Internal Troubles Involve Distillery, says a headline. Also, distilleries sometimes involve internal troubles.

Some recent murder trial results indicate that there is a maximum of hung juries and a minimum of hung defendants.

A Missouri girl, visiting in California for the first time, was very much shocked when some one pointed out a fig tree.

Of course, it is an honor to hold office anywhere in Oklahoma, but it is a bit difficult to understand why there should be seven candidates for city marshal in Pawnee.

Several American cereal companies are complaining because their product is classified by the German customs house authorities as "made by a special process."

The little town of Tipton, Oklahoma, has purchased 1,000 elms, 1,000 ash, 200 sycamores, 100 maples and a large number of peach, apricot and other fruit trees.

A Missouri weekly paper prints the following letter from a subscriber: "Being a constant reader of your excellent paper I send you the following recipe: 'It is said that apples may be kept two years by wrapping them in newspapers.'"

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Dear Little Indian Battlefield Baby

ONE evening Evelyn and Jack teased daddy for a "funny kind of a story"—not an animal story, nor a story about fairies, nor about some great man, they said.

"Who's Zintka, and where did she get her queer name?" asked Jack. "You ought to say, 'Where did she get her queer name?'" said daddy.

"It all happened about twenty years ago, when some Indians who did not want the Americans to rule their country made war against the western settlers.

"Soon after the battle it began to snow, and the storm was very heavy for three days, so heavy that the white men could not go out to help the wounded Indians.

"The white soldiers took her to their general and his wife. This lady was very fond of children, and she adopted the Indian baby and brought her up.

"But about her name, daddy?" said Evelyn. "You said you would tell us how she came to be called 'Zintka.'"

"Oh, yes," said daddy. "Zintka is an Indian word meaning 'bird.' The Indians at the fort called the little girl by two names—'Weigala Lanuni,' which means 'lost dove,' and 'Zintka Lanuni,' which means 'lost bird.'"

"The machinery of the plan consists of an ordinary pneumatic pressure tank, operated by gasoline engine. A simple tank, motor and pump is maintained at small expense.

DEATH IN STORMS WAKE

loss of property acquired near Greenwood and north of Ashland. Two tornadoes were reported as forming near Greenwood, one going north and the other heading for the east.

At Raiston, much property was destroyed, and the railroad lines were blocked, with the result of necessitating the holding of several trains.

Wire service in the eastern portion of the state was demoralized, and only a few lines were able to report the storm were received over telephone wires.

Train service was at a standstill for some time and most of the dispatching was done over short telephone lines.

The clouds formed early in the afternoon and by 4 o'clock became so dense that artificial light was necessary inside buildings.

TERRE HAUTE HIT BY WIND. Terre Haute, Ind., March 24.—Loss of life and property damage was caused by a tornado which swept over the northern part of Terre Haute last night.

At 12 o'clock seven bodies had been recovered. Scores were injured and property damage may reach into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

WIND STORM IN THREE STATES. Kansas City, March 24.—A terrible wind storm that raged in Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska was the most severe violent last night by the accompaniment of heavy rains and hail and much electrical lightning.

SPORTSMAN LEAGUE GROWS

Ohio Organization Plans Protection for Fish and Game.

Columbus, O., March 24.—The League of Ohio Sportsmen, incorporated under the laws of Ohio, is negotiating with approval from every section of the state. The officers are: J. Edward Orr, president; John E. Todd, first vice president; Joseph F. Hays, secretary; Dr. Starling Wilcox, treasurer.

An honorary vice president is being appointed in each one of the counties. For this appointment men are being selected who are prominent in their counties and who are identified with outdoor sport of some kind.

It is the intention of the league to furnish information on all subjects of interest to its members. Its aim is to protect and propagate the fish game, and song birds of the state, restock the streams, prevent the pollution of water courses, and the illegal and unjustifiable destruction of our song birds.

It is also opposed to and will aim to prevent the malicious destruction of property by irresponsible hunters and fishermen. The annual dues of 50 cents makes it possible to have a large membership, and as there are no salaries officers all money is to be used in carrying out the purposes of the league.

The annual meetings are to be held in Columbus during fair week, and it is proposed that suitable exhibits be had from the state and government to make this meeting both instructive and interesting. The delegates are to be elected in each county.

KAFFIR MAKES GOOD PORK. Texan Fed Crop to Hogs at Big Profit. J. C. Simmons of Pan Handle, Tex., had a large crop of kaffir and mulo, and was offered 25 cents a bushel for it.

