PLOWBOY AND WOLF TILTS TO BE FORFEITED

Snyder Cinches Championship of Western Half Regardless of Wolf-Tiger Score.

All games already won or tied by Colorado and Roscoe this season will go into the lost column as a result of decisions made by the district executive committee in session in Roby Wednesday.

The decisions came after the committee found that John Farmer of Roscoe and Ryeburn Crawford of Colorado have been ineligible for Interscholastic League play all season.

Roy B. Henderson, head of the Texas Interscholastic League, ruled Thursday that the disqualifications by the district executive committee do not void contracts for unplayed games; thus the Colorado-Snyder game on November 11 will be played here according to schedule. Since the Mitchell County team's tie with Roscoe and victory over Roby have gone into the lost column, however, she is out of the championship picture.

Men Played in Most Games.

Records show that the two ineligible men have been played in all conference games with exception of last week's Snyder-Roscoe battle, when Farmer was on the sidelines. Thus Snyder leads the western half of District 9, with three consecutive wins. Roscoe and Colorado have two losses each. Roby and Rotan are considered eliminated from the race. Snyder is therefore assured of the championship of the western half of the district.

CARNIVAL FOR P.-T. A TONIGHT

Tonight is the time for the big Halloween Carnival to be given by the Parent-Teacher Association at the city tabernacle, beginning at 6:30 o'clock.

Everyone is urged to wear gay costumes. A parade of the spokes around the square will start at 7:30 o'clock.

Hot tamales, chili, sandwiches, coffee, milk, candy, etc., will be sold at the eat booths. There will be side shows and a free program consisting of orchestra numbers, singing and specialty dancing.

Proceeds are to be used for welfare work in the Snyder schools.

JOHN BURROUGHS Works Day and Night WINS $3795 PRIZES

John Burroughs of Dermott made more by working a few hours each night for three months than he could have made during more than two years of day-time work at his job on the Santa Fe.

Prizes totaling $3,795 were awarded Mr. Burroughs last week by the Household Guest, a magazine published in Chicago, when the Scurry County man won first place in a nationwide subscription contest. The Dermott man secured a total of 28,040,000 votes.

Included in Mr. Burroughs' prizes were a Nash sedan, a Chevrolet, 500 gallons of gasoline, a garage and a $200 bonus. Instead of taking the premiums he asked for a check for the entire amount, which he received last week. The contest is described by Mr. Burroughs as one of the greatest of its kind ever conducted in the United States.

SCURRY COUNTY WOMEN AND GIRLS WIN SIX PLACES AT FAIR

Four-H Club Members Take High Honors Among Counties of District No. 2.

By winning four first places, one second place and one third place in Dallas Fair Four-H Club exhibits, Scurry County club women and girls ranked highest among the 20 counties of District No. 2, and among the highest among club members of the state. This information was received a few days ago by Miss Jessie Lee Davis, home demonstration agent.

No definite information was obtained by Miss Myrtle Murray, district agent, in regard to the individual winners, but Miss Davis is expecting data and prizes next week.

Only 17 Entries Made.

Only 17 entries were made by the Four-H women and girls in this county. The six prize winners will receive ribbons as well as money prizes. First prizes to girls are $4, second prizes $3, and third prizes $2. Women's prizes are $3, $2 and $1, respectively.

Misses Ovella Gannaway and Philomena Wimmer are the two Scurry County club girls who won trips to fair as a result of excelling in the five phases of Four-H work—nutrition, clothing, exterior and interior home improvement, demonstration work, and canning. They attended the Dallas exhibition from October 19 through October 24.

Fine Records for Both.

Miss Wimmer, who is a first-year club girl, has records to show that she cleared $26 from her poultry demonstration, $25 from her clothing, and $24.65 from her 49 containers of fruit and vegetables.

Miss Gannaway, whose demonstration work was done with a garden, canned fruit and vegetables valued at $56.54, and made $33.25 profit from her clothing.

FOUR SCHOOLS OPEN MONDAY

Ira, Plainview, Bell and Turner schools opened their doors Monday for the first time this school year. Reports from these openings in another part of the paper indicates that a successful year at the four places is in prospect.

All schools not now open, with the possible exception of Woodard, will open next Monday, if present plans are carried out. The following schools are scheduled to open next Monday: Guinn, Independence, Canyon, Bethel, Crowder, Gannaway, Ennis Creek, Strayhorn, China Grove, Arah, German, Pyron, Sulphur and Lone Wolf.

Hancock Leaves for Position in Abilene

J. R. Hancock, manager of the Lloyd Dry Goods Co., has resigned his position here and will leave this week-end for Abilene, where he has accepted a position with the E. L. Thornton Dry Goods Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Hancock have been living in Snyder only three months, but during that time they have made many friends here.

Mrs. J. L. FARGASON

Coming into the campaign three weeks behind all other workers, Mrs. J. L. Fargason of Hermleigh has managed by hard work to climb into first position. She hopes to hold the lead until the end, and at the same time realizes she has some hard competitors in the race.

Spuds Raised Near Hermleigh Better

"Spuds" raised right here in Scurry County look better, taste better and are better than those sent from the Rio Grande Valley or from Idaho. The Snyder News publishers are willing to testify.

Charlie Ross of Hermleigh, who runs a gin, and irrigates a garden and raises chickens on the side, sent this paper a boxful of the finest Irish potatoes you ever laid eyes on, all packed in Scurry County cotton. This happened last week-end, but the flavor of those spuds lingers on.

Someone has asked, since viewing those big red-skinned, white-eyed potatoes: "Why can't more folks in Scurry County irrigate a little and raise more stuff like that?" The question hasn't been answered.

PIONEER DIES AT HOME HERE

Another Scurry County pioneer, J. W. Templeton, 82, passed into the land of mystery at 10 o'clock Wednesday night, after being ill for several weeks.

Funeral services for the man who came to Scurry County forty-two years ago will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the First Methodist Church, with Rev. Cal C. Wright, assisted by Rev. Phillip C. McGahay, officiating and with the Odour Funeral Home in charge.

Mr. Templeton is survived by his wife and two sons, Beeton, of Houston, and Jim, of El Centro, Calif. All were at his bedside when he died. Flower girls will be: Mmes. Joe Monroe, C. R. Buchanan, Joe Caton, R. W. Cunningham, O. P. Thrane and H. J. Brier.

Active pallbearers will be: O. P. Thrane, A. C. Preuit, Hugh Taylor, Joe Caton, Roy Strayhorn and Wayne Boren. Honorary: Joe Monroe, Joe Strayhorn, C. R. Buchanan, J. R. Joyce, Pope Strayhorn, S. T. Elza, Jim Lockhart, Pete Bolin, Ike Boren, Porter King, C. Wedgeworth, W. P. Smith, R. W. West and Will Doak.

UNION HOST TO COUNTY SINGERS

A full house greeted those who were on the program at the Scurry County singing convention, held in the Baptist Church at Union Chapel Saturday night and Sunday.

Especially was the Sunday afternoon crowd large, a number of people having to remain standing.

The next convention will be held at Mount Zion April 4.

"Howling Success" On Tap Next Week

"A Howling Success," a comedy to have been staged by the Parent-Teacher Association some time ago, will be given in the high school auditorium Friday night, November 7, it has been announced.

PAVING PLANS CUT OUT GRAFT SAYS COUNCIL

Home Machinery, Home Labor and Cheapest Rates to Be Offered Property Owners.

Snyder will have many blocks of the cheapest and best paving of any town in Texas when her citizens help the City Council in carrying out a financing plan which has been perfected after months of careful "bug" elimination.

Paving that costs the average town $6 per running foot will be laid in Snyder for $1.50 a running foot to each property owner, according to a statement from Mayor H. G. Towle this week. Under the proposed plan, paving fronting the average lot of 50 feet on a 30-foot street will cost the owner only $37.50, plus 6 per cent interest, with payments extending over a 10-year period.

Graft Is Eliminated.

"By cutting out every penny of graft, purchasing our own street building machinery, and bringing equipment makers and engineers to terms, we have worked out what we believe to be a plan that will provide Snyder with high grade paving at the cheapest cost ever known in Texas," Mayor Towle stated.

The price of $1.50 per running foot to each property owner includes guttering machinery, and bringing equipment makers and engineers to terms, we have worked out what we believe to be a plan that will provide Snyder with high grade paving at the cheapest cost ever known in Texas," Mayor Towle stated.

Paving with slightly lower specifications than that proposed for Snyder has been laid in a neighboring West Texas city recently for $6.68 per running foot, according to Mr. Towle. The payments there are to be made each year for six years, at 8 per cent interest.

No Payment First Year.

The proposed plan here calls for no payment by property owners until the second year, and then only one-tenth of the total is to be paid. Thus, if a property owner has a 50-foot lot fronting on the average street of 30 feet in width, the total cost being $37.50 for paving, curb and gutter, he will pay one-tenth, or $3.75, plus 6 per cent interest, or $2.25, a total of $6, one year after the pavement is laid. This amount will be decreased each year, of course.

A nine-inch gravel and caliche base is proposed for the pavement. This, with a heavy topping, will last a lifetime.

FLUVANNA PLAY DRAWS CAPACITY HOUSE FRIDAY

Pontiac Winner May Be Decided Saturday Night

If you think you are beaten, you are. If you think you dare not, you don't. If you would like to win, but think you can't, it's almost a cinch that you won't. If you think you'll lose, you've lost. For out in the world you'll find Success begins with a fellow's will. It's all in the state of mind.

It's just a matter of hours now. Just a few more circuits of the minute hand and it will be TOO LATE. If today and tomorrow pass without speedy action on your part, the responsibility will rest upon yourself.

Big results are expected from each and every candidate by Saturday night. Some of the workers have said their goal was not less than four "clubs," while others with vim and pep have stated that they would not be satisfied with less than ten "clubs" for this week. They realize the value of votes and realize the big decrease that will be in effect after Saturday night.

What a race it is, folks. Several changes have been made since the last count, and according to some of the workers, there are to be others by this coming Saturday night.

Look at Vote Count.

To realize just the kind of a race this is, take a glance at the vote count. A late entrant has climbed to the front. We refer to Mrs. J. L. Fargason of Hermleigh, who has been in the running only two weeks and who has slipped into first position. At the same time she did not gain

PREUITT MADE NEW CHAIRMAN FOR RED CROSS

Annual Roll Call Will Be Made in Short While for Order That Gave Free Wheat.

A. C. Preuitt was elected as roll call and permanent chairman of the Scurry County chapter of the American Red Cross Monday afternoon to succeed E. J. Anderson, resigned. Mr. Anderson tendered his resignation, after several years of service in the position, because his business forbids doing justice to the place, he told the 14 men who gathered at the Chamber of Commerce hall for the meeting.

Annual roll call, during which memberships are solicited at $1 each, will be held in this county within a short time, according to Mr. Preuitt. The goal for this year is set at not less than 400 or 500. Business men present at the meeting indicated that 100 per cent co-operation should be had from Snyder business men.

Representative Here.

Mrs. C. B. McCartney, official representative of the Red Cross, was present to assist in the re-organization program. She told local representatives that the $50,000 in free seed wheat sent to West Texas a few weeks ago was sent without hope of immediate repayment, but that such an unselfish move on the part of the Red Cross should open the pocket-books of those who are able to give. Scurry County received $1,250 worth of the seed wheat.

Harvey Shuler was re-elected as secretary-treasurer of the local chapter, while Lee Stinson was made vice chairman. These officers, with the new chairman, will be ready to make definite announcement concerning the roll call next week.

The following men were present at the meeting Monday: J. W. Scott, J. E. Blakey, E. J. Anderson, Horace Holley, C. R. Buchanan, O. P. Thrane, A. C. Preuitt, Horace Leath, W. C. Weninger, Joe Caton, Lee Stinson, A. A. Bullock, W. O. Logan and J. C. Smyth.

Advertising Session To Be November 25

One of the greatest conventions in Snyder's history will come to town on the evening of Tuesday, November 25, more than half a hundred members of the Business and Professional Women's Club are saying.

Indeed, the annual advertising convention to be staged by the club is becoming so thoroughly saturated into the skins of the merchants, housewives, school teachers and everyone else who has heard about it, that the "one of the greatest conventions" idea has become almost a buyword.

The Cozy Theatre will be used for the performance. Members of the club, costumed to represent local firms and products sold in Snyder, will feature the program. Benefits will be used for charity.

MRS. J. C. REA

Entering the campaign late, Mrs. J. C. Rea of Hermleigh has been steadily working, and although she is on the bottom at this time, she states that she has lots of business to report before the big drop takes effect Saturday night in the Snyder News subscription drive.

TIGERS TAKE 20-7 GAME FROM ROSCOE'S BI-DISTRICT CHAMPS

Voting in Saturday Election Be Costly

Both Snyder banks will be closed all day Tuesday, November 4, when the nation-wide general election will be held. Other local business houses, as well as the majority of voters in Texas, will travel in the even tenor of their way that day, for the Republicans are quiet in this state this year.

Boxes will be sent out to all the 23 voting boxes in Scurry County, but County Judge Horace Holley estimates that not more than 1800 ballots will be cast. The voting will be costly. It has been estimated that the election will cost Tarrant County $3 per ballot.

Chief interest revolves about the five important amendments to the state constitution, which are discussed in another article in this paper.

IRA HAS FIRST SCHOOL DAYS

With more than forty new students from the newly consolidated County Line community as a part of its enrollment, the Ira school opened Monday morning. A feature of the opening was the large number of patrons from Ira and surrounding communities who attended.

Superintendent E. L. Taylor presided as talks were given by Rev. Phillip C. McGahay of Snyder, Rev. C. A. Jones of Post, and County Superintendent A. A. Bullock.

