Young People Enjoy Picnic Thursday.

A group of young people enjoyed a delightful picnic Thursday afternoon north of Snyder. Many games afforded lots of fun and delicious eats were plentiful. The party included Misses Oneta and Winona Prescott of Big Spring, Maxine and Mavis Shuler, Alma Burton, Laura Banks and Geneva White; Messrs. Theo Riggsby, Clint Fesmire, Glenn Graham, Eunice Duff, Gerald and J. W. Greene and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Graham and little daughter, Helen Jo.

Mrs. Joe Strayhorn Entertains Club.

Members and guests of the Tuesday Afternoon Bridge Club were entertained this week in the home of Mrs. Joe Strayhorn, 2111 Thirtieth Street. Bridge was enjoyed, and a lovely ice course was served to Misses W. W. Clark of San Angelo, Mrs. A. J. Towie, J. C. Stinson, W. R. Johnson, R. H. Curraite and H. G. Towie and Misses Neoma and Dorothy Strayhorn, guests; and to Misses J. C. Dorward, W. M. Scott, Sidney Johnson, E. M. Deakins, T. L. Lollar, Gerlie Smith and W. J. Ely, members.

M. E. Auxiliary Meets Monday.

The regular weekly meeting of the Ruth Anderson Auxiliary was held Monday afternoon at the First Methodist Church. After the opening song, Mrs. A. E. Wiese directed the prayer. Mrs. Wiese gave the devotional from Genesis 3:1-8, "How Sin Began." Misses Homer Snyder, Lillian Early, A. D. Moore and R. H. Odum discussed the lesson, "The Missionary Message of the Bible." Those present were Misses R. J. Randall, R. H. Odum, Homer Snyder, Tate Lockhart, J. G. Hicks, Wellington Taylor, Lillian Early, A. D. Moore, Ivan Dodson, A. E. Wiese and V. L. Littlepage.

VERY LATEST by MARY MARSHALL

For your vacation wardrobe there are a number of clever little caps and berets that you can crochet in mesh stitch. There are knitted and crocheted sweaters and blouses, both in cotton thread and wool. Irish type of crochet lace that you can learn to do yourself is used for collar cuffs and sleeves.

The sketch shows a new sports dress of light weight wool jersey with crocheted collar and short shoulder sleeves. It's a tricky little collar, shaped like a boyish turn-down, but actually applied to the dress as a sort of yoke. The crocheted work is done in simple old-fashioned shell stitch, in three bright tones of light weight wool yarn. On a dress of beige jersey we suggest beige, brown and orange. On white you might use light yellow, green and blue.

For the yoke collar and cuffs shown in the sketch the best plan is to make a paper pattern of the size and shape needed to finish your dress, and then work with this as a guide in making the initial chain stitch and in increasing the stitches to give the desired flare.

Miss Ferguson Hostess at Party.

Miss Eula Pearl Ferguson entertained with a dance Tuesday evening at her home, 2912 Avenue S. Punch was served during the evening and later an ice course was served. Misses of Fort Worth, Dallas, Grover Scott, Frank Miller, Curtis LaRue, Brud Boren, Grady Wallace, John Billy Beggs, Harold Brown, Grady Ferguson, Francis Pierce, Hugh Taylor Jr. and N. R. Clements. Swimming at the Snyder Country Club followed the dance.

Baptist Junior G. A.'s Meet Friday.

Members of the Junior Girls Auxiliary of the First Baptist Church studied the "Southern Baptist Convention" Friday afternoon in their semi-monthly meeting. Three new members were admitted to the organization. They were Adell Watkins, Athalene McClintock and Fay Nell Spears. Others present for the meeting were Frances Belk, Mary Frances Bullock and Marva Nell Curtis, and the sponsor, Mrs. Willard Jones.

Junior Sewing Club Completes Quilt.

A pretty quilt, which is to be sent to an orphan's home, has just been completed by the Junior Sewing Club of the First Methodist Church. The club has been meeting every Friday in the home of Mrs. Warren Dodson and has been making various garments that would be of use to the orphan's home. Those responsible for the quilt are Misses Frances Head, Glenna Martin, Ruth Belk, Fay Niedecken, Morine Clark, Frances Neeley, Eugene Johnston, Maria Sumruld, Helen and Joyce Singletary.

Mrs. G. E. Smith Is Given Shower.

After the meeting of the Missionary Society of the First Christian Church Monday afternoon, ladies of the society were hostesses at a handkerchief shower given for Mrs. G. E. Smith of Austin. Mrs. G. E. Smith, a former resident of Snyder, is visiting with friends and relatives here. She resides at the Texas Confederate Home in Austin. Delicious refreshments concluded the happy occasion for the honoree.

Bridge Club Meets In Blackard Home.

The Thursday Night Bridge Club was entertained recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Blackard. Mrs. J. M. Harris and Forest Sears, members, were winners of high scores, and guest high scores were won by John Keller and Mrs. J. P. Nelson. A lovely salad course was served to Messrs. and Misses Herbert Bannister, G. B. Clark, R. H. Curraite, Albert Norred, Forest Sears, Raymond Sims, Maurice Brownfield, W. T. Raybon and J. M. Harris and Mrs. Ivan Dodson, members; and Miss Blanche Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. John Keller, guests.

Grain o' Sand in the Cow's Mouth.

By Lucilester Roberson
A STORY FOR CHILDREN

Being carried off by the cow was bad enough, for Grain o' Sand wanted dreadfully to be back with Grandfather and Aunt Nancy, but that was not half as bad as what happened next.

Mrs. Cow shook her skin to get a fly off. She shook it so hard that Grain's teeth chattered and he was almost shaken off. But the shaking did not move the fly, so Mrs. Cow suddenly twisted her head around and gave a big lick with her tongue and right into her mouth the little sand grain went. Imagine being inside a cow's mouth. Wouldn't you be frightened? Well, so was Grain o' Sand.

It was all dark and wet in there. He couldn't see a thing and there was nothing to hold to. He was moved about everywhere, and was horribly afraid that Mrs. Cow would swallow him, for if she did, you know, he would go down, down, down into her stomach, and he would be there for good.

He tried to move to one side, then to the other. He tried to jump up, but not one thing could he do, Mrs. Cow's tongue was sticky. "I want to cry," wailed Grain o' Sand, and at once began to do so. He couldn't see a thing and there was no use. He was already so wet that a tear would not run down his nose, and what's the use to cry if tears will not run down your nose?

