TWO FRIENDS TALK WITH CHRIST

LESSON TEXT—Luke 24:13-21, 25-31.
MEMORY SELECTION—They said one to another, Did not our heart burn within us, while he talked with us by the way, and while he opened to us the scriptures?—Luke 24:32.

Fellowship with the risen living Lord is the unfailing source of faith and courage. Such certainty is the very essence of our observance of Easter.

We declare with Paul, "Now is Christ risen from the dead" (I Cor. 15:20), and that He is "declared to be the Son of God with power . . . by the resurrection from the dead" (Rom. 1:4). We would join the apostles who "with great power gave . . . witness of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus" (Acts 4:33).

Come with us as we join two men who had become bewildered, who felt that all their hopes had been crushed.

We join them as they walk wearily along the road from Jerusalem to Emmaus. Suddenly there is Another with the little group. Let us listen to their conversation.

Something is obviously wrong here. These two men are disheartened and discouraged. They are men with . . .

I. Chilled Hearts and Sad Unbelief (vv. 13-26).

Teachers will observe that we are using the full story in Luke 24:13-35.

The two sad men, who had left Jerusalem to go to Emmaus were disciples of our Lord, and they had just been through the crushing experience of seeing Him crucified.

True, there had been some reports on the morning of this third day, that the women had seen Jesus alive (vv. 23, 24). But their hope and faith were at such low ebb that they could not—or did not—believe.

Their hearts had been chilled by the dreadful things which had taken place.

Eyes closed by unbelief; faith hindered by doubt and fear; a despondent heart slow to believe God—how very effectively these shut out the blessing of God and of His Word even to the believer. Even deeper is the darkness in which the unbeliever finds himself.

II. Warmed Hearts and Renewed Faith (vv. 27-32).

Although they did not realize it (how slow we are to appreciate our blessings!) until after Jesus was gone (v. 32), their hearts burned within them as soon as He began to expound the Scriptures to them.

What a Bible exposition that was, as Christ Himself opened all that the Scriptures taught concerning Him! Bible teachers have talked about this and it makes one's heart burn just to read their suggestions (see, for example, G. Campbell Morgan on Luke, p. 278).

The way to have a burning heart is to read God's Word, or to have it expounded by a Spirit-filled teacher or preacher.

When the heart has been warmed by the written Word and by fellowship with the living Word, our Lord Himself, the opened eye of renewed faith follows as day follows night. Now they knew the Stranger who was with them—and He was gone.

How did they know Him? We read that they knew Him in the breaking of the bread (v. 32).

Paul declared that same truth when he said, "The natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned" (I. Cor. 2:14).

III. Quickened Hearts and Glad Testimony (vv. 33-35).

The seven miles (sixty furlongs), (v. 13) which had passed so slowly as they came over were now quickly retraced. They had glorious good news to bring to the disciples at Jerusalem. How swift are the feet of the one who has good tidings to bear (see Rom. 10:15)!

One wonders why so many professed Christians are so slow about carrying His message. Can it be that they do not yet know the risen Christ? For if we know Him, we will realize that "we do not well" to keep silent in a day of good tidings (II Kings 7:9).

Note in verse 34 that before they could speak, the others gave them the good news of the resurrection. It is proper and delightful that believers share spiritual blessings (Rom. 1:11, 12). That's why we come together in God's house.

Brother in the Lord, Christian sister, how long is it since you had a new and stirring experience of the presence of Christ? Not necessarily something spectacular or exciting, but a real deep, stirring spiritual experience.

God is the same. Our need is the same, yes, even deeper and greater. Why should not we seek out our Lord and let Him warm and quicken our hearts. We would then have a revival in our own hearts. Let's ask Him for this Easter day.

