CATTLE.

Not Much Change Noted in Steer Values This Week.

The auction sale of show cattle monopolized the attention of the whole trading fraternity this morning. Receipts were light and arrivals included few steers of merit. The regular market could not be quoted otherwise than nominally steady.

Receipts of cattle this week will total about 16,000, practically the same as the preceding week and slightly larger than for corresponding week a year ago.

Smaller aggregate marketing failed to stimulate much strength in the trade as far as steers are concerned. Compared with a week ago active steer values are without material change.

market was unchanged compared with Thursday. Speculators reported a fair volume of trade yesterday, but volume of stockers and feeders being sent to the country is not up to normal standards.

The market for stockers and feeders ruled dull and lower first days of the week but closed in better tone, values recovering part of the early loss. A broader demand on country account was the stimulating factor in the trade latter part of the week.

Stock heifer values are closing steady with a week ago.

RANGE CATTLE—NATIVE DIVISION.

A few loads of range cattle showed up today. Bulls were cows and heifers which sold at steady prices compared with Thursday.

Receipts of range cattle this week have been fairly liberal. Proportion of stockers and butcher stuff is on the increase and there was a reduction in the size of steer supplies.

In the sheep division fresh arrivals were nil, but on sale were several bunches of feeding lambs and yearlings, hold-overs from yesterday. Outlet for those was slow at the lowest range of prices in years.

The third prize, two-year-old steers, shown by H. Williamson, of Diller, Neb., were put up. They went at $7.00. Here Morris & Co. were also the purchasers.

WHEN MEN WORE SHAWLS.

Only Article Appropriated by Them from the Woman's Wardrobe.

On very rare occasions you now see some old lady wearing a shawl, but generally speaking this once universal garment has become obsolete. An Indian or a Persian shawl used to be considered one of the finest feminine possessions in the world, and they were handed down from mother to daughter as prized heirlooms. But now if you gave a young woman even a very elegant shawl, costing possibly hundreds of dollars, as many did, she would turn up her beautiful nose at it, and if she used it at all would make a portiere out of it for her cozy corner. She would never think of wearing it, even if it were the only thing she had.

The trouble is that shawls are out of style, and it is easier to drive a camel through the eye of a needle than to get a woman to wear anything that is out of fashion. When woman-kind took to mannish tailor-made and close-fitting clothes they cast shawls aside, and if they ever come into favor again it will only be for one "season," as a temporary whim, for they have an air about them that is too old-fashioned.

Those children that are say 40 years old or more can probably remember when even men wore shawls instead of overcoats. For about ten years they were considered just the thing. This was the decade beginning with about 1860. President Lincoln was very partial to his big Scotch shawl, which, according to the vogue, he wore, not folded diagonally in feminine fashion, but folded lengthwise. This folded shawl was passed over the shoulders and around the front, where it was either held by the hands or pinned by a huge shawl pin. This case of the shawl is about the only one where the men have appropriated an article of wear from the women's wardrobe—though the instances where the reverse has happened are legion.

Even then, the shawl was originally not a woman's garment exclusively, for the Scotch Highlander has his tartan plaid, and the men of northern Italy still wear a cloak which is very little more than a shawl.—The Pathfinder.

SHAKE A REAL HYPNOTIST.

One Pennsylvania Farmer is Convinced of the Fact.

Ezra Smith, a Rockland township, Venango county, farmer, is a convert to the general belief that a rattlesnake can "charm" domestic animals. His home is between Floyd, Pa., and the Allegheny river. He is the owner of a watch dog that is a cross between a bulldog and a St. Bernard, and noted throughout that section for its courage.

Mr. Smith pastures his cows some distance from the farm house and the path lies through a tract of rough and uneven woodland. One recent morning, accompanied by his dog, he was driving his cattle to the pasture field, the dog a little in advance. He noted that the dog stopped suddenly and stiffened in every muscle and made as pretty a "point" as any bird dog ever accomplished. The action was so unusual that the owner also stopped and watched the dog. Then he called him by name, but the animal paid no attention to him, not even to wag its tail. Mr. Smith had a good stout cudgel in his hand and he pushed on to see what ailed the dog. Ahead of the animal, coiled ready to strike, was a large rattlesnake, with only a few inches intervening between the nose of the dog and the head of the snake. Mr. Smith is no amateur when it comes to dealing with snakes, and before the reptile could busy its fangs into the nose of his dog, he had given it a rap over the back with his cudgel, killing it instantly.

The dog showed every indication that its queer action had been due to the hypnotic influence of the rattler. Until the snake had been killed it made no move, but as soon as this occurred the canine broke out into a profuse sweat and was so weak that it dropped into a heap in a state of complete collapse. The dead snake was five feet long and carried 13 rattles.

Mr. Smith is a man of veracity, and has had a wide experience with snakes, which are remarkably numerous in that section of Venango county. He has no doubt that the peculiar action of his dog was due to the power exercised over it by the reptile and not, as some profess to believe, due to the benumbing effects of having been struck by the fangs.—Oil City Derrick.

Our Shirt Fronts.

Why do we wear our shirt bosoms exposed? may seem an unnecessary question, but the answer is found in a queer bit of history. Nowadays the white shirt bosom is worn by people of all classes and stations in life, but only a hundred years ago the white shirt bosom, with the starched ruffles, which took the place of collar and cuffs, was the outward and visible sign of wealth and gentility. Linen was very expensive, cotton had not come into general use, and the linen garments of most men were made of wool.

Linen, therefore, was the emblem of wealth; the man who could afford a linen shirt was generally so proud of it that the tailors gave him an opportunity of displaying it to the best advantage. All gentlemen's coats were adaptations of the military uniform, and at first were tightly buttoned from throat to waist, with high standing collars that came up to the ears. The men who fashioned the clothes of our great-grandfathers turned down the collars, rolled back the lapels and gave the old gentlemen an opportunity to show that they were linen instead of woolen shirts, and so we, however poor we may be, exhibit our shirt fronts because our ancestors gloried in their linen.

Who Cares?

The American people are afraid of nothing under the sun. Notwithstanding the horrors upon horrors on land and sea, involving injuries to hundreds of thousands annually and death to tens of thousands, there seems really to be no scare in us. Excepting a mere handful of nerve-wrecked invalids, who takes thought of what may happen when on business or pleasure bent? Who stays away from the theaters because a few occasionally burn down, with great loss of life? Who demands a seat near an exit? Who quits riding in railroads because they kill 10,000 passengers a year and injure 80,000? Who looks for a "safe" seat? Who is afraid to travel 75 miles an hour?—New York Press.

Corporation for the Blind.

A business corporation has been successfully established in Vienna by men who are totally blind. The company manufactures brushes and baskets and all its employees are blind. In the eight months of its existence it has filled orders aggregating 23,000 kronen ($4,600), making a fair profit, and has enough orders on hand to justify the enlargement of its workshops. Sixteen of the employees are skilled workmen and the company wishes it known that its wares are sold on their "actual merit," that they are put upon the market "in fair competition with the product of other concerns," and that the blind people want "business, not charity."

His Honor Unappreciated.

M. Uzunovitch, a prominent supporter of the ruling party in the Serbian government, at a banquet at Belgrade excused himself from proposing a toast, but a friend called out encouragingly: "Say the first stupid thing that comes into your head." M. Uzunovitch then jumped up and cried: "Long live our present wise ruler, King Peter!" He has been requested to resign his seat in the national assembly.

Why He Called.

"You advertised that you had found a pocketbook, I believe?" he asked the man who had come to the door in answer to his ring, according to Judge's Library.

