Col. Humphreys Enters Scurry Oil Field

Annual Dinner of Scurry Chamber of Commerce Held

When the announcement was made by Mr. E. I. Thompson, president of the Loutex Corporation at the annual dinner of the Scurry County Chamber of Commerce that Col. Albert E. Humphreys and his immediate associates were entering the Scurry county oil field and had already commenced operations on the H. P. Wellborn farm in the southwest portion of the county, everyone present knew that not only was the judgment of the Loutex Corporation being accepted as well founded in its belief that there was a big pool in that territory but that the same man who has drilled more successful first test wells than perhaps any other living man was of this opinion also. The announcement to the banqueters came as a complete surprise but the thunder of applause that greeted Mr. Thompson's statement fully indicated the high regard in which the statement was accepted. Of all the representatives of the oil industry that might come into Scurry county with a view of developing its oil resources, none could give it more prestige and wholesome advertisement than Colonel Humphreys. Not only is he a big man in the oil industry but with it is a man interested in everything else that transpires in the community about him and leaves behind a record that that place was better by his having been there. May Colonel Humphreys and his associates meet with the same success in Scurry county as elsewhere.

A splendid attendance marked the dinner with plates reserved for 96 guests, among them a number of distinguished visitors, Hon. M. E. Rosser acted as toastmaster and after the dinner which consisted of the following menu:

Marshmallow Salad
Olives Pickles
Cranberry Sauce
Turkey Dressing Gravy
June Peas Cream Potatoes
Hot Rolls Coffee
Boiled Custard Fruit Cake

Following invocation by Rev. W. T. Rouse, Hon. R. M. Chitwood of Sweetwater spoke at length on the close union and fellowship of the towns in this section and the splendid feeling that existed among us. He dwelt on the high type of citizenship now existing and made strong appeal to keep it a white man's country for all time which meant the preservation of this close fellowship among us. Hearty applause greeted the speaker continuously throughout his address.

Dr. Coleman, well loved and known personally to practically every inhabitant for more than forty years in the Nolan, Mitchell and Scurry triangle although away from home stated he was at home and that nothing could efface the feeling within him that all of this territory was still his home town. Recounting of days of more than 40 years gone by, he stated gave him full liberty to contrast development and in closing paid high tribute to the work accomplished by the Chamber of Commerce.

County Judge Holley among many things done by the county stated that during the past year more than 125 miles of road had been built and the 1924 program called for something like 50 miles more to be built on the principal highways of the county. Thirty-five concrete bridges and dips, a carload of metal culverts and other permanent improvements have been made. Judge Holley stressed the important feature that the work which has been done during the past year is substantial and that there will be something to show for it as time goes on. The net county indebtedness is $265,000.00 against which the county owns property in buildings, bridges, permanent roads, machinery and many other items approximating close to one million of dollars. He further stated that in order to keep Scurry county tax money at home that it would be the policy of the Commissioner's court to reduce valuations rather than the tax rate; that personally he was much in favor of a Home Demonstration Agent and a County Agent for the county and that the Commissioners' Court would call an election soon as possible to revoke the county sanitarium bonds. These statements met with hearty applause and gave those present perhaps their first thought that while the county spends money it is also creating wealth and is the biggest owner of property in the county.

Mayor Fritz R. Smith then spoke on what the city has done in 1923 and expects to do in 1924 as follows: Have completed nearly six miles of macadamized highway through the city.

Have built 4 1-2 miles of sidewalks along most of the principal residence streets.

Have practically rebuilt the sewage disposal plant at a cost of about $3,000.00.

Have installed new well, pump and pump house increasing the city's water capacity to 265,000 gallons per day.

Have built 7 blocks of new sewer line at a cost of $2,200.00 connecting school house and also up main north highway.

Have put into service two new motor driven fire apparatus, purchased new fire hose, making it possible to reach property over six blocks from water line, all at a cost of $3,000.00.

Have collected $900.00 in street taxes for 1923 and expect to collect $1,200.00 for 1924.

Have installed 55 meters on water lines and increased number of customers over preceding year by 110 per cent. Have changed water and sewer system from where it was only returning $6,200.00 in former years of operation and operating at a loss to where this year will show more than $8,500 collected with a net profit over operating expenses of about $3,500.00. All this has been done in view of the fact water rates have been reduced three times from 42c per 1,000 gallons to 20c per 1,000 gallons in quantities over minimum.

Had interest in building bridge across Deep Creek.

A fair valuation of all property owned by the city of Snyder is $124,000.00 and the total indebtedness of the city on the first of January will be net $33,400.00. All of which has been done on the minimum tax rate of 65 cents.

And for 1924 we expect to—

Pave the square, and one block each way therefrom at least.

Gravel about five miles more of streets.

Continue the building of sidewalks.

Extend the water and sewer lines into those sections now not served.

Here was another eye opener and in conclusion the Mayor threw out the challenge that he did not believe there was another city the size of Snyder in the state that could show as much property owned, as little owed and with as small a tax rate as Snyder.

After Mr. Thompson had made his important announcement, the toastmaster read the following telegram from Colonel Humphreys:

Denver, Colo., Jan. 7, 1924. E. I. Thompson, Snyder, Texas.

Please express to the Chamber of Commerce my great regret in being unable to accept their invitation and be present at your banquet. I yearn for Texas and it's splendid people, and you can assure the Snyder people that our motto from the time the drill hits the first tap will be to accomplish what we have accomplished in other great fields in the Lone Star State. Kind personal regards to all.

A. E. HUMPHREYS.

In reply to which the following message was sent:

Jan. 8, 1924. Col. A. E. Humphreys, Denver, Colo.

The announcement made by Mr. Thompson at our annual dinner of your entering the Scurry county field met with tremendous enthusiasm. Permit us to extend the felicitations of this organization and well wishes of our entire Scurry county people with a sincere desire to extend you whatever service possible. With this wonderful combination we will all win.

Scurry County Chamber of Commerce.

Hamilton Wright, western editor of the Hearst newspaper syndicate made a short talk stressing among other things the extension of the Katy line westward stating that the towns west of here were anxious and willing to undertake the project. He recounted the trip of the locating board of the Texas Tech., and the day of balloting in Fort Worth when he thought Snyder had a dead cinch on winning.

In conclusion the toastmaster stated that with the many guests present he would like to have called upon each one of them for a short talk but on account of the lateness of the hour this would be impossible and would close the evening's program by a report of the past activities of the Chamber of Commerce and the program for the year 1924. On account of the lack of space in this issue of the Times-Signal, Mr. Anderson's report will be issued in full next week.

WRONG INFORMATION IN REFERENCE TO PUBLIC WEIGHING

In writing up the announcement of Frank Brownfield in last week's issue for public weigher, we stated that he was manager of the yard and that he did the weighing. Mr. Brownfield only weighed in the absence of Mr. McClinton, the weigher, and was not the regular weigher. He was manager of the Scurry County warehouse and deputy public weigher. This statement is made to keep the record straight.

ERECTING A NICE STUCKO RESIDENCE

Mr. A. L. Martin is converting the old bathing pool pavilion into a nice stucko residence in the east part of town. There will be six rooms and a bath. The building will be modern in every particular. The new home of Mr. Martin's will be quite an addition to the section of the city where it is being erected.

THE SIGNAL PLANT SOLD TO SLATON PARTIES

Last Friday the editor of the Times-Signal went to Slaton, where he closed a deal, selling the Signal printing plant to Messrs. W. P. Florence and Frank White. Mr. Florence is an old-time resident of Slaton, and Mr. White is from the Fort Worth Record. A newspaper will be started at Slaton to be known as the Slaton Plains Radiogram. The plant is being loaded out this week and before this issue of the Times-Signal reaches its subscribers' will have been placed at Slaton. We purchased the Signal the first of December and sold the plant the first day of January, owning it a few days over a month.

OBITUARY

In loving remembrance of Mr. Ed J. Thompson:

Our beloved friend and citizen, departed this life Jan. 4, 1924. God saw fit to take him to his reward.

All during the night before he passed away he would say, "Good-bye I'm going home." And knowing his Christian spirit and ever kindness to his home and fellowmen, we know he was right. "Going home." What a blessed thought. His illness was of short duration, but so very severe. God in His wisdom sent the death angel to waft his spirit to the great beyond, where he knows no pain.

Mr. Thompson will be missed in the home, the church and in our community round about. His voice will not be heard again on this earth, but in heaven, where all is youth again. He has joined the redeemed choir and is singing and rejoicing while friends and loved ones weep here below.

The writer wishes to extend heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family. Even though the family circle is broken, let us try to realize our loss is his gain and be submissive to God's will.

One less at home,
The charm circle broken,
A dear face missed day by day
From its accustomed place.
Yet it is saved and perfected by grace.

One more in heaven,
One more at home,
That home where separation
Can not be,
That home where none are Missed eternally.

Lord Jesus grant us all a place in heaven.

By a friend and sister in Christ.

