

Kemp thrilled by playing at The Ballpark

By RICK WHITE
Managing Editor

Layne Kemp will do something next week most high school baseball players only dream about — play in a major league ball park.

Kemp will play third base for the North team in the Texas Baseball Coaches Association Class 3A-1A North-South all-star game June 27 at The Ballpark in Arlington, home of the Major League Baseball's Texas Rangers.

Kemp doesn't know if he'll start, only that he is guaranteed to play at least four innings of the scheduled nine-inning game.

"Just stepping on the field will make me happy," said Kemp, who led Muleshoe High School to a 16-9 record and a third-place finish in District 1-3A. "I've been to a few games (at The Ballpark) but I never thought I'd actually be out there playing."

The all-star teams will practice for two days in Arlington in preparation for the game. Kemp said he just hopes he can catch the eye of a few scouts.

Kemp hit a team-high .561 this season with six doubles, five triples and three home runs. He scored 37 runs and had 31

RBI's. On the mound, the senior right-hander posted a 12-3 record with a 2.84 earned run average. He struck out 104 batters in 81 2/3 innings.

Layne Kemp

Kemp learned of another honor Sunday when it was announced he made the Class 3A all-state team.

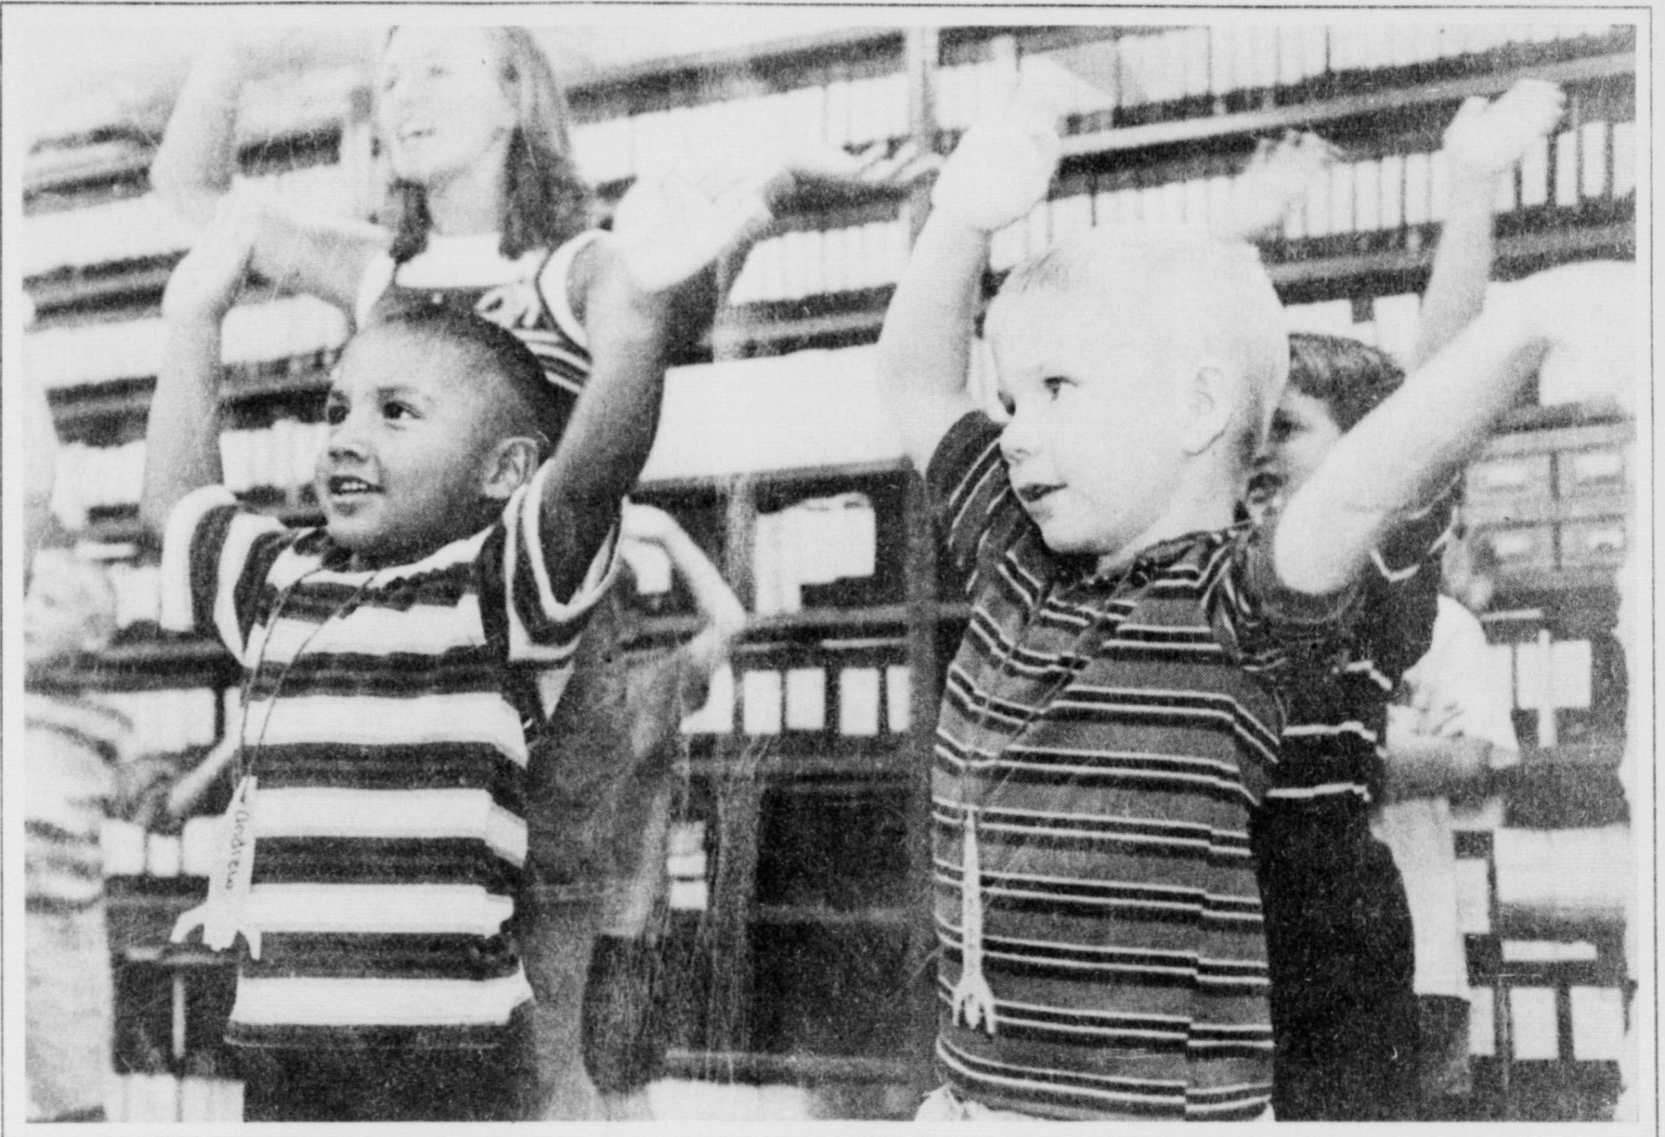

"It feels great," said Kemp, who as a freshman set a goal of making all-state. "I didn't really know if I could — but I did."

Kemp was joined on the all-state team by a pair of District 1-3A standouts, River Road shortstop/pitcher Jerod Fikac and Dimmitt outfielder Zack Matthews.

Fikac, who signed to play for Division I Southwest Texas State, hit .570 with 11 home runs and 47 RBIs.

Matthews, who signed to play with Oklahoma State, hit .577 with seven home runs and 30 stolen bases.

Kemp has his sights set on playing college ball at Division II West Texas A&M. He'll attend a tryout camp there Friday.

T. Graham Brown back at it

By RICK WHITE
Managing Editor

Travelling in the fast lane is something T. Graham Brown enjoys — from buzzing around NASCAR race tracks at nearly 200 miles per hour to hanging out with Dallas Cowboys quarterback Troy Aikman.

But Brown, who had a string of top 10 country hits in the late 1980s, also appreciates taking it slow.

Brown will perform a free concert in the city park before the fireworks display as part of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce & Agriculture's annual July 4th celebration. The concert, sponsored by the City of Muleshoe, is scheduled to start at 9 p.m.

