Heavy Proportion of Steers, Trade Slow With Lower Trend.

Fat steer trade was under pressure today, buyers evincing marked indifference and generally demanding a cheaper schedule of rates. Conditions at outside markets were more or less unfavorable to the selling side of the game. The movement of cattle marketward is well up to all immediate requirements. Thirty thousand head at the five leading markets exceeded the total of last Tuesday by 9,000, while for the two days general receipts show an increase of 13,000 over the same period of last week. The run locally was estimated at 2800 against 2527 last Tuesday and 2302 a year ago.

A heavy proportion of beef steers did not help the situation from sellers' standpoint. The big end of the day's marketing consisted of fed steers, some being 300 cwt. being on sale, while there were less than 25 loads of female butcher stock. While there were no prime or fancy beefers offered, the supply embraced a good showing of very attractive medium to strong weight cattle. It was late before buyers made their appearance in the yards. This was a bad omen, indicative of either light orders or confidence that there was enough material on hand to supply all needs. At any rate all buyers displayed a lack of interest at the start and early bidding was at a lower basis than sellers were willing to concede without putting up a fight. As a result most of the offerings hung fire until well along toward the noon hour.

Trade dragged slowly through the morning hours and well into the afternoon. Prices were generally 10¢ to 15¢ lower than ruled on the previous session, with weighty stuff the hardest to turn at the lower range. Yearlings and handy weight steers were in best favor and these sold around a dime under Monday's general level, while on the rank and file of the medium and heavy bullocks the market was dull at 10¢ to 15¢ decline. The plain light short fed delegation fared about the same. Best weight beefers at hand went at $6.20@6.25 and were kinds valued at $6.35@6.40 yesterday, while the cattle selling at $6.00@6.10 were similar to the $6.15@6.25 offerings of Monday. Handy weights going around $5.90 today would have probably landed at $6.00 yesterday.

WILL MEET FRIDAY.
 The two committees that were appointed some days ago for the purpose of taking some preliminary action in the matter of effecting a permanent club that shall be representative of all South End interests held a meeting yesterday at noon and decided definitely upon calling a meeting for next Friday, noon at the Transit house. A luncheon will be served and the actions and recommendations of the committees will be announced. The two committees were one appointed by A. P. Daily, president of the Live Stock exchange, and another representative of South End business interests outside of the stock yards and packing houses. The committee will recommend the organization of a club that will take in all business interests of this end of the city and it is probable that at the Friday meeting a name will be selected and officers will be chosen for a permanent organization. It is intended to have a speaker present who can talk upon the benefits to be derived from a permanent organization that will have a place and the means for the entertainment of visitors at such times as there are gatherings in this end of the city that bring outsiders here and also for properly and effectively looking after any matters of business that may come up relative to the South End.

IMPROVEMENT OF POULTRY.
 Uniformity of the poultry kept on the farm—that is, uniformity induced by the continued use of pure blood—is as much a necessity in the making of a profit as it is in any other branch of live stock husbandry, says a Chicago exchange. A little leisure time devoted a few days ago to a casual investigation of this subject in Chicago's wholesale mart, developed the fact that the dealers will pay an advanced price for even-sized, plump fowls of one breed. That sort will bring through more money than the miscellaneous lot to pay considerably more than the price of pure-bred males for several reasons. Poultry breeding and keeping is one of the most interesting branches of the farm curriculum. Results in making uniform even the most heterogeneous farm aggregation of birds may be brought about almost in a single year by the use of pure-bred males of some standard breed. There is just as much difference in poultry as there is in beef, mutton or pork on the hoof, but there is this difference: Owing to the shortness of time in which results may be achieved, and the positiveness of those results, improvement may be effected in a marvelously short space of time. Then as increased money returns follow immediately, or rather simultaneously, upon the making of any improvement, the farmer who tries to ameliorate his poultry pays his way as he goes and there remains with him, after a very short spell of effort, a handsome surplus wherewith to prosecute the good work. With our population increasing from year to year by the proverbial leaps and bounds, and the demand for prime-table birds likely never to be less than it is now, the farmer who neglects to improve his poultry is overlooking a sure source of profit, and much pleasure as well.

