Speaker Says High Prices Not of Farm

"Agriculture has been placed in an untrue position in the economic picture in some portions of the country, and being held responsible for the high cost of position," declared J. Walter Hammond of Tye president of the Texas Farm Bureau, principal speaker at the District 6 Farm Bureau conference in Snyder last Thursday.

"Actually, the farmer has little to do with most of the high food prices of today," Hammond continued, "since he receives such a small portion of the prices of finished food products." To illustrate his point, the Farm Bureau leader pointed out that wheat now is at practically the same price as it was two years ago, while bread has advanced several times during that period.

"With the exception of a few farm products, support prices have been less than the market prices for products," Hammond declared.

Attended by more than 300 farmers and other interested in the farm program, the meeting was one of 13 sectional sessions being held over Texas during October. Representatives were here from Tom Green, Nolan, Fisher, Scurry, Dawson, Midland, Mitchell, Glasscock, Concho

Coke and Borden Counties. At the morning session, which opened Thursday at 10:00 o'clock, Hammond explained the farm parit formula and its working. Senator Pat Bullock of Colorado City spoke at the morning meeting He declared that some lobbyists a government centers like Austin and Washington are beneficial, especially when they supply unbiased facts con-

Tigers Beat Roby In First Win for Season by 7 to 6

According to promise by Coach Tommy Beene, Snyder High School's Tiger football team joined the ranks of the winners Friday night when they trounced a hard-fighting Roby High School Lions crew. The fine core was 7 to 6.

As if to give the customers a thrill for their ticket money, the Tigers waited until the fourth quarter to ore the winning tauchdown an extra point. A roaring crowd of ans expressed their appreciation in uncertain terms, too.

The game was a non-conference ffair, with a former Class A oppon_ nt that always has put up a good ight against Snyder.

After a scoreless first quarter, the Lions took the lead in the second period when Aubrey Galon gallope ver from the five-yard stripe as a limax to a 65-yard drive down the field. Try for extra point failed.

Late in the fourth quarter Dort Keller, right tackle of the Tigers, plunged over from the two-yard sition for the Snyder score to tie up the ball game. Donald Jack Jones circled left end for the extra point that won the game. The touchdown was set up when Franklin (Woodsy) Woods recovered a Roby fumble of the 18-yard spot.

You Can't Swim the Mississippi with a Million Head of Cattle

The Mississippi River always has been the "continental divide" in the geography of the livestockmeat industry. In the old days the great herds of longhorns trailing north from Texas had many rivers to cross. The Red. The Canadian. The Big Blue. The but there was never a trail that ended east of the Father of Waters. The Mississippi was, and is, one river you couldn't swim with a million head of It's a staggering job to get the nation's meat from producer to consumer. Two-thirds of the meat animals are produced west of the Mississippi . . . twothirds of the meat is eaten east of it. On the average, meat has to be transported more than 1,000 miles It's a big job—a huge job. Just consider: in 1947 alone, this job of getting the nation's meat from the farm and range to the cooking range involved 32,158,000 beef animals, 24,044,000 sheep and lambs, 82,579,000 hogs!

Harvesting any national crop-from wheat to meat is a big job. Big machines are needed. Who uses binders when combines are more efficient? Similarly, in the processing and nationwide distribution of meat it takes large-scale, efficient "machinery." There's a need for all of us—producers and meat packers; shippers and marketing people; transportation lines; wholesalers and retailers. We all play a part—whether we are individuals or companies, whether we operate locally or on a nationwide basis.

Over Up years, we at Swift have worked to perfect our nation wide system of marketing. We, and 26,000 other communical slaughterers, provide a competitive cash market for your livestock. We buy your animals and dress them. We process and refrigerate them. Then, we distribute the meat to retail store men everywhere. (Our earnings for all these essential services are only a fraction of a cent a pound.) Because this big job is done efficiently, you producers are assured of markets . . . consumers everywhere are of our part in building the "1,000-mile bridge"; the "midge" which carries meat from the point of surplus production to the point of consumption. So long all America wants meat it will take efficient nationwide organizations to bridge that 1,000-mile gap.