Last year's concert featuring Tex-Mex star Johnny Rodriguez was the first of the free concerts.

"I think it went well last year," Muleshoe city manager James Fisher said. "We're always willing to help the local merchants by bringing in something that will help draw people from out of town."

Brown also will perform at 2:15 p.m. and 4:15 p.m. July 4 at the Joe's Boot Shop annual July 4th tent sale.

A QUICK READ OF THE NEWS

Combine demolition derby

LIND, Wash. — Using old, beat-up harvesters, farmers jostled like knights of old, but on ugly steeds standing 15 feet high and painted in garish colors, bearing corny names like "Grim Reaper" and "Red Baron."

The thrill of hearing and seeing agricultural metal crunch against metal is what drew fans to pay $6 to see at the annual combine demolition derby.

"They're bigger than cars, and the bigger they are, the bigger they wreck," said Erik Hill, 8. In the derby, which kicks off the town's three-day rodeo, groups of five to six combines competed in heats lasting about 10 minutes. Between heats, pit crews of surviving combines used welding torches and spare parts to repair damage before their machines returned to the ring.

The final round for the $750 first prize ended up in a four-way tie when the combines smashed together and none could break free.

Earth Rodeo has something for everybody

By HEATHER SHIPMAN
Journal staff writer

For 54 years, both young and old have been enjoying the Earth Rodeo. From the parade to the dance, it is two days of activities and fun.

There were events for all ages to enjoy Friday and Saturday at the Earth rodeo arena.

There were the usual rodeo events like barrel racing, saddle bronc riding, team roping and bull riding — and others like Mutton Bustin', where children ages 5 and under ride sheep, a goat scramble.

First-year contestant Brant Hamilton, a fourth-grader from Earth, was the lucky winner of the goat scramble.

"I just knew I was gonna win, so I went after

New highway bill includes provisions affecting farmers

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Air quality and regional haze provisions which affect farm and ranch families were included in the $203 billion highway bill signed into law Monday by President Clinton along with an extension of the ethanol tax incentive, according to the American Farm Bureau Federation.

One item which deals with air quality will guarantee an extended and harmonized implementation of two Environmental Protection Agency programs. Both programs would have had adverse impacts on agriculture if implemented without accurate agricultural emission data and scientific justification.

The two programs are EPA's new fine particulate standard (PM2.5) and the regional haze program (RHP), both established for "dust" control. The new law will streamline both programs' implementation process, ensuring that EPA and the agricultural community have time to develop accurate agriculture emission data before moving forward on these issues.

Supported by Sens. Max Baucus (D-Mont.) and James Inhofe (R-Okla.) and by Reps. Tom Bliley (R-Va.), John Dingell (D-Mich.), Bob Smith (R-Ore.) and Charles Stenholm (D-Texas), the implementation of the two regulatory programs will now effectively extend nine years or longer.

The PM2.5 standard controls fine particles for health reasons. The RHP is also designed to control fine particles, but relates to visibility. Both target agricultural burning and tilling nationwide as possible fine particle emission problems.

Without this amendment, states would have had to begin submitting control plans as early as 2003; the new date is 2008. EPA also would have been subject to lawsuits (civil suits brought under the Clean Air Act) which would have

BROWN

During a phone interview Friday, the Athens, Ga. said he likes performing in small towns. "You tend to get fed better and treated better." Brown was calling from a tour bus "outside a rodeo arena somewhere in Arkansas."

"It's something you have to do," said Brown, who is promoting the release of his first album in seven years. "But I really enjoy playing in front of people. Plus, my band likes to get paid."

A song off the new album called "Water into Wine," his personal story of giving up drinking three years ago, is drawing rave reviews at concerts, according to Brown's promoter Jody Jackson.

Brown's power-packed vocal style produced back-to-back No. 1 singles in 1986 with "Hell and High Water," which he co-wrote, and "Don't go to Strangers."

His second album, Brilliant Conversationalist, is considered a country classic, and his third album, Come as You Are, produced another No. 1 single with "Darlene."

His last album, released in 1990, included a duet with Tanya Tucker called "Don't Go Out."

Brown is also an accomplished jingle singer, with national credits like the award-winning Taco Bell "Run for the Border" TV campaign.