 It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.
 You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up at night, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.
 There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

Entomologists Predict Light Infestation Of Migratory Hoppers

Preliminary surveys indicate that the migratory grasshopper infestation this spring should be relatively light in the Great Plains counties across the top of the Texas Panhandle.

orable weather conditions, is not so rosy in the "crop hopper section" along the principal rivers of Texas and their tributaries. Cameron Siddall and Paul Gregg, entomologists for the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, say that conditions last fall contributed to maximum egg laying by the yellow grasshopper, which is not a migrant. Cool weather will delay the hatch, but warmer weather and requent moisture to soften the soil crust will hasten it. Then a sudden frost or freeze might kill out large numbers in May, the entomologists say. There is potentially a bad situation in store for farmers along the Brazos, Colorado and Trinity rivers this summer.

This early, entomologists are unable to predict extent of infestation next fall when the migratory hopper of the Great Plains produces a second generation for the year. Last year 55 counties distributed 1,208 tons of grasshopper bait (dry basis) in combating the worst infestation since 1927. In all about 7,000 farmers used bait in 1945 in treating nearly a million acres of crop and pasture land.

Federal, state and county governments, as well as farmers and ranchers, cooperated in the 1945 control program. Nineteen county governments purchased $3,500 worth of poison materials, while farmers in 19 contributed about $8,500 to the campaign.

Most of the counties in Texas which entered the fight had one mixing station, and in all 69 were reported for the state. County leaders supervised the mixing stations.

The Low Down From Hickory Grove

You know, no difference what country it is, you go bite a dog, and you are on page one. But for real news that would maybe even crowd nibblin' on a dog, and maybe put it on page 2, would be for Uncle Sambo to get over being "easy pickins", and alert himself and ask some other nation for a hand out. Brothers and sisters, that would be vice versa and news that is news. Being something except a rich uncle, it would make friends for us versus making the U.S.A. a party to be laughed at.

And I am on this idea of money and debt and which end of the horn we are coming out if more folks don't scribble a note to his Congressman. Even the affluent John L. Sullivan found there was a last dollar. To get a bill through Congress, and quick, it has gotta cost millions. And if it is for 20 million, it gets passed 2 times as quick as only 10 million. And the wizards there in Bazoo City tell us our big debt and the bonds are all owed to ourselves, and for us to quit worrying. This editor to ask, "What kind of a prodded an old goober-grabber livin' will we have from the income from a deficit?"

It is not just peanuts that they have a lot of in old Georgia, land, horse sense is also plentiful, and not rationed.

Tips For Spring Furniture Repair

The warm, dry heat of houses during the winter of '45 is hard on furniture. It shrinks the wood causing the glue to dry out, and chairs often begin coming to pieces. They can be repaired at home with regular cabinet glue.

Since the glue comes in flakes or cakes, it must be soaked over night and then heated until it be-comes liquid. The inner vessel of a double boiler will serve as a con-tainer for heating. For best re-sults it should be used while com-paratively thin and applied ho-

All old glue should be removed before fresh glue is applied. Lar-ger pieces can be chipped off with a knife and the rest can be dis-solved with a warm vinegar solu-tion.

When the parts to be glued are clean and thoroughly dry, it is suggested that they be put to-gether to test for proper fit. The best guide for this is to make sure that all surfaces touch each oth-er. After this apply the glue. When putting in a chair rung or dowel-pin it should be applied both to the end of the rung or pin and to the hole.

Final step in the repair job is to apply pressure that will make the glue stick. For a chair, a tourni-quet of rope or stout cord will make satisfactory pressure. Thick pads under the rope will protect the wood and finish from the rope. This should be left on until the glue is dry, usually about 24 hours.

HEAVY TOLL FROM TIDAL WAVE IN PACIFIC . . . Claiming at least three hundred lives and untold millions of dollars worth of damage, map shows how the tidal wave started in sea somewhere off Dutch Harbor, Alaska, to race over Pacific at 300 miles an hour and hit Hawaiian Islands and west coast of North America. Sudden drop of ocean floor is believed to have started mammoth hills of water rolling.

HIGH COST OF LIVING IN A CHICKEN HOUSE . . . A few weeks ago this was a chicken coop on the farm of Herbert Studebaker, Waterloo, Iowa. Today it is converted into eight one-room kitchenette apartments, with a utility room for use of all tenants. There were more takers at $52.50 a room per month than the Studebakers could handle on their poultry farm. More revenue from renting than raising chickens!