"I did."
"You say it contained a sum of money?"
"Yes."
"A very large sum of money, in fact?"
"Yes."

"And that the owner could have same by naming the sum found and describing the pocketbook?"
"Yes. Go on."

"That is all I wished to ask."
"But you will have to give a description of the purse you lost before you can put in a claim."

"I lost no purse."
"You didn't?"
"No, sir."

"Then why have you called?"
"Merely to see what a man looks like who will find a very large sum of money and then advertise the fact in the papers instead of hiding it down cellar. Good day, sir."

Too Many Big Names.

He was the new elevator boy and the brokers and bankers in the big skyscraper were not familiar with his name.

"Charles," called the first broker that entered the car, "the seventh."

The new elevator boy stopped at the seventh floor.

"Louis," said another, "the fifth."

The car slowed up at the fifth floor.

"Albert," persisted another, "the second."

The boy looked suspicious. Suddenly a tall clerk touched him on the arm and chirped:

"Joseph, the first."

This was too much. The new lad looked around in disgust. "Say, are you fellows trying to guy me?" he growled. "Or do you think this car is a bunch of Roman history? Huh! Joseph, the first, eh? First thing you will be calling 'Richard, the third,' and I'll go daft and holler: 'Me kingdom for a horse.' Cut it out!"

Shattered Hopes.

He anxiously—I understand your father speaks very highly of me?"
She—Yes, but he doesn't mean a word of it.

He—Are you sure of that?
She—Certainly. He does it just to torment mother.

CAT HAS ODD LITTER

SURPRISING PROGENY BORNE BY MALTESE TABBY.

Kittens Tied in Knot Like Double Siamese Twins—Mother Possessed of Peculiarities But Is Good Rat Catcher.

Brooklyn.—Tabby, a fine maltese cat, besides being a source of great comfort to her mistress, Mrs. Grinnell of 598 Lafayette avenue, is really an extraordinary and uncommon creature. She can be counted on once every six months to produce a sensation.

Ever since one Sunday morning she has had all the neighborhood agog. The fame of her latest exploit has spread to remote parts of the borough.

Tabby gave birth to a most remarkable litter of kittens. Three of them had each seven toes on their forefeet and five on their hind feet; but this is or was not to be wondered at, for Tabby herself is possessed of these peculiarities.

The remaining four, wonderful to relate, were all tied in a knot. They were veritably like the Siamese twins, twice over. How they nursed and how they lived a whole week, and might have been living yet had not Mrs. Grinnell humanely ended their complicated existence, is a modern wonder.

There were four separate and distinct bodies, and from four pairs of lusty lungs they gave forth lusty moows, and with their legs they pushed and pawed each other in futile attempts to get apart. And the bewildered mother also tried to separate them. She was so much concerned about her strange offspring that she paid no attention at all to the three that had been born with separate entities, and Mrs. Grinnell, for fear of having them die of malnutrition, drowned them.

Once it was bruited about that Tabby had given birth to a bunch of kittens all tied together, not only the neighbors called to see the monstrosity, but even the neighbors' cats. For a whole week all of the neighbors' cats congregated in Mrs. Grinnell's back yard and cellar to view Tabby's funny little ones, and to discuss the phenomenon in their feline way.

Mrs. Grinnell became very much annoyed at the notoriety given her premises by the Tabby family, and she straightway summoned her nephew, who happens to be an undertaker, and bade him dispatch the quartet of kittens. And now Mrs. Grinnell is seriously considering ending the existence of Tabby herself, for ever since she arrived at maturity the cat has been doing some funny "stunt" like this. Indeed, she is seemingly beyond reform. This, however, Mrs. Grinnell will say in her favor, she is a champion rat catcher. The extra claws with which she is equipped seem to stand her in good stead whenever she goes a-ratting.

Find 5,000 Tons of Coal.

Orange, Cal.—Five thousand tons of coal, mined, piled up ready for shipment, and left to await a claimant, was discovered in the old workings of the Santa Clara mine, when the crew of the Black Star Coal company opened a tunnel. The mine has been closed for upwards of 50 years, and no one in this vicinity knows anything about the former workings. It is believed that much more coal will be found already mined.

Crudely-built coal cars were also found, but they were so rotten with age that they fell to pieces when touched.

NEW BIRDS FOR MOUNTAINS.

Denver Man Brings Them All the Way from Sweden.

Denver, Col.—Two strange birds have arrived in Denver, having journeyed all the way from Sweden. Now they are domiciled in the city park. If the plans of their owner, W. F. Kendrick, succeed, they will be the progenitors of a new race of birds in the Colorado mountains.

They are the capercaille, pronounced caper-kel-zi, and are the size of a small turkey. In habits they are much like grouse and ptarmigan. They thrive best at timber line, and subsist on pine, spruce and hemlock boughs and mountain berries.

Mr. Kendrick, who is tremendously interested in birds and animals, has had an ambition for some time to start the breeding of these birds in Colorado because of their rarity and beauty. He has already bred and liberated thousands of pheasants, but the capercaille were hard to get. For months he has had a commission in Sweden for two perfect birds. As the result of this order, the two arrived recently.

The capercaille is almost as large as and similar in habits to the American wild turkey, with the advantage that it can endure much more severe hardships and cold weather, and will live on food such as is obtainable from the treetops, if necessary, when the ground is deeply covered with snow.

Mr. Kendrick will keep the birds at the park until they breed, his plan being to take the young to the most suitable places in the mountains and liberate them.

RATS MADE OF CHINESE HAIR.

Ton of Pigtails of Deceased Mandarins Received by Boston Dealer.

Boston.—A side light on what women wear in their hair when it comes to dressing it is a mode for the "Merry Widow" hat came out here when the steamer Seneca, from China, steamed into port. In the cargo was a ton of Chinamen's pigtails. It was consigned to a prominent Boston hair dealer, who will use it in making "rats" and switches and puffs.

According to the steamer officials, the importation of human hair from China is a thriving industry. No good Chinaman will part with his pigtail in life, but when he is dead it is different. He usually has a good supply, and his relatives will let it go cheap. Hair from dead people does not make up into extra fine switches, but it will do in the cheaper grade.

There is nothing better than the heavy, coarse, strong, straight hair of the Chinaman, dead or alive, for stylish puffs and rats. It never loses its shape, it stands all sorts of knocking about, and as long as the girl does not know what she is wearing there is no trouble.

CORSET SERVES AS ARMOR.

Steel Deflects Pistol Bullet and Saves Young Woman's Life.

Woodbury, N. J.—The life of Miss Mary Budd, daughter of Andes E. Budd, a farmer on the Hesslan road, was saved by a corset steel.

Walter Leonard of Thorofare, William Simmons and three sons of Budd were shooting at targets, and while Leonard was examining a revolver it was accidentally discharged, the bullet tearing away a part of his left hand and striking Miss Budd in the breast. With a cry, "Oh, I'm shot," she fell.

An examination showed a flesh wound, and Dr. Brewer was summoned, but he found that Miss Budd was not seriously injured, as the corset steel had deflected the bullet. Leonard's wound was not serious.

OFFERS ALL FOR A HUSBAND.

Girl, Deserted by Lover, Seeking Some One to Take His Place.

Pittsburg, Pa.—Who will marry Mary Rowans, aged 24, fairly good looking and willing to quit her job in the Heinz pickle factory to take up that of mistress of a home?

The home is already furnished. There is $450 in bank to Mary's credit. The successful applicant for the job of husband can have all three—Mary the furnished home and the bank account.