Tally and Cull "Newcomers" in Breeding Ewe Flocks by Clair E. Terrill

United States Department of Agriculture

As you swing the cut gate, you can increase total salable lamb weightyour margin of profit. For here you can cull ewes that are barren in their Clair E. Terrill first lambing season. You can also cut out those unable to raise singles in their first lambing year. These ewes often get by on their appearance alone. For frequently they are heavier wooled and in better condition than nursing ewes. But they do not always pay their way. Recent research has proved that subsequent market lamb production from such dry ewes may not justify keeping them in efficient commercial breeding bands. Experiments with Columbia range ewes at the U. S. Sheep Experiment Station, Dubois, Idaho, established this fact. There is a definite relationship between the total weaning weight of lambs produced in the first year and in the three following years of lambing.

All ewes that twinned the first year, regardless of whether the lambs were raised, weaned 19 pounds more lamb weight in the three years of study than ewes that failed to lamb—five pounds more than ewes which did not rear their first single lamb. Ewes that dropped and raised singles had 16 pounds greater annual lamb yield thereafter than ewes which did not lamb. And ewes that did not rear their first lamb later and lamb and the same and the produced 14 pounds more lamb weight yearly than ewes which were barren their first lambing season. So, to increase efficiency in market lamb production, tally "newcomers" in ewe herds at breeding time. Then mark barren low-producing ewes for culling after the lan.bing season.

All That Glitters Isn't Profit

Government reports tell of farm and ranch income from livestock that totals more than 17 billion dollars. Many folks read those reports and say—"No wonder meat is so high. Livestock producers must be coining money. That is a thoughtless comment, based on mis-understanding. That 17 billion dollars is not profit -it is gross income. Many expenses must come out of your gross livestock income before you can make any profit on it. There's the cost of breeding-stock and feeding-stock . . . of your hired labor . . . of feed, machinery, equipment. All these costs are at all-time high levels. Out of your gross income those necessary business expenses, you're lucky if you end up with 10 or 15 per cent profit. A lot of people are just as wrong about Swift's profit as they are about yours. They look at our total sales of 2¼ billion dollars last year and say—"That's a barrel of money. No wonder meat is high!" But the fact is that competition in both buying and selling is so keen that from those 21/4 billion sales dollars an average of 79¢ went to pay you for your livestock. 10¢ for pay to our employes. 61/2 f for supplies and other necessary business costs. 3 f for taxes and transportation.

All we had left as earnings was 11/2 ¢. Yes, in our business, as in yours, there's a big difference between gross income and net profit!

Notes for $64,000 given to Hunter Strain of San Angelo in payment for the ranch after a down payment, were recently paid off by the council following a financial drive for funds as a year-round comping site for Boy Scouts of the 15-county council

The ceremony was held high up the canyon above the ranch house. Dusk was falling as the assemblage left the ranch house dining room and made its way up the canyon between sheer canyon walls rising a thousand feet above the rugged trail.

The moon, a bright yellow disk in the low eastern sky, bathed the canyon in its softly luminous glow as the group arrived at the site of the as yet unlighted council fire and found seats on long benches forming a half circle around it.

A Boy Scout attired as an Indian brave, his face streaked with ceremonial paint, a lighted torch in his right hand, ran swiftly along the trail and inside the council circle. He thrust the torch among the logs and, a moment later, flames leaped skyward to reveal six notes fluttering from the tips of six slender

Clyde Brenneman, past president and now a vice president of the to purchase and develop the ranch council, told the group that it had been his ambition for the 20 years he had been in Scouting to own a ranch. "Through popular subscription," he told the assemblage, "we have been able to obtain one. It your ranch for your boys."

> Jim Waddell of Kermit, finance chairman, outlined the history of the acquisition of the ranch. He spoke of the patience of the former owner of the ranch, Hunter Strain of San Angelo, during the early days of the campaign "Later," Waddeli said gratefully, "after the campaign was rolling, Hunter Strain told us that if we paid off the notes before the first of the year, he could not charge interest on the notes. This we did-and he kept his word.'

The ranch owns 20 burros, 22 horses, six saddles, 25 pack saddles tents, 80 single cots and a Studebaker truck.