IN SANITARIUM

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Boren left Saturday morning for Lubbock, where Mrs. Boren went for medical treatment and an operation. Friends and relatives received word that Mrs. Boren underwent the operation Monday and is reported to be getting along very nicely. Mr. Boren will stay with her until she is well on the road to recovery.

TO THE VOTERS OF SCURRY COUNTY

I take this method of announcing my candidacy for the office of county superintendent, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries, in July.

You may remember that I made the race two years ago and succeeded in getting in the run off, but withdrew in favor of Miss Squyres.

I feel that I am fully competent to fill the office and promise, if elected, to render the best service possible toward the building up of our rural schools.

I promise to visit the schools regularly and aid in any way possible in the advancement of the same.

Your vote and influence respectfully solicited.

A. A. BULLOCK.

MISS ANNIE L. HUFF ANNOUNCES FOR COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT

One of the most important positions in the gift of the people of a given county is that of school superintendent, and this week we are pleased to announce for this very important office a teacher of exceptional ability, and one fitted in every respect for the office. We have reference to Miss Annie L. Hull. Four years ago Miss Hull was numerously solicited to make the race, but declined, preferring to remain in the public schools for season. In the meantime she has studied the needs of the rural schools with the expectation of making the race at some future date.

Miss Hull graduated from an affiliated high school at Rising Star, attended Baylor College and later graduated from the West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon. She holds a permanent certificate. She has been teaching in Scurry county schools for the past six years, teaching at Snyder, Fluvanna, and the remainder of the time spent with the rural schools of the county. Her training and fitness for the position gives her added claims. She is considered one among the best teachers in the county, and her wide experience in school work places her in a position to know the needs of our rural schools. Those who know her best think she is pre-eminently qualified for the position. She is a life long Democrat, but says she is asking for the office on her merits. She stands for better schools and more efficient teachers, in fact believes the schools of the county should keep up with progress in every other line. She asks the support of all the voters of the county and urges that her friends in different communities give their support among their friends.

J. H. BYRD ANNOUNCES FOR SHERIFF AND TAX COLLECTOR

In this issue of the Times-Signal appears the announcement of J. H. Byrd for sheriff and tax collector of Scurry county. Mr. Byrd is no stranger to Scurry county people, he having served the people of this county in the capacity of sheriff and tax collector for two terms, prior to the last election. He made the county a splendid officer and at the expiration of his terms he had won the confidence and respect of every one. His qualifications are such as to recommend him for this or any other office within the gift of the people. He is a man of strict honesty and integrity, and as a peace officer in the past, he prosecuted the duties of his office with fairness and without fear or favor to any one.

Mr. Byrd has lived in Scurry county, in the Dunn section for the past 18 years, but since last September has been a resident of Snyder. He is one of our representative citizens, and a man that carries the good will and respect of every one. He is a splendid democrat, and in announcing he subjects himself to the will of his party which will be expressed at the coming July primaries. Mr. Byrd states that he will make the race on his own merits and not on the demerits of anyone. The Times-Signal takes pleasure of again mentioning Mr. Byrd in connection with the office of sheriff and tax collector of Scurry county, and trust that his candidacy will be given that consideration it so richly deserves.

J. Z. NOBLES ANNOUNCES FOR JUSTICE OF PEACE

Mr. J. Z. Nobles announces in this issue of the Times-Signal for Justice Peace Precinct No. 1, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries. Mr. Nobles is serving his second term and has filled the office of justice of the peace with credit to himself and to the entire satisfaction of his constituents. Judge Nobles has lived in Scurry county some 15 years and has taken a prominent part in the affairs of the town and county and is rated among our very best citizens. He has the record of performing more marriage ceremonies than any one filling the Justice office. He said that very few if any of those whom has joined together have found their way to the court house in divorce proceedings. He also has the distinction of turning more money into the county treasury in fines and cost than any other man holding the office.

Judge Nobles is a splendid Christian gentleman, and fits into the position of administering justice in an impartial manner. You can make no mistake in giving this good man another term, with the assurance that the affairs of the office will be handled in a capable manner.

ENFORCE THE LAW

Enforcement of the law is one of the biggest problems facing the Nation today. Disregard for the law is declared disgraceful in nearly all sections of the country.—Amarillo Daily News.

Law enforcement is the biggest issue before the American people. In fact, it is an issue before the entire world today. In Texas the coming campaign will feature more as to law enforcement than any other one issue. The man that is elected Governor of Texas this year must come out flat-footed for law enforcement.
The various candidates for peace officers must be in line with the popular sentiment for law enforcement.
Public sentiment has turned to law enforcement. The pendulum has begun to swing in the opposite direction of disregard for law. There is a healthy sentiment being crystalized for the enforcement of our laws.
It takes public sentiment to enforce our laws. Without a healthy public sentiment for our laws and American ideals the country will go to the bad rapidly. The nation has been turned in the direction of utter disregard for law enforcement, and if a halt has not been called we would soon have anarchy in this Republic. Applied to world affairs law enforcement is needed. It is by reason of a general disregard of law and the rights of others that is plunging Europe into a state of anarchy, a state bordering on a complete overthrow of civil authority.
Those people must learn the great lesson of obedience to law. The spirit of lawlessness is what is ailing the world. While public sentiment is at work it might work on the Court of Criminal Appeals and force that institution to stop their reversals. Also on the lower courts for more speedier trials and less continuance for this or that cause. In England when a man commits crime he is tried and on the road to prison in three weeks' time.

THE MYSTERY OF RADIO

The following dispatch appears under a New York date line relative of radio:

"Huddled in a dripping tunnel, 90 feet below the surface of the Hudson River and 1,600 feet from an exit, a group of transit officials, electrical experts, 'sand hogs' and newspaper men turned in on radio concerts broadcast from Pittsburgh and a half dozen nearer stations.

"The experiment was conducted at the farthest end of the uncon-pleted Jersey-Manhattan tube of the dual vehicular tunnel.

"The fact that the other vibrations carried into the tunnel, penetrating 30 feet of water, 60 feet of earth and several inches of steel, demonstrated, said those in charge of the experiments, that the radio could be used as a lifeline of communication by entombed miners or deep-sea divers."

Radio is one of God's hidden mysteries. No man knows what radio is. It is the greatest discovery of all ages. An experiment was recently made in Dallas. A receiving set was placed in a bank vault and the ether wave carried the sounds through steel and mortar and the broadcasting was heard just as plainly as if the receiving set had been placed in an open room. Ether waves as the sound carrying currents are called travels faster than light or electricity. It is instantaneous. The minute or second or fraction of a second conversation takes place it is heard thousands of miles away. Sound travels so fast. Light has its speed. Electricity travels so fast per second, but radio conduction is instantaneous. Radio is in its infancy, and wonderful developments will occur as a result of this unexplained discovery. The radio will be the greatest blessing to mankind of anything yet discovered. It has revolutionized shipping and travel on the high seas. Disasters at sea and rescue has been greatly reduced by means of radio. It is now proposed to place receiving and sending sets in our mines to prevent loss of life and means of communication in case of disaster, such as is common in mining. It has been demonstrated that radio sound can penetrate and neither depths nor distance can obstruct same. We are truly living in a wonderful age when the hidden mysteries of God and nature are being brought to light. These discoveries are given for the glory and benefit of man and if he uses them in the right direction they will bless him. On the other hand, if they are used for selfish purposes and sinful practices they will be for his further Eternal ruin.

The Scurry County Times would have us believe that most all women are wrong, do not do as they should, while the Plainview News believes that every woman is perfect and can do no wrong; in fact that all women are perfection personified. Now, who are we to believe, Editor Smith or Jess Adams? If we were forced to choose between the two evils, we will have to side with Jess Adams.
But we have long since learned that between two extremes there is safe ground. There are more good women today than we ever had before, and there are some not so good.
However, they can not be compared with men, for there were always more mean men than there were mean women.—Claude News.

The Times-Signal does not believe that all women are wrong, but we believe that some of them are wrong in certain styles and behavior that have been adopted as a standard.
We are just as great an admirer of the women as Jess Adams, of the Claude News. The trouble is with the styles and fashions today that some women adopt and follow, and not with the women themselves. But we are glad to state that there is a large tendency to return back to sanity in dress and behavior among that class of women that have been discreet. Dresses are being lowered considerably and have about reached lengths that are becoming and attractive. The dress has been raised at the top also, but there is yet too much of the bare-backs displayed for health and refined adornment.