Members of the faculty are: Mrs. E. L. Taylor, Mrs. Porter King, Miss Margaret Dell Prim, Miss Clarkson, all of Snyder; Mrs. Lee of Hermleigh, Mr. O'Neal, Miss Dillingham of Commerce, Mr. Welch of Spade.

Forty-eight persons rode in the large bus—the largest school truck in Scurry County—when it made its first run from County Line to Ira. Two other busses are used for another adjoining district. All busses are driven by teachers.

A large attendance has already been enrolled, according to the superintendent. Several others will probably take their places when more cotton is picked.

Plainview School Is Open With Prospect Of Fine Attendance

School opened Monday morning at Plainview, with students enrolled from the first through the ninth grades.

Rollins Casey of Rotan was recently chosen as principal to succeed Loren Cotton, resigned. Miss Beulah Star of Comanche is intermediate teacher and Miss Ertis Gilmore of Snyder is primary teacher.

The school board is composed of B. F. Brooks, John Woodward and I. F. Smith.

With one of the largest enrollments in her history, Plainview school is expecting its most successful year, according to the new principal.

MRS. J. C. REA

Entering the campaign late, Mrs. J. C. Rea of Hermleigh has been steadily working, and although she is on the bottom at this time, she states that she has lots of business to report before the big drop takes effect Saturday night in the Snyder News subscription drive.

Eleven-Man Squad Proves Superior To Plowboys' Single-Handed Offensive Attack.

Roscoe's one-man football team, bi-district champion of 1929, could not solve the eleven-man style of play engineered by Coach "Red" Moore's Tigers Friday afternoon. Result: Snyder 20, Roscoe 7.

The Nolan County Plowboys were eliminated from the flag race by this defeat, which was added to their 7-7 tie with Colorado two weeks ago. The Snyder squad, on the other hand, become favorites by several points, since they have beaten Rotan, Roby and Roscoe in successive conference tussles.

Snyder's margin of 16 first downs to 5 for Roscoe tells the story of superior team play in every quarter; but it does not tell how Hicks, widely advertised Plowboy wonder, gave his mates 7 points in the second quarter, a period during which Roscoe failed to make a first down. An 85-yard right end run through half a team of grasping Tigers, plus Hicks' well placed boot, tells the story.

Tigers' Teamwork Wins.

It was the Tigers' change of pace, their sturdier line, and their well balanced backfield that gave them the edge through most of the game. Howell, playing at half in the place of Austin Erwin, who was injured two weeks ago, performed nobly along with the other "four horsemen."

One of the largest crowds ever to witness a football game in Snyder turned out for the game. Pep squads of both towns, as well as the Snyder Band, paraded between halves. Business houses of Snyder closed almost 100 per cent for the game.

After the visitors had made two first downs in succession following the Parent-Teachers Association Sponsors Carnival Tonight

Gay Autumn colorings, festive and spooky black cats, witches astride broom sticks, grinning jack-o-lanterns, and fantastic figures in gay and novel costumes will be the setting for a delightful Hallowe'en Carnival to be given tonight at the City Tabernacle by the Parent-Teachers Association.

The P.-T. A. decided that on the night of October 31 witchery, sooth-saying and chicanery should rule. Opportunity will be provided to find out all about one's self, past and future, and to learn much of interest about other folks as well.

Everyone is expected to forget his existence when he descends into goblin's dens and must not say "no" when they are requested to count apple seeds, duck for apples or ride with some old witch over walls and tables. The spooks will parade about the square at 7:30 o'clock. Awarding of prizes for the most unique costumes will be in charge of Mmes. A. C. Prentiss and W. W. Hamilton.

Beginning at 6:30, the eat booths will open. Hot tamales and cobbles will be sold by Mmes. Fritz R. Smith, Charlie Glen and John Spears and Miss Mattie Ross Cunningham. Mrs. W. C. Hamilton, Mrs. R. B. Y. P. U. Members Enjoy Hallowe'en Whoopee Party

This was the clever invitation received by all of the members of the Spiz B. Y. P. U. of the First Baptist Church of Snyder in Wednesday morning's mail:

HALLOWE'EN WHOOPEE!
Just don your sheet or pirate suit,
Or anything to be real cute;
Come meet with us on Thursday night—
Let's give the spooks an awful fright.
Join in the fun,
Come on the run,
Let's wend our way to Rough House Hall,
Where bats will swoot and owls will call,
Half past seven at the pastor's home—
And wear a mask to hide your dome!

After all of the guests had arrived at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Phillip C. McGahey, they were taken in cars for a spin through the graveyard, after which they stopped at 1312 Avenue I, or "Rough House Hall."

The house was decorated from attic to cellar with everything conceivable that would lend to make things spooky. The guests became very nervous and were indeed surprised to learn that the party was not going to be given at the home of the pastor after all, but in a vacant and dilapidated house located in the north part of Snyder.

They entered the house through a low window and were met by "the devil" and other weird creatures. Before going into another room, they were forced to climb over bed springs, coffins and skeletons. Soon there were rickety stairs to climb, which led to the attic, where moans and the rattle of chains were heard.

The house was lighted only with jack-o-lanterns and candles. In one room there was an imitation fireplace, around which ghost stories were told by Mrs. McGahey and J. C. Smyth. Corn stalks, etc. also were used for decorations.

The masqueraders were served delicious punch from a bucket on which was written "eider," peanuts, popcorn and candy.

The committee responsible for the delightful occasion was composed of Rev. and Mrs. McGahey, Misses Mable Isaacs, Katherine Northcutt, Pauline Jones and Lila Mae Williamson; Messrs. Roy Irwin and J. C. Smyth.

Mmes. Boren and Ely Hostesses at Party.

Mmes. Ike Boren and W. J. Ely were hostesses at a party given Thursday evening of last week at the home of Mrs. Boren for members of the Twentieth Century Club and their husbands.

Hamilton, W. T. Raybon, B. M. West, Ollie Bruton, Fred Grayum, Clyde Boren, L. G. Ely, R. H. Odom; Mmes. Carroll Moore, J. P. Morgan and Joe Strayhorn; Miss Neoma Strayhorn and Messrs. "The General Causes of the American Revolution" was the subject for the interesting study lesson, which was directed by Miss Martha Gray. Members answered to roll call by naming their favorite heroes of this period. "Wharton's Memorial to Mexican Congress" was discussed by Miss Ola Lee Cauble. Miss Eloise Scott spoke on "What the Battle of San Jacinto Meant to Texas." Remarks on the story of the Alamo and Goliad were made.

Mrs. Irwin, assisted by Miss Lara B. West, served a lovely refreshment course to Misses Brentz Anderson, Ina Mae Caswell, Lucile Brown, Inez Caskey, Ola Lee Cauble, Martha Gray, Mary Harkey, Marilu Rosser and Eloise Scott; Mmes. J. D. Fish, accompanied by Mrs. Allen Warren. "News of the Day" was given by Mrs. Warren.

HOLLEY MADE SECRETARY AT DROUTH MEET

Unity Sought by County Judges in Seeking Aid of Legislature To Help Farmers.

County Judge Horace Holley was made secretary of the West Texas judges' drouth committee, an organization perfected in Colorado Tuesday following a meeting of West Texans interested in the most practicable means of supplying drouth relief. Warren Dodson, county attorney, also attended the Colorado session.

State aid was seen by the Colorado meeting as the most practicable means of drouth relief. The judges' committee will take the initiative in securing a united force to seek a special session of the next Legislature which would consider appropriations to purchase county warrants issued to meet emergency needs.

Abilene Paper Tells of Session.
The Abilene Reporter-News gives the following complete account of the session:

A resolution was adopted asking all drouth relief agencies—including Governor Moody's committee, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce drouth aid group, county committees and a drouth relief organization of county judges—to hold a mass meeting at which an effort will be made to unify all agencies, so that a representative committee may re-submit an appeal to Governor Moody to call the special session.

The county judges' drouth committee was organized at Colorado Tuesday. Judge C. C. Thompson of Mitchell County, named chairman, called a meeting of all county judges in this area, to be held at Sweetwater October 31. Judges, in turn, will be asked to perfect stronger organizations within their own counties.

Harley Sadler Plays For Three Big Days

For three nights of this week—Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday—Harley Sadler and his players entertained Scurry County with an assortment of music, plays and vaudeville never before seen or heard here.

The fire boys, sponsors of the show, received a nice commission.

LEAGUERS TO TAKE COURSES

A five-day Epworth League institute for the Willing Workers Epworth League Union, comprising all the Leagues of Scurry County, will be held at the First Methodist Church of Snyder beginning Monday evening. Virgil Gore is dean of the study session. Clarence Walton of Snyder, recently elected as president of the district union, comprising six counties, will have an active part.

Local Leaguers have prepared the following program for the institute:

6:45 to 6:50—Epp songs and yells.
6:50 to 7:05—Devotional.
7:05 to 7:35—Administration period. Epworth League Handbook, text. Virgil Gore, teacher.

7:35 to 8:05—Bible Classes. "Jesus Our Ideal," by W. P. Whaley; Mrs. Joe Caton, teacher. "The Methodist Armor," by H. T. Hudson; D. P. Yoder, teacher.

8:05 to 8:35—Departmental methods. First department, Miss Burnice Ramsey, teacher; second department, Mrs. Della (Carroll) McPherson, teacher; third department, Mrs. Sloan Miller, teacher; fourth department, Miss Vernelle Stinson, teacher; Epworth Hi-League, Epworth Hi-League Handbook as text, Miss Lila McCurry as teacher.

8:35 to 9—Demonstrations and entertainment. Monday, games. Tuesday, an ideal devotional meeting, by Snyder Leaguers. Wednesday, stunts. Thursday, an ideal business meeting, by Union Chapel Leaguers. Friday, presentation of certificates.

Turner School Open Monday Morning as Fine Program Given

On Monday, October 27, the Turner school opened its doors to about 40 students. The teachers for the coming session are: Mell Thompson, principal; Victor Drinkard, intermediate teacher; and Miss Tiney Poet, primary teacher. W. E. Clarkson, George Brumley and Tom Crawford are trustees.

The people of this community are strong believers in educating their children. As usual, they had the true spirit about them because they were right on hand the first day of school to clean the grounds and get them ready for the coming term of school. This is a community that believes in having clean, tidy school buildings for their children, as well as good surroundings in their homes. This cannot be said of every community.

Although the busy cotton picking and feed cutting season were here, the following men left their work and were present and gladly lent a helping hand: Will Taylor, C. W. Holt, George Brumley, C. E. Eastman, Clarence Williamson, L. M. Irion, W. E. Clarkson, A. Spivey, Raymond Bates, Albert Williamson, Henry Birdwell, F. D. Walker and Jolly Irion.

The community is looking forward to one of the most progressive terms of work in the history of the school.

Palo Duro Canyon to Be Honored Sunday

Palo Duro Canyon, near Amarillo and Canyon, which has been described as "one of the great wonders of the West," will be paraded before thousands of eyes Sunday, which has been designated as "Park Day."

Sloan Miller, local teacher, is in receipt of a letter from the Canyon Chamber of Commerce secretary, in which the request is made to help advertise the day of days for the picturesque canyon. The enclosure contained, also, a group of pictures used in the rotogravure section of the Denver Post October 12.

The canyon has been proposed as a national park site for Texas. It has been viewed by many Scurry County people.

Mrs. Irvine Dies at Camp Springs Home

Funeral services for Mrs. F. L. Irvine, 78 years old, were held Sunday, October 26, at the Camp Springs cemetery, with Rev. W. M. Harris of Snyder officiating.

Mrs. Irvine, whose home was at Camp Springs, died Saturday at her residence. She is survived by three daughters, Mmes. J. J. Crenshaw, C. H. Jones and R. H. Pitts, all of Snyder, and three sons, T. E. and E. D. Irvine of Snyder, and W. E. Irvine of McAlester, Okla.

Simmons Freshmen Playing Here Today

The Simmons University freshmen will be Snyder Tiger opponents on the local gridiron this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, according to school officials Thursday. A game originally scheduled with O'Donnell was cancelled Thursday morning.

Coach "Red" Moore's crew lost to the young Abilenians by one touch-down last year, after playing in hard luck through half the game. It will probably be a tussle worth anybody's money this afternoon.

trict if no reversal of the committee's decision is made, which seem highly improbable.

John Farmer was declared ineligible on the grounds that he was playing under an assumed name. Section 9 of Article 8 in Interscholastic League rules states that "No one shall participate in any contest of the League who has ever contested under an assumed name." Since Farmer was not played in the Snyder game, it would have counted as a Roscoe win had the Plowboys conquered the Tigers.

Roscoe Protests Own Player.

"Superintendent J. S. Williams is to be commended for the manner and spirit in which he recommended and accepted the ruling of the committee," according to Superintendent C. Wedgworth of Snyder schools, who attended the meeting at Roby. Mr. Williams brought the Farmer case up even though the star Plowboy player had not been protested.

Crawford was protested by L. W. Johnson, superintendent of the Stamford schools, as chairman of the executive committee. He was declared ineligible on a scholastic score, the question involved being whether or not he was in school last semester and if so, whether or not he made the three credits required by League rules to make a man eligible. Upon the evidence presented, he was declared ineligible.

In light of this ineligibility and, further, in light of the violation of the spirit of the rule in this and other cases, Colorado was forced to forfeit all games in which ineligible men were played. It was also recommended to the state executive committee that Colorado be forbidden to participate in the League during the present football season. The state committee, as stated, overruled this clause. Furthermore the committee recommended that Colorado be suspended from the League and not allowed to participate in League football until January, 1932.

Dunn Case Tabled.

A case from Colorado involving the Dunn brothers of the Triangle ranch in Scurry County was also presented. It was tabled until further investigations could be made by the committee as to which school was closest to the Dunn home; hence no decision was made as to their eligibility.

