CATTLE.

Supply Mostly Rangers, Market Slow Steady to 10 Cents Lower.

Un satisfactory market conditions last week did not deter the country from sending in a large supply of cattle at all of the leading markets today. The total at five leading points was $2,000 and showed an increase of 7000 over the number at the same points last Monday and a year ago. At the local point the total was placed at 4900 and showed an increase of 500 over number here last Monday but 800 less than a year ago. The local supply for today was largely made up of rangers with about 600 of them credited to the quarantine division. There was almost an absolute lack of fed native steers here this morning and the native contingent was largely made up of an ordinary class of grassers. Buyers were slow to take hold as reports from all outside points favored a lower market and bids here were started on a lower level. For the few native cattle on offer the market finally ruled steady to a dime lower and the small supply was used up on this basis. But with the class of natives here the buyers preferred the westerns which they were able to buy at mostly a dime under prices of a week ago.

The market did not have a chance to develop owing to the absence of any considerable supply of natives.

COWS, BULLS AND MIXED.

There was a fair showing of native cow stock in the arrivals of today and on the part buyers all made a play for sharply lower prices. Bids on first rounds were unevenly a dime to 20 cents lower but the market was finally started at around a dime lower for the fat and cutter grades and close to steady for the cutter grades. Late in the day the market became fairly active at the prices and a good clearance was made.

Dry fed heifers are quotable at $4.75@5.25; bulk are selling at $3.75 @4.25, and common kinds at about $3.00@3.75. Best dry lot cows might sell up as high as $4.75 but there are not many coming that sell above $4.00 and the bulk of fat cows are going at $3.50@4.00 with cutters and cutters ranging down as low as $3.00 and under.

There was not a big supply of calves here and prices were held at a steady level on a basis of decline last week with the best veal worth around $1.00. Bulls were slow and steady to weak.

HOGS.

Sharp Advance of 10 to 15 Cents on Bulk, Some Sales 20c Higher.

The beginning of the week did not bring any show of increase in the supply of hogs arriving at the several market points. The total at the five leading points was only 26,200 and the number was slightly less than for the same time last week and the corresponding Monday a year ago. On the local market the supply was about the same as a week ago and shows a small increase over the same time last year.

The appearance of the light run at the several markets at once started the packers out on the look for hogs and prices were advanced fully 10 to 15 cents with some of the sales showing an advance of 20 cents over the cost of the same kinds of hogs on Saturday. The market was a lively one at the advances and the hogs were well out of first hands before noon. Quality of the hogs was quite good.

Prices ranged from $9.25@9.50, with the bulk selling at $9.25@9.70. The bulk Saturday sold at $9.00@9.55, a week ago at $9.15@9.50, a month ago at $8.60@8.55, a year ago at $8.90@8.70, two years ago at $8.90 @7.10, three years ago at $8.55@6.25, four years ago at $8.15@6.20.

SHEEP.

Market For Sheep Steady But Fat Lambs Were a Dime Lower.

In the neighborhood of 1900 head of western range stock were received at the local yards this morning. Receipts were practically all lambs, only two cars of heavy feeders included in the run. A big end of the supply arrived in feeder flesh and required considerable sorting to shape bunches suitable for the killer trade. Packers were out at an early hour and showed no tendency to hold back, bidding readily on all offerings from the start. Trading was fairly active on fat grades and by noon packers had cleaned up everything that would meet their requirements. Prices for fat sheep remained unchanged compared with the close last week, although fat lambs were quoted fully a dime lower. Feeder buyers were not as plentiful as they were the latter part of last week and as a consequence movement was rather slow. It being late in the day before a clearance could be made. Sellers were able to secure steady prices for these kinds compared with any time last week.

CROP OUTLOOK

Many Believe Prospect of Record Corn Output Better Than Ever.