AND STRIKES STILL CONTINUE . . . Maklin ("Porky") Hall, former child star, is beaten and mauled as he breaks through picket line during the earlier Warner Brothers' strike in Hollywood. Los Angeles Daily News photographer, Gib Brush, who took the shot, was awarded first prize in the Encyclopaedia Britannica annual news photograph contest for 1945 in the class of nonwar spot news.

UNEARTH FOSSILS ON FARM . . . On the Arthur Antholt farm, near Cedarburg, Wis., three perfectly preserved teeth and a jawbone fragment of huge mastodon was recently found. AS YOU probably know, it isn't an easy job to get baseball managers to give out personal interviews concerning the comparative strength of certain stars or certain positions. It so happens that one of the most important sectors in baseball, especially winning baseball, is that spot of the diamond guarded by the shortstop and the second baseman.

While no direct quotes were available we have run across seven managers and scouts quite willing to give out their private opinions.

Here is the way the consensus came out—

- No. 1. Rizzuto and Gordon, Yankees.
- No. 2. Pesky and Doerr, Red Sox.
- No. 3. Reese and Rojek, Dodgers.
- No. 4. Boudreau and Mack, Indians.
- No. 5. Marion and Verban, Cardinals.

This ranking or rating included all-around quality, hitting, fielding and double-play results. There was a close finish between the Rizzuto-Gordon and the Pesky-Doerr combinations. It was generally agreed that the Red Sox pair carried the higher-hitting average, but the defensive play of Rizzuto and Gordon gave the Yankees a slight lead.

In the work they have shown before and what they have turned out this spring, it would be difficult to find a more brilliant pair of infield workmen than Rizzuto and Gordon. Both are all over the lot. And both can get the ball away quicker than you can discard a burning package of paper matches. They keep you dizzy attempting to follow their double-play actions or their work on some slow grounder that has to be handled in split-second time.

Pesky and Doerr are good and they are likely to rate higher on the hitting side. But certainly on defense the Yankees have the edge over any other combination in either league.

The Dodger Ranking

I was surprised to see Pewee Reese and Stan Rojek rated over some of the others. But these votes came from scouts who had talked with National League managers. They figured that Reese would be good enough to give either Marion or Miller a stretch run at shortstop and that Rojek would be a big surprise. Oddly enough they figured that while Marion and Boudreau were two of baseball's best shortstops, their second-base support couldn't match Gordon or Doerr. And Rojek, with all his bright possibilities, is still something of a guess when planted in this able company.

This shortstop-second base combination means a lot to any winning club. Suppose we look back a few years—there were the old Cubs, winner of four championships in five years—and their entry was Tinker and Evers. How about the Athletics from 1910 through 1914 when they also won four pennants? Their answer is Jack Barry and Eddie Collins. Cleveland once had Tuck Turner and Larry Lajoie. One of McGraw's greatest teams had Dave Bancroft and Frank Frisch. They were factors in winning four pennants in a row.

It might be noted that the clubs more favorably mentioned in the two pennant races are strong at this essential fortress. They are the Yankees, the Red Sox and the Cardinals.

Two-Sport Stars

A while ago we attempted a rating of the best baseball-football combinations such as Frank Frisch, Snuffy Stirrweiss, Lou Gehrig, Mathewson, Overall, etc. Ray Farnham from Philadelphia writes that we have left out the star bet of the lot. "His name is Mickey Cochrane," says Ray. "Cochrane is still remembered as one of the great catchers of all time—one of the best hitters—a winning manager. But few remember that at Boston university in the early twenties, Mickey was also one of the best backs of many seasons. He was a star triple threat—one who could pass, run and kick with any All-America named that season. He was also a magnificent tackler and blocker. Cochrane was also the strongest part of the offense used by the Providence Steam Rollers."