Miss Rowans lives at 6 Pulaski alley and was to have been married the other day. Her husband that was to have been a young mill worker. He had been out of work for months and sought to delay the wedding because he had no money to buy a new suit. Mary, however, came up with the cash and also with five dollars with which to pay for the bridal carriage. Then the young man disappeared.

Now Mary announces she is willing to marry anybody who wants her—that is, provided the applicant is passably good looking and is not already a benedict. She says she will turn over the furnished house, which cost her $750 to furnish, and her bank account.

NOTES OF THE SHOW.

Personal and Other Points Picked Up on the Interstate Grounds. Judging Finished. There was only a little finish-up work for judges in some of the classes today and exhibitors were busy getting ready for the get-away.

Car Lot Attractions. The car lot show was a storm-center of attraction all yesterday afternoon when the ribbons were being passed around on the big show of fat cattle and hogs.

Many Visit Plants. Many visitors to the live stock show and military tournament are taking advantage of the opportunity to visit the big packing houses at the stock yards. The packers invite inspection of their plants and every visitor is accorded courteous treatment. Extra guides, to pilot visitors through the plants, have been provided for Interstate week. Approximately 1,750 visitors went through the Swift plant yesterday and saw the workings of a modern packing house.

Swift Enjoyed It. No man who visits St. Joseph takes greater interest in the affairs of the southern suburb than does Louis F. Swift, head of Swift and Company. He arrived Wednesday and was an interested visitor in every department of the show, mingling with the great crowds and having as much fun as anybody.

Eaton Praises Show. F. L. Eaton, manager of the Stock City, Iowa, stock yards and one of the officials of the Interstate fair of that city, was one of the distinguished visitors yesterday. After a tour of the show he, like all others who are accustomed to big affairs of the kind, was unqualified in his praise of the exhibition put up by the Interstate Live Stock and Horse Show association. This was Mr. Eaton's first visit to the St. Joseph show and before leaving last night said: "It is a pleasure to be able to put up so great a combination of shows as your Interstate Live Stock and Horse show and the military tournament. I know your city has some of the best pillars for affairs of the kind in the country, but I confess you have surpassed my expectation in the magnitude and excellence of your week of entertainment and instruction afforded the great crowds drawn here. You have set a pace for all of us Missouri river hustlers."

In speaking of the exhibits Mr. Eaton said: "In point of numbers your exhibit of cattle is far superior to that of our Interstate fair and I notice among your exhibitors several herds that were in our show. As to hogs we far exceeded your exhibit in number, but no show of the fall has or will excel your show of swine in quality."

Among the Visitors.

Among the visitors yesterday and today were Wm. Magivney and wife of St. Paul, Minn. Mr. Magivney is general manager of the South St. Paul stock yards. A D. White, manager of Swift's advertising department, Chicago, was also noted among visitors, as were also Mr. Banks, manager of the Milwaukee yards, and the manager of the National Stock Yards at East St. Louis, Ill.

Among the Buyers.

Among Chicago buyers who were here bidding on show cattle today were noted Wellington Leavitt of Swift & Co., Thomas Cross of Hammond & Co., and Eddie Hess of the Nelson Morris Co.

Horse That Won Applause.

A horse that won a loud outburst of applause during the parade in the ring Thursday afternoon was Aeschylus, the magnificent German coach stallion, exhibited by H. B. Morgan of Walsburg, Kansas. This horse is a dark bay, weighs 1,500 pounds and is an extra handsome animal that will be singled out for applause in any show ring in which he may appear. Mr. Morgan has two other stallions, Coude, a black Percheron, and Harry Brooks, a Kentucky saddle, but had only the one animal in the show.

LAW MAKES TROUBLE.

Farmers Around Glasco Don't Like Paying Taxes in Cash. Glasco, Kan., Sept. 24.—A law passed by the state legislature two years ago seems to have brought his section of the country considerable grief. All summer complaints of the bad condition of the public roads have been coming in. The mail carriers and the farmers complain, and when a doctor has to make a hurry visit he is sure to roar about the roads when he gets back. Of course more rain has fallen this season than ever before, so does that muddy the country, and the floods are, in a measure, responsible for the trouble.

Previous to that there was a property road tax. The amount of this tax was reported to the road overseer, who could order the owner of the property to work out that amount on the highways, and if he failed to comply, the overseer could hire it done and collect the amount from the property owners. But the new law, while it assesses a road tax against property just the same, makes it collectible in the regular manner of collecting taxes. It goes into the county treasury. Then on the order of the proper township officials, back to the township, to be used in employing help to work the roads. And that's where the rub comes. Many of the people got the impression that this money was being held up by the county commissioners and used in other parts of the county. To do this would be embezzlement. The money is just as available as it ever was, only now the road overseer has no authority to compel the property owner to work out that amount. He can only request it, or seek some one else to do the work. So the roads remain unworked while the farmers haul their big loads of produce to town over routes where it seems that wagon and team must some times slide off into a miniature dry river bed.

First Aid to Farmers.

A farmer in Ohio wrote to the department of agriculture that he had struggled for 20 years on an 80-acre farm heavily mortgaged but had been unable to reduce his debt or rise above a poverty that made the bringing up of his family a humiliation. He asked if there was any hope for him upon the farm or if he might as well give up the fight. The department requested that he make a detailed report of his farm and its soils and upon this it based a plan of farming which he was recommended to follow to the letter. According to a writer in the World To-Day, there was a profit the first year of $2,000, and the department believes that ultimately the depleted 80 acres can be made to yield $5,000 a year.

Artificial Gems.

Last year a German association caused surprise to some scientists and disbeliever in others by the announcement that a process had been discovered by which most of the precious stones could be produced by artificial means. Recently several official experts have made an examination of about 40 of these artificial gems. In their report to the Museum of Natural History they say: "Of all the stones we examined, we can only call the artificial rubies a direct success, but the imitation of this species is no new invention. We therefore declare that there is nothing new or sensational in the new invention."

Real Honesty.

A story is related of a young man who was recently married to the daughter of a wealthy merchant. The groom did not have a penny, but he was honest. He was so honest that he would not even prevaricate in the marriage ceremony. He was repeating what the minister said. "With all my worldly goods I thee endow," read the minister. "With all thy worldly goods I me endow," replied the groom. This was real honesty.—Sketch.

Early Training.

"How do you account for Casey's wonderful success as a politician?" "The fact that he used to work in the ditch." "How does that account for it?" "It made him proficient in the art of throwing mud.—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

A REPLY TO BRYAN

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT INDITES A LONG LETTER TO THE DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE.

MAKES ATTACK ON HASKELL'S RECORD

Prolonged Conference of Cabinet Held at White House Regarding the Matter—Too Long to Telegraph It Was Sent by Mail—Submitted to Mr. Bryan.

Washington, Sept. 25.—President Roosevelt Wednesday night, following upon a prolonged conference with members of the cabinet at the White House, prepared and gave out his reply to W. J. Bryan, the Democratic candidate, relative to W. R. Hearst's charges that Gov. Haskell, treasurer of the Democratic campaign committee, had represented Standard Oil interests both in Ohio and Oklahoma. Mr. Bryan had demanded proof of the charges, promising that in the event of their substantiation Gov. Haskell would be eliminated from the campaign.

Dismissing the Ohio case, which involved an allegation of attempted bribery, with the explanation that he had made no direct charge against Gov. Haskell as regards that particular instance, President Roosevelt takes up the matter of the Prairie Oil & Gas company, and argues that Gov. Haskell's action in stopping legal proceedings begun by the attorney general of Oklahoma demonstrates conclusively that he was controlled by the great corporation to which the Oklahoma company was subsidiary.

