THE BETTER SPEECH CLUB.

The Better Speech Club was called to order by the vice-president, Lowell Stoker, April 16. This week has been exam week and most all the club members were out when Friday came, and seemingly they took very little interest in the program, but we are hoping they will have a real interesting program to be given next Friday afternoon.

The club program Friday was as follows:

Kenneth Alexander—"Report on Woodrow Wilson."
 Vernon Aucutt—"Report on Samuel Gompers."
 Louise Carlton—"Report on Caruso."
 Alva Curtis—"Report on Booker T. Washington."
 Torrence Riley—"Report on General Pershing."
 Robert Howell—"Report on Herbert Hoover."
 Lowell Stoker—"Report on Ty Cobb."
 Carroll Baker—"Report on John D. Rockefeller."
 Jim Brooks—"Report on Henry Ford."
 Grace Wilson—"Report on Lloyd George."
 The Club adjourned to meet April 23, 1926.—Reporter.

THE STORY TELLING CLUB.

The Story Telling Club met last Friday morning. The house was called to order by our President Sonado Baze. The minutes were read and approved. The roll was called. Then officers for the last quarter were elected. The following were chosen: Billy Morrow, president; Tom Bertram, vice-president; Maxine Shuler, secretary; Hugh Taylor, reporter.

Then the following program was given:

Hilda Gene Williamson—"The Magic Mirror."
 Doris Doak—"Bear Skin."
 Janice Erwin—"The Flying Ship."
 Johnson Davis—"The Twelve Windows."

The story tellers were chosen and the club adjourned.—Reporter.

THE VALUE OF A GARDEN.

Everybody should have a garden. It brings you health, wealth and happiness. When you put fresh vegetables, you just go out in the garden and pick or pull them, while if you do not have a garden you have to go to town and buy them and then they may not be fresh. All vegetables are healthful.

You usually have enough vegetables to sell as well as eat. You can enjoy working in a garden and see your things grow.

It is not much trouble to keep up a garden and does not cost very much. Have a garden and you will have health, wealth and happiness.—Weldon Alexander.

THE WORTH OF A GARDEN.

The worth of a garden is not only health and wealth but is also happiness. The worth of a garden is very much.

In the summer time if you have a good garden you will not have to buy very much food.

The expense of a garden is very little. All of the expense of a garden is your work. If everybody had a good garden, the grocer wouldn't do very much business. You cannot have a garden the year round you can sell enough while it is bearing to pay your grocery bill the rest of the time. Gardens will not only bring you wealth but it is a great pleasure to work in a garden with beans, tomatoes, potatoes, onions, cucumbers and other green vegetables in it.—Power Cayce.

TIMES-SIGNAL SIGNALS

Ever notice that a woman always stays longer after she gets up to go than she does before she starts?

We've known some Snyder men who didn't seem to think they had to put their best foot forward so long as they carried a rabbit foot. Talk about "fuss and feathers," just wait until the government flies into the poultry trust.

Every now and then we meet a man who would rather keep on getting drunk than go to the trouble of swearing off every month or two.

The average Snyder man's idea of a "clinging gown" is one that will cling to his wife for about three years.

The man who invented chop-uey killed himself in China recently. Maybe it was just a plain case of chop-ueyicide.

The bail of a New York boot-legger was placed at $100,000. Must have taken about all of his small change.

Nothing makes a Snyder woman madder than to go to the city to match a piece of goods and find it in the first store she goes into.

There are no Princesses in America, but there are thousands of good, sensible girls who can make a Princess look like thirty cents.

Maybe they call them "stills" because they have to be operated on the "quiet."

We know some Snyder men who can hear pleasure knocking with a feather but who couldn't hear duty knock if it used an axe.

The Florida version of the good old song seems to be "In the Sweet Buy and Buy."

We heard the other day of a Snyder woman who is so courteous that she says "Pardon me" when she steps on her cat's tail.

What has become of the old-fashioned evangelists who used to save our drunkards instead of turning them over to the doctors.

And another thing, the recording angel isn't wasting any ink and paper setting down the good things you are going to do.

Hope springs eternal, and Snyder people look forward just as anxiously to the ripening of the wheat as they ever have.

Just to show she works on the 50-50 plan, nature sees that sweet-smelling violets and onions come and go about the same time.

STATE AID RECEIVED.

I have just received the State aid apportionment as granted by the Department of Rural Education. The following is a complete list of the schools getting aid and the amount each received.

Guinn	$430.00
Camp Springs	575.00
Canyon	230.00
Bison	300.00
Scurry Co. Line	40.00
Triangle	200.00
Bellevue	300.00
Plainview	500.00
Fluvanna	1000.00
Dermott	350.00
Crowder	270.00
Gannaway	300.00
Hermleigh	675.00
Ennis	300.00
Turner	330.00
China Grove	700.00
Lone Wolf	525.00
Mitchell Co. Line	375.00
Sulphur	300.00
Deep Creek	500.00
Whatley	235.00
Woodard	450.00
Sharon	440.00
Lloyd Mountain	325.00
Ira	700.00
Hermleigh	675.00
Dunn	1000.00
Bell	35.00

Total $11,775.00

We should all be proud of this amount as the general average for all West Texas was $390.00. Our average is $436.20 for the 27 aid schools. The Bell school does not go in with the others as this aid is for high school tuition only.

PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN.

H. G. Towle thinks it would be a good idea for the U. S. to annex Ireland so our cities could raise their own policemen.

Now approacheth the season when the poor man tries to persuade himself that he likes chicken as well as he likes turkey.

According to Geo. Northcutt too much of the world is run on the theory that you don't need road mangers if you're driving a five-ton truck. And there are times when every auto driver wishes he was driving a five-ton truck—when he meets a chronic road hog.

It is said that talk is cheap—but just look what it cost Col. Mitchell.

Albert Norred declares that a young man's relatives to a girl may usually be told by the time it takes him to put on her coat.

Congress may adjourn on May 1, but that doesn't indicate that it will have a "clean slate" by any means.

"Another thing that puzzles me," asserts Joe Caton, "is how the solicitor for some kind of charitable fund always knows so much better than you do how much you are able to give."

IRA SNAP SHOTS

School

The School play "Farm Folks" which was not given on account of bad weather, will be put on here Friday night and Saturday night at Westbrook.

Entertainment

Westbrook gave a play here Saturday night, entitled, "Her Honor the Mayor." The delightful comedy was very much enjoyed.

Canyon gave a farce Comedy Friday night. The spectators report, "Little Miss Jack" a winner.

The Ira Singing Class met Sunday afternoon for an hour of song service. They are trying to regain their old standard, "A full house."

The Sunday Schools of Ira have united to conduct a mothers day program. Everyone is invited to take part.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Sorvolls are celebrating their honeymoon.—Reporter

4-H CLUB.

The 4-Club girls of Hudd community held their second meeting Monday, April 12, at the home of Mrs. F. J. Helms.

Our Home Demonstration Agent was unable to be with us, but the meeting was conducted by our local club leader, Mrs. Cecil Helms.

The meeting was called to order at ten o'clock and all were in high spirits. We had finished our caps, aprons and hot pan lifters.

The girls have done some nice work on these articles. After hearing the report of home work the girls cooked dinner and served it. In the afternoon we cut out our bungalow aprons and worked on them until four o'clock. Then we disbanded. All the girls expressed enjoyable time and are looking forward to our next meeting.—Club Reporter.

