A COMMERCIAL BASIS.

It has been becoming more and more apparent in the live stock shows of the country of late years that the packers are tiring of making spectacular plays and pyrotechnic displays in the auction rings when it comes to bidding for the cattle that have been on exhibition in the show rings.

Of late years it is noted that the packers have been backing up on going much above the open market for the show loads of cattle. The paying of the fabulous prices has ceased to be the advertising card it once was and when the packer buyer goes into the auction ring at these shows his instructions evidently are to hold his bidding down to not far out of line with the open market for heaves of the same grade as the ones offered.

BEGINNING OF THE END?

National Provisioner: At the primary elections held in Minnesota last week the chief event of political interest was the defeat for renomination as a candidate for congress of Representative Tawney. The event had other than political interest, as Mr. Tawney was the principal champion in congress of the butter combination, and he has done more, perhaps, than any other member of congress to keep on the statute books the existing iniquitous oleomargarine tax law, which consumers are now discovering to be chiefly responsible for at least one item in the high-cost-of-living problem.

Mr. Tawney's defeat was within his own party ranks, though he has attempted to explain his unpopularity even here by accusing members of the other party of voting in the primaries against him. Whether he met his reward in the primaries or on election day—when the entire electorate would have had a chance at him—is merely a matter of detail. The point is that Mr. Tawney was repudiated, and by a majority which fairly stunned him and his backers.

They may be expected to jeer at the suggestion that Mr. Tawney's record as the champion of the butter lobby had anything to do with his defeat. They will probably go so far, even, as to say that he lost votes because of the charge that he was an enemy of the dairy interests. Such a charge is a mere campaign lie. Mr. Tawney was true to the interests of the butter combination, and was its most energetic servant.

A correspondent of The National Provisioner recalls the proud boast of Mr. Tawney that there were 3,000 dairymen in his district, and that he proposed to see that legislation was enacted to protect them—that is, to give them by law a monopoly of the market, and the power to dictate to consumers the price they should pay. Now, it is also remembered that there are about 197,000 of these consumers in Mr. Tawney's district aside from his butter friends. It is fairly reasonable to suppose that a goodly portion of this 197,000 are Republican voters, and that when they went to the primary polls they knew a little something of this "protective legislation" of Mr. Tawney's and its effect on the cost of living.

It is significant, as our correspondent suggests also, that with all the power of the butter combination behind him Mr. Tawney should have been defeated. Is it possible that the people, regardless of party, are coming to a realization of the injustice of such class legislation as this oleomargarine tax, a realization sufficient to cause them to express their sentiments so effectively at the polls as they have done in the case of Mr. Tawney? The National Provisioner has all along believed that as soon as the consuming public became aware of the actual situation there would be no difficulty in securing a square deal for oleomargarine. Is this the beginning of the end of the butter monopoly?

PARADISE FOR HUNTERS.

Arizona and Northern Sonora Attracting Many Nimrods.

Douglas, Ariz., Oct. 4.—This city is headquarters for an unusually large number of nimrods who have picked Arizona and Sonora for a month's hunting trip. The results of their un-occupied in the Sierra Madre in Northern Sonora, along the Sonora and Yaqui rivers, and even on the Nacozari river, are best seen just now at the rooms of the local taxidermists, McLellan Bros. Hides of brown bear, fawn, deer, mountain lions, leopards, bobcats, wild hogs, timber wolves, otters, porcupines and blacktail deer are present stacked up ready for mounting and tanning. These will be mounted for exhibitions or dressed for rugs.

A curious animal, which for a long time puzzled the local hunters is now to be seen at the "skin factory." It is a long, dark brown animal, with a long snout, long slender toes and a tail fully 2 feet in length. By many it was supposed that this animal was a South American anteater, far north of his zone. Taxidermist McLellan, however, has classified the odd specimen. It is the South American racoon. Somewhere in Central America a certain zoologist came across the animal, and asking the natives what they called it, was told that it is the "coyote." The naturalist, not knowing that the Mexicans call every pest a "coyote," wrote down the name phonetically as the "coite," and this is now the zoological term used to describe the animal. It uses its long tail in the same fashion as a monkey makes use of his, and is predatory. Hence the application made by the Central American natives.

