

STEEERS STATIONARY

FAIR FRIDAY SUPPLY CLEARED IN GOOD SEASON AT FULL STEADY PRICES.

COWS AND HEIFERS FIRM

Moderate Quota Readily Absorbed—Good Inquiry for Calves—Stocks and Feeders Trade Quiet.

A fair supply of cattle was offered for the Friday trade and demand showed sufficient breadth to care for receipts at prices fully steady with Thursday.

The fat steer market this week has not shown the activity that characterized trading of the previous week and the tendency of prices has been downward.

FARMERS ARE INTERESTED. Notify Committee of Approval of Interstate Agricultural and Industrial Congress.

A number of communications from farmers in adjoining counties have been received by R. M. Baecheiler, chairman of the committee in charge of the Interstate Agricultural and Industrial Congress.

About six such communications, containing 200 signatures, have been received. Members of the committee regard this as significant as showing the great interest the farmers are taking in the congress.

Dr. A. Borman of Topeka, editor of The Kansas Farmer, has written advising that his address at the congress will be on the subject of improved dairy methods.

Mr. Borman is particularly eager to get a number of new ideas before the dairy farmers and to show all farmers the advantages of milking from eight to ten cows, whether they conduct a dairy or not.

Dr. A. Ross Hill of Columbia, president of the University of Missouri, who was expected here the latter part of this week for a conference concerning the program, will not come until the middle of next week.

WANT "PURE LEATHER" LAW. Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 17.—A resolution has been passed by a law making it a misdemeanor to misbrand leather, and providing for federal inspection of tanneries, was adopted by the Western Harnessmakers and Dealers' Association in session here.

The convention adjourned after re-electing Charles P. Shipley of this city president and deciding to meet here next year.

EXPECTING IT. A church member in a small town was sent to the city to procure illuminated texts with which to decorate the church for Christmas.

Shortly after his arrival in the city he was horrified to receive the following telegram signed by his wife:

"Another—unto us a child is born, nine feet long by two feet wide."

The northern states can always depend upon one sure crop—ice.

As long as there is no money trust, a little legislation against one would do little harm.

New York has a new twenty-five story hotel. Wonder if the rates are proportionate to its height?

Money invested in good roads that are good only until the next heavy rain is a mighty poor investment.

The greeting between the coal man and the ice man is becoming a little more effusive, thanks to the weather manipulator. They'll soon be real chummy.

The express companies say the parcel post has not hurt their business. If the parcel post is bringing in all that revenue to Uncle Sam without hurting the express companies, it's too bad it wasn't started long ago.

The snows of Mount Shasta, 299 miles away, may become San Francisco's water supply. The project is estimated to cost $29,000,000, the sum voted by Los Angeles for the construction of the Owens River aqueduct.

BACK TO THE FARM. After four years as chief executive of Kansas and mixing in things political, Governor W. R. Stubbs says he is glad to get back to the farm. His training at Topeka should make him a good man for diversified farming.

ONE NEEDED TRUST. Every farmer should take pride in destroying weeds on his farm. Agriculturists ought to work in unison toward preventing all weeds from going to seed on their lands. A combine of farmers for that purpose should be organized this winter in every locality. No one would kick on that kind of a trust.

DON'T LIKE BURLINSON. Dairyman do not take kindly to the suggestion of the name of Congressman Burlinson, of Texas, for the cabinet portfolio soon to be vacated by "Tama Jim" Wilson. Mr. Burlinson is favorable to revision of unjust oleomargarine laws, and this is not in accord with the views of the butter trust.

THE HEN. The editor of the Centralia (Mo.) Courier reminds us that we should not forget the hen. It says: "A hen can't plow, hoe corn or split wood," but she can get there just the same. She doesn't cost more than a drink of whiskey and a plug of tobacco, but she can pay 3 per cent interest on $25 a year and pay for her board besides. Take an old speckled hen that had no raising at all, one that has been thrown out of the corn crib, knocked off the porch with a broom and chased out of the garden by a worthless pup. Just take that sort of a hen and she will pay expenses and clear about $3 a year if she's halfway looked after."