In addition to this baseball-football argument we have already located the best combined tennis and golf player known to sport. His name is Ellsworth Vines. In his day tennis never knew a harder hitter. He was one of the best. Vines is now to be listed among the better pros, good enough to break 70 here and there, and usually in the low 70s.

The tall and willowy Ellsworth can belt the ball a long way, is a first class iron player and a pretty good putter. His long game is good all the way. Vines has always been a fine competitor.

Comfortable House Frock
LOOK and feel as crisp as a lettuce leaf in this simple house dress with its slimming princess lines and nice detail.

Avoid running lamp cords under your rugs. They wear ridges into the fabric, besides being unsafe.

A lemon heated before squeezing will produce a lot more juice than if it is squeezed cold.

Do not paint or paper walls immediately after they have been plastered. Let them stand from eight to 10 weeks—even longer in damp weather.

Sweet peas should be staked as soon as seeds break through soil so that plants may cling to stakes as small tendrils form. If allowed to sprawl on the ground the growth of vines will be checked.

Before laying out a vegetable garden choose a spot with a southern exposure and one that is away from trees. Trees rob the soil of moisture and plant food.

To remove grass stains from canvas shoes add a few drops of ammonia to a teaspoon of peroxide of hydrogen and rub the stains with the mixture. Wash off with water.

Brief cap sleeves are cool and comfortable. Bold ric rac makes a pretty edging for neck, sleeves and scalloped closing.

Pattern No. 8857 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3 1/4 yards of 35 or 39-inch material; 3 1/2 yards ric rac to trim.

W. N. U. RELEASE

THE STORY THUS FAR: Mae tells Sherwin that Jane is going to marry Stenhart. "I think she will not," he replied. Solemnly Mae stated that the sheriff had a picture of "someone that's wanted." Sheriff Cutler had shown the picture to Jim too. Murder, first degree, escaped from Rhode Island. "I don't think he's around these parts," Jim replied. Jane too saw the picture, and Stenhart panted: "Don't let him kill me!" Sherwin admitted to Jane that he was the man they wanted. Jim advised him to "melt away." Feeling like an outcast, Sherwin goes to Old Mac's shack where the foreman has a meal ready for him. "Aint no use starvin'," says Mac.

CHAPTER VI

"Do you know why I'm wanted?" Sherwin asked, still standing.

The old fellow nodded. "Seen th' paper you had in your pocket, Sherwin. You'd marked the description, and it dropped t' other day an' I saw it. Th' sheriff talked some, too, when we were goin' to look for th' place where Jordan jumped the creek. I ain't askin' questions. You sit down an' eat."

Sherwin sat down. "You're a good man," he said chokingly.

"I'm old," said MacDowell quizzically. "I ain't dead set on punishing other folks."

"Except Jordan," said Sherwin.

Mac laughed. "Well, maybe! Eat, son, you may have a long hike. You can't take th' trains; Cutler'll have your picture up in 'em."

"You said a while ago—when you were tending my arm—that Miss Keller was to marry Stenhart. Is that true?"

MacDowell considered, pulling on his pipe. "I've heard Jim say so. You don't like Stenhart?"

"He's my cousin," Sherwin said in a flat, emotionless voice.

The old man started and took his pipe out of his mouth. "Gosh!" he ejaculated, and stared at the young man dumbly.

"He's my cousin and his testimony sent me to jail for life," said Sherwin, and his voice shook. "He lied. He lied me out of the way for fear I'd break our uncle's will. He got everything."

"An' you're accused of killin' th' uncle because he'd cut you off, ain't that it?" Mac leaned his elbows on the table, looking across it at the shadowed face of Sherwin.

The latter nodded. "The old story," he said shortly. "Uncle was killed in the garden. He was stabbed while he slept on the old bench by the cedars. I'd just found him when Max came in the gate; he'd been up the street at the newsstand. He swore I had the knife in my hand. It was perjury but he got away with it. Uncle and I had had a difference the day before, and people knew of it. That went against me, and Max swore me into jail for life. That's all."

