Despite the showing of weakness i the fat cattle market last week, ther was no material falling off in aggre gate marketing for the opening day of the new week. At the five leading points receipts totaled approximately 53,000 head, as compared with 53,900 last Monday and 54,400 corresponding day a year ago. Locally, the estimated supply was 1,900 head, although at noon the car count indicated less than 1,800 cattle on sale. A decrease of 300 was noted compara-

A decrease of 900 was noted compar-ed with a week ago.

Steers suitable for the killer outlet comprised about half of the day's ar-rivals. Offerings included a few loads of good weighty beeves but the bulk of the crop was made up of the plainlight and medium weight short-classes which have predominated for some time. The general trade opened slow with a weaker tone in evidence. Reports from the east were

The showing of cows and helfers for the initial session of the week's trade was fair and business on the whole rather slow. Buyers were bearishly inclined, seeking to cheapen up on their day's purchases, but receipts were not heavy enough to allow them to dictate terms. Sellers succeeded in landing a good share of their female killing stock at a steady range of prices. Here and there, however, they found it necessary to grant concessions of a dime to effect celarances so that taking the whole deal into so that taking the whole deal into consideration it was quotably a steady to 10c lower affair. Choice stuff was slim supply, although the average quality was very fair. Canners were scarce. Trade in that class of stuff is of unusually meager volume for this season of the year, indicating that the country has been drained of low grade cows as the result of the attractive helfers now coming have been running in the cornfields and show fair flesh Sellers managed to work out steady prices for their bull-holdings. The supply was moderate. Veals were fairly active at last week's higher price range. The better classes sold

Manufacturing Industries Never Were as Prosperous in History.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Prosperity never before equaled in the history of the country marked the manufactur-ing industries of the United States during the calendar year of 1912, according to a statement issued today by the federal bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. The bureau's statisticians based their declarations on the importations of materials used in manufacturing and on the movement of domestic materials from the points of production to the factories.

"These two methods of measure ment," says the report, "seem to indicate that the manufacturing industries of the country made in 1912 their highest record. In practically all arti-cles imported for use in manufactur-ing the quantities entering the country in 1912 were greater than ever before, the movements of iron ore on the Great Lakes are reported as larger than in any earlier year and in move-ments of other domestic products toward the factory the records also in-dicate extraordinary activity in 1912," Value of materials for manufacturing imported reached the record fig-ure of more than $925,000,000 during phenomenal, Alfred Snaith, in his lone ly bungalow situated at the edge of the Maine forests, had really given the world some astonishing discoveries. He was the inventor of the improved Crookes tube, of the new process for tracing the hitherto invisible bacilli of spotted fever by staining them with ultra-violet dyes; he had found means of establishing the equilibrium of the aeroplane (patent impending); he had first isolated the toxic ingredient of russula emetica, that almost edible toadstool which today forms so valuable an adjunct to the pharmacopeia. KEEPING HOUSE A BUSINESS

Charge That American Wives Pay Too Little Attention to Smaller Form of Economies.

American wives have yet to learn that housekeeping is a business in which they can earn money by saving it. Many wives are today seeking desperately for some occupation which will pay them a few dollars each week, when in their own refrigerators and pantries food is going to waste, milk is growing sour and wasteful cooks are using eggs and butter and sugar in prodigious quantities because their mistresses would consider themselves "stingy" to speak a word of warning or give direct supervision of the culinary department.

The French people are far ahead of us in their observance of the "penny saved, penny earned" theory. They use for their salads the parts of the vegetables which we throw away. They toast the left-over slices of bread which we let mold.

They prepare from the common and healthful vegetables which we scorn dishes fit for epicures. And they do these things because they believe that thrift is imperative, and as a result they have bank accounts and a financial stability which is rare among the plain people of other nations.

In housekeeping woman has five or giene. And these things are interesting only when they are given their true value in the world of endeavor. The woman who holds competently her place as manager of her household ranks high above women in other professions, for she has learned to do not one thing, but many, and the man has figured out whether her her executive ability must be of the most perfect order if she is to realize the ideal in the working out of her domestic "big business."-Exchange.

Train Fish to Catch Turtles. In the neighborhood of Havana a most peculiar method of securing turtles is pursued. They train or at least take advantage of the instincts of a certain species of fish called by the Spanish reve (meaning reversed), because its back is usually taken for its stomach.

It has an oval plate attached to its ersed by parallel ridges. By this plate it can adhere to any solid body it may choose. The boats which go in quest Snaith remained secluded in his lab- of turtles each carry a tub containing a number of these reves. When the sleeping turtles are seen they are approached, and as soon as they are judged near enough a reve is thrown into the sea. Upon perceivchuckling with delight over the suc- itself to be pulled to pieces than give up its grip.

Salesman Than He, According to Biographer.

