Regular criminal docket of the court, with the exception of the Jess Dixon case, was set for Monday, at which time the following proceedings were recorded:

Toby Morrow was given five days in jail and fine of $50 and costs, with driving license suspended for six months, on a driving while intoxicated charge.

A six months suspended sentence, pending good behavior, with drivers license suspended for six months, was meted out to Tom Rollins on a driving while intoxicated charge.

Albert McBroon was given two years each in the penitentiary in three cases of forgery. A two year suspended sentence given McBroon at the last term of court was reopened and invoked by the court, to run accumulative with and in addition to the sentences in the other cases.

On the civil docket this week the case of the Federal Land Bank of Houston vs. H. B. Ryan et al was moved here from Houston on a plea of privilege. Judgment was given the plaintiff for possession of the place.

Garland Parks has all disabilities removed as a minor.

Eight more civil cases are due to be disposed of during this term of court, among which will be the case of Clarence Smyrl vs. Associated Indemnity Corporation, set for today (Thursday). This is a suit for compensation and injuries.

Next Week Designated as Texas Health, Clean-Up, Safety Week

Major H. G. Towle stated Tuesday the Snyder and Scurry County will join hands with state agencies from Sunday through the following Sunday, April 7, in observance of Texas Health, Clean-Up and Safety Week.

The Texas Health Department, The Texas Fire Insurance Commission and the Texas Department of Public Safety are co-sponsors of the week, March 31 through April 7, inclusive.

"The annual observance of this Health, Clean-Up and Safety Week gives each locality an opportunity to take precautions against the spread of disease, disabling sickness, and property loss through fire and accidents on the highways," Mayor Towle said. Success of the week is dependent on the cooperation of each individual citizen, who, taken collectively, make up local observances of the week.

In the interest of better public and personal health, Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, suggests that Scurry County citizens ask themselves:

1. Is my family immunized against diphtheria, smallpox, typhoid?

2. Is my home protected against disease-carrying flies by screens in good condition, removal of fly-breeding spots, proper garbage disposal?

3. Is my home free from mosquito breeding places?

4. Is my water supply bacteriologically safe and pure?

5. Do I have safe sewage disposal, either through connection to city sewers, use of approved septic tanks, or sanitary toilet?

6. Is my plumbing in good repair and without leakage which may spread disease?

7. Have I checked my home for hazards which contribute to accidents and removed these hazards? Is it safe from fire?

8. Is the area adjacent to my home from potential harbors of rats, flies, and mosquitoes? Is it free from ragweed and will it be kept that way as an aid to hay fever sufferers? Are standing pools of water drained, filled, or oiled as an aid to mosquito control?

9. Has my family had an annual physical examination by our family physician as a check against potential illness?

FINE INTEREST IN METHODIST REVIVAL SEEN

People of All Faiths Are Urged by Pastor to Hear Evangelistic Pair in Services

Splendid attendance at both day and night services compose a highlight of the two-week revival meeting started Sunday morning at the First Methodist Church by Evangelist Ray N. Johnson and Harry Armstrong, conductor of song services.

"These men have already won their way into the hearts of the people attending services," Rev. J. A. Smith, host pastor, stated Wednesday. "We feel the Lord's kingdom work will be greatly advanced here as a result of this meeting."

Rev. Johnson held a successful revival here about nine years ago, and is familiar to Snyder churchgoers. Harry Armstrong, a leading song director, is classed by Homer Rodeheaver as one of the most forceful song directors in the nation.

Armstrong delights in getting the congregation to sing, and those who have his solos stated Wednesday. "We feel the Lord's kingdom work will be greatly advanced here as a result of this meeting."

Young people of the community have rallied and are attending services at 7:15 o'clock each evening and also night services in increasing numbers. The boys and girls from six to 12 years of age who meet each afternoon at 4:15 o'clock for 30 minutes will give a concert one night next week.

Monday night Rev. Johnson will bring a special message entitled, "What I Learned in the Prison Where Richard Bruno Hauptmann Died." People of Snyder and surrounding communities are urged to hear this message.

"These services we are holding are for everybody," Revs. Johnson and Armstrong state. "If we are informed at all we know that unless the Spirit of Christ grips America we are doomed with the nations that turn their back on God."

Night services, except Saturday, will be held at 7:45 o'clock. Morning services are held each day at 10:00 a. m.

REA High Line Goes Up in Fluvanna Area

Hanging up of high line transformers in the Fluvanna sector featured REA construction activities in Scurry County this week.

First "juice" on the northern part of the county 140-mile "B" section line is slated to be turned on tonight (Thursday) at Fluvanna School. This will give the northern Scurry County school REA electricity for staging the faculty play.

Representatives of the contracting firm, J. E. Morgan & Sons of Waco, state every effort will be made to energize the entire "B" section from Wastella to Fluvanna by April 1.

Midwest Electric Cooperative of Rotan, sponsors of REA work in Scurry and six other nearby counties, reported Wednesday that electricity for a segment of Fluvanna County's rural electric line east of Stamps-Daxter concert would be

Nearly everybody in the Snyder trade territory has heard of "Kentucky Moonshine."

It's a three-act comedy drama that will be presented at Fluvanna High School auditorium (Thursday) by members of the Fluvanna School faculty.

WORK STARTS SOON ON WEST END OF ROAD

Contractors on 7.6-Mile Stretch on Highway 15 Expected to Move Machinery by Thursday

Announcement Wednesday that dirt work will start the latter part of next week on the 7.6 mile stretch of Highway 15 from the Borden County line towards Snyder was made by representatives of the Dallas contracting firm.

The contractors, W. S. Crawford and T. M. Brown & Son of Dallas, are expected to start moving in machinery and equipment by next Thursday. Their bid on the project was for $110,860.

Representatives of Cage Brothers stated that dirt work on the 7.2 mile strip of Highway 15 from the square west is expected to be finished within the next two weeks. Completion of grading and drainage structures has been going forward at a rapid rate.

E. B. Yeatts, resident highway engineer, reports that dirt work on the 14.2-mile stretch eastward toward the Fisher County line is coming westward to the overpass daily.

A crew of WPA workmen started curb and gutter work on an eight-block strip of Highway 15 from the Deep Creek bridge west of Friday. Approximately 15 men are employed on the project, which will give curb and gutter west to the city limits when completed.

SCOUTS DIRECT TRAFFIC

Members of Snyder's Boy Scout troop, in charge of directing traffic today (Thursday) around the square, realized a neat profit from their efforts to get motorists to obey traffic signals. The local scout troop reports many motorists are woefully negligent in halting at the southwest and southeast corner of the square at stop signs. The scouts are working under the direction of Scoutmaster Jesse Clements.

Safety Officials In City Monday

First 20 Years Are Hardest for Local Druggist Brothers

Memories of the days when travel by the horse and buggy route was at its height in Scurry County are recalled by Lee and Joe Casey, Stinson Drug Company owners, who are this week celebrating their twentieth anniversary in Snyder.

Stinson Drug Company was established at its present site by Lee and Joe Stinson March 25, 1920. The site the two former Bell County boys chose for their location was occupied before they moved in by Echols Drug Company.

The Stinsons have resided in Scurry County 38 years. Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Stinson and their three children, Lee, Joe and Miss Eula Stinson, now Mrs. Guy E. Casey, moved to the Bull Creek sector from Bell County in 1902.

Mr. and Mrs. Stinson purchased a considerable amount of land where the Sharon Ridge oil field is now located. They later moved to the Ira community, where they purchased a farm.

Record Turnout Expected Tonight For Music Treat

Beginning promptly at 8:00 p. m., the concert is being sponsored by Snyder Schools. Both sacred and popular numbers will be featured on the program.

Due to the fact the wrong date was listed on a poster, it was incorrectly stated last week the Daniel Stamps-Baxter concert would be given at the school auditorium last Thursday night.

Antics of "Cousin" Carl Rains alone as a comedian are said to be worth many times over the small admission fee charged. Concert manager is John Daniel, who has one of the smoothest alto voices of any singer touring Texas.

Appearance of the Daniel Stamps-Baxter quartet here was arranged as a climax to a series of engagements they have been giving in West Texas.

Admission charges are 15 and 25 cents.

Milton Joyce, pledge of Ko Shari, girls' social organization of Texas Technological College, Lubbock, was initiated along with the other pledges in a secret service held in a ceremonial kiva, which dates back to the fourteenth century, near Santa Fe, New Mexico, Sunday evening. Miss Joyce is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Joyce.

Leaving Tech last Thursday morning in chartered buses, Ko Shari members, pledges, sponsors and patronesses returned there Monday. The club, organization of which is based on age-old Southwestern Indian traditions, spent the Easter holidays visiting Indian pueblos, museums and other places of interest in and near Santa Fe.

Friday they visited the homes of ancient Indian cliff-dwellers, now a national park, to view the setting for Adolf Bandelier's book, "The Delight Makers." Shopping and visits with famous writers and artists, an afternoon tea and a formal dinner at the LaFonda Hotel were enjoyed Saturday. High mass at the historic St. Francis Cathedral Tuesday morning was followed by the club's traditional Easter breakfast. Supper at Arrowhead Camp and initiation completed Ko Shari's eighth annual initiation ceremony.

Discussion during the business session centered on the district convention and additions to the already large Child Welfare program. On record as favoring a free clinic for pre-school children, the club will do everything in its power to assist with its establishment.

Program for the afternoon featured Mrs. England reviewing the version of the Bible story, "Samson and Dalila" by Saint-Saens, and illustrating piano numbers by Mrs. Chapman. The sacred opera was taken from Judges 16 by the French writer and produced in 1877 with the setting in the City of Gaza. Mrs. Chapman played "Spring Song" and "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice."

Aileen Morrison, Weldon Alexander Married in Easter Afternoon Service

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Morrison are announcing the marriage Easter Sunday of their daughter, Aileen, to Weldon Alexander of Dallas, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Alexander of Snyder. Marriage vows were taken by the couple at 5:45 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Philip C. McGahey in Breckenridge. Rev. McGahey, formerly pastor of the local First Baptist Church, officiated for the ring service.

The bride, pictured in the inset, was dressed in a navy blue dress and wore duty rose accessories for her marriage. She moved to Snyder from Clayton, New Mexico, with her parents, early in June of 1937, graduating the next spring from Snyder High School.

Outstanding honor received in the local high school included her selection as queen of the high school annual and membership in Lucky 13 Sports Club, girls' social group. Her father is a local postal employee.

Alexander graduated from Snyder High School and took his bachelor's degree in business administration from Baylor University in the Spring of 1937. Since his graduation at Baylor, he has been employed in the office of Magnolia Petroleum Company in Dallas.

After a brief wedding trip to points in Texas, the couple will live at 5448 Bonita Street, Dallas. Only attendants at the Easter marriage service were the bridegroom's sister, Kenneth Alexander, of Colorado City; his brothers, Lyle

ELECTRICITY GIVES HER WORKLESS WASHDAYS!

● Of all the boons of electric service, few are as greatly appreciated by women as the freedom electricity gives her from the weekly drudgery of washing the family's clothes.

New and more efficient electric washers and speedy electric ironers have cut down the actual work of washing and ironing to minutes instead of hours. Electricity has reduced the small amount of work to be done to such simple and easy tasks as turning a switch or feeding the flatwork into the ironer.

Drop by a store which sells electric washers and ironers and see for yourself how you too can have "workless washdays." And when you own this new equipment, you'll find that a few pennies a week is all it costs for electricity to do the backbreaking work formerly done by hand.

Electricity FREES Her from this Job
● About 1/4 cent an hour is all it costs for electricity to operate a washer, which saves clothes and does better work than is possible to do by hand.

Electricity Makes Ironing Easier, Faster and Better
● An electric ironer takes all the hand work out of this weekly job. You sit down and let tireless electricity do all the hard work.

Snyder Noses Out Dunn for County League Championship

Colored Students to Enter District Event

That Snyder Colored Interscholastic Leaguers will enter many of the events to be held in Lubbock on April 5 was disclosed this week by E. M. Watson, local colored school teacher.

A six-man track team including Richard Lewis, Willie Miles, Norris Williams, Isiah Forrest, Anderson Davis Jr. and Pete Davis are working on runs and field events with the hopes of bringing back several first place awards from the meet.

"The track team hasn't been picked for certain yet," says Watson, "but the ones who make the best showing this week will be the ones who will get to go."

Also scheduled to make the trip will be a crack quartet, declaimers, a debating team, essay writers and soloists.

Bonnie Ashcroft and Leota Glen, employed as nurses at the new veterans hospital in Amarillo, were week-end guests of Miss Glen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Glen. The two visitors arrived Saturday in Miss Ashcroft's car, and she returned late Sunday. Miss Glen will remain in Snyder this week.