Mac was silent for a while, then he grunted. "Did you tell Jim about it?"

Sherwin laughed bitterly. "He wouldn't believe me if I did! The jury didn't. I've served eight years. I was twenty-two when I was sentenced. Ever been in jail?" he asked ironically.

"Come mighty near it once, son. Punchin' a rogue's head got me arrested, but somehow th' judge kinder agreed with me that it needed punchin'."

"It's like being in hell—to shut a healthy man up behind stone walls for life," Sherwin said bitterly. "I won't be taken if I can help it; I'd rather die—only I've got something to do first."

The old man looked across under the lamplight again; something in the white face opposite moved him deeply. Sherwin was a stranger, he was an escaped convict, yet—

"Don't do it, son," old Mac said gently.

Sherwin, startled, raised his bloodshot eyes to his. "You know?"

"I reckon I do!"

Sherwin rose and began to walk about the room. "I came out here to find him. He wasn't in his usual haunts in the city—so they told me—and I'd tracked him patiently, tracked him to Keller's ranch, when I stumbled into your accident and motored you here. It was pure luck, I thought, to get here so easily—without credentials, too!"

MacDowell nodded. "He's gettin' well an' he's sure to hang around Jane."

Sherwin said nothing, but his hands clenched until the nails bit into the palms. In the silence the little room seemed full of Jane's presence. Again he saw her eyes change, saw her recoil! A shudder ran through him, fury leaped up in him, he remembered Stenhart's white face, his cowardly cry: "Don't let him kill me!" Again he paced up and down.

Old MacDowell rose slowly, stretching his uninjured arm.

"Th' sheriff'll be around here for a spell, maybe thirty-six hours. You can't hardly miss him if you try to get out now; some of 'em will meet up with you. I tell you what I'll do—you come along with me now, before moonrise, an' I'll fix you up. I've been figurin' it out."

Sherwin stopped in his pacing and looked at him, strangely touched. "How about Keller? He wanted me to get out at once."

"You ain't goin' to stay on th' ranch; you follow me," Mac picked up the food-pack and opened the door.

A sudden gust of wind blew out the lamp. In the dark Sherwin pressed his hands over his eyes; he was trying to shut out Jane's face! "We're goin' to th' stables; ain't no one there, an' we can saddle up," "I can't take a horse from here!" Sherwin exclaimed sharply.

"Easy, son, I'll lend you mine to-night," said Mac. "I can ride one of the ranch horses; we ain't goin' so terrible far."

They went to the stables and old MacDowell brought out the horses. Sherwin hated to lay a hand on one of them but he mounted when the old man told him the roan was his own property. Silently, after that, they rode past the ranch-house and out on to the twisting mountain road. Five miles up in the redwoods they passed the limits of Las Palomas. The wind from the hills grew cold, but the sky was brightening; the highest peaks were already touched with moonlight. Sherwin turned in his saddle and looked down. Below his face; how easily the old man had read his mind!

Mac stopped now and pointed, ignoring what he had just said.

"Th' cabin's hid in there—among them trees. I built it most forty years ago. I hadn't no health those days; doc said I'd got to live out, up here in the redwoods, so I knocked up th' shack. There used to be mighty good shootin' an' fishin'. It's too bad weather better'n I expected. There ain't anybody knows about it—except Jane; she saw it once, I fetched her up here. You can camp here safe enough till I bring you word where Cutler's gone."

Sherwin, looking ahead into the dense shadows of the mountainside, saw a light. Both men stood still, electrified.

"By gosh!" Mac caught at his companion's arm and gripped it, listening. "I'm darned if Jordan ain't up here—sure as shootin' he whispered.

"In your cabin?" Sherwin smiled grimly, loosening his pistol in the shoulder holster.