The president and our Congress of no time in our history where a major price rise was ever halted by of a shortage of goods and a surplus of money and-as I recently explained - of various laws which Roosevelt had passed to force higher prices. Since 1940-41 the supply of money has outrun the supply of goods. People have needed or wanted things short on supply and have had the money, for the first time, to buy them. As buyers we have bid against one another for available goods. Hence, prices have

There are three fundamental things which we can do to help stop this inflationary spiral. If high prices and inflation are the result of (1) a shortage of goods and (2) a surplus of money and (3) New Deal legislation, then we should (1) increase our productivity along all fronts, (2) wait awhile for buying what we can now get along without, and (3) have Congress repeal the crazy laws it passed in 1932-34. Increased production has already broken the price rise in some commodities. A supply exceeding demand has already shown up along some manufacturing lines. Shortages still exist along such lines as steel and autos. But given time, greater balance in our economy will

Farmers in some areas were offering more freely, and mill buying increased somewhat for both prompt and forward delivery. Loan entries reported to CCC in the first week of October totaled about 226,400 bales and brought the total for the season through October 7 to 763,100

Cotton ginned prior to October 1 averaged lower in grade but longer in staple than ginnings to the same date a year ago.

Supply of upland cotton for the current season through September 30 totaled 8,295,000 bales against 6,294,-000 bales a year earlier. Picking and ginning made generally good progress in most sections of the belt, and ginning has about reached its peak in the central sections.

Prices for middling 15-16 inch cotton in the 10 spot markets averaged 31.14 cents per pound on last Thursday, October 14, compared with 31.24 cents week earlier and 31.58 a year ago. The movement of spot prices during the week was similar to that of other recent weeks. Price fluctuations were confined to a narrow range and the average spot price for the week ended Wednesday was 31.25 cents, the same a the previous week's average.

Spot market activity increased this freely than in other recent weeks. Offerings increased in the central section of the belt where merchants were reported to be offering freely at present prices. Mi inquiries were numerous, and sales were fairly heavy in the central area, but elsewhere buying activity was confined mostly to small lots for prompt

Reported sales in the 10 spot markets totaled 325,600 bales against 316,200 in the preceding week and 463,000 bales in the same week a Cotton ginned through September 30 was eequivalent to about 35.8 per cent of the indicated crop. This season's crop is a little later than average, but is ahead of last season equaled 33.8 per cent of the total. During the 10-year period 1938-47 ginnings through September averaged about 40.3 per cent of production. The grade of this season's crop is averaging a little lower than that of a year ago. The grade index of upland cotton ginned through September 30 this season was 99.2 (mid. Patsy Spradling, freshman class; dling white equals 100) compared Joyce South, sophomore; Margie with 100.5 per the corresponding Kidd, junior; and Lillian Thomson, period last year.

Ginnings to the end of September this year compared with those of a year earlier contained smaller proportions of middling and strict low middling. The average staple length of ginnings through September 30 this season was 32.7 thirty-seconds inches. A year ago the staple average was 32.1 thirty-seconds. The longer staple average length is due to the small proportion of medium and shorter staples and to the considerably larger proportion of the Hudnall Jr., Virginia Sue Burnett length 1 1-16 inch and longer in this year's ginnings.

Supply of upland cotton for the current season through September 30 (carry-over August 1, 1948, plus ginnings to September 30) totaled 8.295,000 bales. This is about 32 per cent more than the 6.294,000 bale supply to September 30 a year ago.

KATHLEEN NORAIS Rocky Road Ahead

Bell Syndicate .- WNU Features.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS THIRTY YEARS AGO,

when the first world war ended, Barbara Whitman was left widowed, with a baby boy three weeks old. Bruce naturally became all Barbara's world; she was 32, delicate, walking with a slight limp even when using her cane. She did not remarry.

Now Bruce, grown, has passed his bar examinations with distinction-and he wants to marry Mollie. Barbara writes me, on a tear-spattered sheet, that she would rather see him dead. She will not meet if he makes this marriage.

"She has been married twice before and divorced twice," writes Barbara of Mollie. "I am not an extremely sophisticated woman, but I know her type. She's truly in love with Bruce now; he dances divinely and she loves to dance. He has a good income, augmented by accumulated service pay, and he spends money on her. DOESN'T WANT CHILDREN

This woman has a little girl of 9, a neglected and difficult child. She says openly that she doesn't want more children. She told her aunt, whose closest friend is one of my intimates, that she and a divorced woman friend of hers had had a bet on which should get Bruce. She's that sort of a reckless, coarse woman.