"I will have some tears," cried Grain o' Sand, gritting his teeth so he could cry harder. He wiped his face with both his hands to make it dry, but instead of that, his fists were so wet he only made his face wetter. He then rubbed his hands up and down his trousers' legs, but alas, the trousers were simply soaked. Grain was wet from head to foot and had no way of getting dry. No tears could roll down such a wet little boy's nose, so he gave up crying.

It was certainly a good thing he did, too, for just as he straightened up she stuck her tongue between

Picnic Enjoyed Wednesday Evening.

Misses Dorette Bergs, Eula Pearl Ferguson, Dorothy Strayhorn and Lucille Brown and Messrs. Russell King, Novis Rogers, Brud Boren and James McKinnon composed a picnic party Wednesday evening. Delicious eats were plentiful. After all, that's what makes the picnic.

her lower teeth and upper gums (she doesn't have upper teeth in front, you know) and bit down. Grain did not know what was happening until he felt something hard pushing against him. It frightened him so that he fell flat down on his face, which is what sand grains always do when they are in danger, you remember. That saved him, for Mrs. Cow's teeth hardly touched him. And my, wasn't he glad to find himself back in the big dark place then!

"How am I ever going to get out, though?" wondered Grain o' Sand. "Mrs. Cow may never open her mouth and even if she should I can't move. Say—I wonder if she knows I am in here? I bet she doesn't. If I could make her find out that she had some sand in her mouth she might spit me out quicker than a wink. But how can I do it?"

He began then to blow. He blew and blew and blew. He blew some more.

"Well, won't the crazy ever feel it? I'll blow harder." And blow harder he did. The tongue did move a little. He took a deep breath and blew again. He had seen Mr. West Wind do this often enough to know how. This time Mrs. Cow opened her mouth and Grain o' Sand could see the sunshine. He took an extra deep breath and blew still longer and still harder.

That was too much for Mrs. Cow. She stuck out her tongue and scratched it on her fore leg. Grain o' Sand grabbed a tight hold on one of the hairs and held on.

"Whoop-ee," he cried. "I am out in the sunshine at last. Now if I can get down from here I'll certainly run home fast, but I'll have to dry out first."

MY HOME AND YOURS by BERTHA EDSON LAY

If you have a garden this summer cut the lettuce instead of pulling it up by the roots. The leaves will grow again and again, saving the labor of replanting and the seeds as well. This is true of spinach and Swiss chard also.

How often the toast will burn before the toaster can be turned. When this happens, rub with a coarse grater. The burn is removed neatly and quickly, and the toast is none the worse for the experience.

When making cap strings for the baby's cap—and wash strings are much better than ribbons—make these strings of uneven length, then the longer string will cross under the baby's chin and tie at the side, quite out of baby's way. The baby will be happier and so will the mother.

A roll of paper towels which may be purchased in any house furnishing department of a department store, will be found an aid to kitchen work. Place a towel on the table when peas are to be shelled or when potatoes are to be pared, and in fact when any vegetable is being prepared. When the work is done, fold the shells or parings up in the towel and put in the waste.

Methodist Women In Rotan Meeting.

Misses S. H. Young, D. P. Yoder and R. E. Gray were guests of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Methodist Church at Rotan Monday afternoon. Mrs. Yoder took part on the interesting program, speaking on "Our Tasks." A short playlet, "Mrs. Smith Pledges a Dollar," was given by two of the local representatives, Misses Gray and Yoder.

The splendid program, with special music, was attended by forty women.

Methodist Women In Zone Meeting.

Six members of the Ruth Anderson Missionary Society of the First Methodist Church were in Post Friday as delegates to the Sweetwater District zone meeting for women. Mrs. Ralph Odum and Mrs. A. D. Moore were speakers on the interesting program. Other attendants were Misses Tate Lockhart, Homer Snyder, Hal Yoder and Vernon Littlepage.

Slumber Party Given for Guests.

Misses Winona and Oneta Prescott of Big Spring were complimented at a slumber party given Friday evening at the home of Miss Laura Banks with Misses Banks and Maxine Shuler as hostesses. Those who enjoyed the occasion were Misses Geraldine Morrow, Geneva White, Mavis Shuler, Alma Burton, Ida Mae Maule, Lucille and Johnnie Lee Greene, Sue Wilkerson of Big Spring, Hilda Gene Williamson and the honoree.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah B. Sisk and children and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Sims and children returned Wednesday evening from an extended vacation trip to San Antonio, Fort Worth, Corpus Christi and other Texas points. They were accompanied home by Mr. Sisk's sister, Miss Ona Sisk, of Maypearl, who is visiting here.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Black of Big Spring were week-end guests in the A. R. Norred home.

Lawn Party Is Given Saturday.

Quite a number of the younger set enjoyed a pretty lawn party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McKinnon Saturday evening. Delicious fruit punch was served during the dancing.

Use these towels to wipe the sink, to wipe the grease from roasting pans or to rub the gas range or the coal stove if one is used.

When purchasing fowls, have them drawn if you wish, but do not allow them to be cut up. It is far easier to remove pin feathers and clean the fowl if it is whole. It is not at all difficult to cut up a chicken for after a little study and practice the joints are easy to find. The Department of Agriculture is sure to have a bulletin illustrating how to do it. They seem to have bulletins for everything.

One Woman IN A MILLION

She is but one of the more than a million modern-minded women who enjoy care-free, automatic electric cookery. And think what it means to her! A cooking fuel as clean as summer sunshine and as fast as electricity itself. A kitchen as cool as a mountain lake. A range as accurate as a stop watch. Afternoons of leisure, without thought of kitchen tasks.

With all of these advantages, is it any wonder that more than a million women have already changed to electric cookery? You, too, may cook this easy way for about a penny per person per meal. Investigate today.

GIRL SCOUT BETTY—Apples—By Montfort Amory

A big barrel of apples arrived at the Girl Scout Little House with the compliments of the farmer on whose ground the troop had camped. What to do with them? They're just right for preserving.

Betty and Mary began the business of peeling and coring. "I know what we can do," said Betty. "We can make apple butter for the unemployed's salad agencies."

While Betty was still busy, Mary started off with the first load of peelings. "Here," cried Betty, "don't throw them away. They're great, and make better jelly than the pulp. Let me see them, and you can use them if you like."

Work all done, the girls piled the jelly glass in the kitchen shelves. "The relief society will use them all at once," said Betty to Mary. "And meantime you can use them for your own summer's supply."