A UNIQUE LAND DEAL. Agent Shows Buyer Lot From a Captive Balloon. Los Angeles, Cal., March 24.—America is known as the home of the enterprising land agent and probably no feat performed elsewhere in the line of selling "lots" has been equalled by the exploit of one Los Angeles man.

TO WORK ABANDONED MINE. Improved Machinery Expected to Make Field Valuable. Snyder, Okla., March 24.—Gold mining will begin in earnest March 25 on the Deep Red Fork, 11 miles southeast of here and between this place and Frederick.

GIVES SELF AWAY

Thief Makes Up Story but Stretches It Too Far.

Walks into Headquarters at Oakland in Order to "Beat Others to It," but Finally Admits He Is the Man Sought.

Oakland, Cal.—The difficulty of Mick Dabeneh, who weighs 185 pounds, in explaining just how two footpads had managed to toss him on the roof of a saloon, twenty feet high, led today to a tale of nocturnal adventures which ended with Dabeneh's admission to the police that it was he who made an unsuccessful attempt to rob the safe of the Franco-American Wine company, and who left a courtroom note, explaining that "nuthin' was taken."

The note proved the adventurer's undoing, for it was after comparing it with a sample of Dabeneh's handwriting that Chief of Police Peterson wrung from him the confession of his attempt to crack the safe.

Dabeneh appeared at the office of Chief Peterson today in the role of an indignant citizen, seeking redress from the wrongs suffered by being robbed of $65, and left on the roof of a saloon, from which he had much difficulty in descending. The police had been searching for the burglar who had entered the office of the wine company, and Chief Peterson asked Dabeneh to write his name. The handwriting was exactly similar to that of the note.

After making several unsuccessful attempts to explain just how he had been thrown to the roof, which seemed the only weak point in his story, Dabeneh blantly admitted that he was the disappointed crackman and told an entertaining story of other exploits of the same nature.

"I couldn't get the safe open," he said, "so I went to a restaurant and stole two napkins." A policeman felt in his pocket and drew out two napkins. "Then I robbed a doctor's office," he continued, "and got three penalties." The policeman again searched his pockets and brought out three penalties. Dabeneh seemed hurt to think his word had been doubted, but continued his story:

"I thought I could do some business with the Cave saloon, so I climbed up on the roof and tried to get in through a skylight, but I couldn't make it. It was too far to drop. So I gave it up." "But why did you come here and say you had been robbed of $65 and left on the roof?" asked the chief.

"I saw a woman looking at me across the street," was the reply, "and I thought I'd better come here and square myself."

OLD FLEET PATCHED UP

Windjammers of All Kinds Are Being Overhauled and Pressed Into Grain Carrying on Pacific.

Vancouver, B. C.—With a bumper crop of barley estimated at 550,000 tons, California grain men stand to lose immense sums owing to the lack of tonnage for handling the crops. The utmost carrying capacity of all the vessels in sight is between 50,000 to 60,000 tons. The ships of England and other nations, which formerly had ample space for the grain, have all their tonnage taken months ahead and most of them are engaged elsewhere at such high rates that they are not considered Pacific coast shipments.

The situation in California is a case of what pertains to the whole coast, scarcity of tonnage will be felt more acutely toward the end of the year, it is claimed.

Old sailing ships which had been towed to the Oakland estuary as obsolescent in view of the growth of steamships by steamers a few years ago are being overhauled and patched up to handle the grain in the absence of steam tonnage. The estuary for the last six years has become a landmark because of the presence of the immense fleet of sailing ships which had been moored there to rot.

Among the boats are the Ferris S. Thompson, Halcyn, Lurline, Reuce, Chamer, California, Sonoma, Beulah, Little Bonne, Diamond Head, Balboa and a host of others, consisting of schooners, barks, brigantines and full-rigged ships.

Most of the vessels have been stripped of their boats and gear, but many of them have been kept up in a half-interested manner. It was believed that the days of the windjammer were past and the whole fleet could have been bought for a song.

Now even the worst of the old hulks is being hauled out and patched up to make a voyage or two, and some of them will be unable to pass the inspectors. The freight situation has brought the windjammers to the fore once more, and they are as much in demand as they were before steamships became general.—Vancouver Sun.

FLATIRONS ARE BABE'S TOYS

Fifteen-Month-Old English Youngster Is Champion Weight Lifter of His Class.