"Her life is amusement, drink, cigarettes, careless, scandalous talk, dress extravagance, rushing about in anybody's and everybody's cars, sleeping half through the mornings, up in some night club or at some private party well into the next morning.

"Her life is amusement . . ."

"My heart is broken over all this, my life wrecked. I cannot stay here in my own home city and watch the terrible disillusionment that is ahead for my son. Everything about him is fine; there are a dozen splendid girls in his own circle who would give him a real home. children, peace. To think of the tender, adoring love he gives her, destined to so complete a change, is driving me mad.

"Bruce is quiet, sympathtic with my anxiety, sure that Mollie will win my heart in her own time. They are steadily getting ready for a November marriage; bridesmaids, caterers' supper, everything. What shall I do? Don't suggest that I welcome Mollie with open arms; it's too late for that. Just tell me some argument that may save my idealistic, noble boy from ruining his

MOLLIE HAS POOR RECORD

Unfortunately, Barbara, there's no such argument. And optimistic as I am apt to be about all marriages, I must confess that Mollie has a discouraging record. Her story includes a rich old first husband with whom she lived only a year before claiming & large alimony; a wartime husband she divorced when he returned with physical and nerve injuries that should have demanded her tenderest care. That she should turn into a devoted wife, ready to face the inevitable difficulties of domestic life today, is more than one dares to hope.

Your only course, Barbara, and you know it as well as I do, is to keep quiet, refrain from criticisms and complaints, and play a waiting game. Ask Mollie to a home dinner. She'll come. Then include her in a club lunch with other women friends. Make Bruce feel that your loyalty to him includes his

There are cases, and they are not a few, when these young wildcats settle down; when happiness and stability and a husband's love work a miracle in their tempestuous hearts. Trust Bruce for some sobering influences, and trust time, the all-healer, for a solution you cannot see now.

Married Couple's Antics in Parked Car Amaze Policeman

RED WING, MINN .- As a policeman approached an unlighted car parked in an off-limits area here, he thought "illegal parking and illegal sparking."

But the officer learned he was only half right. The car was off limits-but the couple inside was not. They were married 20 years ago. "Remarkable," wrote the officer in his report, "this woman was really the man's wife."

Woman's World Rugs Should Not Conflict With Furnishings of Room

By Ertta Haley

HERE are many people who se-Lect their rugs by a hit and miss method because they do not realize the true importance of what rugs and carpets should do for the room. It's true that these floor coverings do not set the mood or feeling to the room, but they should not conflict with it.

You can economize on the floor covering of a room, but do not buy something in poor taste simply because you cannot afford something better. It's far better to go without a rug until you can buy a floor cov-Mollie; she will not see Bruce again ering in keeping with the style of your furniture.

One of the problems many of us have to settle in buying a rug is to decide whether we want a large rug or wall-to-wall carpeting. If you buy a rug, it's possible to turn it around and prevent wearing in spots. On the other hand, if the room has irregularities such as bay windows, you should get wall-to-wall carpeting, as this brings the room together and makes even bay windows seem a definite part of it. Cleaning is no longer a problem with wall-to-wall carpeting. They are cleaned either by yourself or professionally with a great deal of effectiveness while still on the floor. If you simply do not have the courage to buy a proper rug or carpet, it's well to remember that you rarely can go wrong with a simple. one-color unpatterned rug. You may use one color in all the rooms as this gives unity to the house and Bright Colored Rugs conveys an effect of spaciousness.

Let Style of Rug Conform to Furnishings

There's a simple style guide which is easily followed for selecting a rug if your room is of a certain period. For instance, if you have rugs may also be a good choice. Early American rugs and carpets because of their textures and colors are excellent choice for that particular style of room.

Directoire, English Regency and Empire furnishings require solidcolored broadloom rugs, dark or light, with or without borders. Or, you may choose a reproduction of a rug with a classic feeling.

Modern or 20th century furniture styles require plain, solid colors. Light colors are usually more ap-

Be Smart!