After contrasting Mr. Bryan's defense of Gov. Haskell as against Judge Taft's repudiation of Senator Foraker, in connection with the Hearst charges against the Ohio senator, the president proceeds to declare that Gov. Haskell's "utter unfitness for association with any man anxious to appeal to the American people on a moral issue, has been abundantly shown by other acts of his as governor of Oklahoma."

The president condemns Gov. Haskell's conduct in connection with the various matters as disgraceful and scurrilous, and calls special attention to what he describes as "prostituting to base purposes the state university." This fresh charge against the governor rests on an article in The Outlook, from which the president quotes and which, he says, forms the conclusion that Gov. Haskell is unworthy of any position in public life.

The president spent almost the entire day in getting the letter in shape. An hour was given to making a rough draft of it which was submitted to Secretary Garfield and Postmaster General Meyer, both of whom made suggestions as to portions of the communication. About three o'clock Wednesday afternoon all of the members of the cabinet now in the city, Secretaries Wilson, Straus, Wright, Metcalf and Garfield and Postmaster General Meyer, met with the president in the cabinet room at the executive offices for a conference on the subject which lasted until after five o'clock. Two hours more were required to make certain minor changes before Secretary Loeb gave it to the press.

Deeming the reply too long to be sent by wire, the method of communication Mr. Bryan had employed in his challenge to the president, it was forwarded by mail to the Democratic candidate at Lincoln, Neb.

Kansas Firemen at Beloit.
Beloit, Kan., Sept. 25.—The Kansas Volunteer State Firemen's association began its nineteenth annual session here Tuesday. An informal reception and a band concert were given for the visitors Tuesday night. In the grand parade Wednesday the following prizes were given: Best appearing fire team, Solomon; handsome chief, W. E. Sheriff of Ellsworth; handsomest fireman, Walter Libby of Marysville; homeliest fireman, Charles Marsh of Peabody.

TRAIN INTO SPRING RIVER

TWO KILLED AND 25 INJURED NEAR CARTHAGE, MO.

A Frisco Passenger Train Leaves Rails While Speeding on a Sharp Curve.

Carthage, Mo., Sept. 25.—Two persons were killed, three probably fatally, and more than twenty-five others less dangerously injured shortly after 8 o'clock Thursday morning when east-bound Frisco passenger train No. 304, left the track on a sharp curve going at high speed, 1 1/2 miles west of this city. The engine and tender rolled into Spring river, at the bottom of the steep embankment and the rest of the train was saved by lodging in trees on the river bank.

When the train was near the curve the engineer lost control and was unable to slow down. It is believed that the rails were spread slightly and that this, with the speed of the train, caused the derailment. The engine and baggage car, torn from the coaches, hurled themselves down a bank forty feet to the river bed and buried themselves in the water, leaving the engineer and fireman under a heap of wreckage on the bank. They were dead when found. The day coach also turned over and over, landing in shallow water, and most of the injured were in this car.

The baggage and express car, next to the engine and tender, was most completely wrecked, pinning the living but injured express messenger in a heap of timbers. Taken out, he refused to go to a hospital because of the valuable property in the wrecked car. It is said he had a package of diamonds and jewels valued at more than $100,000 in the safe.

Behind the first day coach other coaches and a sleeper turned over as they rolled down the embankment toward the stream, and were saved by trees on the bank.

BOER SCOUT MAKES GOOD.

Man Who Slept on Cecil Rhodes' Tomb Shows Worth.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Frank Clifford, civil engineer, Boer scout, prospector, adventurer—and as proof of this last title, the man who slept on the tomb of the late Cecil Rhodes in the Zambesi mountains—is in Minneapolis.

He came in without any flare of trumpets, in fact, just how he got here is material only to himself. He is here and better satisfied with Minneapolis than any city he has yet seen. This man, who has a most fascinating life story, had the good fortune to meet Staff Captain W. H. Gooding, and is now making temporary quarters at the Salvation Army industrial home.

The meeting was fortunate, because Clifford had allowed the cashier of a Bridge Square restaurant to fill his meal ticket with holes. His shoes were already in the same condition, and it looked as if the stary sky was to be his coverlet. Instinctively Capt. Gooding sized Clifford up as a man deserving of a boost.

The boost was given him. It was an invitation to the bed and fare afforded at the industrial home, while a search could be made for employment. There is always lots of work at this home, where rags, paper and other scrap from the city is gathered and converted into cash to sustain a temporary stopping place for just such men as Clifford. The Boer scout took hold, and after two days was sent out on a call for a laborer.

Since then he has had work of nearly every description, except at his trade as civil engineer. In civil life in Johannesburg, South Africa, he has handled big contracts for building reservoirs for hydraulic mining, and did much city work. Not being a citizen here, he says he has been handicapped, but he intends to take out his naturalization papers and overcome that point.

In addition to scouting through the entire Boer war, during which he received three wounds, he acted as scout for the Boers in three Kaffir uprisings. He speaks and writes four Kaffir languages. With his wife and three children he left Johannesburg last November. His wife and family are at present staying with a Boer farmer near Cleveland, O. With the boost given him he hopes to earn enough

PRESIDENT GOMPERS TESTIFIES IN THE CONTEMPT PROCEEDINGS AT WASHINGTON.

HE MAKES SERIOUS CHARGES

Declares That President Van Cleave of Manufacturers' Association Attempted Bribery—Mr. Van Cleave's Statement.

Washington, Sept. 25.—In a 12 by 12 room in the building occupied by the American Federation of Labor in this city, Samuel Gompers, president of the Federation, Thursday introduced the name of Former Secretary Taft and made serious charges against J. W. Van Cleave, president of the National Association of Manufacturers. The charges were made as a part of Mr. Gompers' testimony in connection with the proceedings against himself, Vice President Mitchell and Secretary Morrison of the Federation on the charge of contempt in violating the injunction decree of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, directing them not to publish the Bucks Stove and Range company of St. Louis, as "unfair." Mr. Gompers was at the time under cross examination at the hands of his attorney, Jackson H. Ralston. Mr. Ralston read the portion of Mr. Taft's presidential nomination acceptance speech bearing on the anti-injunction plank, and commenting upon the extract, Mr. Gompers said:

"It is substantially the basis of this injunction suit and these contempt proceedings under that injunction."

Mr. Ralston: "I understand you then it is in reliance upon Mr. Taft's decisions that you are here to-day."

Gompers: "Justice Gould in his opinion so asserts and he quotes from injunctions issued by Judge Taft while upon the bench."

Mr. Ralston: "Judge Taft's standing in the matter then having the indorsement of the National Association of Manufacturers?"

Mr. Gompers: "Yes."

Mr. Ralston asked Mr. Gompers whether there had been any general effort to break down organized labor, and he replied:

"Men have been suborned to spy on their fellow laborers in shops, factories and mines; to report the proceedings of union meetings; to spy on the personal conduct of workmen after working hours, and to follow from place to place labor leaders visiting other cities than their homes. Money has also been used to bribe representative labor men to cease their connection with the labor organizations and direct their activities to the National Manufacturers' association. They have not only been offered bribes in money, but have been offered substantial safeguards for the future."

After giving the details of his own pursuit by detectives, Mr. Gompers then told of being approached in New York by a man named Brogthagen Brandenburg of New York, who, he said, had attempted in 1907 to bribe him in the interest of Mr. Van Cleave.

