

THE WEEK IN CATTLE

CLOSING PRICES FOR USEFUL AND ATTRACTIVE STEERS STRONG TO 15c HIGHER.

COMMON GRASSERS WEAK

General Run of Cow Stuff 10@15c Lower for the Week—Bulls Steady—Calves Strong—Stockers Lower.

Trade in killing cattle of all descriptions today was of the usual small week-end clean-up character and prices were nominally steady on a basis of Friday's quotations.

The trade in corn-fed steers here this week has been rather uneven but on the whole there has been little change in values.

The top for the week was reached Monday, when $7.75 was paid for very good, but not strictly choice heaves.

Receipts for the week at this point total approximately 15,000 head as compared with 12,522 the preceding week.

There was no butcher staff on sale today. The market was nominal. Bulls and calves were steady.

The supply of butcher grades was comparatively small this week, and considering the supply the market has been extremely slow.

There has been a weaker undertone to the market, the latter part of the week having registered a slight decline.

Very little corn fed stock of any description has been marketed. Best cows and heifers are quoted weak to 10 cents lower.

Best cows and heifers are quoted weak to 10 cents lower. Fat to good grades sell in range of $4.00@4.50.

Calves have met with a good demand all week and prices are some higher than a week ago.

HOGS SELL STRONGER

LIGHT WEEK-END SUPPLY CHANGED HANDS AT STRONG TO 5c HIGHER RATES.

TOPS LANDED AT $7.30

Bulk of Sales, $6.95@7.25—Quality Rat to Extremes—Closing Prices 10@20c Lower Than a Week Ago.

Receipts of hogs for the final day of the week were comparatively light and the market displayed moderate activity.

Reports from outside centers were rather bullish and packers granted strong to 5c higher prices for the moderate holding without much haggling.

There was no change in the quality of the offerings compared with the two preceding days of the week.

There was a fair showing of pretty good butcher weights but the run, as usual here of late, carried quite a few old rough packing hogs and light, skippy stuff.

A top of $7.30 was reached on the best, while a large share of the offerings sold at $7.00@7.25.

Net prices today are 10@20c lower than a week ago. The market opened Monday steady to 5c higher.

Wednesday and Thursday witnessed a decline of 25@30c, with recovery of 10@15c on the two closing days. Discrimination against common packing hogs and trashy lights has been a pronounced feature of the week's trade.

For the week local receipts aggregated 27,200 head as compared with 22,220 the previous week, 22,444 a month ago, 17,161 a year ago, 22,218 two years ago, 25,914 three years ago and 32,822 for the corresponding period four years ago.

At the five leading markets prices as compared with the week total 241,400 head as compared with 223,100 a week ago, 219,600 a month ago, 187,300 a year ago, 213,200 two years ago, 219,700 three years ago and 271,100 four years ago.

Prices ranged from $6.75@7.30, with the bulk selling at $6.95@7.25. The bulk yesterday sold at $6.95@7.25, a week ago at $7.20@7.35, a month ago at $7.20@7.40, a year ago at $6.90@9.55, two years ago at $7.90@8.05, three years ago at $5.95@6.25.

Heavy and Mixed—90 lbs. and Upward. No. 1, $7.25; No. 2, $7.00; No. 3, $6.75; No. 4, $6.50; No. 5, $6.25; No. 6, $6.00; No. 7, $5.75; No. 8, $5.50; No. 9, $5.25; No. 10, $5.00.

Other Livestock Markets. CHICAGO. Chicago Stock Yards, Ill., Sept. 9.—The Live Stock World reports: Cattle—Receipts, 400. Market steady.

Hogs—Receipts, 6000. Market steady to 5c lower. Top $7.55, bulk $6.90@7.10. Sheep—Receipts, 2500. Market steady.

Other Livestock Markets. KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 9.—Special to The Journal: The Drivers Telegram reports: Cattle—Receipts, 300. Market nominal.

THE WEEK IN SHEEP

SHEEP ESCAPE SERIOUS DECLINE BUT FAT LAMBS ARE SWATTED HARD.