MARK ASSURED FOR OATS

Margin Now 38,000,000 Bushels and More Gain Expected—Hay Shortage Reduced

August Report Showed Deterioration in Corn But Grain Experts Think Recent Injuns Have Overcome the August Injury and That Crop Will Make a Record—Spring Wheat Crop Is Short in Most Sections.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Although the government report issued yesterday indicated a loss in corn suffered during August, there are many grain authorities under the impression that if the effect of the generous rains that have fallen since the official report was compiled was taken into consideration the total crop would probably be far in excess of the figures given out.

A loss of a little more than one point in August is not regarded as of material importance by the trade in general, and the attention is called to the fact that the total already indicated, 2,896,000,000 bushels, is 3 per cent in excess of the yield indicated on Sept. 1, 1909, when the largest crop on record was raised. It is believed with confidence that the October report will show an improvement, as it is customary for the government to raise its estimate during the month of September.

As the crop stands now nothing but early frosts of a damaging nature and extent can keep this year's production from breaking all previous records. This is the opinion of many traders, as it is customary for the government to raise its estimate during the month of September.

Edith Tantlinger, however, is not the only gifted cowgirl of Oklahoma who shows her skill with the 101 Ranch Show. A score of others are close rivals in all the picturesque and spectacular achievements. They ride "bucking" horses that even the audacious cowboys fear. Their racing contests are so stubbornly fought out that limb and even life are at stake. Their trick riding is the despair of masculine imitators.

The wheat crop is practically assured and will total close to 676,000,000 bushels, against 737,000,000 bushels, last year. The three northwestern states will spring 142,800,000 bushels the total spring-wheat crop of 218,000,000 bushels, having made a gain of 9,000,000 bushels in the month of August. This improvement was attributed to rains at the time of filling, especially in Minnesota, which gained 5,300,000 bushels in the month.

GOT THEM GUESSING.
Omaha Journal-Stockman: The hog situation still has them all guessing. Packers are not talking very cheerily as they have been badly disappointed in receipts of late. Increased weight of the offerings indicates that the country is not afraid to put plenty of pigs into pork at prevailing relative values and the fall deluge of young stock has not materialized. In the meantime the whole country continues prosperous and busy and the demand for both fresh and cured meats is all that could be asked. It is a most unusual situation, take it all in all, but one that need cause the producer no worry.

WHY THEY FAIL.
Dispatch from Washington, D. C., reads: The department of agriculture's experts have concluded that the city man may take a living as a farmer, but that for several reasons he is more likely to fail. W. J. Spilman of the department of farm management, says that the city man who tries farming confronts a hard proposition and, though it is possible for him to make it a success, the result is a failure in the majority of cases. "Wages in the city have been raised, but they have not kept pace with the cost of living," says Mr. Spilman. "The city man is being hard pressed to make both ends meet. It is only natural, then, that he should look toward the country. But, as a rule, he tackles a job that is too hard for him and usually ends in failure because of his inability to grasp the technical side of farming."

NOT RESPONSIBLE.
National Provisioner: As is the case with other departments of the field it represents, the National Provisioner endeavors to give its readers in the cottonseed products industry the latest trade news and the most authentic market information from week to week. It cannot prevent other trade publications which appear a day or two later each week, and which seem to edit their cottonseed products departments with the shears, from using without credit the formation first appearing in the columns of The National Provisioner. When such matter is borrowed, and due credit is given, The National Provisioner appreciates the compliment, as well as the good faith of the borrower. But The National Provisioner cannot be responsible for the accuracy of matter appearing in other publications and credited to it. Even "shears editors" are not immune from error.

FARMER AND AUTOMOBILE.
The poor farmer, who has always been a convenient scapegoat for everybody else's follies, is now being hammered because he owns an automobile, says Leslie's Weekly. Yet there is no class of people to whom an automobile may mean more than to the farmer. We once heard an old farmer remark that a manure spreader was more necessary on a farm than a plow. When it comes to a farmer's chattels, it should be understood that the automobile doesn't come in the plain class of luxuries. As an implement it will be classed after the traction plow, and in opening up $25,000, 000 acres now inaccessible it will rank next to the irrigation ditch. Wherever the automobile has gone it has done missionary work for good roads, and it will continue to do that in the hands of the 25,000 farmers who now own cars.