O. YE METHODISTS, ATTENTION.

Extra special sermons at the Methodist church next Sunday morning and night, please make an extra effort to hear them.

Subject at 11 a. m., "The Higher Life; or, What Entire Sanctification is and How to Attain It."

At 7:45 p. m., "What Investment Will Pay the Largest Dividends?"

O. My people, it is a tremendous tragedy to note how few unsaved people attend our church services. Please invite some unsaved person to hear the sermon next Sunday night and pray for the backsliders in our own church.

Everybody invited to attend "The church of the glad hand" next Sunday. Give God a chance to help you. B. W. DODSON, Pastor.

W. V. JONES FOR COMMISSIONER.

The Times-Signal is authorized to announce W. V. Jones as a candidate for re-election to the office of Commissioner of Precinct No. 1. Mr. Jones has served one term, and has served to the complete satisfaction of the people of his precinct.

"With the experience I have had, I feel that I can render even better service," said Mr. Jones to a Times-Signal representative, Monday. "I have done my best," he added, "and if re-elected, I will try to serve the people of my precinct better than I ever have."

Much improvement has been carried on since Mr. Jones became commissioner of this precinct, and there has been very little criticism of the Commissioners' Court as a whole.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sims accompanied Mrs. Wraymond's mother, Mrs. W. D. Sims, to Big Spring last Thursday where she will visit with Mrs. Mary Ellis.

Big Cost Sale of Groceries

Will Continue Only A Few Days Longer

We have sold hundreds of dollars worth of groceries since opening our sale last Saturday and have almost gotten our stock down to the level where we want it. We are going to continue this sale for a short time longer at the same prices we quoted last week—wholesale prices. Positively everything in the store, except flour, goes for the prices we paid the wholesaler. This does not include our overhead—we stand that loss ourselves. You eat every day in the year and at the prices we are selling for, it will pay you to buy now and use it in months to come.

Look Over the Prices Quoted Below, Then Buy

Blue Ribbon Canned Figs, in heavy syrup, was 50c, now	31c
Maxwell House Coffee, 3-lb. can; was $1.65, now	$1.49
White Swan Coffee, 3-lb. can; was $2.00, now	$1.77
Texo Pail Coffee, 3-lb. can; was $1.50, now	$1.23
Heinz Tomato Catsup; was 35c now	31c
Campbell's and Van Camp's Pork and Beans; was 15c, now	8c
Puffed Wheat and Rice; was 20c, now	14c
Glen Rosa Peach, Cherry and Apricot Preserves; was 75c, now	58c
10-lb. can Calumet Baking Powder; was $1.85, now	$1.59
Rocky Mountain Comb Honey, 10-lb. bucket; was $2.25, now	$1.89

(This item is offered at below cost)

The prices quoted above are not out of the ordinary, but just to show you how cheap you can buy groceries during this sale. Go through your pantry, housewife, and make a list of the things you need. If you can't make us a personal visit, go to the phone and tell us your wants.

Owing to the extremely low prices we are quoting, everything will be sold for CASH ONLY.

PLANT MORE FEED—

Conservative estimates place the feed shipped into this county during the past five years at one million dollars. This one million dollars has not been replaced through these years by an equal amount of money due to increased production of cotton. The feed bill invariably comes out of the next crop, or money borrowed. This drain on the county's financial resources is uncalled for and a disgrace.

We realize that a portion of this feed shortage has been due to drought conditions. But, the greater portion has been brought about by there being too small an acreage planted in feed and the lack of intensive cultivation. It is the result of too many acres planted to cotton and too much attention given to its cultivation to the detriment of the feed acreage.

The man who has gone through a drought knows the value and the feeling of pride and security which a crib full of maize and a stack lot of bundle stuff gives to one, when their neighbor is raking and scraping to get enough money to buy high-priced feed.

We advocate the planting of sufficient acreage in feed to make you plenty of feed to make another crop even if it does turn off dry and the yield is light. If the yield is heavy, you can sell your surplus the next spring and at a high price.

CRITICS CALL "BEHIND THE FRONT" "A COMEDY WOW."

In the words of Hollywood's most brilliant comedy critics, "Behind the Front" coming to Palace Theatre, starts from the first flicker with a chuckle, works into a big, continuous laugh, and ends with a grand "wow."

"Behind the Front" is a Paramount comedy of the A. E. F. featuring Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton as a pair of buddies who go to France to "kill the Kaiser."

But end up behind the front, and Mary Brian, a Red Cross worker, about whom the romance centers.

Probably no funnier scenes have ever been filmed than the war sequences of this picture. The story is a true-to-life comedy, rather than a burlesque on the war, and was made technically correct under the constant eye of military officials who saw service overseas, at the front.

The picture was suggested by Hugh Wiley's "Saturday Evening Post" story, "The Spoils of War," and was directed by Edward Sutherland, under the editorial supervision of Garrett Weston. The supporting cast includes Chester Conklin, Richard Arlen, Louise Lorraine and Gertrude Astor.

The Optimistic Invalids

By SARAH E. McCahey

MARY leaned forward in her wheelchair to explain to her visitor about the Hartford callers.

Elizabeth, her sister, sat next by, her pretty face tinted like a rose, almost belying the fact that she, too, was an invalid.

Myrtle, their caller, sat in a comfortable little rocker, her generous proportions filling all the available space.

"You know," said Mary, earnestly, "our Hartford friends wrote quite some time ago that they intended making a trip to Vermont, and they wanted to know if it would be convenient for us to have them here on their way back home some time in September."

"Of course, we wrote them that it was impossible for us to have guests under the circumstances, but that we would be delighted to see them and hoped they might call on their way home through Elmwood."

"And did they come?" asked Myrtle, curiously.

"They did," nodded Elizabeth, emphatically. "And what do you think? The excitement had all plucked my face up, and they declared they had never seen me look better in all—"

"Well come to that later," gently interrupted her sister. "I haven't got them here yet."

"Go ahead," said Elizabeth resignedly. "Tell about seeing them coming down the street."

Mary smiled appreciatively at the remembrance and went on with her recital.

"One day in early September I was sitting in the bay window with my chair down close, and I saw a woman coming down the street looking at the house numbers. When she reached our house she looked up at the number and talked to someone invisible near the corner of the street, and presently our visitors from Hartford were in the room."

"My, but we were glad to see them and they were glad to see us!" exclaimed Elizabeth, her eyes dancing.

"And when we began to talk!" said Mary.

Elizabeth raised her eyes in mock horror.

"Talk? I never heard so much talk in all my life; everybody was talking, and at the same time. We talked clear up to the time my brother came home to supper, and you should have seen them! They almost kissed him." Elizabeth chuckled softly.

"After supper," began Mary again.

"After what?" cried Myrtle. "Did you two invalids get supper?"

"Why, of course!" said Mary, looking surprisedly at Myrtle's inquisitive question.

"For invalids, you do the most wonderful things," murmured Myrtle apologetically.

"Of course, we regretted we could not invite them for a prolonged stay, but, as I said before, that was impossible under the circumstances."

"That's what I call reversing the usual order of things," Myrtle said. "Instead of folks coming to see you to bring in a little cheer to you shut-ins, you entertain them so well that the callers forget what they came for."

