■ Mary and Ben Mesman possess a house full of relics from their native Holland. Ben is holding a giant wooden shoe called a klompen.

Story and photos by Rick White

FARWELL — Just inside the door are a pair of wooden shoes and a pair of snake skin cowboy boots.

The wooden shoes are a testament to his Dutch heritage; the boots a concession to his surrogate West Texas home.

Ben Mesman has been a Texan for almost three decades, operating a dairy east of Farwell, just off U.S. Highway 84. But his Dutch roots still run deep.

His accent remains thick. Most days his shoes remain wooden. His work ethic remains strong from the days at his dad's dairy.

Mesman returns to Holland often, and it was on one of this trips that he returned with another Dutch treat.

Friends would always ask Mesman to bring back some of Holland's famous Gouda cheese. But Mesman grew tired of lugging back suitcases packed with the mild cheddar cakes named after a town in Holland and decided to try and make his own.

For a dozen years now, Mesman has delighted

Council okays smoking ban

By SAMUEL VILLARREAL
Journal Staff Writer

Gone are the days of smoky back-room government decisions.

The Muleshoe City Council Tuesday passed an ordinance that bans smoking in city buildings and vehicles.

The health of both non-smoking employees as well as persons doing business with the city was cited council members as the main reason for enacting the new ordinance.

The Council exempted the Earl Ladd Fire Station from the ordinance.

Members of the Muleshoe Volunteer Fire Department had expressed earlier disapproval over a possible ban on smoking in the fire station. Council members decided to exempt the fire station because it is not commonly accessed by the public.

Juan Chavez was the only Councilman to vote against the ban. Councilman Roger Williams was not in attendance.

"I don't think that it is fair for us to tell some employees that they can smoke, and then turn around and tell others that they can't smoke," Chavez said.

City Manager James Fiusher reminded the council that the city is in no way required to provide employees with smoking privileges.

"The employees' first and foremost responsibility is to work for the city of Muleshoe," Fisher said.

In addition to the fire station, the interrogation room of the Muleshoe Police Department will also be exempted from the ordinance.

Council members were told that when police officers conduct an interview of witnesses, victims, or suspects, it is often advantageous to let that person smoke for the purpose of relaxing.

The ordinance will become effective Feb. 1, 1997.

In other business, council members approved the lease-purchase of three police vehicles from Muleshoe Motor Company. The city will lease three police vehicles for three years, with an option to buy at the end of the three-year period.

Lary Hooten, vice president of Muleshoe Motor Co, Inc. informed council members of a special finance program. According to Hooten, Ford Motor Credit Company is currently offering a special finance program for 1997 Crown Victoria Police Interceptors. The program will allow the city to make quarterly payments, the first of which can be deferred until April 1, 1997. The program

MISD accepting bids on new band hall

By SAMUEL VILLARREAL
Journal Staff Writer

The Board of Trustees of the Muleshoe Independent School District Monday approved that latest step in the construction of the new music facilities at Muleshoe High School.

After reviewing the plans for construction as presented by Adling Associates Architects of Lubbock, the board gave unanimous approval for the release of bids.

With the green light from the board, Adling Associates can now advertise and receive bids for the construction of a new 3,600 square-foot band hall.

The music additions and renovations have come about as a result of the new choir program that was started at MHS as well as Watson Junior High School. The program was reinstated after a lengthy hiatus because of the interest expressed by the student body.

"This gives kids another choice for a fine arts class," said Superintendent Bill Moore. "In addition, new graduation requirements call for students to earn an additional fine arts credit. This gives them another choice."

MISD has budgeted $230,000 for construction of the new band hall as well as renovations to convert the current band hall into a choir hall.

Most questions asked by the board about the new band hall were directed towards the accessibility of the building for handicapped students.

Bill Adling, of Adling Associates, told the board that the new band hall will include rest rooms and water fountains that are handicapped accessible.

The music storage area was also moved out of the upstairs level to maintain handicapped accessibility. The music library will be moved into a room in the main building that currently serves as the choir director's office.