Like so many from the South, Brown is an avid NASCAR fan. After attending a pair of driving schools, he often drives test laps at places like Charlotte Motor Speedway in Charlotte, N.C. where he said he topped out at 195 m.p.h.

He might have to take it a little slower while he's in Muleshoe.

him," Hamilton said. "The best part was diving on him."

His prize for winning the event—taking home the goat.

Jim Garcia of Las Vegas, N.M. has been a bull rider for five years and said it takes a lot of guts to get on that bull night after night, especially after someone gets hurt.

"I do it for the thrill," Garcia said during a break in the action Saturday night. "I know people think we're crazy, but you have to get on the bull to understand."

Garcia had the misfortune of riding right after a bull rider was stomped on the head and taken by ambulance to the hospital.

"Focus is the number one key in this event," said Garcia, who has himself been stepped on a time or two. "It hurts for about two hours, and you're sore for a couple of days, but if you have to ride that night and you're still sore, you just have to suck it up and do it."

Tyler Simpkins worked as a rodeo clown for Saturday night's events.

He attends about three to four rodeos a week, travelling from town to town.

"I like being a clown, it's really part of my character," Simpkins said. "I do it because with my skills, I can walk into an arena and hopefully help a cowboy walk out."

The rodeo is run every year by the Earth Roping Club and sponsored by businesses from the surrounding area.

"We get sponsors from area towns along with businesses in Earth, and they really help to keep this rodeo going," said Kent Lewis, president of The Earth Roping Club

Council approves hotel/motel allocations

By HEATHER SHIPMAN
Journal staff writer

The Muleshoe City Council met Tuesday granted requests from two local organizations for funding from the city's Hotel/Motel tax fund.

The Muleshoe Heritage Foundation received a $10,000 grant to add a sleeping loft to the log cabin at the Muleshoe Depot.

Heritage Board members Carolyn Johnson and Jean Allison told the City Council it would cost approximately $12,000 and one year to complete the project. The other $2,000 was being donated by the Student Community Action Club. Heritage board members would like to add the loft to return the cabin to its original state, Johnson said.

The Muleshoe Roping Club received $1,109 reimbursement for advertising expenses from their Memorial Weekend Team Roping.

In other business, the Council authorized the city manager to execute all documents pertaining to federal subsidy programs related to the East Well Field.

Roadside marketing on the information highway

By STEWART TRUELSEN

Traffic is sometimes a real nuisance for farmers when they must move equipment on highways to get to another part of the farm. From hurried motorists' point-of-view, farm tractors and combines are a nuisance. What brings motorists and farmers together, however, is a roadside market. Put up a sign that says fresh sweet corn and watch cars slow up and pull off the road.

"Our original intention was just to have a hayrack with some vegetables on it," says Chris Birky, a northern Indiana farmer. Instead of a hayrack the family built a small store. "What happened is we just started marketing pork products, frozen pork products from our own hogs."

Now in its fourth season, Birky's Country Market on state highway 49 near Kouts, Indiana is a success. "This year we will grow around 12 acres of sweet corn, 6 acres of other vegetables, and we will probably market 150 to 200 pigs through the store," says Birky, who farms with his father and brother. They also sell their own pork seasoning products to go with those thick chops and ribs.

No wonder people come from a two or three county area.

The Birky's soon figured if they could stop traffic on the state highway, maybe they could also stop traffic on a much bigger highway — the information highway. With the help of a cousin who designs websites, Chris Birky took their country market to the Internet.

But Internet farm commerce is not without its drawbacks. "What we ran into," says Birky, "is that the pork that we raise now from our home farm and that we have processed is done through a state-inspected facility, and what we found is that meat inspected at a state facility cannot be shipped out of state or sold across state lines."

As a result, they had to obtain federally-inspected meat to sell through their website. The rule works against small producers who are trying to market a high-quality product. Shipping costs are another problem. They are expensive for perishable products.

Roadside marketing on the Internet is not going to replace the farm stand anytime soon, and that is fine with Chris Birky, because he's planning to use the website more to promote events at the roadside market. Says Birky, "I think there is always going to be a place for a little country store."

People just like the ambiance where they come and say, 'Hey, this is a farm. This came from the farm. It tastes better because it's from a farm.'"

Stewart Truelsen is the director of broadcast services for the American Farm Bureau Federation.