An ever so bright spot in the costume landscape is the basic wool dress with an assortment of contrasted color scarfs. Many of the current dress designs are really basic with beautiful slenderizing lines. Smart contrasts may be offered by deep hip pockets with a top flare for accent or self buttons which are so effective, and at the same time so unobstrusive that they do not interfere with the scarf color build-up. Two-color scarfs are also very smart.

ease out his chief of staff, 73-yearold elder statesman, Adm. William D. Leahy.

Mr. Truman, who hates to fire anyone himself, recently called in Leahy's close friend, Adm. Louis Denfeld, chief of naval operations and the man who really runs the navy. Addressing Denfeld as "Lou," though he usually calls him "Admiral," Truman said:

"Lou, I want you to do something for me. I want you to ask Leahy to retire.

"I like the old man," the President continued, "but he's outgrown his usefulness. I just hate to do this, but you can find a way of suggesting it to him. When I first came here, he offered to resign and I said no. Then last year he offered to resign again, and I asked him to stay. So it's very embarrassing to me and I can't very well ask him myself."

Admiral Denfeld, who has known Leahy all his life, demurred.

"I suppose Secretary Forrestal has been telling you that I have two votes in the joint chiefs of staff-mine and Leahy's," he said. "But just look at the record. You'll find Leahy voted against me most of the time."

"He's gotten too reactionary," countered the President. "He and George Marshall are hardly on speaking terms. Everything Marshall 'proposes, Leahy tears to pieces. Clark Clifford tells me the public reaction to him is bad."

Denfeld replied that he didn't see how he could possibly ask Admiral Leahy to retire. "He's my superior," he said, "and

I can't go to him with a proposal like that.' "Well, figure out some big job we can give him," countered the President. I want him to retire in a blaze of glory. After his career he deserves it. Think up some important mission we can send him onsomething really important."

As the government continues to stimulate the production of potatoes the guaranteed prices keep consumers from getting the surplus crops at bargain prices, and at the same time the system keeps farmers growing too many potatoes. Congress this year elected to re-

1/2 Billion Dollar Road Block!

RAILROADS MUST OPERATE around the clock every day and night of the year.

Although they know this, leaders of 16 railroad unions are demanding a five-day, Monday through Friday, week for one million railroad employes

They want 48 hours pay for 40 hours work -in itself a 20% wage increase.

They also demand a minimum of 12 hours pay for any work performed on Saturdays, and 16 hours pay for any work performed on Sundays and holidays.

On top of all this they want an additional increase of 25c an hour for every employe!

You'd Pay the Bill!

Summing up these demands, they mean that these union leaders seek to force the railroads to give one million employes an annual raise which would average $1500 per employe!

The total cost of this would be no less than 11/2 billion dollars per year, which is more than twice the expected net income of the railroads this year.

You'd pay the bill, because if these in creased costs are forced on the railroads, they must have still further rate and fare

Demands Unreasonable

These employes have had substantial raises during and since the war. Their average weekly earnings are higher than the average weekly earnings of workers in manufacturing industries. They have more job security than the average worker in American industry. They also enjoy paid vacations, a retirement system and other advantages more generous than the average worker receives.

In contrast with the demands of these 16 urions, which add up to the equivalent of 48c an hour, the Conductors and Trainmen recently settled their wage request for an increase of 10c today-faith in one another, faith in the future, faith in God, declared Rev. Earl Creswell, pastor of the North Side Baptist Church, when he spoke last Thursday noon at the weekly lunchon session of the Snyder Rotary Club at the country club.

"Faith in God provides peace of mind," the pastor said, "but God is not admitted to the thinking of many of the world's peoples today." He continued to prove the fact of God by the fulfillment of many of the prophecies contained in the Old Testament that came about exactly as predicted centuries before. He declared that "Egypt stands as evidence of the fact of God."

YOU COOK IT WITH GAS

Natural gas wins the vote for pressure cooking food in your home town-19 to 1.

Instant you put pressure pan lid in position, gas flame's instant high heat goes to work full speed. In a twinkling ... air is exhausted...pressure knob is set...desired cooking pressure is reached. Then...just a flick of your wrist gets the exact flame needed to cook your meal to flame-perfect doneness.

In top-of-range cooking (and baking and broiling, too) gas is the fastest, easiest-tocook-with fuel.