Accidental fire uproots family

By RICK WHITE
Managing Editor

Sadie Lewis returned from her hometown of Fort Worth Monday with a suitcase chock full of Christmas presents.

Still groggy after rousing her youngest son out of bed shortly after 6 Tuesday morning for basketball practice, the Muleshoe mother of seven noticed a glow coming from the kitchen.

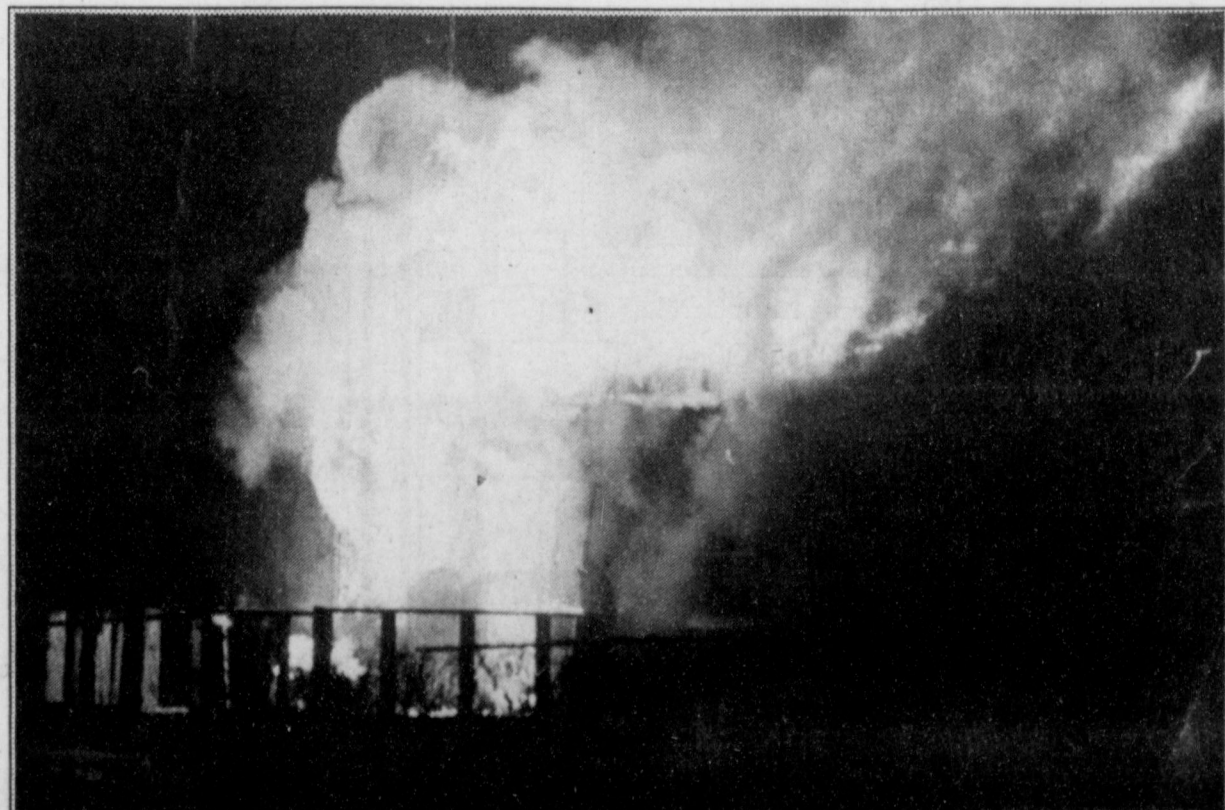

She went to investigate and was startled to see flames climbing one of the walls. A few seconds later, a "wire popped" and all the lights went out.

Sadie quickly woke the rest of her family and hurried them out of the house. Less than 30 minutes later, the house on West Chicago Avenue, that is within earshot of the railroad tracks, was completely engulfed.

Two hours later, all that was left was the charred skeleton the third-bedroom home the Lewises owned.