"I wouldn't quite say that," protested Mary, smiling.

"If I had to whisk around in a wheelchair, prepare meals, make my own clothes as nicely as you two do, and generally keep things going as smoothly as you do, I think I'd be apt to tell the world about it occasionally."

"What good would that do?" asked Myrtle; "what would be the use?"

"That's what I call spiritual superiority over physical difficulties. Now, with me, every pain I have I almost howl, and I have to talk about it into the bargain."

"What's the use?" asked Mary, smilingly.

"I want you to have this bezonza slip," Myrtle said, Elizabeth, coming into the room with a small pot of green, glossy leaves on a little stalk.

"That was meant for you, Myrtle," said Mary, mischievously. "But Elizabeth wouldn't let me give it away."

Elizabeth's face sobered.

"It isn't that I didn't want Myrtle to have it, but I raised it from ak-most a neat, and I was curious to see how big it would grow," said Elizabeth, as she looked pleasantly at Myrtle.

"I can understand that, Elizabeth," replied Myrtle. "I'd not want to give it away too readily; it's like parting with a bit of your luck. But I must be going. It's beginning to get dark."

"Now, Myrtle, look out for the stairs," admonished the gentle Elizabeth, and don't catch cold during this changeable weather."

"Can you beat that?" mused Myrtle to herself, as she cautiously felt her way along the dark street.

"Every time I visit those two brave shut-ins and see the pleasure they manage to extract out of the ordinary everyday occurrences of life, I come away feeling ashamed of myself and determined never again, as long as I live, to complain about anything that might happen to me."

Just then she reached the corner of Branston street and had to wait a few minutes for the evening traffic to race by before she might find an opening in it wide enough for her to dash across the street.

"I declare," she said exasperatingly, "I never saw such confusion in all my life. Such poor system. Someone ought to complain—"

But at the familiar word she suddenly stopped short as the philosophy of patient Mary came to mind.

"What good will it do? What's the use?"

Get Along Without Fork in Abyssinia

The following is a description of entertainment given the servants of a traveler in Abyssinia in which raw meat formed the menu. "Eight of the leading members of the caravan, who had been invited to the feast, entered and seated themselves in a circle on the dirt floor of the house. Two of the chief-tain's servants then entered, bearing a sheep suspended from a long pole. The carriers stood outside the circle. The visiting men pulled out their knives and cut off strips of flesh until they were satisfied. Little more than a skeleton remained when they had finished. The usual method of eating is to remove a large piece of meat attached to a bone. The bone is held in the hand and with the knife a small piece of meat is loosened by a cut from the base of the chunk. The piece is not entirely severed, but remains attached at the tip. The loose end is then grasped in the teeth and the other end freed with a second upward cut. To an observer it appears that the diners are in constant and imminent danger of severing the ends of their noses."

Derivation of Names of Parts of Church

When you enter a place of worship, you first pass through the porch, and may then proceed to an aisle, or possibly take a seat in the nave, or near the chancel.

Porch, aisle, chancel, and nave are all queer words. Some have been built up just anyhow; others are derived from the Latin, and twisted weirdly in the process.

"Porch," for instance, is the word-child, just recognizable, of the Latin "porta," a gate. Why "ch" pushed "ta" out of it, one cannot say.

"Aisle"—the schoolboy who called this word a "wicked speller" was quite right—is what our Saxon forefathers made of "ala," a wing. An aisle, of course, is a "wing" of a church.

"Chancel" is really the "canceled" or shut-off part of a church, and its word-parent is "cancel," meaning lattice-work.

The connection—or the excuse for the word "chancel"—lies in the fact that carved screens, or lattice-work, generally divided the east end of a church from the other parts.

"Nave" is from the Latin "navis," a ship. A church in a religious sense is an ark. So—"nave"

Wild Pigeons All Gone

Vast numbers of wild pigeons were seen in this country prior to 1805, though not in such great numbers as earlier in the century, namely 1800 to 1850. The slaughter of these pigeons raged for years with nets, traps and guns and by their made their appearance simultaneously in England and in the States.

Eskimo Theory of Death

The Eskimo theory of death is peculiar to Christian eyes, and has resulted in many tragedies. It was believed that a man had two souls, one good, one evil. When he died the good soul expected to spend eternity in bliss and comfort in a warm place underground. His bad soul was supposed to remain on the spot where the body died, a lasting, harmful influence over those who were luckless enough to encounter it. When a person became ill the medicine man was sent for. Almost always he pronounced the case hopeless. The invalid was then taken out of the igloo and placed on the snow to perish. It was a logical proceeding, for if he died indoors the igloo would have to be abandoned and sealed up forever.

First Use of Spectacles

Spectacles are of French origin. The proof accrues, which is the kind that ought to be acceptable on the subject, lies in the fact that the oldest known portrait wherein spectacles appear is that of Cardinal Hugues de Provence, painted by one Thomas of Modena, which represents the prelate with the w. k. glasses in front of his eyes. The fresco in the church of Saint Nicolas of Treviso, of which the portrait forms a part, is dated 1352. There is, it appears, in the national library at Paris an illuminated manuscript, dated 1380, which shows St. Paul wearing spectacles. One would like to know where St. Paul got the idea. He was a great traveler.

Indian Summer

There are no definite dates for Indian summer, which is a period of warm or mild weather late in autumn or in early winter, usually characterized by a clear, cloudless sky, and by a hazy or smoky appearance of the atmosphere, especially near the horizon. The term is commonly applied to such period occurring in October or more commonly in November, after a definite frost.

Found Compensation for Her Affliction

A clergyman called on an old lady who had been bedridden for some years.

"Well, Mrs. Davies," he said, "and how are you today?"

"Oh, I'm pretty well, thank you," was the cheerful answer.

"Ah, that's right," said the clergyman, sympathetically. "I hardly expected to find you in such good spirits, considering your affliction. I was afraid I should find you downhearted."

"No, no, sir," she cried interrupting him. "No, no, indeed, sir. I've much to be thankful for. Why, only the other night, when that house just opposite was on fire, I couldn't help thinking of all the poor people crushing each other in the street, and many of them not getting a sight of the fire at all, while here was I, all nice and comfortable in bed, and I could see it beautifully through my window without even turning over! Oh, no, I've a lot to be thankful for."—London Tit-Bits.

Evolution of Trousers

The Haberdasher says: "Trousers are comparatively young things, having come in about the same time the last century did. George III was the last English monarch who wore breeches as a regular thing. The change from breeches to trousers was not a studied one, however, for there was a period of

In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Wentz and the pastors of other San Benito churches and their wives, including Rev. and Mrs. F. M. Davis, Rev. and Mrs. E. D. Fritts, Rev. T. N. Barton and Rev. H. L. Weidenmeyer. The wives of the ministers were presented with corsages by the Baptist Women's Auxiliary while their husbands received matching boutonnières.

Masses of golden cosmos were arranged in the reception and living rooms emphasizing a color scheme of yellow. Across the patio myriads of pink roses transformed the dining room into a veritable rose bower, rich clusters of the blossoms twining around and reaching upward to the huge punch bowl. Here fruit punch was served throughout the evening.

A delightful informal program was arranged by Miss Lillian Harl. Miss Harl gave a group of violins and Mrs. John Merritt gave a violin solo by Robert Stone, who also played with the orchestra, was a pleasing feature. Other numbers included a piano solo by Mrs. Angie Taylor and two readings by Catherine Frisby. About 200 guests were present, including Rev. and Mrs. Marshall of Brownsville.—San Benito Light.