ABLE TO HOLD CATTLE.
Fort Worth Live Stock Record: As live stock agent for a railroad that moves a great deal of cattle, Mr. Sparks is in a position to speak authoritatively of the cattle situation in Texas. As a result of the recent general rain, especially in west Texas, the cattle movement to pasture caused by the drought will cease and there will

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Mother Bird And the Hen

ONE day Evelyn and Jack had been watching a mother hen take care of her brood of chickens. They found it very interesting and amusing to see how well the big mamma hen looked after her little ones, scratching up worms for them to eat and calling them together under her wings when any animal or person got too close to them. When night time came the children were still talking of the mother hen and her chickens and were eager to tell daddy all about them. That made daddy think of something he had seen a mother hen do when he was a boy and lived on a farm, and this he told to Jack and Evelyn that evening. "The hen of which I am going to tell you," said daddy, "had a large number of chicks. I do not remember just how many there were, but I think there must have been at least ten of them. The mother hen was very proud of her chicks and would chuck loudly when any one came to look at them, but if any one came nearer than she thought was safe for her little ones she would ruffle her feathers and try to peck. This hen and her chickens were allowed to run around a large yard where there were plenty of worms and bugs, and they had plenty to eat. "In a tree near the yard in which the chickens scratched was the nest of a wee mother bird which had four little ones. I know there were four of them because once I climbed the tree and peeped into the nest. But I did not disturb the little birdies as some bad boys do. Well, of course, the mother bird did all she could to find food for her youngsters. She looked down into the yard and saw the mother hen scratching away busily and thought there would be a good place for her. But when she flew down and tried to pick up a worm the mother hen, which was very selfish, flew at her, scolded her in the bird language and tried to frighten her away. "At first the little bird was really frightened and flew away, but after awhile, as her little ones cried for food, she flew back again into the yard and again tried to pick up a nice fat worm. The mother hen saw her again and flew at her to drive her off, but this time the other mother bird was not so easily frightened. She flew only a little distance in the air, stopped and came down directly over the hen's back. What do you think she did then? "I can't tell," said Evelyn, and Jack said the same. "Why, she alighted on top of the mother hen's broad back, pulled out a feather and flew away with it. That made the hen very angry, but she could do nothing against the little bird. Many times the mother bird flew down and plucked feathers from the hen's back until the hen called her chick to her and went out of the yard with them. After that the other bird was able to get many worms and bugs from the yard."

also be a check to this rush of drouth-stricken cattle to the markets. The cattle movement from west Texas was well under way and a lot of cattle have already been shipped out to Oklahoma pastures and to market, but Mr. Sparks says he does not look to see a very great many cattle shipped out now. "The number of cattle to be shipped out of west Texas from now till the close of the shipping season depends upon the amount of rain that section has had," said Mr. Sparks. "It has been so dry out there that it will take almost a week's rain to accomplish the desired result. From what information I have received I am of the opinion that the drought in west Texas is broken and that cattlemen will be in shape to hold their cattle from now on."

NEW TEXAS INDUSTRY.
San Antonio, Tex., Sept. 10.—Gourds, not exactly the old fashioned kind that we drank out of at the well, but a home-bred variety called the dish rag gourd, is the newest industry to develop in Texas and hold out big possibilities of profit. Albert Schwenke, formerly of Germany, now located in Harris county on the Gulf Coast, is the farmer who has demonstrated the possibilities of the dish rag gourd. The fibre of this gourd is extensively used in Germany for manufacturing the coarser forms of crash and burlap. The available supply is limited to Japan and Africa and in these countries certain pests having attacked the gourd the German manufacturers are up against a shortage in the crop. Mr. Schwenke found out by correspondence that six million pounds were needed to supply these manufacturers, so he started in to experiment. By cross colonization he produced a product splendidly adapted to Texas conditions. A year or two of experimentation has proved that no insects attack this plant and that it flourishes. The gourds grow from 18 to 25 inches long and for a gourd this size the German manufacturers pay three cents. Mr. Schwenke says that he has been able to grow about three thousand plants to the acre and that by pinching off the smaller gourds each plant will produce ten gourds of the required size. This makes 30,000 gourds to the acre, which at three cents apiece produces the handsome sum of $900.

