GOOD RUN OF RANGE CATTLE

Market About Steady—Native Butcher Market Steady As a Rule, Strong in Spots—Stocker and Feeder Trade Shows Good Effect of Rain—Hog Trade Slow to Open, Prices Steady to 5 Cents Higher—Sheep Steady, Some Feeder Trade.

Receipts from January 1, 1910. The following table shows the receipts from January 1, 1910, and receipts for the corresponding time in 1909:

Live Stock in Sight. The following shows the estimated receipts of cattle, hogs and sheep at the five principal western markets:

Receipts by Cars. The following shows the number of cars of stock handled today at railroads entering at the stock yards:

CATTLE. Native Steer Supply Small, Market Steady to Strong. There is a sharp falling off in the number of cattle coming to the several markets this week compared with last and the heavy rain of this morning should have operated to the favor of the market but, instead of an active opening this morning, it was a slow one, induced to some extent no doubt by the late delivery of a large part of the supply.

STOCKS AND FEEDERS. A heavy rain that fell early this morning and had the appearance of extending over a large scope of country served to put a more hopeful aspect to the stocker and feeder branch of the trade. There were not many cattle suitable to this trade in the native offerings and local buyers were willing to take all attractive offerings at full steady to strong prices.

Wool and Hides. The market for wool was active and strong. Prices were steady to strong. Hides were also active and strong. Prices were steady to strong.

REDFLOWER FOR POULTRY.
Red clover is one of the best foods for poultry, as well as for cows.

MAKING OF HAY.
Wheat, corn and other crops are to more improved by rotation than hay.

THE LOGIC OF IT.
A writer in Moody's Magazine tells why meats are so high. It seems that the system ranches where cattle were being raised up into farms and the land is becoming too valuable to use for live stock.

THEY PLOWED UP FORTUNES.
Kansas Farmer: Last spring Kansas plowed up 52 per cent of her wheat fields and still had more than 4,000,000 acres left. In spite of this loss in acreage she still had the largest area in wheat of any state.

KEEP COOLER DOOR SHUT.
National Provisioner: One New York branch house manager has solved, or at least claims to have solved, the open cooler door trouble.

Buttermilk Salmon.—Baked can salmon with butter-milk.—One can salmon, two eggs, two tablespoonfuls melted butter or cod-liver oil, one cup buttermilk with one-half teaspoonful soda stirred into it.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

When All the Children Ran Away

JACK had been very naughty one day and when mamma had scolded him and said that he would run away 'and never, never come back.'

"It was a long, long time ago," said daddy, "in a little village. Before breakfast one day all the children in the village disappeared. The parents were greatly worried, for it was in a new part of the country without many white people, and the parents were afraid that the Indians had stolen the children or wild animals had eaten them."

"In a little while the missing children were spied in a little hollow at the side of the road, where they had stopped to rest. Then the daddies of the village shouted 'Henry' and 'Mary' and all the children of the village looked up and climbed out of the hollow and came running up to the daddies."

"Why, daddy," said Evelyn, "that was very funny. Were all the children of the village named Henry and Mary?"

"Yes, dear," answered daddy, and his face wore the great big wide smile which he wears only when he is 'fooling,' as Evelyn used to say when she was a wee little girl.

"You see, Mary and Henry were all the children there were in the village. And the daddy who went to hunt for them was all the daddy there was, and the mother who stayed behind to prepare breakfast was all the mamma there was. It was only a wee little village with two houses, and the people in the other house had no children. Henry was only four years old, and Mary was only a baby two years old. They had made up their minds to go and pay a visit to their grandma, who lived near them, without saying a word to their parents."

while far below that of natural ice, is still no mean item of packing house in branch house operation, and the total is added to by every little B. T. U. which elates in through the cooler door when some careless beef lugger or salesman leaves it ajar.

