There has been a materially better tone to the market for cows and heifers.

The trade in steers ruled uneven all week. The good weighty classes were offered sparingly and sales ransing from $8.00 @ 8.55 were regarded fully steady with a week ago. Medium grades, selling at $7.25 @ 8.00, close 10 @ 20c lower. Feeder demand has been a prop to the market for steers valued around $6.75 @ 7.00 and these kinds are closing in about the same notches as a week ago. Cheapter of the losses registered last week. Early in the week buyers were inclined to keep the lid on but on Wednesday and Thursday a stronger tone was manifested and prices came in for a modest appreciation. Cows are closing 10 @ 15c higher than a week ago, this advance applying allke to canners and cutters as well as the medium to good. advance applying alike to canners and cutters as well as the medium to good killing grades. ## Daddy's Bedtime Polly's Tantrum

ACK and Evelyn did not spat very often, but sometimes they had little tiffs which made daddy so sad that he generally told them a little story to set them thinking.

"You would better be a little careful how you talk to Jack, Miss Evelyn," daddy began one evening after the children had had one of their quarrels. "I may bring a poll parrot home some day, and he may teach you

"Oh, we would like the parrot!" cried the children. "Do bring him home! Yes, and we'll try to be good if you'll do that."

"This parret belonged in a family where there was a spoiled little girl," said daddy. "I shouldn't like to repeat all the naughty things she said to folks, but when she was quite angry she would shriek:

"'Oh, shut up!' Yes, indeed, she was spanked and stood in the corner for it, but some way the punishments did not do as much good as they should. "When the parrot was brought home it took its place on the perch in the corner and for several days did not pay attention to any one or anything.

"Then the little girl had one of her tantrums and shricked 'Shut up!' as loud as ever she could. "Polly waddled down to the end of her perch and stared. When the little girl began to cry Polly's eyes almost popped out of her head, but Polly said nothing that day. "One morning as the little girl flew into one of her rages Polly fluttered down from her perch and shouted 'Shut up, shut up!' so loudly that every

"'Do I look like that when I'm mad?' she faltered to her mother as she stared at the angry bird.

'I'm afraid you do, dear,' her mother answered "The little girl burst right into tears. It is dreadful to think of, but Polly burst right into tears too. A crying spell always followed a tantrum, and Polly could do that as well as the other part.

In fact, they will go about as far as butter on a warm day with no ice in the refrigerator. What the department wants to do is to put something into the jelly that will make it live up to its name. There are several of the high-browed chemts in the department that think they can make it solid by the addition of a little chemical, but they are afraid they can't chemicalize the jelly and get away with it under the pure food law. In the party are Commodore Douglas Melchoir, William Keenan, Charles Younger, Ray Keller, Walter Willrodt and G. E. Whitlock. The canoes are the Echo, Monneta and Rosemary.

The start was made at 10 o'clock. The canoeists expect to reach St. Joseph about Friday. They will do most of the paddling in the morning and camp on the river bank en route. It is about 200 miles to St. Joseph by river, and the party will be aided by a good current.

The Omaha paddlers will be guests of the Lotus club at Lake Contrary, for a few days before returning home by rail, and while there they expect to arrange with the club canoeists for a canoe excursion down the river from Sloux City to St. Joseph naxt year las Melchoir, William Keenan,

There will be original and unique ideas carried out for the entertainment of both the residents of the big cities and the residents of the rural districts.

Special feaures and attractions will be provided for the days which will be set aside by the management for the members of the different fraternal and newspaper organizations who will attend in a body.

It is expected that State Bee Inspector Darby will have his beeswax house in a booth. This house is made entirely of beeswax. It contains two rooms, one of which is a dining room in which is set a table on which is displayed nothing that is not made of honey. The other room is a parlor, and is used for the display of the products of a bee farm.

Another interesting feature at the show will be the model dairy, which will have cows and at which will be shown the process of making butter. Here one can see how to get the most butter from the cream, and many other things pertaining to the dairy industry.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—The senate unanimously endorsed the foreign commission of the Southern Commercial Congress, which is to go abroad next May to study systems of agricultural finance in Europe. The commission also has been endorsed by the state department and will thus tour Europe with the backing of the United States government.

Endorsement of the senate occurred in record time. Last Tuesday Senator Newlands, of Nevada, introduced the resolution endorsing the commission.