Mr. James W. Van Cleave, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, who came here Thursday to have a conference with Daniel Davenport and James M. Baker, counsel for the Bucks Stove & Range company of St. Louis, late Thursday night gave out a statement in reply to Samuel Gompers in the contempt case, which has been on hearing here for several weeks. Mr. Van Cleave said:

"I have never employed detectives or intermediaries to shadow Mr. Gompers or any other official of the American Federation of Labor. Neither have I ever offered him a bribe of any kind, nor have I ever had any connection with the men he claims that shadowed him and offered him a bribe. Every reference made therein to me, or action on my part, is false and I believe that Mr. Gompers knew it to be a lie when he made the statements. He seems to be trying to make a cheap martyr of himself. I never have and never will employ any methods that are not straight, square and above board in my dealings with organized labor. I make this statement without equivocation."

SHEATH GOWN IS ANCIENT.

Even Mummies Were Wrapped in Tight-Fitting Fad.

Hittite, Pa.—Prof. Augustus Dobbs, the famous Egyptologist, has returned to his native town after two years' researches along the Nile. One of the most interesting discoveries announced is that the sheath gown was popular in the days of the Pharaohs. Prof. Dobbs brought back a fine assortment of mummies, among them one of the Princess Sceptyl. Upon unwrapping the many embalming clothes, he came to a gown that had a familiar appearance.

It was of fine texture and highly embroidered, but the most remarkable thing about it was the tight-fitting cut. The resemblance to the modern sheath gown was most striking.

The professor says that he has evidence which would tend to prove at a later period, in Egypt, the gown was worn by the women, and ancient records tend to show that the queen of Sheba wore it to make a favorable impression upon old King Solomon, and it also found a place in the outfit of Cleopatra.

The single, tight-fitting gown worn at the present day by eastern women is a modification of the same gown.

GETS DU CHAILLU'S SLEDGE.

Museum of Natural History Receives Relic of Explorer's Travels.

New York.—Paul Du Chailu's sledge, which he used in his winter journeyings in Lapland and described in his "Land of the Midnight Sun," was recently presented to the American Museum of Natural History by Harper Brothers.

The sledge, or kerre as it is called in Lapland, looks like a badly built round bottomed boat with the stern cut off square. It is constructed of nine heavy fir planks, the center one, about two inches thicker than the others, forming a sort of keel which takes the place of runners, but is soon worn down by travel. The sledge is drawn by a reindeer harnessed to it by a single strong twisted leather trace fastened to a collar about the animal's neck. The reindeer is guided by a single rein attached to the horns. These kerres are also used as coffins by the Laplanders.

DIG FOR MONSTER'S GRAVE.

Tooth Picked Up on Farm Clew to Prehistoric Crocodile's Remains.

York, Pa.—Excavation has begun upon the farm of Dr. R. S. Stable, in Manchester township, to recover, if possible, the remains of an immense prehistoric belodon, a crocodile known from fragmentary remains only, which is believed to be buried there.

Not long ago the doctor found a fossilized tooth of large dimensions upon his farm and sent it to Dr. Nixon of the Academy of Natural Sciences at Philadelphia for identification.

The naturalist at once declared it to be a tooth of a belodon, and has encouraged Dr. Stable to make a search, in the hope of finding the complete skeleton of the monster.

"PIE GIRL" IS ALIVE

ACTOR IN STANFORD WHITE DINNER NOT DEAD.

Susie Johnson Declares Money Was Paid Her to Disappear from View—Tells How Feast Was Planned.

New York.—"The Girl in the Pie," who figured so prominently in the amazing revelations of upper life in New York's Bohemia a few years ago and who was reported to have died of consumption, is alive and literally kicking. Susie Johnson—such is her name—did not get married, did not die of consumption and was not buried in Potter's field, as was alleged when the notorious pie incident was brought up during the first trial of Harry Thaw for the murder of Stanford White.

White was one of the diners at the celebrated dinner given by "Jimmy" Breesee, at which the high fliers of New York's rapid set were present. He became much interested in Susie Johnson after she made her sensational exit from the big pie in which she was concealed at the now historic carouse.

A world-wide search was made for her when the matter came up during the Thaw trial, but she was not found. A reporter the other day met the young woman, who is hale and extremely hearty.

"Why did you not contradict those reports of your marriage, desertion and pathetic death?" asked the reporter.

"Money," replied the pie girl placidly as she slipped off her dancing slipper and shook out an ordinary bit of sand. "Money," she repeated thoughtfully. "The same money that makes men take long chances down on Wall street, the same money that makes them sacrifice fame and friends, the same money that makes Mr. Rockefeller happy and Mr. Carnegie build libraries kept Susie Johnson, the girl in the pie," out of sight. I was doing pretty well, thank you, by just keeping still. But now the time for keeping still is past. I just want to say that a lot of stuff published about me was not true.

"No reporter has ever talked to me. I was spirited away when that dinner broke up and no one, not even my own parents, saw me for a long, long time. Perhaps other girls represented themselves as Susie Johnson and did the talking. I never did. They said I was married and that my husband, brooding over my role in that famous dinner, went nearly insane and deserted me. I never married. They said I had consumption. I have never been ill a day. And you'll admit I'm very much alive.

"Now that my lips are unsealed, I am willing enough to talk. My memory for dates is not very clear, but I think that dinner was given in May, 1895. I had been posing for various artists, head and figure, and was just 15 years of age. Henry C. Poor gave the dinner in honor of a business friend, whose name I do not remember, in the studio of James L. Breesee on Sixteenth street.

"I think Robert Reid planned the dinner and Mr. Poor footed the bills, because it was Mr. Reid who engaged me and told me what a great event it was to be. One hundred and fifty quarts of champagne, he said, had been ordered, and the dinner was to cost $100 per plate without the wine.

"He rehearsed me very carefully for the part I was to play. You see, I had pose, for him very often and he knew just what to expect of me. He bought a great shallow pan or tub, just big enough to hold me, and had a cover of crust baked for it. Then the crust was very carefully lifted off, I was put inside and the cover laid over me. My shoulders were draped with black gauze and a blackbird such as you put on a hat was fastened in my hair, which hung down around my shoulders. In my hand I carried a box filled with tiny birds. As soon as the crust was cut I took the lid off this box and out flew the birds. Then I popped up into view."

GIVES HUSBAND TO A NURSE.
Woman Selects Successor in Spirit of Gratitude.

Mount Holly, N. J.—Mrs. Carmine Pallante, wife of a well-to-do resident of Mount Holly, died six months ago after a prolonged illness. Angela Izzi and Christina Izzi, her daughter, of Philadelphia, nursed the woman.

The tender ministrations of the mother, Angela, so endeared the woman to Mrs. Pallante that, when she knew death was near, she chose Mrs. Izzi as her successor in the affections of her husband.

With her dying words she declared that she was happy in the thought that her husband would have a good wife after she died.

The public was in ignorance of the episode until recently, when the news was made public by Pallante, when he married Mrs. Izzi.

Hosiery May Cost a Life.
Spokane, Wash.—His passion for "dude socks," the highly colored, lambent kind, may cost Martin J. Maloney dearly, for the young man, who lives at Colfax, will probably have to have one of his feet amputated and may lose his life as the result of his liking for gay hosiery. Maloney has been confined to his bed for the last ten days suffering from blood poisoning in his feet, which, the physicians say, came from fading colors in his socks.

CHILDREN WITHOUT SCHOOL.

Five Live on Island in Ocean Off Massachusetts Coast.

Boston.—Alone on an island in the ocean, with five children to educate, is the predicament in which the supreme court's decision leaves Henry B. Davis, the sole resident of "No Man's Land."

This little island lies four miles south of Martha's Vineyard. It is included in the town of Chilmark, and Mr. Davis pays taxes on property assessed at $7,000.