LOSS FIGURED AT 40 TO 50c

Fairly Decent Demand For Feeding Lambs at $5.00@5.10—Week's Movement of Range Stock Heavy.

Receipts of sheep and lambs at this point was estimated at 900, consisting of six cars of lambs billed direct to packers.

Nothing was put on sale and trade was at a standstill. For the week receipts of sheep and lambs at this point and at the five markets show a healthy increase over the previous week and a year ago.

Locally one freighter marketing the sheep and lambs gives a total of 22,000, which compared with the previous six days shows an increase of 3500 and is approximately 2000 more than received for the like period a year ago.

At the five markets the week's receipts for the week are 256,900 against 232,200 last week and 333,600 for the corresponding time a year ago.

Western range men are still making the mistake of flooding the market on the first two days of the week instead of spreading their liquidation over the five days and as a result of their unsophistication they have been handled pretty roughly in disposing of lambs.

Getting a sliding start on the first two days of the week instead of spreading their liquidation over the five days and as a result of their unsophistication they have been handled pretty roughly in disposing of lambs.

SECRETARY WILSON RAPPED

Censured for His Acceptance of Chairmanship of Brewers' Convention.

Rock Island, Ill., Sept. 9.—The Illinois conference of the Free Methodist Church of North America adopted a resolution censuring Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson because of his acceptance of the honorary chairmanship of the National Brewers' Convention in Chicago next month.

"Such position," the resolution reads, "was apparently tendered the Hon. James Wilson because of his official standing and political influence and its effect on the brewing interests, and

Whereas, such action by a leading officer of the government is a burning insult to the temperate and sober-minded citizens of this country, be it resolved, That we, the members of the Illinois conference of the Free Methodist Church of North America, do hereby do our most earnest protest against such action by Secretary Wilson and deplore the demoralizing influence on the country at large."

IMPROVEMENTS FOR ROYAL

New Structure Being Built of Fire Proof Material.

Kansas City, Sept. 9.—Work is progressing rapidly on the new building which will house the sheep, swine, poultry and other exhibits of the American Royal Live Stock show, at the Kansas City stock yards October 9 to 14.

The new structure will be of brick on concrete foundations, the pens of metal fencing supplied with metal hay racks and water troughs. The roof will also be of fire proofed material.

PARADE WILL BE GRAND

Will Be Most Magnificent Pageant Ever Given in St. Joseph.

For brilliancy, magnitude, grandeur the automobile flower parade which will constitute a part of St. Joseph's "big week" September 25 to 29, will out-class any other bit of pageantry ever seen in this part of the country.

The number of cars which will take part is nearly double that in last year's parade. The parade will be given on the principal uptown business streets the morning of September 28, the first day of the three days' progress of the Royal Robboudox fall festival.

But not alone, or even chiefly in extent, will the parade eclipse that of last fall, but in the quality and "class" of decorations. Almost a third of the country's largest artificial flower concerns have agents on the ground with large stocks, prepared to take contracts for the decorations of cars for the pageant.

There is said to be nearly as much rivalry among these decorators as among the owners of the cars themselves. Three concerns are represented: The Schaik Artificial Flower Co., and the Chicago Artificial Flower Co., both of Chicago, and the Welian Artificial Flower Co., of Kansas City.

The cost of decorating one's car need not necessarily keep even those of modest means from entering their machine in the parade, as the scale of prices announced by the representatives of the three firms is very reasonable. While the decorators, all men of years' experience, have brought with them innumerable patterns and designs for bedecking cars, copies of prize lists and other similar contests, it is better that the owners suggest original designs as far as possible.

Some of the most unique cars in last year's parade were the ideas of boys who showed them and it is said that some most ingenious and original plans of decoration will be carried out in the entries for this year's pageant.

TEXAS JERSEYS WIN PRIZES

San Antonio, Texas, Sept. 9.—At a recent exhibit held at Columbus, O., Ed. C. Lasater's string of sixteen Jersey cattle wrested laurels from the best Jersey herd in the north. Mr. Lasater's herd competed with the famous Jerseys from the Erdenheim farm, Michigan, and carried off the blue ribbons. A week previously, his herd had been awarded the prize at the exhibit held in Louisville, Kentucky. Texas is now established as the banner cattle breeding state in the union.