COLD STORAGE CLAMOR.
 National Provisioner: Newspaper sensationalism has been responsible for the introduction in various state legislatures of measures aiming to restrict the cold storage of foods. It is more than likely, in view of the agitation that one or more of these measures will become law. Most of this proposed legislation is conceived in ignorance, founded on misconception tion of the facts, and if executed into law will become a menace not alone to those at whom it is aimed, but also to the consuming public everywhere, especially in centers of population which rely on modern methods of food production and distribution for their food supply.

 It is not necessary to rehearse in this place the details of much of this wild-eyed prospective legislation. The National Provisioner has published a resume of most of these bills. It is doubtful if the majority of them would stand the test of the courts after their enactment, to say nothing about the possibility or the practicality of enforcing them. But the industries involved should not be put to the hardship of demonstrating either their unconstitutionality or their impracticability.
 There is no objection to federal legislation on this subject, provided such legislation is framed after thorough and expert investigation. Cold storage interests have already advocated such legislation. The cold storage of food products has to do very largely with interstate commerce, and so properly comes under federal regulation. Varying and incoherent state laws attempting to regulate this matter would only disturb the proper and economical distribution of food products and inflict hardship on the consumer in the form of a narrower range of food supply and even higher prices than those which have been responsible for the present agitation.

FIRST OF ENCYCLOPEDIAS
 It Was Published in Queen Anne's Reign and John Harris Was Its "Onlie Beggetter."
 Encyclopedias are an English invention. I hasten to add that they owe a great deal of their early and later development to Scottish brains. The earliest true encyclopedia was published in the second year of Queen Anne. John Harris, the "onlie beggetter" of this remarkable work, was born in the year of the great fire of London, and Shropshire piously claims that he was a Shropshire lad. He passed through Oxford to the vicarage of Ickham, Sussex, to which he added the care of Winclessea parish. London preferences followed, and a Fellowship of the Royal Society, and a good deal of London religious controversy. For the rest we know that Harris lived in a house in Amen Corner, and that he there received and boarded pupils. We know also that he gave free lectures in mathematics at the Marine Coffee House in Birchin Lane. The Marine Coffee House has not been much noticed by London topographers. Mr. H. B. Wheatley has unearthed a curious advertisement proclaiming that water gruel was to be had there every morning from six to eleven o'clock. The announcement proceeds: "Tis not yet generally known; but there comes such company as drinks usually four or five gallons in a morning."

NATURE'S WONDERFUL COLOR
 Their Shades and Tints Never Yet Have Been Duplicated by the Manufacturers of Paints.
 Nature paints in the most striking colors and shades and tints with a delicacy never achieved by the brush in the hands of the artist. The highest ambition of the manufacturer of paints is to produce colors which look like nature's. They have never succeeded. Grass has a green of its own. So has the leaf and so has the distant ocean. None of these has ever been reproduced and put in cans with a price label on them.
 Honor awaits the man who can combine colors to produce the tints of red of the Baldwin and Northern Spy. They come pretty near it, that is all. The same is true of the colors with which October first touches the maple leaf.
 If all the paint grinding works in the world were multiplied 10,000 times they couldn't turn out pigment enough in a year to do what nature does in a change from season to season.
 Nature's brush is busy everywhere all the time. In the life of a leaf it applies the brush day by day, following with its tints from budding time until it flutters from the branch. It touches the valleys and the hills, the growing grains, the flowering plants. Never is it idle.
 Interminable Job.
 The new pastor was a stickler for ceremonial observances. He could read his share of the responses with one eye and watch the congregation with the other. Each member was expected to take part in the reading, and the person who shirked that responsibility was detected sooner or later and brought to account. On the first three Sundays of his new pastorate he noticed a man in a front pew who sat silent throughout the service. The third Sunday evening, although in a hurry to reach the bedside of a sick parishioner, he took time to let the delinquent know he had been found out.
 "I am sorry to see," the pastor said, "that you have never read the responses."
 "P.M. I had 4-4-4 done th-th-that," said the silent man. "ab-b-bout what 4-4-4 do you sup-p-pose you'd had 4-4-4 done through p-p-pracking?"