LOOKIN' 'EM OVER

By JAY ROGERS

Scurry County track fans got an "eye full" of fast-stepping tracksters here last Saturday without the usual sandstorm that generally accompanies such an event out in this part of the country. Probably just a little more grit in the Saturday dirt would have helped the typical West Texans break a few of the records, but that is only speculation.

Two Snyder boys had quite a tussle for high point man laurels and it wasn't decided who would be high point man until the last event of the meet when Millard Wills took the lead by 1/4 point over Bill Shield. Up to that time Bill had gained 16 points and Wills was close behind with 15. In the last event, the mile relay, Wills ran the first lap and since the Snyder lads won first in this event, Wills went out in front by the narrow margin.

And that same mile relay that put Wills ahead probably was the most interesting and thrilling race of the meet, especially to Snyder fans. On the first lap Casey of Hermleigh scattered around the track to bring the baton to the second man some 20 yards ahead of his opponents. Taking the stick from Casey, Mobley also did some fast running to widen the gap between Hermleigh and her opponents by nearly 30 yards. For the moment it looked as though Hermleigh had the race.

Then things began to change. On the third go-round Charles Taylor of Snyder took the second place baton from Ross Blanchard and then lit out. By the time he had rounded the last curve he had cut down the distance between Snyder and Hermleigh to about half what it had been and then turned on the heat. With a good stride and plenty of drive he was on the heels

Hermleigh Places Third in Annual Interscholastic Competition at Snyder Last Week-End

On what was one of the prettiest track days in the county's history, Snyder tracksters gained a substantial lead over Dunn toward the last of the Scurry County Interscholastic League track and field meet Saturday to breeze to an easy victory.

Snyder scored 65 points in the senior events for top honors and was followed by Dunn who scored 51 points. Hermleigh was third with 26 points.

Top individual laurels for the day went to Millard Wills of Snyder who crashed the 5 feet 8 inch high jump record set by Sorrells and Hanson in 1938 with a leap of 5 feet 10 inches. This was the only new record set at the meet. Wills, with 16 1/2 points was closely followed by Bill Shield, who accumulated 16 points.

Dunn took first place in the Junior High School division with 37 1/2 points. Her nearest opponent was Snyder who gained only 15 1/2 points. Hermleigh was third.

Pyron School Head Attend Age Limit Confab at Austin

Superintendent H. M. Greenwood of Pyron School was one of the 16 representatives from various parts of Texas who met Wednesday of last week in a round table discussion over the 18-year Interscholastic League age rule. The discussion with eight representatives for changing the rule and eight against was heard by the Texas Interscholastic League rules committee consisting of seven university professors.

Under the new ruling as it now stands, semesters are not counted in establishing eligibility, but a boy is eligible until he is 18 years old no matter how many semesters he has been in high school, as long as he is passing in three subjects.

The recent meeting grew out of the many protests that came from schools all over Texas when the new rule was voted in.

Representatives to the meeting were chosen from school leaders in class AA, A, B and C schools. From this district representing class C schools were Mr. Greenwood and Dalton Hill of Highland High School of Reece.

Mr. Greenwood states that both sides presented some good points and that at times the discussion, which lasted from 2:00 to 7:00 o'clock grew rather warm. Members of the committee were scheduled for a meeting some time this week to make any amendments deemed necessary to best regulate the situation.

Visiting with the M. C. Herod family and Mrs. Herod's mother, who is gravely ill, are two of the elder woman's other daughters, Mrs. Ben Reece of Abilene and Mrs. W. B. Moore of Merkel. Billy Mack, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Herod of Brownfield, is also here.

A graduate of Howard Payne College, Little coached at Clyde two years before going to Rotan in the fall of 1937 to succeed Anthony Hunt as coach. He plans to enter the oil business at Putnam.

Little enjoyed his greatest season at Rotan in 1938 when his football team won the district and bi-district championships, losing in the regional game to Wink by a 1-point margin.

"The coach will remain at Rotan until someone has been elected to take charge of spring training.

Jerry Sadler Opens Governor Race Soon

First big blast in the 1940 gubernatorial sweepstakes will be fired April 4 by Jerry Sadler, rugged young member of the Texas Railroad Commission.

The colorful and dynamic Sadler will reveal his platform and proposals over a statewide hookup Thursday night, April 4, from 8 to 9 p. m. The broadcast will be carried by radio stations WPA, WBAP, KPRC and WOAL.

Since his opening announcement, Sadler has been deluged with a mail and telegraphic response and declares that he is now ready to reveal his program to the voters.

"For the first time in my memory we are going to have a campaign in Texas based on issues and not personalities. There is no hocus-pocus about my program," Sadler said. "It is clear-cut, plain and fitted to the pattern of the great Lone Star State."

AN OPEN LETTER

Through this medium, I would convey a brief message to the people of Snyder, young and old, voters and non-voters alike.

First of all, I would like to emphasize the fact that I earnestly covet the vote, influence and goodwill of each and every individual. As the employee in private business expects to be entertained as a reward for faithful and efficient service, so I am offering my continued service as City Secretary-Treasurer and inviting public investigation to degree of faithfulness and efficiency the duties of the office have been performed.

The constant work in the office has made it impossible for me to carry on any kind of campaign. It has been difficult to even talk with those who call on me from to day. I am busy, mind absorbed in the work at hand, and those who call are usually on business errands, anxious to be on their way. My apparent silence concerning the election has not been with a feeling of complacency, but rather as one who feels that the duties of the day are more important than his own personal ambitions, and as an adherent to the principle of which we have heard so much but seen so little: "Let the office seek the man."

J. S. Bradbury. (Pol. Adv.)

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dorfman of Vernon are spending several days with Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Rosser and Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Lambert.

Jimmy Braden of El Paso was a week-end guest of Margaret Deakins and Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Deakins.

For Governor

Jerry Sadler, aggressive member of the Texas Railroad Commission, who recently announced his candidacy for governor of Texas. Sadler is scheduled to reveal his platform for governor over a state-wide radio broadcast the night of April 4.

Sewing Room Brings Nice Payroll to Area

Recent repairing of all the sewing machines in the WPA sewing room is appreciated by the group of women engaged in work there, according to Mrs. Sam Nations, supervisor. The 37 women enjoy their work, Mrs. Nations says, and they are turning out numbers of useful garments.

During February the sewing room turned out 1,484 garments from a total of 2,126 and one-half yards of material. Payroll for the 37 women was $1,209.99 for the month of February—money that was or will be spent in Scurry County.

Candlelight Easter Service Is Monday

A candlelight Easter program was heard by members of the Phillis Young Women's Auxiliary of the First Church Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Ethel Eiland, sponsor. The Easter program was presented before a wooden cross symbolizing "The Old Rugged Cross," and in silver lettering the word "Easter" glowing in the soft light.

Lottie Weller, program leader, gave the devotional, and Annie Mae Dixon gave Easter greetings. A vocal trio, composed of Jerry Chapman, Edna Mae Gailin and Bernice Skarnis, sang "He Arose." Brief discussions were given as follows: Annie Jones, "A New Horizon;" Lottie Weller, "Sealing New Heights;" Mrs. Eiland, "Think on These Things;" Maxine Jones, "Easter;" and Miss Weller, "Radiance." Group singing of "He Lives on High" closed the program.

Coffee and cookies were passed to the following members: Nell Verna LeMond, Lucille Grimmett, Myrtle Tate, Avanel White, Raynell Lightfoot, Velma Lee Edmonson, Verna Price and those on program. Gladie Weller was a guest for the evening.

College and University Students Are Home Visitors for Easter Holidays

Easter holidays observed with spring vacation days by most colleges and universities of the state made occasions for visits home for many of the students. Several local students were too far from home for the few days off, but most of them were greeting old friends right and left and several were introducing guests.

Informal Easter festivities and complimentary affairs paid the homecoming students included several dances and other entertainments. Guests of the students from other towns were welcome additions to several of the gatherings.

Largest group of Easter holidaying students came to Snyder from Texas Technological College, Lubbock, most of them returning early Tuesday after being here since last Thursday. The following local students were here: Dorothy Winston, June Clements, Juanita Sentell, Johnnie Greene, Eleanor Hays, Imogene and Ouida Birdwell, Murray Gray, Wallace Smith, Richard Brice, Renal Rosson and H. C. Shuler.

Dorothy Winston's guest was Lloyd Morgan of Lamesa, who will probably return this week-end with others for a house party at the home of Dot's parents, the Wade Winstons, celebrating the local girl's birthday. Guests during the week-end of Imogene Birdwell was Lloyd Price of Lubbock. Wallace Smith also brought home a boy friend.

Two mid-town college transfers were in town for the holidays. Wynona Keller, who transferred from the University of Texas to Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, earlier this year, had as her guest Melville Ehlers of Fort Worth. Janice Cogdell, who entered Texas Tech as a transfer in September, returned to Southwestern University at Georgetown at Midterm, and was visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Cogdell, Easter.

From Howard-Payne College for the holidays were Frances Stinson, Adell Watkins and Lola Mae Littlepage.

Melba Ann Odum, Louise Bowers and I. A. Smith Jr., students in McMurry College, Abilene, spent the holidays at home here. Students from two other Abilene colleges visited Snyder relatives, also—Joetta Beauchamp, Forrest Beavers and Dorothy Pinkerton from A. C. C., Louise LeMond, Violet Grayum McKnight, Travis Green and Leon Autry, Hardin-Simmons University students.

Taking advantage of an eight-day holiday period are Ruth Shipp and Mildred Herod, Snyder, and Frances E. Jones of Yuvauna, all furthering their education at Texas State College for Women, Denison. Evelyn Bellard, student in North Texas State Teachers College, Denton, was here too.

Estine Dorward, graduate student in journalism in the University of Texas, returned to Austin this week after spending several days here. She drove back to Austin in her own Chevrolet coupe. Easter gift of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Dorward, Lyle Alexander, Texas University freshman, was best man at his brother's marriage Sunday in Breckenridge, but he spent the major portion of the holidays with his parents here.

W. S. Goodlett Jr., who will receive his degree from A. & M. College in June, spent the holidays in Snyder and with his parents at Dunn. Max West came home from the Terrell Military College, Junior Thompson from business school at Las Cruces, New Mexico, and Weldon Kincaid from West Texas State College at Canyon. Edwin Terry, Weldon Longbottom of Hermleigh and Dinty von Roeder of Knapp were also in evidence locally.

Vera Periman, sponsor, and their escorts. Potted cactus centered the banquet table, and souvenir programs were saddle-shaped. Leather saddles and bright saddle blankets were other decorations for the room.

Margaret Gray, president, introduced the program numbers following her toast to the club. Lola Jo Rogers presented a comedy vocal selection and novel poetry with piano accompaniment by Patti Hicks. Others on program were Irene Taylor, reader, and Jeanne Taylor, who gave the group's prophecy.

I have purchased the Dairy operated for several months in Snyder by Leonard Lankford, and will assume charge of the business Monday, April 1. Mr. Lankford, an experienced dairyman, will remain with me, and we hope to better care for the Dairy Products requirements of the community. We hope to continue to serve the customers of Lankford, and solicit new patrons.

Community Singers Plan Reorganization

Singers of Snyder and surrounding communities are scheduled to convene at the First Christian Church Thursday night, April 4, for the purpose of reorganizing community singing here.

Those interested in community and gospel singing are extended a cordial invitation to attend the initial reorganization session. Due to a demand for this type of singing by county song lovers, active plans for a live-wire singing class each Thursday night will be mapped.

Word by Mayor

Mayor H. G. Towle makes the following official announcement: "Snyder's first case of smallpox for 1940 was reported this week."

"We want to urge every citizen of the town to cooperate with us in every way to stop this contagious disease before it gets a foothold here, and to this end we want every case of smallpox reported at once."

"There is nothing to be alarmed about, but we want to, as a group of citizens, use every precaution to keep smallpox out of Snyder. Only by your fullest cooperation can this be accomplished."

Treating Cotton With Chemical To Raise Crop Yield

Information released this week by the Texas Extension Service at A. & M. College indicates that chemical treatment of cottonseed may result in Scurry and other counties of the state producing an extra 320,000 bales of cotton during 1940.

In the four-year tests conducted by the Texas Agricultural Experiment station, treatment increased the yield by an average of 25 per cent at College Station; 12 per cent at Temple; nine per cent in the Brazos bottom; and four per cent at Lubbock, an average of 12 1/2 per cent.

This average, if applied to the entire Texas crop, would raise the yield of 162 pounds per acre (for the past two years by 20 pounds). The treatment used by the experiment station was an organic mercury dust, known as two per cent ceresan, at the rate of three ounces to the bushel. A new improved ceresan is now available, and recommended treatment is 1 1/2 per bushel.