SOY BEANS AND COW PEAS. In Germany soy beans and cow peas are grown in large quantities. Their first mission is to enrich the soil, and the second to realize profitable prices through the sale of the beans and peas. These are ground and made into a cake and sold to the dairymen of Denmark. The conversion into cake is for no purpose other than to compress the crop and reduce the bulk to a minimum for transportation. Denmark uses the cake in the production of milk, the dairymen there buying large quantities of pro-

Pussy Takes a Fancy to the Squirrels.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

Pussy and Her Adopted Squirrel Children

THE children had been looking at a pretty picture of a pussy taking care of a lot of little dogs.

"I wonder if the little dogs will chase the pussy cat when they grow up?" Jack and Evelyn wondered.

"No, indeed. They would be very naughty if they did," daddy replied. "Do you suppose the pussy ever scratches the doggies?" Evelyn asked.

"Dear, no; not unless they are very naughty and need to be punished. A pussy makes one of the best of mothers even when she adopts children other than her own.

"When I was a boy we had a fine big tabby in our family. One winter she had three fine kittens, and, as we had all the pets that mother would allow us, homes were found for the kittens when they were quite young.

"Tabby cried around and seemed much grieved. She looked everywhere for her little ones, but could not find them.

"That day our father brought in some baby squirrels to show us. The little things had been found in a nest in a hollow tree near the house, and they seemed so thin and hungry that father thought the mother must have been killed. He laid the orphan squirrels in front of the fire.

"Pussy came into the room. No one noticed her, though, until she darted off with a squirrel to the basket where she had kept her kittens.

"In a minute she came back for another, and then she carried off the third. When we peeped into the basket she was licking the squirrels, and they were cuddling up to her as contented as you please.

"Now, what do you think of that?" our father said. You see our pussy was a great hunter, and she had been known to come in with a dead squirrel in her mouth. Who knows but she may have made a meal of the squirrel babies' mother. But she loved them very dearly.

"When they were big enough to go outdoors it was a sight to see them. There were several tall trees in the garden, and the squirrels would scamper up and down these in the wildest spirits.

"Pussy would run after the lively youngsters, meowing piteously for them to come back. It did no good. She would sit at the foot of a tree as they scrambled over it, crying as if her heart would break. She thought the squirrels were entirely too venturesome for little things of their age.

"Fussy had a hard time with that family. She did her best to teach them all the things young kittens should know, such as how to wash their faces and catch mice. They were soon beyond her, though. When she caught them eating nuts and stealing birds' eggs she washed her paws of them."

tain feeds. Thus the use of these legumes is forcibly demonstrated, one country using them to build up and maintain the fertility of its soils, and another—the greatest dairy country in the world—using them for compounding a balanced ration for the dairy cow.

FARMERS' WIVES LACK HELP. The editor of an eastern farm paper speaks lightly of the disposition in western states to create a sentiment for social uplift of farm women. It is his statement that the social obligations of farmers' wives are now such as to have made the canning and preserving of fruits and vegetables, the making of soap, lye, butter and cheese lost arts. While it is a fact that to a very large extent the women on the farms are not canning fruits, vegetables, making soap, lye, etc., to as great an extent as they once did, this is not due to the fact that they are busy with social affairs. More than anything else it is due to the inability of the housewife to secure hired help and because the girls leave the farm home for positions in the cities as clerks, stenographers, etc. Much has been said about keeping the boy on the farm, but not so much has been thought of keeping the girl on the farm. The lack of social life in the country is fully as responsible for the girl leaving the farm as for the boy.

THE FARMER. Castana (Iowa) Times: The farmer is being blamed for the high cost of living. Of course he is to blame and it is surprising that some irate consumer hasn't taken a poke at him or got out an injunction against him. In the first place he is a farmer, wears muddy old overalls and a battered up hat. In the next place he only works from 5 o'clock a. m. to 9 p. m., his wife setting the pace by going two hours a day better. Then, too, he pays a lot of taxes, works the roads, supports the country schools and incidentally fattens a few hogs and steers for the market; besides this, he has fences to build, post holes to dig, hay to put up and the corn to husk. Once in a while the cholera kills his hogs, the blackleg gets his cattle and his horses succumb to various ailments and epidemics. Some years the frost nips his corn and other years the hail destroys his grain. He fights gopher and weevil, caterpillar and bug, while the hawk, the weasel, the skunk and the pip prey upon his chickens. There are several other things that trouble annoy and beset him, to which might be added the garden, the orchard and the butter making. But despite this life of ease and luxury he meekly takes what the market offers him for his products and wonders what becomes of the money between a 20-cent bushel of corn and a six-ounce package of breakfast food at 15 cents or his 7-cent steer and his 20-cent beefsteak.