To the Voters of Scurry County

During the last few weeks I have learned that some one or more persons have been saying that I should not be elected county treasurer because I received a lot of insurance. I have a fine car and keep servants. It is difficult to see how such matters, if true, affect my qualifications for the office.

Such as I dislike to air my personal affairs and misfortunes, I feel compelled to give the people the facts, since these misleading rumors have been circulated. The truth is: I received $6,900 in insurance. Our indebtedness far exceeded this sum, and when I added the expense of two funerals, hospital fees, doctors' bills and drug bills, I found I owed nearly $11,000; so I lacked about $4,000 having enough to pay out. We have an Oakland sedan which was purchased in 1928, and it is now four years old. I cannot sell it for anything, so naturally we have to keep it. We do not have servants. I do have a girl, one of Mrs. Glen's daughters, who stays with me and helps do the work for her board and upkeep, and but for her I could not get out and devote any time to my campaign.

I do not know the author of these rumors. I do not believe any of my opponents would circulate such rumors, because each of them knows the real facts. For fear some of the people might be influenced by these stories, I am making this frank statement as to my personal and private business affairs, and if you think I am qualified to be your county treasurer I will be grateful for your support and influence. Yours sincerely,

52-21c MRS. FRITZ R. SMITH

To the Voters of Scurry County

Though it is embarrassing for me to mention my physical handicaps to the voters of Scurry County, I feel my failure to call on you at your homes, in the interest of my candidacy for the office of district clerk of Scurry County, should be explained.

In 1912, while practicing my profession, dentistry, from 8:00 o'clock a. m. to 10:00 or 12:00 o'clock at night, my feet broke down, and since that time I have been compelled to sit to do practically all of my work and have been unable to do but very little walking or standing on my feet; therefore it is not possible for me to do the necessary walking that would be required for me to make a house-to-house canvass of the county, I am writing each poll tax payer a personal request for his vote and influence.

I have been told that I have a good paying profession and do not need the office. In reply to this I will say my income depends entirely on what practice I do myself and I find most people want a younger dentist.

In view of the above, I ask that you give my request for your support your earnest consideration and elect me your district clerk, and I will devote my time to the office and make you a good clerk. Very truly yours,

52-21c DR. SED A. HARRIS.

To the Wheat Farmer.
We will pay highest cash price for your wheat, delivered to Snyder, Texas. Weigh at Jim Dawson Coal Yard.—Come Grain Company. W. T. Raybon, Buyer.

Terracing doubled the yield of corn in one year for Bob Jones in Morris County, and though a tenant farmer, he figures the increase made the terracing job worth $4 per acre net to him last year. Because 1930 was a bad crop year the county agent says the yield was compared to that of 1929.

A Pleasant Place — To Rest Awhile

By the Skipper.

Here it is beneath the boughs of a newly budded elm tree; not in its deepest shade, for the sun is not uncomfortably warm yet, but just here where the shade and sunshine meet and glide back and forth as the breeze gently rocks the plume-like foliage of the trees.

Here I pause and stretch myself out on the fresh new grass and gaze contentedly out across a piece of meadow to where a few cows are nipping the first tender grass. Just across on the other side is a wild plum tree in full bloom, and with every breeze comes the fragrance of its blossoms.

I shut my eyes and let fancy recall the scenes of the long winter days that have trooped past, bearing with them the many heartaches and disappointments, the trying days of ceaseless toil, the mad scramble for a front place in the great dramas of life; a place where kindness was forgotten, where the golden rule was trampled under foot by the thoughtless, where the love for your neighbor grew cold through envy and greed of self. Yet people, God's people who temporarily drift back to mingle their cries with the beasts of the forest.

How fine it would be if we could blot out from our memory all the sad and disagreeable things of the past and see only those bright and cheery faces, those beams from the human soul that warm up the pulsations of your heart; but, alas, the woes and ills of mortals along with the good unfold themselves on the screen of memory and taint the very vitals of life.

I open my eyes to make sure of the sunlight again, and then as they slowly close, the vision of a face that has haunted me through the winter days with its sweet sadness, and another that quickens my heartbeats and arouses a tenderness that I cannot conceal, and being alone I follow this vision to my heart's content. The tone of the voice, the luster of the eye, the grace, the perfume and all like this dear day seems to take the chill from the winter, and let spring blossom out in all her loveliness like it is here today. I would keep this vision with me ever; but, alas, and I breathe a sigh—can I ever forget?

Then come the cheerful faces wreathed in smiles as delicious as the sunshine of this day. Some happy mood and pleasant hours keep this face fresh in your memory. Then there is vulgar, face, the low impudent ones which, thank God, in time I will forget.

Down through the woodland I hear a childish voice singing some sweet old song. It takes me back to the dear old days on the farm. I get a glimpse of him as he saunters aimlessly along on some errand the importance of which seems to interfere very little with his speed or peace of mind. He is just a boy, ragged, dirty and happy—a happiness that a millionaire might envy or the president might give his office in exchange. He does not see me, and passes on his undisputed way, and disappears in the sweet haw bushes on the other side. His song grows fainter and fainter until all is still again save the tinkling bells down in the dark green woods.

A crow lights out on the glade, turns its glossy inquiring head to one side and sizes me up, and with a caw-caw rises and floats away to the south. I watch it across the fields until it fades to a mere speck against the blue sky, and as it fades away my eyes close. And when I open them again all the sunlight is gone save a rich red glow that comes in long slanting rays through the trees. The sun is almost down, and I rise and journey homeward—back to the world where dreams and visions give way to deeds that make the dreams of tomorrow.

Texas, with 5,421, is third among the states in the number of combines—machines that harvest, thresh and sack the grain in the field.

The Pessimist Speaks.

Pessimism Pete declares that styles went too far when they produced mesh hose for he-men. In the same batch of mail he finds that step-ins for the male of the race have been perfected. Guy says he is running short of ideas, but his pen is still raring to go. If you think your idea about politics, the depression or your neighbor's chickens is worth while, maybe you can help Guy by telling him about it.

Beans—One Cent or Five?

The bean market is high in quantity but low in price just now, along with many another product of the soil. But in a few months you won't be able to buy a fresh bean for love or honey, and canned ones will cost you five to ten cents a pound. Praises be to the gods of economy, who put it into the hearts of people to eat what they can and can what they can't—beans, peas, greens or even squash.

Snyder Streets.