It is an uncommon sight to see the cooler door left wide open while the luggers are bagging carcasses outside the cooler or running them to various points along the rail. Such practices certainly should be stopped. It may seem a small end of the business, but American packers, with their reputation for economical operation, will find that a cooler door left open or ajar is no mean item, especially when minus margin of profit in meats at this time is considered.

Therefore, don't be lenient with employees who are careless in the matter. It's too expensive.

Watermelon Rind Preserves.—The trouble of soaking the peeled rinds in brine, alum water, etc., being the final preserving is such that many who are fond of this delicious preserve do not care to attempt making it often. Try this simple way: After peeling rind carefully and cutting desired shape, weigh and allow scant equal weight of sugar. Mix well and let stand over night, which will draw the juices, making it unnecessary to add water. Add a sliced lemon to flavor and boil until fruit is clear and syrup thick. Put in jars and keep in cool, dark place.

New Way of Keeping Fruit.—The following directions are given for the process of keeping fruit in jars covered only with cotton batting: Use clean, one-quart jars, or any other convenient dishes. Prepare and cook the fruit precisely as for canning in glass jars; fill your dishes with fruit while hot and immediately cover with cotton batting, securely tied on. Remember that all putrefaction is caused by the invisible organisms in the air. Cooking expels all these, and they cannot pass through the cotton batting. The fruit thus protected will keep an indefinite period.

To Preserve Berries Whole.—Buy the fruit when not too ripe, pick over immediately, wash if necessary, and put in glass jars, filling each one about two-thirds full. Put in the preserving kettle a pound of sugar and one cup of water for every two pounds of fruit and let it come slowly to a boil. Pour this syrup into the jars over the berries, filling them to the brim, then set the jars in a kettle of cold water on the stove and let the water boil and the fruit become scalding hot. Take them out and seal perfectly tight. If this process is followed thoroughly the fruit will keep for several years. This recipe can be applied to other fruits also with success.

Cream Tomato Soup.—Put contents of one quart cup of tomatoes in granite stew pan, put on stove, and boil five minutes, then strain and mash them through colander, put back on the fire and add soda the size of a hazelnut; let it boil until it stops foaming, then add a piece of butter the size of a walnut, tablespoonful of sugar, salt and pepper to taste, and a little real smooth creamy thickening stirred in slowly, and let cook about five minutes. In another granite pan have one quart of rich milk or part milk and part cream, heat it to the boiling point, but do not boil. When ready to serve remove from the fire and pour slowly the hot thickened tomatoes into the hot milk, stirring the milk until all is well blended, then serve in warm bouillon bowls with salted waters or triangles of this toasted bread. This makes a delicious soup. Never cook milk and tomatoes together or they will curdle and always use a silver or wooden spoon in igniting.

CARE OF CURTAINS.
To Color Curtains.—To color lace curtains, go to your druggist and procure 5 cents' worth of powdered rhubarb. Wash the curtains as usual, rinse in clear water, dissolve rhubarb by pouring hot water on it, mix into the starch, and starch the curtains in the usual way.

CHARLES P. TAFT'S ENTERPRISE.
 Portland, Tex.—Charles P. Taft, owner of the 160,000-acre ranch bordering on this part of the Gulf coast, has given orders for the establishment of a number of industrial enterprises at Portland, which is one of the towns situated upon the ranch. It is stated by John C. Willacy, who is to have charge of the improvements that more than one-half million dollars will be spent during the next twelve months in the work that has been planned. The chief purpose is to make Portland a great winter and summer resort. A large hotel will be erected, a golf course laid out, an automobile drive constructed along the bluff overlooking the waters of the bay, and a large dam built across the mouth of Gum Hollow to form a body of water to serve as a duck-shooting preserve. Industrial plants, including an oil mill, ice factory and creamery will also be established.