In the dark Sherwin pressed his hands over his eyes; he was trying to shut out Jane's face!

him lay the ranch; he could just see the lights in the house, mere pinpoints of brightness. Darkness, like a velvet cloak, had fallen on the valley. He drew a deep breath. Jane was there, Jane, who had repudiated him with her chill look, and Stenhart! His hand clenched. Stenhart's lie had sent him to prison, it pursued him still. Resolve was hardening in him, he could not go until he had killed him. He rode on again but, all the while, he was aware of those lights down there in the darkness. He had lived eight years in prison but he was still young. The girl's eyes, her voice, her soft hands on his wounded arm, had kindled a flame; now the flame was made fiercer, more terrible, by jealousy. Stenhart was with her!

Then suddenly he was roused from his fierce reverie. Old Mac drew rein.

"Get down," he said briefly. "We can hobble th' horses, we've got to hoof it the rest of the way."

The moon was rising over the top of the mountains as Sherwin swung himself out of the saddle. They had left the road and were on a mountain trail; great trees surrounded them, their spreading boughs making a dense shade through which the rising moon shot, here and there, an arrowhead of light. MacDowell led, and, as they advanced, the almost imperceptible trail grew narrower, tree-trunks of gigantic size locked them in; far off was the sound of rushing water, a mere murmur at their ears.

"Walk slow," Mac cautioned him, "th' path's mighty narrow in front now an' a mite treacherous. We're coming to the edge of a precipice, ain't nothing to save you if you fall."

"I hear water somewhere," said Sherwin.

"Mighty pretty little cascade below us, 'bout two hundred feet. It's too far down for th' moonlight to strike it yet—mind th' turn now—there, you can see th' drop, it's mighty steep."

They stood on a narrow ledge. Some convulsion of nature had long ago ripped out the side of the slope. Behind them was a bit of sheer rock; on either side the great trees stopped and there was only a narrow path at the edge of a deep ravine. Far down a turbulent little river roared over the broken rocks and tumbled from a high cliff into the depth below. The moonlight revealed a sheer precipice with nothing reaching out from it but one old, gnarled tree.

"A mighty bad place to slip, Sherwin said musingly; "easy to thrust a man over there—to his death!"

Old Mac grunted. "Mighty easy—but you ain't goin' to get th' chance, he's too lame a duck to get this far!"

Sherwin felt the hot blood burn in MacDowell cautioned him to silence with a gesture and they both crept forward. As they did so, Sherwin discerned the outline of a little cabin set in under a sycamore. A rectangle of light appeared, the door was open! Softly, step by step, the two men approached, keeping in the shadow. Sherwin slipped behind the house and looked in the window. A man was sitting on the floor, smoking and reading a newspaper by the light of a candle. It was the outlaw! Sherwin signaled to MacDowell and the old man came softly over and looked in. The man was an easy mark, but they did not shoot, both loved fair play too well. Making a sign to Mac, Sherwin went quickly toward the thicker shadows of the trees in front of the cabin, then, deliberately and slowly, he began to tramp down dry twigs and make the noise a man might make in carelessly approaching from the woods back of the ravine. The sounds reached the rustler's ears. He extinguished the candle and stepped outside the door.

"That you, Kenny?"

For answer Sherwin sprang forward, pistol in hand, and old Mac emerged from behind the cabin with a roar.

"We've got you now, you skunk!" he shouted.

The outlaw dodged, dropped to his knees, rolled over like a ball and went spinning down the slope, Sherwin's bullet speeding after him. A sailing cloud suddenly obscured the moon and, in the darkness, a gun flashed below them and a bullet whistled past. They heard a scrambling fall. Sherwin fired again into the dark, a man cursed and silence followed.

"Darn that cloud, I can't see a thing!" old Mac whispered. "You think Jordan's down there, Sherwin?"

Sherwin, who had gone to the edge of the ravine and came back after the last shot, answered as softly. "Yes! I can hear him scramble—I'm hanged if I know how he got away without falling over the precipice! There comes the moon—back out of range or he'll pick you off, MacDowell!"

They both stepped back into the shadow of the cabin and waited, expecting a rush by Jordan and his confederates, but nothing happened. Far below them they heard a twig snap and some gravel slide.

"Comin', I reckon!" Mac whispered.

Sherwin shook his head. "Still goin', the same man. Very likely he's gone for help."