Gone were the Christmas presents, still packed in the suitcase, and all their worldly possessions. They escaped only

Christmas prayers

"Father, during this blessed season when we remember in a special way the miracle of the Incarnation, the birth of your Son, may we remember that He came, that He is coming again, and that His desire is to come into each of our lives every day during this and all seasons. May the joy of His coming fill our hearts and our lives.

In the name of the One who came down to lift us up, Amen."

— Curtis Shelburne,
Pastor, 16th & D
Church of Christ

"Lord, may the whole world become aware of your 'adoption plan' through your Son, Jesus Christ this season. May each one know the blessings of your 'fatherly love' bestowed upon us that we should be called: 'Sons of God.' Amen."

The band hall will be built on a portion of what is currently a parking lot between the old band hall and the high school gym. Several board members expressed concerns about traffic problems.

Adling explained that their plans include constructing a concrete "apron" with a curb that will surround the new band hall on all sides, plus steel pipes to protect pedestrians from traffic.

Board members also approved a list of prevailing wage rates of labor to be used in the construction and renovations. The prevailing wage rates establish the minimum that will be paid for certain types of labor. The rates range from $5 per hour for bricklayer helpers to $12 per hour for electricians.

Construction of the new band hall should be substantially complete by the end of May, according to the projected schedule. Renovations to the current band hall would begin shortly thereafter. Work is scheduled to be complete for the 1997-98 school year.

Santy's emission sticker

BAXTER BLACK
ON THE EDGE OF COMMON SENSE

The word came down last Christmas that Santy was not in compliance. His mode of transportation fell far short of the standards of science. The EPA and DOT proclaimed, and here's the real kicker, He'd be required to now possess an official emissions sticker.

So off he went to Fort McMurray, the nearest inspection station. He drove his team in through the door and was met by a congregation Of worker ants and clipboard kings all looking so officious. "Connect the hoses!" the head man said. The reindeer got suspicious.

"And be aware of pressure leaks, those backfires can be brutal. Now rev the RPMs up high and we'll check the whole caboodle." The carbon dioxide blinking lights began illuminating. "A direct result," the inspector said, "of reindeer ruminating."

"The methane levels must be checked out to protect from global warming." "Relax," said Santy, "the after burners will keep the methane conforming." "Just one more test," the inspector said, "to check for particulate matter." He kicked the RPMs on up. All thirty-two hooves made a clatter.

"You better back off," Santy shouted... but too late. The tragic result; the hoses blew and the reindeer flew like jets off a catapult! The blast blew out all the windows, eclipsed the A. Borealis. Lit up the Kremlin in Moscow and darkened the streets of Dallas.

It knocked the moon outta orbit and started an Arctic tsunami. It broke up a mortician party, just when it was gettin' embalmy. A mushroom cloud arose from the scene, a silent but deadly convectator. Below, knee deep in emissions stood the intrepid inspector.

He gathered up his dignity with a minimum of swearin'. Then with the edge of his clipboard and the hard hat he'd been wearin', He collected the solid particulates to complete ol' Santy's packet. By scrapin' the requisite samples off the front of his jacket.

with the clothes they were wearing.

No one was injured.

The house was not insured, nor were their possessions.

"We lost everything," Sadie said, still in shock while sitting in her next door neighbor's kitchen. "I don't even know how to start over."

Sadie Lewis works cleaning houses in Muleshoe. Her husband Clarence works at Hi-Pro Feeds in Friona. They have three sons and a daughter living at home.

Muleshoe Fire Marshal Jimmy Mills ruled the fire accidental. One of the gas burners was mistakenly left on, he said.

The Muleshoe community was quick to respond to a neighbor's needs.

Donated clothing started arriving soon after classmates learned of the fire. Relief funds were set up at both Muleshoe banks. The Bailey County Ministerial Alliance is putting the family up at the Heritage House Inn and the Red Cross stopped by before noon.

"The whole town has been so loving and giving," Sadie Lewis said. "And I thank the Lord for them."

She said the hardest part is going to be finding affordable housing that can accommodate a family of six.

Muleshoe forced to work overtime

A lot of hard work has gone into Muleshoe's surprising 11-4 start. Including plenty of overtime.