In 1904 he moved to the island. His children are 4, 12, 17, 19 and 24 years old. The 12-year-old child is the only one of whom attendance at school is legally required.

In its decision the court regretted that the children should go uneducated, but stated that the petitioner cannot expect the town to furnish and maintain a school for his sole benefit.

Had Mr. Davis' petition been granted, he would likely have had the contract for erecting the school building. One of the scholars would have been appointed janitor, and when a graduate of the school became teacher the educational short circuit would have been complete. In the town of Chilmark there are several school buildings and a library.

In answer to Mr. Davis' petition the court said: "The situation of the petitioner and his children is an unfortunate one. The statute requires him to cause at least one of them to attend school; he pays taxes to the town to a considerable amount; there are no regular means of communication between the island upon which he has fixed his residence and the main island upon which the public schools of the town are situated; communication is often difficult and sometimes impossible. But we can pass only upon the question of law raised by the report. Petition dismissed."

MAN BUYS WOMEN'S GLOVES.
And Wears Them—Surprise for Girl at Glove Counter.

New York.—He sat at the women's glove counter in the department store waiting patiently until the strutting woman buyers would release a sales woman. Finally one came to him.

"I want a pair of tan gloves," he said.

"For yourself?" the girl inquired.

"Certainly," he said.

"Gents' gloves third counter to the right," she announced.

"I know that," said the man, "but please won't you let me buy them here? You see, I've got a small hand and I can get a much better fit in women's gloves."

"Certainly," said the salesgirl, and she brought out gloves and gloves until she found what he wanted.

"We never had a man buy his gloves at this counter before," she said in the intervals of trying on, "but I'm sure I don't see why more men don't buy women's gloves. You can do ever so much better in the small sizes, seven or under. Now, there you have a perfect fitting glove, and I know they don't keep them that small at the gents' counter here."

"I learned the trick a long while ago," said the man as he waited for his change. "A young woman suggested it. She was a sensible girl, and if there were more like her you would do a big business with men here."

LOCK OF HAIR IS ESTATE.
Hamilton (O.) County Enriched That Much by Coroner.

Cincinnati.—Coroner Cameron turned over to the county treasurer $158.33 unclaimed money found among the effects of deceased persons from June 1, 1904, to June 1, 1907. Besides the money, several bushels of trinkets were turned over to Probate Court Judge Malsbury, who will administer the various estates, sell the valuables and turn the money over to the county treasurer.

ODD ARTICLES IN MAIL.

Queer Assortment of Feminine Articles Dropped into Postoffice Chute.

New York.—Uncle Sam's mail has contained many strange articles, but probably none more indicative of a woman's odd habits than a parcel now awaiting an owner at the postoffice. The article, a queer assortment of clothing, was dropped into the corridor letter chute the other day.

The clerk who picked the glove out of the heap of letters investigated the interior of the glove, as it was not stamped and evidently had been dropped by accident. First he drew out a comb such as women wear in their "back hair." Then his fingers touched something hard. One after another he pulled out of the glove the upper and lower plates of a set of false teeth.

Two cigarettes were found in a finger of the glove.

The clerk hurried out into the corridor, thinking that the woman who dropped the glove might be there to claim her property, but no one came forward.

The teeth, glove, comb and cigarettes are in the inquiry department. If they are not called for within a few days they will be sent to Washington.

In her garment and she felt for a pin to hide the damage. Finding none she appealed to her next-door neighbor.

"Have you a few spare pins about you, madam?" she asked.

"The woman had none, but passed the query on, and in a few moments every passenger was looking along concealed edges and turning back lapsels. At last four pins were produced. All of them were contributed by men.

"We never need them as much as the women," said one of the men, "but somehow most of us carry them, and they don't."

"Howlers" Better Than "Healers." Rokitsansky, the father of the well-known operatic singer, was professor of pathology at the Vienna university. Besides the two singers he had another couple of sons, who had acquired a certain celebrity as medical men. One day, when the old professor was asked how his sons were getting on, he replied, shaking his head:

"You see, friends, two of them heal and the other two howl, and the howlers earn four times as much as the healers."

The Gentry. "She's engaged, ain't she?" inquired the haughty blonde at the ribbon counter.

HIS CLOTHES STOLEN

WEALTHY MAN REACHED PITTSBURG IN HIS UNDERSHIRT.

Sneak Thief Completely Cleaned Out the Berth of William E. McMillan, and He Couldn't Borrow a Pair of Pants.

Pittsburg, Pa.—William E. McMillan, president of the McMillan Lumber company, Chicago and Baltimore, was the victim of perhaps the most unique, certainly the meanest, sneak thief who ever entered a Pullman car.

While en route from Baltimore to Pittsburg over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad the thief stole every stitch of clothing possessed by Mr. McMillan while the latter slept. The lumber king, who weighs 200 pounds, had retired wearing only a little dinky athletic undershirt.

He had this when he was waked, and in addition he had been left his vest, a great, gaudy affair. Even his shoes and socks, as well as his roll of money—$250—and about $250 in jewelry, was gone. Nor did he have his hat.

McMillan set the porters and train crew at work to find clothing, thinking that some joker friend had taken it, but it was not to be found. The train had made frequent stops in the night, and it is supposed that at one of the stops the sneak thief got on board and carried off Mr. McMillan's wardrobe without waiting to sort things out.

The plight of McMillan, however, was more pitiful than would at first appear, as the train was racing into Pittsburg at great speed and there was not a man on the train who weighed over 140 pounds, and so the question of borrowing a pair of pants for Mr. McMillan's 200 pounds seemed beyond question.

Finally the Pullman conductor, who weighed 137 pounds, announced that he had three pairs of extra trousers in a locker. Mr. McMillan split two of the pairs trying to get into them, even partly, but the third pair held good, and aided by a sheet kindly contributed by the porter, the lumber king was enabled to reach the baggage shed of the police station, where he got a chance to telephone home for aid.

"I am a peaceable man and I don't want to meet the man who stole my clothes," said Mr. McMillan. "If I do I'm afraid I'll kill him. I traveled about 65,000 miles in the last 18 months, but never had a trick like that played on me before."

"It don't look good to come racing into a big city with nothing on but a short undershirt and a fancy vest, and a lot of splinter weights into whose trousers you couldn't get one leg of, forcing you advice."

DOVE STUCK IN ORGAN PIPE.

Church People Close Steeple and Birds Seek Shelter Elsewhere.

Coatesville, Pa.—There is a sequel of the oddest and most striking sort to the fastening up of all possible entrances to Trinity church steeple with the purpose of shutting out pigeons that had overrun the belfry.

Flying about, lost and bewildered, the birds have since behaved in the saddest fashion, and even when the shades of twilight settled into dusk these birds, accustomed like all others but owls to go to roost with the sun, circled round and round the belfry.

During the services, the choir and congregation were surprised when a pretty pigeon made its appearance at the end of one of the tubes of the pipe organ.

The bird had flown down one of the organ pipes and was only able to get its head out at the lower end. The organ will have to be torn apart to get the pigeon out.

$200 on Clothesline.

Ansonia, Conn.—Two hundred dollars in bills hanging on a clothesline was the sight which attracted attention in Woodbury recently. William Wilhelmy of this city drove to Woodbury to visit his brother. He was caught in a thunderstorm, and when he reached his brother's his trousers were wringing wet. He borrowed another pair while the hired girl washed his.

Wilhelmy went calling on friends, and when he returned he found a crowd in front of his brother's home. The sight of his roll dangling on the clothesline was too much for him, and he collapsed with laughter.