A Mexican a few days ago shot a white pelican just below the city and brought it wounded. It will be mounted. The pelican is common along the west coast of Mexican territory and the brown pelican is found in great number on the west coast of Lower California. At Magdalena Bay these birds have a colony nesting grounds in common with the rarer man-of-war birds. The Mexicans invade these nesting grounds in the breeding season, capture the young pelicans, roast them, extract the oil and sell it, mixed with shark's oil, for lubricating purposes.

The civet cat is also on exhibition at the McLellan rooms. It is found in Mexico, the one mentioned having been shot in Sonora. Col. Roosevelt mentions the civet cat of Africa in his recent hunting tales. The Sonora civet is dark brown on top of its back, shading to light fawn on the belly. Its tail is long and bushy, with alternate rings of fawn and black.

A young otter was recently brought in, and its fur was found to be of the softest and most valuable. The season for wild pigeons is now on just across the line from Douglas, and every evening autos take the hunters across the border to the watering places, where the birds come down in such flocks that the light is obscured. It is common for two hunters to shoot 200 in a few hours. Permission is given to take guns and ammunition over the line when thus returning in a few hours.

CORN SHIPMENTS TO MEXICO

Heavy Importations Were Made While Duty Was Suspended.

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 3.—Railroads report an exceptionally heavy movement of corn to Mexico during recent weeks, from twenty to thirty cars passing through San Antonio daily. The duty on corn, which has been suspended by the Mexican government for several months, was put back into effect today. This has caused dealers and others in Mexico to lay in as large a supply as possible. Last year there was a large shortage of the corn crop in Mexico and the duty was suspended so that the citizens could buy it as cheaply as possible. Many municipalities purchased corn in great quantities and then sold it to the people at cost. This prevented the dealers from cornering the supply shipped and asking excessive prices.

The recent floods are reported to have done much damage to corn in various portions of Mexico and application has been made to the government to keep the duty on corn suspended for another six months, but no action has yet been taken in the matter. In case the shortage is serious, it is almost certain the Mexican government will act favorably.

Reports are to the effect that the plan of the municipalities purchasing corn has been very satisfactory. It has saved the citizens thousands of dollars and kept many from going hungry. The Mexican merchants are said to have recognized the justness of the municipal action and have not kicked in the least on account of the profit they lost on account of the government going into the corn business.

CATERS TO HUSBAND'S TASTES

Woman Asserts That Her Sex Dress to Annoy Other Women—Is Repudiated by Another.

"George, dear, I dress to please you, don't I?" "Eh! Why, what's worrying you now?" "Nothing, dear. Only over at Mrs. Gilfeather's this afternoon they were talking about dress and Emeline Clark said that women dress well just to annoy other women, and somehow there didn't seem to be anybody smart enough to answer her. When I got a chance I said that I dressed just to please you—and that I never bought a hat or gown without asking you if they suited your taste. And the horrid things just laughed at me, and Polly West said I'd better come home and ask you about it. And I do dress to please you, don't I, George?" "I'm glad you think you do, my dear. Of course, you remember the hat—"

"But I changed it, George." "For a bigger one." "But it was more like the shape you suggested—and ever so much more becoming." "And those preposterous high-heeled shoes?" "But I only wore them a little while, dear—they were too small." "And that awfully tight-fitting gown?" "It was the color you didn't like, George." "Was it? But there, don't look so distressed, you little goose. Aside from shoes and hats and gowns, I'm inclined to think that you are right—and the other women wrong." "Oh, you dear!"

Troubles With P. M.

Postmaster-General Hitchcock speaking of the troubles encountered by new postmasters in rural districts, told of a case that recently was called to his attention.

A postmaster who had been on duty at a town in North Carolina for several weeks had failed to reply to any of the official communications which had been addressed to him. He reports, however, being sending his reports without delay.

