One reason why we had so little January thawing, was because January was shy on thaw material—moisture.

"Blue sky laws" are all right. There's no doubt of that, but it would take a good many laws to prevent the parting of the fool and his money.

An Iowa editor says that the farmer who cultivates new ideas always has a paying crop; and there's a whole lot of meat in that little sentence, too.

An agricultural paper says: "You can tell a farmer by his windmill." You can tell a boy, too, according to a current story. On seeing a huge windmill for the first time he exclaimed, "Say, mister, that's a big fan you have for your horse."

If the arguments in favor of good roads being published in the newspapers from coast to coast were paid for at current advertising rates, and the money devoted to the road work, what a wonderful system of public highways we soon would have!

The difference between an Iowa saloon man and a New York garment maker is this: The saloonkeeper is fearful that the Iowa legislature will shorten the hours he may keep open. And shorter hours are what the New York garment worker wants.

A dairyman can work up a lot of virtuous indignation while arguing that oleomargarine should not be colored to look like butter. But suggest to him that white butter should not be colored to make it look like yellow butter, and he will argue just as strongly that that sort of thing is all right. Don't mention consistency in the presence of a dairyman; that word is Greek to him.

WHY PRICES ARE HIGHER. Webster City (Iowa) Freeman-Tribune: If our wives made our clothes, "put up" their own fruit and vegetables, did their own sewing, made their own soap and candles and did other things which mother used to do—if we kept a few pigs, milked a cow, sawed our own wood as father used to do, there would be less complaint about high prices. The chief trouble is that we all want to live "at the top of the heap" and then growl about the expense of it.

TRUST BUSTING. Trust busting comes high, but the people, regardless of the expense, applaud whenever a government suit to dissolve a trust succeeds. No one has ever noticed any reduction in the high cost of living as a result of the busting of the trusts, but that's another story. Here is a little peep into the cost of trust dissolution suits.

About $6,000 per day is the cost to the government of its hearings in the Steel trust dissolution suit. This includes pay of special attorneys, hiring of stenographers and clerks, printing tributes, railroad fares of witnesses and rental of rooms.

DESERTS SHOW GIRL
Son of Ohio Millionaire Finds Ranch Life Too Slow.
Former Member of the "Floradora" Sextet Left Alone on Texas Farm by Son of Harry M. Daugherty—Was Husband's Manager.

Fort Worth, Tex.—Dessa Gibson, show girl, who two years ago married Draper Daugherty, son of the millionaire politician of Columbus, O., is alone in her ranch house, and confesses she failed in the task of making a farmer out of the former Broadway favorite. Daugherty has gone back to New York.

The young woman, backed by two powerful motives, worked bravely to make a staid business man and husband out of the millionaire's son, whose business experience has been limited to the purchase of cigarettes, wine, taxicabs, theater tickets and Broadway friends.

The motives could not have been improved upon. They were her love for Daugherty and the promise of the father's millions. Today she has lost both, unless the elder Daugherty or the courts give her a few hundred thousand dollars.

Mrs. Daugherty accepted the commission two years ago. She had married Draper after he had followed her from Columbus, O., where his father is a millionaire politician, to Buffalo, N. Y. Harry M. Daugherty promptly had cut off his son's allowance and Dessa had returned to the stage to keep her husband in cork tips and things.

Daugherty pere, however, investigated the young woman and found that she had been a real good girl. The meanest thing he heard about her was that there were 599 others who had been in the original "Floradora" sextet.

So in February, 1910, he relented and decided to put the pair on stern probation. Knowing Draper and knowing that he would not be likely to submit to leading by a show girl with the same grace that he had displayed in following her kind, Father Daugherty made his daughter-in-law general business manager of this son. Also he made her treasurer and auditor.

KING PUNISHES A DRIVER
Monarch of Spain Boxes Man's Ears for Beating Exhausted Horse.

Paris—An interesting anecdote of the king of Spain is now going the rounds of Paris. The other day, it is said, a man was driving up a steep hill just outside of Madrid a heavily laden cart drawn by two miserable horses, both of which looked to be at the end of the tether.

One of them, dead beat, fell exhausted, and was unable to arise, in spite of the blows showered on the unfortunate beast by the driver, with the butt end of his whip.

At this point a large automobile came into view over the brow of the hill, driven by a young man, with a lady at his side. The motorist took in the situation at a glance and at once stopped.

Getting down, he skillfully raised the wretched horse to its legs, and then proceeded to box the ears of the driver soundly.