Increased yields, according to E. A. Miller, agronomist of the Texas A. & M. Extension Service, come because of higher germination. The chemical also reduces loss from seed-borne diseases, such as rosette, or damping off, bacterial wilt, and angular leaf spot.

A practical way to treat cottonseed is by the use of a barrel or oil drum with a tight fitting lid and arranged on an axis so that the container can be revolved. The container should also have at least two baffle boards on the inside so that the seed will be continuously agitated while the barrel or drum is being revolved.

Guests over the week-end of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Grantham and Edith Grantham were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bannister and children of Lubbock, the Andy Jones family of Camp Springs and Mary Ruth Bolos of Littlefield.

Community leaders announced this week that LeMoine G. Lewis, minister of the local Church of Christ, will preach at Bison Sunday afternoon, 3:00 o'clock. Everyone is extended an invitation to attend the Bison services.

Scurry Countians To Attend Horse Show

Several Scurry and Borden County residents mapped initial plans this week to attend a Rotary Club sponsored Horse Show at Big Spring April 21. Proceeds will go to the club's crippled children's fund.

C. T. McLaughlin of Midland and Snyder and Frank Kelley of Colorado City, who have stables of fine horses, are cooperating with Dr. H. M. Bennett, J. P. Robb and W. W. Inkman of the Rotary Club in planning the affair.

Entries for the horse show have been received from stables at Dallas, Fort Worth, Amarillo, Plainview and San Antonio. In addition to professional amateur events there will be an afternoon and evening show.

Geneva Voss of Post was the guest Friday and Saturday of Mrs. A. M. Curry and daughter, Allene. Miss Voss, teacher in the Post Schools, judged Intercollegiate League contests here Saturday.

"This is absolutely terrible. I have never played so poorly before." "Oh, then you have played before?"

IT'S FORD

ACROSS THE BOARD

Leadership in all 7 BASIC ESSENTIALS OF A GREAT LOW-PRICED CAR

In the major things, the big things, the real things that make you want a car—all 7 of them—Ford takes commanding leadership. Here is where Ford excels:

- GOING POWER: The kind of power that only the V-8 engine can provide—the instant response, lightning acceleration, marvelous economy and swift, smooth, faithful performance. 6,000,000 Ford V-8s—more than all other Eights combined—say this is the power plant for you!
- STOPPING POWER: The big, straight-line stopping hydraulic brakes of the Ford V-8 are far and away the biggest in the low-priced field—a safety factor you've got to have in the new car you buy.
- POWER TO HOLD THE ROAD: No car in any price field excels Ford in roadability—in keeping "all four feet on the ground" under all driving conditions. This means safety plus comfort.
- SMOOTHNESS: Not only in amazing power does the Ford V-8 engine excel, but in the smoothness that gives velvet quiet. Everyone knows no car of fewer cylinders can match an Eight in smoothness.
- STAMINA: In staying power there is no car that can take the rough with the smooth like Ford. There are more Fords on the highway than any other make of car. This sturdy Ford is made to take it!
- STYLE: Ford set the current modern trend in beauty of lines. And Ford's unequalled paint job makes its beauty permanent.
- COMPLETE ECONOMY: The combination of low price, low cost of operation, high trade-in value and more extras at no extra cost, makes the Ford the great economy buy for 1940.

PLAINVIEW GIRLS MEET

Plainview 4-H Club girls met last Tuesday at the school building with Estella Rabel, agent present. All members of the girls' club were in attendance, according to Cwendolyn Tate, publicity chairman.

Letha Woodard, president, was in charge of the business session, and Wanda Lopour, recreation leader, directed several games. Apron patterns were given the girls by Miss Rabel, who requested that each make her apron before the next meeting. Leaflets on daily diet and frame gardens were interesting.

Next meeting of the club will be held April 2. The members are again expected to attend 100 per cent, leaders say.

MRS. GOOLSBY HOSTESS

Bison Home Demonstration Club met Friday afternoon with Mrs. Nathan Goolsby. Nineteen old members and one new one, Mrs. Ross Huddleston, were present, along with several visitors—Sally and Mattie Shoek, Olene Bishop, Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Homer Huddleston of Ira.

Mrs. Joe Burney, leader, gave an interesting talk and several readings, and Lawrence Branson spoke on improving bedrooms. For benefit of the new members and visitors, Mrs. R. O. Bishop, Bison president, gave the club's objective.

Recreation for the afternoon was a softball game between the women and 4-H Club girls, which the women lost by narrow margin of two points. Home Demonstration Club women for a chance of revenge in the form of another matched game soon.

Wedgeworth And Mize Relected at Fluvanna School

Relection to another year's service as heads of the Fluvanna High School faculty are Superintendent E. O. Wedgeworth and Principal Gilbert Mize. The Fluvanna school board placed Wedgeworth at the helm for the thirteenth consecutive year, and Mize will be spending his fifth year at the progressive Scurry County school.

In his 13 years of superintending the Fluvanna consolidated school, Wedgeworth has seen great changes, and he has not been inactive in boosting these progressive moves. Under his ingenious leadership the school's standards have been raised, its attendance swelled, its dramatic department made known throughout West Texas, its grounds and buildings beautified, and its many extra curricular activities encouraged into recognition among other and larger schools.

The most recent innovation in the Fluvanna School system has been the installation of electric lights. Wedgeworth has arranged that the school will be the first building in Fluvanna to benefit by the Rural Electrification project in that section of the county.

Mize went to Fluvanna from a place in the Dunn School. He has been termed by his associates as a successful principal, mathematics and science teacher and coach. His cooperative spirit is praised by Wedgeworth and the entire Fluvanna community.

3,500 People Storm Borden County Show

M. R. Bodzin, new owner of the Fair Store, reports "a mighty fine response to our former opening sale that was staged last week. We are mighty well pleased with the friendliness of Snyder and county people, and feel assured we are making a wise choice in deciding on Snyder as our home."

Speaking of the Easter Eve freeze that hit Scurry and Borden County Saturday night, Nolan von Roeder of Von Roeder Seed Farms says "all fruit trees I've examined in either of the two counties shows no signs of injury." Other county fruit growers interviewed state the March rain Saturday night that preceded the light freeze was a major factor in preventing fruit buds from being killed.

M. H. Greenwood, Byron School superintendent, who returned last Wednesday night from Austin, states a sympathetic attitude was expressed by state Inter-scholastic League officials about abolishing the 18-year rule for league entries. "I was impressed," he stated, "with the amount of political activity evidenced at our State Capitol at this time. It looks like we're going to have more than enough candidates to spare for the governorship."

Referring to the case of small-pox reported in Snyder this week, Mayor H. G. Fowler says: "We feel sure the entire citizenship of the town will cooperate to stop this contagious disease before we have a full grown smallpox scare here. The time to bend every effort to this end is when a contagious disease first is reported, not after we have let it get a strangle hold in the city."

Rev. Buster Edwards of Fort Worth stated while here over the week-end that the "new size of The Times, together with features that have recently been added makes the home county paper one of the best all around newspapers we get. Changes in make-up of the paper impresses me more than ever that The Times is an outstanding publication among Texas weeklies."

Doe Bynum, who has been buying produce and cream here for a great many years, moved this week to a new location a door south and across the street from his former location on Avenue R. Now located four doors north of Miller Body Works, Bynum believes he can render better service than ever to his customers—both those of years standing and new ones he has added the past two or three years. "I'd like for all of my friends to visit me in my new place of business," he said. "I believe they will like the change I've made."

It was left to Miss Ruby Lavender, former choir director and young people's leader of the First Baptist Church, to express this week the sentiment of the average person when visiting Snyder. "One can always remember the people of Snyder and Scurry County for their spirit of hospitality and friendliness," she said. "The county's pioneers who instilled in their children the spirit of the true hospitality left behind an influence that stretches entirely across the years."

Cage Brothers Construction Company men, almost the entire crew, moved from Snyder to Memphis last week-end. Their portion of the Scurry County highway work practically complete, the company left less than a half dozen of them to finish. Mighty nice people, we'd term them, after dealing with the office supplies buyer, Wilbanks, and meeting several others.

Postal card from the L. B. Worleys of Grand Canyon, Arizona, mailed in New York City was received here. The Worleys, former Snyder residents, are vacationing from his government ranger job in Arizona, and after spending several days in Snyder recently, they pushed on to Sparrows Point, Maryland, for a visit with the Cecil Worleys and Mr. and Mrs. Damon Worley. On to New York, Worley writes "there are more people here on week days than there are in Snyder on Saturday."

Portion of the residence occupied by Fred Holland in north Snyder that was left after a fire razed some of the structure three weeks ago will be sold to the highest bidder April 3, Holland stated Wednesday. A considerable amount of good, red lumber is left in the part of the building not demolished by fire, a committee of local inspectors report.

New meat cutter for Piek & Pay Store is New Thompson, who assumed his duties at the store located at the northeast corner of the square this week. COURTHOUSE AT GAIL LOOMS AS MONUMENT

$45,000 Structure Recently Opened Stands as Achievement for Borden County People

Probably Number 1 in the record of achievements for Borden County people the past two years is the modern $45,000 courthouse recently finished at Gail.

The structure, built of brick with soundproof Cel-O-Tex ceiling, has modern heating and cooling conveniences throughout. Venetian blinds are used to improve ventilation, especially in summer time.

Dunlap & Coughran of Abilene were contractors for the courthouse, which has a stone bastille 150 feet to the northeast that can accommodate eight prisoners. A rock wall of native stone was built recently around the courthouse lawn.

Gail, the county seat, has a population of 130 people. The entire county of Borden has a population of only 1,750 people, which makes the building of a courthouse that is the envy of many other West Texas counties all the more outstanding.

County officials are: C. C. Nunnally, county judge; Sid Reeder, sheriff; Maggie Williams, county clerk; Frank W. Medley, county agent; W. W. Perciful, assistant; and A. J. Cantrell, justice of the peace.

4-H BOYS STAGE FIELD DAY AND STOCK DISPLAY

Colorful Barbecue Serving at Noon Hour Was Highlight of Gail Gathering Saturday

Thirty-five hundred people from Borden, Scurry, Howard, Dawson and Garza counties gathered at Gail Saturday for Borden County's second annual Field Day and Fat Stock Show.

Grand champion calf of the Borden 4-H Club Show was shown by Murray Jackson. A. C. Alexander, vice president of Snyder National Bank, put in the successful auction bid of 15 cents a pound for Jackson's champion entry.

Judges for the occasion were George W. Barnes, specialist in animal husbandry at Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College, and J. D. Prewitt, District 6 agent.

One of the most colorful events of the entire day was an old-fashioned barbecue, repete with trimmings and cowboy beans, served to 3,500 people that went through a feeding chute one at a time.

The Field Day and Fat Stock Show, sponsored by Borden County 4-H Club boys, was staged at the recently constructed club show barn and livestock arena.

Reserve champion of stock show was shown by Eugene Strey, who placed first in lightweight dry lot calves.

Borden County 4-H Club boys are joined by Frank W. Medley, Borden County agent and general show superintendent, in "expressing our special thanks to the ranchers of Borden County who donated calves for barbecuing, and to Earl Cordeur of Big Spring, who furnished Admiration Coffee for the event."

Added attractions during the day included a free entertainment program, presided over by Warren Berrett as master of ceremonies.

In addition to an old fiddler's contest, music was furnished by the schools of Borden County and special numbers by 4-H Club string bands. A pie and ice cream sale was staged near the show barn by ladies of the Gail Baptist Church.

Assisting Frank Medley in the auction sale Saturday afternoon was X. B. Cox Jr., Scurry County agent.

Borden County, which has a population of 1,750 people, staged one of the finest 4-H Club shows Barnes said he had attended this year.

Placings in the various 4-H Club livestock divisions follow:
Lightweight, dry lot calves—Eugene Strey, first; Weldon Street, second; Barney Odum, third; Charles Brown, fourth; Murray Jackson, fifth; and Ted Richards, sixth.