WEL PROTECT LIVE STOCK

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 9.—According to the orders of the Iowa commission of animal health, Iowa live stock will be protected from disease in the future by the most stringent set of rules in force in the United States.

Dr. J. I. Gibson, state veterinarian and chairman of the commission, announced today that by the rules no live stock will be admitted into the state except when the animals are in a healthy condition.

CHOP SUEY MADE HIM RICH

Boston, Sept. 9.—With a fortune of half a million dollars made through serving Bostonians with chop suey and other Chinese delicacies, Jang Ho, proprietor of Boston's first Chinese restaurant, will sail for Canton, China, early next week to spend the remainder of his life in affluence there. Much of his money is said to be invested in conservative American securities.

A POSTAL BANK HERE.

St. Joseph Postoffice Designated as Savings Depository.

The St. Joseph postoffice was yesterday designated a postal savings depository by Postmaster-General Hitchcock, according to Associated Press dispatches. One other Missouri postoffice was designated by the same order, Sedalia.

Postmaster L. O. Weckley has as yet received no official notice of the establishment of the bank here and probably will not for a few days yet. It usually requires from ten days to two weeks to get the bank in running order, so it is safe to estimate that by Sept. 29, depositors may open savings accounts at the postoffice.

Other cities and towns named as postal depositories for savings yesterday included the following: Burlington, Council Bluffs and Sioux City, Iowa; Leavenworth, Salina and Wichita, Kansas; St. Joseph and Sedalia, Missouri; Lincoln, Neb., and McAlester, Okla.

MACKENZIE'S NEW JOB

PROMINENT WESTERN STOCKMAN TO MANAGE PACKING AND LAND COMPANY IN BRAZIL.

HIS SALARY $50,000 A YEAR

Brazil Land, Cattle and Packing Company One of Largest Concerns of Kind in South America.

Trinidad, Colo., Sept. 9.—Murdo MacKenzie, manager of the Matador Land and Cattle company and president of the American National Live Stock association, one of the most widely known stockmen in the United States, has announced his acceptance of the offer recently made to him by Percival Farquhar, head of a big South American land and cattle corporation, and early in January of the coming year will move his family to Sao Paulo, Brazil. He will assume management there of the live stock interests of the Brazil Land, Cattle and Packing company at a salary of $50,000 a year.

Mr. MacKenzie severs his connections Jan. 1 with the Matador company after two decades of service. The Brazil company owns in the neighborhood of 200,000 head of cattle, one-half million head of sheep and a like number of hogs. Its holdings cover a vast area. Aside from its actual live stock interests, the company operates 6,000 miles of railroad and has in contemplation 4,000 miles more. The company owns a number of large packing plants and contemplates the erection in the near future of three additional packing plants.

During the period of twenty-six years Mr. MacKenzie has made his home in this city. He has represented this section at every important rate conference held in the past twenty years, incidentally being the spokesman of the live stock interest at Washington.

With the exception of a two-year period, Mr. MacKenzie has been president of the American National Live Stock association since its organization. During that time he has been vice-president. He championed the cause of the stockmen before the national congress time and again, his company operating in the state of duty on hides as declared by the Payne-Adrick tariff bill.

Mr. MacKenzie is a close friend of Theodore Roosevelt. Sao Paulo, where Mr. MacKenzie will make his home, is one of the oldest and most historic cities in South America and is a modern and picturesque city.

CONTRACT LET FOR LINE.

Chicago Firm Gets Grading Work on Excelsior Springs Branch.

Contracts were awarded yesterday in Kansas City by the Townsend-Arnold-Enright syndicate to Smith Brothers of Chicago for the grading of the Excelsior Springs branch of the Kansas City, Excelsior Springs and St. Joseph electric railway. The contract for the St. Joseph branch will be let as soon as the route is finally determined, which is expected to be soon. Work will commence at once on the Excelsior Springs line.

