Weakness in fat steers and an increase in receipts of butcher classes resulted in a somewhat lower schedule of prices in this diviston of the trade this week. Good to choice corn fed cows were the least effected, these holding well up to last week's closing level. It was possible to land around the $5.00 mark for choice cows but it took more work to turn them than during recent weeks, while good useful dressed beef cows, selling at $4.40 mand plain killing cows struck a 10@ 15c lower level, putting a decent class on a $3.75@ 425 basis. "It appears that the Johnson family had in its herd of cows an old mulley that was cross beyond description, and as it was afraid of nothing and nobody it was the plague of the Johnson boys' life. A mulley cow, you know, is one that has no horns, but that doesn't keep her from butting.

"One morning the boys were milking away like mad because the circus was coming to town, and they had just finished and were getting ready to drive the cows to pasture when all of a sudden down the road came the circus folks, with the hig elephant plodding along in front.

"All the other cows ran mooing up the lane, but old mulley made a bee line, with her hard down, for the elephant and bumped him plumb on his side. Of course she didn't hurt the elephant, and he stood still for a minute as if wondering what to do.

"He had never in all his life stood for an insult from an animal before. The flercest lion or tiger in the menagerie wouldn't have dared to tackle him. And here was a little insignificant cow with the nerve to come up and attempt to Finally his cunning little eyes lit up, and he formed the idea of his re-

"Then, lifting his trunk, he gave the smart aleck mulley a slap across her side that sounded like a clap of thunder and must have hurt like fifty whips during the past few months. But they rolled fato one. Mulley turned a couple of filpflaps in the dusty road, and then for the first time in her life she ran. Every once in a while she would turn her head and snort, but she kept on running and was the meekest cow anybody ever saw from that day on.'

"I'll bet the Johnson boys were glad," said Jack. "Well, I always heard they were so glad," said daddy, "that that after noon at the circus they spent every penny of their pocket money in buyin, peanuts for the elephant.

The average acres per farm reported in 1910 was 157, as against 212 in 1900, a decrease of 55 acres, or 26 per cent. The average value per acre of farm and buildings in 1910 is stated as $34.85, as against $12.33 in 1900, a rise of $22.52, or 483 per cent. The average value per acre of farm land alone in 1910 was reported as $29.48, while in 1900 it was $9.75, the amount of gain being $19.73, or 202 per cent The low average values in 1900 were due to the inclusion of large tracts of very low-priced land for which no re-port was secured in 1910.

The onward march of civilization has its obstacles. Shirts being made for man and not man for shirts, every time a man gets a new shirt or one comes back from the laundry the moral uplift needs the application of the safety brake and the emergency clutch to keep us from dropping into the cellar again.

Shirts are made of various kinds of materials. After the sewing is finished they are left for a few hours in a strong mixture of glue and concrete. This fastens the back to the bosom and sticks the sleeves together. lutton holes are then made in the neckband and the band is then steeped in cement so that the button holes cannot be opened. These buttons are sewed on with one weak thread. so that when you try to button the shirt, after having pried it apart with a paper knife and strong language, the buttons will fly away merrily.

Shirts that are laundered are always sent back with the lower button but toned in, and all the button holes glued tight.

Dress shirts are made with veneered bosoms, with little round holes where the studs are only supposed to be placed. These bosoms are absolutely inflexible and the studs cannot be inserted without the aid of a sledge hammer, which is damaging to the dis-

Did Not Linger. State Senator Bowerman of Oregon defended a participant in a shooting scrape recently and a material point in the case hinged upon the testimony of an aged Tennesseean.
