SLOW DEAL IN STEERS

A SLUGGISH WEAK UNDERTONE CONTINUES TO FEATURE BEEF MARKET.

PRIME STYLES ARE LACKING

Cows and Heifers Steady to Weak-Bulls About Steady-Veals Higher-Stocker Trade More Active.

Receipts of cattle this week show a falling off as compared with last but the deficiency in arrivals is not of sufficient size to bring about any imsufficient size to bring about any improvement in the market for beef grades; in fact, the trend of values thus far this week has been in the direction of lower levels. In the neighborhood of 2,700 cattle arrived here today, making a total of 4,500 for the two days. This shows a decrease of 2,000 head compared with the same days last week. At the five markets today the total run was 32,000, a loss of 3,300 compared with last Tuesday. For the two days aggregate market. For the two days aggregate market-ing at the five points shows a decrease of 11,000 head compared with last

Today's local receipts included the Today's local receipts included the usual proportion of beef steers and offerings ran largely to the plain to fairly good short-fed kinds. No choice full-fed beeves were embraced in the assortment. Reports from Chicago and other outside centers did not furnish much encouragement to sellers and a slow tone characterized the day's operations. Packers were out with orders to cheapen up on their buys and met with some success in

HOGS CLOSE STRONGER

MARKET OPENED WEAK TO 5c OFF AND THEN FIRMED UP TO STEADY.

RUN WAS FAIRLY LIBERAL

schedule. As competition warmed up, however, the market improved until at the close, hogs were selling steady with the finish yesterday, or just a shade easier than the average trade of Monday. The closing trade was active no that basis. The quality of the hogs offered was about the same as it has been running of late. The early top was $7.35 but later. The early top was $7.35, but late.
$7.40 was scored on best butchers.

Lambs sold generally at a 10@15c higher range; sheep steady to 10c up. Several changes were made in the estimated supply for the day. First guess on receipts called for 1,000 head but the arrival of five double of Colorado lambs boosted the estimate to 2,500. Still later this was dropped to 2,300. Sheep formed a fair quota of the offerings but lambs were in the majority. Slow arrival of part in the majority. Slow arrival of part of the run delayed the early trade somewhat but after the stuff was yardsomewhat but after the stuff was yarded it did not take long for buyers and sellers to agree to terms. Lambs began moving at prices for the most part 10@15c higher. The $9 quotation was reinstated, Colorado lambs, such as sold at $8.85 yesterday, making that figure this morning. Yearlings ruled 10c higher, a band of Nebraska feds realizing $7.65 as against $7.55 yesterday. Aged wethers also showed the advance, a few choice ones making $6.00. Ewes did not follow the upward trend to any great extent, early sales of natives at $4.50@4.75 indicating a steady to firm deal for that class. Choice handy weight ewes, however, would possibly have sold to a little better advantage today.

. How Mary Got Story-A Nice New Pair of Skates

George Had a Chat With Mother.

NCLE George had been visiting the children, and quite a gay time they had had while he stayed. "Tell us a story about Uncle George when you were boys, you know," Jack and Evelyn said to daddy. "Well, I'll try to tell you a nice story. Uncle George was always very fond of Sister Mary. They were about the same age, you know, and were great chums.

"One winter some one gave George a pair of skates. He was as pleased as Punch when he got them. "'Oh, dear; I wish I had a pair of skates, too!' Mary cried when she saw George's gift. 'Botheration, if there was just some way I could get you a pair of skates!' he groaned. Mary went to the kitchen, where she was helping mother, and George went to the window to stare out.

"The snow was falling in great flakes, and as he watched it George wrinkled his forehead, trying to think up a way to get Mary a pair of skates. He felt he wouldn't enjoy his skating half so much without Mary.

"There will be some snow to get off the sidewalks in the morning,' father said as he came in for supper. 'It's quite deep now and still snowing.' "'Well, with all these stout boys to clear it off for us it won't cost any thing,' mother answered, looking down the table at the row of plump, rosy

"There,' said George; 'I never thought of that.' "After supper he followed mother into the kitchen and had a little chat with her. When she came out she was smiling. "It didn't take us long to clear the snow from our place in the morning. Then George grabbed the snow shovel and a broom. We didn't see him again until noon, when he came home tired and hungry with four shining quarters

"'There,' he cried; 'I could get Mary a pair of skates for that much, I guess, but I want her to have real nice ones like mine, so I'm going out this afternoon to clear some more paths of snow, and I'll get two more quarters.' "'Why, you dear, darling brother, what have you been doing?' Mary cried

"'Shoveling snow off paths and sidewalks!' George cried. 'Wasn't it lucky that snow came just now. I got a quarter for every place I cleaned, and now

I can buy the skates and you can go with me to the pond on Saturday.' "Pleased? Mary just bugged that boy till he was almost red in the face."

Then she went on with a touch of anger, 'I thought that I could safely be friends with you where I could not with another man. She stopped. 'Because of my deform ity,' I answered bitterly. She made no answer but went out of the room. "But when I met Esther Garvin things were different. She made me forget my indrmity. Ours was a real communion of souls; I knew then that I had met a woman who would marry me in spite of all, in spite of every thing, whose love was to be as eternal as my own. And because of this I left her, three years ago, after a mad demonstration of love which left each of us panic-stricken and ashamed. I because I knew that I had been a cui to tell her; she, because she knew this feeling in my heart. I left her and never saw her again.

These Specialists Receive Letters of Praise From All Parts of the Country,

From Missouri and surrounding From: Missouri and surrounding states the daily mail brings letters from the many patients of the United Doctors. Almost every town and community is represented in this mail, and each day one or more express themselves as being fully on the high road to health through the efforts of he United Doctors, the famous spec-alists in chronic diseases, who have their St. Joseph institute located at 720 Felix street, second floor. These etters tell many wonderful stories— ecople saved from dangerous opera-ions, crutches and canes thrown away by rheumatic sufferers, gallstones cured without the knife, stomachs made new again, kidneys, liver and diges-tive organs restored to health, young people snatched away from the yellow hand of disease, older people made to feel again some of the blood of youth—these accounts are as varied as they are interesting, and best of all, they are written by the patients themselves.

Many of them wish accounts of their cure published, so that others besides themselves may possibly find a way out of the morass of disease and suffering and be restored as the writers were. Mr. M. D. Cravath, one of Nebraska's more prominent stockmen, is one of these, and his letter follows:

United Doctors:
Dear Sirs: The treatment you gave me was very satisfactory. After six months of your treatment I can say that I was greatly benefited by it. I think if I had obeyed orders I would be well by now of my heart failure and nervous trouble.

Mrs. Cravath also received great benefit from your treatment for stomach trouble and nervousness.

Yours respectfully.