The only town on the line between St. Joseph and Kansas City, will be Dearborn, in Platte county. Charles F. Enright, a member of the syndicate promoting the road, negotiated a lease yesterday for Miss Nora Swenson and Miss Marie Swenson of St. Joseph for the hotel at Dearborn for a period of five years.

This hotel is a modern building, two stories and basement, of pressed brick, and in one corner are the offices of the Farmers' Bank of Dearborn, in Platte county, Kansas.

The building is to be remodeled throughout, a steam heating plant will be installed, bath rooms are to be fitted up and sewerage connection will be made. The building will be repapered and refurnished and will be made modern throughout. There will be about twenty-five guest rooms. The hotel is to be ready Oct. 15, when the Dearborn horse show opens. Miss Nora Swenson wishes to have personal charge of the hotel.

Added interest to the Interstate show by Gudgeil & Simpons' auction of 60 head of Herefords on Friday, Sept. 29. See their adv't. in this issue.

TO ATTEND RATE MEETING

Local Delegates Leave Tonight For Oklahoma City.

A committee from St. Joseph will leave tonight for Oklahoma City to attend the meeting of the interstate commerce commission. The live stock exchange will be represented by M. F. Blanchard and A. F. Dailey, and E. S. Braker will go as a representative of the Commercial club.

The meeting will be attended by representatives of all stock yards in the west, including Omaha, Kansas City, Fort Worth, Dallas and Denver. The assembly has been called to look into the differences of the markets as to rates charged by the railroads and, if possible, to settle them. The representatives from St. Joseph are going to look after the interests of this city.

The session will begin Monday and will last for three days.

Boordom and Boredom

By JEANNETTE WALDON

Hartley Filmore was appalled by what he had done. He remembered now, with a burning that seemed to envelope his face with a flame, that she had not called him a boor; she had only called that he was one, with such a cutting delicacy that the wound to his sensibilities was as intangible as it was deep.

He deservied it; that was the worst. The outspoken, rugged side of his nature, which rebelled against what he called the "insincerity of human intercourse," had made him rash enough to midjudge Anabel. What he had supposed was an affected surprise in her attitude toward his proposal of marriage had angered him for the moment. He was cool enough now; a very chilling penitence had crept over him, even before he threw open his coat to the cool night air. And he traversed the street at a dashing speed, as if trying to escape from his humiliation.

The conviction that he had accused Anabel of subterfuge and pretense was more unbearable, even, than to feel that he had betrayed a streak of coldishness and unrestraint in his own make-up. It had seemed so absurd to him, that Anabel should need to think it over—their relations—to reconsider her feelings for him. Why, she had conveyed to him in a thousand ways.

Not until after he had spoken did he realize that a woman of Anabel's type is never actually prepared for the supreme declaration of her lover. And to think that he had construed her halting, her confusion as an affectation.

Now he admitted with anguish that her nature was too exquisite for him; this Anabel with her softly curved lips, her chin that was delicately firm, the touch of rich wine in her hair, and the luminous mystery of her eyes.

In their long-continued friendship, Hartley had lost sight of the disparaging contrasts of his own character. He had been self-centered, dictatorial, even deficient in gentlemanly instincts, he told himself, and had not realized it. Now he was brought face to face with himself. It was Anabel's calmness, her lack of surprise at his latest offense, that had enlightened him.

Without a change of her countenance, she had leaned back in her chair and looked up at him, standing in torturing doubt before her. He, who a moment ago had been so sure of her!

"I shall not, then, take time to consider," she said, "since you thing it so unnecessary. I can tell you tonight—it can never be."

"Anabel!" there was precipitous remembrance in the exclamation.

"And," she continued, still quietly, but with an added tremor in her voice, "perhaps you will be interested to know that when I—marry—it will be a man who can occasionally lose interest in himself, a man who is altruistic, and above all, deferential to women."

So that was it; he was self-absorbed, a perfect donkey of an egotist, and worse than that—he had been discourteous.

Hartley Filmore did not look the part; he possessed a well-built frame, a dignity of movement that was by no means stiff; and his aggressive earnestness of expression was tempered by an abiding geniality—until his defeat with Anabel.