Superintendent Wedgworth asked to be excused from the committee, of which he is a regular member, in view of Snyder's interest in the ineligibility questions. Superintendent Burgess of Merkel was selected for the place. All decisions were made unanimously by the committee.

The committeemen were: Superintendent L. W. Johnson, Stamford, chairman; Superintendent Hugins, Rotan; Superintendent Breedlove, Haskell; Superintendent Green of Hamlin; Superintendent Burgess of Merkel.

time on the average street, Mr. Towle and the council say.

Use of all local labor, with the exception of an engineer, will help relieve the unemployment situation, while the use of machinery already owned by the city will help cut out a large amount of overhead expense. All machinery necessary was purchased recently for $2,600 by the city. This includes a 10-ton roller originally priced at $7,500, a hot-topping machine originally priced at $2,500, and a rotating Fresno. The council secured this equipment at such unheard-of reductions after equipment dealers understood that no graft was to be found in the Snyder city government.

they count MOST might be the deciding factor in the race. If you ever intend doing anything big in the race, do it NOW.

Remember—IT CAN BE DONE! Never again after this Saturday night will it be possible to earn full voting power on subscriptions.

We are putting it up to you squarely. If you entertain any idea whatever of being a BIG prize winner, do not fail to turn in every available subscription to your account Saturday night before midnight—the close of the "first period" and death of the maximum number of votes.

Not to do so means that you will have to redouble your efforts during the remainder of the race to make up for lost ground. A few LONG-TERM subscriptions NOW may be the very ones needed to clinch the prize you most desire; they could hardly help winning one of the major awards.

Count on Facts Only.

As a timely warning, do not try to figure out how many votes it will take to win, for you will surely fail to get enough. Don't be afraid of having to get too many votes.

It would be better to win by a million more votes than enough than to lose by a few hundred thousand, representing a mere handful of subscriptions. You would never forgive yourself for this fatal error.

It has been evident during the past few days that each group of friends and relatives are determined that their "favorite" will bring the first prize, the Pontiac sedan, home, so to speak.

The old "community spirit" is there, and that is the way it should be. Get behind your favorite candidate, not only with wish and good luck, but with subscriptions. Let those subscriptions be long-term ones, for that is what it will take to win that beautiful new $900 automobile.

You people who haven't already subscribed through some candidate—and there are still a lot of you—why not plan to see one of these workers while in town Saturday, or bring it to the News office and give them at least a year's subscription.

Correspondents Are Slighted Last Week

There's many a slip, even in well regulated newspaper offices. But it is seldom that four slips are made in one article, such as this paper made last week.

Four names of regular correspondents for The News were omitted from the front-page list published last week. They are: Miss Fay Bullard, Union Chapel; Miss Annie Cole, Lone Wolf; Mrs. E. E. Morgan, Gannaway; Mrs. Dick Hardee, County Line. These are four of the paper's most faithful community writers.

the paving program would call for surfacing each street 18 feet and planting a 2x8 on each edge of the pavement to prevent spreading. This, of course, would be laid without curb and gutter. The cost under this plan would be only 75 cents per running foot.

A financing program, whereby all payment will be made in cash by the city, is being completed, and Mr. Towle states that property owners will probably have an opportunity to sign a petition calling for paving under the new plan within a short time.

Property owners on 30 blocks expressed their willingness to pave last year, but the financial condition of the community forbid carrying out of the plan. The new plan is entirely different, calling for much less expenditure and providing a far better financing program, according to councilmen.

FOOTBALL—

kick-off, Snyder took the ball on her own 70 yard line and marched for a touchdown with six successive first downs. Shortly after the second period started, Hicks made his sensational 85-yard run. The score was 7-7 at the half, with Snyder boasting 10 first downs while Roscoe had made only 2.

Aerial Attack Effective.

It was a sensational aerial attack that paved the way for the second Tiger touchdown as the fourth period began. Johnston plunged across by a 6 inch margin from the 1-yard line on the fourth down to turn the trick.

Carroll Greenfield, playing his best game of the season at end, broke through in the last period to snag a lateral pass from Medlock to Jones, tucked it under his arm, and race across the goal, 24 yards away, untouched. McClinton's toe converted for the second time out of three trials.

While the Snyder line showed weak spots occasionally when Hicks was at bat, the lanky visitor's twisting hips broke completely away only once. He scampered for a 35 yard return of a punt on one occasion and 24 yards on another trial after he had taken a backward pass on the first bounce. The last play was contested, but the officials ruled that it was a backward pass and could be played.

Snyder probably lost at least one touchdown by four 15 yard penalties in the last half.

PLAINVIEW SCHOOL OPENS MONDAY WITH GOOD SPIRITS

School opened Monday morning. Judging from the faculty and the group of students, Plainview is to have one of her best school years. Several enrolled for the ninth grade. This should remind us that under the present conditions they cannot be with us another year.
It seems that every mother and father in the community, and a few adjoining ones, should get busy and have a new high school building ready for them another year. Some are hoping that this may be realized by next school term.

The faculty for this term are: Rollins Casey of Rotan, principal; Benlah Stark of Comanche, intermediate teacher; Ertis Gilmore of Snyder, primary teacher.
The school board consists of B. F. Brooks, John Woodward and I. F. Smith.
Back of the corps of teachers and the worthy school patrons.

"Why do fish grow the fastest of all living things?"
"Because the average fish caught grows a few inches every time the story is told."
Weather Man—"Put down rain for a certainty this afternoon."
Assistant—"Are you positive, sir?"
Weather Man—"Yes, indeed. I've lost my umbrella, I'm planning to play golf and my wife's going to a lawn party."

Seventeen members answered to roll call by giving the number of cans and jars of fruits, vegetables and meats canned by each.
After the business of the meeting had been disposed of, Miss Jessie Lee Davis, home demonstration agent, gave a demonstration on the arrangement of the 4-H pantry. At the close of the demonstration Mrs. Patterson and her daughters, Misses Mildred and Lorena, served delicious hot chocolate and cake. All had a delightful as well as a helpful time.
The next meeting is called for Tuesday, November 4, at the home of Mrs. J. L. Carrell. Be sure to come.—Reporter.

MANY PATRONS PRESENT AS IRA SCHOOL RE-OPENS

Our patrons manifested wonderful cooperation and backing for the faculty and school board when they assembled almost 100 per cent Monday morning at 9 o'clock for the opening exercises of the 1930-31 school term.

A nice program was rendered, with Rev. Philip C. McGabery of Snyder, Rev. C. A. Jones of Post, and our county superintendent, A. A. Bullock, giving interesting and beneficial talks concerning this coming school term. We are indeed proud of our past progress and are sure that with our new teachers, together with our old ones, we will make great advancement in the near future.

Designers Accent Color Contrast in the Gown Styled With a Yoke

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

ONE of the most alluring themes which has to do with costume design for the season 1930-1931 is that of the dress with a contrasting yoke. In the idea not only is unusual appeal made to creative genius to whom it opens an avenue of infinite possibilities, but of all types there is none more flattering to its wearer than the dress topped with a different yoke. Not only does this flair for contrast manifest itself in daytime frocks but its influence extends to most formal evening modes. Since the glittering note is so necessary this season to formality in dress, many a velvet, satin, crepe or chiffon dress glories in a flattering transparent yoke resplendently worked with sparkling beads or sequins. Indeed some of the rich lace yokes are that deep they extend almost to the waistline, outlining as they do deep points or scallops where they join the material of the dress. The smart black crepe chiffon afternoon dress in the picture is styled with a yoke and half sleeves of white crepe chiffon. The lower part of the skirt falls in graceful folds and is embroidered in silver. Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the importance of black-and-white. A strictly up-to-the-mode dinner gown designed for the social season responds to the call for black-and-white at the same time that it highlights a contrasting yoke, in that its lower portion of softly draped black transparent velvet is topped with an almost-to-the-waistline of ivory white velvet. Elaborately designed black-and-white jewelry accents the ensemble theme for this costume. (© 1930, Western Newspaper Union.)

Quality of Youth Expressed in the Flattering New Felts

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

very essence of youth. In Paris they are making much of this style which sets way back on the head, showing a perfect coiffure. It is made of an exquisite body of light-weight soieil with a two-tone chenille trim. At the top to the right is one of those clever affairs conjured of wide felt ribbon, a medium widely employed this season. An adorable little model is centered to the left. It is designed in supple marble green felt, achieving in its deft draping a quaint bonnet effect. A cluster of tiny ostrich tips are stationed at the back, which goes to show how cleverly milliners are positioning bright feather novelties this season. It is a case of "love at first sight" for the stunning beret at the right whose intricate seaming and classic drape gives it distinction. The group concludes with a Paton model. It is a small felt bicorne, caught across the back with a tailored stitched band of self felt which is attached with buttons. (© 1930, Western Newspaper Union.)

Hailstones Year Old

Hailstones that did a million dollars damage in Moundsville, W. Va., a year ago last March still are in existence, says Popular Science Monthly. A dozen of them may be seen today in the ice cream cooler of a Moundsville store. Placed there after the storm, they have been kept large and firm as when they fell.

No "just as good" oil, says lubrication expert

In every line of endeavor there is always a leader—and countless followers. The field of household lubrication is no exception. Unfortunately the general public doesn't always appreciate the difference between the real thing and the "just as good"—but household experts do.

They know an oil intended for general household lubrication should clean and protect as well as lubricate. 3-in-One Oil does these three things because it is a scientific compound—three high grade products—animal, mineral and vegetable oils. It is distinctly in a class by itself.

3-in-One costs more to make than ordinary oil, but less to use. If you want the best possible service from your sewing machine, vacuum cleaner, lawn mower, washer, electric fan and other household devices, insist on the old reliable 3-in-One Oil. It is good stores everywhere, in 15¢ at 30¢ sizes. For your protection, look for the trade mark "3-in-One" printed in Red on every package.

MOTHERS ARE LEARNING USES OF MAGNESIA

From the beginning of expectancy until baby is weaned, Phillips' Milk of Magnesia performs the greatest service for many women.

It relieves nausea, heartburn, "morning sickness," inclination to vomit; helps digestion. Its mild laxative action assures regular bowel movement.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is better than lime water for neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding. All drugstores have Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in generous 25¢ and 50¢ bottles. Always insist on the genuine, endorsed by physicians for 50 years.

"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for run-down condition before my baby was born. Now I eat better, have gained in weight and have more strength to take care of my four children. I can do my housework and not get a bit tired. My mother and my sister, also several of my women friends are taking your medicine now, because I believe that this medicine will help any woman that will take it regularly."—Mrs. Lydia Orloski.

"When I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could hardly do my housework. I was so nervous and weak from Change of Life that I had to lie down very often. I heard about the Vegetable Compound through a pamphlet which was left at my door. I am doing all the housework for a family of four and it keeps me on my feet. I have taken six bottles and I have gained strength and flesh."—Minnie E. Hicks.

HISTORY'S MYSTERIES

Unsolved Riddles That Still Puzzle Authorities Here and Abroad

A Modern Sphinx

IN SPITE of the common opinion that a man or a woman cannot pass for a long time as a member of the opposite sex without arousing suspicion, this belief has been discredited a number of times in history and a striking example was brought to light in England a few years ago in the case of impersonations—if certain sources of information are to be credited—of Dr. James Barry, an inspector general of English hospitals.

Doctor Barry's features were not strikingly masculine, nor were they noticeably effeminate. In fact, he would have passed generally as an "average type." He was with the British army in the Crimea and there are a number of references to him in the history of the hospital service during that campaign. For some reason or other he seemed always to be able, more or less, to elect his own foreign stations, and he appears to have been permitted to be as insubordinate as he liked without reprimand. In other words, he was treated by the authorities as if he were—as he may have been—a woman.

Doctor Barry made rapid strides in his profession, sometimes jumping two ranks at a time and, when he died at the age of seventy-one, held the post of inspector general of army hospitals, a title which appears upon the headstone over his grave in the Kensal Green cemetery.

No one ever suspected the doctor of being of a sex opposite to the one in which he posed until the year following his death, when a long article appeared in one of the leading English periodicals which elicited statements which became the talk of London, for the article purported to disclose the strange and eventful history of this sphinx-like individual.

"As a consequence of Doctor Barry's refusal of medical attention during his last illness," stated the writer, "an inquest was held immediately after his death and the following day it was officially reported to the war office that the deceased inspector of hospitals was not only a woman, but it was evident that early in life she had been a mother."

When this article appeared, an officer of the Third West India regiment recalled an incident connected with Doctor Barry, which threw additional light upon the matter.

"Some twenty years ago," he stated, "I was traveling with this remarkable character on board the inter-colonial steamer plying between St. Thomas and Barbadoes, occupying the same cabin—I in the upper and the doctor in the lower berth. I well remember how, in harsh words, I was ordered out of the cabin in the morning when Doctor Barry was ready to dress and, while I merely attributed it at the time to one of the doctor's peculiarities, I think that this irascibility was affected largely as a cloak for his real sex—a secret which he succeeded in concealing during his entire official life in the service."

After Doctor Barry's death, General Chamberlayne, who had served with the former Inspector General, stated: "I knew Doctor Barry well. He was rather bombastic of speech and short of temper, but otherwise possessed few outstanding characteristics. When I think of the anxiety, care and trouble he must have experienced in maintaining his assumed character, it seems amazing that he could have had so many good points. After all, I believe that his manner and speech were assumed mainly to repel inquisitive associates."