Muleshoe twice need overtime to win the consolation bracket in the I-27 Tournament this weekend, including a 57-56 win over Lubbock Christian High School Saturday in the final.

Friday, the Mules (11-4) needed overtime to beat Hale Center 65-61 Friday morning in the consolation quarterfinals. MHS then whipped Petersburg 75-64 Friday night to reach the final.

"I'll take a win anyway I can get it," Muleshoe coach Ralph Mason said about the growing expectations. "Sometimes I have to remind myself that we're young and still building."

MHS 57, LCHS 56 OT

Matt McClanahan scored on a feed from Matt Mason, giving Muleshoe a 57-56 lead with 10 seconds left in overtime. Lubbock Christian then had three shots at the potential game-winner.

"It was just one of those situations where you cross your fingers," Mason said.

The game was tied at 50 heading into overtime.

MHS' Alfonso Mendoza had 12 points, making 4 of 5 3-pointers. Dustin Cleavinger added 12 points and 7 rebounds for the Mules while McClanahan finished with 9 points and 7 rebounds.

Matt Paden led LCHS with 19 points.

The 5-8 junior wing made 7 of 11 shots, including 4 of 7 from 3-point range.

Douglass Field added 13 points and 5 rebounds for Muleshoe. McClanahan continued his solid all-around play with 10 points, 10 rebounds, 5 steals and 4 assists. Mason had 6 assists.

Lady Mules rule in 1-3A opener

FRITCH — Muleshoe coach Jim Gruhlkey had a surprising reaction after the Lady Mules beat Sanford-Fritch 50-29 in the District 1-3A opener for both teams.

"It was so relieved, I crashed on the bus on the way back," said Gruhlkey, a notorious worrier.

Gruhlkey had few worries after Muleshoe (4-10) turned the game into a rout by opening the third quarter with a 9-0 run. Muleshoe outscored Sanford-Fritch 17-4 in quarter, stretching a nine-point halftime lead to 42-20 heading into the fourth quarter.

Amy Locker, Kristen Nichols and Carolyn Schuster had 3-pointers in the third quarter.

"That's the best third quarter we've played all year," Gruhlkey said. "I saw a different look in the dressing room and on the floor. We looked more focused."

Brandi Harrison led a balanced Muleshoe attack with 15 points. Erin Wilhite added 8 points and 6 rebounds and Locker and Nichols each finished with 7 points.

"I was pleased with the ball movement," Gruhlkey said. "We were making the extra pass and giving the ball up."

Muleshoe forced 32 turnovers, including 20 steals.

Harrison scored 7 points and Wilhite added 4 points as led 13-5 at the end of the first quarter.

Muleshoe hosted a young Friona team Tuesday and then plays at Dalhart Friday in a pair of 1-3A games.

"You don't want to take Friona lightly," Gruhlkey said. "It doesn't matter what they have or we have, it's always going to be a tough game."

"But I think we have a chance to go 3-0 (in district). That was a goal. If we do that, we'll have a Merry Christmas."

Farwell slows Lazbuddie in title game

By RICK WHITE
Managing Editor

Farwell is just try to get noticed.

The Lady Blue gained a little attention Saturday, beating Lazbuddie 44-32 to win the Farwell Invitational tournament for the first time in 12 years.

"It feels great," said junior guard Candace Travis, who finished with 17 points and ignited a game-breaking 15-1 run in the second quarter. "It's a real important win because it gets us some recognition and builds our reputation."