LAUGHTER, THEME OF WAR PICTURE AT PALACE THEATRE.

Laughter, not slaughter, is the ruling theme of "Behind the Front," Paramount's contribution to the story of the Great War, which comes to the Palace Theatre Monday.

"Behind the Front" is a comedy of the A. E. F., which features the humor, adventures, and disillusionment of a couple of dumb doughboys, played by that inimitable character team, Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton.

Their roles are taken from life, for every battalion had two such characters for their buddies and plenty of mixups and trouble for their superiors.

Through the whole story runs a fine thread of romance, with beautiful Mary Brian playing the role of a Red Cross worker in France. The picture was directed by Edward Sutherland, who directed Raymond Griffith in "A Regular Fellow." The supporting cast includes Louise Conklin, Richard Arlen, Louise Lorraine and Gertrude Astor.

Buddhists Educate Women

Officials of the Solaji sect of Buddhists have at last decided to educate their women. They have established a women's university in Tokyo at a cost of 1,500,000 yen. The schools will be ready to operate in 1927, according to present plans.

Little Energy in Talking

The speech energy of the human voice amounts to very little in the way of power. It is only 125 ergs a second, an almost infinitesimally small amount of power. Consonant letters require the least amount of energy. The pitch or frequency of vibrations is much higher for consonant sounds, than the vowels, however. An erg is the work done when a body moves one centimeter in the direction in which it is urged by a force of one dyne, and a dyne is a force which when acting on a mass of one gram for one second will change its velocity by one centimeter per second.

Swimming to Work

Pacific Islanders are probably the cleanest people on earth, for they spend a good part of every day in the water, and may be said to be almost as amphibious as seals. The children learn to swim almost as soon as they learn to walk. If the widge happens to be at some distance from the shore, a swimming pool is formed in a near-by stream, and there mixed bathing is indulged in several times every day. With the skin constantly greased with coconut oil, the pulp of the bitter green orange makes a good soap and lathers freely. Dame Nature also supplies them with scrubbers, the husks of coconut, and this they apply to their shining bodies very vigorously. Their towel is provided by the sun and wind.

When Windows "Sweat"

The sweating of windows is due to imperfect ventilation, and if perfect ventilation could be obtained it would probably give the most effective results. In many cases openings are made in the sash, top and bottom, so that a current of cold air may cover the interior side of the glass. In some instances, where the sweating of windows is not so bad, 55 grams of glycerin is dissolved in 1 liter of alcohol (68 per cent), to which a little amber oil is added. As soon as it is thoroughly mixed, it may be rubbed on the inside surface of the window with a chamol or linen rag. A thin coat of pure glycerin applied to both sides of the glass will prevent moisture.

Best Floor Bleach

Oxalic acid is recommended for bleaching an oak floor, using the acid at the rate of one pound to the gallon of water, and adding to the solution a little spirits of niter. Apply the acid hot. When the bleached portions are dry they must be well washed to remove the acid from the wood. Oxalic acid is a poison and should not be applied with a rag held in the fingers, but should be brushed on.

THE NEW DELCO-LIGHT

An electric light and power plant for the farm, which operates without storage batteries, automatically supplies light and power instantly and sells at a price that places it within reach of every farm owner in the United States is being announced this week by the Delco-Light Company, Dayton, Ohio. The Delco-Light Company is a subsidiary of the General Motors Corporation, second largest industrial corporation in the world. Ed J. Thompson is the local Delco-Light dealer, handling the sale and installation of this newest plant.

In presenting the new Model 750 Automatic Delco-Light the company has eliminated the use of storage batteries and added new features to the generator which greatly simplify its operation. The result is a plant which can be installed for several hundred dollars.

less than the battery equipped model of approximately the same capacity.

With installation of this new model, electric light and power is available at the turn of a switch. The generating unit is started automatically whenever a light or power switch is turned on and continues to operate until the switch is turned off, when the plant stops. The generating unit furnishes the current direct to the lights or motor equipment.

When the last light is turned off the plant stops automatically. The plant of course, is self-cranking, current for starting being supplied by a small automobile-type battery.

For use with automatic motor equipment, such as Frigidaire, Delco-Light water Systems, etc., the outfit is ideal. Opening the faucet at the kitchen sink, or any place where water is required, will start the plant. Just as soon as the pump switch cuts in, the plant is started. As long as water is being used the plant continues to operate. When the faucet is closed, the plant stops. The operation with the Frigidaire electric refrigerator motor is just the same.

When current is required, the plant operates. When it is no longer needed, it stops.

The new model 750 Automatic Delco-Light plant has an output of 750 watts, sufficient to handle two one-fourth horse power motors at the same time, with a reserve of 200 watts for light, if they are needed.

"On account of the amazingly low price of this new plant, we feel that we have at last placed electric light and power within reach of every farm owner in the United States," declared E. G. Biechler, president of the Delco-Light Company, when the Model 750 was exhibited for the first time at a convention of Delco-Light dealers last week.

"Here is a plant that is absolutely the last word in engineering and at the same time is so simple and design that any housewife can take care of it. And it is being offered at a most attractive price."

To the Voters of Scurry County

As a candidate for Sheriff and Tax Collector of your county, I feel that I should tell you what I think about a sheriff's duty. I consider a sheriff that is employed by the people should be a peace officer, and to look after the peace and dignity of the county to the very best of his ability.

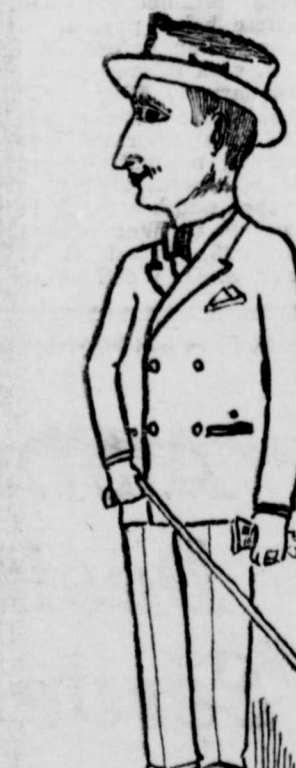

There are two ways a sheriff can enforce the law—one is to obey the law himself and the other is to conduct himself in a way that he will be respected by all classes, good and bad. Of course the sheriff's duty must be performed and if he performs this duty in the right way he will be respected by the criminals.

I think the worst handicapped man is a sheriff that has lost the respect of the people. Now take the boys of our county, I had much rather do all I could to help the boys to do the right thing than to cause them to be sent to the pen. If I am elected sheriff of your county I intend to do all in my power to help the boys to do the right things, for on his shoulders will soon rest the responsibility of our nation, so if I can conduct the sheriff's office in a way that will command the respect of the boys of our county, I feel that I would be doing something worth while, and would be enforcing the law.

I have lived in the county for 25 years and have farmed in the south part of the county for 20 years. I served as Tax Assessor for 2 years and Tax Collector and Deputy Sheriff under Mr. J. H. Byrd, our present Sheriff and Tax Collector. So I feel that I am qualified to a certain extent at least to fill the place.