While there was, of course, no official statement from the war office in connection with the alleged interest and the resultant discoveries concerning Doctor Barry's sex, there was no denial whatsoever of the statement—a fact which was generally understood to establish the truth of the story. But, granting that it was true, what reason did Doctor Barry have for concealing her sex? How was she able to carry on the impersonation for more than fifty years? What agedly lay concealed behind her strange determination to appear a man? Unfortunately, the answers to these and numerous other questions about this modern sphinx lie interred in that grave in the little cemetery at Kensal Green—never to be disclosed in the world.

First Aid Helped Her

Little Mary was attending church with her mother, when she complained of feeling sick at the stomach.

"Go out in the churchyard for a few minutes and you will feel better," whispered her mother.

Mary left the pew, but returned in a few minutes.

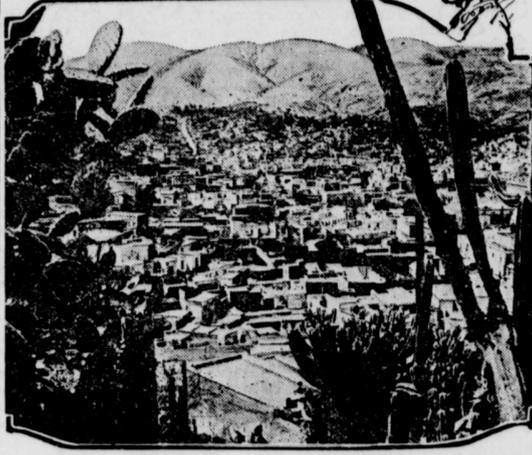

"Why, Mary, where did you go?" again whispered her mother, surprised at her quick return.

"I stopped at a box in the back which said on it, 'For the Sick.' I feel all right now."—Vancouver Province.

Noise Lowers Efficiency

Complete sleep and rest is impossible in many parts of New York city and a state of emergency exists, declares the noise abatement committee in its first report. Noise in that city is increasing each year. "The continual pressure of strident sound to which New Yorkers are subjected," it is asserted in the report, "tends to produce tired hearing, to introduce harmful strain upon the nervous system leading to neurasthenic and psychogenic states and to cause loss of efficiency of workers and thinkers."

Our Southern Neighbor

View of the City of Guanajuato.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

MEXICO, closest Latin-American neighbor to the United States, is known in detail to few residents north of the Rio Grande. The average American, familiar enough with Canadian provinces, would be hard put to tell whether Chiapas is on the Pacific or Atlantic; where Nayarit is; if Campeche is east or west; or even to pronounce Aguascalientes or to name five of the twenty-eight commonwealths of our neighboring republic.

In Mexico also are two territories. One is Lower California, dry, arid, mountainous and thinly populated. Fifteen hundred miles away from Lower California lies Mexico's other territory, Quintana Roo, farthest south and east.

It is common to think of Mexico as a great horn sprouting south from Southwest United States. The position of the two Mexican territories puncture this geographic myth. Mexico is not a thin nation. It is just as wide as it is long. While its westernmost city is Tijuana, over the international line from San Diego, Calif., the outermost point of the Yucatan peninsula lies as far east as Indianapolis.

The United States has no smaller state than Mexico's smallest, Rhode Island is 300 square miles smaller than Tlaxcala, which lies 50 miles east of Mexico City. Colima, a state on the Pacific coast of Mexico directly west of the capital, measures less than Delaware. But the largest state of Mexico, Chihuahua, across the border from New Mexico, is much smaller than the American giant, Texas. It approximates Oregon, or Illinois and Indiana taken together.

Toluca a Pleasure Resort.

It was by a sign on the railway station at Toluca that Lindbergh, on his first flight to Mexico in 1927, finally found his position, and then flew directly into Mexico City. The relations between Toluca and Mexico City might be compared roughly to those between Annapolis and Washington. Toluca is the nearest state capital to the federal city, and its state encloses the federal district just as Maryland encloses the District of Columbia. Physically, however, the comparisons are not so close. Both Mexico City and Toluca lie on a high plateau and are surrounded by mountains. Situated 40 miles from Mexico City, Toluca is visited by residents of the capital as a pleasure resort. It lies in one of the most beautiful "valleys" of the republic—the Valley of Toluca. From this upland plain come the spirited bulls for the bull rings of Mexico City. Cortez founded the city 12 years after the Conquest. It lies on part of the original grant made to the Conqueror by the king of Spain.

The state of Mexico, of which Toluca is the capital, embraces both upland plains and mountains. Queretaro, the Delaware of Mexico, makes up for its limited areas by the richness of its mountains and valleys. The former contain minerals and the latter, deep layers of fertile, well-watered soil which grow pineapples, dates, bananas, pomegranates, figs, and lemons.

Indian Names Revived.

The states of Mexico were originally laid out to coincide roughly with the areas occupied by the Indian tribes which the Spaniards conquered. Then the conquerors apportioned the districts among themselves. Thus Hernando Cortez was "Marques del Valle" of Oaxaca. As marques he laid waste the Zapotec Indians' chief town, built a new city on the same site and named it Antequera, after a town of Spain near Malaga. When Mexico won its independence from Spain, the city resumed its old Zapotec name, Huastlaacac (modified in Spanish to Oaxaca) and the state took the same title. This is a story repeated with variations many times in Mexico.

Although the ancient Aztecs, Zapotecs and Mayas are responsible for the boundaries of modern states of Mexico, the borders often outline definite geographic units. There is a classification handy for Mexican states which our republic cannot use to advantage. In Mexico there are low states, high states and higher states. The low states are the eastern seaboard units from north to south, Tamaulipas, Nuevo Leon, Vera Cruz and Tabasco. The Yucatan peninsula group of Campeche, Yucatan and Quintana Roo also hugs sea level.

Pacific coastal states are, for the most part, low states, too, but not as low as east coast states; Sonora, Nayarit, Colima, Michoacan, Guerrero, Oaxaca and Chiapas. Then come the high states, that is, those which are 3,000 feet above sea level. Chihuahua, Coahuila and Durango. The first two lie in the Rio Grande basin between the wide-open arms of the mountain ranges that border the famous Valley of Mexico.

Higher States Are Richest.

South of Durango are the higher states, and, it may be added the smaller, and the most populous and the richest states of Mexico. The average elevation of 11 states and the federal district is more than a mile above sea level. Orizaba peak, 12 miles southeast of Mexico City, is the key pin of a gigantic pair of dividers opening to a 60-degree angle. Each arm of the dividers is a mountain range, the left arm connecting with the Rocky mountains and the right losing itself at Monterrey.

Between the arms spreads the fertile mile-high or higher region of blue lakes and fruitful valleys, elevated enough to have an equitable climate. Just as the mountain ranges converge on Orizaba, so the trade routes converge on Mexico City. Like Washington, the Mexican capital has been isolated within a small "Distrito Federal," administered by the national congress. But there is this difference, Mexico City is the New York as well as the Washington of Mexico. Its population of 906,000 nearly equals that of the most populous of the nation's provinces.

Just as the United States has in the state of Washington the commonwealth named for the hero of its Revolution, so Mexico has honored the father of its freedom from Spain. Padre Hidalgo was a parish priest in Dolores, in the state of Guanajuato, until he led the revolution in 1810. Dolores has now become Dolores Hidalgo. Hidalgo state is one of the most mountainous in Mexico. Six ranges cross the relatively small area creating a maze of peaks and ridges. In this tangle of mountains are some of the richest mineral deposits in the republic.

A nearby area of 8,600 square miles of the Valley of Mexico has been carved out to make the state of Hidalgo. South of Mexico City, another relatively small state, Morelos, honors another hero of Mexico's war of independence. Three important states. Straddling the Sierra Madre range running down the west coast of Mexico, Michoacan state judiciously places one foot in the fertile valley of Mexico and the other on the Pacific coast. But its valley acres, with sparkling lakes surrounded by farms, support the major part of its population. To Michoacan many traveled Americans go annually in the late fall, for the blue lakes beckon flocks of "American" wild ducks and geese wintering in the Southland. Because of the variety of its products Michoacan earns high rank among Mexican states. It is the greatest cereal growing state of the republic, and, in addition, produces coffee, sugar, fruits, vanilla, wine and tobacco.

San Luis Potosi is one of Mexico's inland states, consisting of a high and dry temperate plateau intersected by a few deep tropical valleys. Where there is sufficient rainfall there are large upland plantations of corn and cotton, and in the warm valleys coffee and sugar are grown. Cattle raising is a chief industry on drier plains and the mountainous districts are rich in gold and silver mines.

WORLD WAR YARNS

by Lieut. Frank E. Hagan

A Hoodoo That Wasn't

If you are one of those timorous individuals who believe that the number 13 is a jinx, talk to a former member of one evacuation hospital unit which served over there. He will tell you that there's absolutely nothing to that superstition at all. If there had been, not one of the men who served with Evacuation Hospital No. 13 would ever have come home. That number alone would have been enough to prove their undoing, not to mention the other ways in which 13 figured in the history of that outfit. Here is what Jack R. C. Cann, a former member, now a Michigan newspaper man, has to say about it:

"Evacuation Hospital 13 was organized by order of the War Department and came into being January 13, 1918. The first promotions were 13 privates to privates first class. We boarded ship at Newport News on the night of July 13, 1918, and took 13 days and 14 nights to cross the ocean. Thirteen ran so persistently through our company history that we began purposely contriving to evolve new situations in which the figures appeared—such as placing 13 tents in a row, and so forth.

"In January, 1919, we went 'on tour' in Luxembourg with a company vaudeville show which we called the 'Jinx Chasers.' With our drivers we had 13 in the company and showed in many outlying towns in Berdorf, Luxembourg, using the porch of the hotel as a stage with the headlights of two ambulances as spotlights."

"Black Jack" Shows the Way

A vote of the A. E. F. to name its most distinguished appearing soldier would reveal a formidable candidate in the person of Gen. John J. Pershing.

Not only was "Black Jack" an ace for appearance—he knew the drill manuals from cover to cover and he recognized the necessities of the discipline he demanded of his soldiers.

A story of Christmas day, 1918, President Wilson and party, and General Pershing, emphasizes the latter fact. "They all stopped at the village of Sarrey, Haute Marne," relates Charles R. Cabot of Boston, "following their Christmas dinner with men and officers of the Twenty-sixth division.

"Besides the president and Mrs. Wilson and General Pershing, Lieut. Gen. Hunter Liggett, Admiral Cary Grady, Monsieur and Madame Jusserand were among the party. They inspected the men's quarters in Sarrey, where equipment was laid out on the hayloft bunks we occupied.

"One of the ladies, perhaps Mrs. Wilson, was curious to know how the shelter halves could be made into a pup tent. Whereupon, General Pershing knelt quickly, gathered the shelter halves, riles and tent pins of two of the men. Then he set up a pup tent in the straw. "When the tent was erect, 'Black Jack' turned away. But President Wilson touched him on the shoulder and said: 'As your command officer, I desire you to leave this equipment as you found it.' "General Pershing quickly bent down, refolded the shelter halves and rearranged all the equipment in its proper place."

Such Taking Ways!

If some one says to you, "Why that fellow would steal a red-hot stove if you didn't watch him!" you'd probably laugh at that as a pleasant bit of exaggeration because it's obvious that no one could ever do that. But a captain of the judge advocate's court in one sector of France is the authority for this story:

"It happened during the recent cold spell when some of our troops were traveling from the seaboard to the interior. They traveled in semi-open horse cars and it was cold, d—d cold! One train stopped in front of a small railroad station and six soldiers with cold hands and feet jumped from the car and entered the waiting room.

"In the center of the room was a large square coal stove with red-hot sides. There was a whispered conference. Then one man stood on another's shoulders and disjoined the stovepipe. At the same time two others placed poles under the bottom of the stove, lifted it off the floor and walked out of the room with it. They placed it in the horse car, stuck the pipe out of one door and were warm for the remainder of the trip. Of course, the French authorities raised a big row about it and presented a bill for 400 francs for the stove and the coal in it. When the commanding officer heard the story he ordered the bill paid without a murmur. He said it was worth every cent of it—for American soldiers to prove that they could steal a red-hot stove and get away with it. (©, 1930, Western Newspaper Union.)

NO SECRET NOW

Aspirin was originally a guarded mysterious secret, and was used only by a few physicians. Today aspirin is the most popular and most widely used of all medicines. The medical profession and public alike have learned that pure aspirin such as St. Joseph's Pure Aspirin is safe and effective for many ailments.

No secret attaches to aspirin. It is included under its scientific name in the United States Pharmacopoeia and St. Joseph's Pure Aspirin conforms in every particular to government standards.

Thousands of people have learned there is no reason to pay more than ten cents for one dozen pure aspirin tablets and St. Joseph's Pure Aspirin is sold everywhere in convenient tins for ten cents for one dozen pure tablets of pure aspirin. It is generally known in medical circles that the manufacturers of St. Joseph's Pure Aspirin guarantee that it is as pure as money can buy.

Monopolistic Prices

In general, prices of goods under monopoly will be higher than under competition, but this will not always be the case if, as may happen, the costs under monopoly are less than the costs under competition. In some cases monopoly may result in lowering costs so much that the greatest profit is obtained by setting the price lower than under competition.

Don't Go to Extremes To End Constipation

When bad breath, or a coated tongue, biliousness or headaches warn of constipation, don't take violent purgatives. There's no use when a candy Cascaret will stop the trouble in a jiffy; will cleanse your system pleasantly, and completely.

The relief you get so promptly from Cascarets is lasting. Cascarets are made from cascara, a substance which medical authorities agree actually strengthens the bowel muscles. So Cascarets are a blessing to old folks with weakened bowels; to children; to anyone in need of establishing regular bowel habits. Ten cents a box—all drug stores.