The sidewalks of New York have nothing on the streets of Snyder. Considering the fact that most of them are not paved, our streets are excellent. Most of them are bordered by home-like homes and beckoning trees and flowers. They are straight and broad. They are accessible and well numbered. Their upkeep cost is a marvel of economy. The next time you hit a bump, think on these things instead.

The Democracy Parade.

This column erred last week when it referred to "Weldon" as one of Texas' prominent office-holders of the past. We meant, of course, Joseph Weldon Bailey. We placed Bailey, Ferguson and Colquitt in the category of men who have figured influentially in the state's political history. Don't think for a minute that this pronouncement was meant as an o. k. on the politics of either of these heroes of the open forum. Influence may be good or bad.

Insurance That Insures.

It is reported that men of means are buying heavily of insurance these days. Men of small means also are buying as heavily as their incomes allow. As far as we know, insurance is the only thing left in the financial world that is virtually ironclad. It beats Wall Street bonds, which are really my bonds and yours, at any rate. No, we haven't been bribed to make this little statement; but we did just finish paying a high-powered, back-breaking insurance premium.

Twisting the Old Story.

"My Town Is Better Than Your Town" is a favorite theme song of West Texas. That is why, perhaps, this part of the world can endure three years of slack returns more hale-heartedly than East Texas can endure a single year of losses. The old story of town excellence certainly is applied to Snyder by anyone who investigates the prospects in other localities. Nineteen thirty-two has taught us not to brag about anything too much, but this little measure from the worn-out theme song is released with a new hope.

Preaching the Word.

The frequent blanket statement that modern preachers have departed from the spirit of the lowly Nazarene as far as the Pharisee assailed by the Carpenter who walked with men for more than 30 years, fortunately does not apply generally to this section, where people take their religion, when they take it at all, through their own study or through men of God who do their best to speak the truth. But the statement would never be justified if church people would preach half as hard with their actions as they preach with their lips.

Radio and the Saloon.

The radio, like the saloon, will be responsible for its own downfall if something isn't done to stop a lot of the balldoo advertising now being broadcast. An occasional announcement is to be expected by the sponsor of a program, but when one has to listen to a continuous line of meaningless chatter about a

A Tax-Payers' League?

After the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention, it was noted abroad that a tax-payers' league, or some such organization, would be formed in Scurry County. Has the movement died for lack of interest? Certainly there is no lack of taxation-cussing on the part of our people. But are we willing to buckle down and try to find a solution to the file that beset us today?

Now is the time to organize if there is to be an organization. In a few more days the candidates will be taking the floodlights, and most of us will be forgetting that the county, state and nation are in the midst of a maelstrom of mad taxing and mad spending.

Why not get into action while our minds are made up before the candidate parade turns our heads?

A Plea for Tolerance.

Many a Texas candidate will be elected to office this year on the basis of prejudice and hearsay. That is one of our well-codded Southern customs. Let us hope, fervently and continuously, that Scurry County cannot have such a charge laid at her feet. Let us elect officers because, as candidates, they have something to offer.

With crowded races and intense interest in politics, we will have to watch our step or our court house will be filled with men and women who will be elected on the strength of rumors and covert stories. There is nothing personal in these remarks. We have no one candidate in mind—no two candidates or three candidates in mind.

But this is a blanket plea to voters not to make up their minds about their ballots without consulting facts instead of prejudice.

An official ushered into office on the wings of prejudice may carry prejudice into the administration of your affairs and mine.

A West Texan's Candidate.

Since the Supreme Court of Texas has upheld the action of the state Democratic Executive Committee in requiring candidates for congressman-at-large to run in three divisions, it behooves West Texans to get together if they desire the representation to which they are justly entitled. This is obvious because nearly all of the candidates for congressman-at-large live in those sections of the state where votes are most plentiful. Fortunately the Hon. Pink L. Parrish of Lubbock, an outstanding West Texan, has rendered such fine service in his capacity as state senator that his candidacy is meeting with much approval throughout the state. His untiring efforts are largely responsible for the state-wide exposure of irregularities and graft which seemed to have become a part of our iniquitous fee system. It is estimated that this exposure and the subsequent house-cleaning will result in the saving of at least a million dollars yearly to the state of Texas.

Be it said to the credit of West Texas that so far few instances of such misconduct in office have been uncovered in our part of the state.

Senator Parrish has been in West Texas many years. He has shown by his records in the state Senate that he knows the needs of our people and has their interests at heart. He has announced for congressman-at-large in place No. 1, and he is the only West Texan who is a candidate for this place. Every West Texan should appreciate the necessity of having at least one of the congressmen-at-large from Texas, and Pink L. Parrish is our best bet.

Here's hoping that West Texas people will give him an overwhelming majority in the July primaries.

EDITORIAL OF THE WEEK.

COOPERATION.

The word "cooperation" has been overworked so much that for many people its meaning has been lost. The word, as we all know if we stop to think, simply means "the act of working together," or working in unison.

A Chamber of Commerce, if functioning properly, is one of the best illustrations of the meaning of cooperation. Such an organization is a living example, a practical demonstration, of what cooperation is and what the practice of it would do.

Community cooperation through a Chamber of Commerce means the furnishing of money—but it means more than that. It means also the giving of one's time, earnest thought, diligent effort and the sacrifice of selfish interest for the good of all concerned. It means, too, the practice of tolerance, at least to a reasonable extent, toward the other fellow. In short, it means the doing of those things which, regardless of one's own personal desires and interests, will bring the largest and most coveted benefits to the community as a whole.

Cooperation in my community—progress for my city—advancement of my town's best interests cannot be achieved if the spirit of "Let-George-do-it" gets into the blood of the citizens. The duty to cooperate is a very personal one with each individual. And that means working—working together.—Vernon Chamber of Commerce Paper.

Operator—"It costs seventy-five cents to talk to Port Worth."

Salesman—"Can't you make me a special rate for just listening? I want to call my wife."

certain brand of cigarettes, mouth wash or vaseline it becomes not only very monotonous but disgusting as well, and more than once we have been tempted to throw the whole works out in the yard. Too much of anything is enough.—Farm News, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

The Highway Commission.

Despite a chorus of protest from the territory affected, the State Highway Commission last week stubbornly went about the business of isolating established Texas communities and spending millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money for unnecessary, unwanted and expensive highway construction. It let contracts for preliminary grading and surveying of the duplicate highway between Abilene and Weatherford. Incidentally, it let the whole world in on the secret that the fortunes of a community like Mineral Wells is of no consequence to the people's appointed servants.—Texas Opinion.