I ask the voters to investigate my records as a citizen of this or any other county where I may have lived, and also as a public servant the four years I served you, and if you find that I failed to do my duty so far as was possible I do not ask you to vote for me, but if you find me to be a good citizen and that I made a good public servant while I was working for you, I ask you for your vote and influence and if elected will perform the duties of the office to the best of my ability.

THE HOBBS CONSOLIDATION.

To say just when the idea of the Hobbs consolidation was conceived or who was responsible for the idea would be wild speculation. Suffice to say that it was just in keeping with the progressive school spirit that dominates Fisher County.

It was in the spring of 1924 that Hobbs, Dallas, Grady and Baird common school districts came to realize that they were standing in each other's way and blocking all real constructive education in these communities. They were operating ordinary one and two-teacher country schools but were not getting value received upon investments. Each community was duplicating the work of the other, neither one had pupils sufficient to organize a class in which a school spirit could be awakened. Hence they began to think of the many advantages they could be having through consolidated effort that were impossible in the little isolated, unrelated, unorganized, poorly supervised schools that were trying to stand alone and fighting all the time a losing fight. Not because of the lack of interest but because of a disunited effort. This kind of thinking led to the idea of a centralized school where all the children could be working together, fighting for a common cause, under one supervision and surrounded by a school spirit which is conducive to school activities.

With the above thoughts in mind they set to work to materialize their aspirations. An election was ordered in each district to see whether this consolidation could be perfected or not. We had the results of the election before us but it was an overwhelming majority for the consolidation. After this special tax and bond elections were ordered, which also carried by good majorities. The tax rate of one dollar per hundred and twenty thousand dollar bond issue.

Since that time we have erected two teacherages, car barn and other outhouses together with a two-story brick school building that is a credit to any community. Our school building is a building 6x90 feet containing an auditorium 60x60 feet with a splendid stage and dressing rooms. We have seven regular class rooms together with a work room for boys and girls where we are teaching the girls the domestic arts and the boys vocational agriculture. In addition to this we have the library and cloak rooms.

This building was let to Sam Bolling of Abilene, Texas, at the contract price of $16,739.00, but later we made some changes that ran the cost to approximately $18,000.

We are now operating an eight-teacher school together with four trucks, three of which are making two trips each day hauling approximately two hundred children. Notwithstanding the fact that we have had considerable rain and snow this season we have never had a truck fail to make its run and a very few times have we had a tardy. We are exceedingly proud of our attendance record.

The Hobbs Independent Consolidated School District is composed of eighty-five sections of land that lie fourteen miles along the eastern side of Scurry County, making it about six miles wide. The house is located as near as at all practical in the center of the district.

Our total taxable valuations are $1,055,530, or in other words after charging all personal property to the land we have an average rendition of $18.85 per acre. Of course this is only to the school.

Taking the average conditions as prevail in our community, the consolidated school with free transportation to practically the entire school, eight efficient teachers together with the advantages of music and expression, boys and girls at home with the parents all enjoying educational advantages second to none in the country, is costing an average of one dollar per child per month more than the little one, two or three teacher schools that were operating under the old conditions. Is it worth it? We think so.

Respectfully, GUY E. CASBY, Supt. E. D. SCOTT, Pres. W. P. SMITH, Sec.

Teal Duck Swiftest of All Flying Things

An old controversy hangs around the subject of the fastest bird. The prize used to belong, at least in the opinion of sportsmen, to that little and most typical duck, the teal. So far as I have been able to collate the evidence and compare it with personal experience, the very fastest birds belong to the class of ducks which come between the gulls and ducks.

Meteorite Visitors

It is computed that between 10,000,000 and 20,000,000 meteors strike the earth's atmosphere daily. Two or three meteorites are seen to fall yearly. Since a large part of the earth is covered with water or uninhabited, it is thought probable that about 100 strike the earth annually.

THE BULL-WHACKER AND THE BICILE

Just before the Civil war Russell, Majors and Waddell were the leading government contract freighters of the West. They operated 3,500 wagons employing 40,000 oxen and 4,000 men. Their teamsters were known as bull-whackers and many of them were about as hard characters as could be found anywhere on the frontier.

"MODERN MAIDS" TELL OF CLUB WORK.

Among the Home Demonstration Clubs for girls that Miss Laura Belle Roten, our much loved County Home Demonstration Agent, has organized throughout Scurry County is the club of "Modern Maids" at Fluvanna. These young maids have given reports of their club work, some of which will probably be interesting as well as instructive to other club girls of Scurry and interested friends.

Maurine Robdy—"I have been busy in my club work ever since I joined. It is a great pleasure to be in the club and you can also learn things that you would never think of.

"I make bread at least three times a week. I have set a hen and got much pleasure out of it. I first got my eggs ready and went to the hen house and to my surprise the hen was off the nest. After a while she returned and I fixed the nest so the other hens could not bother her, and I turn her out to get food and water each afternoon when I return home from school.

"When I first began sewing I had a time of it. I made my apron with the exception of the pocket, I hated them on and they were not even. I noticed that one was larger than the other. I cut them even and could not sew them on so I got before the mirror, put the apron on and pinned it in the place. It was easily done. If you only stop to think and use your head.

"I planted redishes, peas, beans, and set out onions. I help water the garden each afternoon. I had a Trussard poultry. Set 60 eggs, hatched 24 chicks, each week. Cooking: Made biscuits from six to eight times. Sewing: Made dish towel, hot-pan lifter, cap, sewing bag, and nearly finished bungalow apron. Home improvement: Set out ten pot plants.

Matty Lynn Beavers—"Poultry: I have set 30 eggs, hatched eight chicks and have learned a great deal about making a hen sit and feeding both feet with a string and feed and water her day by day. I have spent about 2 1/2 to 3 hours working with my poultry.

Sewing: I have finished all work except cap. The work finished is dish cloth, sewing bag, cook apron, bungalow apron, pillow cases, and hot pan lifter.

"Cooking: I have made drop biscuits from 3 to 4 times and made plain biscuits once a day for about one month.

Home improvements: I help care for hot beds and pot flowers and am going to start right away on gardening.

Willie May Fry—"Cooking: Cooked biscuits five times. Sewing: Dress, 30 minutes each time; cap, one hour spent on cap; apron, about 2 hours spent on apron; hot pan lifter, about 30 minutes spent on lifter. I have spent some time on sewing notebook. Garden: Set out potatoes 1 hour, set out onions 2 hours; planted radishes 30 minutes; planted tomatoes 30 minutes."

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS ENJOYS HIKE.

Misses Katherine Norheut, Mary Bobb, Huckabee, Elizabeth Nichols, Lillian Mae Williamson, Myrtle Woodfin, Pauline Kelly, Mable Isaacs, and Polly Harpole met at the office of Miss Laura Belle Roten, their Sunday School teacher, Friday evening, April 16, at 7:30 o'clock. The girls and Miss Roten hiked to the home of Mrs. M. D. Akers in the north part of the city where they enjoyed a delicious lunch.

VICTORY BIBLE CLASS ENTERTAINMENT.

The Victory Bible class met April 7, at 3 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Dorward and Avery hostesses. We had a short business session with Mrs. Towle in chair, as follows: Minutes of last meeting read by Mrs. Ketter also treasurer's report. The visiting committee reported 117 visits, 21 plants and 7 flowers carried to the sick. Mesdames Merrill, Belle and Clark were appointed as sick committee for next month. There were 23 members present and Mesdames Hood, Trigg, Jones, Ferguson and Miss Avery as visitors.