In this connection we want to leave the subject and jump on to a common practice of nudity as displayed in fashion sheets, in newspaper illustrations, bill boards, picture screens, etc. We can remember that when the ready-made cigarettes were first sold, it was the old Duke's cigarette.
In each box was a picture of a woman in tights. A boy or man caught with one of these pictures was disgraced in those days. But just consider how times and conditions have changed. You are greeted on every side with pictures of women more suggestive than were the cigarette picture. You can't pick up a paper but that you are greeted with a naked leg, a low cut dress, and women in semi-nude form. Corset advertising are indecent, the ladies' fashion plates are suggestive, in fact the American people are fed up on nudity. A motion picture play writer recently stated that the American people were fed up on bare-backs and naked legs. Immodesty begets immorality, and immorality will overthrow any nation. The women are builders of our civilization and no nation can rise any higher than its womanhood. This present day reign of lust and passion, of divorce evils, of adultery among the sex is attributed largely to this fashion fed-up business. Men's passion is being fed-up daily and hourly. No modest woman will dress to attract the passion of a man, who forgets the finer character of women. When men are thus appealed to women are destroying their finer senses, and man loses sight of character and virtue placed in American womanhood, and is led to the lustful viewpoint of life. You can accuse us of being a crank on this subject but we bodily charge that we are living in an age of sex appeal, and the habit is growing. Sexuality is being developed and the finer sensibilities of men and women neglected. The first thing that greets a man's eye when he meets the opposite sex is something in her manner of dress or behavior that appeals to sex. God Almighty never decreed that sex appeal should govern among men and women. When the first pair was created and placed in the Garden of Delight, where all was purity it was permitted that men and women should remain naked in each others presence. They were in an innocent state and the matter of nudity did not concern them. But when they ate of the tree of knowledge they became aware of their nakedness and made themselves clothes of nature's leaves. It was God working through the law of sex that caused the ancient pair to cover their bodies, less they become ashamed in each others presence. So all along down the annals of time the finer sense of men and women have been regulated in the matter of covering their individual bodies. Even the savage has sense of modesty and will cover his body and protect same from the view of his sex. The race that violates these important laws of nature is sinking itself in the lowest depths of degradation. When the law of sex purity is violated the race suffers. Then tendency in America has been to return to a state that characterized the first parents before their eyes were opened by God Almighty in the matter of sex.
As stated before, immodesty begets immorality, and immorality will rip the very foundation out of our republic. Unless there is a return to sanity in these matters we may expect one generation to go a little stronger than the preceding one until the time comes when all modesty will be done away with. America needs to return to our ideals of 50 years ago in matter of society custom and ways generally. We would not want to return the women to the styles of our grandmothers, but we would certainly do away with the bare-backs and naked legs. We are simply fed-up on this kind of scenery.

The country newspapers of Texas have suggested the name of W. C.
Edwards of Denton, as a suitable man for Lieutenant Governor. W. C.
Edwards is one of the outstanding editors of the country papers of the State. He has served one term in the lower house of the Legislature and could be re-elected if he should want the position. He is a capable man and if elected to that office would perform the duties with credit to himself and the State. The Index hopes he will be a candidate, offering him full support until the last ballot is counted.—Childress Index.

Count us in for Edwards. He is our man for Lieutenant Governor and the man to serve Texas to the best of her interests. We have known Will Edwards for years and know him to be a man of splendid qualifications, and well equipped for the position of Lieutenant Governor. He has been serving Denton county in the lower house for a number of years and has made quite a record for the entire state. Texas newspaper men have served Texas in the capacity of Lieutenant Governor with distinction in the past. Will H.

Mayes was Lieutenant Governor for two terms. He is now head of the school of journalism at the State University. Mayes was editor and founder of the Brownwood Bulletin.
Will P. Hobby was another newspaper man that came from Beaumont to the Lieutenant Governor's office and later Governor of Texas. Mr.
Hobby served Texas both as Lieutenant Governor and Governor with distinction. Will Edwards of Denton has the making of a Lieutenant Governor and also Governor. We are for him as against all comers.

Drastic steps to put a stop to alleged liquor drinking by members of Congress is suggested by Representative Upshaw of Georgia. Mr. Upshaw also suggests that steps be taken in regard to Congressmen and high government officials and to prevent "diplomatic liquor leaks into bootlegger channels." His demands were embodied in a resolution offered in the House. Congress should first sweep around its door-steps before it undertakes to regulate the liquor traffic. Mr. Upshaw recommended that executive guillotine be applied to all governmental officials who drink liquor. Speaking further on his resolution, Mr. Upshaw said:
"The flagrant abuses of diplomatic immunity on the part of many of the attaches of foreign legations and embassies puts into italics the necessity for revoking a privilege that should never have been allowed under our national prohibition law. Recent investigations have convinced me that the flagrant abuses of diplomacy would be heartily glad to be relieved of the expense and all their other troubles and responsibilities from liquor immunity."

William Jennings Bryan is coming to Texas for a short visit the latter part of January. He will reach Galveston January 30th and will be met there by Governor Neff, who will spend two days with him. They will go hunting with one W. L.
Mood Jr., in Chambers county. Mr.
Bryan will doubtless talk politics while here. He it was who said that no wet candidate would be nominated by the Democrats. He is against Oscar Underwood and also McAdoo.
One is a wet candidate and the other a socialist. It will be pretty hard to decide in the minds of some folks between a gentlemanly wet candidate and one of these wild-eyed socialists. The wet candidate may have a flask concealed somewhere in his clothes, but the socialist carries with him a red torch ready to light. The Times-Signal is neither for Underwood nor McAdoo. Of the two we favor the former. We hope that Mr.

Bryan will select some one as his choice in whom there is neither socialism nor anti-prohibition as an issue. Mr. Bryan will deliver three speeches in Texas, Waco Austin and San Antonio.

Farmer Gus Shaw, "dirt farmer," politician, banker and a man that has taken a very prominent part in Texas affairs, died at Texarkana one day last week. Gus Shaw took a prominent part in political affairs in Texas and has been a very useful citizen. He served his days and goes the way of all earth, and will soon be forgotten. Others will take his place and the world moves merrily on. Such is the fate of man.

It is hinted that Henry Ford has some kind of working arrangement with President Coolidge in reference to the Mussel Shoals proposition. It may be that the President promised Henry that if he would get out of his way he would see that he got his lease on the Mussel Shoals in Alabama. Henry Ford has set his mind to the task of obtaining these mussel shoals for the avowed purpose of making fertilizer, and he proposes to get them, if it calls for political trading to accomplish his purpose.
But the question arises, "How many votes can Henry deliver over to his friend Calvin?" It maybe that he can not deliver the goods after all.

OUR NATION BEAUTIFUL

Competition among women for enrollment in the list of American beauties has become quite keen. That's all right. God intended American women to be beautiful. Somehow, or somewhere, the story comes to us that when God made man of common clay and leaned him against the fence to dry, His heart was sore; sore because that which He had now created to be endowed with superior excellence did not surpass in beauty, the beasts of the field even nor the fishes of the sea. Discouraged, He strode to the garden and sat beneath the spreading branches of a linden tree. And as He sat, the great Poet of the ages slept and dreamed; dreamed that a wonderful vision descended from the heavens and stood before Him, then kneeling, kissed Him upon the brow.

In the morning He awoke. Returning to the river bank where He had left the image made of clay, He took from it a rib next its heart. Assembling finest particles of purest gold, truest particles of steel and the sweetest balsams from India-land, He molded them into beautiful form; then reaching up into the azure dome of heaven He plucked the two brightest stars that this His masterpiece might see the world its soul was to elevate. Breathing into her throat the sweet voice of the waterfall and the early morning zephyrs wafted across fields of ripening wheat, He kissed her into life. He had made woman. She was the first great work of art; she was the masterpiece of the Infinite architect. She was God's last thought, but she was God's best thought. And as she stepped forth from His hand the roses sprang into bloom in the valleys and upon the hillside while feathered songsters of the air gathered above her in one glad, glorious chorus of song. It is when we come to understand God better and with that better understanding come to know our mother's better; our wives and daughters, our sisters and perchance someone in whose heart the petal of the love-rose has found a sweet, and sometimes secret, lodgment, that the thought comes to us that when He made woman He must have looked way down into the coming ages and selected as His model—the American woman.—Facts and Fiction.

BUILDING A CITY
is the work of every business man citizen in that city. If new capital comes here or if industries now here expand and grow, this company and every other business in the city will benefit.

To keep up with and ahead of the business growth of Snyder this industry must grow. As this industry grows bigger every citizen will benefit through our increased expenditures for supplies, labor and taxes. No town can make progress without efficient public utilities. It cannot attract outside capital or new people. Such a town is not a good place to do business in.

We believe Snyder will continue to grow and prosper. That is why we are continually adding thousands of dollars of new equipment and other improvements that enable us to keep a step in advance of that growth and make it's prosperity possible.

We are not content merely to participate in the growth of our city, we want to help it to grow and to add our share in every way possible to make it a better town to live in.

In order that the service of this company may mean the most possible to our city we have employed Mr. C. E. Thompson, electrical engineer to fill the rapidly growing demands for constant commercial extension. Mr. Thompson will personally see to the installation of all electrical equipment.

SNYDER UTILITIES CO.

The predictors of the horseless age lost sight of the fact that there is another element to reckon with, beside the one of the mere usefulness of the horse. Human gratitude for that long career of service, without which civilization would not have made its present strides, has created a bond of attachment between man and the horse that will not be easily broken. The time when man first discovered the docile and tractable qualities of the horse is not known. Although the ox, as a domestic work animal, is doubtless of greater age, the horse was known as a military aid, first for cavalry and later for chariot use, nearly as long ago as written records of history extend. In the wars between Persia, Egypt and Greece the side was often victorious that had the most and the best horses. The steed of the Arab is a classic of primitive romance. Those nations that made the best use of the horse made the most rapid progress in the evolution of culture.