I continued to take the medicine for a while, and I soon felt well and strong."—Mrs. Annette Toudouze, Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

For TEETHING troubles

FUSSY, fretful . . . of course babies are uncomfortable at teething time! And mothers are worried because of the little upsets which come so suddenly then. But there's one sure way to comfort a restless, teething child. Castoria — made especially for babies and children! It's perfectly harmless, as the formula on the wrapper tells you. It's mild in taste and action. Yet it rights little upsets with a never-failing effectiveness.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given to tiny infants—as often as there is need. In cases of colic and similar disturbances, it is invaluable. But it has every-day uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever older children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset, a more liberal dose of this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

Wood Produced From Cotton. Synthetic wood produced from compressed and hardened cotton material has been perfected by a Clerk-venell (England) man. It is said to be indistinguishable from mahogany, oak or any other wood, and can be used in making furniture and all kinds of house fixtures. Its cost is much less than ordinary wood and its life will be as long, the inventor says. It may be molded into any shape or thickness and does not warp. It is expected to reduce the cost of houses as well as of furniture.

CLINGING HEAD COLDS EASY TO BREAK. With double strength Lax-ana, you can easily break the most miserable cold in one night. It acts quickly, expelling clogged up waste matter, congestions and poisons that make colds cling on and on. Lax-ana combines the best cold medicines known, with a safe, quick acting laxative. It brings astonishing results where other remedies fail, yet it never overworks nor weakens the system. Money back if it fails. Sold at all drug stores.

There's Always Some Silver Lining.

Another reason why Pessimism Pete hasn't been on the Snyder News job so much lately is because every member of the force went to see Harley Sadler early this week.

It's as Necessary as the Breath of Life.

The Dead Sea is dead because it has inlets but no outlets, just as the merchant who does not advertise is dead because he wants to forever receive and never give out anything.

A Ripping Experience—These New Ones.

The man who thinks he can wear rayon underwear and get by with it has never tried to pulled one of the uppers over his head when he was trying to go to bed in a cold room, without lights, so that no one would know he was coming in. That's where the tear comes in.

And You Can't Control the Stuff . . .

The wind bloweth where it listeth, and no man knoweth the destination thereof. But you can always tell which way the wind is blowing when the fellow who knows nothing but hard times gets wound up. It'll blow toward the sea of depression and then turn out to be principally hot air.

"Mother of Humanity" Looks to Us.

Now comes the Red Cross roll call. Scurry County should have at least 400 or 500 memberships this year. The Red Cross helped us, without asking or expecting a full reward. The seed wheat they gave us is looking as bright and green as a country bean at a pie supper. When roll call time comes around, let's join in slipping at least a dollar apiece into the Red Cross stocking of unselfishness.

Foresight Instead of Hindsight.

A lot of the business men around the square continue to argue with us about this rain business. We contend that it doesn't make so much difference about the little dab of cotton that's going to waste as long as we are getting the best season in the ground that Scurry County has experienced in several years. Doggone it, let's live for the future of Scurry County, just as J. Wright Moore and a host of other old timers did forty or fifty years ago.

Maybe If We'd Pay the Preacher—

Whether you are a church member or not, you should be thankful that the churches of Scurry County are up and going in spite of the coming of so-called hard times. Some great business men has advised that if all of us would spend a certain amount for luxuries, everything would be in good shape pretty soon. But if everybody would spend only ten per cent of his income for church work, and then carry out the injunctions of his Creator, it wouldn't take six months for the world to be a second heaven.

Kids Must Have Their Fun—We Had Ours.

If the kids stack tin cans on your porch tonight . . . if the tooting of horns and the scream of youngsters keep you awake until after midnight . . . if adventurous children with masked faces try to scare you at your own front door . . . if your garage doors are unlocked and your car rolled into the street . . . if the spirit of Halloween takes possession of Snyder tonight, as it surely will—what are you going to do? Rare back on your youthful haunches and yelp that it is in outrage and a travesty on the milk of human kindness? Then here's hoping that all your sleepless hours are filled with the nightmares of unrest.

In writing a boost for "doughnut week," Arthur Brisbane says: "To make a really good doughnut is an art, a public service. To make a piece of soggy with a hole in it is a crime against humanity." Someone adds that to make a piece of soggy without the hole and call it a biscuit is a still greater crime.

Are We Too Optimistic?

The Snyder News has been accused of being too optimistic concerning this good year of 1930. It is not so. We can prove by countless facts and figures that the average man, woman and child in Scurry County is now living several hundred per cent better than our average grandfathers lived. Our economic system has its faults, it is true, but there are few mother's sons of us who could not be on our feet if we had saved wisely, spent wisely and invested wisely when times were good.

It is not with a spirit of criticism that The Snyder News publishes comments and suggestions concerning our adverse financial conditions. It is with the spirit of helpfulness for our friends and neighbors with whom we are "suffering, bleeding and dying" these days. It is with such a spirit that we publish the following two editorials from the pens of men who have done some thinking of their own about our condition.

AN ELECTION IN WHICH WE CAN VOTE 365 DAYS IN THE YEAR.

(From the Pen of a Hard Boiled Business Man)

Prosperity is up for election, running to overthrow depression.

It's for the people to decide which will be chosen. Every man and every woman is privileged to ballot—every day, not on November 4 alone.

Depression has no rightful place with a hundred and twenty million people—exchanging goods and services—capable—accustomed and willing to work—more highly skilled than other peoples—leaders in efficiency and progressiveness—backed by the vast natural resources of the United States. When we make it possible for the man who works to have a job we make it possible for him to buy food for his family and so help all business, including that of the farmer.

The Rest of the World Is Small—

The rest of the world is of small importance compared with that free market of 120,000,000 people—of like tastes, habits and aspirations—living under the same laws—free of trade barriers. Foreign trade may be troubled by tariffs and revolutions, but at their peak our exports represented only five and a half billions of dollars of gross business a year out of a total American income of ninety billions.

Stagnation of circulation is what's the matter with agriculture and with business. Everyone can help to get that circulation moving again.

Government can't make prosperity—alone. Bankers and other business leaders can't make prosperity—alone. It's the people, united in opinion and purpose and courage, who determine prosperity. They can elect it—none other.

Ballots that will be validly counted for prosperity are of many kinds. Some one of them every man and woman can cast. For example:

Ballots You May Cast for Prosperity.

Help a deserving man or a woman to get a little paying work—or, better, a regular job.

Spend wisely and not too timidly, and anticipate scheduled expenditures so far as is practicable.

Turn the deaf ear to false, mischievous rumors; and don't repeat them, if you do hear them.

Be willing to pay a fair price. Don't take advantage of the other man's necessity. Recognize that he has as good claim to a fair profit as you.

When a vampire that fattens on the miseries of others shows up, help to make him unpopular.

Discourage calamity howlers.

Keep business moving evenly, and remember that, to the average man, his job is his particular business. When possible, reassure him against his fear of losing it.

Save, but save wisely, not in fright. Invest for the profit that sound enterprise pays and for the added profit that will come after the hysteria of pessimism has passed.

BUILDING AN ESTATE AS A REMEDY FOR "HARD TIMES."

(From The Minden (La.) Herald.)

The times are admittedly trying. An almost total failure of the cotton crop in this area plus a noticeable decline in the cotton price has deprived this parish of perhaps a million dollars of revenue which normally flows through our coffers.

Depression in all commercial and industrial activities has led to curtailment of operating expense, reduction of payrolls and retrenchment in personal expenditures. A course designed to dampen the ardor of the most optimistic.

Perhaps the whole situation is worthy of some consideration from every citizen of our community, particularly that form of consideration most difficult for every person to incur with introspection.

What Have I Done to Stabilize the U. S.?

Why not ask ourselves this question: What have I done to stabilize my own and the community's annual revenue?

The United States of America in the 154 years of its independent life as a republic has become the peer of the nations of the world from every standpoint, bar none. Its standards of living are higher, its agricultural products are greater, its manufactured products exceed the value of those of any other nation and are produced more efficiently and at a greater net profit, and its commerce has become the envy of the world.

To what may this outstanding national achievement be attributed?

Is it not due to the ingenuity, the courage and the persistence of our American people?

In those days when the United States of America consisted of 13 colonies bordering the Atlantic seaboard little was dreamed of either the enormous resources lying in that vast domain between the Alleghany mountains and the Pacific ocean or the price that was to be paid in human effort, privation and personal sacrifice to develop and make useable this undreamed of treasure.

The Trail Is Already Blazed for Us.

Your forefathers and mine blazed the trails into the wilderness which yielded at the human touch those things a man required for sustenance. Those courageous men wrestled from that unconquered wilderness not merely one item of his requirements but every item. Food and clothing was extracted from the soil and wild life. The streams were harnessed to produce the power required for elementary manufacturing purposes, homes were wrought from whatever nature provided suitable for building purposes. The covered wagon was the vehicle to travel, the oxen, the beast of burden, and the means of transportation which carried those bold men

WASHINGTON LETTER

By the Helms News Service

As if the Republican camps over in Pennsylvania were not already in enough of a mess, Gifford Pinchot, Republican candidate for governor, saw fit to throw a bombshell into the campaign in that state by announcing that "President Hoover has sent word by Secretary James J. Davis, one of his Cabinet officers, that he stands for and desires the election of the whole Republican ticket in Pennsylvania."

The Pinchot statement was astounding from whatever point of view you may look at it. In the first place, it came on the heels of denials of this very thing by Secretary Davis, Pinchot's running mate on the Republican ticket for United States Senator. In the second place, if he had been advised by anyone other than the president himself that Mr. Hoover had sent any such message, it is beyond human comprehension that he would not have sought confirmation before broadcasting an announcement which he must have known would stand the whole Pennsylvania political machine on end. In the third place, it is inconceivable, in view of President Hoover's well-known and invariable attitude in connection with state and local campaigns, that Pinchot should have given the slightest credence to a rumor—and not to do the former governor intentional injustice we may assume that there might have been such a rumor—that the president would violate all precedent and inject his personality and official influence into the Pennsylvania campaign.

In any case, both the White House and Secretary Davis immediately took great pains to overcome the impression that President Hoover has taken a hand in the Keystone State or intends himself to be embroiled in the party row over Gifford Pinchot. Official and semi-official denial created not a ripple of surprise, and the incident is generally interesting only as confirming the dire straits in which the Republican party is finding itself not only in Pennsylvania but in that party's strongholds elsewhere. The Republican ships have not been carefully prepared for squalls—they knew in their hearts that squalls were coming in spite of all their apologetic, crawfish efforts to divert the wind—but not for the impending cyclones.

Why, even that political sphinx, Jonett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, has emerged from his shell of conservatism and predicted that the Democrats will gain control of the House, the prize in the forthcoming elections. In a formal statement, Mr. Shouse said he based his revised estimate of the approaching congressional elections "on a dispassionate summary of the facts, allowing full consideration to over-optimism in some of our reports." On overturn of 54 seats now held by Republicans is necessary for the Democrats to win control of the House. Mr. Shouse predicted a minimum gain of 60 seats and said that he believes the total will be nearer 70.

Mr. Shouse was less hopeful of winning the Senate, but the Democratic executive asserted that if the Democrats win in three of five states now classed as doubtful they will have a majority of one in the next Senate. He classed the states of Illinois, Minnesota, South Dakota, Colorado and Wyoming as doubtful in the Senate contests. "The present complexion of the Senate," Mr. Shouse continued, "is 30 Democrats, 56 Republicans and 1 Farmer-Laborite. The most conservative estimate for the Senate after March 4, 1931, according to our reports, give us 45 forward to discover a wealth of precious minerals rich beyond the fondest fancy of the old world pirate or potentate.

And in this quest for riches and adventure the one quality which made its success possible was versatility. No man was a farmer, miller or a merchant alone; each raised food for his family and his stock, hunted for game or treasure, bartered for furs or hides from red men and provided unaided for his family all the necessities of life.

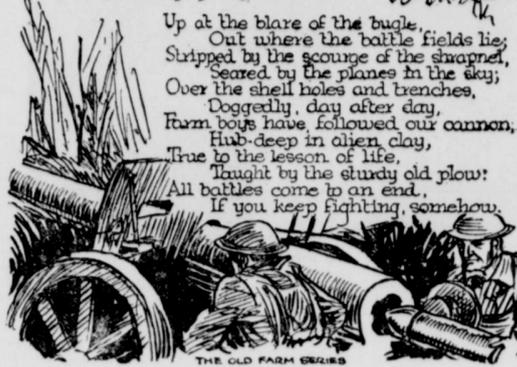

Today every line of endeavor is highly specialized. The manufacturer, the merchant, the banker, and the utility operator is reaching out to the public to secure capital with which to expand his specialized activity. He is a specialist in his line, has probably made a life study of his particular line. He is able to create earning on funds put at his disposal where you could not hope to profit as an individual.

logical way to conquer "hard times" is to save consistently, invest savings with wide diversity in all those fields of legitimate endeavor to the end that when times are trying and local crops partially fail, you will have a stored treasure yielding a profitable return. You will not then need to cry "hard times," but can be a booster, a contributor to the revenue of your community and can radiate that same type of confidence which fostered your forefathers in conquering the resources of our nation, living not in his reflected glory but contributing to the perpetuation of his indomitable spirit.

The PLOW and the CANNON

By A. J. Dunlap.

Up with the sun in the morning,
Out where the stubble fields lie;
Stripped of the green robes of June
Scared by the heat of July;
Over the hills and the valleys,
Patiently, day after day,
Farm boys have followed our plows,
Turning the rich loam and clay,
Learning the lesson of life,
Taught by the sturdy old plow:
All furrows come to an end,
If you keep going, somehow.

Up at the glare of the bugle,
Out where the battle fields lie,
Stripped by the scourge of the sharpnet,
Scared by the planes in the sky;
Over the shell holes and trenches,
Doggedly, day after day,
Farm boys have followed our cannon,
Hub-deep in alien clay,
True to the lesson of life,
Taught by the sturdy old plow:
All battles come to an end,
If you keep fighting, somehow.

