mayfield represented March of Time Study Club.

Rampley, Caprock District President; Mrs. Marvin Montague, Caprock District Secretary - Treasurer; Mrs. John Gill, club president; Mrs. F. E. Hutsell, club president-elect; Mrs. James Davis, Mrs. Wayne Mayfield, Mrs. Carl Bomar, Mrs. Leland Wood, Mrs. Edwin Dickerson and Mrs. Jack Sutton.

Keynote speaker for the convention, Dr. C. L. Kay, assistant president of Lubbock Christian College, carried out the convention theme, "American Youth," by addressing the group on "What's Right With American Youth."

He concluded that we cannot blame the American youth for the major problems of our nation today. We never hear the good that they are doing publicized —only the bad. They are still young people who are energetic, alert, willing to adapt to changes necessary to make the world a better place in which to live.

Dr. Kay was head of the Department of Religion at West Texas State University in Canyon from 1954 until 1957, when he joined the staff of Lubbock Christian College as Professor of History and Government and Dean of Students. In 1959, he was appointed Dean of Student Life. From 1960 to 1966 he was Vice-President of Public Affairs and on December 1, 1966, he was appointed Assistant President of LCC.

In addition to his work in the field of education, Dr. Kay has been very active in a number of civic projects, and belongs to several civic, service and law enforcement organizations. Dr. Kay has delivered over 3,500 addresses on the Principles of the American System of Private Enterprise, the nature of man, comparative economic systems, and the religious, historical and moral values that have contributed to the economic well being. He is an exponent of the free market, private ownership of property, and limited government rationale.

Dr. Kay has received over forty citations and awards for his work in public affairs and five "George Washington Medals of Honor," awarded by Freedoms Foundation in Valley Forge.

Texas Day Program Held In Mayfield Home On March 27

Century of Progress Study Club met for its Texas Day program in the home of Mrs. Wayne Mayfield Wednesday, March 27.

The devotional was given by Mrs. Roland Montague, and roll call was "A Distinguished Texas Woman."

Mrs. Jack Sutton showed and narrated the film, "The Plains Trail." Clubmembers sang "Texas Our Texas" and "The Eyes of Texas," accompanied by Mrs. Marvin Montague.

After the business meeting, Mrs. Mayfield conducted a tour for the clubmembers of the original dugout on the Mayfield Ranch. Members went down into the dugout, which was built by Gid Mayfield, in 1890. It still has the original rock walls which were brought out of the canyons, and standing in the dugout is the cabinet and family dining table. This site is believed to have been an Indian campground at one time.

The program was concluded with a poem written by Mrs. Flora Dickerson, Briscoe County pioneer, called "The Texas Plains." The poem was read by Mrs. Edwin Dickerson, whose husband is a grandson of this Texas writer.

Fruitbars, coffee and punch were served to clubmembers by the co-hostess, Mrs. Leland Wood.

A short business meeting was held following the program to finalize preparations for the volleyball tournament. Members voted to send their adopted girl from Girlstown, Angela Eakright, a new Easter dress.

GOING UP...

A building is being erected. It is made of strong materials, steel and concrete. The foundation is firm and deep. The edifice is built to endure.

We need to build our homes to endure. They need a strong foundation. They need to be built on the rock of Christ. Psalm 127:1 reads, Except the Lord build the house, they labour in vain that build it. Attend church regularly that your house may be instructed in the ways of the Lord.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