Since delivering their first car, early in December, 1914, Dodge Brothers have manufactured and sold one million motor vehicles.

Over 90 per cent of all these cars are still in active service. This striking fact stands alone—a unique and overwhelming tribute to the principles and methods responsible for a product of such enduring worth.

"Invoicing Ourselves," is the headline of a leader in the Southwestern Plainsman of Amarillo. The Plainsman discusses the issue from a business invoicing viewpoint. We shall discuss it from the viewpoint suggested in the caption, "Invoicing Ourselves." At the beginning of each year it would be well that each individual make a mental invoice of his own life. We should begin to set in this column our successes, our individual efforts for the church, the betterment of humanity, and our service to Jehovah, the community—to the home. In another column we should record our failures, our sins of commission as well as omission. Our failure to give a cold cup of water now and then to the suffering Samaritans as we pass them on the highway of life. Set down our failure to attend church, the times we have played hooky with God about not feeling well on Sunday mornings, of lying to Him about our self-inflicted headaches. Set down our failure to co-operate in community development, or aid in town enterprise building. Take an invoice of one's self carries with it a mental review of the past, and the record of our successes and failures. We take an invoice of our business in order to see where we stand at the end of the year. Is it not important that we take an invoice of our lives from an intellectual, serious viewpoint? Men can always improve on the past. From experience we gain knowledge. From the past we look into the mirror of the future and see our lives reflected. We heartily suggest an invoice of our lives to the end that we may do bigger things during 1924 than we did during the year just passed. If our invoicing shows us to be in the red in past service to humanity, to God, home, to community, then let us set aside an additional appropriation of energy for the future, lest we become individual bankrupts.

A district meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will be held at Colorado City January 22nd. This meeting will bring a large gathering of West Texas people together, and much advertising will result for Colorado and Mitchell county. These district meetings are being held throughout West Texas and the Panhandle country. A meeting takes place at Amarillo during the month of January.

THE HOME NEWSPAPER
If there is anything in your town worth talking about 10 chances to one your own newspapers had a hand in putting it there. If anybody beyond the walls of your burg ever learns that there is such a place as Three Corners it will be through the home paper. Every town gets its money's worth through the home newspapers. It's the wagon that carries all your goods to market. It ought to keep in good repair. It will pay to grease it, paint it and keep its runnings gears in good shape and shelter. They are the guardians and defenders of every interest, the fore-runners and pioneers of every movement and the sturdy advocates of law and order.—Bureau of Federal Manufacturer Census.

Texas political affairs are becoming very pronounced at this early date in 1924. The contest for Governor promises to be very interesting. The latest announcement is V. A. Collins of Beaumont, Texas. There are a half dozen or more men announced for the office of Governor. The bunch will be eliminated before the campaign proceeds very far. It is impossible to give an intelligent political forecast at this early date. There is a possibility of some one coming forward later that will sweep everything before them. There are two Davidsons announced, both ex-Lieutenant Governors. This similarity in name will be confusing to the voters, and will furnish a political comedy of errors. As yet no constructive platform has been offered by any of the aspirants. The only motive that seems to govern the candidates for governor is a strong desire for the office. Platforms are doubtless in process of making and will be given to the public later. There is going to be plenty of politics in the State and county this year. Offices will not go begging. The issue of law enforcement will be most prominent in all elections—state and county. The people have awakened to the necessity of law enforcement, and the man elected to our important offices must pledge to the people a strict enforcement of our laws. This is as it should be. Law enforcement in Texas and all states in the union should overshadow every other issue. The pendulum has begun to swing in the direction of a more rigid enforcement of our statutes, and the people will see that none are on guard save those who will pledge themselves to enforce our laws.

There is a popular demand among farmers and cotton men generally for a more frequent government report of cotton production. The Southern Cotton Growers Association recently took action, demanding more frequent reports. A Washington dispatch of recent date carries the following information relative to the matter: "Plans for simultaneous and more frequent reports on cotton estimates and ginning were agreed upon today at a conference between a committee of the congressional cotton bloc and representatives of the department of agriculture and the census bureau."

There is no question but that monthly government ginners reports would aid in stabilizing the price of cotton. The market is governed largely on the government report.

The Press is paying their respects to the drinking car driver, and demanding that he be put out of business. The man that gets hold of a steering wheel with a load of boot-leg under his belly ought to be cracked on the bean with a base ball bat. He is a fool and a criminal combined, and should be dealt with severely. Gasoline and liquor won't mix. The better kind of whiskey used to make a dangerous mixture when diluted with gasoline, but to use the modern illicit distilled, boot-legged liquor it is simply criminal. The court can not act too promptly and severely with the man that gets stewed on boot-leg and undertakes to drive an automobile.

The January Federal Ginners' report was issued Wednesday at 9 o'clock. It has not been received to date.

A court in Alabama has ruled that it is one of man's inalienable rights to tuck his shirt tail in whenever and wherever he pleases. That court is evidently presided over by an old fashioned true blue democrat.—Plainview News.

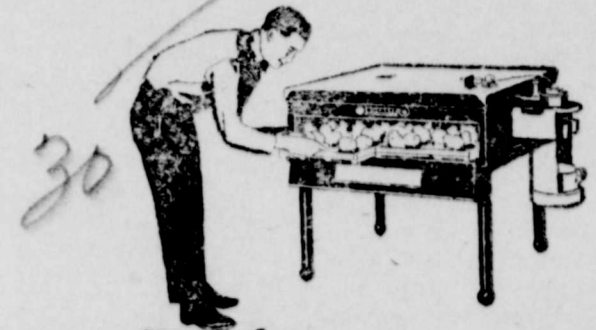

That is what we would call "shirt tail justice." A man should have the right to tuck his shirt tail in any place, provided the shirt tail needed tucking. However, we suggest that a crusade be started in Alabama for longer shirt tails. We believe that Oscar Underwood is from the State of Alabama. He is a candidate for president. Why not incorporate in his platform a plank for longer shirt tails. It would be a drawing card for the time when shirts should have longer tails. There should be a general rallying of those who need longer shirt tails and more shirt tails. Underwood being a wet candidate should become dry in his demand for shirts with longer tails. We once heard of a superb wine that was manufactured over in Arkansas in wild cat hollow, the old home of our friend, Jess Adams. It was called Betsy's shirt tail wine. When asked by a stranger, "Why called Betsy's Shirt Tail Wine," the answer was that the grapes were squeezed through Betsy's shirt tail. It never has been right clear to us what kind of a shirt tail was used in making this Arkansas Betsy Shirt Tail wine. Going back to the shirt tails we suggest that a man should have the right to wear shirts with or without tails. We are told that in the Plains country the shirts have abbreviated tails, and if such is the case this ruling of the Alabama judge will be received with much satisfaction above the caprock. There is a reason for doing away with the shirt tail altogether on the Plains. The wind blows so all fired strong up there at certain periods of the year that it is impossible for a man to keep his shirt tail in his pants, and the idea dawned upon those Plains people that shorter the tail less blowing there would be, hence the tails were removed altogether. When you go in to a store up there, you are asked if you want a shirt with or without tails. They keep a few elongated tail shirts on hand for people below the caprock so that their necessities can be supplied as occasion arises.

JESSE P. SEWELL RESIGNS AS PRESIDENT ABILENE C. C.

Coming as a distinct shock and surprise to the board of trustees, student body and patrons of the Abilene Christian College as well as to the public in general is the resignation of Jesse P. Sewell as president of the Abilene Christian College. The resignation was presented at two different times at meetings of the board of trustees of the institution and was reluctantly accepted. The first resignation was presented on December 27 while the last one was presented on December 31st at a special called meeting of the board to further consider at his request the matter of Mr. Sewell's resignation.

Following is a formal statement of the resignation together with resolutions passed at the last meeting of the trustees of the college:

Abilene, Texas, Jan. 1, 1924.
The Board of Trustees of Abilene Christian College met on this day in response to the call of the Chairman of the board, the following being present, J. S. Arledge, T. A. Russell, G. C. Helvey, C. T. Hutchinson, J. C. Reese, C. B. Leggett, E. L. Crawford, J. D. Pepper and W. H. Free.

This meeting was called for the purpose of considering the resignation of J. P. Sewell, as President of Abilene Christian College, which had been presented by said J. P. Sewell at two different times, in meetings of the local board, on December 27th and December 31, 1923. The last one being called at his request, that his resignation be further considered, and on motion of W. H. Free and seconded by T. A. Russell, the following resolution was unanimously carried.

Whereas:

Brother J. P. Sewell has offered his resignation as President of Abilene Christian College and has contended that it is best for the school and him; giving as his reasons the condition of his health and the excessive heavy burden of the office. We, the members of the board present, after much deliberation and prayer, do this day accept Brother Sewell's resignation at his request, to take effect at the close of summer school, 1924.