A Freak of the Depression.

Every once in a while a friend points out a freak of nature or economics that the depression evidently has produced. A shoe company increases its 1931 business over its 1930 business while its competitors are losing thousands of dollars. A merchant goes into receivership while his neighbor across the way paves the highway of increased profits. A salesman is taken off the road as his competitor puts the "sold" mark on new shipments of goods. No power in the world except advertising, in one way or another, could produce such phenomena. Now, while there are more goods, salesmen and merchants than buyers, the pusher gets his palm crossed more often with the silver that spells optimism.

... COMMENT

BY LEON GUINN

Last week five senators and five representatives went into the room of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs and emerged 13 hours later, saying they had finished a $1,115,000,000 revenue bill. If no new treasury raids are evident, it is possible that this bill will balance the budget. Included are: Tariffs on copper, coal, lumber, oil and included is an excise on tires. Senator Smoot outargued five representatives and put in higher surtax rates.

The lid blows off the Scandals of New York City, revealing that a person may eventually become the mayor of this metropolis if he can fool all the people some of the time and some of the people all of the time. . . The Poultry Tribune stresses the value of proper poultry rations during the summer months. This Mount Morris, Illinois, poultry journal says candling of eggs demands better yolks. . . Have you ever noticed that in movies there are shots where cat and wagon wheels appear to kid instead of turning? This is caused when the camera shutter accidentally synchronized with the revolution turns of the wheels. . . And in Hatch, New Mexico, a cowboy rode up to the First National Bank, tied his horse, robbed the bank and galloped off to cactus lands amid wailing and pistol fire. Apparently a return to Western days.

The Camp Springs foursome have returned to the old stumping grounds, royally welcomed. Mr. and Mrs. Hargroves will make Lubbock their home and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Jones will reside here. . . I say, Mrs. Hargroves, give Roy a chance to prove his ability with a cup-towel. And say, Pearl, you should see Jim use a broom. Thanks to J. P. DeShazo for this information.

CHAPTER II.

The villain dashes up to take Jane to his hide-out and come back after the herd. Alas! She recognizes him as Farleyman, a blasted enemy. He nabs her and starts across the cactus lands. The hero, Nick-of-Time, hears the girl's screams 20 miles away and comes clippity-clap, Santang rides across the screen to scare audiences. After jumping three or four fences and killing a few Mexicans for good measure, he catches Jane by the hand and rescues her just as Farleyman jumps the creek to chill and hot peppers. Final fade-out: It is Horace. He played fullback in college, and they are married amid drugstore cowboys and shots of toy pistols.

Let me frankly say that this hypobolite is a screen. Truthfully, the motion picture industry is very educational if one sees good pictures. Nothing contributes so much to the day's enjoyment as a movie. . . The first movable type was invented by Johann Gutenberg in 1422. . . And Snyder, Texas, is a city of the more beautiful homes. . . After reading a herbalist almanac I think I can recall the symptoms of about 76 ailments which herbs, it says, will cure. Are you a herb follower? I am not. I am herbfully say. . . Snyder man is getting an installment moustache—a little down and more each week.

Next week I shall discuss the editorial content of a weekly newspaper. Congratulations all around. Times force, on getting The Tiddling Times out on schedule. Merchants report a nice demand for canning supplies, jar rings being the largest item. . . A girl may be judged by her looks but a boy is usually judged by the hair tonic he uses. . . Advertising is being used more now by contests than ever before. As much as Frank King's Gasoline Alley (Walt and Skeezie) is read, Preacher C. E. Draper of the Methodist Church deprecates the fact that there is no church in Gasoline Alley.

A political platform is just like the one on the back of a street car—not meant to stand on, just to get in on.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

OUR READERS' OUR VIEWS

The Soldiers Bonus.

To My Home County Paper:
The soldiers' bonus should be paid for the following reasons:

1. War profiteers speculated upon the miseries of the soldiers while on the firing line. They plundered and pilfered their way to the throne of predatory wealth.
2. Since the war the oligarchy has cancelled the war debt in order that the bloated bond holders of Wall Street could make their claims more secure, seeing that Europe could not pay both.
3. The debt is honest. Congress voluntarily gave the soldiers the bonus.
4. They turned defeat into victory, which gives us undying testimony of their patriotism and heroism.
5. In time of war they were heroes and patriots but in time of peace they are called bolsheviks, communists, radicals and hoboes.
6. They are the bulwarks of American liberty, safety and security.
7. They marched into the jaws of death and the mouths of hell for those who are now cursing and fighting them.
8. They are messengers of peace and missionaries of freedom and liberty.
9. The soldiers saved the civilized world from becoming enslaved by the iron rod of military despotism.
10. One deserting soldier has more patriotism than all the war profiteers, slackers and the oligarchy, who have thrown the world into mourning, misery and despair in order to satisfy the greed of predatory wealth which is the consuming passion of their nature.
11. Our soldiers held about 30 miles of front in France and their presence commanded the enemy to run—and they ran, until they raised the white flag and begged for mercy.
12. Some of the wounded soldiers were overlooked by those who were picking up the wounded and the dead. They names appear "missing" in the newspapers, and they have not been heard from nor will they be heard from until the great judgment day. They died alone and the birds of the air picked out their eyes and the vultures of the air ate their flesh and their bones molded into dust and the dust thereof testifies to the justness and righteousness of the claim of their comrades who stood by their side between the American home and the ravages of war.

Extra VALUES

GUM-DIPPED CORDS
The Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process transforms the cotton cords into a strong, tough, sinewy unit. Liquid rubber penetrates every cord and coats every fiber, guarding against internal friction and heat, greatly increasing the strength of the cord body, and giving longer tire life.

TWO EXTRA GUM-DIPPED CORD PLIES UNDER THE TREAD
This is a patented construction, and the two extra Gum-Dipped cord plies are so placed that you get 56% stronger bond between tread and cord body, and tests show 26% greater protection against punctures and blow-outs. It sets a new standard for tire performance on high speed cars.

NON-SKID TREAD
Tough, live rubber specially compounded for long, slow wear. Scientifically designed non-skid gives greater traction and safe, quiet performance.

Sixth Installment

Maggie Johnson, whose father is a letter carrier, is the domestic drudge of the humble home where her mother does little except to beam the fact that she has "seen better days" and her sister Liz, who works in a beauty shop, lies abed late. Maggie has to get the family breakfast before she starts out to her job in the Five-and-Ten Cent Store.