"We were just about to send an inspector down there," said the postmaster-general, "when we received a letter from the postmaster, in which he said: 'I have a big bundle of mail here addressed to P. M., and as no person with those initials gets mail here, what shall I do with it?' 'He was told that it might be opened and read by him.'—Judge.

LOST CEMETERY IS LOCATED

Bones of Men Killed in War of 1812 Discovered on River Bank Near Monroe, Mich.

Toledo, O.—What is believed to be a famous lost cemetery of the War of 1812 has been discovered along the north bank of the River Raisin, just east of Monroe, Mich., by the contractors engaged in excavating for the mill of the River Raisin Paper company.

As the work progresses piles of human bones are uncovered, evidently bodies that had been buried in one large grave; then will come a skeleton of some white man, while a few feet away the remains of an Indian will be uncovered.

The other day the body, evidently that of a soldier, was uncovered, with the skull cleft, as if a tomahawk had pierced the brain.

A large brass letter "C" was with the bones, showing that the wearer was a member of C company. A short distance away the skeleton of an Indian squaw was uncovered.

This locality in the war of 1812 was the scene of the battle and massacre of the River Raisin, when 4,000 American troops, mostly Kentuckians, were surprised by the English and Indians and massacred.

The bodies were left where they had fallen, but were buried several months later by the old settlers in one grave. The interment of the bones was forgotten and those who buried them passed away, so that none of the present generation knew the location of the old cemetery.

Infant Mortality.

The department of health ascribes the high death rate among babies in hot weather to the ignorance of the mothers, and for their edification has issued a simple list of rules for caring for infants, printed in several languages, and urging that prompt notification of illness be sent to the branches of the department.

FAT BOY CANNOT GET WORK

"Baby Harry," Who Weighs 475 Pounds, Fears He Will Starve Account Labor Laws.

Chicago—Too fat to go to school; too fat to get clothes to fit him; too fat to do ordinary work, Eugene Crawford the other day lost the job that brought him bread and butter and clothes, because he is too young. "Nobody loves a fat boy," was the plaint of the youngster, who is 14 years old and who recently has been showing his 475 pounds of solid flesh at Riverview Park. To many the story of the boy was very humorous, but to him it is a serious matter to be a very, very fat boy. State Factory Inspector Davies found the boy at the amusement park and complained that the child labor law was being violated. Today "Baby Harry" appeared at Mr. Davies office in person to plead his case. His troubles started when he entered the door. "Come in," said Assistant Inspector Barney Cohen. "Can't," said the fat boy. "I'm Baby Harry and I'm too fat. A side door built on more expansive lines was found and he entered the room. "If you don't let me work I'll starve to death," he said to the inspector. "It's awful to be so fat."

"Why don't you go to school?" asked Mr. Cohen. "Can't," replied the boy. "I am too fat. They could not find any place to put me. I was too big for the desks and if the teacher got me a chair it usually broke when I used it."

Just then the sofa began to creak and Mr. Cohen looked anxious. "If you don't let me stay at the park and earn some money," continued Baby Harry, "I don't know what I will do."

"It's too bad," said Inspector Davies, "but you must stop. The law is plain and you cannot appear any more."

END OF STAGE-DOOR JOHNNY

Edison Demonstrates Kinetophone and Declares Will Put Grand Opera in Every Hamlet.

New York—"I take great pleasure, gentlemen, in asking you to watch positively the last appearance of the stage-door Johnny. He simply cannot fall in love, you know, with a girl one hundred thousandth of an inch thick."

With these remarks, Thomas A. Edison began the first demonstration that has been given to any one except his own experts of his kinetophone, otherwise his talking pictures. A dozen newspaper men composed the audience that saw and heard the performance at the West Orange laboratories.

The picture that was thrown on the screen explained itself literally. The figure of a man stepped forward, bowed and then began to talk—the lips moving in perfect, unmistakable unison with the words that could not have come from any place else it seemed.