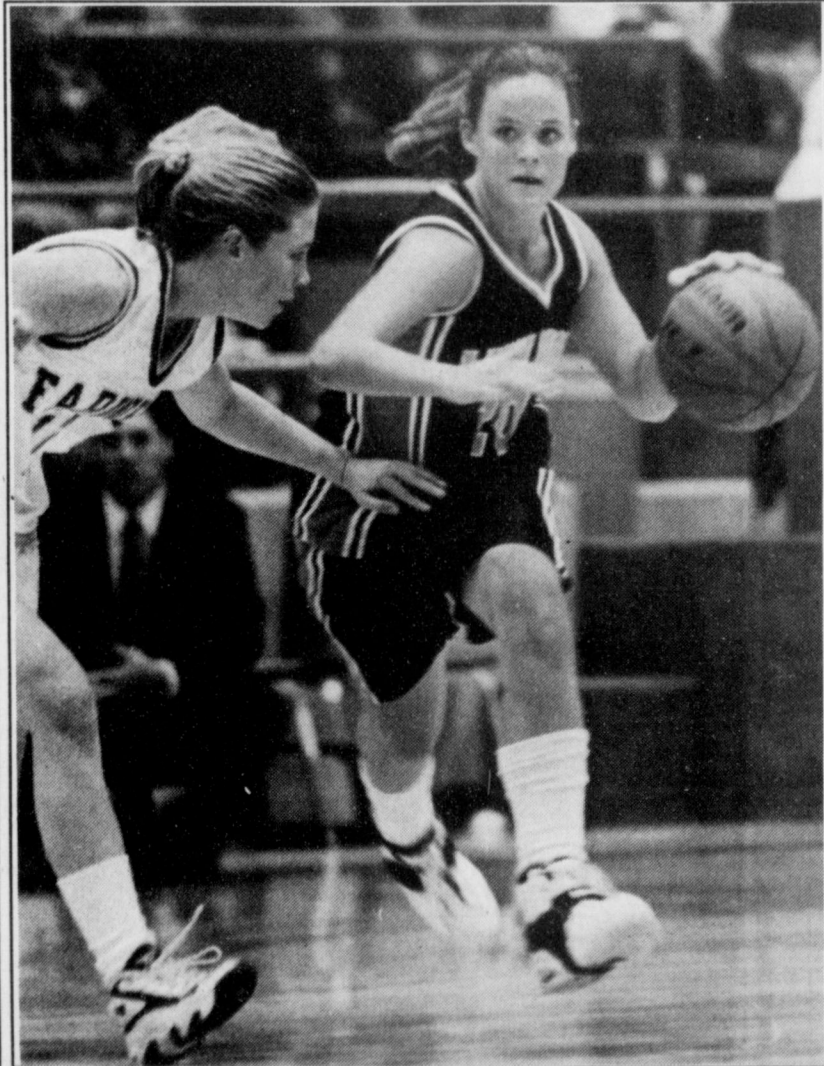

Playing in a district that includes three ranked teams in Nazareth, Happy and Vega makes it hard to get noticed.

Travis scored 8 points and freshman Ashley Crawford added 5 points in the run that turned a four-point deficit into a 25-15 lead with two minutes left in the half.

The Lady Blue led 27-19 at halftime.

The back-breaking run came with Lazbuddie's top two players on the bench. Roxann Warren, the Lady Longhorns' top inside threat and rebounder, picked up three fouls early and leading scorer and floor leader Holly Engelking was resting a sore knee.

Without them, Lazbuddie (10-3) struggled to get shots

Lopez silent warrior

FARWELL — Israel Lopez scored 26 points as Lazbuddie rebounded Saturday to beat Plains 66-54 and finished third at the Farwell Invitational.

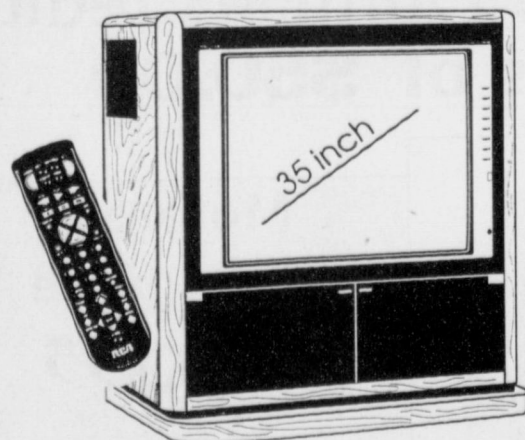

Lopez, playing in the considerable shadow of 6-7 post Jason Thomas, scored 13 points in the third quarter and 21 in the second half.