$350 Piano FREE

Second Prize—Ladies' Locket and Chain, also $150.00 credit towards the purchase of any new piano in our store.
Third Prize—Gentlemen's Gold Watch.
Fourth Prize—Ladies Diamond Ring.
Fifth Prize—One Pair Opera Glasses.
Sixth Prize—Gentleman's Scarf Pin.
Seventh Prize—Ladies' Brooch.

In addition to the above prizes a beautiful souvenir will be given each contestant.

A Real Puzzle With Real Prizes

HOW TO SOLVE IT—The puzzle is to take the numbers running from 1 to 12, inclusive, and so arrange them in the squares that each column of figures, up and down and crosswise, will total 26. To point the way, we have set down the figures from the CORRECT SOLUTION in one of the columns. The other numerals—NOT USING A FIGURE MORE THAN ONCE—are to be placed so that they will total 26 in each column. Few will get all four columns; some will probably get but one or two in addition to the column already given.

CONDITIONS AND RULES

The Contest is free and open to every man, woman and child in the United States, except those connected in any way with the Piano Business.

FIRST PRIZE will be awarded to the one sending in the neatest and most original correct answer.

The Second Prize will be awarded to the one sending in the neatest correct answer. All of the above prizes will be awarded according to merit as determined by the judges, whose decision shall be final. All prizes must be called for within twelve (12) days after close of contest. Every contestant must send us the name and address of at least one family not owning a piano, so we can send them our catalogue and Factory-to-Home Selling Plan which cuts out all middlemen and saves to the piano buyers these enormous profits. This is the only store within hundreds of miles where you can deal with the manufacturer direct.

Hurry your answer—bring or mail to our store. Enclose self-addressed envelope.

Contest closes 6 p. m., March 23, 1911.

MANY MILES OF CHAMPAGNE

Visit to Immense Caves at Rheims, Where Wine is Stored, Worth While.

Rheims is perhaps best known because of the most beautiful relic of Gothic architecture embodied in its cathedral. The town's association with the career of Joan of Arc is another link between us and it. Some may even remember the tale of its famous jockdaw. But there are few who know Rheims as the center of the champagne trade, and the home of the most famous champagne firms in the world. If you look in the city directory you will find no less than ninety establishments for making champagne. And these are not the only inhabitants who are connected with the industry, for besides twenty firms which are employed in making the corks used, there are almost as many more who are engaged in the machinery necessary for the industry. A visit to the immense caves where the wine is stored is worth while. Some of them extend for miles into the city, and many parts are completely honeycombed with them. In order to vary the temperature they are often three stories deep under the street level, and one may descend to them by a fine flight of steps, some hundred and sixteen, which have been cut from the chalky soil. Though the caves extend for more than ten miles, they are constantly being added to. Some of the corridors named after various prominent men or cities, such as Thiers, Carnot, Washington, Paris, New York, are more than a quarter of a mile in length and lead to some two hundred large rooms. In these cellars one may expect to find rows of dusty bottles covered with cobwebs and spiders. But in this he will be disappointed, for every part is as faultlessly clean and fresh as constant care can make it. Here are often stored as much as $28,000 gallons of champagne, or from thirteen to fourteen million bottles.

PATCHWORK AN ANCIENT ART

It Had Its Origin Many Ages Ago but Now is Distinctly An American Institution.

The idea that patchwork had its origin in America is not founded on fact. A thousand years before the Christian era a queen of Egypt went down the Nile to her last resting place under a wonderful canopy of skins that were dyed and pieced together in a mosaic pattern. Years before this work had reached perfection and acquired a definite place among the arts. Then, too, patchwork quilts were made in England in the thirteenth century, as witness the linen

NOVEL FRAUD ON A JEWELER

How a Clever French Swindler Obtained Jewels, Paying for Them With Tradesman's Own Money.

A novel method of defrauding a jeweler was successfully carried out by a Paris thief. He drove up in a carriage to the jeweler's shop with his right arm in a sling, and was ostentatiously attended by a footman carrying a rug. He selected jewelry to the value of $1,000, and when the moment came for payment asked whether the jeweler minded him sending his man home for the money.

No objection was made to this course, and then there was another request: "Would you mind writing for me?" said the customer, "I have here my son. Just write 'Please give Robert $1,000, and sign it Henri'."