MISS NAN WILSON HOSTESS TO JUNIOR BRIDGE CLUB.

Members of the Junior Bridge Club and guests met with Miss Nan Wilson at the home of Mrs. M. S. Adams at Byron, Texas, Saturday afternoon, April 18. After an hour of bridge the hostess served a delicious two-course luncheon to Mesdames G. B. Clark, Jr., Maurice Brownfield, Ixon Joyce, Ben Tharpe, George Oldham, M. S. Adams, Misses Leola Blackard, Orene McMillan, Rosalie and Clarabel Clark and Vernelle Stimson.

MRS. Ixon JOYCE HOSTESS TO JUNIOR BRIDGE CLUB.

Mrs. Ixon Joyce was hostess to the Junior Bridge Club Saturday afternoon, April 10, at the home of Mrs. H. B. Winston. After the bridge hour the hostess served a two-course luncheon to the club members and Mesdames Abe Rogers, and Ben Tharpe and Miss Una Hawkins of Sweetwater.

COUNTY FEDERATION MEETING.

The County Federation of Women's Clubs met in regular session Saturday afternoon, April 10, the president, Mrs. Robt. H. Curmutte, presiding. Some very interesting reports were made by the clubs, among them, the Altrurian Club, which reported that they were sponsoring a picture, "Charley's Aunt", which was shown last Wednesday and Thursday evenings, April 12th and 13th, at the Palace Theatre, the proceeds from which are to be used to create a permanent college fund for some worthy girl in our city.

The Choral Club, under the direction of Mr. Dawes, and with the assistance of the Ladies' Aid of Sweetwater and Colorado, will give a program at three o'clock Sunday afternoon, May 2nd. A number of Home Demonstration Clubs reported garden work and yard beautification. A number of clubs reported that they had elected delegates to attend the district meeting at Childress.

The Ira Home Demonstration Club was admitted to the federation. Fines were remitted.

Mrs. Curmutte announced that the week beginning April 25th, the garden week, Mrs. H. G. Towle gave a talk on the observance of cleaner roadsides, cleaner picnic grounds, and good road manners. Mrs. J. L. Martin gave a talk on "Evolution of Selfhood".

MRS. BILLY LEE HOSTESS TO SINE CURA.

Mrs. Billy Lee was hostess to members of the Sine Cura Bridge Club and guests at her home Tuesday afternoon, April 13. The color scheme of yellow and green was carried out in the decorations. A two-course luncheon was served to members and Mesdames. Hugh Bowen, Fritz R. Smith, T. L. McMillan and Chas. Harless of Littlefield.

SANS SOUCIS ENJOY THEATER PARTY.

Member of the Sans Souci Club and Mrs. Loree Curry and Miss Hazel Sentell met at the home of Mrs. C. E. Ferguson Wednesday evening, April 14 and repaired to the Palace Theatre where "Charley's Aunt" was enjoyed. After the show a delicious two-course luncheon was served at Mrs. Wilsford's Tea Room. The tables were centered with sweetpeas and sweet pea corsages were plate favors. Mesdames Mildren Robertson, Boren, Annie Mae Swann, Myrtle Harrell, and Marie Palmer Green were hostesses for the evening's entertainment.

MRS. J. W. LEFTWICH ENTERTAINS ALTRURIANS.

Mrs. J. W. Leftwich was hostess to members of the Altrurian Club and guests at her home Friday afternoon, April 16. The home was lovely in cut flowers. Mrs. P. D. English led the lesson—the study of Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice." Mrs. W. W. Hamilton conducted a parliamentary drill. Mrs. J. E. Sentell favors the club with a vocal solo. A buffet luncheon was served to members and Mesdames. A. J. Coody, A. J. Towle, Jno. F. Carmichael, J. E. Sentell, C. F. Sentell, W. N. Carswell, W. B. Stanfield, Gerie Smith, Dixie Smith, Miss Ruth Smith and Mrs. Pearl Shannon of Colorado City.

MOTHERS' CULTURE CLUB ELECTS NEW OFFICERS.

The Mothers' Culture Club met at the home of Mrs. Joe Stinson Tuesday afternoon, April 20. Mrs. J. E. Sentell, president, led the lesson. The following program was given: "The Peculiar Sympathy of the Great Poets with Animal's Life and Fitness of Poetry to Convey this Sympathy to Children." Mrs. E. J. Anderson. A general discussion on "How to Put a Child into a Receptive Mood for the Horse Movement and Spirit in Browning's 'Ghent to Aix.'" Mesdames Earl Brown and P. C. Chenault; Blakes "Deceptive Symmetry of the Tiger," telling how to impress children in the structure of animals, Mrs. Jack Harris; "Where the Bee Sucks," Mrs. O. D. McGlaun; "Queen Nab's Character," Mrs. H. L. Davis; "The Mountain and the Squirrel;" and "The Pied Piper," Mrs. Porter King, and "The Perspective Faculties," Mrs. H. G. Leath.

New officers were elected for ensuing year as follows: President, Mrs. Carl J. Yoder; first vice-president, Mrs. Geo. Northcutt; second vice-president, Mrs. W. W. Smith; third vice-president, Mrs. Joe Taylor; secretary, Mrs. P. C. Chenault; treasurer, Mrs. E. J. Anderson; and corresponding secretary and reporter, Mrs. Pat Brown.

MRS. HUGH BOREN HOSTESS TO LADIES' AID.

Mrs. Hugh Boren was hostess to the Ladies' Aid of the First Christian Church Monday, April 15th. All had a very interesting Bible contest in which all the questions were answered.

A very enjoyable social hour was spent after which a delicious luncheon was served. Following were present: Mesdames Pat Johnston, D. P. Lane, W. O. Temple, Fritz R. Smith, A. J. Coody, Earl Brown, J. H. Hamlett, A. D. Dodson, Gerie Smith, Porter King, Hugh Boren.

MISS THELMA LESLIE HOSTESS TO T. T. CLUB.

Miss Thelma Leslie entertained the T. T. Club with a slumber party, Tuesday evening, April 20. Although a rain was falling, all but three of the club members were present. After a delicious lunch, games and other amusements had been enjoyed, we retired. After being called several times the next morning, we arose to enjoy a refreshing breakfast. Everyone heartily agreed that we had had a good time. Then bidding the hostess adieu, we each returned to our home.—Reporter.

Rev. and Mrs. B. W. Dodson visited at Seagraves Wednesday.

W. M. Morrow and son, J. G., were in Abilene Tuesday of last week where J. G. took a physical test preparatory to entering the Navy School at Annapolis.

D. P. Yoder and Cecil Morris were visitors in Littlefield Sunday where Mr. Yoder spoke on titling at the Methodist church in the morning and at the high school auditorium to an audience composed of Methodists, Baptists and Presbyterians.

Mrs. T. T. Tillotson, Mrs. C. E. Whitfield and Bruce Campbell went to Snyder Thursday of last week to see their mother, Mrs. S. R. Campbell, who is visiting her son, A. B. Campbell. Mrs. Campbell has been quite sick and A. B. has appendicitis. Mrs. Whitfield remained over until Sunday when they are both improved at this time.—Rotan Advance.

Algy Got the Answer.