FERTILIZERS.
 Complete fertilizer is a general name applied to all fertilizers which contain phosphoric acid, potash and nitrogen. This name does not in any way indicate how much of each element is found in the goods.
 At a farmers' meeting in Durham, N. H., President F. W. Taylor suggested as a fertilizer mixture for corn 200 pounds of nitrate of soda, 200 pounds of sulphate of ammonia, 400 pounds of tankage, 100 pounds acid phosphate, 200 pounds nitrate of potash.

nd-eolabun mlseg shrdl emf emymfsw TO BUILD BRICK PLANT.
 Cottonwood Falls, Kan.—The organization of a new brick and tile company by Charles and Lyon County promoters has just been completed, with capital of $20,000. The plant is to be built on B. S. Kempton's farm at Saffordville, eleven miles east of this city. W. L. Huggins, H. E. Ganse, Howard Dunlap, J. M. Peters and William Allen White, editor of the Emporia Gazette, are promoters, and B. S. Kempton of Saffordville, are among the heaviest stockholders.

INSECTICIDES.
 The leading insecticide for summer use is arsenate of lead. Add eight pounds of arsenate to lead to fifty gallons of water or Bordeaux mixture. Arsenate of lead is in the form of a thick white paste, which dissolves readily in water. It adheres to the foliage for a long time and does not "burn" the leaves. For coding moth (apple worms) and plum curculio, also for canker worm, tent caterpillar and all insects which eat the leaves.

TO GROW CHICKENY.
 Chickery can be grown wherever carrots can be grown; culture the same. This refers to chickens for commerce, which is used as an adulterant of coffee. Sow the large-rooted variety. If a salad is wanted, sow the common variety, which should be transplanted in sand in the cellar and kept moderately moist, when a new growth will start; this second growth is very highly prized by French and German cooks.

DRAINAGE IN LOUISIANA.
 Collinston, La.—The Coulee drainage canal has been completed and was celebrated by a big barbecue. This drainage district comprises 18,000 acres of alluvial land in the parish of Morehouse, and is the first public enterprise of the kind in the parish. The cost of the canal and its several laterals was $33,000, and this was raised by a tax of 20 cents per acre on all the land in the district for a period of twenty years.

GOATS FOR MILK.
 The milk goat, like all other goats, can make a living on brushy and hilly land, where most other animals would starve. They are very beneficial to land in clearing it of weeds, sprouts and brush. They can not endure low, wet land, but thrive perfectly on rough, hilly land. Those giving milk should be fed on good grass, hay, fodder and wheat bran, but no grain of any kind.

TO KILL CANADA THISTLES.
 It is useless to hunt for some preparation that will kill Canada thistles and quack grass. There is no such remedy that is worth anything. Cultivation so thorough that it will prevent growth above ground for one growing season is the only effective method of procedure. When growth above ground is prevented the roots must die, for they leave no lungs through which to get oxygen.

OAKLAND GROWS RAPIDLY.
 Oakland, Cal.—The board of Public Works report of building operations for the fiscal year just closed shows that 3785 building permits were issued during the year, providing for the erection of structures to cost $5,561,645.88. This is 295 permits more than were issued during the twelve months of the previous year, and shows an increase in the cost of construction of $629,209.22.

LAKE CHARLES IMPROVEMENTS.
 Lake Charles, La.—By an overwhelming majority both of voters and property holders, Lake Charles has authorized an issue of bonds for $200,000 for public improvements. The assessed valuation voted was over $600,000. Only ten and a trifling amount of property was against the severance system. The new city hall and fire equipment bonds were voted almost unanimously.

NOTABLE CEREMONY IN SIAM
 Presentation by the King of Yellow Robes to Priests of Buddhist Temples.