That made a change. Two months went by, bringing a hot September, and uninterrupted dullness. The dullness looked out of Hartley's brown eyes and lurked in the tense set of his jaw. Anabel had gone to the country or the seaside, or somewhere. Hartley did not know where. He had no interest in events that did not concern him. He took things as they were, and kept close within himself. His law practice was unusually slack at that season. He was bored with life in general, and with himself in particular.

Just as it seemed that existence had reached the unendurable stage, a diversion entered his office one day, in the form of a woman client. She was an awkwardly dressed woman from a country town, and she had an appealing story to tell. At least, it appeared to Hartley. He hurried his arrangements, left a few commissions with a brother lawyer, and in a few days he had gone out of the city.

Two, three, four weeks, Hartley Filmore was away. In the meantime a certain young woman with a complexion as white and satiny as the heart of a coconut, and eyes that were bright with expectancy, came home from her vacation. She eagerly took up a new employment; it was to keep watch of the daily papers. What she found in these smeared and inkly news columns to make her eyes sparkle and dance, and then dream off into abiding gladness, it would have been difficult to guess.

But on the day that Hartley Filmore returned home, the climax of the trial that Anabel had been following, was given a column on the front page of the leading daily, and a certain young lawyer's name appeared in the largest type.

Hartley threw away the paper with disgust. He reddened to the temples. "I suppose she'll think I—the egotist—wrote this puff about myself!" he muttered, and not content with tossing the printed sheet from him, he crumpled it and dropped it into the waste basket.

As he did this, some one entered his little reception room—some one with a silken rustle of skirts. He quickly felt of his tie and smoothed his hair with both hands, presenting himself at the door.

His surprise, his wonder, his almost awed, at sight of his visitor, were unequivocally betrayed; he half started back, and then he cordially outstretched hand. It was Anabel, her perfect beauty set off by a pink hat with one large, red rose; her face, aglow from her walk in the crisp October air, flashed eager friendliness.

"I congratulate you, Hartley," she said. "Please don't speak of it," deprecated the young man. "Truly, I was not working for publicity."

"Of course not," she laughed humorously. "But how do you know I didn't write it up myself?" There was a tinge of bitterness in his smile.

"With a rebukeful 'Hartley!' she dismissed badinage. A change came into her face—something deeper than friendliness was in her look, something that spoke of gratitude and admiration.

"I shall not congratulate you, then," she conceded, "but I want to thank you, to thank you sincerely for your championship of a woman who needed and deserved it."

Hartley was ungracious, obdurate. "Of course, I was only working for puff," cynicism still lurked in his smile.

Anabel came a step nearer. "I know," she asserted, "I know better. The woman told me she had nothing with which to pay a lawyer—I sent her to you—"

"You!" the young man's face was a study of eager incredulity. "Yes, she is a sister of the woman with whom I stopped in the country. She told me of her trouble, and I sent her to you, because—because—"

She placed her hand lightly upon his arm. But so completely had Hartley Filmore been cured of his egotism that he could not believe, even now. Yet—he wanted, how much he wanted her! He did not know what to say, but, after all, it was unnecessary for him to speak. In an instant, Anabel was in his arms.

BROKE MONTE CARLO BANK

"Marse Henry" Says the Lucky Gambler Was an American, and Adds Other Remarks.

The "man who broke the bank at Monte Carlo" and gave occasion for the song was not named "Wells" and he was not an Englishman. He was an American. I knew him well, and soon after the event had from his own lips the whole story.

He came to Monte Carlo with a good deal of money won at draw poker in a club at Paris, and went away richer by some $20,000 than he came.

The catch line of the song is misleading. There is no such thing as "breaking the bank at Monte Carlo." This particular player won so fast up on two or three "rolls" that the table at which he played had to suspend until it could be replenished by another "bank," perhaps five minutes in point of time. There are some 20 tables. Just how one man could play at more than one of them at one time a "foreign correspondent," but only a "foreign correspondent," might explain to the understanding of the hayseeds and the satisfaction of the horse marines.