After the girl had washed the trousers she found the roll of bills, and with clothespins fastened each on the line and left them unguarded.

Man Ordered to Wed.

Milwaukee, Wis.—When August Block was arraigned on a charge of abandoning his four children he gave as an excuse that he didn't know how to look after them since his wife fled.

The judge said that if he married a woman within 30 days who would care for the children he would dismiss the charge, and Block is looking for a wife.

Was Anxious About Fido.

Waterbury, Conn.—Mrs. Nelson Chappelle reported to the police that her husband had wandered away from home and she wanted to find him.

She added that the reason she was anxious was that he had Fido with him, and she wouldn't have Fido lost for anything.

HIS LEG IN THE LEMONADE.

Wooden Stump Used as Stirrer Got Harmon Into Trouble.

New York.—That a wooden leg is not a fit and proper instrument with which to stir a bowl of lemonade is the opinion of Nathan Wagner, a restaurant keeper at 215 Park Row. Wagner was dining in his restaurant, when a breathless ragamuffin rushed in from the street.

"Say, mister," he cried, "dere's a guy outside wat put his leg in your lemonade."

Now, in front of Wagner's place is a stand on which he placed a large glass bowl of lemonade to be sold at the rate of a cent a glass. Mr. Wagner, therefore, was quick to get to the sidewalk. To his astonishment, he saw a one-legged man leaning against the bench and slowly stirring the lemonade with a wooden leg, which he had unstrapped from its stump.

"Stop that!" yelled Wagner. The man looked surprised, lifted the leg from the bowl and then deliberately struck the glass a whack that shattered it.

"Hely," cried Wagner, just as Policeman Williams of the Oak Street station came along, and the policeman placed under arrest the man who had swung the leg. When the man was arraigned in the Tombs Police court he was minus his leg. He gave his name as James Harmon, and said that he had no home.

"Why did you break the bowl?" asked Magistrate Kernochan. "I didn't, your Honor," Harmon replied. "You can see for yourself that I couldn't have done it. I have no wooden leg."

"Indeed," said Wagner, wrathfully, "and why? Because I grabbed that leg out of your hand and threw it into the street, and a Dago picked it up and put it in a bag and ran down a side street."

"Well," said the magistrate, "while the police are looking for your leg you can rest safely on the island. Six months."

WOMAN DIES OF ELEPHANTIASIS.

Disease Kills When It Reaches Heart—Victim Weighed 510 Pounds.

Pittsburg, Pa.—After suffering for 19 years from elephantiasis, Mrs. Anna E. Lynch died at her home on the state road near McKeesport. At her death she weighed 510 pounds. Before her affliction years ago Mrs. Lynch weighed 165 pounds. The disease started similarly to erysipelas and the lower limbs began swelling. Her left limb measured 85 inches around the calf and the right 65. Finally the whole body became affected and the physicians claimed the disease killed her when it reached the heart.

Mrs. Lynch was 60 years old and formerly an ardent worker of the first Reformed church of McKeesport. During the past several years she listened to sermons by the aid of a telephone. Many physicians of the United States and Europe visited Mrs. Lynch for the purpose of studying the disease.

Wakes Up in Bed in Court.

New York.—The new combination common council-district court-firmen's dormitory was put into complete operation at Orange, N. J., recently. When a paid fire department was installed recently it was found necessary to enlarge the sleeping quarters. The only space available was obtained by removing some of the seats in the council chamber, which during the week is also used for the district court. It happened that day was the first time the court had sat since the room was transformed.

Fireman William Hanley, who was on night watch, turned in at six o'clock in his mosquito canopied bed in the council chamber. About ten o'clock he was awakened by the rapping of a gavel. He opened his eyes and found that the room was filled with people. Then it dawned on him that it was court day.

A motherly-looking woman had seated herself near Hanley's bed, cutting off all escape, so he pulled up the bed clothes in order to observe the proprieties. Fortunately, there wasn't an alarm of fire during the session. As soon as court took a recess Hanley made his escape.

Buys Stray Dogs to Kill.

New York.—Tarrytown, like every other town, has more dogs than is good for it. The problem of getting rid of them has been serious for Poundmaster William Martin, and as the dogs have not disappeared as fast as the people think they should, he called in the small boys to help him.

To this end he is advertising in a Tarrytown newspaper as follows:

"DOGS WANTED.—To any boy who will bring me a dog, I will give him six tickets for the moving-picture show that will give him an opportunity to enjoy himself every night in the week. William Martin, Poundmaster."

Martin gets $1.25 from the village for each dog he kills, and as the tickets only cost 25 cents, he expects to make $25 a day. The boys are now scouring the village for dogs and they say when the supply in Tarrytown runs short that they will go to other villages and bring them in.

Ticked Mule with Straw.

Philadelphia.—Ticking a mule with a piece of straw George Fields of 426 Division street, Camden, was kicked with such force that he sustained a fracture of the right arm. In an effort to escape from the mule's hoofs he came into collision with Charles Riley and Riley was also badly injured about the legs and body.

"REPUBLIC OF PIGS"

MEXICAN AGITATOR SO DESCRIBES UNITED STATES.

Wroth at His Failure to Start Revolt of Mexican Workmen, with Help from Their Fellow Laborers in America.

Mexico City.—A letter sent to his brother by Ricardo Flores Magon, now in prison at Los Angeles, Cal., and sent here to be translated, throws some light upon the methods of this agitator who tried so diligently to start a revolt of the Mexican workmen and overthrow the Diaz administration.

He said in this letter that it would be a good idea to burn some of the larger factories so that the workmen, being idle, would be more susceptible to advice leading to deeds of violence.

He also refers to the United States as "a nation of pigs who can not be aroused to enthusiasm over anything." He contended that Roosevelt was allied with Diaz to enslave workmen.

Speaking of American intervention in case the revolution succeeded, the letter, as translated, says:

"We have thought much over the possible gringo invasion on account of the revolution. It must be remembered that it has been decided not to circulate the revolutionary manifesto for the precise purpose that Diaz may prepare himself and that we may be able to catch him unprepared."

"As regards Roosevelt, even should he not invade, he would send his troops to the frontier and we would miss the realization of part of the plan in not being able to smuggle comrades from this nation, such as the various groups in Texas."

"But that is not all. With the American people and the organized workmen of this unflinching country, who are not susceptible to agitation, only the unions of El Paso took action. Beyond this, with the exception of Frazedena, there has been nothing of a systematic sort, such as a formal campaign in our favor."

"Here and there, from time to time, paragraphs have appeared in the labor or socialist papers, but there has been no real campaign in our favor in spite of the fact that the collusion of the two governments is flagrant."

"The Americans are incapable of feeling enthusiasm or indignation. This is really a republic of pigs."

"Some time the gringos will have to attack us, so if it be when the people are in rebellion against Diaz, it will precipitate the fall of the dictator because the people will see Roosevelt clearly as allied to Diaz to enslave us, to lose us our autonomy."

HOODOO FOLLOWS THIS FAMILY.

Seven Have Accidents in One Day—All in Hospital.

Philadelphia.—It was hoodoo day for the Bodenstein family of Hope and Palmer streets. By eight o'clock in the evening the father, mother and five children had been treated at St. Mary's hospital for some cause or other.

The hoodoo started at breakfast when the father, John Bodenstein, while attempting to carve the meat carved his wrist instead. Two hours later his wife, Mary, tripped over a foot scraper and broke her right leg.

About this time James, aged eight in attempting to catch a high ball muffed it and suffered a broken nose. Minnie, aged 15, fell from a hammock and suffered lacerations of the scalp. Then George, ten years old, stepped on a rusty nail.