He spoke English express his admirahurried across the straw-littered areaway which was the actor's entrance to the circus. The gayly colored pennants floated in the breeze whereby he might show Annette high above the mammoth canvas. Performers in gay costumes lounged liesurely about the rear of the tent his puppets, Tony carved furiously, awaiting the grand finale. Lumbering elephants pushed and heaved to move the animal cages into the menagerie tent. The big, tawny cats snarled viciously in anger at having been returned to confinement again after their performance.

But Tony was oblivious to all this activity as he moved intently into the tent, and slipped quietly onto the grass near the end of the hippodrome track. His position gave him a commanding view of the space directly over the center ring. Multicolored spotlights played upon the spangled figure of a dainty lady silhouetted against the tent top.

The gentle music of a waltz now wafted through the tent from the bandstand. Poised upon the tiny platform, 80 feet above the ground, stood the petite Annette-queen of the aerialists. Many said she was the greatest since Langtry. The swinging bar floated rhythmically back and forth as she swung it gently and evenly away from her. Far across the space atop the tent, her assistant swung a similar bar back and forth.

Annette was readying herself for the highlight of her performancethe feature attraction of America's greatest circus. She was about to perform her triple somersault, defying death, as she swung her lovely, slim body through the top of the tent. There were no nets beneath! The slightest miscue would spell instant death for the intrepid An-

With the 4,000 spectators, Tony stared upward as the drums again began their ominous roll, and Annette floated out on her swinging bar. A silent pause! Then the drums increased their pace furiously, and the leading lady of the big top hurtled out and up toward the roof, her body revolving once-

"Tah-ah-ah-ah-ah-ah-rump!" Twice - "Tah-ah-ah-ah-ah-ahrump! Three times - "Tah-ah-ah-ah-ah-the vast sea of faces below. A great "Ah " of relief escaped from the crowd, and then the applause resounded throughout the

Tony sat entranced as Annette acknowledged the plaudits of the multitude. Then she quickly slid down the rope to the ground, took several graceful bows, and scampered toward the exit. Already the performers and horses were pouring into the tent for the grand finale: but Tony watched only the movement of the raven-haired beau-

Twice each day he came to the main tent to watch the star of the high swings How his heart yearned for the little French actress, but Annette was entirely unaware of his affection for her.

Tony was billed as Anthony Fragiotto, creator and manipulator of FRAGIOTTO'S MARIONETTES. He was part of the sideshow, and had been with the circus about six months, joining them two months before they left winter quarters. Tony was in love with Annette. But the shy lad from Vicenza Euganea province in far-off Italy scarcely dared speak to the star of the show, let alone declare his feelings for her. Tony had been a farmer's son, working in the fields of those rolling plains when a boy. But Guiseppe Fragiotto was no ordinary farmer. He was the village wood carver, and for years had delighted the peasants in the Vicenza region with his puppet shows. Naturally, he taught his son, Antonio,

When Tony was big enough to assist his father in the manipulation of the gayly-costumed dolls, they traveled to Vicenza, Como, and even Padua to present the Fragiotto puppets at the street carnivals.

Then the war had come! The Fragiotto family had gone underground when the Germans flowed into Italy. Eventually Tony had come to America. And with him he had brought his precious puppets. He found work as a farm hand in Pennsylvania where he exhibited his puppets one evening at a Red Cross benefit show. Not long after that night, the circus agent had contacted him, and he was on his way to the circus quarters. There he became part of the strange conglomeration which comprised the "Fine." replied Annette. "I have often watched your charming show. I would be delighted M'sieur Fragiotto. Perhaps you would be so kind as to show me how to make them work?" This was even more than Tony had dreamed might be possible.

"Indeed! Indeed!" he snouted enthusiastically. "I shall expect you then tomorrow."

The next afternoon, Tony was ready with the puppets long before the dinner hour. He talked to them affectionately as he put them through their paces. To Beppo, the clown, he chuckled:

"And now, leetle fonny man, you make the boys and gurls to laugh, no?" The beautifully carved wooden horses pranced and danced as Tony began to formulate a plan gracefully as their real counterparts in the big tent across the how he felt for her. During the way. But the truly artistic masterhours when he was not exhibiting piece was the replica of Annette. Tenderly, he placed the tiny pupcreating new properties, scenery, pet into place on the aerial swing in his miniature arena.