"He's a silent weapon," Lazbuddie coach Gary Grahn said. "So much emphasis is put on stopping Jason Thomas that it's nice to have a kid like Lopez who can drop in 26."

Lazbuddie stretched a four-point halftime lead to 15 by outscoring the Cowboys 20-9 in the third quarter.

with Travis and Crawford giving Lazbuddie ball handlers fits. Engelking (15 points) drilled a pair of 3-pointers in the first quarter and her short jumper from the block gave Lazbuddie a 14-10 lead early in the second quarter.

Farwell (12-2) held at least a nine-point lead throughout a low-scoring second half.

Engelking's third 3-pointer got Lazbuddie within 37-28 with two minutes remaining, but Travis answered with a 3-pointer to end any hope of a miracle comeback.

"They certainly dictated the pace of the game," Lazbuddie coach Carey Sudduth said. "We wanted to run up and down the court but they wouldn't let us."

The game surprisingly lack the emotion of a tournament championship game between county rivals just 20 miles apart. They are also in the same district this year.

"I was expecting an up and down, wild kind of scrambling game," Sudduth said. "I really don't know why it wasn't."

Veronica Mace added 10 points for Farwell and Crawford finished with 9.

Lazbuddie reached the finals with a dramatic double overtime win Friday in the semifinals.

Engelking hit three free throws with no time left on the clock at the end of the first Chris Smith added 14 points and Thomas finished with 12.

The win was bittersweet on the heels of a 54-50 loss to Texico in the semifinals.

"We weren't ready to play," Grahn said. "I hoped we learned a lesson. They were double teaming down low and we couldn't hit a shot and didn't attack the zone."

Warren scored a game-high 18 points for LHS.

"We've pretty much exceeded our expectations so far," Sudduth said. "We've beat some good teams and reached the finals of two tournaments in a row. The next step is to win one. But I'm so proud of the kids."

ter Thursday in the first round, Mason said.

Field (9 points) scored the first six points of overtime for Muleshoe. Mason and Norman each had a pair of 3-pointers and 8 points.

Coach Mason said Hale Center "killed us on the boards. That was something that hurt us all through the tournament."

Opponents are no longer willing to run with the Mules, instead they try to force MHS into a half-court game.

Lubbock Christian and Hale Center used zones exclusively to keep the game close and the pace slow.

MHS has the ability to shoot teams out of a zone, but needs to be more patient, Mason said.

"Against man-to-man, we can get good shots real quick. But against the zone, we get impatient and try to force things," Mason said.

Grudges sometimes replace giving

DENTON — While celebration and expectation, family and friends are part of the holiday season, forgiveness often is forgotten in the rush.

Family members see one another and remember old times — the good and the bad — and sometimes grudges replace giving. Instead, the holiday season can be a perfect opportunity to "mend fences" and build stronger relationships, according to family therapist Dr. Bill Anderson, associate professor of family sciences at Texas Woman's University.

"Our society has brainwashed us to think in terms of buy and spend, to expect more and to spend more and to equate money with happiness. Then we tie these ideas in with family — and it doesn't work," says Anderson. "Christmas and the holidays are a time of giving, regardless of religious orientation. It is time to take stock of our relationships, particularly in our families — both the family of our origin and our immediate family — and to consider ways that we can give to one another. And we should forgive and ask for forgiveness."

Family, according to Anderson, is a place or an environment where people can have the best (closeness and friendship) or the worst (separation, anger and grudges). He says that families should ask themselves: how can I give to my children, spouse or parents? "What gets in the way of this process is the fact that we live together; family members know our weaknesses and we know theirs. When we live with people in the same house and share our lives, there is more possibility of hurt than with neighbors or co-workers.

"We have to remember that love is reciprocal; therefore, the higher the expectations we have of our home life, the greater the chance we will be disappointed," he adds.

What steps can families take to forgive and grow, particularly during the holiday season? Anderson suggests focusing more on time together and less on gifts. "Families today make choices: is it more important to watch TV or to turn it off and talk with a spouse of the children, for example. We can control some of the fast pace of life — talk or go for a walk together. We still have the same amount of time together as we had as families 50 years ago — we just have to make choices to spend more time together."