"Now," he said, starting his automobile, "you can, if you like, go and complain to the king of Spain."

The chivalrous motorist was Alfonso himself, with Queen Victoria.

DYING, ADMITS OLD MURDER
Oregon Man Confesses Crime of Thirty-four Years Ago and Now May Face Trial.

Colorado Springs, Col.—Whether justice will be deflected by death in the case of John Peter Davis, aged seventy, of Peoria, Ore., who, believing that he is on his death bed, has confessed to the murder of William Atcheson, at Castle Rock, thirty-six years ago, will be determined within the next few days.

District Attorney Purcell of Colorado Springs said he has taken cognizance of the man's alleged confession, and is waiting the outcome of his illness. If he recovers, Davis will be brought back to Colorado to stand trial for the crime.

A letter, giving what purports to be the sick man's confession, was written by a Doctor Graham of Peoria to Sheriff Anderson of Castle Rock, Colo. This has been turned over to a brother of the murdered man, Dr. George Atcheson of Denver.

HUNTER LASSOES A GRIZZLY
Bruin Escapes Bullets of Party of Hunters, but Falls Under the Lariat.

Downville, Cal.—George Bynum, who was out with a party of hunters two days ago, roped a young grizzly bear. The party sighted the bear near the Yuba river, and fired several shots without effect.

Seeing that the quarry was about to escape, Bynum, an experienced cowboy, unfurled his lasso and chased the animal with his trained range horse.

Overtaking the bear after a mile chase through scrub brush, Bynum placed his line upon it and held it until his companions arrived. The grizzly was then securely tied and brought to Downville.

PUDDING BELL STILL RUNG
Church in the County Palatine Gives Warning It Is Time to Begin Frying Pancakes.

Concerning church bells Mr. Frank Hird tells of the quaint customs which are still observed in some of the parishes in the County Palatine.

Before the Reformation the great bell of the parish was rung on Shrove Tuesday to call the people together for the confession of their sins, or to be "shriven;" hence the name of the day. "This bell," says Mr. Hird, "is still rung in some parts of Lancashire and is still called the 'Pancake Bell,' being now regarded only as a signal to the people to begin frying their pancakes.

"In some villages a bell is rung as the congregation is leaving the church after the morning service. This is known as the 'Pudding Bell,' it having been firmly believed for many generations that it is rung to warn those at home to get the dinner ready.

"The origin of the ringing of this bell is not known, but like many other old customs, it still lingers in the remotest parts of the country, announcing to the village that the service is over and that 'pudding time has come.'

"So late as 1870 the curfew bell was rung at Burnley, Colne, Blackburn, Padham, and in many other towns and villages. This, perhaps, is the most remarkable instance of the persistence of an old custom centuries after it has ceased to have any reason."

SAW BEAUTY IN FROG SONGS
Their Voices, in Concert, Impressed the Great Naturalist, John Muir, to Comment.

The love songs of the frogs seemed hardly less wonderful than those of the birds, their musical notes varying from the sweet, tranquil, soothing, peeping and purring of the hylas to the awfully deep, low bass, blunt bellows of the bull frogs. Some of the smaller species have wonderfully clear, sharp voices, and told us their good Bible names in musical tones about as plainly as the whippoorwill. Isaac, Isaac; Jacob, Jacob; Israel, Israel; shouted in sharp, ringing, far-reaching tones, as if they had all been to school and severely drilled in elocution. In the still, warm, evenings, big, bunched bull frogs bellowed, Drunk! Drunk! Drunk! Jug-o-rum, Jug-o-rum!" and early in the spring countless thousands of the commonest species, up to the throat in cold water, sang in concert, making a mass of music, such as it was, loud enough to be heard at a distance of more than half a mile.

Far, far apart from this loud marsh music is that of the manly species of hylas, a sort of soothing, immortal filling the air like light.—John Muir, in the Atlantic.

Courage.
The snapping turtle, according to Emerson, will seize a stick and hold it if his head is cut off; break the eggs of the young and before his eyes are open he will bite fiercely; so he will bite before he is born and after he is dead; and similar courage the philosopher observes in wasps, ants and cocks. A step higher is the courage of the timid hen ruffing her feathers and attacking a dog in protection of her young. When animal and moral courage combine in a great need, as at Thermopylae, or on the Titanic, they inspire us always. What we need oftenest, however, is the courage to meet the requirements of every day; to defy convention, or to obey it; to think alone, or to submit; to be willingly poor; to discuss science and poetry and man's welfare in a frivolous and luxury-loving company.—Collier's Weekly.