I very much doubt whether any player ever won more than 100,000 francs at a single sitting. To do even that he must plunge like a ship in a hurricane. It is to the interest of the casino to cultivate the idea, and the letter-writers are willing tools. In dearth of news-gathering stories come cheap and easy. And the cheaper the story the bigger the play. "The judge raised him $2,000." The colonel raised him back $20,000 more. Both of 'em stood pat. The judge bet him a $100,000. The colonel called. "What you got?" says he. "Ace high," says the judge; "what you got?" "Pair of sevens," says the colonel.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Also the Whale. A Kansas fisherman declares that a catfish will purr like a tomcat when it is stroked the right way. Did he ever try stroking a German carp and hearing it sing "Hi le, hi lo!"—Kansas City Star.

And did he ever stroke a whale and hear it spout?

Looking Ahead. Proud Young Father—"Isn't he a little beauty? What a pity he has that mark on his upper lip!" Proud Young Mother—"Why, John, his mustache will hide that."

HIGH CURRENT ILLS

Many Wireless Operators Suffering With Toothach:

Prediction is Made That System Will Cause Other Nervous Diseases Among Those Who Expose Themselves.

New York.—Wireless toothache, due to the high tension electrical currents produced in sending wireless messages, is the latest disease discovered by New York physicians, and it is said hundreds of wireless operators, professional and amateur, in this city and its neighborhood, are suffering from it. Prediction also is made that the heavy currents discharged by the wireless telegraph will produce other nervous diseases among those who expose themselves too much to such phenomena. There perhaps are thousands of amateur wireless operators in New York city. Investigation discloses that many of them have had toothache since they began their wireless studies and experiments. What other diseases of nervous sort have followed in the wake of the current; only will be revealed by scientific investigation.

A prominent European physician discovered the wireless toothache, and the bad effect of the high tension currents on the nerves of his patients. He predicts there will be a general increase of nervous ailments, due to that cause. That physician says the neuronic elements are affected so by the currents that a low grade neuritis is produced which progresses according to each patient's general physical condition, hygienic surroundings, occupation and habits. The European investigator points out that the electricity artificially permeates the surrounding atmosphere and that a person brought in contact with it, day after day, must have a great constitution to withstand its effects. West physicians even may suffer from aggravated forms of nervous disorder by the wireless process, he asserts.

When the European physician announced the discovery of wireless toothache he was scoffed at by other doctors, who had not studied the question as he had. The discovery, however, is being regarded seriously on both sides of the Atlantic, and skilled minds are seeking to discover what other ailments may be caused by such high tension currents being loose in the air.

It is recalled the X-ray affects the skin and tissues insidiously and often disastrously. Nor is it any secret that persons who are compelled to pass long periods in rooms where big dynamos are in operation frequently show neurotic tendencies. Physicians who use the ultra-violet, high tension and other forms of electricity in treatment often suffer neurotic affections. These things indicate, it is suggested, that disease producing qualities lurk in electricity of which little is known as yet. Third rails, live trolley wires, telephone and telegraph wires and other agencies are discharging into the air constantly currents of electricity which pass through persons in the streets and elsewhere, and there are physicians who fear that as the use of electricity increases, wireless telegraphy and telephony get in full swing, wireless toothache will be merely one of a long list of nervous diseases directly traceable to excess of electricity in the atmosphere.

Did Not Work Both Ways. Mr. George Jones, R. A., a painter of battle pieces, etc., who died some years ago, specially prided himself on his resemblance to the Duke of Wellington and used to dress up to the character. Someone mentioned the likeness to the duke, and added: "It must be great, for people in the street often speak to him for your grace."

"Very strange," muttered the great man; "no one ever spoke to me for Mr. Jones!"—Edmund Yates.

$200,000,000 Worth of Clay. Albany, N. Y.—The clay beds of New York state are worth more than $200,000,000, according to a report by John H. Clarke, the state geologist. Last year's output of brick, tile, terra cotta, pottery and other materials reached an aggregate of $11,600,000. The number of buildings brick manufactured during the 12 months was nearly 1,500,000,000.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8.—The greatest official map-making establishment in the country at present is the United States Geological Survey.

Every year with the coming of the open field season numerous surveying parties hurry away from the Washington office to the four quarters of the United States.