THE OLD FARM BELIEVES

Autumn.

Europeans hardly know what Americans are talking about when we speak and write of "glorious autumn weather" and prate of the loveliness of our "Indian summer." Climatic conditions are different on the two sides of the Atlantic. Over there spring is the season of which poets sing, the loveliest period of the year. Summer follows spring and then, with the briefest of intervals, winter comes.

Spring in most parts of the United States is hardly distinguishable from summer. Winter drags on, then suddenly summer is at hand. But after summer comes autumn, the long weeks when the few light frosts merely whet the zest for the out-of-doors, when the leaves turn to brilliant colors unmatched anywhere else in nature and impossible to depict by art in their full gorgeousness. Is there anything more Democrats, 50 Republicans, including all their factions, and the one Farmer-Labor man, Shipstead of Minnesota.

"That the Republicans expect to suffer heavy losses is evidenced by the fact that they have failed to predict so much as holding their own, and by the pronounced pessimism as privately expressed by party leaders here and in Chicago. Will Wood, chairman of the House campaign committee, has gone so far as to issue a statement denying that the Democratic triumph this fall would be of landslide proportions. Nevertheless, some of the Democrats are claiming a landslide and to many unprejudiced observers at Washington not without good reason.

Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland is just now engaged in meeting not the third-term issue which has so disturbed presidential candidates in the past, but the fourth-term issue. From present indications he is meeting it successfully. Little doubt is expressed that he will be re-elected and that when the Democrats hold their next national convention he will be in a strategic position to make a bid for the presidential nomination. However, Governor Ritchie, his friends insist, is not making this campaign as a presidential possibility. He is running merely for governor of the great state of Maryland. If he wins, he will have smashed all records relating to office holding as chief executive of Maryland or any other state. In Maryland it was considered unwritten law from earliest days that no governor should be re-elected.

A very few ran for re-election and none succeeded. Governor Ritchie, however, has already been elected for three times and at the conclusion of his present term will have served continuously for eleven years. Another four-year term would keep him in the governor's chair for a total of fifteen.

It is not to be doubted that Gifford Pinchot would give a great deal just now to unsay, blot out and have forgotten forever a phrase of his Mar. 1927, when, as governor of Pennsylvania, he sent Senator-elect Vare's credentials to the United States Senate. After stating that Vare "appeared" to have been elected "on the face of the returns," Pinchot is said to have referred to the election as "partly bought and partly stolen." That will probably cost Pinchot 200,000 normal Republican votes in Philadelphia county on November 4. A few Washington politicians think that Pinchot's neck may have been saved by the decision of the Mellon-Red regular in Pittsburgh to support the regular Republican ticket. The Pittsburgh crowd, however, is less anxious to reward Pinchot than to humiliate Vare, and there is an apathy in its support that bodes no good for the Pinchot ambitions.

beautiful than a forest-clad hillside when the leaves are turning? The pale yellow of the birch, the brilliant scarlet of the sugar maple, the yellow-browns of the elms and the soft maples, the purplish tones of the ash, backgrounded against several greens of different evergreens, make a blend of riotous color such as no painter has ever succeeded in catching on his canvas with brush.

The leaves fall, the frosts sharpen, and then comes the hunting season, the "Indian summer," the like of which is known nowhere else in the world. This autumn season is one of the elements, and not the least important one, of our American heritage.

A Strip of Blue.

I do not own an inch of land,
But all I see is mine—
The orchards and the mowing-fields,
The lawns and gardens fine,
The winds my tax-collectors are,
They bring me tithes divine—
Wild scents and subtle essences,
A tribute rare and free;
And, more magnificent than all,
My window keeps for me
A glimpse of blue immensity—
A little strip of sea.

Richer am I than he who owns
Great fleets and argosies;
I have a share in every ship
Won by the inland breeze
To leter on your airy road
Above the apple trees,
I freight them with my untold dreams,
Each bears my own picked crew;
And nobler cargoes wait for them
Than ever India knew—
My ships that sail into the east
Across that outlet blue.

Here sit I, as a little child:
The threshold of God's door
Is that clear band of chrysopease;
Now the vast temple floor,
The blinding glory of the dome
I bow my head before:
Thy universe, O God, is home,
In height or depth, to me;
Yet here upon thy footstool green
Content am I to be;
Glad, when is opened unto my need
Some sea-like glimpse of thee.
—Lucy Larcom.

Rain Making.

Another scientific effort at rain-making was proposed by an English savant, Professor Espy, who pointed out that if a sufficiently strong upward current of heated air could be sent aloft, the warm air on expanding would cool the water vapor and precipitate it. This theory, which is undoubtedly sound enough scientifically, was propounded in 1829, and many efforts to demonstrate it by building huge fires in drought-stricken regions have since been made, but without bringing rain. An investigation by the government of New South Wales, Australia, into the cost of carrying out the Espy program indicated that it would require the burning of nine million tons of coal a day to send up enough hot air to materially affect the rainfall in that region.

Cost and Labor Too Great.

R. G. Dyrenforth's conclusions were to the same effect. It is humanly possible to make rain fall, he says, provided there is a raincloud present, or conditions such as often come close to rain without quite reaching the point of precipitation, but the cost and labor involved would be so great as to make it more economical to lose all the crops and all the livestock which would perish by the decision of the Mellon-Red regular in Pittsburgh to support the regular Republican ticket. The Pittsburgh crowd, however, is less anxious to reward Pinchot than to humiliate Vare, and there is an apathy in its support that bodes no good for the Pinchot ambitions.

Rainmaking, it seems, is not a problem in meteorology, but rather of psychology.

THE WAY OF LIFE

Copyright by Bruce Barton

You've Got to Give Them Time.
A woman whose son is in his second year at college writes that her boy is well-mannered and intelligent, but does not seem to have any objective.

"His father and I urge him to decide what he wants to do in life," she says, "but he tells us that he cannot make up his mind."

For the encouragement of this mother I can cite two interesting cases.

A certain man now stands near the top of his profession, with an income considerably in excess of a hundred thousand dollars a year. He worked hard in college, but his health was poor; he was frequently despondent, and at his graduation he felt that he was not trained for anything.

He took the first job offered, and made surprisingly good progress. Just about the time that his parents thought he was well established, he suddenly chucked the job and started around the world. After a year's travel, which used up all his savings, he started in another position. The company failed, and he was out again. A third time he started in a different line, but it did not interest him. He could not get to first base.

On his fourth attempt, when he was almost thirty years old, he finally found work that gripped him. Also he became engaged to be married. He jumped into high speed and has been successful ever since.

I know another man whose ability was clearly recognized by the heads of the big company where he worked, but somehow they could not seem to fit him into the place where he would be really productive. Four or five times they shifted him into different departments. They were just about to turn him into the street when he struck the one thing for which he was really fitted. Today he is vice president of the whole concern.

When I buy an automobile the salesman tells me that it has been perfectly manufactured for its work, and carefully inspected and tuned up. At the same time, he says that I must be patient with it. For the first two thousand miles I must run it slowly, and I must bring it in often and have it adjusted.

We expect this in an automobile. But in a youngster we have the notion that the factory—which is the school or college—ought to turn him out all ready for a championship race at high speed.

It takes a lot of wisdom and patience to be the father of a boy who is starting in life. Boys must have a chance to get adjusted. You've got to give them time.

THE FAMILY'S DOCTOR

By John Joseph Gaines, M. D.

Marriage.

Two elements are at work in every legitimate marriage contract, "sex-urge" and "love." The physician, in his daily round of service to humanity, observes many phenomena which enter mightily into human existence for better or worse. I think the conscientious doctor may be a first-rate moral and spiritual adviser as well as a battler against disease.

The sex-urgen, like the poor "we have with us always." Without it, I fear there would be few marriages. Cut out the sex-urge, and the few marriage contracts, based on love alone, would endure unto the end, "when death do us part."

Sex-urge is not love. Holy Writ refers to it as "lust of the flesh," a part of that evil triumvirate, "the world, the flesh and the devil." It is but a means to an end, to "multiply and replenish the earth." Sex-urge is human, for human exercise and control. If uncontrolled—but who doesn't know the penalty?

Love is far above the lust of the flesh. When men and women love each other truly, independent of sexual attraction, the divorce courts go a-begging. I have seen time and again men and women live as husband and wife, regardless of sexual bankruptcy, and their devotion and happiness seemed far above the intensely animal nature. The sex-urge nuptial contract is dangerous if wholly animal; it is not much higher than the union of the beasts of the field. The sexual marriage ceases when sex fails, then infidelity, in-hastiness, jealousy, the divorce court and its miserable attempts at self-justification. No, sex-urge is not love; the latter rises above the course, animal passion.

When men and women learn that true love is an identity far removed from sex-urge; when they try to occupy a plane above that of the beast of the field, then, and not till then, will the highest ideal of humanity have been realized.

Committee Thanks News for Telling of Five Amendments

The Snyder News is in receipt of the following letter of thanks from the Legislative Amendment Committee, of which Charles S. McCombs is secretary, in regard to the amendments to come up to the voters Tuesday:

"Gentlemen: This committee has learned that your newspaper has carried articles explaining the proposed Constitutional Amendments to be voted on at the general election in November.

"Permit me to express our appreciation of the civic service you have thus rendered in informing your readers about these very important, if somewhat uninteresting, amendments. We have been treated with uniform kindness by the newspapers of Texas generally, and we believe that the space that has been devoted to discussion of these amendments will result in their carrying, but as it is always a difficult matter to arouse interest and bring out a large vote where there are no personalities involved, we hope that the newspapers of Texas will continue to discuss these measures in the final two weeks of this campaign, and thus insure a representative vote of these measures.

"Thanking you again for the service you have rendered the state by the publication of the articles referred to, we are

"Yours very truly,
"Legislative Amendment Committee,"
"By Chas. S. McCombs."

Votes on subscriptions decrease at 12:00 p. m. Saturday. Previous weekly business should be doubled this week if you expect to finish in the money. Each candidate should have a heavy report by 12:00 p. m. Saturday night. Positive your last chance to get the subscriptions that will carry the LARGEST voting power.

2 More Days of Big Votes!

If Saturday night, November 1, passes without speedy action on your part, the responsibility will rest on yourself. Saturday night, November 1, is positively your last chance to enter subscriptions in The Snyder News Home-Conducted Subscription Campaign and get the MAXIMUM number of votes allowed. After this time and throughout the remainder of the Campaign, the voting power on subscriptions decreases. So if you expect to finish in the money you had better STEP ON THE GAS for the next few hours. Remember—long-term subscriptions count most. Surely you have a few friends that will help you to the extent of a five-year subscription to see you win an automobile worth $900.00, and two other cash prizes.

Think It Over!

WINNERS NEVER QUIT—
QUITTERS NEVER WIN!

Only Two Days!

Just now it will pay each candidate to remember the value of five-year subscriptions and three-year extensions. Make a last minute rally the next two days and secure a few of these. If you knew you had to do it, you could, but one and all will think, "well, maybe I will win anyway!" Then after someone else has won the prize that might have been yours, you will see the light and wonder why you didn't see it before. A few have already begun to realize that the prizes are really worth something and are working with might and main these last few hours of big votes, but still a few others are groping in the dark and taking what might happen to fall their way, instead of going out after real subscriptions. Think it over.

Attention, Folks!

Only a few hours remain of the big voting period. Have you given that FAVORITE your subscription? The five-year subscriptions give the candidate the most votes—and they win by number of votes. However, if you cannot give a five-year, give them at least a one or two-year subscription to The News by Saturday night. The candidates are counting on your help. They have worked hard and they expect your support.

When you buy a subscription to The Snyder News you are only paying for something that will benefit every member of your family—and at a very small cost to you. And, at the same time, you are helping a Scurry County hustler to accomplish something that would otherwise take a much longer time to do. See your favorite today and give that subscription NOW!

TO GAIN A MILLION VOTES

Any of you had rather win by a million votes than to lose by a hundred thousand, representing a mere handful of subscriptions. Step out and gain a MILLION VOTES by Saturday night, and pile up a reserve lead now. Get 20 friends to give you a five-year subscription and if they are turned in by Saturday night you will receive more than a MILLION VOTES. That is lots of votes—but it is "Better to be Safe than Sorry!"

... remain for candidates to show the metal within them and get BIG RESULTS—only TWO MORE DAYS for friends of candidates to show the metal within—and put their favorite in the lead. And long-term subscriptions will do it NOW!

Whatever you intend to do, now is the time—and the next two days' business is what's going to count BIG, as after Saturday night DOWN go the VOTES.

Mrs. J. L. Fargason of Hermleigh came under the wire and leads by a scant margin for last week, but Mrs. Grace Stevenson is still fighting strongly, as is E. M. Taylor and Miss Wimmer—and only a small margin separates the other two workers. Every and every one of these workers has promised to do some REAL WORK by Saturday night, and it's a problem to even try to figure who will be leading after Saturday night, the last of the Big Votes.

The candidates are listed below, with votes accepted for publication up to Saturday night, October 25th.