He fondly remembers one family's gift to each other several years ago — love letters to one another, instead of presents from the store. Anderson says, "During the holiday season, we should ask ourselves: what would I like to contribute this Christmas? What would my family members like from me?" Families should focus on people, not consumerism because "society's focus on consumerism has made us a lonely society."

So...how can we mend family "fences" — relationships and connections that have broken down because of unrealistic expectations or hurt feelings? Forgiveness is the key, plus communication. "Life is too short to get even with everyone," says Anderson. "Holding a grudge eats away at people and makes them unhappy. People live together, hurt each other and must forgive; otherwise, we end up isolated and unhappy."

Holidays not time for losing weight

HOUSTON — Think "moderation" for a merry, but healthy holiday season.

"The holidays are not a time to try and lose weight, because festivities are often centered around lots of food and drinks. People should consider themselves successful by simply maintaining their weight during the holidays," said Lynne Scott, a registered dietitian and director of the Diet Modification Clinic at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

Eating healthy for the holidays is not that difficult if you plan ahead. It is hard to resist the temptations of traditional favorites, but low-fat recipe alternatives can keep you on track. If you are spending the holidays away from home, prepare a low-fat entree or vegetable tray to take with you.

Beware of sweets. Just because an item is fat-free does not mean its calorie-free. "People tend to think they can eat all they want if the item is fat free," said Scott, "but usually the calories in the fat-free item are close to the same as its fattening counterpart."

For parties, Scott says to eat before you go to avoid snacking on refreshments that are usually high in calories and fat, survey the entire buffet table before making your selection and choose moderate portions. Always have a drink in hand to sidestep a waiter putting something in your hand and avoid lingering near the food and bar area.

Finding time for exercise during the holiday season should also be a priority, since it can help keep you focused on maintaining your healthy weight.

Dutch

friends with 5 and 10-pound wheels of non-pasteurized, whole milk cheeses spiced with jalapeno, bacon bits, black pepper, and most recently garlic.

Mesman makes cheese in 90 pounds batches, starting with fresh milk. After cultures are mixed in, the cheese goes through a series of rinsing steps to remove milk sugar. After pressing the cheese into molds and letting it stand over night, it is soaked in brine, a process which adds salt naturally. Mesman seals the wheels with a chemical coating and then ages his creations in a walk-in cooler for 60 days.

It takes 1 1/2 gallons of milk to make a pound of cheese.

His business is strictly by word of mouth. News of his speciality cheeses has traveled fast, as Dutch cheesemaker products are now vacuum packed and mailed across the country.

"It's a hobby, but by the same token, I want to make some money at it," Mesman said.

He wouldn't say how much cheese he makes a year, but has already sold most of the 2,000 pounds he made for Christmas.

Mesman scoffs at American-made cheese, claiming it is aged too quickly through pasteurization that flattens the taste.

"In America, they send the low-grade milk to the cheese factories," Mesman said.

He did try Limburger cheese, once. Ugh, he grunted, scrunching up his nose in obvious reference to the cheese's notorious strong smell.

Mesman and his new bride Mary, moved to Southern California in 1959 when he was 27.

"When I left Holland, I vowed I'd never milk another cow," Mesman remembers. But he couldn't speak English and he "didn't know anything else."

So he worked as a hired hand at local dairies and saved his money.

In 1968, he bought a 40-head dairy on the site where he still lives for $20,000.

"I came (to the United States) to make something for myself," Mesman said.

He has since turned the tiny dairy that could only milk four cow at a time into a 1,000-head Holstein operation

His father always told him "don't ever milk more cows than you need to make a living."

"The help gives me more problems than the cows," said Mesman, who now works with his two sons, Ted and Berny.

Mesman has made a good living, evidenced by a spacious remodeled ranch house, complete with a in-ground swimming pool in the front yard.

He brags about being a Texan to his friends and family and friends back home.

And he could pass for a Texan, until you look down at his wooden shoes.