Once a year, says a writer in the Wide World Magazine, all the Buddhist temples in Siam are visited by the king, or his deputies, bearing the Phra Kathin (yellow robes), in conformity with an ancient custom by which the priests were made to seek their apparel for the ensuing year. During the lifetime of Buddha, monks and priests were sent out to beg for old, cast-off garments, which were afterward dyed yellow and patched together to form the required robes. This ancient mendicant custom gradually gave place to the present one of making the garments from new cloth of a bright canary yellow, provided by joint contributions of king, princes, nobles and commoners. When the king goes in the royal throne barge to present the robes in person he does so with great pomp and ceremony. The priestly garments, folded in bundles, are carried to the door of the temple to await the appearance of his majesty and his suite. The king, on arriving, takes a priestly robe and places it on a decorated altar. The chief priest then lays his hands on the garment and chants an acknowledgment.

HUSHED SHRIEKS OF VICTIM
 Little Woman Found One Good Use for Discarded Notes of Carolers.

The shivering carollers had just selected a pitch beneath a lamp in a back street, when a small boy emerged from a house opposite and beckoned mysteriously to their leader. "Mother says you're to sing something loud," he whispered. "That bit about 'Peace on earth' will do fine. She don't want no others. Just run you go hollerin' 'Peace on earth.'"

For ten minutes the willing minstrelsy yelled their loudest. Then a little woman, armed with a copper saucepan, appeared upon the scene. "Thanks!" she said, handing the collector three-pence. "That 'Peace on earth' 'as done it beautiful! My ol' man went to fetch the turkey 'e won a raffle to-night, an' comin' home, 'e made one or two calls and lost it, so I've be a-teachin' 'im to be more careful, an' I ain't want none of 'e neighbors to interfere when 'e 'ollerer out."—Pearson's Weekly.

St. Thomas of Canterbury.
 The festival of St. Thomas of Canterbury, from being perhaps the most popular of saints' days in England, has now fallen into complete desuetude, and its revival is not advocated by even the most fervent of Anglo-Catholics. It was Henry VIII, who destroyed the Becket tradition. The king was (as always) in need of money, and the shrine of St. Thomas of Canterbury Cathedral seemed a suitable object for legalized loot. So in 1538 an order was issued that the bones of the saint should be burned and the offerings made at his shrine—the trophies of three centuries and a half—forwarded to the crown. Becket was to be decanonized, his images to be destroyed and his name erased from the service books. The work was faithfully performed. "The name of Geta," writes Dean Staunley, "has not been more carefully erased by his rival brother of every monument of the Roman Empire."

Postscript Cookery.
 A teacher in a cooking school employed a typewriter to make manifold copies of some of her special recipes. The thing about the recipes that really interested the typewriter was the postscripts appended to each one. "Why do you have to have postscripts in a cook book?" she asked. "That is the only way to make most women stick to directions," said the teacher. "In every recipe there is one point that is particularly important, or failure depends. Most women when they get in a hurry are likely to slip things together any old way and trust to luck for the dish to turn out right. A postscript makes them slow up a bit. There never was a woman who wouldn't pay attention to a postscript, so by putting the most important part of a recipe into that I compel my pupils to follow instructions."

An Author's Inspiration.
 My inspirations for "Quo Vadis," that early and most popular of all my productions, had their source in my study of three famous masterpieces. First of all, in the works of Tacitus, with which, of all the Latin classics, I am best acquainted. Then I was deeply influenced by Chateaubriand's "Gene de Christianisme," especially by what he has written about the early Christian martyrs. But I owe most of all to the English cardinal, Wiseman's "Fabiola: The Church of the Catacombs," an able and picturesque story which exercised over me a powerful fascination from dawning boyhood.—Henry Steinkiewicz, in London Chronicle.

INDIANS AT FAIR.

Big Chiefs Hold Powwow and Decide They Are in Favor of Plan.
 Colony, Okla., July 30.—The chiefs of the Cheyenne and Arapaho tribes of Indians met lately in council with the superintendents of the four Indian agencies to discuss the holding of an Indian fair at which would be shown exhibits of live stock and farm products grown by the Indians. This was the first council ever held by these Indian tribes to discuss such an undertaking. These Indians have changed little since the days they roamed the plain country of the southwest and were at war with the whites.