There's a new boy at the Five-and-Ten, Joe Grant. He tells Maggie that he has been assigned to work as her helper in the stock room. He seems rather dumb, but Maggie helps him through his first day at the store and shares her lunch with him in a cubby-hole of a place that belongs to the dress factory next door to the Five-and-Ten.

They are looking over some cheap picture cards. One of them has a motto that strikes Maggie's fancy. "The way to begin the ideal life is to begin." She and Joe talk about that and Joe is surprised that the girl has higher standards than he had suspected. When he goes home that night he is thinking about Maggie. And he home is the home of the owner of the Mack Five and Ten-Cent Stores, though Maggie does not suspect that he is the boss's son.

Maggie, at home, begins to suspect that her mother's complaints are due to that lady's belief that happiness depends upon material things, while at the store she continues to surprise Joe by her appreciation of the realities of life.

Joe knew that Maggie was falling in love with him before Maggie discovered it. But he was a little slow in discovering that he, in turn, was falling in love with Maggie. But he admitted to himself that his admiration for her was growing, and the girls in the store began to notice something different about her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"But now, listen, Joe," she resumed seriously, "here's what I want to ask you. Could anyone who wasn't born to be a lady—now, I instance, like me—my mother talks a lot about my grandmother Petheridge, but—my mother—she hesitated—"you wouldn't say she was always puttin' others first, and thinkin'—a servin'—others before she does herself. You couldn't—honest—so that, Joe. So that—" Again she paused. "An' Elizabeth positively is not a lady!" she admitted regretfully. "Well, anyway, I do not think Liz is a lady—not yet, anyway. But Joe—do you think—"

Again she floundered. "I guess I couldn't," she said hastily, shrinking back, gaunt, and he saw she was trying to save his feelings. "You don't have to tell me, Joe," she said. "Maggie, I not only believe you could, but I believe you will!"

"Well, if you say so," she almost sang, and she rattled joyously away.

On the next Sunday he went to see her.

He reached the Johnson cottage in the neighborhood of three o'clock. He had to wait a few cold, wet, silent minutes before footsteps, audibly approaching through the house, notified him that it had been heard. Miss Elizabeth Johnson admitted him. For want of any guidance,—for Liz, after a shout of "Maggie! Man here!" had almost immediately disappeared into what later proved to be her bedroom door—Joe had followed the little hall into an empty dining room smelling of rotting apples and dust, and had put his head in at the kitchen doorway.

Ma Johnson, a heavy, woolen kimono tied about her ample form with dragged tassels, was in the rocker.

At the sink stood a nondescript, form little figure that Joe could not for some minutes at all identify with the gallant picture he had formed of Maggie's father.

Behind the table and between the sink and the stove was Maggie. She looked at him and said delightedly:

"Well, what do you know! I never heard you ring. If it isn't Joe Grant! Joe, have you had dinner?"

"Just up from the table. Hello, Maggie," Joe said, grinning.

"This is my mother, make you acquainted with my father; Pop, this is Joe Grant," said Maggie.

Ma was evidently not favorably impressed by Maggie's friend.

"I didn't know you expected a caller, Maggie."

"I didn't, Ma. Sit down, Joe. You don't have to finish those if you don't want to. Pa, I hate to have you take of your appetite."

"Sometimes my father—kind helps me, Joe," she stammered, with her gallant little smile.

"I don't mind whippin' em one bit. Maggie," her father's mild voice said surprisedly.

"I'll help you," said Joe, putting his hat and coat on a chair in the corner of the kitchen and helping himself to a dish towel.

"When we haven't a maid we eat out here. I'm one that's always had," said Mrs. Johnson. "So it don't come very easy for me to put up with this sort of thing."

"I see," Joe said, nodding. He sat down on the edge of Joe's chair, and cleared his throat, and said politely: "Mrs. Johnson, if you've no objection, could Maggie go out with me for a while?"

"Why, I haven't no objections," Mrs. Johnson said discontentedly, after a moment. "Maggie isn't nothing but a child, Mr. Grant, an' her father an' I don't want her to get no silly notions into her head."

"Temporarily—temporarily she has accepted a position in a well in a five-and-ten," said Ma.

"I work there myself, you know, Mrs. Johnson."

"I've no doubt you do! An' I've no doubt it's a real nice place an' all that," conceded Ma loftily. "But it isn't Maggie's sort of place. To put the whole thing into a nut-shell—" Mrs. Johnson was resuming briskly, when Joe's opportunity to discover whether she was really capable of this elision was destroyed by Maggie's abrupt reentrance into the kitchen, and in another minute they were out in the dull, cold, wintry Sunday street, and she was dancing along at his side.

"Want to go to a movie, Maggie?"

"Oh, I'd love it!"

"How about 'The Highwayman'?"

"Oh, Joe, no! That's a sixty-cent show. There are lots of nice little ones over on Chelsea Avenue here for twenty-five."

They were at the window, he put down his money. But there were nothing left on this Sunday afternoon but loaves, at a dollar a chair. Maggie's face fell, and immediately her eyes widened and she caught at his arm.

"Joe, don't be a fool! Two dollars! It isn't worth it!"

But he saw her give a little bounce of sheer excitement and felicity as they went in past the mirrors and marble columns and red boundary ropes, and he thought it was. Their seats were in the very front of the balcony—deep, comfortable seats, with wide arms.

It was pleasant, somehow, to have that earnest little fragrant baby face come close to his in the dark, and that fuzzy aureole of gold brush his cheek, and that eager little whisper reach his ears.

Joe kept his handsome head bent close to her, and leaned his shoulder even closer.

Joe's face was beaming with satisfaction and wet with tears when they came out into the chilly dusk.

In parting he presented her with an enormous box of sweets.

"Oh, Joe Grant! Oh, Joe—two pounds! Oh, thank you—thank you!"

"Oh, hush," he said. "Now you

"Nothing doing. I'm in coll." Joe "Come on, let's dance."

Millicent raised the heavy eyelids, looked at him with superb insolence. "Who's the other woman, Joe?" she drawled theatrically. "God, you are a brute."

"There isn't any other woman!" He believed it. Yet, even now, when his face was close to Millicent's curled, perfumed bobbed head, he had a sudden memory of Maggie, childlike and eager, in a sleazy little faded white dress, with a mop of living gold tumbling over her small shoulders.

Sunday night it was an actual relief to think that to-morrow would be Monday, and he would be back in the clean busy stir of the Mack again.