Attendants at Borden County Show Praise Display of Community Work

Interesting sidelights on Borden County's second annual Field Day and Fat Stock Show Saturday is provided in these comments made at Gail by the following individuals:

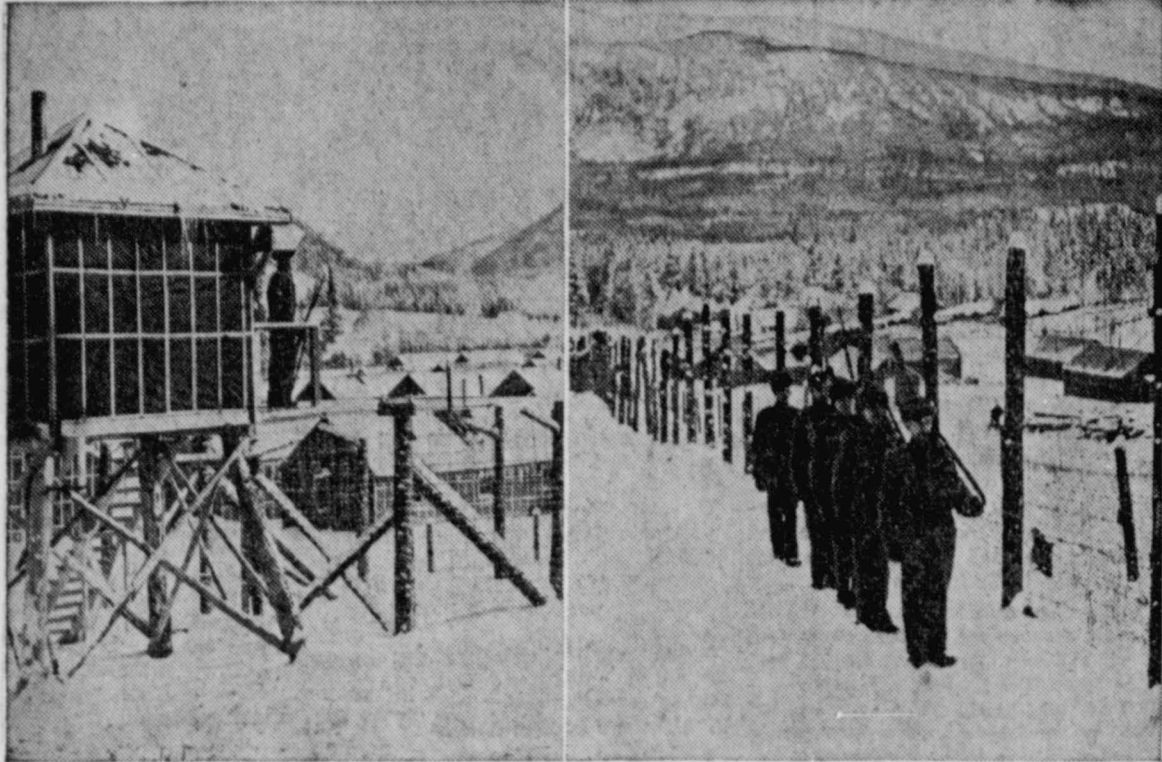

George W. Barnes, specialist in animal husbandry at A. & M. College: "The thing that strikes me as most unusual about the Gail show is the fact nearly all entries are just as they come from the feed lots of club boys. It's one of the finest shows I've attended this year."

J. D. Prewitt, District 6 agent: "One can get a cross view of just how much 4-H Club work has progressed in the past three years by inspecting the entries of this show. When better club calves are raised, Borden County boys are going to be right up in the front of the parade."

Frank W. Medley, county agent of Borden County: "This is an event that shows the people of Scurry, Howard, Dawson and other counties besides our own just what Borden 4-H Club boys are doing in club work. We appreciate the attendance of each person here, and want to say everyone has a warm welcome to visit us."

Their Negotiations Saw End to Russo-Finnish War

Principal figures in bringing to an end the three and one-half month war between Finland and Russia were (left to right) Viacheslav M. Molotov, Soviet foreign commissar; Rysto Ryti, premier of the Republic of Finland; and Dr. Juho Paasikivi, Finland's outstanding expert on Russo-Finnish affairs. Ryti and Molotov headed the groups that agreed upon terms of a peace treaty between the two countries. Russia's grip over the northern Baltic was virtually clinched by the terms of the peace treaty reached with Finland. Terms of the treaty were considered by authorities to be much harsher than pre-war Russian demands.

Superliners for War Debts Urged by New Yorker

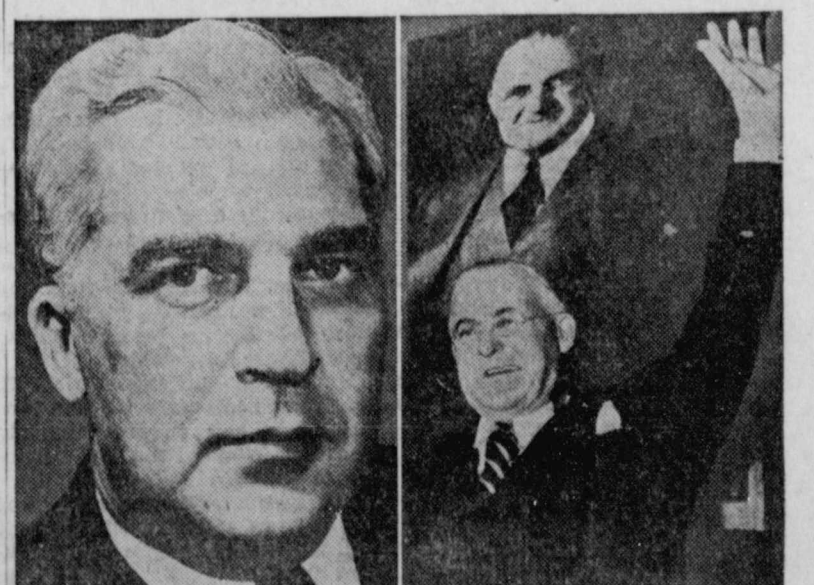

Aided by a fleet of tugs, the Queen Elizabeth, British luxury liner, is warped into her New York harbor berth—haven from the European war. For neighbors she will have the Queen Mary, her sister ship, and the French liner, Normandie—the largest ships in the world. Combined value of the three superliners is $102,750,000. Assemblyman John A. Devaney, Bronx Democrat, introduced into the lower house of the New York legislature a resolution proposing that the American government seize the three liners in payment of World war debts.

From Axis to Triangle

Foreign observers hoped the Finnish peace would place a quietus on western warfare, their mistake was clearly evident by late March. Not by secret maneuvers but by leaps and bounds the Rome-Berlin axis was merging into a Russian-German-Italian coalition designed to force a dictator's peace down the Anglo-French throat. At London and Paris the populace exploded, demanding more aggressive pursuit of the war. Their parliaments fumed, and one government fell completely. The other, sorely afraid, jumped into the conflict head first.

'Sweet Smelling' Sam Houston Jones Faces Task in Debt-Ridden Louisiana

By ORRIN HARTMAN (Released by Western Newspaper Union.) BATON ROUGE, LA.—Next May 14 a mild-mannered young lawyer from near the Texas border will take charge of Louisiana's monumental state capital. From its cavernous halls will scatter the ghosts of 12 Long years.

GOVERNOR-DESIGNATE. Sam Jones, rated one of Louisiana's best orators, strikes a campaign pose. When Earl Long accused him of being 'sweet smelling,' Jones men bought out the dime store perfume counters and thus created a campaign symbol.

Out front, in the hero's tomb they built after an assassin's bullet cut short his riotous career, corks Huey Long will probably turn over in his grave. Good or bad, Louisiana's new administration will at least be named. The young lawyer is Sam Houston Jones, because Sam Houston is quite a hero out near the Texas line. The night Sam Jones beat Huey's young brother Earl in a bitter runoff primary, he kept a New Orleans victory celebration waiting. They found him praying in a Methodist church, the sort of thing you'd have expected from a medieval crusader.

Not a Bad Idea.

There are those who vow Louisiana needs a crusader. Some people also call Sam Jones the David who slew a modern Goliath, but 253,364 Louisianians who voted for him were probably just as much against the Long machine as they were for Sam Jones.

Nevertheless he is the flesh-and-blood symbol of a protest against the most amazing political machine America has ever seen. It dates back to 1915 when Huey Long was handling compensation cases for Louisiana lumber mill workers. The idea was something like this: Give nothing to the poor at a cost of nothing to them, that is, share the wealth. But to accomplish this you need a kingdom, and to h—l with the expense.

Huey Upheld the People.

In retrospect, now that only the memory remains, Louisianians are recalling Huey's career. They remember how he "upheld the rights of the people" as state railroad commissioner; how he was lirked for the year 1928; how through shrewd political maneuvering he became Louisiana's lord and master. Huey provided free school books. He packed the courts, attacked the corporations and built roads the state had never seen before. And becoming cock-sure, he could boast: "There are not many people in the United States who are smarter than

So You Want to Be a Model? New York Tells What It Takes

NEW YORK.—Young ladies: If you're between 19 and 23 with a just-so-figure and the knack of posing before a camera without appearing to do so, you may have the makings of a model. The glamour profession which has attracted hundreds of small town girls to New York in the past few years, is now being advertised in men and photographers, but if a girl possesses all the necessary requirements she may get a break.

U. S. Drafts Mars Men To Fight Forest Fires

WASHINGTON.—If you see a strange figure parachuting into one of our national forests this summer, it won't necessarily be a man from Mars. More likely it's a "smoke jumper," one of Uncle Sam's new forest fire fighters being placed into service this year.

Predicted Machine's Downfall.

And then they "got" the Kingfish — shot him to death—in the 33-story Baton Rouge stately home which symbolized his stronghold over Louisiana. He struggled to come, and he also knew the Long machine couldn't last after his death. Of his lieutenants he said: "Half of them will be in jail after I die. They Faces Difficult Task.

After Mr. Jones left his prayer meeting in New Orleans on victory night, he told the crowd: "I promised to restore honesty and decency in Louisiana government, and anybody who knows Sam Jones knows that he keeps his word."

Vows to 'Cleanse' State.

Sam Jones' knows all this but it makes him no less critical of the Long machine. He insists that dictatorial laws must be abolished, that courts must be placed above reproach, and that schools must be revitalized. Says he: "A new day has dawned after a long night with foul things happening in the dark."

Prizes Awarded To Attendants at Close of Auction

Success of the bake sale held in Hermleigh Saturday by the Catholic women of the community was largely due to the whole-hearted cooperation of merchants of Hermleigh and Snyder and "our Protestant friends," the sponsors say. The $46 netted during the day will benefit the St. Johns Evangelistic Catholic Church of Hermleigh.

Special thanks go from the organization to Bill Rea for the courtesy of lending the Jackson Building in Hermleigh to the women free of charge. "We want all the community to know that we appreciate their cooperation," a leader said.

In addition to the bake sale, the $46 includes sale of chances on rugs and other prizes. The drawing awarded prizes as follows: M. D. Day of Sweetwater and Johnnie Schulz, Hermleigh, rugs; Pat Bullock of Snyder, pillow case; Mrs. Joe Drennan and C. P. Williams, scarfs; and Parks & Bell Market, Snyder, a woman's gown.

Judges in the drawing were K. B. Rector, P. A. Werner and Luther Fargason. Four Hermleigh merchants donated prizes for the "puncture guess" contest. Judges for that were Clyde Rea, R. Groves and Mr. Hillis.

The four prizes were awarded to the following, in order of their placings: Mrs. Anton Brom, five quarts Golden Shell Motor Oil, donated by Ray Vernon; Mrs. A. J. GOOCH'S HOME LAUNDRY

New Legislation Extends Benefits of FHA-Insured Mortgage Plan to Farms

Farmers may now use an Insured Mortgage to build or repair houses, barns, sheds, poultry houses, silos, put up windmills or other farm structures.

As much as 90% of appraised values can be loaned in some cases, land may be either bought or refinanced on this plan when 15% or more of the loan is used for materials and labor on the construction or repair of buildings. . . . These loans are made by lending institutions. They are not government loans, but private capital insured by FHA.

The interest is 4 1/2%. Payments can be made monthly, semi-annually or annually, in equal installments, depending upon the distribution of the farmer's income throughout the year.

At the discretion of the lender the loan may be paid over a period of 20 to 25 years.

This means that the responsible farmer can provide his family with a modern, attractive home without waiting years to accumulate the cash—a tenant farmer can buy his own farm—and the farmer burdened with short-term high-interest mortgages can replace them, modernize his farm, and clear the debt completely in convenient payments.

What Every Good Cook Should Know

There are certain principles of food preparation which every good cook follows, whether or not she is conscious of doing so, or understands the reasons on which they are based.

To be sure, every so often we find a recipe which seemingly contradicts every principle of cookery that has ever been formulated, and in spite of it, produces an excellent product. I suppose that's the proverbial exception that proves the rule! But in general, following definite rules of cookery produces the best results consistently.

There is, for example, a standard method for mixing cakes. Then there are revolutionary methods such as that which is used in the fifty cake recipe below. But it's well to remember that the unusual method, in one recipe, gives entirely satisfactory results, for another recipe may not work at all.