We feel that we owe to Brother and Sister Sewell a debt of gratitude that cannot be paid in money for the untiring service and sacrifice they have made to build this institution. We know that hundreds of boys and girls from many lands owe them much for their knowledge of our Lord and their fitness for life.

Brother and Sister Sewell have done for Abilene Christian College that which no one else could do or did do; to give them up is painful and a loss that seems irreplaceable, but upon the urgency of the request, we feel compelled to act now, both in justice to Brother Sewell and the school.

I, W. H. Free, Secretary of the Board of Trustees of Abilene Christian College, Abilene, Texas, do hereby certify that the above resolution was passed by the Board of Trustees in a call meeting, a quorum being present, held in the First State Bank of Abilene, Texas, January 1, 1924.

W. H. FREE, Secretary.

Effective In August

Mr. Sewell's resignation will not become effective until the close of the summer session in August of this year. While Mr. Sewell has made no statement for publication of his plans after August, he stated that he would remain in Abilene and assured the representative of The Reporter that he had the best interests of Abilene Christian College at heart and would continue to work for the upbuilding of the institution.

When Mr. Sewell resigned he recommended to the board of trustees that the present administration remain intact and the board of trustees looked favorably on his recommendation and will take final action on it at the annual meeting in February. Mr. Sewell also recommended that his vacancy be filled out of the present organization. Officials of the college stated Thursday that the board of trustees feels a keen loss in the resignation of Mr. Sewell.

While Mr. Sewell has been the moving spirit in the upbuilding of the college for the past 12 years, he has had associated with him an organization that is entirely capable and experienced to cope with the situation and handle the affairs of the growing institution during his absence on various occasions.

The resignation of President Sewell will in no way affect the present campaign for the raising of a quarter of a million dollars, which campaign will be carried to completion. Of this sum it has been announced that $176,000.00 has been subscribed or underwritten. The quarter of a million dollars will provide a fund for buildings and endowment. The resignation of Mr. Sewell also will not affect the starting of construction of the new dormitory work on which will begin in 60 days, and it is also announced that the name of the new building will be Sewell Hall.

Sewell Made College Record

That President J. P. Sewell is a great college president and has built up one of the strongest denominational colleges, not only in Texas but in the entire southwest, is evidenced by the fact that the year before he became head of the institution, the total enrollment for the year was less than 50, while the total enrollment this school year will approximate 800.

Abilene Christian College was organized in 1906. J. P. Sewell became president in 1912 and has served in this capacity for 12 years. Last year the enrollment was 743. This has been exceeded to date this year by about 25 and it is expected that before the end of the summer session it will reach 800 registrations. The actual daily attendance at present is about 475. These students come from over one hundred Texas counties, fifteen states and one foreign country.

When Mr. Sewell became president of Abilene Christian College, the value of the property owned by the institution was about 12 or 15 thousand dollars with a debt of $6,000 against it. Today the college owns property conservatively valued at $350,000.00 with no incumbrance.

Twelve years ago the school was nothing more than a high school and a very poor one at that. No college work at all was offered. At the end of the second year of Mr. Sewell's administration, the school had full affiliation with two years of college work. When Mr. Sewell became president, the school had no academic standing whatever. In two years the school was recognized as a Junior College. The growth of the institution was steady and in 1919 the institution became a full Senior College. This standard was attained through the personal influence and standards of excellence put into effect by President Sewell. The seniority of the college was recognized on the promises of the president. And it was also due to President Sewell's efforts that a law was enacted by the Texas Legislature whereby teachers' certificates were granted with the Bible as part of the curriculum or course of study. The state law, it is understood, has been copied by several other states.

Another signal honor that Mr. Sewell has enjoyed is that since the organization of the Association of Texas Colleges six years ago, he has held the office of secretary and treasurer of the association up until the past year.

The future of Abilene College, financially and otherwise, is safeguarded by the institution having on its board of trustees 35 of as good business men as there are in Texas.

OUR WILD GAME

That 50 per cent of the wild denizens of field and woodland will have paid with their life this year because of the use of the automobile in hunting is the statement of Dr. William T. Hornaday of New York City. That is to say, the modern hunter can easily cover far more territory than could be covered by the hunter who went afoot or followed after a horse. Dr. Hornaday says that four times the former area can be covered by the automobile hunter. The distinguished director of the New York Zoological Garden thinks that our wild game is doomed unless protective measures are adopted.

In addition to protective legislation, Dr. Holiday would call on the good sportsmanship of the hunter. Let the hunter go slow and take a reasonable toll, recognizing the new peril to wild life. He appeals to the sentiment of self-interest. Otherwise legislation will not be able to preserve the birds of the air and beasts of the field that have so long made this country of ours a hunter's paradise. The pump gun is accountable for much useless slaughter of birds.

24 COTTON FARMS

We have recently bought twenty-four tracts of 160 acres, each, of smooth, level, red chocolate loam land on the South Plains of Texas, west of Lamesa. These tracts are practically the same type of land now selling around O'Donnell and Lamesa for $20.00 to $30.00 per acre, unimproved.

We had the cash to pay for this land and as the owner was anxious to sell, we thus secured this land at a price so far under the real value that we are able to sell this land to you, if you are a real farmer, at from $10.00 to $15.00 per acre. This is school land, with one to two dollars per acre due the state, at 3 per cent interest, with 22 years to pay same. We will let you assume the state debt on account of the low interest rate. These various choice farms are located within 12 miles of gin and good small town.

Cotton is an assured success on the South Plains and after looking all over the Plains we selected this land because we knew it to be A1, cotton, corn, various feed products, melons, fruits and garden products grow flourishingly. The water on this land can be obtained from 60 to 80 feet, and very soft and fine, with an abundance of it. We will sell you this land on the following two propositions, so that anyone who really desires to own his home can buy and pay for same:

FIRST PLAN

You pay two dollars ($2.00) per acre cash, and pay us the balance in 10 years; notes will be made payable on or before, and will bear interest at 8 per cent per annum.

SECOND PLAN

No cash to be paid at time of purchase but you are to execute in our favor 10 notes payable on or before 1934. We will require you under this plan to cultivate 100 acres of this land and to plant 75 acres in cotton, you to pay us one-third (1-3) of the proceeds from the cotton on the purchase price until all of the notes and interest shall have been paid.

Complete details as to this plan can be obtained from us. We will have "Free Car Service" to all buyers and cars will leave Snyder for this land on each Monday—weather permitting.

AMERICAN LEGION HOLD MEETING

The Will Layne Post No. 181, American Legion annual meeting was held Tuesday night, Jan. 8, at the Woodrow Hotel. Eighteen veterans gathered around the festive board and partook of the bounteous repast, that was so tastefully served them by Mrs. Wills. After the completion of the "Chow Detail" (seconds were plentiful, too) the general routine business, including election of officers, was transacted. Much enthusiasm was manifested over the prospects for 1924 and many valuable suggestions were made that will be beneficial to all concerned when carried out. A concerted drive for members was inaugurated and it was resolved to offer a trip to the State convention at Brownwood, to the member securing the most applications by convention time. It was decided to hold a regular meeting and banquet every three months and a special meeting and spread will be held at the Woodrow Hotel, on Feb. 8, for the purpose of checking up on the membership drive and adding new fuel to the fire of enthusiasm. All ex-service men are urged to be present, at this meeting. A good time as well as a profitable one is promised.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Doak and son, Hermon, visited from Friday until Sunday in Lubbock with relatives and friends.

KIRKPATRICK SAYS SWEET CLOVER WILL LIFT MORTGAGES

Builds Soils and Makes Unsurpassed Pasturage.

By E. A. KIRKPATRICK

I am neither a prophet nor the son of a prophet, but if I were to take a long shot at the future of agriculture, I should say there will be a lot more sweet clover grown 20 years from now than there is at the present time.

The reason for this mild prediction, farmers are finding that sweet clover—if you will permit me to use Andy Gump's expression—is "duck soup." In plain English, sweet clover is a bang-up good crop for any farmer to grow. From what I can learn, quite a few farmers in the West who cut down their wheat acreage this fall are going to put in sweet clover to take its place.

Aside from the fact that sweet clover is a remarkable soil building crop, it can be put down as acre card for a pasture crop. I have never yet heard of a dairyman who has tried this crop who has not been an enthusiast about it. That is why I say sweet clover is ace high.

Sweet clover will carry more cows per acre than blue grass pasture. Besides, the hay is as high in protein as hay from alfalfa, the crop much cheaper to produce, yields just as heavy and it does not cause bloat. All these claims are substantiated by tests on a number of Illinois dairy farms. Regarding these tests, W. J. Fraser, University of Illinois, recently said in a press article:

"Fourteen farmers out of 32 reporting, stated they had had experiences in pasturing cows on sweet clover the first fall, after it was sown in small grain in the spring.

They had 170 acres of sweet clover or an average of 12 acres per farm. It pastured 271 cows (or cow equivalents in other stock), or 1.6 cows per acre for an average period of 1.7 months; .63 of an acre supported a cow during this time.