"My beautiful one," he almost whispered, "we shall see if you can do the triple soubresaut, reesking your lovely life!" As the graceful puppet tumbled through space at the behest of Tony's nimble fingers, he became entranced in his work. He did not see Annette slip into the tent. He was startled when she exclaimed,

"But . . . it is perfect!" She Please Family Tastes scampered behind the scenes to examine the trappings of the new show. She oh-ed and ah-ed at the beautifully wrought details of the tiny circus, and when Tony handed her the tiny duplicate of herself, she was utterly speechless. Finally she said:

"Oh, Tony, it's beautiful . . . too beautiful. I don't really look like that, do I?" she queried, looking coquetishly up into his eyes. The blood rushed to Tony's face, and he stammered weakly:

"Oh, Tony, show me how to make her work," pleaded Annette, dancing up and down excitedly like a child with a new toy. "Can you really make her do a triple somersault like myself?" "Yes," laughed Tony, "but it is not easy. You must practice. Now see," he said, placing the toggle sticks in her hands as she clambered onto the platform beside him. "When you move thees one so, the arms and legs do your beeding. When you move thees one so," he indicated the other stick, "the head and body move at your command.' Annette moved the sticks awkwardly, and the little doll gyrated wildly in her hands. In her effort to disentangle the puppet, she became involved in the strings. Tony reached around her shoulders to straighten up the entanglement, when she raised her face, brushing his chin with her soft hair. Her lovely feminine fragrance held Tony entranced, and acting impulsively, he kissed her upturned

"Plees, forgeev me, I . . . I he stammered. But Annette was not angry. Rather she seemed pleased. Ever so tenderly, she cuddled against Tony, and speaking "Oh, M'sieur Fragiotto," trilled softly, she said:

While most of West Texas, and especially the South Plains ounties up on the caprock north of Scurry County, has had one of the most severe drouths in the history of this section, Scurry County farmers and ranchers can this week count up nearly an average of rainfall for the entire year-with more than two months yet to go. Editorial of the Week

WHY FARM PRICES NEED PEGGING

It's fashionable these days to denounce the government's farm price support policy as a key caus of our high cost of living, a vicious steal from the consumer's pocket, a pernicious burden on all taxpayers. As a bruised consumer and battered taxpayer I've been tempteed to agree, tumble into the trap and To what icy economic shelter am I being urged to retreat this time?" Having asked the questions, I've sought the answers. As a result of my search, I beheve the viciousness lies in the condemnation, not the existence of farm price support program.

Sure, we're paying higher prices for essential foods because the law orders the government to place a "floor" under all major farm prices and thus prevents our food costs from declining as much as they other-

And just as you, I have been sickened as I've read of government dumping of potatoes while I'm paying top prices for the vegetable. I've resented my tax money being used to support the price of peanuts. I've shuddered at the prospect of the government struggling during the coming months to store the products it must buy under the support law.

But this is only half the story—the half told by the critics of the farm price support program.

How guilty is the farmer for today's economic crimes? Since he is the fashionable target at the moment you probably have heard and read the points mentioned above many times. But have you heard the following, too?

The farmer receives only a fraction of the dollar you and I hand over for food—a smaller fraction than you would be led to believe by the uproar over his guilt. According to the Department of Agriculture, even now he gets only 50 cents out of every food dollar. Normally, he receives a lot less.

The rest of the food dollar is "lost" in the channel between the farmer and our table. It goes into the processing of the food; into its transportation; into its wholesale and retail distribution.

Farm prosperity is so basic to American prosperity that without the first, there cannot be the second. For the farmer buys the machinery our industries turn out, the clothing our textile mills produce, the radios and refrigerators and automobiles and all the other products of our plants and factories. If ever again the farmer returns to his pre-war financial position, our economy will collapse.

The support policy was created to help the farmer to his feet. One day, and possibly sooner than we think, it may be the only prop keeping him on his feet Nature socked us in the economic nose in 1947 by destroying our crops and thus restimulating the inflation spiral. Nature now is making up for it by giving us unprecendentedly magnificent crops.

As these crops come in, the inflation in food wil end, food prices will slip and the support policy will be put to its first big test in years. If at this critical moment we abandon the program, we will be begging for economic disaster as well as defying all the rules of good social and human behavior.—Sylva F. Porter very, very fortunately timed his release of a new in the Chicago Sun-Times.