"That's true, ain't any use stayin' here to be shot at!" As he spoke he felt his way into the cabin.

"Want to risk lightin' the candle?" Sherwin asked him from the door. "I've got matches."

"Nope! We'd be targets sure then. I can see from th' moon. Where you goin'?"

"I'm going to stay here."

"You'll have to give th' cabin up, son; you'd have a batch of them rustlers to fight—if he comes back."

"And the sheriff on the road," Sherwin replied grimly.

"That's true!" Mac thought a moment. "I say, Sherwin, you'd better just keep under the trees for th' night an' skip at daybreak. The posse'll be most likely tired an' restin'. You'll get some hours start anyways."

Sherwin nodded. He had other plans, but he would not tell them. He grasped the old man's hand. "Come, I'm going to see you off safe with the horses, then I'll come back here quietly."

Mac protested, grumbling, but he finally let the younger man accompany him to the road. His lame arm still made the old man more or less awkward. Sherwin helped him get the two horses and saw him mount.

"You skip at daybreak," Mac said kindly, and leaned from the saddle to hold out his hand again. "I don't believe you did it," he ended brusquely.

Sherwin wrung his hand and stood under the trees, watching him go. The old man's blunt sympathy and active help had touched him to the quick. He watched until the old figure in the saddle and the two horses became mere specks on the white road toward Las Palomas.

J. Frank Corry Dies At Enid

J. Frank Corry, one of the most progressive farmers in the south-east part of the county died last week at Enid, Oklahoma, according to brief news reaching here. Mr. Corry, who was successful in the drug business spent much of his time with his favorite hobby of farming in Sherman County. He was one of the first to adopt modern farming methods in the county long before the measures were adopted in the county as a whole.

City Officials

Back Venting

Section 17. When one or more fixtures are installed on one house drain all traps should be back vented. The back venting pipes shall lead to a point at least two feet above the highest fixture before entering the main vent pipe. The back venting pipe shall have the same pipe as near the trap as possible. Vents for closets and slop sinks shall not be less than two inches in diameter and a larger size is recommended. In all other fixtures the vent shall be the same size as the waste. All grease traps must be cleaned out every six months or oftener if proprietor or tenants are notified by Plumbing Inspector to do so.

Sand Traps

Section 18. All stables, barns, garages or carriage houses, having a wash rack on which wagons, carriages, automobiles, hacks, buggies, buses or other vehicles are washed, and which rack is connected with the sewer, shall be provided with a sand and mud trap which shall have a capacity of at least twenty cubic feet of space for sediment below inlet and outlet pipes. The trap shall have a partition between inlet and outlet pipes, which shall extend at least six inches below the bottom of the inlet pipe. The trap may be constructed of concrete, brick or tile. When brick is used, the walls are to be made eight inches thick and all sides are to be plastered with mortar mixed with one part Portland cement and one part sharp clean sand. All sand and mud traps must be cleaned out once every six months, or more often if notified by the plumbing inspector to do so.

Strainers

Section 19. All sinks, basins, bath tubs, tubs, wash traps or sets of trays and all urinals must have waste pipes provided with a strong metallic strainer.

Roof Work, Etc.

Section 20. Under no condition whosoever shall roof drains be connected with the sewer. No surface water or cistern overflow shall under any circumstances be allowed to enter the sewer.

Cellar Drains

Section 21. Drains from cellar or basement floors may be connected with the sewer, if same is properly tapped. The trap for cellar drains must have a special seal of not less than four inches, and must be kept primed. In case there is danger of back water from the sewer, a back water trap shall be used.

House Drains

Section 22. The house drain is to be carried at least five feet outside the cellar wall, where it will connect with the house sewer. It shall be constructed of cast iron pipe and shall not be larger than four inches in diameter for all residences, and shall be increased in size for other buildings only when necessary. In no case shall the house drain be covered up or concealed until it has been accepted by the Plumbing Inspector.