By DOROTHEA K. WHITING

"RISE and shine! Hit the deck! Lively, now!"

With these words a new day and a new life had begun for Algy. Only a short week before, Algy had been further from his mind than enlisting as an ordinary seaman. Blessed with a good education and an exceptionally good physique, he had rambled along through life, one long, sweet song. Left an orphan at twelve years of age, by virtue of a train wreck, he had inherited much more money than was good for him and, as is apt to be the case, the finer points of his character had been corroded by the rust of indolence.

Petted and thoroughly spoiled, his spirit of patriotism had lain dormant through the most stirring times that his country had ever known.

"Let someone else do it" had been his attitude. But one day a little piece of glass had altered his whole life.

Driving his big racing car through a little village at high speed, a little piece of glass nearly hit him, but, as a fact which Algy took cognizance of when he found himself sitting in a flower garden with the windshield wrapped around his neck.

As he regained his feet and attempted to remove his somewhat bizarre necklace, he heard a hearty chuckle which developed into a whole-hearted laugh. He tried to assume a dignified attitude and turning toward the sound, he became aware of an exceedingly ornamental young woman, who was making desperate efforts to register an expression of sympathy.

Every wriggle the unfortunate Algy made, however, seemed to amuse her so that her attempts at, at least of all one who has been pampered as Algy had. His attempt at haughty indifference was the last straw, and the girl chuckled.

Eventually, she controlled herself long enough to assist him in rid himself of his encumbrance. Then she insisted on his coming into her house to wash up. Aside from a few scratches, he was uninjured, and some minutes later with a glass of milk and some delicious cake as refreshments, he was laughing as heartily over his recent plight as was Dorothy.

Their laughter had put them more at ease than a dozen conventional calls would have done, and they were soon chatting away like old friends.

She was a college girl, he found out, the daughter of a retired naval surgeon, and her mother had been dead for some years. He had ten an hour or so, with a cordial invitation to come again.

Something in this wholesome girl was very attractive to Algy and he paid court to Dorothy. But a last he had found someone to whom neither his money nor his social position meant anything. Algy, beyond measure at her lack of interest in him, he redoubled his intentions, until, finally, sitting in the vine-covered piazza in the soft moonlight, he asked her to marry him.

In silence she listened to him and then: "Algy," she said, "has it ever occurred to you that your country is at war? Do you realize that the liberty of the world is at stake? Can you conceive of any true American girl caring for a man who spends his time in idle amusement while the country which shelters him is calling on her sons for help? When you have done your bit come back again, Algy, and ask me. Then, I'll give you my answer."

Algy returned home dazed. To think any girl would refuse him! The little girl must be out of her senses. Still, wasn't there some thing in her argument? The logical result of this train of thought ended in a recruiting office, the following morning.

Eight months later a young, uniformed man, a sailor, turned into Dorothy's gate. Brown as a berry with long lean limbs, he swung along, with a little swagger which told the world that he belonged to a fine body of fighting men.

Dorothy opened the door herself and stared as though she were seeing a ghost. Slowly her gaze traveled from head to foot and finally rested on the little gold chevrons on the left arm. She opened her mouth to speak, but Algy was too quick for her.

"Well, Dorothy," he said, "I'm back for my answer, and please make it snappy, dear, for I have my mouth to keep, but Algy was too quick for her."

"You're sure, Dot. Here I've gone and joined the navy and go so salty folks get thirsty from just looking at me. Yep, I'll tell the world you've got to answer."

O, Ye of Little Faith!

Science destroys old poetic ideas, but supplants them with a more imaginative new poetry. It has given us a globe of world spinning on an axis and revolving about a sun which is rushing through space at more than 12 miles a second. For a sky that was a roof, it has given us a great sea of ether extending to infinity in which the stars are not lamps but great glowing suns, some of them a hundred million times the size of our sun. And our own little earth is shown by science to be full of magical chemical and biological processes. In truth, the wonders already made known to man warrant him in believing many things that are quite as wonderful as eternal life.—Capper's Weekly.

Last Word, as Always

Motoring with one's wife should be the most enjoyable recreation there is. However—with blame placed upon neither husband nor wife, it is not always considered an event in which one might delight.

O'Grunch and Mrs. O'Grunch were taking their customary Sunday trip to the country, and on this particular Sabbath day things had not been going so smoothly as it was possible for them to do.

"The car is behaving very well today, Jane," said O'Grunch, who was trying to win his way to peace and quiet for at least a few miles.

"I know," flashed back the better half. "Now it's up to you, John."

Early Canadian Coal

The first recorded mention of coal in Canada was made in 1654. At a very early date coal was gathered in Nova Scotia without mining, and mention of this was made in 1721.

In 1748 coal was shipped from Cape Breton, as is stated in a letter of M. Duchambone to the French minister. In 1795 coal was mined at Sydney, Cape Breton, under license from the crown. In 1798 the coal in Pictou county, Nova Scotia, attracted the attention of the authorities, and Admiral Sawyer of the British army ordered a small cargo to be sent to Halifax for the use of the admiralty.

DOES YOUR BACK ACHE?

Bad Backs Bring Suffering to Many Sufferers.

Is that dull, constant backache making you old and miserable? Does your back throb and ache until it seems you just can't keep going? Do you suffer headaches, dizzy spells and urinary disorders? Do you feel weak, tired, and worn out? Then look to your kidneys. Delay may mean serious kidney sickness! Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Doan's are recommended by Snyder folks.

J. J. Davis, Snyder, says: "I had a dull hurting through the small of my back, which made it impossible for me to do any stooping or lifting. My kidneys acted too freely, especially at night, when I had to get up to pass the secretions. I used Doan's Pills and they cured me of the attack."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mr. Davis of Snyder, Missourian Co., Mrs. Buffalo, N. Y.

Those Bewitching Green Eyes

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

WHEN RONALD NEWTON went to the costume's to select a kimono for his sister to wear to the masquerade, he had not expected to find Romulus lurking there. As a matter of fact Ronald was more or less at the far end of all his affairs with girls and intended finishing them all off once and for ever and settling down with only one. That one he had about decided, was Kathleen Daily. His sister didn't care much about Kathleen but after all that was Ronald's affair.

"Kathleen wouldn't marry you if you intended living in a small flat and had no car to offer her," said Elsie with sisterly frankness and Ronald agreed with her to a certain extent.

"But since I have the money," he laughed back at her, "why worry?"

And while Ronald was in the costume's he suddenly decided that he would, after all, go to the masquerade, and for himself took a man's kimono also.

The night of the masquerade arrived and with it came the beginning of romance for when Ronald dug his big hands deep into the sleeves of the kimono he found therein something wrapped in a small handkerchief. Upon unfolding the morsel of scented linen he discovered the photograph of a very lovely girl. He gazed in admiration for a long time before he looked on the back for a clue of identity.

"Ha, ha!" laughed Ronald. "Discovered! Margot to Bob, Dec. 30th, Twelfth street. Humph!"

Ronald went down on his first spare evening to the Green Eye.

Among the guests and chattering smilingly with them Ronald saw one who he was soon to learn was the new proprietor. In fact, she was advancing toward him with outstretched hand.

"Good evening," she was saying. "I want to welcome all Giovanni's old patrons and hope to serve you all as well as he did."