The jeweler wrote the note and in 15 minutes Robert was back with the cash.

When the jeweler went home a light dawned.

"What," his wife asked, "did you want that $1,000 for?"

The thieves had made the jeweler, whose name was Henri, pay for the gems with his own money.

The Marchess of Napoleon.

In the service and in the intercourse with his officers he was cold, almost repellent, severe and inflexible just. One day Gen. Guvion Saint-Cyr, afterwards marshal, appeared at the superior's morning audience at the Tuileries. Napoleon said quietly to him: "You come from Naples, general?" "Yes, sire, I relinquished my command to Marshal Perignon, whom your majesty sent to relieve me." "And no doubt you have leave of absence, from the minister of war?" "No, your majesty, but I had nothing else to do in Naples." "Unless you are on your way to Naples within two hours, you will be shot on the place of Grenelle at 12 o'clock precisely," said the emperor, returning his watch to his pocket. "Kieland, 'Napoleon's Men and Methods.'"

Sentimental Juries.

Maitre Henri Robert, the most famous advocate in criminal cases at the Paris bar, told an audience almost entirely composed of ladies that before any jury a woman with some youth, some looks and a pretty voice has 50 chances out of 100 of being acquitted, whereas a man would only have one. If she knows how to shed tears at the right moment she need not worry—a verdict of not guilty is a dead certainty.

Mostly Hall.

A New Yorker bought one of those old colonial places down in Virginia, principally on account of the glowing description of the real estate agent and on information from friends. When he went down to see his mansion he was much impressed by the great pillars, the spacious porch, and particularly the great hall running from the front to the back of the house.

He inspected the place and came back to New York.

"What shall you name it?" he was asked.

"I think," he replied, "I shall call it 'Mostly Hall.'"

Treasure Added to Art World.

The lost Velasquez, discovered lately to the Castle of Schwartzen, near Steinfield, Austria, has been identified as the Frauge portrait, painted in 1644, which it had been supposed had perished. It is now in London, where it is to be exhibited shortly at the rooms of the Agnews, who bought it. The 'Times of London' says of it:

"It is a marvel of portraiture and a marvel of color and absolutely untouched as it is, it shows at every point the unmistakable hand of Velasquez himself. . . . When this has been seen (reminiscent and surprising) this who see it as being one of the most complete and also one of the most attractive of the pictures left to the world by the founder of modern portraiture.

Portrait of Philip IV, Will Impress All

Saving Them for Her Funeral.

The wife of a prominent southern statesman tells a story of her ancient colored cook, who took a liking to every article of apparel in her mistress' wardrobe. It was "please give me this" and "please give me that," until the lady took a trip to St. Louis and laid in a generous supply of hosiery and underwear and outer garments for the old Mammy. The gifts were received with gratitude, but presently the cook was at her old tricks, asking for stockings, aprons and wrappers. "What did you do with all those things I brought you from St. Louis?" demanded her employer.

"Wah, missie," answered the woman, "I couldn't use them things. Not for nothing, I am saving them all to be buried in."

Memory.

As backward flies my memory from manhood's proud estate to when I swung my lover form upon my lady's gate, there rises in my throat a lump that will not get away—a lover's recollection of a little girl named May!

A sweet little maiden as was ever put on earth, whose freckled face was wrinkled in an ecstasy of mirth; who when she wept was wonderful—entrancing when she sighed! How many thousand times I'd sworn that she should be my bride!

But there's that lump! Ah, me, that lump that will not go away! I've had a photo from the girl I used to know as May. Her name is Mrs. Sniggie Fritz—she's fat and frowny, too! She still retains her freckles and her tilted nose is blue!

She writes that seven children is the reckoning to date, and they keep their mother worrying from early morn till late. And, by the way, the lump I've got—it took its form and shape with the gasp of glad thanksgiving for my harrowing escape!

Exceedingly Conscientious.

Mr. Mokeby (the prospective groom).—Now, we'd like to get de knot tied in youah own house, pahson, if you hab no objections.

Parson Black—Suttainly I habnt, Mistah Mokeby; what makes you think I might hab?

Mr. Mokeby—I done heerd so often dat marriage am a lottery, I thought p'raps you might hab scruples about conductin' dat kind ob gambin' on youah premier