Oh, it is great to be a farmer and feed the world, while the waiters get the tips and the producers get the cussin'.

MCCAMPBELL REFUSES JOB Iowa Tries to Get Kansas Man for Extension Work in That State.

Manhattan, Kan., Jan. 17.—It paid Wilbur McCampbell—he's Dr. C. W. McCampbell, now—to spend seven years—studying in the Kansas Agricultural College. Only three years out of college his thorough training has enabled him to make unusual progress in his line—animal husbandry. Doctor McCampbell, who now is assistant professor of animal husbandry in the college here, received a telegram from the Iowa state college, last week, offering him $2,500 a year to do college extension work in that state. He has decided not to accept the offer. He refused an offer of $2,200 a year from the Ohio State University last summer.

Doctor McCampbell completed two courses at the Kansas agricultural college—the animal husbandry and the veterinary. Immediately after his graduation from the veterinary course in 1911 he was elected assistant in animal husbandry. Later he was made secretary of the Kansas state live stock registry board, in which position he has succeeded in getting things done that have raised the standard of live stock in Kansas. His first distinguishing work was his able management of the big horse feeding experiment at Port Riley, Kan., in which the Kansas agricultural college and the government used 1,000 horses in a test to find cheaper feeds.

MONEY FOR RIVER WORK. $2,300,000 Is Share for Improving the "Big Muddy."

Washington, Jan. 17.—The first "pork barrel" appropriation bill of the present session of congress was reported to the house when the rivers and harbors committee brought in its annual appropriation bill providing $49,899,999 for the improvement of rivers and harbors throughout the country. The committee agreed on the measure after a stormy session that lasted several hours.

The largest single appropriation in the bill provides $5,000,000 for the improvement of the Mississippi river from New Orleans to the mouth of the Ohio. Other Mississippi river appropriations are:

One million for improvements from the mouth of the Ohio to the mouth of the Missouri; $1,500,000 from the mouth of the Missouri to Minneapolis, and $35,000 from St. Paul to Minneapolis.

Two million three hundred thousand dollars is provided for work on the Missouri river; $2,000,000 to be expended from Kansas City to the mouth of the river; $150,000 from Kansas City to Sioux City, and $150,000 from Sioux City to Fort Union, N. M. Among the important appropriations in the bill by states are the following:

Texas—Galveston channel, $200,000; Texas City, $2,000,000; Sabine Pass and Port Arthur canal, $400,000; Brazos river, Old Washington to Waco, $250,000; Velasco to Old Washington, $25,000; mouth of Brazos, $25,000; Trinity river, $275,000; Port Aransas, $500,000.

Arkansas—Cuachita river, $202,500; Arkansas river, $45,999; Red river, $75,000.

WASCOTS TO BE RESTORED Joy in the Navy As Result of Recent Order.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 17.—The billy-goats, monkeys, cats, dogs, parrots, and other pets aboard Uncle Sam's fighting ships at the Norfolk navy yard, which were banished a few days ago, when, report said, Rear Admiral R. M. Doyle was luted by a gun on the battleship New Hampshire, will be restored to the jacksies who love them, and there is joy in the fleet again. Assistant Secretary Winthrop, of the navy department, let it be known that the department did not approve their summary removal. Admiral Doyle indignantly denied that the goat had bitten him and announced that he had ordered the removal of the pets because medical officers thought they might have something to do with cerebro-spinal meningitis and measles at the marine barracks. The admiral further announced that when the danger of infection was passed the mascots would be permitted to return.