What 21 Farmers Reported

"Twenty-one farmers reported on pasturing sweet clover the second year. Upon 266 acres, or an average of 13 acres per farm, they pastured 388 cows or 1.46 head per acre for an average period of 3.9 months; .69 of an acre supported a cow.

"When sweet clover was sown with small grain in the spring and pastured that fall and the following year, the one seeding of sweet clover furnished pasture for the cows for an average of 5.6 months. The 21 farmers turned out on an average April 29. They took the cows off on the average August 26 (3.9 months.) By this time the growth of new clover in the stubble would be large enough to turn upon and it would carry the cows for 1.7 months. Thus the old and new crops would give a total of 5.6 months pasture in one season. These reports show that less than three-fourths of an acre of sweet clover was required to pasture a cow 5.6 months.

"The milk flow was well maintained in nearly every case and increased in many with only a small amount of other feed given in a few cases.

"From this data and the writer's own experience, it seems conservative to say that seven-eighths of an acre of sweet clover, including the fall pasture the first year sown, will support a cow six months.

"In addition to the above, seven men reported on pasturing first year sweet clover sown alone; 53.5 acres pasturing 76 cows, or 1.4 head per acre for an average period of 3.5 months. But as this manner of seeding displaces another crop the first year, it is not economical and can not be recommended under ordinary circumstances."

These replies also indicated that there was no trouble with bloat, except when sweet clover was pastured when the dew was on it.

Sweet clover makes ideal pasture for sheep. A. W. McClain, Butler county, Kansas, finds sweet clover and sheep a winning combination. He has been in the sheep business for several years.

Last fall McClain and his neighbor bought two double deck cars of ewes at Kansas City. These were slightly broken mouthed and thin. The cost was approximately $4.65 each laid down at Benton. McClain knew about how many he could handle, so he only took 45 of these ewes. They were run on wheat pasture and given one-half bushel of oats each day for 30 days.

As soon in March as the sweet clover started they were turned on it. His wheat made 20 bushels per acre and he cut the sweet clover for seed, saving 17 sacks from the 20 acres. These ewes sheared an average of seven pounds of wool each and the wool brought him 10 cents net even though a little burry. "I never had such good pasture as sweet clover," says McClain.

Another instance: Fred Dittes, Big Stone county, Minnesota, pastured 103 ewes and their lambs, eight work horses and five cows on 30 acres of sweet clover, last summer, and then cut enough hay to furnish winter feed for the ewes. The sweet clover starts early in the spring, and thus the ewes with early lambs can get their milk producing ration from pasture instead of from grain and hay.

I would be telling only half the story if I neglected to tell what a wonderful soil builder sweet clover is.

An outstanding instance of farm improvement by the use of lime and sweet clover is on the farm of Frank Oexner, who lives in Monroe county, Illinois, recognized by the United States Department as the banner sweet clover county of the United States.

Frank's farm is about a mile north of the town of Waterloo. The farm contains 90 acres and has been under cultivation by three generations of Frank's folks. Nor was it a new farm when Frank's forebears got it. It was just about farmed to death. The wheat crop averaged only seven bushels an acre before Frank began growing sweet clover.

Frank's system is to put the lime on in the fall when convenient and sow sweet clover at the rate of 20 pounds to the acre in the spring right on the wheat. Puts it on maybe in February or later, according to the season, and harrows it in. He inoculates the seed thoroughly, using the glue method with soil from an old clover field.

After the wheat is cut the clover comes on and makes a fine fall pasture or a good hay crop. Last summer he cut two good cuttings of first class sweet clover hay after taking a wheat crop. It was the second round for that field, and in a season not quite so good for wheat as the one when the field made the seven bushel average, he got an 18 1-2 bushel average. Better still, he sold the two cuttings of hay to a dairy concern at $12 a ton right from the stack. The sweet clover made him more money than the wheat which acted as its nurse crop, and he also had good fall grazing.

Forty Bushels of Corn

His corn on sweet clover land made 40 bushels easily twice what it ever did before. On the wheat land the sweet clover is up early in the spring before anything else is fit to graze and by April 1 will support all the stock of the farm. By corn planting time or before it sometimes is shoulder high; they go through with a disk and packer to cut it up and mash it down before plowing. This enables them to do a good job of plowing and the large bulk of green nitrogenous matter quickly decays and is available at once for the use of the corn plant.

"I have some Hubam, the new annual white sweet clover, but prefer the biennial varieties," says Mr. Oexner. "The Hubam makes a finer growth which doesn't make the bulk of matter which the other kind produces, and this is what we want for the sake of the soil. The more organic matter and nitrogen we can get here the better for us for a long time to come."

"Our land has been worked for so long without getting anything for the improvement that we must do all we can to improve its mechanical condition and add to its fertility. Except on very poor land, however, look out following sweet clover with wheat. First thing you know you will have more available nitrogen than the wheat can get away with and the crop will go down."

"Corn is the best crop to follow clover and then put in the new crop on wheat again. And don't stint on lime. I put on almost four tons to the acre and it paid. In fact, I have been over my farm with the lime spreader and right now I am in the market for more lime and am going to start over it again and rotate the sweet clover again. I can feed just double the number of hogs now, pasturing on clover and feeding out my larger corn crops, that I could send to market before."

There have been a number of tests made on various experiment fields of the University of Illinois during the past three years to determine to what extent sweet clover which is seeded in the spring may be fall cut for hay. On the Odlin field sweet clover which had been seeded in the spring of 1920 and cut the same fall made 3,180 pounds of hay per acre and in 1921 yielded 4.3 bushels of seed. During the same years, however, there was apparent injury to the sweet clover which had been fall clipped on the Oblong and West Salem fields. The seasonal conditions, date of cutting and other factors have no doubt an influence on the amount of hay secured and injury done to the succeeding season's growth.

The following table gives sweet clover hay yields (pounds per acre) from three experiment fields with different dates of cutting. This sweet clover was seeded in wheat or oats in the spring of the year designated.

Sparta field (one plot) 1921, harvested September 26, 2,080 pounds; October 26, 2,320 pounds.

Odin field (average 2 plots) 1921, harvested October 2, 855 pounds; November 2, 850.

Odin field (average 2 plots) 1922, harvested October 1, 2,000 pounds; November 2, 2,940 pounds.

Carthage field (average 8 plots) 1922, harvested September 30, 2,990 pounds; October 17, 3,220.

In the Odlin and Sparta fields the late dates of cutting showed the most winter injury, the earlier date showed some winter injury, and that allowed to go unclipped showed no winter injury. The clipping in no case seemed to seriously injure the growth of the next season's seed crop. On the Carthage field neither date of clipping showed any winter injury nor did it seem to influence the next season's growth as compared to the unclipped sweet clover. The above results are from land which has been well treated.

In general these results indicate the possibility of removing a fall hay crop from first year sweet clover without doing very much harm to the succeeding crop. However, it is a fact that in many cases where sweet clover is fall clipped it will heave out to a greater extent than that which is not clipped. But unlike alfalfa, sweet clover may be heaved out of the ground several inches and go ahead and do business as usual.

MORE COTTON CROP REPORTS WANTED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—After a two-day conference on the scope and methods of collection and distributing reports relating to the cotton crop, a committee representing planters, exchanges and other interests recommended to the Department of Agriculture Saturday that two reports be issued each month from July to November instead of one as at present.

The committee also recommended that there be appointed three regional or supervisory statisticians, one each for the Southeastern States, South Central States and Southwestern States, who should be members of the crop reporting board.

The committee recommended continuance of the issuance of reports before the close of the cotton exchanges as at present, but that the reports be issued later in the day to give adequate time for consideration by the crop reporting board.

The department's plans for reports on intentions to plant were favorably recommended with the suggestion that the report be made not later than about March 15.

Establishment of a more frequent and complete price reporting service on cotton seed was recommended.

PHYSICIAN SAYS HE FINDS A CURE FOR DREAD T. B.

By HENRY WOOD
United Press Staff Correspondent

GENEVA, Jan. 5.—Two of the greatest contributions to medical science that any country has ever made will be announced shortly by two Swiss physicians.

Cures for tuberculosis have been discovered by Henry Saphlinger of Geneva and Pierre Hullinger, according to competent medical men.

The two cures for tuberculosis to be announced are likened in importance to the discovery of a cure for pneumonia recently found by Dr. Tomarkin, the Swiss physician at Rome.

The cures now being perfected by Doctors Hullinger and Saphlinger, were each arrived at independently, and the treatment is different.

Dr. Hullinger's treatment consists in the hypodermic injection of salts of copper, mercury, magnesium, silver, tin and arsenic. About 20 injections are necessary to check the ravages of tuberculosis.

Injections cause a reaction in all the centers of the organism where tuberculosis is in a most latent state. This enables the physician to determine immediately to just what extent the patient is affected.

Following this stage the lymphatic glands begin to absorb the tubercular virus and it is eliminated.

All forms of tuberculosis yield to this treatment, tests show.

The preliminary tests of Dr. Saphlinger's treatment have been before the world for several years and he is now only awaiting final tests before announcing his success.