Prof. H. Nees, the state horticulturist, reports that he examined the gourd plantation and found the plants trained on trellises 18 or 20 inches apart in rows and connected by a line of one by four and built on posts 12 feet high connected by perpendicular wires for the plants to run on. He reports that the dry weather did not seem to affect the plant and that the product by first tearing off the rind and then steeping in a vat is easily prepared for market, the fibre being separated from the pulp and the seed. Prof. Nees also reports that no great capital is necessary to engage in this industry, the cheapest and simplest agricultural implements being used in the cultivation and the crop is very easy to harvest, being large and easily picked. No costly store house is required and the product can be kept any length of time without spoiling. There is no duty on the import of dish rag gourds in Germany, freight charges amounting to $5.00 for 2240 pounds and as the fibre is very light the freight charge is a small item. The gourd grows on an and apparently neglected land, preferably with clay soil. Prof. Nees believes the industry will grow to great dimensions in this country.

THROWS OPEN MANY LANDS.
Washington, Sept. 10.—Approximately 50,000,000 acres of land, withdrawn from entry as being valuable for coal deposits, or for classification, were thrown open to agricultural surface entry under regulations approved by Acting Secretary of the Interior Pierce.

INDUSTRIAL PARADE.
Opportunities For Practical Young Men and Women.
Fort Collins, Colo.—Among the "practical pursuits and professions of life" open to ambitious young men, to foster which the National Government annually appropriates $50,000 to each state in which there is a land-grant college, may be mentioned the profession of agricultural, civil, electrical, irrigation and mechanical engineer, agriculturist, agronomist, bacteriologist, chemist, entomologist, horticulturist, animal husbandman, forester, veterinarian, and other occupations, each a specialty complete in itself, for which high school graduation is a prerequisite. In accepting the provisions of the act of congress, known as the Morrill bill, Colorado early and wisely provided for the industrial needs and demands of a vigorous and growing commonwealth. By means of a one-half mill tax on all the assessable property of the state, supplemented from time to time by special legislative appropriations, Colorado not only accepted the express provisions and requirements of congress, but committed her citizens to a system of educational attainment the fortunate and distinct province of which is the training of the youth of the state in the arts, sciences and industries that most largely contribute to the happiness of mankind.

There is an abundance of reward in the earnest pursuit and successful accomplishment of any one of them.

Colorado's physiography, climate, geology, scenery, flora, fauna, natural resources of mountain and plain, her mines, and the increasing inventiveness and productivity of her agriculture, are the wonder of the world.

No less wonderful are the boys and the girls upon whom the future development and prosperity of the state depend.

The state agricultural college, Colorado's technical school of applied science, offers the most thorough preparation and training in agriculture, veterinary sciences, and in the mechanical and household arts, embracing all the trades and professions for which there is an unusual demand for skilled artisans and competent, well-trained teachers and workers.

Graduates of the Agricultural College of Colorado were among the first and most numerous employees of the U. S. Reclamation Service, many of whom have been promoted and are now at the head of important positions. The department of civil and irrigation engineering occupies the recently completed $59,999 building, specially constructed for preparing young men in the profession that has been most prolific of results in the building of the west. Others who have completed the course in mechanical engineering are draftsmen and engineers in charge of great industrial enterprises, directing some of the largest iron and steel structural projects in the country.

Still others have invented mechanical devices of merit and are at the head of large manufacturing concerns, directing the product of their industry and ingenuity. As electrical engineers, the graduates of this department are sought after and enjoy lucrative employment. The department of veterinary science, having complied with all the requirements of the United States department of agriculture, is rated in class A, the highest standing possible, and has numerous graduates occupying important positions in governmental and private practice. The U. S. department of agriculture offers excellent opportunities to young men who have specialized in agriculture, entomology, horticulture, forestry, etc., while the opportunities in agricultural colleges and experiment stations and in commercial projects, are even greater.