These are general rules (with an exception to prove every one, I do believe!) which the good cook follows as a matter of habit:

1. When mixing butter cakes or muffins, by the standard method, cream shortening, add sugar gradually, then egg yolks. Add sifted dry ingredients and liquid, alternately, beginning and ending with the dry ingredients.
2. Unless a recipe specifies otherwise, mix only until the ingredients are blended.
3. Cheese, egg and milk mixtures require a low temperature for cooking. Too high a temperature is likely to cause curdling.
4. When making pie crust, have the ingredients as cold as possible.
5. When egg white is added to a batter, it should be beaten until it is stiff but not dry, and folded lightly into the batter.

The recipes below will give you excellent results, in spite of the fact that they seem somewhat contradictory. But remember that the methods have been developed for these particular recipes, and they may not work if applied to any other.

Grandmother's Ginger Bread.

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 cup molasses
- 2 1/2 cups flour
- 2 eggs (beaten)
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon cloves
- 1/2 teaspoon ginger
- 2 teaspoons soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup hot water

Sift together all dry ingredients including sugar. Combine eggs, molasses and hot water in which shortening has been melted, and add to sifted mixture. Beat for 3 minutes. Bake in 350-degree oven for 45 minutes. Remove by 9-inch pan.

Hot Water Pastry.

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup boiling water
- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder

Place shortening in a warm bowl, pour boiling water over it, and cream thoroughly with a fork. Place flour (measured after sifting once), salt, and baking powder in flour sieve and sift gradually into the creamed shortening and water mixture. Mix thoroughly. Make up

How true it is that the sauce can make or mar a dish, whether that dish is a cheese souffle or a cottage pudding!

In this column next week Eleanor Howe will give you some of her own favorite recipes for sauces of many kinds—sharp tangy sauces for meat or fish, a smooth, mellow sauce to serve with souffles and sauces for ice cream and pudding, too.

into a dough ball and chill thoroughly. Roll out and arrange in pie tin. Prick well. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) for approximately 12 minutes.

Custard Pie

- 2 cups milk
- 3 eggs
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 5 tablespoons sugar

Scald milk. Beat the eggs light, add sugar and salt, and mix carefully. Add scalded milk. Strain into a well-greased pie pan and bake in a slow oven (300 degrees Fahrenheit) for about 40 minutes, or until custard is firm. Bake a one-crust pastry shell in a second pie tin exactly the same size as that used for the custard pie. When the custard and baked pie shell are both thoroughly cooled, gently slip the custard pie into the pie shell just before serving. Note: This eliminates the soggy pie crust so often found in custard pies.

Jiffy Cake With Self Feing.

- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon flavoring extract
- 1 1/2 cups flour (cake flour preferred)
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Soften the butter by creaming. Then add sugar, unbeaten eggs, milk, flavoring extract, and the dry ingredients which have been sifted together. With a rotary beater or electric mixer, beat for 2 to 3 minutes, or until the batter is light and very smooth. Pour into greased pan 8 by 8 by 2 inches square, and cover evenly with the following mixture:

- 1/2 cup sweet chocolate (grated)
- 1/2 cup nut meats (cut fine)
- Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) for 35 to 40 minutes.

Maple Syrup Muffins.

- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup maple syrup
- 1/2 cup butter (melted)
- 2 cups flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Beat egg until very light and blend with milk, syrup and melted butter. Sift dry ingredients and add to first mixture. Blend until the batter is smooth. Pour into greased muffin pans and bake in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees) for about 20 minutes.

Properly Concentrated Light Important

ELIZABETH MACRAE BOYTON There will be light on a dark subject if we list to the lamp manufacturers this season. For they have brought out several revolutionary ideas in home lighting; notably there is the polaroid lamp that is now on the market providing a marvelously diffused yet properly concentrated light that embodies a new principle of lighting. In addition, we may expect to see more indirect lighting units, achieved by separate reflector lamps as well as by built-in ceiling lamps.

But just plain table lamps are undergoing many style changes, too. In the first place, they will be much larger in scale and hence far more utilitarian than the dinky little numbers that have cluttered up the scene for too long. Then there will be more versatility in base designs. In place of the plain columns or vases that have been used for lamp bases, there will be a great many unusual architectural details used for bases—Greek colonnades or capitals, masks and reproductions of stone grotesques will be seen as sophisticated lamp bases. Modern wooden columns of tall graceful form will be seen, frequently in dark finishes and sometimes touched with gold.

As for shades, you may look for beige and fawn colors to be of popular importance with moires and stripes as high fashion notes. There is a revival of fancier shades such as those finished with frayed full ruffs of silk, and fringes looped in swags around the shade will continue to be used. Be prepared also for hoop skirted effects and furled bows galore if you can take them. Opaque shades in the dark colors or in metallic papers are decorator preferences and some of these are often seen in such colors as deep olive greens, browns and dusky blacks, always with a white lining. Marbled papers, like those used for lining the covers of old books, are terribly smart for lamp shades. (Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

Kathleen Norris Says: Was the Old Idea of Permanent Marriage Better?

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

A woman friend of mine, living in lonely exile from her own land, had to endure the presence of a beautiful dancer in her own home.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS THE great disadvantage of a civilization that permits quick and easy divorces is that no woman can be sure of her husband any more, no man sure of his wife, and no home feel itself safe.

That is the fact, from a purely practical point of view. The moral considerations, affecting the young men and women take, "for better or for worse," I leave to the theologians. I am merely thinking here that divorce does unsettle the mind of husband and wife. If there were no divorce things would go differently in the family circle. But as it is today no matter how determined the woman is to make her marriage a success; no matter how anxious the man is to have his home one of the happy homes of the world, there is always this in the back of the thoughts of each: "And if it simply won't work, there's divorce."

In the old days there was much abuse of a situation that offered no doorway of escape. No question of "Some men were bullies at home, bad fathers, bad providers, unfaithful. Wives had no redress. They bore the children and they bore with the children's father in uncomplaining martyrdom, year after year. A friend of mine who married a foreigner, 30 years ago, lived in far and lonely exile from her own land, and had to endure the presence of a beautiful dancer, a chorus girl, in her own home, as her husband's mistress. When he went on a pleasant trip, on his yacht or behind his span of dashing horses, the dancer went, too. When the mistress objected to the noise the children made, the two smallest ones were sent away to a country nurse.

Injustice like this made the life of many a faithful wife and devoted mother insufferable. Only two generations ago a father could order grown daughters suppress to their rooms, could forbid their marrying this man or that, could keep them—in most cases did keep them—idle at home, penniless, dependent, all their days. It came to the 11 Barrett children by slow degrees, some 60 years ago, that their father didn't intend any one of them to have any love affairs whatsoever. Girl after girl and boy after boy meekly surrendered all hope of love and marriage because papa so ordered it.

The Natural Reaction. Modern marriage, with its quick divorces, its resulting independence and alimony, is the natural reaction to this unnatural situation. Girls painfully have fought their way to independence and freedom, and if that freedom is being abused in its turn perhaps that is only the swing of a pendulum that will presently right itself. Certainly a husband who is infinitely more reasonable, considerate and faithful than a husband had to be a few generations ago, when anything he did was performed by that helpless companion, who was always and forever, to the end of the chapter, until death actually did him part from her—his wife.

But today's way means that any attractive woman, perhaps with two or three unsuccessful marital experiences behind her, can pick upon any desirable mate, and even though he be at the time happily married and with two or three small children, can do her best to win him away from his wife and family and into her own. And society, not to be too flagrantly inconsistent, must stand by and approve. Unless high moral conviction, the influence of religion, or character save him, he may be drawn away by slow degrees, knowing all the time, as his wife knows, that the woman knows, that a brief six weeks stay in Reno will suffice to free him for the intoxications of the new experiment.

"My life is made completely wretched by jealous anxieties," writes a woman from Columbus, Ohio. "I've fought it, I've prayed about it, but with every fresh instance of my husband's attractiveness to women and their feeling for him, I am down in the depths again. He likes to flirt; he is continually involved in an affair with some fascinating woman. He writes them delightful notes; meets them for lunch, makes them little presents, but refuses to open his mouth to me on the subject.

"With the help of a young boy I do my own work in an eight-room house," the letter goes on. "We have two small children, vegetable garden, chickens, and I love every inch of it. I love my kitchen, my piano, my books, my room. Why should all this that I have built up be jeopardized by the selfishness of casual outsiders, who at best take him away from us, waste his money, and put us into a false position, and at worst may lead any day to his asking me to set him free. I suppose it would be silly to say that in spite of all this I love him, but I do love him, love other sides of his nature which are more dependable, and I suffer a continual sense of inferiority and helplessness very hard to bear."

A Vain Boy at Heart. This husband, and hundreds like him, is a type of the man who grows up in a business sense, and in some ways in a mental sense, but who remains a vain boy at heart. He is as tickled today, at 34, with the artless flatteries of new women acquaintances, as he was 15 years ago. He doesn't want to hold his own in a real world, where friendships, books, home, garden, children and birthdays fill his leisure hours.

He doesn't realize that the quiet companionship of the woman who has loved him all these years is real, and that the feelings he thinks he has for the other woman are self-deception. He hasn't sense enough in matters of the heart to look about him at the men who have married, the objects of their "grande passion," only to be bored and disillusioned after a few years. And he isn't bright enough, or his mother didn't train him thoroughly enough to know that the only sure path to comfort and happiness in middle age is to learn to live the hard married years in faithfulness and real joy and content, taking their kind joys and richness in place of the younger excitement and flatteries of the moment.

THE CONTINUING TASK

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 28:16-20. GOLDEN TEXT—Ye shall be witnesses unto me . . . unto the uttermost part of the earth.—Acts 1:8.

World—Conquest! The dream of dictators and of national leaders down through the ages is to be accomplished, for there is One who has the authority to claim such a place of leadership who will one day rule, for then "the kingdoms of this world" will have become "the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and He shall reign for ever and ever" (Rev. 11:15). While we await His coming to take the throne are we to sit idly by? No indeed, for even now Christ has all authority and He has commissioned His followers to go out and to serve Him in all the world by making disciples in every nation.

I. The Obedient Disciples (vv. 16, 17). The Lord never fails to keep His Word, but often His followers miss great blessing because they fail to keep their appointments with Him. He had told His disciples that after His resurrection He would meet them in Galilee, and we read that they met Him at the appointed place. One trembles to think of what they and we might have missed if they had failed to meet Him.

His promise to us is just as true and definite. "Where two or three are gathered in my name, there am I in the midst of them" (Matt. 18:20) applies to us today. If we meet Him at the appointed place, blessing will come to us and will flow out through us to all the world.

Observe that "some doubted," that is, they were perplexed and uncertain about the risen Saviour. If they persisted in their lack of faith we know that it must have shut them out of a great blessing, but at the same time it did not hinder the Lord's gracious ministry to His other disciples.

II. The All-Powerful Leader (v. 18).

Quietly and without any fanfare, Jesus announced that all power was given unto Him; or as the Revised Version more appropriately translates the word, "all authority." He does have all power, but He has more. He has the supreme authority which gives Him the right to rule over the entire creation, heaven and earth, spiritual as well as material.

No man in his right mind has ever laid claim to authority over even so much as the earth, but here is One who believes it possible, or as the Revised Version more appropriately translates the word, "all authority." He does have all power, but He has more. He has the supreme authority which gives Him the right to rule over the entire creation, heaven and earth, spiritual as well as material.

III. The Great Commission (vv. 19, 20a). "It is the sublimest of all spectacles to see the risen Christ without money or army or state, charging this band of 500 men and women with world conquest and bringing them to believe it possible, or as the Revised Version more appropriately translates the word, "all authority." He does have all power, but He has more. He has the supreme authority which gives Him the right to rule over the entire creation, heaven and earth, spiritual as well as material.

Such a ministry will inevitably be a teaching ministry. "Faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God" (Rom. 10:17). How foolish is the preacher or evangelist who fails to teach the Word of God. It is His appointed method which cannot fail. Christian baptism is also a vital part of the Great Commission.

It was first practiced at Pentecost (Acts 2) and later in the Church (Acts 8 and 10).

IV. The Abiding Presence (v. 20b).

There is no other statement of fact (where it is more than a promise) anywhere or by anyone that can compare with the assurance of Christ that He is with His witnesses always, even unto the end of the age.

Consider first of all who is to be with us, namely, the Son of God, the risen Christ, the One with all authority in heaven and earth! Then consider the way in which His disciples "always." How important that is, for as we well know, the inspiration of even the greatest human leader largely goes with him to the grave. The Lord Jesus, on the other hand, is with each one of His children always. What assurance that fact brings to His witnesses for Christ as he gives himself joyfully to the carrying out of the Great Commission!

Wolves in Sheep's Clothing Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravenous wolves.—Matthew 7:15.