NO REASON FOR IT

You Are Shown A Way Out

There can be no reason why any reader of this who suffers the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the pains and dangers of kidney ills will fail to heed the word of a resident of this locality who has found relief. The following is convincing proof:

Mrs. S. A. Cox, Cypress St., Colorado, Tex., says: "I suffered with kidney trouble. I was so bad at times, that when I stooped, pains caught me so I couldn't straighten without help. I couldn't rest, the pains were so sharp and I had terrible headaches and was almost a nervous wreck. My kidneys acted irregularly and my back felt so sore I couldn't do my work. My feet and hands were swollen. Doan's Pills completely cured me."

We Must Go Forward— The New Year is Here

"Go Forward," was the command God gave Joshua when He commanded him to cross the Jordan and possess the land that had been promised Abraham as an everlasting possession. Joshua was the leader of the children of Israel and the successor of Moses. He had never gone this way before. The country was new. There were enemies to subdue, and the land to be taken in the name of Jehovah. Joshua did not hesitate, but proceeded over to the other side to possess the land. Every new year in the history of the world we enter where we have never gone before. We enter upon new and untried fields of human endeavor. There are obstacles to overcome—there are enemies to be subdued, and victories to be won. The world is ever going forward, of backward. Men and nations, with the courage of Joshua go steadily forward, subduing and conquering the years as they roll upon a scroll before us. To the timid man there is no future prospects of success. It takes courageous men—men and women of undaunted courage to forge the world forward and subdue the enemies in the march of civilization.

We should only view the past in order to profit in the future. Forgetting the past we press forward. The Apostle Paul stated that he only looked forward: "Forgetting the past he pressed forward toward the mark of the high calling in Christ Jesus." If men and women were ever looking backward and whining and regretting the past, lamenting their short comings and failures, we would not make progress toward a higher calling. We should only view the past in order to get a clear vision of the future.

Each passing year marks its failures. Men live without making higher friendships—live selfish lives, and to them the past will furnish very little as an energy driving force for future greatness. There are men who have failed in every undertaking of life, while others have succeeded by doing questionable deeds. To them the past should furnish an inspiration for the future. Regardless whether the past has brought success, there should be incentive to go forward where we have never gone before, if, on looking back, we view our failures through the misty shadows of righteous and correct living. Right dealings will bring their ultimate reward. Failures are only temporary, success is just around the corner. There are those who have experienced many bitter sorrows during the past year, pillars have been wet with midnight tears. They have stood by open graves and saw loved ones laid away, and the world made dark. Out of all this sorrow new hopes and inspiration can be obtained for the future. Looking back in memory they can draw consolation in the thought that millions have gone this way, and only in a short time the present generation shall all have passed away. One generation is born and another dies, so is the fulfillment of the curse placed upon Adam for his transgressions. But to those who have been made to sorrow there is the hope of that Eternal reunion beyond this misty veil of tears where kindred and loved ones will meet to part no more. Then there is that class of our citizens that have spent the past year in dissipation, in sinful life, and wrong doing, to them and only them does the future present a very dark picture. There is nothing before them but a continuance in sin, unless they can look back over their sinful past and see the vision of the Redeemer of the race, and hear his words, inviting men and women to come and be cleansed of their sin. There is always an opportune time for man to turn, provided procrastination does not lead him down to the grave where all will be swallowed up in death. Now is the time and today is the day of salvation of the Lord. If you hear his voice hearken not your hearts.

We must go forward—the new year is here, with its problems to be solved. Go forward is the command. We have problems to solve in a community way. We have problems for betterment of humanity, of service to the Master. We are commanded to go forward that the world may be made brighter; that men and women may become more useful. Go forward that the church may sweep onward in its mission of bringing righteousness to a world steeped in sin. We are commanded to go forward in matters of individual service to God, to humanity and society. Shall we heed the call of 1924 and go forward, cross the Jordan of opportunities, or shall we become faint of heart and linger on this side? Opportunity knocks and passes on. Opportunity comes to us individually and as a community. It comes to us as a church and a state, if we open the door He will come in and sup with us.

What will be the record of Scurry county people for the new year 1924. We are going the way we have never gone before. There are new duties and new problems to be met and solved. It takes courageous men and women to meet the issues of life in this the good year, 1924. There is no place for the slacker, or the moral coward. The battle calls for men of stout heart and strong arm. This year can be made the crowning year of all our achievements if we take advantage of it. We should have co-operation on every hand. There should be co-ordination in community efforts. There should be a harmonious union of efforts in church work. There should be a united effort in law enforcement, in righteousness, against sin in high and low places. There should be oneness of purpose in our community undertakings.

Let's go forward. We have never gone this way before. A new year opens before us. Shall we meet the duties and responsibilities of this new year in a manly courageous way or shall we culk in camp? It is God's command that we go forward in these new ways.

MY CREED

Do not keep the alabaster boxes of your love and tenderness sealed up until your friends are dead. Fill their lives with sweetness. Speak approving cheering words while their ears can hear them, and while their hearts can be thrilled and made happier by them, the kind things you mean to say when they are gone, say before they go. The flowers you mean to send for their coffins, send to brighten and sweeten their homes before they leave them. If my friends have alabaster boxes laid away, full of fragrant perfumes of sympathy and affection which they intend to break over my dead body, I would rather they would bring them out in my weary and troubled hours, and open them that I may be cheered by them, while I need them. I would rather have a plain coffin without a flower, a funeral without an eulogy, than a life without the sweetness of love and sympathy. Let us learn to amount our friends beforehand for their burial. Post-mortem kindness does not cheer the burdened spirit. Flowers on the coffin cast no fragrance backward over the weary way. —Alexander Fall in The Rotarian.

Mrs. Baxter is a human mollusc. That is what her adoring brother calls her. But she is a mollusc of such attractive beauty that the entire family have always gladly ministered to her every whim. Her brother, Tom Kemp, sets himself the task of curing her. With the help of an attractive governess, Miss Roberts, he shows his sister her weak points and enables her to restore love and order in a house about to fall. Don't fail to see "The Mollusc" which will be presented by the New York Players on our Lyceum course.

Mr. Rupert Henry Davies, author of "The Mollusc," went to the animal kingdom to get a name for his comedy, and a definition of the besetting weakness of the principal character in it—Mrs. Baxter. In the mollusc he found an animal of kindred nature, hence "The Mollusc" which sets forth in comical situations that the indolence of the idle rich becomes a disease of such character that they use force to resist the effects of friendly efforts to cure them.

"The Mollusc" is a remarkable play. It has been presented by four of America's most distinguished actors—Mr. Kyrle Ballew, Mr. William Faversham, Miss Maxine Elliott, and Mr. George Arliss, and Sir Charles Wyndham of England.

This play will be presented under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers Association, Monday, January 14th. This is one of the very best numbers of the course and it will be well worth your time to see this number. Admission will be 50 and 25 cents, high school auditorium.

Miss Bewley who was to have been here some time ago to give an evening's entertainment under the same auspices and was unable to fill her date will be here on the 7th of March. Miss Bewley is a reader of splendid ability and pleasing personality, and it is with pleasure that we are able to announce to the Snyder people that we are assured of this number on the above date.

PLAN FOR YOURSELF

By PHEBE K. WARNER

This thought is Scurry County's New Year's gift to the world and Texas for 1924. "Plan for yourself" and "STOP asking for credit." There is no greater gift we can give to any one than the gift of a good thought. And that is what most of us need worse than anything else. There are thousands and millions of us down and out, discouraged and despondent, and ready to give up when all we need is a good thought. A thought we can use, put into operation, cheer up and go on.

What might it have meant to a lot of us if somebody had flashed this same thought before us in such big headlines 10 years ago, that we never could have forgotten it. But it is never too late to do good. And there are millions of young men and young women in the same stage of their lives and the same place in their struggle for success today that others of us were in 10 years ago. It is not too late for them to profit by a good thought and that is why we are broadcasting Scurry County's advice to the world.

"Plan for yourself. Stop asking for credit. MAKE UP YOUR MIND to get on a cash basis and stay there." This is a fine resolution for anybody to start and finish the New Year with. But especially for the boy or girl that is just starting out to earn their own salary. It may be your first year in managing your own affairs. Do you get a cash salary for what you are doing? Are you living within that salary and a little less? If you do not learn the lesson of living within your income to begin with, when do you think you will have a better chance? The whole world is living on a strain and in a constant struggle to meet the demands of life simply because it has never learned this lesson. How many of us have ever been trained and educated to plan for ourselves? The most unkind thing we parents can do for our children is to plan everything for them as long as we live and after while DIE and leave them helpless to plan for themselves after we have taught them to live above their ability to produce a living.

But Scurry County's gift to the world for the New Year was intended not only for the young man and young woman just starting into life, nor for the new homemakers in their own county, but especially the farmers. "Invest in something that will make you a steady monthly return. Produce, poultry, eggs, hogs, cream and calves. Strive to own at least 100 hens, four sows and three cows on every farm. If properly taken care of they will pay your way during the year and leave your crop for other purposes."