House Sewer

Section 23. The house sewer shall lead from the end of the house drain which is five feet outside the cellar wall, to the main or lateral and shall be constructed of four or six inch V.C. pipe, or same size cast pipe, except when plumbing inspector may deem larger size necessary, and shall be laid on a grade of not less than one-eighth inch to the foot. In no case shall the house sewer be covered up before it has been inspected and accepted by the Plumbing Inspector.

Connections Barred

Section 24. No steam exhaust, blow off or drip pipe shall connect with the sewer or with any house drain, soil or waste pipe. Such pipes must discharge into a tank or condenser from which a suitable outlet to the house sewer may be provided, which outlet must be properly trapped.

Cess Pools

Section 25. Hereafter no cess pool or vault shall be built within the corporate limits on property with sewer and water mains adjacent thereto and all vaults, septic tanks and cess pools located in sewer district shall be discontinued when ordered to be discontinued by the City or State Health Department, and no septic tank or cess pool can be connected to the sewer.

Garbage, Etc.

Section 26. No garbage, butcher's offal, dead animal or obstructions of any kind whatsoever shall be placed, thrown or deposited in any catch basin, manhole, sewer or drain and no person shall injure, break or remove any portion of any catch basin, manhole, lamp hole or flush tank or any part of sewer drain.

Back Filling

Section 27. No back filling shall be done until the work has been accepted by the Plumbing Inspector. After the earth has been tamped around the pipe, and to a depth of one foot, over the same, the top part of this trench may be filled in and settled with water from a hose or some other source. During the time the trench is left open barriers must be maintained and lanterns with red lights displayed as danger signals at night. In case the excavation is under some paving the material in the trench is to be thoroughly tamped and settled and the paving replaced in as good shape as before being torn up.

Tests

Section 28. A thorough test of the entire system shall be made by the plumber at the time of the final inspection by the plumbing inspector. The test shall be a water test which shall be made by filling the system with water, or such other tests as the plumbing inspector will approve and inspecting each and every joint. If any defects in the joints or any place are found the same shall be repaired or replaced before the system is finally accepted.

Permanent Records

Section 29. After any system of plumbing or addition to an old system has been finished, the plumber doing the work shall file an accurate description of same with the Plumbing Inspector. The description should give exact location of all pipes, traps and like, together with the size of same, and also give the date of installation.

Releases

Section 30. No person or company shall be allowed to connect to the City Sewer system until such person or company shall have executed and signed a written release to the City of Stratford, releasing it from all damages that may result in defects in plumbing or otherwise upon the property connected to the sewer, or on adjoining property which release shall be filed with the City Secretary.

Penalty

Section 31. Any owner, agent, architect, plumber, drain layer, superintendent, contractor or other er persons failing, neglecting, omitting, resisting, or refusing to comply with any of the conditions of the requirements of this ordinance, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined the sum of not less than $1.00 nor more than $100.00 for each offense; and each day's failure, neglect and refusal to comply with the conditions of this ordinance shall be deemed a separate and distinct offense and shall be fined as in other cases.

Section 32. This Ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its publication once in the Stratford Star, the Official City paper. Passed and approved this 13th day of April, A. D., 1946. J. R. PENDLETON, Mayor. (SEAL) The City of Stratford, Texas. Attest: G. R. GARRISON, Secretary.

Just A Reminder --

It's Tough, But It Can Be Avoided

Most likely your tractor has had a big year, working overtime during the rush seasons, performing like a trouper during those extra hours. Now, when you're not so busy, bring in your tractor. Our service department is completely equipped and up to date.

McCormick-Deering machines are built of Genuine IHC Parts when you buy them new. You would not accept them any other way. So isn't it good business, when wear and tear or any accident causes damage to replace parts with the same quality products.

You'll be sure of satisfactory performance then. Genuine IHC Parts retain and continue the performance that you had when your machine was new. Don't handicap your equipment by careless selection of service parts.

FOR YOUR PROTECTION, ALWAYS USE GENUINE IHC PARTS

THEN YOU'LL BE ALL SET TO GO TO WORK