Crown of Righteousness Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day.—II Timothy 4:8.

Be Swift and Slow Be swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath.—James 1:19.

THERE are two styles that you know right now you'll need, even if your Spring wardrobe is not entirely settled in your own mind! During the months to come, you'll want several free-and-easy sleeveless tennis frocks; and even before that, you'll want at least one "little suit" for street and runabout. Well, here they both are, in this truly money-saving pattern (8597). The tennis frock has a swing skirt, wide, inset belt and strap back. Add the pinch-waisted little jacket-blouse (the fitting is all by means of easy darts) and there's your suit-frock.

What's more, you can make the jacket-blouse two ways—with scaled sleeves and neckline, and with a naive, round collar. So you can see what a help this clever pattern will be! Perfect for summertime in sports cottons, it will be very smart for right now in silk print, the silk or flat crepe.

Pattern No. 8597 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 requires 2 1/2 yards of 39-inch material for frock; 1 1/2 yards for jacket-blouse; 3 yards trimming. Send order to:

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Keep brass articles from tarnishing by covering them with a thin coat of clear varnish. The varnish will form a lacquer which will not wear off unless the brass is handled frequently.

Serve waffles as soon as they are baked. If they are allowed to stand they are apt to become tough. Never stack them, since stacking makes them soggy.

To clean gas stove burners boil them in a strong solution of washing soda and water for about half an hour. This will remove all the grease. Rinse thoroughly, dry and put back into the stove.

Hotbeds are coldframes with heat added. This may be from animal manure, hot water or electricity. The difference between the two is the presence of the heating unit.

The juice in apple and berry pies runs over because the oven is too hot. Turn down the gas and let the pies cook slowly after the crust has begun to brown.

Before washing a dark dress, baste around the edges of the stains with white cotton. In this way one is sure of removing all the soiled parts which otherwise are difficult to detect when the garment is wet.

GENERAL HUGH S. JOHNSON Says:

ARMY ILL EQUIPPED

There is a smell in the Washington air of something like a complete disembowelment of the army defense program by a congressional refusal to provide funds to carry it out.

The navy will get by partly because the President regards himself as a navy man and doesn't pay much attention to the army, and partly because Jimmy Byrnes is in charge of the navy's needs in the senate and is man enough to see that they don't go by default.

But the army has never been so adept at handling congressional committees. Its topside isn't altogether out of the doghouse with the administration and with congress and it hasn't any outstanding congressional champion to present and insist upon its case. Even the presentation of the case to the country has been bad. There have been too many speeches assuring us that the army is coming along satisfactorily in its modernization program and that there is nothing to fear.

The fact is that it isn't coming along as fast as a snail's pace and that if the Caspar Milqetoast requests it has made for money to make it come a little faster are slashed, it could be a major catastrophe.

It is reorganizing in modern streamlined divisions to be entirely motorized with new rapid-fire equipment and with many of the men behind steel shields. The war in Europe is proving that with this kind of organization and equipment, far fewer men are needed, those who are used are much better protected from death or injury, and the great speed, range and mobility will enable a few men to defend a far greater area than was ever before thought possible.

This is a vital consideration in our military problem. Our principal danger is swift and unexpected raids. From an expense angle alone, we could not defend our vast stretches of coast and territory with fixed or slow forces. We couldn't do it with what we have. We can only be sure of doing it by what we propose to get. On other problems it is to be able by an expeditionary force to repel or break up any hostile lodgment in Latin America. In view of the armament of other countries, both of these problems absolutely require such an army as I have described. Until we get it, our defenses will be woefully weak.

We don't need a big army, but we need a small one that can move fast and hit hard over the widest area that any nation has to defend. Now you can't do a half-way job on this. A motorized army has to be motorized all the way. It is tied to the speed of its slowest unit. It is an integrated whole and if part of it isn't high speed, the rest of it might as well not be. Furthermore, if you streamline your divisions on the theory that you will make up for the loss of men by armor and automatic weapons of vastly increased power and then don't provide the weapons, you have cut your defensive power in half—or worse.

It seems to me that we are making exactly this mistake right now even with the program as it is. If the appropriations are cut, I am absolutely certain that we shall make it.

It is not an exaggeration to say that we have no usable army now. With the world at its most dangerous worst, we may be caught changing our clothes and so—very literally—with our pants down.

I don't like the air of secrecy that covers hearings on our military committees. They do not make sense. Foreign nations know all about this condition. The people who have the right to know about it—precisely and exactly—are the people of the United States. They know precious little and what they know is largely wrong. Perhaps if they knew more, we might get some action.

HOW MANY ARE IDLE?
There is a big tirade in the columnists' parade. Are there 10,000,000 unemployed—or only about 2,000,000?

It isn't necessarily a case of "figures don't lie—liars figure," but of assumption which you apply to get your result. That is a question of judgment, and here the wish is often father to the thought and difference in wish and thought can make differences of millions in result.

Federal figures on the shifting and infinitely intricate problem of unemployment are practically as worthless as a Gallup poll on a third term for Mr. Roosevelt.

Why does the federal government want to know? Principally to measure the problem of relief.

That is both an intricate and an intimate problem. It is far too large and too much affected by local complexities to be approached or administered on a national scale.

But there isn't a town or community in this country that cannot gauge its problem of adequate local relief with far more equity, humanity and accuracy than these shotgun and partly self-serving estimates of Washington pump primers—or of their opponents.

It is objected to the local approach that the local authorities will exaggerate their need for the sake of larger handouts. If they could do that more expertly than the federal authorities have done it for the sake of a larger patronage and power for the purse to control local affairs, they would have to be good. But there is a complete offset to that. If the localities had to carry on half the load themselves, it would be a remarkable clog on that tendency.

Our past system of relief has been extravagant, wasteful, incompetent.

two keys to a cabin by Lida Larrimore

© MACKAY SMITH—WNU SERVICE

SYNOPSIS

Charming, wealthy Gabriella (Gay for short) Graham, engaged to Todd Janeway, returns to a cabin in the Maine woods according to a plan of her father, Uncle John Lawrence. The two girls notice that someone is living in the cabin. Kate suspects that John knows the identity of the mysterious occupant. The mystery man returns. He is John Houghton, a young doctor whom Gay had known in previous years. Immediately aggressive, Gay asks him by what right he is in the cabin. His right, she finds, is greater than her own. He, too, possesses a key, but more than that, is heir to it from his Uncle John, Gay's godfather. Gay is high handed with him, and he states curtly that he will leave.

"I had no thought of finding you, John," said Gay.

"I know that." He had, she thought, interpreted her statement as a rebuff. The smile vanished. "I'm sorry to be a—complication. He was a complication. He had been a complication since the night they'd driven together through Central Park, before that, even, since the summer here at the lake. She realized, now, how largely he'd been responsible for her dissatisfaction, her restlessness, her uncertainty concerning her approaching marriage to Todd. A complication? That was too unimportant a word. Looking at John, silent and unapproachable in the doorway, feeling his presence here in every tingling nerve, with every racing heartbeat, Gay knew she had found the answer to troubling questions. He was necessary to her, had always been, since she was fifteen years old. Todd was not a necessity. It was as simple, as hopelessly, frighteningly involved as that.

CHAPTER III

He'd have to clear out. He'd have to clear out, now, tonight, before he saw her again. John walked, restless, in long plunging strides, along the rutted clay-shed road. The excitement was less important than what was certain to happen to him if he remained at the cabin. He'd fought that battle twice before, and he had no intention of exposing himself to the necessity of fighting it again.

But wasn't that necessity already upon him? He'd wondered how he would feel if, by chance, he should meet her again. Chance, assisted by Uncle John, had given him that knowledge. He felt as he'd felt when they parted six years ago. There was something between them which time and separation had not altered, more vital than it had been three years, six years ago, because they were more mature, now, more emotionally aware.

Not that he hadn't been emotionally aware of her that summer she'd spent at the cabin with Uncle John. He should have cleared out then, he told himself a trifle grimly, instead of prolonging what he had intended to be a week-end visit into a stay of three weeks.

He should have left before the day she'd turned her ankle walking with him through the woods and he'd carried her to the cabin in his arms. After that nothing could have induced him to leave. He remembered with a feeling of tenderness for the innocent ardor of their relationship which resentment could not efface, the week which had followed. He remembered saying good-by to her at the station in Machias, straining for a last glimpse of her face, young and defenseless in the transient grief of parting, tears glittering on her lashes, her wide sweetly curved mouth trembling in an effort to smile. "I'll see you soon, John," she'd said, clinging to his hand as they stood together in the vestibule of the train. And, sustained by his presence, too much in love with her to reason or question, "Yes, very soon," he'd replied.

But he had not seen her again until he'd gone with Uncle John to New York for her debutante party. Her mother had taken her abroad that fall after her summer here. She'd written to him at lengthening intervals during the first year, from Geneva where she was in school, from various points on the French Riviera when her vacations permitted opportunities for travel. He'd been relieved when the letters stopped coming, glad that he had been on a canoe trip in Canada when, nearly two years later, the cablegram announcing her return to America had arrived, glad, too, though he'd watched the mail for weeks, that she had not answered his formal note of apology and explanation. It had been easier, then, to close a door in his mind, for reason, during long hours of logical if rebellious thought, had convinced him that the door must be closed and locked and the key thrown away.

The key? John turned, realizing that he had reached the village. Why had Uncle John made that gesture? he wondered, walking more slowly back toward the cabin. He'd known, of course, of that young attachment between himself and Gay. It probably hadn't been difficult for Uncle John to read his thoughts the morning after the party in New York when he, John, had insisted, stubbornly and not very considerably, that they return to Cambridge at once. And Uncle John loved Gay. He had for her a deeper affection, perhaps, than for anyone in the world except him.

But Uncle John should have foreseen, he thought irritably, that nothing of lasting value could come of that attachment. He was romantic, idealistic, in the way of his generation, but he was neither sentimental nor impractical. He must have seen that, if John, and Gabriella Graham lived in different worlds, that each would be a stranger in the atmosphere familiar to the other. Perhaps though, the thought continued, when you were dying, such things as wealth or a lack of it, the differences in viewpoint which wealth engendered, the distinctions and antagonisms it raised seemed relatively unimportant. Uncle John had known he hadn't long to live when they'd gone to New York. Perhaps during the following weeks, when his grasp on living had loosened, some wisdom had come to him which, by the gesture, he had attempted to communicate to them.

Perhaps—but the wisdom which might come with death was, now, of no practical value. He and Gay had, in all probability, a great deal of living to do. Their divergent courses were charted, had been determined, he supposed, long before they met here at the lake. That meeting was accidental and had no influence upon the direction of their separate lives. He was going to Portland to take over Dr. Sargeant's practice for a year in payment for loans which had enabled him to complete his medical course at Harvard. After that, if he could manage to support himself, he was going on with scientific research. There were before him years of work which he loved, of loneliness which he accepted. Gay was to marry Todd Janeway—

He had not allowed himself to think of that until now. His thoughts had moved warily, dodging that painful fact. But it must be faced, squarely and honestly. The fact must be accepted and removed from his mind. He'd known, of course, almost as soon as the engagement had been announced. He'd thought he had accepted it. He'd been able, during the summer, to look at cameras poses of Gay and Todd Janeway with interest not too intolerably mixed with pain. There had been a great many of them. It would be an important wedding. Todd Janeway was connected with the private bank in New York of which his father was president. The Janeway estate on the Hudson adjoined "Dumelin," the Graham estate. It was all eminently suitable, he supposed. He'd met young Janeway at Gay's party and had been impressed with his friendly manner and blond good looks. Oh, yes, it was all eminently suitable, Gay's destiny, determined at her birth, an eventuality which no chance meeting could alter or efface.

"You're being pretty stuffy about this, aren't you?" she asked.

The cigarette he had lit and neglected had burned his fingers. The smart of physical pain routed memories, brought him abruptly to his senses. What he'd been thinking was madness. Uncle John had not intended them to have a stolen week together, hidden away in the woods. And he'd been presumptuous in assuming that Gay had any such thought or desire. Besides, there was Miss Oliver—

No, not too presumptuous, reverting to Gay's possible thought and desire. He'd seen the expression in her eyes when she'd looked at him through the lamplight. There was no sane middle-course of friendship for them. At a word, a gesture, the antagonism which was their safeguard would melt and with more far-reaching consequences, now, perhaps, than in the past, since now they met as a man and a woman and would never meet again.

His resolution wavered as he opened the door into the kitchen. Knowing that she was there seemed to give the door she had opened an especial significance. He felt her presence in the atmosphere of the kitchen and more materially in the perfume that filled the air with a fading scent. A light burned in the living-room. He would not go in there. He passed the door with his face averted. And then he heard her voice calling his name. He turned, disconcerted, incensed at having his resolution so unexpectedly frustrated, immensely and joyfully relieved.