TSCRA horse inspection program begins June 15

FORT WORTH — Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association's new Horse Identification (HIP) program will be up and running by June 15 says association President C. Coney Burgess.

"Our members identified this program as a priority during TSCRA's April convention, and we have focused all of our resources into getting operational at the earliest possible date," says Burgess. "TSCRA is committed to providing the same exceptional theft prevention and investigation services for our members' horses as we have for their cattle for more than 120 years," Burgess promises.

"The value of a rancher's horse is measured by dollars and sense," says Burgess. "A horse is an essential working partner who develops a lot of cow sense and responds intuitively to act as one with the rider." The same bond exists with horses used for recreation — a $1.7 billion industry in Texas.

Cornerstone of HIP will be the horse identification database at TSCRA's Fort Worth headquarters. A special form has been developed to describe the identifying characteristics of each horse. Included are the type — horse, burro, mule or donkey; sex — mare, stallion or gelding; breed; color; age; weight; height; markings on face and legs; brands, tattoos or electronic identification. Members may also send a quality 3" x 5" color photo of the horse to be digitally scanned into the database for reference.

If the horse is reported as stolen, this information will be faxed to slaughter facilities, listed in the TSCRA Theft Bulletin and made available to TSCRA's inspector force and other law enforcement agencies.

Critical to the recovery process are TSCRA's Brand Inspectors who are stationed at the two horse slaughter plants in Texas. These inspectors record information on each animal that passes through the plants and transfer the information to the headquarters database.

"Prompt reporting of a missing animal is crucial," declares Burgess, "to ensure that the descriptive information is in these inspectors' hands before the thief gets the horse to market."

Members will receive wallet-sized cards with information on how to report theft of a horse which has been entered into TSCRA's Horse Identification Program database. Contact your local TSCRA inspector as listed in The Cattleman magazine as soon as possible. If you are unable to reach the inspector immediately, contact TSCRA headquarters and have the following information available to give to the person taking the report:

- TSCRA membership number (this number is the reference number for horses entered into the database.)
- Police report number from your local law enforcement agency.
- Date of theft.
- Location of theft.
- Details of theft.
- List of any physical evidence left at the scene.
- Possible suspects or suspect vehicles.
- Any available witnesses.
- Other items taken in addition to horses.

Burgess emphasizes that TSCRA may investigate only if the horses reported stolen meet the criteria of theft as defined in Section 31.03 of the Texas Penal Code or Title 21, Sec. O.S. 1716 of the Oklahoma Penal Code. Horses on which there is a question of ownership due to civil dispute or civil litigation will not be considered stolen by TSCRA and will be held only pursuant to a court order which must be in the possession of a TSCRA inspector or other law enforcement agency having jurisdiction.

Burgess says several horse safety and theft prevention clinics are being planned to provide opportunities for ranchers in Texas and Oklahoma to have digital pictures made of their horses and to fill out a form that describes identifying characteristics of each horse.

FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY NEWS

Friends of the Library met June 1 for their monthly meeting.

Lynn Vandiver called the meeting to order and Kristy White read the minutes. They were approved by Gail Wilcox and seconded by Beth Mims.

Gayle Jones reported on the summer reading program prize committee. The grand prize will be a $50 gift certificate to KayBee toys. The child reading the most pages in each grade level will receive a $10 gift certificate to B. Dalton books. There will be a "Go for" box with these prizes: 30 books, 50 day swimming pool passes, 3 posters, markers, sidewalk chalk, crayons and an etch-a-sketch.

Kristy White reported that the decorating committee had met and discussed their plans for decorating the meeting room. During the meeting, some of the friends colored animals to be laminated and used to decorate the walls.

Noemi Acosta reported that the refreshment committee had met. The children will be enjoying refreshments in the outdoor patio area.

Dyan Shipley reported that the craft committee needs more people to help.

Shipley also presented the only estimate received so far on changing the patio to a storage room from Hugo Vasquez.

A paint-a-thon fund-raiser was discussed. Dyan Shipley talked to the city manager about providing the paint. She will also be talking to Fry & Cox.

The city's maintenance crew has volunteered to paint the fire escape column.

She also reported on how well the story hour program had went. There was an average of 10 children present each time. She handed out good job certificates for those that helped. She also gave a certificate to Gail Wilcox for all the hard work she did to prepare for the lasagna lunch in May. It was decided that this may become an annual fund-raiser but held later in the year sometime in the fall months.