PRESERVING EGGS IN "WATER-GLASS." To ten quarts of water, which has previously been boiled, add one pint of water-glass (sodium silicate), which may be secured at the drug store. Place this solution in an earthen jar, using liquid enough to fully cover the eggs. Additional eggs and more solution may be put in the jar at a time—Use only perfectly fresh eggs.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

BEAUTY HINTS.

Eradicate Wrinkles—Keep "wrinkles" out of your mind if you would keep your face free from creases. The face, like a camera film, pictures conscious and subconscious thought. It is the mind that needs treatment, and self-treatment alone is permanent. Concentrate your thoughts on your health and happiness, break the habit of "wrinkling" your mind and the wrinkles will disappear as youth will stay with you.

A Camphor Bath—Have you ever tried a camphor bath? It is an excellent thing for the nerves. It is made from two ounces of finest camphor, half an ounce of tincture of benzoin and two ounces of toilet vinegar. Bottle this mixture and add enough of it to a warm bath to scent the water. Do not stay in the tub longer than ten or fifteen minutes, and after the bath lay down for a half hour.

The Tooth Brush—A physician recently described his method of preparing a tooth-brush for use. A brush with soft bristles is chosen and the bristles are clipped with a pair of sharp scissors. The brush thus made is stiff enough to reach the deep crevices, is so much smaller than usual that it is more convenient for use around and behind the large back teeth. In the ordinary brush the bristles, soft and long, bend upward as the teeth are rubbed.

Water a Beautifier—Water is a fine cosmetic; so is good soap—a soap free from scent and strong alkalies. It is not the skin of men's faces that is often better and clearer than that of their sisters. The logical reason is that men in shaving lather the skin removed, and, in addition, shaving soap is of much better quality than most toilet soaps. In order to cleanse perfectly the face that has been exposed to a day's dust use hot water with the soap.

Removing Blemishes—Many persons go through the world with blemishes on their skin which easily could be removed. They would gladly have them removed, but fear the preparations sold are injurious. One ugly mark which is not difficult to remove is a mole. It is unsightly, and will not go away of itself, but with little attention it almost disappears in a short time. The following remedy is harmless and is used on the mole until it disappears. Take salicylic acid and mix with alcohol or glycerine in equal parts, and apply to the mole for an hour. The acid will eat away the mole tissue. At each application it will become smaller, and it should disappear after the third application.

Waving the Hair—A simple but most effective way of making the hair wave in the big ripples which continue to be fashionable is to dampen it and tie it down with an inch apart ribbon. Of course, absolutely straight hair will not yield to this treatment, but hair with the slightest tendency to curl will respond beautifully. After the hair is done up dampen it with hot water, pinch it a little and then draw it close down to the head with bands of baby ribbon put on in separate places about an inch apart and pinned very tight to the head. Leave on for an hour, remove carefully, then comb the hair gently until it has charming waves of beautiful regularity.

INVENTS AN EGG TUBE. Device Found Serviceable for Shipping Eggs by Parcel Post.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 17.—An egg case, made to hold from one to five dozen eggs for mailing purposes, has been invented by E. R. Jones, 2101 East sixteenth street. According to Mr. Jones, it is almost impossible for eggs to get broken when mailed in his tube-shaped case. The case is being used by farmers to mail their eggs to customers through the parcel post.

The case is a long circular tube of heavy cardboard. On the inside is a metal square postcard box partitioned off so that the eggs do not touch each other. The case weighs only seven ounces.

With the eggs in the inner box, protect by a heavy cardboard casing outside, a heavy pressure can be put against the case without breaking the contents.

LEATHER TO COST MORE? Western Harness Men Considering An Increase in Price of Goods.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 17.—Whether an increase in the price of leather goods should be recommended was the principal subject to be considered when the seventh annual convention of the Western Harness Dealers' association met here.

"The advance in the cost of labor and material during the last 10 years has been at least 4 per cent," said Charles P. Shipley, president of the association.

"In addition to that loss, we face another in the additional weight given to leather by the tanning process of today. Formerly it took nine months to tan leather, now it takes 30 days. But we get good leather then and now we get a poor product. One of the things that is badly needed is federal inspection of tanned goods and tanning processes."