The truest and surest way in which we can serve our fellowmen is not so much to do anything for giving any publicity to how much is ear-marked for them, as to be the very truest, purest, noblest being their branches of service, and in recent weeks one we know how .- Francis P. Cobbe.

> Because the "take" of gambling syndicates has never been greater at football games, fights and in basketball, the newly-born movement to clean up American sports should receive the enthusiastic support of every red-blooded man and woman. . . Remember, for instance, how Francia Filchok, a former New York Giant star, became the victim of a gambling syndicate and is now starting all over in the ice cream business? . . . Joe Louis, according to reports, paid most of his earnings to Middle West gamblers, and in hockey the Billy Taylor and Don Gallinger scandal is still lurid reading. . . . The Rocky Graziane explosion in the fight game has convinced sports officials that all sports must be cleaned up immediately-if we are to maintain faith with the clean-cut boys and girls now attending colleges and

> Very few people in every-day life realize that this week the Federal Reserve Board concluded discussions on a matter that affects the jobs of millions of workers and every man and woman who has a bank deposit or insurance policy. . . . The board, taking events in stride, has decided to continue "pegging" U. S. government bonds for the "foreseeable future" at par prices so we shall not have a post-war slump in the making. . . . Practically every Washington observer knows that without the Federal Reserve Board (snapping up bond issues at par when no other buyers are handy) we would already be in a state of economic upheaval, and the decision to keep on buying bonds should provide internal security during the next 24 months.

> The Federal Reserve Board, in fact, has purchased over two billions in government bonds the past 30 days, and during the last year bid in "support prices" on bond issues to the tune of nine billions. . . . Commercial banks at the moment hold over $60,000,000,000 in government securities, insurance concerns over $20,000,000,000, and individuals over the nation hold $66,000,000,000 in government bonds. . . . And to this the fact that mutual savings banks are "spiking" the deal with $12,000,000 worth of the bonds and one can readily see why the Federal Reserve Board action will prove all-important to keeping the home front solid. . . . Were bonds to drop from par value to 90-or even 85 cents-on the dollar, we would be face to face again with the same financial situation that developed after World War I.

Piece-meal bits of information gleaned from various sources reveal additional decentralization to be featured by Soviet Russia in speeding plans for developing Soviet heavy industry. . . . President Truman $14,000,000,000 military spending budget for the next fiscal year "in the groove" insofar as delivering a knock-out blow is concerned. . . . Russia is not notices scarcely any mention of Red construction projects around the Ural Mountains and in the East. . . . The Reds got off on a bad foot, by the way, when they declared the high rate of illiteracy in Latin

Lions Club Hears Show Band And Minstrel Teaser

A short skit of the forthcoming Negro minstrel to be presented by the Roby Lions Clubs was presented Tuesday noon at the regular weekly luncheon of Snyder Lions Club in the Manhattan dining room. Two members of the cast gave the impromptu offering. From Roby at the luncheon were Tim Cook, former Snyder banker, James A. Davis, David Binkley, S. Lee Hall and W. D

"Harlem Upbeat" is the title of the minstrel that will be presented Monday evening at the Snyder High School auditorium under auspices of the Snyder club. Proceeds from the entertainment will go into project funds of the two clubs.

Also appearing on the luncheon program Tuesday were Lee Harris and four members of the Star Dust Ranch Boys, musical organization with the Harley Sadler-McKenno stage show that played Snyder firs of the week. Several novelty numbers were given by the band.

Chairman J. M. Newton of the adies' night program committee an_ ounced that plans were shaping up or the semi-annual entertainment. t was voted by the club members pany. to hold the affair at Sallie's Cafe in East Snyder on the evening of Tuesday, October 26. A committee composed of O. A. Keith, Forrest W. Beavers, Doyle Bynum and William Schiebel and their wives was named by President R. E. Patterson to dec_ orate for the occasion. Time will be 8:00 o'clock. No noon luncheon of the club will be held Tuesday. Besides the Roby visitors and the entertainers from the stage show, ther guests at the luncheon were R. L. Stone of Fort Worth, Ted Ratcliff of Lubbock, W. L. Hayley and Frank E. Wentz, Snyder High School Band director.