"Don't wait, but make up your mind that the year 1924 will put you on top. Dispose of your scrubs and invest in good hens, good cows and good hogs. Good steers make a profit for their owners. Scrubs are high priced boarders on the farm. Plenty of feed is the keynote to success. Give your feed crops the same attention you do cotton, don't waste a pound you raise and feed at home. Start now and carry it through and the Scurry County Chamber of Commerce with all its resources will stand back of you."

Bryant-Davis Good Groceries

Such are the suggestions and the promise of the Scurry County Chamber of Commerce to every citizen of that county. But that is not the end of the Scurry County C. of C. Under the leadership of the secretary, E. J. Anderson, a program for 1924 is mapped out that would be a credit to any city in the State. The program for the city of Snyder includes 13 different goals. To continue the clean-up work until Snyder is the cleanest city in Texas. Build more sidewalks, continue improving the streets until every street is either paved or macadamized; plant trees until every street is bordered with trees, and then take care of them until they are able to grow alone; plant flowers between the walks and curbs and offer prizes for the best kept homes; elimination of badly rundown buildings and unsightly spots; paint the houses, keep the lawns and whitewash the trunks of trees. Obtain balance of property necessary to establish city park. Encourage parties financially able to provide convenient and modern camp grounds for tourists on the Seattle plan. Organize the school district under such State and national laws as to make possible the establishment of a junior college. Co-operate with the citizens of the county and the county commissioners to secure for Scurry County both a county farm agent and a county home demonstrator for the good of the whole county. Develop the Snyder water supply to the full limit for irrigation purposes. Extend the water and sewer systems into those sections for a better system of street lightings of the city not yet served. Work ing. Organize a building and loan association for the sake of more and better homes in Snyder and Scurry County and sell the stock in the organization among local people. Build a first class open cotton storage and provide cold storage for various food stuffs.

How is this for a one-county program for 1924? What is your county program? Will it come up to the Scurry County program?

NEED EXISTS FOR EXPANSION OF THE SHEEP INDUSTRY

There is need for a considerable expansion of the sheep industry in the United States and the future holds promise of much greater stability for it than it has enjoyed in the past, say workers of the Department of Agriculture. They believe the expansion of the future will be characterized by less violent fluctuations than have been common heretofore because there is relatively little unoccupied land to which the industry can turn and the pioneer phase of mutton and wool production is rapidly passing.

Nevertheless, it is pointed out that the sheepman in this country will always have to meet severe foreign competition. He must not only compete with wool growers in other countries but with producers of other livestock, for land, labor and machinery of production. There is also the problem of getting an adequate place for lamb and mutton in the diet of the country.

Moreover the sheepmen are warned that the recurring cycles of prosperity or depression that have been the bane of the sheep industry in the past can not be altogether eliminated. When prices for mutton and wool are low producers necessarily reduce their flocks. This action increases the number of sheep marketed and causes additional price depression. After the supply of wool and mutton gets low so that prices rise again. When this takes place producers once more enlarge their flocks until the demand is overhotted again and the cycle is repeated. The sheep industry reached a low point during the recent period of financial depression. It is now building up, but the department's workers do not expect any early saturation of the home demand because the market for mutton is continuing strong and the country normally has to import about half its wool supply.

Scientific Knowledge Essential

Many eastern and midwestern farmers, it is said, can now more readily meet the competition of the west range operators. The eastern men have good nearby markets and in many cases can raise sheep at a lower cost than is possible under some western range conditions. Rapid increase in the East seems, however, to be limited by lack of knowledge concerning the care of sheep and also by the attractions of other branches of farming. In the West expansion is expected to be on the basis of higher operating costs than formerly, but sheepmen are meeting this condition by eliminating wasteful methods and following scientific principles in sheep raising. One handicap is the difficulty of securing adequate range. Many operators using the public domain are faced with uncertainty as to how much longer these lands will be available to them.

Important changes have taken place in the sheep industry in the last 20 years. Formerly sheep in the United States were raised almost exclusively for wool. Recently the production of mutton and lamb has assumed a dominating place in the industry. In many western range outfits lambs furnish approximately 55 per cent of the revenue.

But one of the greatest problems in marketing is that of avoiding congestion during the three-months' period from August 15 to November 15, and the department's specialists urge sheepmen throughout the country to give this matter their close attention.

Lamb receipts at leading markets in this three-months' period are frequently much greater than can be readily absorbed. Such gluts always break prices. Autumn congestion is aggravated by the practice of marketing lambs of inferior quality at this time. These inferior native lambs have a depressing influence on the market. Besides hurting the sale of good lambs, they generally fetch prices below production costs. Sheepmen who can get their lambs to market earlier are advised to do so, but if the lambs are not suitable for slaughter before August they should be held a few weeks or shipped to feed lots.

Another problem which the sheepmen are faced with is that of winning a stable market for lamb and mutton. Consumption of lamb and mutton in this country varies widely from year to year. From 1907 to 1922 per capita consumption ranged from 4.7 pounds in 1917 to 8.2 pounds in 1912, a variation of more than 74 per cent. The importance of this variation is apparent when there is practically no foreign trade in lamb and mutton. More lamb and mutton is eaten in the Northeast and far western sections than elsewhere. Its consumption is lowest in the South Atlantic, South Central, and east North Central States.

Mutton Consumption Increases

Improved methods of slaughter and the development of artificial refrigeration and refrigerated transportation have greatly increased the consumption of mutton in the United States in the last 20 years. It is, however, considerably lower than in many other countries. Average annual per capita consumption of lamb and mutton for the ten-year period 1912-1921 in the United States was 6.2 pounds. This compares with a per capita consumption of 9 pounds in Canada in 1910; 26.7 pounds in the United Kingdom from 1895 to 1908; 9 pounds in France in 1904; and in Germany of only 2.2 pounds a year for 1904-1913.

In these periods the consumption of lamb and mutton in these countries constituted the following percentages of the total meat consumption: 4.35 per cent in the United States; 5.57 per cent for Canada; 22.25 per cent for the United Kingdom; 11.25 per cent for France; 1.91 per cent for Germany.

Thus it is evident that the problem of increasing consumption in this country is an important one. Largely because of the dual character of the sheep industry, which requires a steady market for both meats and wool, the sheepman's marketing problems are more difficult than those of either the cattle or the hog producer. People in this country prefer strictly fresh, rather than frozen, lamb and mutton. But mutton cannot be stored satisfactorily without freezing for more than a short time. It is therefore difficult to move sheep from distant points of production to consuming centers without deterioration. There is frequently heavy loss through shrinkage and other causes resulting from long hauls. Extension of the domestic market for lamb and mutton and improvements in the method of supplying it are thus vital needs of the industry.

Good Wool Demand Apparent.

Wool marketing is much easier. Though the United States is the third country in wool production and has produced an average of 300,000,000 pounds a year for the last 35 years, it has never met the home demand. Imports for some years prior to the war averaged 200,000,000 pounds. They reached a peak at 453,727,000 pounds in 1918. Probably a normal annual amount which must be imported is around 300,000 pounds. American sheepmen have therefore no need to be afraid of overshooting the home demand for wool. Since 1921 wool prices have more than doubled. The problem of selling wool is not to create a market but to take the best advantage of the one that exists.

This has been attempted in the last few years by considerable extension of co-operative marketing. Great quantities of wool are now assembled annually by wool pools and held at central points for inspection by wool buyers. Co-operation, however, has seen its greatest development in the farm flock regions. On the range, co-operative marketing is comparatively new, and affects only a small portion of the wool sold by large ranching outfits. It has, however, achieved some success. Results indicate that co-operative selling stimulates competition among buyers, facilitates business-like transactions, and tends to check overloading of markets.

The ratio of the number of sheep to population in the United States has declined since 1884. From 1899 to 1903 there were about 5 sheep for every 8 people; ten years later there were only 4. From 1919 to 1923 there were only 2.8 sheep for every 8 people, or about 1-3 of a sheep per person. Nevertheless, the total production of wool has remained practically constant owing to increase in the weight of the fleeces. Per capita consumption of wool has been maintained by great increase in imports.

Where the Saddle Came From.

The early Greeks and Romans rode horses bareback. They regarded it as unmanly to ride in a saddle. In fact, the modern saddle with pommel, crupper and stirrups was unknown to the ancients. Nero gave out fancy coverings to his cavalry and the bareback riders of the German forests used to laugh at them. Saddles with trees came into use in the Fourth century; stirrups three centuries later.

"Well! Strong!"
 Mrs. Anna Clover, of R. F. D. 5, Winfield, Kans., says: "I began to suffer some months ago with womanly troubles, and I was afraid I was going to get in bed. Each month I suffered with my head, back and sides—a weak, aching, nervous feeling. I began to try medicines as I knew I was getting worse. I did not seem to find the right remedy until someone told me of CARDUI
The Woman's Tonic
 I used two bottles before I could see any great change, but after that it was remarkable how much better I got. I am now well and strong. I can recommend Cardui, for it certainly benefited me."
 If you have been experimenting on yourself with all kinds of different remedies, better get back to good, old, reliable Cardui, the medicine for women, about which you have always heard, which has helped many thousands of others, and which should help you, too.