King Edward VII. of England creresources. There was not in the whole United Kingdom a more industrious commercial traveler or a better merchant. He only wore the crown when it was absolutely necessary. He had mingled with men of all classes and professions, had had experiences to which crown princes are not usually exposed, had been on familiar terms with financiers and captains of industry, and had learned to look on the world with the eye of a comfortable gentleman. He was quickly at home everywhere. Whether he had to deal with the self-controlled Alexander or his volatile son, with Indian princes or Yankees, with the flery Delcasse or the witty Clemenceau, he always struck the right note.

He was a lucky man. He enjoyed life from the day he left the nursery. Englishmen did not mind that. They would not have liked a morose and stingy monarch. Prince Bertie, who ate well, drank well, did well at the derby, at the tables, and settled the ashion of the season, was the man for them. It did not seem to them a serious misfortune that he was hostile to Bismarck, and at times went a little too far with shady people. He always drew his head out of the noose in time, and then gave England occasion for another chuckle.-From a Biographical Sketch by Maximilian

Boy's Good Guess.

The story is told of Judge McCanless of Wichita, who has the distinction of being the leanest man in the state, that he was one day walking along a street in Kansas City when he noticed that a hound dog was following

After he had gone a block and the dog was still trailing him, he turned to a street gamin and asked: "Boy, what do you suppose that dog is following me for?"

Residents of English Village Favored

Horndon-on-the-Hill, a village of six hundred persons, in the county of Essex, England, has attracted notice as being a spot where old age reigns in undisputed triumph., Walk through the picturesque narrow main street which twists across the hillside and from the doorways the passerby will see smiling at him the happy, ruddy faces of the ancients of Horndon. A London newspaper the other day found in this village, which by the way has not a doctor in it, twelve persons whose united ages are 1,040 years, these ages ranging from eightyfour to ninety years, while young persons, men and women of seventy-five and thereabout, were too numerous to work." In illustration of a part of this axiom he snatched a kiss from his wife, who is one year his senior. "You're nearly as bad as when you were young," said that lady, "and he

GOV. CLARK, OF IOWA, URGES FAVORABLE LEGISLATION IN HIS INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

WANTS THEM PERMANENT

No State Can Longer Allow Herself to Be Handicapped With Mud -Economic Waste Is

Enormous,

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 20.—Governor George W. Clark in his inaugural adiress took the following determined tand toward legislation for permanent word readers.

ent good roads: "For thirty years the discussion of he good roads problem has been go-ng on in the state. Many of the gov-rnors of the state within that time have called attention to the question d some of them have urged con-ructive legislation. Some progress has been made both in the way of bethas been made both in the way of bet-ter laws and in the improvement of the highways, but the most that has been accomplished is an aroused public sentiment in favor of better roads— perhaps in favor of permanent roads, lowa will have permanent roads when-ever she wants them. She will not er she wants them. ave either before. Legislation awaits bublic sentiment—generally aroused, rganized public demand,

The next great era in the develop ent of western civilization is going be called by the historian 'The Era f Permanent Road Building.' We are ow at the very threshold of that era, we are face to face with the problem. We are face to face with the problem, to state can longer allow herself to e handicapped by mud. The economic waste is enormous. Not in the ature can there be such a thing as a eally good up-to-date state without not permanent roads. The great heapness of the cost of transportation to the markets of the country raits on permanent roads. The intent great increase in the value of ands awaits the coming of the permanents. nds awaits the coming of the perma-ent road. There can be no complete lution of the country life problem in nation of the country life problem in wance of the permanent road. The assolidated rural school will go halt-g and crippled until the permanent ad passes the door. IS FOR GOOD ROADS the St. Joseph market last wednesday which brought an all round price of $765.58. The cows brought $6.40 and the bull was such a fine fellow that he was bid up to $6.25. The bull was bid up to $6.25. The bull was bid up to $6.25. that he was bid up to $6.25. The bull weighed 1,505 pounds on the farm scales and 1,520 at the stock yards, a gain of 15 pounds on the trip. The cows weighed at the farm 10,970 pounds and at the yards 10,470, an average shrinkage of 62½ pounds each. Pete Ramsel, who had six head, including a bull and three hogs to finish out the car, predicted they would shrink 100 pounds each. Pete's bull and a cow sold together at $4.75. would shrink 100 pounds each. Petes bull and a cow sold together at $4.75, bringing $72,20 while the county bull alone brought $95. The county cattle were bought by a buyer who was selecting a carload of the best to ship east. This shows up for Mr. Eberle's management of the stock on the county farm well exponent to envite him to ty farm well enough to entitle him to special mention, and when the 24 hogs that were following the cattle, and the 400 bushels of wheat he is bring-ing in this week at $1 per bushel and any rise of the market are heard from, there will be another pretty bunch of money to add to the coun-ty's income. He expects it to make about $2,300 since the April sale. He has still to account for 67,664 feet of lumber, the wood and fence posts, more hogs, corn, oats and hay, to fig-ure on, and 11 head more cattle than he started with.