Annette Bonds gave the treasury report.

The meeting was adjourned at 6:35 p.m.

forced early implementation actions based on incomplete and inaccurate data.

Harmonizing both regulations was key, so that state control plan development for "dust" would not precede the collection of data and the implementation of the PM2.5 program. To date, EPA has little data for agricultural "dust" emissions, although agriculture is suspected to be a very small part of the total PM2.5 problem. Without actual emission measurement data, agriculture faced misregulation based on inaccurate emission estimates. Research is continuing that will fill in these crucial data gaps over the next 10 years.

A seven-year extension of the ethanol tax incentive was included in the transportation funding bill.

Harris — Skaarer

Royce and Kay Harris of Amarillo announce the engagement of their daughter, Emily Tann Harris, to Erik Charles Skaarer. Erik is the son of Sue Skaarer of Garland, Texas. Grandparents of Harris are O.G. and Loyce Killingsworth and the late Farene Harris, all of Muleshoe. Harris is a 1994 graduate of Muleshoe High School and attends the University of North Texas at Denton. She will graduate December with a bachelor of science degree in biology, with a minor in chemistry. She is currently working at Flow Hospital in Denton in the physical therapy department. Skaarer is a 1991 graduate of North Garland High School. He graduated from the University of North Texas in 1996 with a bachelor's degree in business administration and finance. He is currently employed as a service representative for Fidelity Investment. The couple plans to wed Feb. 6, 1999 in the Plymouth Park United Methodist Church in Irving, Texas.

Anderson — Shaw

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Anderson of Austin announce the engagement of their daughter Laurie, to Daren Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Shaw and the late Donna Shaw of Muleshoe. The bride-to-be graduated from Texas A&M University and teaches first grade at Windermere Elementary school in Pflugerville. The groom-to-be graduated from Texas Tech University and is head boys basketball coach at John B. Connally High School. A mid-September wedding is planned.

USDA overestimated salmonella cases

The number of people who get ill from eating eggs infected with salmonella is much lower than originally estimated.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture said its first attempt to create computer model to calculate how many people fall ill from salmonella-contaminated eggs and egg products overestimated the number of people affected. It lowered the estimate from 883,000 to 661,000. Other methods of estimating salmonella-related illnesses have not been accurate.

Since most consumers don't visit the doctor for mild food poisoning, scientists say it is difficult to make valid estimates. Salmonella usually causes mild diarrhea and cramps, but can be fatal for infants or elderly people with a weak immune system.

About 3,300 people are hospitalized for salmonella and 390 die from the illness each year.

Featured Patient

Margaret Roach was born August 18, 1915 in Knoxville, Tennessee. She and her family soon moved to Amherst, Texas where Margaret's father worked in a small cafe. It didn't take much coaxing to convince Mr. Roach to move to Muleshoe and open up his own cafe. After only a few months in Amherst, the family headed toward Muleshoe in 1925. Margaret grew up helping her family at Muleshoe's "Hot Shot Cafe" and has never left.

Margaret attended Muleshoe schools most of her life. Just before graduation in 1931, she chose to get married.

Margaret married a local boy named Bill Collins. The couple was happily married for 59 years before Bill's death in 1990. Bill and Margaret parented three daughters: Billie Jeter of Hereford, Bobbie Harrison of Muleshoe and Bettie Richardson of Austin. Margaret has 7 grandchildren and twelve great-grandchildren.

After marriage, Bill and Margaret spent 40 years in the cafe business. They owned and operated "Bill's Drive In" which soon became a Muleshoe landmark.

Mrs. Collins is involved in many local social groups and hopes to return to being an active member after her recovery from a stroke she suffered at Easter. She attends the First United Methodist Church of Muleshoe where she is a member of the Progress Circle. Margaret is also a member of the Order of the Eastern Star, which is part of the Masonic Lodge of which Mr. Collins was a member. Mrs. Collins is also the President of the Muleshoe Senior Citizen's Club.

About M.A.H.H.A., Mrs. Collins says, "At first, I couldn't do hardly anything. It gets better every day with their help." She also adds that she chose M.A.H.H.A. because they helped her out three years ago when she had her knees replaced. She trusts their knowledge completely.