Ronald had the strange feeling of having traveled a long and tiresome journey and to have reached home at last. He closed his fingers about those of the new proprietor of the Green Eye and said with a laugh, "I am not an old patron but most certainly will become a new one."

She ushered him to the very seat in the big room that he would have selected and as he sat down he had another glimpse into her eyes. They were startlingly green.

"No wonder you have taken over the Green Eye," he said, "I wish you great success."

She thanked him and with the faintest of blushes moved away to welcome other diners. Ronald sat in gloomy contemplation of his desertion. He knew he was finally caught. He forgot Kathleen Daily, the girl whom he was about to propose to, forgot the photograph in his pocket and forgot everything except the young person with the green eyes who floated continually before his vision.

Ronald never ate his dinner so slowly in all his life. And all the time he was puzzling out some scheme whereby he could bring about some conversation with the girl.

girl. Cold against his heart lay the photograph of one Margot whom he had, it scant four hours, considered divinely beautiful. In fact, it was his quest of her that had brought him to the very door of romance. He drew the picture from his pocket and looked long and earnestly at it.

The new proprietress of the Green Eye had for a moment seated herself at a small table and Ronald instantly went over and took the chair opposite.

"I want to show you what brought me down here tonight," he said, "I found this photograph in the sleeve of a kimono." Ronald held out the picture and handkerchief.

Much to Ronald's amazement he burst out laughing when she saw what he held in his hand.

"That's the funniest thing," she said amusedly, "I made a bet with Margot, that whoever found that picture would come here in search of the original. We slipped that into the kimono sleeve one day while selecting a costume. I have won five dollars," she flushed with a mischievous look from the green eyes.

"You thought there was still a bit of romance left in this old world," questioned Ronald, "and Margot thought otherwise?"

The girl nodded, then asked suddenly, "Do you want to meet Margot now—she is my closest friend and there is no Bob. We made him up."

Ronald looked laughingly across the table.

"I did want to meet Margot, very much, but—I've lost all interest in her."

"Some men are very fierce," said she.

"And some aren't," he supplemented, "and I want you to reserve that table for me every evening for dinner until—" he floundered hopelessly.

The green eyes looked questioningly back, but from what she saw in Ronald's expression she decided not to press the question.

Kiddies' Evening Story

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

Mr. Zebu's Pride

"Are you feeling better, my dear?" asked Mr. Zebu.

"Yes, I feel myself once more," answered Mrs. Zebu. "And the other mothers are friendly with us again."

"Oh, I've had a bad day of it. When the keeper first put me in the yard with them they tried to push me out of the way."

"They told me they didn't want me there, but they did. They really only minded for a little while."

"They were jealous—that was all—jealous of my beautiful young zebu child."

"Of course, it is not nice to be jealous and I am not making light of it, nor of their unkind ways at first."

"But they were better after awhile, and they are quite all right now."

"The keeper," continued Mrs. Zebu, "knew they were jealous, too. But I really couldn't blame them. That is why I do not feel anything against them now."

"I would have been the same way if one of the others had just come in with a beautiful zebu child, only a few months old."

"I believe you're right," said Mr. Zebu. "And I'm powerfully glad you are feeling cheerful again."

"For when little Zebby—or so Zebu—first came you weren't interested in anything else in the world or the zoo."

"True," agreed Mrs. Zebu, "and we're as interested, we mothers, if we're in the zoo, or not in the zoo in a zebu baby, or big zebu animal."

"I suppose my darling could be called quite a big animal, though he is nothing but a baby to his mother zebu's eyes."

"Nothing but a darling baby zebu!" A zebu mother welcomes a zebu child no matter where she may be. "A zebu mother is very devoted. But the other mothers—those who haven't new, young babies aren't so jealous when they're free. It is here in the zoo that they are so jealous."

"I Believe You're Right," Said Mr. Zebu.

Zebu has humps and horns like mine," said Mr. Zebu.

The Zebus have humps such as camels have.

"It will be a year," continued Mr. Zebu, "before there are any signs of them."

Mrs. Zebu looked a little sad. "My hump isn't as big as yours," she said.

"Cheer up," said Mr. Zebu, "for I've something fine to tell you—something I just thought of telling you."

"What?" asked Mrs. Zebu.

"Do you mean that you want to tell me about us being sacred in a land called India?"

"We are considered sacred animals there, I know."

"That I know, too," said Mr. Zebu. "But that isn't what I was meaning to tell you. Listen to me," he said, and Mrs. Zebu drew closer.

"There is a reason for having things," Mr. Zebu explained.

"It is sensible to have two eyes—we see with them."

"It is sensible to have horns—they protect us. It is sensible to have a nose for then we know if we like the food which is put before us."

"Yes, there are sensible reasons for having all these things."

"Humph," said Mrs. Zebu. "I don't see that you are telling me anything I didn't know before."

"Wait, my dear, wait," said Mr. Zebu, "this is what I have to say: 'We have humps, interesting, distinguished - looking humps, and there is no reason for having them. It is just a fine, handsome, beautiful addition to our cowlike bodies!'"

And Mrs. Zebu smiled happily as she thought how fine it was to have something that was not a necessity!

Needed Help

A young woman of Brookline and her little daughter sat in an elevated train. Opposite them was a man who was fond of children and he looked across at the little one and winked. She smiled back and tried to imitate him, but only succeeded in squinting with both eyes. Evidently thinking the nice stranger deserved better recognition, the child turned to her mother and said in a loud whisper, "Mother, please wink at that man, I can't."—Boston Transcript.

Collecting Debts in 1647

Old residents of England had their own ideas of debt payment and their own methods of enforcing payment where the customer was not interested in meeting the obligation. One old method in use in 1647 was a debtor's chair, that would be placed in the office of the man to whom the debt was due. The debtor was invited to enter and, when seated in the chair, a trigger was released that clamped iron hoops about the knees of the debtor and held him helpless while the other man negotiated a settlement, and the use of the chair in enforcing payment was entirely legal and in general use.—Ohio State Journal.

Large advertisement for Ford cars. Text: 'Ford Highest in Quality Lowest in Price. The finest steels available are used in the manufacture of Ford cars. The plate glass for windshields and windows is as perfect as can be made. Upholstery material contains a larger percentage of wool than is ordinarily specified—even for much higher priced cars. The basic features of Ford design have never been improved upon by any manufacturer. No other car offers greater dependability. The Ford car has won the favor of millions of users under every conceivable motoring condition. Its convenience is known and appreciated the world over; its performance is taken for granted. Such quality is possible at Ford prices because every operation, from mining of ore to final assembly, is under direct control of the Ford Motor Company. Iron is taken from Ford mines in Michigan; coal from the Company's mines in Kentucky and West Virginia. Glass comes from Ford glass plants; wood from the Ford timber tracts in the North. Raw materials and finished products are carried over the Company's own transportation routes; coke ovens, blast furnaces, a steel mill, foundries and saw mills—all are part of this complete organization. There are even salvage plants, paper mill, cement plant, etc., to transform waste materials into useful by-products. In this way every possible economy is effected. Under no other circumstances could Ford quality be had at Ford prices. Features That Maintain Ford Leadership: All-Steel Bodies, Planetary Transmission, Torque Tube Drive, Dual Ignition System, Thermo-Syphon Cooling, Simple, Dependable Lubrication, Three Point Motor Suspension, Multiple Disc-in-Oil Clutch.