The Indians were told that the fair would be held at some central point in the fall, after their crops had been gathered. They were asked to discuss the matter. Several of the chiefs had only the most vague ideas of what a fair was. Many of their statements were childlike. Grant Left Hand of the Arapahos said his people were in favor of the fair. Prairie Chief had heard that the federal government had approved the scheme, which made him a booster, and caused him to say that the old enmity between the Indian and the white man had passed away. Cloud Chief thought that the Great Spirit had put it into the hearts of the Indians and the white men to hold the fair. The only fear of White Spoon was that contraband whisky would be sold to the Indians and that this would cause "bad trouble."

Three fingers, playing a little politics, was confident the fair would be a success, but thought that one of the agency districts would "come out behind." Standing Water was of the same opinion, but did not name the district. Heap of Crows said his people were trying to do their best, regardless of their superintendents' encouragement. Chief Moore of Cantonment, struck a familiar subject by saying that some of his people were in need of money. Jack Bull Bear was for the fair, but doubted that good crops would be raised this year, which would be a knock on the plan.

EAGLE ATTACKS CAT FINDS SERVANT IS COUNTESS

Meets With Tremendous Surprise and Drops Its Prey.

Boon Returns and Renews Hostilities and Air is Filled With Fur and Feathers—Farmer Witness Calls it a Draw.

Goshen, Ind.—Jacob Eckleberger, a farmer, near Goshen, tells of a thrilling fight between a cat and an eagle. It was talons and beak against claws and teeth, and resulted in a draw.

Eckleberger was plowing in a field, and saw what at first he took to be a chicken hawk sweeping down on his barnyard. He thought it was after a chicken and stepped to the fence to watch the result. Closer inspection revealed it to be a small eagle, but the bird swooped, struck and rose, but to the farmer's surprise, it held in its talons not a chicken, but his large tom cat. The eagle held the cat by the back. The cat's four feet were extended and its tail pointed toward the zenith.

Forty feet from the ground, the cat gave a twist, wriggled from the grasp of the bird and fell to the earth, seemingly unhurt. The bird circled and made another swoop, but this time the cat was waiting for its feathered adversary and when the bird struck, things happened. For about three minutes the air was full of fur and feathers.

The eagle withdrew, baffled, to a distance of about 15 feet, dragging one wing. The cat hid its back high in the air, and both cat and eagle were hissing and spitting. Finally, the cat crouched and began creeping slowly and steadily toward the eagle, its tail dragging. Its fighting blood was up.

The eagle stood with one foot lifted, turning its head from side to side, the better to observe its adversary. The feathers on its neck were ruffled. The cat hugged the ground a little closer and then sprang. It evidently expected the eagle to attempt to leap to one side, for it spread its legs far apart.

The cat, however, made a mistake. The eagle turned on its back and drove its talons into the cat's breast and tried to strike it in the eyes with its beak. The cat missed the bird's neck and got its wing. Then the air became full of fur and feathers again.

The farmer's little son had seen the encounter from the front of the house and ran as fast as he could toward the scene. He was afraid his pussy was going to be carried off. His shout frightened the cat and it released its hold for a minute, the bird struggled free, ran about 20 feet and landed with heavy wing and badly tattered plumage in flight. The cat climbed the fence, mewed, licked its breast and mewed again, eyeing its fleeing adversary with baleful eye and switching tail.

Eckleberger says he would have given $100 to have seen the finish of that fight. As it was he felt compelled to call it a draw. He says the cat never leaves the house now, but he gazes half anxiously, half expectantly, into the sky.

EEL SWATS WITH ITS TAIL

Lands on Fisherman's Jaw with Hard Swing as Man Goes Tumbling Into Jersey Canal.

Bloomfield, N. J.—An odd adventure befell an eel and a man in the Morris canal. Both were in great danger, but both finally got away safely. The eel was eating its breakfast on the west side of the canal when Frank Tomski of Lock street took a stand on the bank and dropped a hook and line in the water.