He told himself, when Monday arrived, and he reached the store to find a demurely radiant Maggie prettier and more endearingly proprietary in her manner toward him than ever, that this nonsense must stop. Therefore, it was with a real surprise that he heard himself saying to her, late on Tuesday afternoon:

"What are doing to-night, Maggie?"

"Night school," she answered, color and breath beginning their usual acceleration instantly.

"Night school! I didn't know you went to night school!"

"Why—why, but you told me to!" she accused him, reproachfully.

run in and I'll watch you until you're inside the door."

She fled up the path, tried the knob of the porch door, called a joyous "Good-night and thank you!" into the dark, was silhouetted against a gush of red light, and then was gone.

Joe walked two blocks to his car, raving at himself.

"Gosh, what a fool I am! What on earth did I do that for?"

Millicent Russell, sitting next to him at dinner, was a pretty girl. From a point an inch or two below her armpits, to a point an inch or two above her knees, she was packed into a tube of spangled satin. Her arms were heavy with links of gold and platinum, her legs looked bare, if they were not actually bare, her feet were elevated dizzily upon pinnacles of gold leather. Her cheeks were smoothly and brilliantly rouged and her lips stiff with grease, her eyebrows shaved into two startling, ink arcs. Millicent's breath was thick of alcohol and nicotine, her eyelids, colored with blue oil, were lowered with fatigue and boredom, and she had no more hair than her brother had.

"I thought you had to go to prison to get a clip like that!" said Joe.

"Isn't it adorable?" They call it the coquette," Millicent told him enthusiastically.

"It's a crown of glory. If I were a girl," Joe said, with sudden fire, "I'd have hair. Beautiful braids and curls and masses-of-hair. It's pretty!"

"Say the word, Joe, and I'll be your little covered wagon," suggested Millicent, in an odd tone, and with a darling little laugh.

"Nothing doing. I'm in coll," Joe answered.

"You're not in coll! You're working. I like you an awful lot, Joe. You think I'm crazy, saying this. Perhaps I am. "But"—her voice was husky—"but I like you an awful lot, Joe."

Girls always said that to him, and presumably to all the other fellows, when an evening had reached about this point, Joe reflected. That was the way persons got engaged, nowadays.

Millicent was trying it now. Right here, at the Carter's hot, crowded, stupid party, Millicent Russell was trying to land him.

"Who's the other woman, Joe?" she drawled theatrically. "God, you are a brute! There isn't any other woman." He believed it.

"I—when did I? How do you mean?"

"Before Christmas. Just after we first began to talk. You said, 'Maggie, you ought to go to night school!'"

"Did I?" He was stricken. "What do you study?" he asked.

"Political economy and French," she answered bravely.

"That's a darn good choice!" Joe assured her. "If you ever go abroad, you don't want to be embarrassed about pronouncing words."

"Maggie!" came a harsh voice from upstairs at this point. "Maggie Johnson! What's happened you down there in the stockroom? Start your trotters up here with them fey medallions!"

Government Tables Show That Divorces Increase In County

Government figures, just released, show that divorces in Scurry County jumped from 11 in 1930 to 20 in 1931, while marriages were decreasing from 64 to 63.

With this increase, Scurry became a representative Texas county, showing approximately one-third as many divorces as marriages. The number of marriages per 1,000 of the state population was 6.9 in 1931 as against 7.7 in 1930; and the number of divorces per 1,000 of the population was 2.67 in 1931 as against 2.84 in 1930.

The Bureau of Census announces that, according to the returns received from county and district clerks, there were 40,807 marriages performed in Texas during the year 1931, as compared with 45,174 in 1930, representing a decrease of 4,667 or 10.3 per cent. In 1922 there were 61,730 marriages performed.

LORRAINE BEATS SNYDER TIGERS

The Snyder Tigers lost their first start in baseball on the new Santa Fe diamond Friday to the Lorraine nine, by a 13 to 5 decision. A good sized crowd of fans witnessed the fracas.

Hitting was about even. Snyder got eight hits and Lorraine nine. Four errors by the locals help the visitors to score. Bullock started the game on the mound for Snyder but retired in the sixth with a sore arm.

Joyce, with a single and a circuit-clout, accounted for four of the Tigers' five runs. Sykes Curry was next in hitting for the locals with a single and a triple. Curry had a good day in the field, handling eight chances faultlessly.

The box score:

DENVER POST DEPICTS THIS STATE IN 8-PAGE SECTION

"Oh, holy Nelly!" Maggie ejaculated, seizing the green cards upon which the medallions were stitched, and fleeing wildly from Joe's too seductive neighborhood. "She sent me down for them fifteen minutes ago."

She left Joe very thoughtful. He took an opportunity, when they chanced to be entering the automat together for a late luncheon, to say deliberately:

"Look here, Maggie, I've got something on my mind to say to you, and by George, I'm going to say it. I want to warn you. Don't waste time, at seventeen, taking any crush too seriously."

"Who do you think I've got a crush on, Joe?"

"I know damn' well whom you've got a crush on!" Joe growled.

"Is zat so?" Maggie asked, flushing. "Suppose the person I had a crush on had a crush on me?" she asked.

"A person might like you a lot, Maggie, and wish for all sorts of good things for you," Joe said rather slowly. "Without—without, I say, having a crush on you!"

"Well, that'd be enough for me," she answered, still in the same audacious, high-spirited key. "I don't want any kissin', an' for pettin' parties."

"Now, look here, you little idiot," "Now, half angry and half laughing, "don't you think you can get away with that sort of thing! When your hour strikes, my dear, you won't be so sure you can get what you want! You'll be sick for more than kisses, then, Maggie, and afraid to take them. The whole world will turn itself into a sort of blur, with a man in the center, and when he speaks you'll answer, and you'll say what he wants you to say, too. Don't fool yourself, you and I are friends—friends—friends—I was down and out when we first began to talk together, and you gave me a right steer and it kind of made you like me. I like you—I love you—I think you're a perfectly keen kid. But that kind of love's different. You're too young to know anything about it. Believe me, it's got a lot of pain in it, and it leaves a scar—you don't get over it—"

The FAMILY DOCTOR

JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

Why People Lose Confidence.

Situated as I am, at a health resort, I meet folks from all over our land. I listen to their reasons for leaving the home physician, and find out why many employ quacks, just to get "stung." Many times I fear that it is our fault that quackery flourishes; We drive our patrons away from us.

Here are some reasons why the patient left the home doctor, as I take from my notes:

"My home doctor didn't examine me as I thought he ought to."