Most of the maps are printed in colors and for the total number of 218,919 maps and charts printed during the month mentioned the number of separate printings or impressions was 1,287,698.

TO FISH FROM BALLOON. Sporty California Doctor Introduces Novel Means of Angling.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 8.—Here's a new one in fishing. Doctor B. F. Alden is going to catch fish with a balloon.

This may sound like a "fish story," but it's true. The medical angler has been at Catalina and has seen the wily tuna lured from the depths in many kinds of ways.

After a fish is once hooked there is no further uncertainty for the dived in the wood angler. He is sure of his sport, whether the fish finally gets away or stays until it is ready for the pan.

This fisherman had an ingenious scheme of getting the tuna to bite. He flew a kite from which dangled a line with ring on the end of it, and through this ring he passed his fishing line.

Now Doctor Alden found the weak point in this plan. When there is no wind no one can fly a kite. So the doctor got busy and decided that a balloon would serve the same purpose.

TEXAS AT LAND SHOWS. State Will Have Big Exhibit at Madison Square Garden.

San Antonio, Texas, Sept. 7.—The determination of Texas to make a great exhibit at the coming land shows at Madison Square Garden, New York, and in Chicago has taken form that insures the success of the effort.

At a meeting held in Austin, attended by men from all parts of the state, the state was divided into twenty general districts and a director for each named. These various districts will begin at once the arrangements for the exhibit and it is understood that $50,000, or more, will be appropriated for the effort.

PLANTING LATE POTATOES.

Texas Farmers Plan to Take Advantage of High Prices.

San Antonio, Texas, Sept. 7.—In addition to growing a cotton crop that is yielding beyond expectation, the Texas farmer who has plans to "break into the potato game" with an autumn crop finds conditions such as to insure that he will be able to at least make a dent in the situation.

On account of the high prices which have prevailed for the past year, which has increased by the almost total failure of the potato crop in all parts of the country, farmers of the southwest section have arranged to plant the largest autumn crop in the history of the effort in this part of the state.

FRISK CAVE FOR TREASURES

Barrels of Gold and Silver Are Buried in Old Indian Territory.

Muskogee, Ok., Sept. 9.—Fabulous sums of gold and silver buried before the Civil war somewhere in old Indian Territory by Benjamin Marshall, a wealthy half-breed, may soon be unearthed. J. J. Ayers of Denton, Texas, is now in Oklahoma for the purpose of interesting several parties to engage in a prospecting trip in search of the treasure.

Years ago, according to Ayers, a drunken trapper told him the story of a cave in Indian Territory that had four large barrels of gold and silver coin in it. Every time the trapper came to Fort Smith, Ark., his pockets bulged with gold and silver in proof of his story.

Benjamin Marshall has a grandson, Benjamin Marshall III, now living at Clarksville, Ok. Marshall was a trader and a large slave owner. His plantations lay between two rivers and the black earth produced enormous crops. He traded and bought and accumulated large sums of money.

When the Civil war broke out Marshall had four barrels of gold and silver coin stored in his home. Numbers of the older Indians still living have seen the treasure and swear that Marshall had it in his possession. One night Marshall had a trusty old negro slave hitch a team to a farm wagon and the pair drove away to hide the treasure.

On the following day Judge N. B. Moore, who is now a resident of Haskell, Ok., met Marshall along the road and saw the barrels of money in the wagon. Marshall's wife knew where the treasure was hidden, as did the old negro, who accompanied Marshall to the spot.

All three died within a few months without divulging the secret. Marshall's descendants have never been able to locate the money, which is somewhere in the old Cherokee Nation.

New York Quotations Show Effect of Poor Crops Here and Abroad.

New York, Sept. 7.—The raw sugar market was very strong and excited and prices record an advance of twenty points, one of the largest individual advances made in years, and at the same time new records were established both here and abroad.

Sales of centrifugal were made on the basis of $7.75, and in the closing quotation of last week. Very little sugar was offered at these figures, and some offers were made at ten points above. The strength was due to reiteration of bad crop news, indicating very small crops both here and abroad.