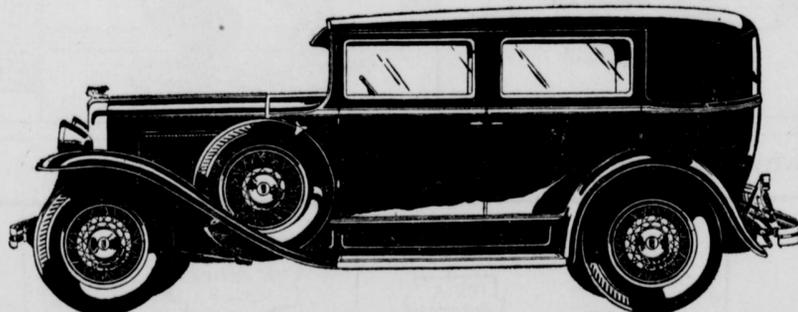

Mrs. J. L. Fargason, Hermleigh	589,056
Mrs. Grace Stevenson, Snyder	560,200
E. M. Taylor, Snyder	536,300
Miss Aurelia Wimmer, Hermleigh, Rte 1	449,000
Mrs. W. K. Greene, Snyder	369,500
Mrs. J. C. Rea, Hermleigh	114,025

Lesson for November 2
SIMON PETER, FROM WEAKNESS TO STRENGTH

LESSON TEXT—Mark 8:27-29; Luke 22:31-34; John 18:25-27; 21:15-17.
GOLDEN TEXT—Now when they saw the boldness of Peter and John, and perceived that they were unlearned and ignorant men, they marvelled; and they took knowledge of them, that they had been with Jesus.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Weak Man Becomes Strong.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Weak Man Becomes Strong.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How a Weak Man Became Strong.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How Christ Gives Strength.

I. Peter Confessing Christ (Mark 8:27-29).
 The time was near at hand when Christ should make the supreme offering of himself for sins on the cross. Knowing the tragic experience through which it, he sought to prepare them for it by leading them into the apprehension of the cardinal doctrines of the Christian faith such as: the integrity of his person, atoning death, resurrection, and second coming.

Peter's confession was provoked by two questions of Jesus.
 1. "Whom do men say that I am?"
 Opinions differed, but all recognized him to be a teacher or a prophet with more than human authority and power.

2. "Whom say ye that I am?"
 Jesus persistently claimed to be the very Son of God. He would have his disciples to possess a personal and experiential knowledge of himself as to being God manifest in the flesh.

II. Christ Warning Peter (Luke 22:31-34).
 1. He told him of Satan's desire concerning him (v. 31). Satan is constantly striving to destroy men.
 2. Christ's prayer for Peter (v. 32).

He prayed that Peter's faith fall not, not that he should escape the siftings.
 3. Peter's confidence (v. 33).
 His fall began when he refused to listen to Christ's words about the cross. Believers begin to weaken when they no longer desire to hear about Christ crucified.

4. Denial announced (v. 34).
 This was to take place three times before the crowing of the cock.

III. Peter Denying His Lord (John 18:25, 27).
 1. Before the servant maid (vv. 15-18).
 Peter blundered in attempting to follow Jesus at this time (John 13:36). Presumptuous boldness frequently leads into embarrassing positions. Under the taunt of the Jewish maid he openly denied the Lord.

2. Before the servants and officers (v. 25).
 Peter was now warming himself at the enemy's fire. When questioned, he denied his relation to the Lord. Separation from everything that is opposed to the Lord is necessary in order to have a clear testimony (II Cor. 6:14-18).

This man had seen Peter with Jesus in Gethsemane (v. 10) when Peter rashly cut off the ear of Malchus. He put the question straight to Peter, "Did I not see thee in the garden with him?" At the utterance of the third denial, the cock crew, reminding Peter of Christ's warning (Mark 14:72).

IV. Peter's Restoration (John 21:15-17).
 Peter had thrice denied his Lord. Therefore, before his reinstatement in the Lord's service he must first confess his love for Jesus. In this reinstatement and commission of Peter is set forth the motive and nature of the service which has Christ's approval in all times. Love for Christ, not primarily love for the sheep, proves the genuine shepherd.

1. "Feed my lambs."
 The word "feed" as well as "lambs" signifies that the work here enjoined is that of nurturing babes in Christ.

2. "Feed my sheep."
 The word here means to feed, guide, correct, and lead the maturer classes of Christians. It carries with it not alone responsibility of feeding, but corrective discipline. Failure will inevitably follow if this be attempted without love.

3. "Feed my sheep."
 This doubtless relates to the care of aged Christians. The word "feed" returns somewhat to the meaning as in the first instance where he says, "Feed my lambs," so that the minister's responsibility to care for the aged is equivalent to that of the young. Peter was to express devotion to Christ by a martyr's death.

Greatness
 In the effort to appreciate various forms of greatness, let us not underestimate the value of a simply good life. Just to be good, to keep life pure from degrading elements, to make it constantly helpful in little ways to those who are touched by it, to keep one's spirit always sweet, and to avoid all manner of petty anger and irritability—that is an ideal as noble as it is difficult.—Edward Howard Griggs.

A Life in His Hands
 The right thing is not always the easiest; but God has His schools for training, and a life left in His hands will never fall of its highest development here and hereafter.—Selected.

FOR MEDITATION

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

A GERMAN LEGEND

A LEGEND regarding a German peasant is as follows: A very humble home was not unlike a palace. Its exterior was crude and uninviting, but from within all was cheer and sunshine. The children of the home wore poor but tidy clothing, and their hearts were aglow with joy. Though the father worked hard he wore a constant smile, and the mother of the little family sang beautiful songs while she toiled. About the home was an atmosphere of happiness and content. No one seemed to worry, no lusty or angry word was spoken, and acts of selfishness were unknown within the family circle.

L. A. Barrett.

It seemed to those who have closely observed the peasant and his family that a special and peculiar charm radiated from their lives. They appeared to their neighbors as quite different from the rank and file of persons in their station in life. Upon being questioned the father of the family explained the secret of their happiness. He said: "I taught my family to daily think that they were children of a prince, that their home was a palace, and that nothing was theirs, and that nothing worth possessing was deprived from them—so we have made our humble home a palace in the true sense of the word." Only a legend, but nevertheless a great and wonderful lesson.

PLANNING THE DINNER

OF COURSE the woman who has a corps of well-trained servants has little real work to do in planning dinner parties. It is the woman with one or no servants who must use some ingenuity. One thing that she must remember is that the simple dinner carefully prepared is more satisfactory than the dinner that requires long hours of preparation.

Sometimes it is an inordinate love of praise that actuates a woman to go to extreme pains to make elaborate and unusual dishes for her dinner parties. She wants to show her skill as a cook. Sometimes even she rings in numerous courses to display the variety of her dishes and silver. But this really does not add one whit to the actual enjoyment of the guests.

If you must make most of the preparations yourself plan courses that can be prepared some time in advance. It is difficult to serve a dinner composed of dishes all of which need close attention at the last minute.

A first course consisting of a fruit cocktail of some sort appeals especially to your guests and a fruit cocktail is better for having been prepared hours in advance and set away in the refrigerator. Usually the salad course can be prepared beforehand. And the dessert, too, can be made in the morning.

The Why of Superstitions

By H. IRVING KING

GETTING OUT OF BED

IN GETTING out of bed in the morning always take care to place the right foot first or the day will be unlucky. Many otherwise intelligent people also take care to place the right foot first when entering a house. The origin of the very common superstition with regard to the right foot is easily accounted for by association. It is a psychological offspring of the word "right" and its meaning of "in conformity with moral law, permitted by the principle which only ought to regulate conduct," etc.

The word, as applied to the side of the human body which is toward the east when the face is turned to the north, is of exactly due to wrong thoughts. The mind is sort of a thermometer, registering the degree of mental poise and contentment. The outside world reflects the attitude of the inner world of right thinking. Our lives are very much what we make them. Our place in the world is dependent not so much upon outward conditions as upon inward determination and ambitions. Heredity is a more potent factor in determining destiny than environment. The environment of the German peasant's home was not of a very high order, but what he expressed in daily life was a high idealism which doubtless he had acquired either through the inheritance of good parents or learned himself in the school of experience. There is a difference between living and existing—the German peasant actually lived—he was alive to the highest and best impulses and aspirations. And he taught his family to see life in that light.

The tendencies that destroy may be overcome by forces within that build up. The word "live" spelled backward is "evil." It is ours to make the choice.

ABOUT RACCOONS

"NOW, you know," said Mr. Raccoon, "that parents of children are much more particular about their children's names than animal parents are.

"My children are lovely little dears, but we don't worry about what we shall call them. They may have names or they may not. We're not fussy.

"But parents sit up for the longest time and say: 'Dear me, shall we call the little rosebud (meaning the baby, you know) Rose or shall we call her Hortense?"

"We don't fuss like that."

"You are particular that your children wash their food before they eat it, though," said Billie Brownie.

"Yes," said Mr. Raccoon, "we're particular in almost every way. But what I cannot understand is why they fuss so much about names. If they think of names, well and good. If they don't, why bother to worry their heads?"

"They enjoy thinking about what they will call their children," Billie Brownie said. "They don't worry so much about names. Then enjoy it."

"Ah, well," said Mr. Raccoon. "I say to myself so often: 'Mr. Raccoon, I say, for I always treat myself politely, Mr. Raccoon, you have the ways of a raccoon and not those of a human.'

"It's a lucky thing for you that you don't have to wear a stiff collar and a necktie and a suit of clothes and heavy boots.

"What would you do if you had to get up at an early hour each morning to go to work?"

"What would you do if you had to make a speech at a meeting?"

"What would you do if you had to talk over with your son whether he wanted to become a doctor or a lawyer or an engineer?"

"What would you do if you had to shave every morning?"

"What would you do if you had to live in a house instead of a tree?"

"Yes, Billie Brownie, these are the questions I ask myself.

"And when I answer myself I say: 'Mr. Raccoon, you're very lucky to be a raccoon. Very, very lucky.'"

"And you are lucky," agreed Billie Brownie. "I think so, too."

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"TO A T"

"WHAT" inquires a reader, "is the origin of the expression 'to a T' and what is the correct way of writing it? I refer to the expression as used in the following manner: 'The instructions were followed to a T.'"

The authorities differ on the answer of this question. According to one well known etymologist, we have the term as a contraction of the expression "to a tittle," the last word of which means the smallest possible amount or fraction.

However, we are inclined to lean more to the idea that we have the phrase after a carpenter's tool or instrument known as the T square which is used for the purpose of making parallel lines.

We believe that it is from this source that we have the expression written "to a T" without quotation marks, of course, as a metaphorical allusion to preciseness and exactitude.

SMILES

"An alarm clock can also be used to put people to sleep."

He that loseth his honestie hath nothing else to lose.—Lily.

Washington.—Locked among the frozen stretches of Alaska are deep secrets concerning the origin of man on this continent. With Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, curator of anthropology of the National museum, at its head, an expedition has set out from the Smithsonian Institution for Alaska, to seek clues to the perplexing problem: "Whence did the first Americans come?"

Many centuries before Columbus was born this hemisphere was populated. The Indians were scattered over both continents of the western world and the outlying habitable islands.

There were then, and are now, in Alaska and all along the coast of northern Canada, short pudgy folk whom we have come to know as Eskimos. At the tip of South America there were savages of giant stature, in the Mississippi valley there lived other tribes, who existed by farming and who established their villages on enormous mounds and their temples on still greater mounds shaped like serpents. Along the Potomac and other eastern rivers there were skilled hunters who grew corn and beans, and on the Florida coast were others who subsisted largely on fish and oysters and left behind their great piles of empty shells.

In Mexico, Central America, Ecuador and Peru there were highly developed civilizations; large cities built of stone and populations whose acquaintance with the fine arts rivaled that of ancient Greece.

Racial Kinship Seen.

Dr. Hrdlicka believes that all of these peoples were descendants of early immigrants from Asia, that they all were probably of the same yellow-brown racial stock, though of different tribes and even of different nations. The same stock is held to be widely distributed in some sections of China, Tibet, Japan and Siberia to this day. Its representatives may have "drifted" slowly into America from Asia and made their way to inland sections and to the jungles of what is now South America.

Many scientists agree that in Asia there are many types resembling American Indians. Not all of these scientists, however, are ready to agree with Dr. Hrdlicka that this fact points to the conclusion that the origin of man on this continent may be explained by Asiatic migration.

With the aid of human remains, pottery fragments, weapons and relics of early settlements Dr. Hrdlicka hopes to obtain conclusive evidence to support the theory. If the first Americans came here via the Bering sea, he thinks they must have left traces of that movement.

"Dead" Villages on Yukon.

Along the Yukon's picturesque shores the Eskimos and Indians have lived for uncounted generations—the former in the lower valley, the latter in the upper. The first immigrants from Asia are thought to have placed their habitations in the same region. Along the stream down to the flats at its mouth there are traces of numerous "dead" villages. Found on and in the banks of the river, they show remains of pit dwellings and yield stone implements, bones of animals, fragments of crude pottery, and now and then articles regarded by Dr. Hrdlicka as of Asiatic derivation. Human skeletons have also been found.

Just how long the Yukon basin has been inhabited may be revealed by excavation.

Nearly all the traces of human habitation found so far have been on the lower level of the Yukon. The flats are constantly being cut away in some parts and built up in others, by action of the river. It is almost impossible to know where the banks were several thousand years ago.

An added difficulty confronting the scientists is the problem of excavation. Two or three feet below the surface the ground is frozen to unknown depths. Special apparatus to melt the ground must be applied, a slow and tedious process.

But no matter how painstaking the task, it will be eminently worthwhile if these "dead" sites reveal the relics for which science is eager ly searching. Skeletal remains particularly will be valued for the light they may throw on the origin of man in America. The Asiatic differs from the European not only in outward appearance but in the shape of his skull, his facial angles, and the formation of hips and legs. Obviously, then, if the bones found in these early graves in Alaska conform to Asiatic measurements, they will be proof of the Asiatic origin.

Scouts Bridge Theory.

The existence of a so-called "land-bridge" between Alaska and Asia in ancient times is argued by some scientists as an explanation of how man first arrived in America from Asia. Dr. Hrdlicka scouts the theory. A land-bridge, he says, was wholly unnecessary. Primitive boats made of skins of animals, such as are still used by some Alaskan natives, would have been, he says, sufficient to cross the Bering sea.