"My doctor told me there was nothing the matter with me but nerves."

"He just wouldn't examine my kidneys—and I knowed the seat of my trouble was there."

"Doc didn't do nothin' for me but prescribe . . . an' I got tired of that; didn't do me no good."

"He just didn't seem to understand my case."

"After the hard times set in I couldn't keep up my payments, and doctor just seem'd to lose interest."

"My doctor ain't a liver doctor—and I know it's my liver."

"O, I got to readin' about this doctor that don't operate; he described my case to a dot. . . I paid him $250 in advance, but I ain't no better yet; he says it will take a long time."

These are typical answers. I wonder if we honest physicians ever stop to think that it may be our fault that we sometimes lose our patronage?

The meanest patient that you have, doctor, is entitled to the very best that is in you. If you give him that and he still is disloyal and disobedient, the quicker the quack gets him the better.

J. A. Moore superintendent of the State Fair of Texas agriculture, is at present making a survey of the state sining up crop conditions. Mr. Moore said early indications are that Texas will have a very satisfactory crop. He has already visited practically every section of the state.

"Drink," said the Irish preacher, "is the greatest curse of the country. It makes yer quarrel with yer neighbors. It makes yer shoot at yer landlord; and it makes yer miss him."

ASPIRIN

beware of imitations

Look for the name Bayer and the word genuine on the package as pictured below when you buy Aspirin. Then you will know that you are getting the genuine Bayer product thousands of physicians prescribe.

Bayer Aspirin is SAFE, as millions of users have proved. It does not depress the heart, and no harmful after-effects follow its use.

Genuine Bayer Aspirin is sold at all druggists in boxes of 12 and in bottles of 24 and 100 tablets.

Aspirin is the trade-mark of Bayer manufacture of monoacetic acidester of salicylic acid.

After all, suggests the Mountdrige Journal, it is doubtful if the boll weevil hurts cotton in this country as much as the silk worm does.

"An undertaker commits suicide." We applaud all legitimate efforts to get business but it is possible to carry the thing too far.

about Conoco Germ Processed Oil with Germ Processed Oil, a pint or a quart seemingly disappears. On him fills, it does not. That's in the Hidden Quart—it stays up in the Hidden Quart and never drains away! Other oils drain away when you start your motor and never drain away! Other oils drain away when you start your motor and never drain away! Other oils drain away when you start your motor and never drain away!

Q: WHAT DOES "GERM PROCESS" MEAN?
A: The words "Germ Process" describe the scientific method by which this oil is manufactured. Such processing adds immensurable to the oil's lubricating properties. North American patent rights to this Process are owned by Continental—only CONOCO oils are Germ Processed!

Q: IS IT DIFFERENT FROM OTHER OILS?
A: Yes. It is the only oil of its kind, and does what no other oil can. The Germ Process gives it the ability to penetrate and combine with metal surfaces in your motor. The Germ Process also gives more "oiliness" than any other oil. Any oil would be better if it were Germ Processed.

Q: WHAT IS THE "HIDDEN QUART"?
A: The "Hidden Quart" is tangible evidence that CONOCO Germ Processed Oil penetrates metal surfaces and greases them, even the most inaccessible. During the first 250 to 350 miles after your first fill

County Line News

Mrs. Dick Hardee, Correspondent
The past week has been a trying one for the farmers of this community fighting sand. Quite a few are still having to plant over. The greatest loss coming to Mr. Nixon, who had close to 150 acres to plant over. The early feed and cotton is looking good but most of our crops will be late. Very little hoeing has been done to date. The planter has been doing most of it so far.

Mrs. Dick Hardee and children visited with Mrs. Tom Duke of Ira Saturday.
Mrs. E. A. Kruse of Ira isn't the only correspondent who has to make apologies. I'm another. In last week's news items I named over the teachers who taught this year that would be with us our next term of school and I failed to name Miss Mittie Mary Clarkson. I didn't know of this mistake until I read my letter. I can always find mistakes in my letter and I surely did not make this one intentionally. I regret to see her leave as I did the others and am sorry for the error.
Theda Kizer and family of Fairview were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alvie Lewis Sunday.
Mr. Nixon and family attended church at Ira Sunday night.
People of County Line are determined to have singing on Sunday night. The lights have been stolen from the house and we've carried lights from homes and sung. It was voted Sunday night to either sing in the afternoon or raise money to buy wall lamps like the churches used years ago and it was decided to get the lamps. We hope when we get these lights, they won't be stolen and broke up as our Coleman lights were. We used to have good singing by the coal oil wall lamps. Why can't we again? We can if we will only try and County Line is willing to do that.

Fluvanna News

Mrs. L. A. Haynes, Correspondent
The farmers are busily engaged in harvesting their wheat and oats. Some of our farmers lost up to one-third of their grain last Thursday due to the hailstorm. The hail only reached a small portion of our country. Some cotton and feed were damaged, though not seriously. Friday night we received a good rain, which was fine on the feed and cotton.
It seems the robbers just cannot leave our little town alone. Last Friday night after the rain the Sims dry goods store and the J. J. Bewel store were burglarized. Several pairs of shoes were taken from the Sims store along with a few other articles. Knives and razors were taken from the Bewel hardware store. Not content with their stealing, the intruders took Mrs. Bewel's wash she had left at the store and threw it in the ditch, taking part of the clothes from the wash. A car casing was also taken from Sid Miller's car. Officers from Snyder and Post were making investigations Saturday.
The play, "Trial Scene," was well rendered Monday night. A good address was given by the representative of the Anti-Saloon League.
Bro. Frank Storey and family went to Union Chapel Sunday, where the preacher filled his regular appointment.
Those from Fluvanna who attended the Methodist quarterly conference Sunday afternoon at Union Chapel were Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Flournoy, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Mathis, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Haynes.
Geta Landrum left last week to attend the summer school at Canyon.
John Wooten and family of Berger are here visiting relatives and friends.
Grandmother Hughes is here from the Plains visiting her daughter, Mrs. Tom Sturdivant.
Thomas Sturdivant and family of Hermleigh spent Sunday with homefolks here.
Mrs. John Buchanan and children left last week for Big Spring where they will visit a few weeks with relatives.
Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Perry of Hermleigh visited their son, C. T. Perry, and family Sunday. Their little granddaughter, Velma Lee, returned with them for a few days' visit.
Miss Mildred Roddy, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Roddy, left Sunday morning for Abilene, where she will make