The eel rose to investigate. It had its mouth open and was about to swallow the worm on the hook when John Fritz of Franklin avenue, it is alleged, slipped up behind Tomski and pushed him overboard. Tomski, in falling, flung out his arms and unconsciously grabbed the neck of the eel with one hand and the hook with the other. The eel, in fright or rage, whichever it was, whirled its body out of the canal and gave Tomski a slap with its tail in the face that made him let go its neck in a hurry. The eel then got away.

Fritz, meantime, stood on the bank and laughed at Tomski's discomfiture. It is alleged he ran away though when he saw Johnson McQueen coming. McQueen had hard work saving Tomski from drowning, inasmuch as Tomski had got tangled in the line and was encumbered, too, by a heavy raincoat, and, to add to his troubles, couldn't use his right arm because the hook had caught in his thumb.

of them—which infest the city garbage dumps, threaten to overrun the residence section of Summit, and the board of health has appealed to experts in New York city to provide a means for their extermination. Children on their way to school have been making long detours because of their fear of being bitten.

One of the rats seen recently by city employees is reported to be fully two feet long, and many of the others are nearly as large.

The rats have driven away the stray curs that used to get their living at the dumps, and the scarcity of wandering dogs has left the dog warden without a job.

Badgers Are Pets.

Spokane, Wash.—A badger has been inaugurated by young women of Othello, Washington, which threatens to cause a rise in the badger market.

The badger is domesticated badgers for pets, and already several of these animals are enduring captivity. It is not an unusual sight to meet a badger on the streets of Othello on an afternoon, in tow of its fair mistress.

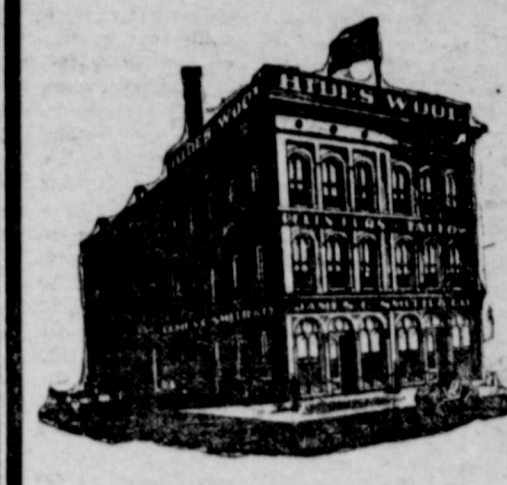

The animals seem to take kindly to their new sphere and submit peaceably to the fondling of admirers.

TALLOW, PELTS, WOOL, FURS and HIDES

When we want hides we are willing to pay good square prices for them. When we don't want them we don't care to pay 2c per pound more than we can sell them for, but we always stand by our quotations even if we know we will loose the 2c per pound.

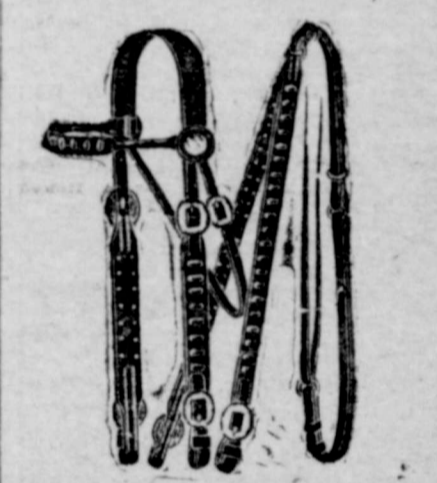

Now we want short haired hides and have advanced our prices, but don't get too bullish with your offerings. It always pays the seller to sell when someone wants to buy. So now is your time to ship us, put up your hides properly, allow 4 per cent for shrinkage in transit and you will receive check for amount of your bill at below figures less freight. Ship them now even if you haven't but one hide. See that all hides have been well salt cured before shipping.