"Hello," he said from the doorway. "I thought you were asleep."

"I am—almost." She sat curled against heaped cushions in a corner of the couch beside the hearth. She wore a soft white woolen robe fastened close up around her throat with long sleeves and a cord knotted about her waist. The light from the lamp fell upon her loosened mop of red-brown hair, lay warmly against the curve of her cheek. She smiled up at him drowsily, an overtone of friendliness in her long very deep blue eyes.

"You should be in bed." He walked to the fireplace in which a log she had evidently placed there burned above a bed of embers. "Are you warm enough? It's cool here at night."

"It's heavenly. New York has been a blazing furnace."

"The papers report a heat wave." He bent over the log on the andiron, making a clattering noise with the tongs.

"It's been really dreadful."

"So I've understood."

She laughed suddenly, disarmingly. "Must we talk about the weather?" she asked.

He rose to a standing position, stood looking down at her, unable to resist the appeal of her smile. "You suggest a subject," he said. "I'm afraid I lugged in the heat-wave."

The smile slowly vanished. "I've been thinking of Uncle John," she said. "It was terribly sorry not to have come for his funeral."

"It was pretty ghastly. The college turned out. You were fortunate to have escaped it."

"But I would have come. I was in Bermuda."

"Yes, I know." He walked to the side of the hearth opposite to the couch, rested his elbow on the low stone shelf, stood looking down at her through the smoke of his cigarette. "You wrote me."

"Dad cabled. I couldn't have made it. Her eyes moved slowly, a little sadly around the room. "It's strange to be here without him."

"I've become accustomed to it. I've been here half a dozen times in the past three years."

"Kate told me I shouldn't have assumed that he left me this." Reviving humor glinted between her thick dark lashes. "She pointed out a few things I'd overlooked, that there would have been a deed, a transfer of property, tax bills."

"Uncle John's estate pays the taxes. There has been a transfer of property. The estate—there's a very little—is held in trust for my mother during her life-time. At her death it reverts to my sisters and to me."

"Then I am—intruding?" she said uncertainly. "The cabin is—yours?"

"Not entirely, apparently. Not for an uncertain number of years."

"I've been wondering, that's why I waited up to talk to you. I'm afraid you've been bearing some expense which I should have shared. After all, my option—is that the word?—should entail responsibility as well as create privilege. Do I owe you anything?"

"Certainly not," he said a trifle brusquely.

"But the expense of taxes and upkeep must cut into your mother's income," she persisted.

"There's a special fund for the maintenance of the property."

"But that's hardly fair, is it?" she asked impulsively. "That fund might be added to your mother's income if some other arrangement was made. Why can't I help? If Uncle John intended me to have the privilege of coming here whenever I like, certainly you shouldn't object to my sharing the expense."

"That's quite unnecessary," he said stiffly and saw her expression change. She had, he knew, interpreted the words, the tone of his voice, as a rebuff. And rightly, too, he thought in bitter self-reproach. Her offer had been fair and generous. Why couldn't he have accepted it in the spirit in which it was made?

Presently, with a gesture which expressed some thought completed, some course of action determined, she dropped the fringed end of the cord. As he watched her, still broodingly silent, she rose from the couch, composed, lovely, remote.

"Then I shall be obliged to stay as your guest," she said and walked toward the closed door into the room she was to share with Kate.

"You win again, Gay." Strange that it was less difficult to renew his resolution now that he realized he'd been a presumptuous fool. Odd that now, when her manner expressed indifference, he was impatient to go. "I won't be here. I'm leaving—"

But flinging off at this hour was unnecessarily dramatic and so he added, "—tomorrow."

"You're being pretty—stuffy about this, aren't you?" she asked.

"Possibly." The knowledge of what he had seen in her face was sustaining. He felt himself relaxing as though, by some agency, a strain had been relieved. "Worse than that," he continued responding to the humor and the friendliness in her smile. "I'm going, I've been, unparadoxically rude."

"You have," she agreed cheerfully. "I understand, though. The shock was, is, mutual. We've neither of us behaved very well. Let's not make—decisions tonight."

"But my decision is made."

He knew that his voice lacked conviction. He saw her smile widen and deepen.

She appeared to be satisfied. "Shocks are wearing," she said. "I'm going to get some sleep."

"You'd better. You look all in."

"Thank you. Aren't you afraid you'll turn my head?" She stood smiling back over her shoulder, her hand on the knob of the door. "Good-night."

"Good-night. Pleasant dreams."

"I know I shall have them. Remember. No decisions. We'll draw Kate's straws—tomorrow."

Gay lay on the float in front of the cabin, her face buried in the hollow between her crossed arms. The sun shone warmly on her back and legs and the wind, ruffling her hair, was refreshingly cool. The float moved gently, rocked by waves which scurried before the wind across the surface of the lake. The warmth, the gentle motion, the whispering sound of the water, induced a state of drowsy contentment. She found it increasingly difficult to concentrate upon problems and eventualities that had been what she had gone there to do.

"You should be in bed." He walked to the fireplace in which a log she had evidently placed there burned above a bed of embers. "Are you warm enough? It's cool here at night."

KNOW TOPSOIL FOR EROSION CONTROL

Farmer Should Be Familiar With His Land.

By Dean I. O. Schaub of the North Carolina College of Agriculture Service.

It's hard for a farmer to adopt the kind of erosion control practices that would be most effective on his land unless he knows what type of soil covers his fields.

He needs to consider the thickness and texture of the topsoil and also the subsoil underneath. He needs to consider the slope of the land over each field, how badly the soil tends to erode and how much soil has been washed away already.

In some sections so much topsoil has been washed away that the farmers on it have to eke out a living as best they can by virtually tilling the subsoil.

There are soils being cultivated that are better suited to making brick than to producing crops.

Within a single field there may be big differences in the type of soil found in various places. Or differences in the slope over a field cause it to be badly eroded in some places while in others there is still a fairly good layer of topsoil.

The badly eroded places should be retired to thick-growing cover crops, but the more level places may still be good for careful farming.

A striking example of differences in soil may be gained by examining the topsoil on a place where row crops have been grown for a long time, then compare it with the thick, spongy soil in a wooded area nearby.

A careful study of the soil on each farm has proved one of the most important steps in the "whole-farm" method of controlling erosion now being demonstrated in erosion control areas.

Buff Turkey Not Among Recognized Varieties

Whether or not the Buff turkey has become extinct, it has evidently lost its place in official recognition as a variety. The present standard recognizes six varieties, among which the Buff does not appear. A Department of Agriculture publication of something over 30 years ago, while recognizing the Buff as a variety, says of it that it is not generally known throughout the country and, in many localities, is almost unknown.

The standard calls for a pure buff color throughout, says this publication, but this shade of coloring is seldom seen. "As bred for market, these turkeys are of a reddish buff or light chestnut color, mixed with white and some dark shadings." It would seem very likely that this variety has become merged with the Bourbon Red of similar colorings and its identity lost. It may be that some may still be able to offer pure golden yellow turkeys of the old Buff variety but the chances are, says a writer in the Rural New Yorker, that the offering would be what has been found before, Buff Bourbon Reds. Here would appear an opportunity to back-track to an old and lost variety and make it of such distinction as to call for favorable recognition.

Oats as Hog Feed

Farmers may profitably use a part of the 1937 near-record crop of oats to take advantage of high hog prices, according to authorities of the animal husbandry department of the college of agriculture at the University of Illinois. Oats may be fed to fattening swine to the extent of nearly half the ration without appreciably decreasing the rate of gain of pigs. Based on 17 different feeding trials involving more than 1,290 pigs, oats when fed with corn and supplement did not slow down the rate of gain unless they made up almost half of the ration.

Farm Notes

There are usually 10 eggs to a pound.

Turkeys have been known as guinea hens and cocks of India.

Flour makes up 87 per cent of the weight of the average loaf of bread.

"Large" eggs, so labeled, must weigh 24 ounces a dozen, according to law.

Poultry experts estimate a pullet eats 25 to 27 pounds of feed before reaching maturity.

Agricultural authorities estimate 18,000,000 bushels of apples are destroyed annually in the United States by the codling moth.

Only those pullets that are well-grown, well-fleshed, well-pigmented, and free from disease are profitable.

Horses and cows and sheep must rely on their lips to gather grass or grain, and they can take in only a lipful at a time.

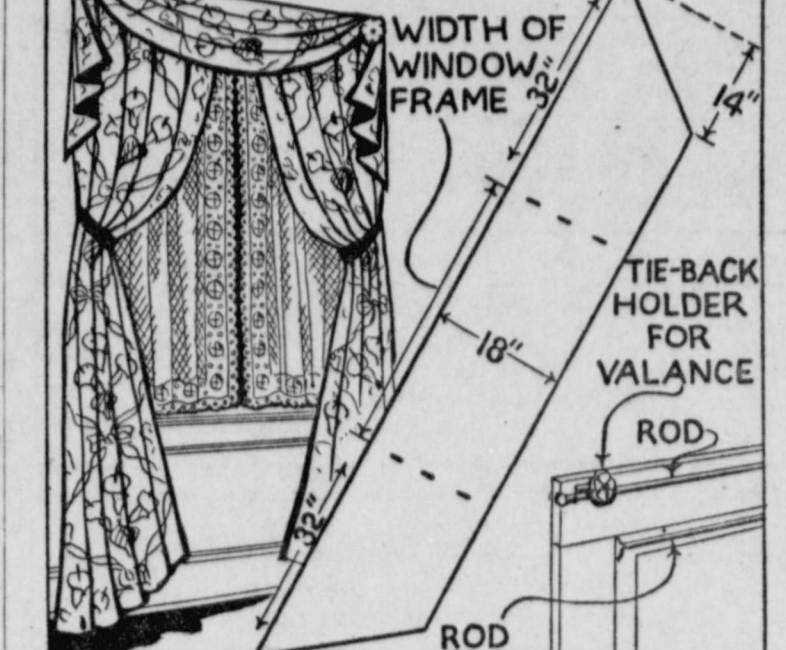

Hawks are valued by farmers of the Pacific Northwest because they kill ground squirrels.

Eggs whip to a larger volume and beat more rapidly if they are at room temperature than when they are chilled.

Prospects for the production of both cherries and peaches in 1938 indicate larger crops than were harvested in 1937. New trees coming into bearing are expected to more than offset losses.

HOW TO SEW

THAT lace curtains are in fashion again is news! This easy-to-make and easy-to-hang valance is something that many of you have been wanting. All the dimensions for cutting it are given here. The glass curtains are hung on the lower rod; the side drapes on the upper rod; and the valance is draped over knob holders.

The color plan for this window began with the glazed chintz drapery material in tones of green, beige and golden yellow. The darkest green—a soft olive tone, was used in sateen to line the valance and make the tie-backs. The brass holders for the valance repeated the golden yellow. The cream glass curtains toned into the drapery background, and a plain olive green window shade was used.

Music in Silence
Roused the Atlantic
High-Cost Injuries

Many Shinto festivals in Japan include a religious orchestra whose members only go through the motions of playing on their instruments and consequently, do not make a sound. This "music," which is directed toward the gods, is played silently because it is too sacred to be heard by human ears.

Since 1876, nine men have been known to cross the Atlantic ocean in rowboats. Six were in pairs, while the other three succeeded alone. The last one was Joseph Lawlor, who rowed from Boston to a small port in Spain in 1911.

Americans compose and copy-right 300 songs a week, but not more than 25 are ever published, including those printed by their writers for distribution to friends.

The largest settlement ever made on an automobile liability policy for a single accident was $225,000, which was paid a few months ago to a group of persons who were injured in a wreck of a station wagon on Long Island. Settlement was made without litigation.—Collier's.

That Was Just It: They Were All on the Chase!

Jones had finally mustered up enough courage to approach his boss for an increase, but his request had been received with stony silence. Jones thought he had better strengthen his case.

"You see, sir, the reason I'm asking for more money is because three other companies are after me," he explained.

The boss surveyed Jones from head to foot for a moment, then: "Indeed," he sneered. "And may I ask who they are?"

"Well, sir," replied Jones, "there's the gas company after me, and the coal company after me, and the company we got our furniture from."

Safety Consciousness

Various phases of safety will be discussed Monday, April 1, when Pierce Brooks, president of the Texas Safety Council, and Capt. Charles P. Lindsay of the Council's traffic department, visit with our local Safety Council.

Brooks will discuss the strides Texas has made in the last few years in the lessening of traffic accidents. The slogan of the Council to save one thousand lives during this year will be explained as entirely as possible through the three-fold program of the Council, hinging principally upon education and the cooperation of local committees throughout the State.