2,00000 GIRLS ON STRIKE. Shirtwaist Factory Workers Demand "No Locked Doors."

New York, Jan. 17.—Fifty thousand flaming red posters, distributed by 600 girls in dress and shirtwaist factories yesterday, turned the 40,000 workers into the ranks of the strikers in the garment making trades, now numbering nearly 200,000. The posters were the official call for a strike among the dress and waist makers, who had previously sanctioned such action by an overwhelming vote. All of these employees are girls, some of them under 14 years of age, and their organizations have appointed committees to guard the idle workers against agents of the white slave trade.

The first demand of the dress and waist makers is "no locked doors." They declare that the lesson taught by the Asch's building fire, in which 147 girls lost their lives, has not been heeded and that they are forced to work in unsafe and unsanitary shops.

IN THE WRONG STATE

Story of Moonshiners and Love in the Kentucky-Tennessee Mountains.

By HAROLD CARTER.

John Vincent, federal revenue officer acting in Kentucky, pulled in his mare and coolly surveyed the heights in front of him. On every side arose precipitous mountains, clothed with their personal garb of spruce and pine.

He retained in suddenly, for his quick eyes had caught a glimmering flash from the peak in front of him. It might have been the sun glancing on some hidden pool. But it looked more like light reflected from a rifle barrel.

He crouched beside the trail, plunged into the scrub pine, emerging, lost again, until at length he saw the bare acclivity of Bear mountain in front of him.

His weapon in his hand, Vincent leaped forward, scaled the boulders on the summit, and appeared before the door.

"I Reckon it's Jim You're After." The door. Upon the threshold, a rifle in his hands, stood a young man. His back was turned and he was attempting to eject a stuck cartridge.

Hands up! yelled Vincent. The man started, stared at him for an instant, and then, with a sudden dash, leaped across the cabin, gained the rear entrance, and was away and running like a deer.

"Looks like his sister," he said. "You've seen that Norman girl down at the store? Her image! Don't go arresting the girl instead of him," he laughed.

BIRD NOW ALMOST EXTINCT

Wild Pigeon, Once Counted in Millions, So Rare as to be Accounted a Curiosity.

The great reduction of bird life in America is illustrated by a story from Montreal of the capture of a bird now rare which formerly was seen by the million.

The bird was taken to J. B. Innes, secretary of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and also secretary of the Quebec Fish and Game club.

"I guess the law doesn't say anything against amicable visitings between the states, does it?" he asked. "Well," she admitted, "if you come that way, I—I guess it doesn't."

CHRONICLE OF THE SINNER

Being the Story of a Man Mean Enough to Deceive Even His Trusting Wife.

At two o'clock in the morning William Wilberforce succeeded after many efforts in getting his key to serve the purpose for which it had been made. Then he stumbled into the hall and fell over an upturned corner of a rug.

When she got downstairs her husband was sitting up and staring vacantly at a beautiful picture of Queen Louise of Prussia. "Why, William!" exclaimed his wife, "what has happened? Where are your glasses? How did you get that cut on your nose? Why are your clothes all covered with mud?"

By his will Massenet left his manuscript music to the Opera, but it will not be placed in the archives of the National Academy of Music until after the death of Mme. Massenet.

Every day some anecdote of the musician appears in the newspapers, of which the following, taken from the Figaro, is typical. A critic was indulging in extravagant praise of Massenet in his face, and wound up his flattery: "Wagner? What was he? His talent is most absurdly exaggerated. I have to pick and choose among a lot of rubbish in Wagner."

Obstructed Order. Owens—How do you do, Mr. Shears. What can you show me in the way of a new suit today? His Tailor—Your bill, sir—that is decidedly in the way of a new suit.

BIRD NOW ALMOST EXTINCT

Wild Pigeon, Once Counted in Millions, So Rare as to be Accounted a Curiosity.

The sender of the little feathered creature was John Hough, of Odell Town, Quebec. He explained his reason for mailing it was to have it identified, as he had heard queries had been made regarding wild pigeons.

The wild, or passenger, pigeon, so named from its habit of passing from one part of the country to another, was once a resident of southern Canada and the northern United States.