The man dropped a croquet ball; its impact sounded instantly from the floor. He pounded the table with a little hammer, and there was not the fraction of a second between the sight and sound of the blow. He dropped a plate, and as the pieces flew, the crack resounded.

Finally an automobile horn was sounded and the demonstration was at an end. "I'm going to put Metropolitan grand opera into the hamlets of every state in the Union in a couple of years," said Mr. Edison afterward.

EAGER TO GET WEEKLY BATH

English Millionaire Proud of Gorgeous Lavatory in His Elegant Mansion.

London—"Apropos of personal elegance and cleanliness," so "M. A. P." has related in the evident effort to relieve the holiday pressure, "one is reminded of the story of a certain self-made millionaire who built for himself a gorgeous mansion not far from Hyde Park corner, the wonders of which were talked of far and wide and so excited curiosity that a certain member of royalty expressed his desire to see the inside.

"Very flattered and gratified, the proud owner showed the guest all that there was to be seen—leaving the wonderful bathroom until the end. Everything here was as near perfection as possible. Rare marble had been used for the floor, the walls were lined with panels of precious stones and a wonderful flight of stairs with a crystal balustrade led down to the bath itself. The royal visitor showed his admiration generously.

"Yes," said the host, "the man who designed it knew what he was about, didn't he. Do you wonder, your royal highness, that I look forward to Saturday nights?"

Mosquitoes Kill Cattle. Lake Charles, La.—Southwest Louisiana is in the grip of the mosquito plague. Thousands of cattle have been killed by the insects. They hover in hordes over the fields and marsh lands. At night they fly into towns, making living conditions almost unbearable. It is impossible in some of the towns along the Southern Pacific railroad to go out of doors at night. Persons eat dinner with their ankles swathed in protecting clothes; then they get beneath bars and netting, for it is impossible to keep the mosquitoes out of residence.

DESERT FROM FRENCH ARMY

Official Announcement Says as Many as 17,258 Men Omitted to Present Themselves for Service.

The official announcement that last year as many as 17,258 young Frenchmen omitted to present themselves for their legal term of military service has produced a painful impression.

The increasing number of deserters appears to be due to three causes. In the first place, the anti-militarists would seem to have made sad progress in certain districts. Then again, part of the mischief is to be traced to the amnesties repeatedly voted by parliament in favor of the men who have not fulfilled their military obligations. Thirdly, account must be taken of "the incredible facilities accorded by the different French administrative authorities" to the "insoumis" who are away from their country and who apply for a safe conduct that they may return home for their private affairs. Not only is the existence of such safe conducts a matter for regret, but the facility with which they are granted is really extraordinary.

The war office and the government can at least suppress two of them by no longer granting amnesties or safe conducts to men who are in revolt against the law of the nation and against patriotic duty.

SAINT UNJUSTLY ACCUSED

Peking Gazette Tells How Nagdoang Blobsang Has Right to Transfer Soul to Successor.

The following curious decree (condensed) appears in the Peking Gazette of June 22. "The resident in Tibet reports that in the year 1899 the now degraded Dalai Lama addressed a complaint to the then resident, complaining that the Timu Saint Nagdoang Blobsang had been bribing the Kamba Lama of Chantui to cause the death of the Dalai Lama by means of evil incantations in consequence of which, at the resident's request, the said saint was cashiered, besides being deprived of his spiritual title.

The Lama of the Pu-lai-peng Monastery, together with the Lama of the Timu Monastery and others, now petition the resident that Nagdoang Blobsang was quite falsely accused, and really never did any such wrong; they crave the emperor's favor in consequence on his behalf. Under these circumstances Nagdoang Blobsang must have his spiritual title restored to him, and be given back in addition all the wealth, valuable objects and gifts appertaining thereto, and also the right to transfer his soul to a successor in due course."

MARKET sluggish and lower. Chicago quotations are fully 1-2c lower than last week, but sales are not being made. Tanners are trying for a 10-cent Chicago market; that means ten cents per pound for No. 1 and nine cents for No. 2, which would be 1-2c below today's prices.