"The crossing from Asia to America by the early immigrants was easy, natural and inevitable," Dr. Hrdlicka explains. "Less than 40 miles separate the two continents at Bering strait. But the Asiatics undoubtedly had boats, and there was nothing to prevent them from crossing Bering sea by way of St. Lawrence island."

"Much farther to the south was the long chain of the Aleutian islands, which reaches to within 400 miles of the Kamchatka shore, even that distance being cut in half by the Commander islands."

But if it was so easy to get from Asia to America, why was it not equally easy to get from America to Asia? Why can it not be argued that the similarity of Indians and some Asiatics may be explained by American migration to Asia? The answer is simple. Human remains of thousands of years old have been found in Asia. No eager American scientist has ever found any remains more than several thousand years old at the most on this continent.

DOCTOR ADVISES HUNTERS TO LEAVE RABBITS ALONE

All Are Potential Carriers of Dreaded "Rabbit Fever," Says University Professor.

Urbana-Champaign, Ill.—Every rabbit is a potential carrier of "rabbit fever," and anyone handling a dead rabbit is a potential recipient of this dreaded disease, scientifically called tularemia, Dr. Lloyd Arnold of the University of Illinois college of medicine said here.

"It isn't necessary for a person to have a scratch on his hand to acquire the disease, for it may be acquired by touching a dead rabbit which has been afflicted with tularemia," the doctor said.

Because each year more and more cases appear in the United States, and with the hunting season just opening, Dr. Arnold passed on a bit of advice to the hunters. "Don't shoot a rabbit that sits and waits for you," he warned. "It's the sick rabbit that is easy to kill—leave it alone."

He also advised persons saving rabbit pelts to leave alone the dead rabbits found. "For a few cents a person contracts a disease that lingers on for a year.

"However, the disease is seldom fatal. Here is a hypothetical case. Two to five days after dressing a wild rabbit the person suddenly had headache, chills, body pains, fever and sometimes vomiting spells. There is usually a painful swollen area on a finger or thumb.

"The person was probably unconscious of an injury at the time the rabbit carcass was handled. The inflamed boil-like area opens and a small ulcer is formed. The glands at the elbow and under the arm are swollen and painful. The fever may reach 104 degrees Fahrenheit. The fever lasts for ten days to two weeks, then it comes and goes in an irregular manner. The patient will be fever-free for three or four days, then again experiences a spell of fever for one or more days. The patient feels weak. This prostration may last months, the convalescence may last for a year or longer."

Rubber gloves should be worn by anyone handling infected or suspicious carcasses, he advised. Cooks, market men and hunters should wear rubber gloves in dressing wild rabbits.

"While there is a lasting immunity after one attack of the disease, there is no vaccine which is successful as a preventive.

"There is one way to avoid the disease—avoid contact with the infected carcass of rabbits, infected wood ticks, and the contaminated horse fly," concluded Dr. Arnold.

Shells and "Spuds" Are Profitable to Clammers

Red Wing, Minn.—Three industries, little known but furnishing employment to many inhabitants, are found along the banks of the upper Mississippi, extending from here south to well into Iowa.

"River spuds," lotus lily seeds, clam shells, and "slugs" are the products of these industries.

Scores of "clammers," whose yearly income comes from clams scraped from the river bottom, also market "river spuds," potato-like bulbs that grow in the muddy bottoms. There is a good demand for these bulbs in Chicago markets. Some few "clammers" also collect lotus lily seeds which they dispose of once a year and which later become blossoms in many homes.

This year 200 tons of clam shells, a half bushel of "slugs," or irregular shaped fresh water pearls, and a tiny handful of well lustered valuable pearls represent the summer's output on the river between the head of Lake Pepin and Diamond Bluff.

The output of clammers at Frontenac, Waconda, Maiden Rock, Trenton, and along the Vermillion will bring the major share of raw material to pearl button factories in the East.

The "river spuds" are also known as Indian potatoes and have a decidedly pleasing flavor. Only a few hundred bushels will be harvested in this region.

Modern Home in Douglas Fir Log

This strange domicile, fitted up in a huge log 16 feet in length, is the portable home of C. E. Cave, of Seattle, Wash., who is traveling through the country for the purpose of advocating closer attention to forest preservation. The tree home, mounted on a truck, contains a bedroom, library, kitchen, shower bath, electric lights, and hot and cold running water. The log was cut from a Douglas fir 287 feet high, and was hollowed out by hand.

Man's Brain Grows Too Fast; Kills Him

Kingston, England—An inquest on the death of a local farmer, George Robert Self, brought a verdict that the man died because in the last three months his brain grew abnormally. As his skull refused to expand, death followed. The man's brain weighed 58½ ounces, while the weight of the normal brain is 48 ounces.

Veteran Cowboy Praises Cattle Rustlers' Code

Cheyenne, Wyo.—R. J. "Happy Jack" Allen, Wyoming state law enforcement commissioner and old-time cowboy, believes outlaws of the early West were more honorable and trustworthy than the bad men of today.

Allen, who once served as a bronco rider with Buffalo Bill's show, rode the Wyoming range in the '90s and has been in many a gun battle with cattle rustlers who in the early days maintained almost inaccessible haunts in the mountainous Jackson Hole country.

"The old time outlaw had a code of honor which forbade him taking the life of a fellow man unless his own safety depended upon it, and even then he usually warned before he struck," Allen said.

The commissioner knew personally "Butch" Cassidy, "Kid" Curry, alias "Pug Nose" George, the "Dago Kid," Harvey Wraith and other outlaws of the Hole-in-the-Wall country.

"Their word was as good as gold," Allen said. "They were fine fellows, but they had one bad streak—cattle rustling. And they were a lot better than these modern bad men who never warn before shooting."

It's "Garcon" No More If "Garcons" Have Say

Paris.—Now the "garcons"—those haughty waiters of all ages upon whom depend the satisfaction of hunger and thirst—do not wish to be called "garcons."

Inflamed by the impassioned utterances of the high commissioner of tourists, Gaston Gerard, emboldened by postwar tips, they have put their union on record as denouncing the most common word in the French language as being unduly familiar.

It is a milestone of the new Paris—a Paris of automobiles and cocktails and electric washing machines on the installment plan. The old Paris belongs already to the era of absinthe and artists.

Nor will the "garcons" answer to whistling, clapping or shouting. They have ruled out "boy," "hey," "hello" or "I say there, you." First and given names will be de rigueur, and if the customer doesn't know the first name, simply and respectfully "monsieur."

ESKIMOS.—The traders returning from the Hudson's Bay country tell of Eskimo families whose incomes in actual money run up to $40,000 a year, which they earn by trapping the rare white fox for its fur. These Eskimos, like all other uncultured people who come into possession of sudden wealth, have no idea of the value of money. They spend their incomes on airplane joyrides, commercial aviators having discovered that there is easy money in flying up to Herschel Island, in the Arctic Ocean, where these Eskimos live, and charging them $375 for a flight to Edmonton. They pay $300 a ton for coal with which to heat their igloos, buy the most expensive radio sets, and arouse the envy of their less fortunate neighbors.

Some moralists are inclined to criticize these Eskimos for their lack of thrift, but it seems to me as if they were getting more out of life than many persons who save their pennies and deny themselves anything in the way of luxury.

WINE.—It is not illegal, the director of prohibition declares, to make wine or beer in one's own home for one's own use. The law does not prohibit the making of beverages which are not "intoxicating in fact," but prohibits their sale.

It does not take a very long memory to recall the time when the domestic manufacture of wine for home use was a part of the year's regular routine in a large proportion of farm and village homes. Elderberry wine, dandelion wine and wine from other fruits and ingredients shared honors with the grape. And our grandmothers always took pains to see that there was a supply on hand of "blackberry cordial," which was supposed to have sovereign value in digestive disturbances. Probably blackberry cordial would come under the prohibition ban today, for it certainly was "intoxicating in fact." But one needed a capacity far beyond the ordinary to consume enough of the old-fashioned home-made wines to become intoxicated by them.

ST. BERNARD.—In ordering Italian border guards to fire on the monks of St. Bernard when they crossed the Italian border to rescue some snowbound travelers, the fascist government outraged the humane sensibilities of the whole world. The hospice and monastery of St. Bernard, founded in the year 926 by Bernard de Menthon, is more than a Swiss institution; it is enshrined in the heart of the whole Christian world.

Who has not heard of the men who give their lives to save others, as these monks have done for a thousand years? Situated 8,120 feet above sea-level, at the summit of the oldest traveled pass across the Alps, the hospice is a refuge for travelers—though motorists are not especially welcome—and the home of the famous St. Bernard dogs. These great creatures, standing three feet tall, are a breed especially developed by the monks, with thick hair to withstand the cold, keen noses to smell stray travelers caught in the snow-storms, and great strength to drag them to safety or run swiftly for aid. More than 20,000 persons every year spend the night at the hospice. No charge is made, but everybody is supposed to contribute the price of a night's lodging to the little church there.

HELIUM.—Instead of being a rare gas, obtainable only at a high cost, as it was a few years ago, helium, the lightest of all the elements except hydrogen, is now obtained in practically unlimited quantities from the government-owned gas wells in Texas and Oklahoma.

A movement has been started to induce the president and the secretaries of war and of the navy to permit the exportation of helium gas for use in commercial airplanes in other countries. Nothing could do more to aid in the development of dirigibles, and such an action on the part of our officials would go far toward better international relations. But the probabilities are that the advocates of war and the timorous ones who think the rest of the world is lying in wait to pounce upon the United States, will make a vigorous protest against letting any other nation have something which might be used in making war upon us.

HEAT.—Newest vision of science is a substance which will take the place of steam for heating purposes. Diphenyl, a substance obtained from benzene, is said by the American Institute of Chemical Engineers to be much better for this purpose. It is a solid which melts at a temperature of 157 degrees and vaporizes at 492 degrees.

A house heating plant using diphenyl would have boiler and pipes full of this solid, which would gradually become liquid as the fire was started, and would circulate through pipes and radiators like water.

Creed for Discouraged

I believe that God created me to make the world more happy by serving others, by being useful to my country and an honor to God. If I fail in these things, it is I who have failed, not God.

I believe that the trials which beset me today are but the fiery tests to strengthen me for the higher and nobler contests of tomorrow.

I believe that God is the architect of my fate, I the master mechanic of my destiny.

I believe that my soul is too grand to be dribbled out by the petty undertakings that can not last and that can not build for eternity. Such will only bring me to defeat and my soul to its end in nothingness.

I believe that my soul was not intended to be slave to the circumstance of an evil surrounding, but master of its own environment, selecting the good and rejecting the evil.

I will anchor my soul in faith, tie my hope to the Morning Star, grapple with evil when it opposes, match my strength with the strength of error, and use the ashes of my crumbling fortune for brick and mortar in a house that shall stand forever. God as my helper, I shall not fail; for I am immortal.—Thomas M. Broadfoot, pastor of the First Christian Church.

WHAT DR. CALDWELL LEARNED IN 47 YEARS PRACTICE

A physician watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the system and is not habit forming. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for anybody's system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope but go to the nearest druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. B. B. Montello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.

Pioneer Night Will Be Observed Sunday At Christian Church

Last Sunday evening's special was well attended at the First Christian Church, with fine interest. All ages and departments of life were represented in a fine way, with the younger generation pronounced by several as predominant. Interest in the scriptural text quotations ran high, with most gratifying results as to scriptural understanding. Not one text was offered which did not fit into some phase of the theme of the evening. Sister George W. Brown and Bro. A. J. Cody tied in correct selection. A book will be given to each.

On next Sunday night the church will feature "Pioneer Night" in which all pioneers of Scurry County are invited to take an active part. Premiums will be given to the oldest pioneer of the county who is present and to the person coming nearest to the exact quotation of the text used in the pioneer sermon is to be featured.

These specials are being featured with a spiritual outlook, the purpose of which is to foster a spiritual revival for the entire community. Those who have been in attendance have expressed themselves as delighted thus far, and bid the movement God-speed.

In addition to the above mentioned special, the church open forum will be instituted. It will call for a free discussion by all who desire to take part. Questions will be as follows: Why was Jesus baptized? Had He not been baptized, would He have sinned? Could He have been the Christ? What constitutes righteousness? Give scriptural support for your view.

The invitation is to all. Come!—Thomas M. Broadfoot, Pastor.

"Mother, can I keep a diary?"

"Certainly, Willie."

"Well, it's one I found in sister's desk."

"So you want a job in the mint, eh? What salary would suit you?"

"Well, I'd be willing to pay $15 a day."

BUSINESS MEN'S S. S. CLASS CLOSES SECOND CONTEST

As a climax to the second monthly membership contest, fifty-seven men attended the Young Business Men's Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church Sunday morning. The "blues," headed by C. F. Sentell, won in the second contest, and will be entertained by the "reds" some time next week.

C. C. Carr is teacher of the class.

Roscoe Poultry Show Has Been Postponed

The annual poultry show sponsored by the Lions Club of Roscoe was called off for this year in action taken by the club at the last meeting. The show was scheduled for December 4 and 5 and would have been the third annual affair. Lack of interest among exhibitors and financial depression were cited as reasons for calling the show off. Plans call for the show to be resumed next year.

A show is being considered by the Sweetwater Lions Club and if held will serve the Roscoe territory.

Several Scurry County poultry fanciers had planned to exhibit fowls and eggs at the Roscoe fair.

Christian Endeavor Societies Will Hold Union Rally Sunday

All young people, whether regular attendants at Christian Endeavor or not, and older people interested in Christian Endeavor are urged to be present.—Reporter.