At supper time Harry, aged two while playing with a shoe button, got it fastened up his nose. Then, to cap it all, Lilly, aged six, while going down the cellar stairs, tripped and fell, breaking an arm.

Police Gathered in Freaks.

Atlantic City, N. J.—The police who conducted the second raid of the sea son on the board walk amusements obtained a fine assortment of freaks among which were half a score of barkers, ticket sellers, and "lecturers."

Within a few moments after the arrival of the outfit, which turned the jail into a good replica of a dime museum, the wild man became decently tamed, the mule legged man changed his legs for his regular cork extremities, the snake eater decided he would rather have a sandwich, the tattooed "lady" washed off her "indelible marks," and the bearded woman changed "her" skirts for trousers.

The crowd was gathered in by a squad of police under orders from Chief Woodruff, who had warned all sorts of Bowery shows that they must not run on Sunday. Several thousand visitors were present when the arrests were made, and appeared to enjoy the sights of the freaks being rushed to the patrol wagon.

Bishop Says to Kill Flies.

Milwaukee, Wis.—"The house fly is to us what the wild beasts are to the residents of Africa and India," declares Charles C. Grafton, Episcopal bishop of Fond du Lac.

"As God put man into the world to subdue it, it is part of his duty to put out of existence those who are his enemies in the propagation of disease," he said. "I have known some persons who objected to killing flies because of their natural kindness to animals, but the true character of the fly has only lately been known."

RENEWED ATTACK

WILLIAM R. HEARST READS AN OTHER BATCH OF STANDARD OIL LETTERS.

HITS BOTH THE OLD PARTIES

Former Senator McLaurin of South Carolina Involved—Gov. Haskell Going to Chicago to Meet Mr. Bryan.

New York, Sept. 25.—William Randolph Hearst, addressing, Thursday night, the state convention of the independence League party, as the New York state branch of the National independence party is officially known renewed his attack upon members of both the Republican and Democratic parties, and produced another batch of letters which, he said, were written by, or to John D. Archbold of the Standard Oil company.

One of the letters was addressed to Former United States Senator John I. McLaurin of South Carolina and there was also a letter from Former Senator McLaurin to Mr. Archbold in which the writer declared he could "beat Tillman if properly and generously supported."

Mr. Hearst read also a letter from Representative Joseph C. Sibley to Mr. Archbold and a letter from Mr. Archbold to a "Rep. Senator," whose name did not appear.

Renewing his assault upon Gov. C. N. Haskell of Oklahoma, treasurer of the Democratic national committee Mr. Hearst declared that not only was he "Standard Oil tool and promoter of crooked railroads, but was one of the organizers of the steel trust." He quoted from what he said was a court record of a suit brought by John P. Bailey, Mr. Haskell's law partner in Ohio, against the Illinois Steel company and the Federal Steel company for services rendered by Mr. Haskell as attorney "and organizer."

Mr. Hearst also quoted from what he declared was a recent speech of Mr. Haskell's defending the Standard Oil company, as "having done wonders in the country."

"We know," said Mr. Hearst, "that it has done wonders in the United States senate."

Guthrie, Ok., Sept. 25.—Gov. Charles N. Haskell, Democratic national treasurer, left at 5 p. m. Thursday for Chicago over the Santa Fe, accompanied by State Treasurer J. A. Mense. They go to confer with the national committee and William J. Bryan with reference to the charges made against the governor by President Roosevelt and William R. Hearst. A thorough investigation of the charges will be made. The governor stated that he would make no additional statement relative to the Roosevelt-Hearst charges at present.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—That Mr. Bryan and Gov. Haskell both will be in Chicago on Saturday morning was admitted at the Democratic national headquarters here Thursday night, but no information was given out of that the Democratic candidate and the Democratic treasurer would meet at that their being here at the same time has anything to do with the charges made against Gov. Haskell.

To Make Corporations Pay Up. New York, Sept. 25.—In a letter to Corporation Counsel Francis K. Pendleton, Comptroller Metz Thursday announced his intention to proceed against all corporation debtors to the city for non-payment of special franchise taxes, real estate taxes and local improvement assessments. The arrears aggregate $122,000,000.

AEROPLANES FOR THE NAVY

LIEUT. SWEET FAVORS THEIR USE AS SCOUTS.

Naval Officer Who Has Been Observing the Wright Flights Believes Them Practicable.

Washington, Sept. 25.—Heavier-than-air machines for scouting purposes at sea are now talked of as an auxiliary to the naval establishment. Their practicability for this work is the belief of Lieut. George C. Sweet of the bureau of equipment of the navy, who, by Secretary Metcalf's direction, has been observing the tests of the Wright aeroplane at Port Myer, Va. Holding this opinion, Lieut. Sweet is preparing specifications for a heavier-than-air machine, which, when completed, will be submitted to Admiral Cowley, the chief of the bureau of equipment and Secretary Metcalf for their approval. If this is secured and Lieut. Sweet's suggestions are convincing, it is expected that proposals for the furnishing of aeroplanes will be invited by the navy department. Lieut. Sweet believes that the department should advertise for machines to fly for four hours at 40 miles an hour without landing, to carry 350 pounds and to be capable of alighting on or rising from the water. Their cruising radius, he believes, should be fixed at 200 miles. To rise from and alight on the water would require a small boat-like structure, properly fitted out to serve the same purposes as the skids and the track from which Orville Wright starts his aeroplane.

THE DAVIS HEARING.

Little New Evidence in the Rustin Murder Case at Omaha.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 25.—All day was spent hearing testimony in the case of Charles Edward Davis, who is charged with the murder of Dr. Frederick Rustin. Nearly a dozen witnesses were called, but only two of them, Dr. J. P. Lord, Rustin's former professional partner, and Miss Hannah Dineen, the maid at the Rustin home, had any new testimony to present. Both of these witnesses testified to having seen a man who answered the description of Davis in the vicinity of the Rustin home, and Miss Dineen testified that two half-smoked cigar stumps were found on the porch following the murder. Dr. Lord was quite sure in his identification of Davis as the man he met while the physician was answering the call from the Rustin home.

Mrs. Rice was in the courtroom, but was not called Thursday. The county attorney expects to introduce a new line of evidence Friday, when Mrs. Rice will be the principal witness. She is expected to recite again the tragic story told at the coroner's inquest.

Nipped an Anarchist Plot.

Pau, France, Sept. 25.—The police have arrested several dangerous anarchists who, with others, were engaged in elaborating a plot to assassinate King Alfonso of Spain when he passed through Biarritz on Saturday on his way to Paris.

Gets Pipe Line Permits.

Tulsa, Ok., Sept. 25.—The Prairie Oil & Gas company has obtained pipe line permits through Tulsa, Nowata, Washington and other counties in Oklahoma. A pipe line from Glenn Pool to New Orleans is to be built.

Cortelyou at His Desk Again.

Washington, Sept. 25.—Secretary Cortelyou has returned from his summer vacation, spent on Long Island and resumed his duties at the treasury department Thursday.

TALLOW, FURS, PELTS, WOOL, HIDES

The hide market continues in very quiet condition with practically no demand from the tanners. The packer market has been held reasonably steady, however, some sales have been effected at 1-4 cent per pound less than obtained last week. The whole situation is not at all satisfactory from the tanner's point of view, as they have been unable to secure advances in proportion to the advance in prices on raw material. We consider it policy to keep well sold up on hides, fully believing present prices are full value and market conditions are more in favor of a decline than an advance. Tallow market is steady at unchanged prices. Wool prices nominal.