The work of the Council in the organization of Junior Patrols at the schools of the State will also be outlined by Brooks. These young men work in all weather conditions safely to escort their fellow-students across the streets and highways. Another important factor in the recent work of the Council has been the enlisting of the Mayors of Texas in the appointing of local safety committees. This already has been done in nearly 100 Texas towns and cities and Brooks expressed the opinion that practically all of them would be enlisted shortly.

"The Council is non-profit and non-commercial, therefore it must depend upon the civic spirit of the people for cooperation, and it is receiving that in unstinted measures," Brooks said.

This program is being presented before this and other organizations in the hope that we can contribute something toward the goal that has been set by our Council.

County Road Improvement

T. M. Smith of Colorado City, well known to a lot of Scurry County people, president of the Texas Rural Letter Carriers' Association, has an article in the February issue of the organization's official paper, The Texas Carrier, in which he advocates the allocation of one cent of the state gasoline tax to the respective counties for the improvement of county roads.

Scurry County people use the county roads, of the beaten trails of state and federal designated highways, by far more than they do the paved surfaces across the county. Records compiled by State Highway Department officials, in checks of traffic on the major highways converging at Snyder, that only about three cars passing checking points have been Scurry County vehicles.

The carrier official makes an argument for the proposal that is hard to meet. He points out that at least a fifth of the gasoline sold is used in traffic over the county roads, which seems a conservative estimate. He thinks that it is only just that a like proportion of the tax be used for improvement of these travel arteries. Is that any flaw with his argument?

Cut Fire Insurance Costs

Recent release by the State Fire Insurance Commission of fire insurance rates for cities and town of Texas bring to the minds of the people of Snyder the fact that we are paying a 24 per cent penalty imposed last year by virtue of the huge school fire two years ago. The penalty will probably be in effect for two more years to come.

Threatened increase of fire insurance costs for the state as a whole could be averted in Texas if every Texas city and town would take prevention measures, in the opinion of the State Fire Insurance Commissioner, Marvin Hall. Hall has warned that unless the steady increase in fire losses is halted, an increase in fire insurance costs is inevitable.

Fire prevention, he said, can be made a community project in every town and city by means of properly organized fire prevention boards. Duties of such a board are:

To secure an adequate and regular inspection of all mercantile, industrial and public buildings of the community.

To secure the investigation and prosecution of incendiarism with a view of securing the cooperation of the law enforcement agencies of the city and county.

To make a thorough study of local laws and ordinances on fire prevention and protection.

To make a survey of all public buildings as a check against fire and fire hazards.

To study the needs of the fire department and determine whether the equipment is sufficient in quantity and quality to cope with any blaze. (Snyder's equipment is already deemed inadequate.)

To study the water supply from a fire prevention standpoint.

To make a survey of traffic conditions to insure the rapid removal of apparatus to alarms.

To sponsor educational activities throughout the years; and to promote annual dwelling house inspections.

Nomination for the month's best alibi on an overtime parking charge was given last week by a woman motorist of Grand Rapids, Michigan. . . . When confronted by a hard-boiled police sergeant, the feminine driver said: "I parked my car and was in a store trying on a girdle. . . . The clerk zipped it up and then went to answer a phone. . . . I couldn't unzip the blooming thing, so there I was until she came back." . . . Needless to say, the case was promptly dismissed, without the city judge seeing the reason for dismissal written across the ticket.

Uncle Bob Marable says Scurry County is very much like McLennan County was when he first went to that county many years ago. Some of the farmers thought it was too drearily to raise corn in the county, many became dissatisfied, pulled up and left their homes and went back East. The same farms are now worth thousands of dollars.

The City Council in regular session had the occasion at their last meeting to discuss telephone service in Snyder and take steps to have the service improved. Manager Duckett has done everything he can to render good service, but the lines of improvement is a matter that needs the attention of the telephone company and certainly the attention of Snyder.

Bishop Temple of the diocese of West Texas was a distinguished visitor in Snyder last Sunday. He preached at the Grace Episcopal Church for the morning and night services.

It is generally understood and will probably be confirmed today that Governor James E. Ferguson will call a special session of the legislature, beginning April 26.

This being the case, Representative T. P. Baker and family will not return to Snyder until about June 1.

The March term of district court is now in session. Judge John B. Thomas, District Attorney James P. Stinson and Court Reporter James A. Hankerson arrived here early Monday morning.

The court put in the first two days hearing lawyers spar over demurrers and side issues. The celebrated Raleigh Medicine case had a prominent place on the calendar. A divorce case was the principal bill for Tuesday, with M. E. Rosser as attorney for the plaintiff and Higgins & Hamilton for defendant.

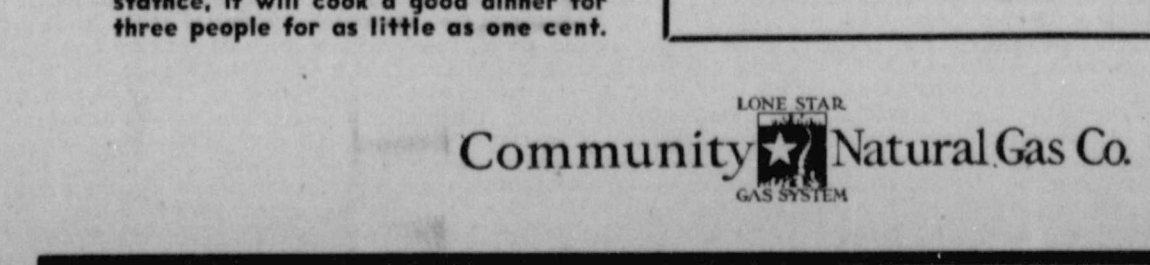

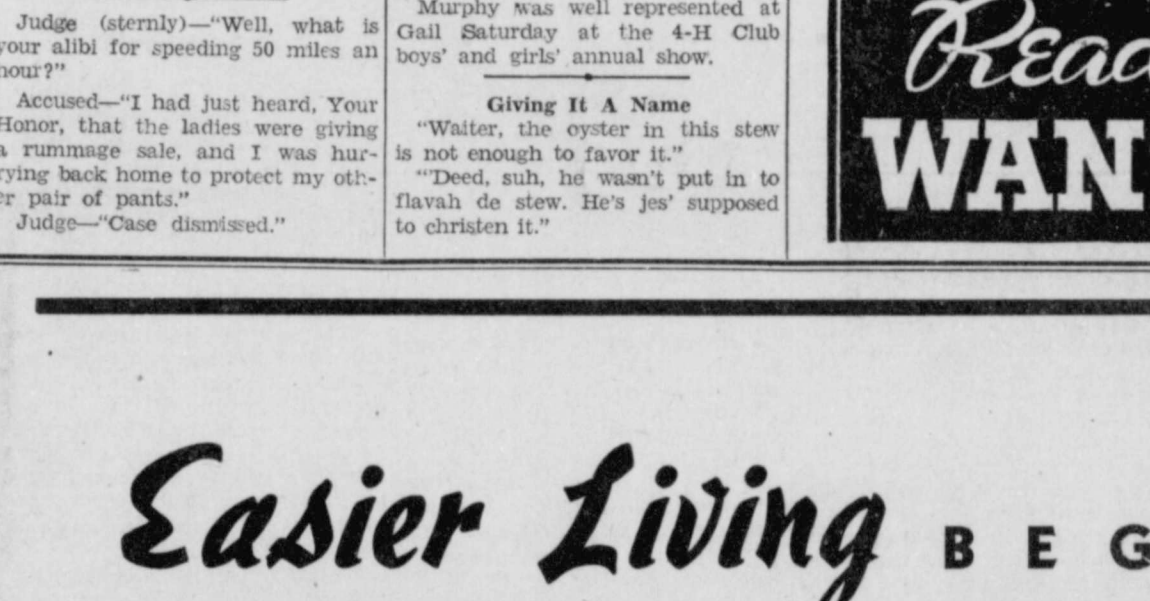

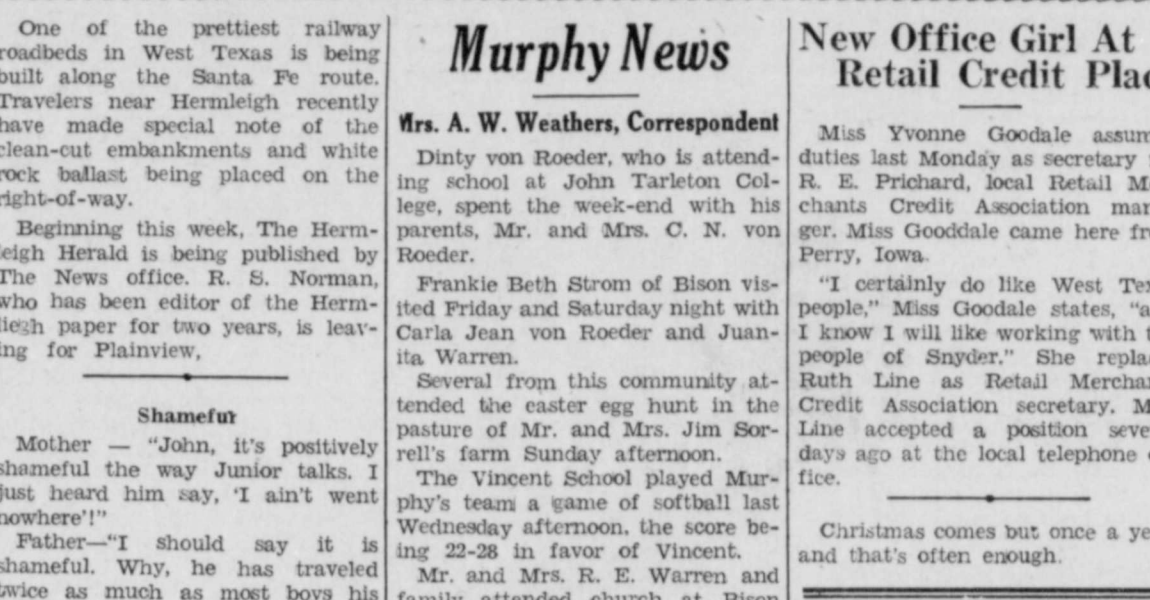

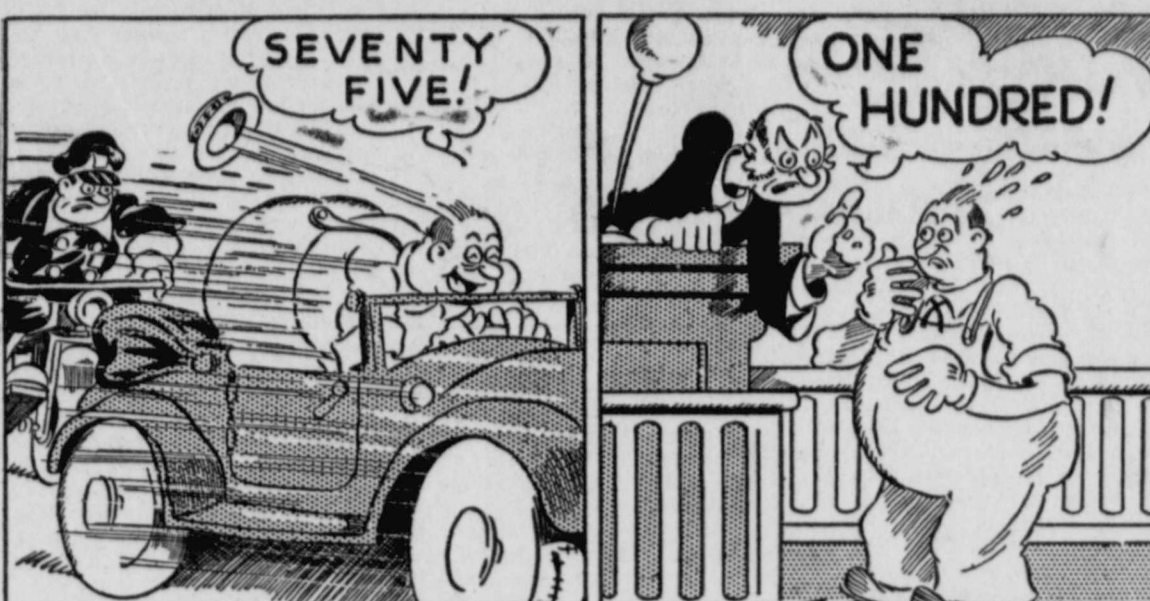

Our state House of Representatives has adopted the constitutional amendment resolution to have text books printed in the state. Also one to exempt cotton and woolen mills from taxation. The Senate has had a prolonged fight over the pipe line bill.