Training in the domestic arts is an interesting and important part of the work offered young ladies, many of whom are occupying positions of responsibility. The magnificent new Guggenheim Hall of Household Arts will greatly facilitate the work of this department and afford opportunities not elsewhere to be found. Many of the young men who have become skilled in chemistry and geology are occupying responsible positions as chemists and assayers with some of the largest industries in the west. L. M. Taylor.

Mr. Stockman and Family!

ONE of the great show places of St. Joseph is the handsome new Jenkins building, which is owned and occupied exclusively by the J. W. Jenkins' Sons Music Company.

On the first floor are found the sheet music, small instrument and phonograph departments—also the office. The second floor is devoted to a large music or recital hall with a seating capacity of over five hundred. The third, fourth and fifth floors are divided into twenty-five Piano and Player Piano parlors, where more than three hundred instruments are displayed. The sixth floor is devoted to the general repair and varnish rooms.

This gives St. Joseph not only the most palatial store of any kind in the city, but the finest and most modern retail music house in the United States, and we are especially anxious that every one possible visit us, whether you wish to make a purchase or not, and we take this opportunity to extend to you a cordial invitation to call, see our new home and our tremendous stock of all things musical.

There will be special values in every department of this store

Condition of Oats in Leading States.
An improvement was made in the condition of the oats crop during August, the September showing being 82.1 compared with 81.5 last month, 83.8 last year and a ten-year average of 79.5. A feature was the good showing made in the states of largest production, Iowa gaining 3 points and being 10 or 20 points better than last year, while Illinois is up 4 points for the months and as compared with last year. All the leading oats states made gains last month except New York, South Dakota and North Dakota. The condition in detail, with comparisons, follows:

	—Condition—
Illinois	94	90	90	78
Iowa	100	93	80	78

Hay Cro Loss Reduced.
Losses to the hay crop, while material, are by no means as large as were figured on a month ago, when the mid-summer drought was on and the extreme losses in parts of the north-west were being exploited by speculators. The hay crop, as officially measured up, is 60,118,000 tons, which compares with 61,935,000 tons a year ago. Recent rainfall has so restored fall pasturage and general forage as to rob this shortage of much of its significance.

The preliminary estimate of the yield per acre of hay is 1.34 tons, as compared with 1.42 in 1909, and finally estimated in 1909, 1.52 tons in 1908 and a ten-year average of 1.44 tons.

Barley Condition 69.8.
The average condition of barley when harvested was 69.8, against 70.9 last month, 80.5 when harvested in 1909, 81.2 in 1908 and a ten-year average when harvested of 82.1. The average condition of flaxseed on Sept. 1 was 48.3, against 51.7 last month, 88.9 on Sept. 1, 1909, 82.5 in 1908, and a seven-year average on Sept. 1 of 86.6.

Apples Better Than in 1909.
The average condition of apples on Sept. 1 was 46.8, against 47.8 last month, 44.5 on Sept. 1, 1909, 52.1 in 1908 and a ten-year average on Sept. 1 of 54.7. Rice crop condition on Sept. 1 was 88.8 as compared with 87.6 last month, 84.7 on Sept. 1, 1909, 93.5 on Sept. 1, 1908, and 88.4 the ten-year average condition on Sept. 1. The average condition of buckwheat on Sept. 1 was 82.3, against 87.9 last month, 81.1 on Sept. 1, 1909, 87.8 in 1908, and a year average of 87.0 on Sept. 1.

White Potatoes Show Loss.
Condition of white potatoes on Sept. 1 was 79.5, against 75.8 last month, 80.9 on Sept. 1, 1909, 73.7 in 1908, and a ten-year average on Sept. 1 of 79.8. The average condition of tobacco on Sept. 1 was 77.7, against 78.5 last month, 80.2 on Sept. 1, 1909, 84.3 in 1908 and a ten-year average on Sept. 1 of 82.3.