London.—A baby who is probably the champion weight lifter of the world lives at Knight's Park, Kingston-on-Thames. Leslie Heather is the fifteen-month-old Samson, and his two favorite playthings are his mother's flatirons and a wooden horse, but the horse is a bad second.

Proudly Leslie displays his prowess in lifting weights. His father, who is a constable in the Kingston force, took him into the garden with his beloved flatirons recently.

Leslie's eyes glistened with pride when "daddy" ordered him to pick the iron up. Slowly he bent, and stretching out his chubby right hand grasped a four-pound flatiron.

But he had mightier strength still. Without dropping the four-pound weight, he picked up another flatiron, six pounds in weight, and then held the two weights aloft.

"He just loves to try his strength with my flatirons," said Mrs. Heather. "He started this weight lifting a month ago. His uncle was lying on the sofa, when Leslie came struggling along with two flatirons in his hands and placed them on the sofa."

"Since then he has been fascinated by them and likes them better than his horse."

"Last March he took a special prize at a Kingston baby show. He has six brothers and sisters, all older than he is, but they dare not tease him, because he is quite able to attack them."

Leslie was fifteen months old on December 17. He is two feet nine inches high and weighs twenty-nine pounds. His chest measurement is nineteen inches.

FINDS 78,000 BAD EYES

New York Specialist Makes Startling Report as to the Schools in Gotham.

New York.—There are 78,000 bad pairs of eyes poring over schoolbooks in this city, according to the report of a specialist to the board of education, made public. He estimated that 80 per cent of these cases of defective vision were absolutely incurable. In some of the cases which he personally investigated he said he found children wearing glasses which were twenty sizes wrong, as the result of which their vision was only about 20 per cent.

He recommended that the responsibility of examining all children for mental, moral and physical defects be vested solely in the department of education instead of being divided, as at present, with the department of health.

FIRE ON TOURISTS

Chicagoan, Back From Europe, Tells of Treatment by Turks.

Chicago.—Dr. Charles B. Gibson, 1505 Morse avenue, just returned from an 18,000-mile journey through Greece, Turkey and other European countries, related some thrilling experiences he had in the Balkan war. Dr. Gibson was accompanied by Dr. Edgar J. Banks, formerly of the University of Chicago. Several times the two were near the scene of fighting and at other times had narrow escapes from serious injury, if not death.

"An encounter we had on July 16 remains most vividly in my memory," said Dr. Gibson. "July 16 is the Turks' Fourth of July."

"Their constitution was adopted on that day. On this particular morning the order went forth that every dog of a Christian in town should be put to death."

"A mob surged about our hotel all morning, and when finally we went out we saw knives drawn by a blood-thirsty looking crew. We heard muttered threats and several rocks were hurled. We pushed boldly through the crowd, trying to appear as if we owned the place. Although neither of us was hurt, we both felt safer when we were well out of the town."

Entering the Gulf of Emyrnia on a Greek vessel, Dr. Gibson's party was fired upon by Turkish troops, who suspected them of being enemies. "Luckily the shots went wide of their mark," said Dr. Gibson. "The firing soon ceased and we saw several boats, loaded with soldiers, put out from shore and come toward us. They circled around us until satisfied we were not hostile, then they escorted us into the harbor. The captain in charge of the troops was severely reprimanded."

Dr. Gibson deplores the Turkish government's high-handed way of recruiting soldiers.

"Men with families are seized on the street without warning and forced into the army," he said. "Horses are taken away from drivers for army purposes. The horses drawing my carriages were once seized by the intervention of a Greek woman who was with me and who could speak their language that they were not forced to finish our journey afoot."

Dr. Gibson spent three months in the interior of Turkey and describes it as "the worst country on earth."

"And bad as it was, we received better treatment than the traveling European gets at their hands," he said. "They think every American they see is a millionaire, and they treat him accordingly."

"Also, they have an intense dislike for other Europeans because they believe the Europeans have designs on their country."

The present sultan of Turkey has given up the castle of his predecessors on the Bosphorus. It may be that its gloomy walls awakened unpleasant thoughts and made a move desirable for his peace of mind. Seventeen sultans were assassinated in that castle.

"OUTLAW" HORSE IS KILLED

Gray Eagle Dashes Out Brains on Curbsone Trying to Unseat Boy Rider.

Los Angeles.—An "outlaw" to the last, Gray Eagle, notorious as an untamable cow pony and victor over many daring bronco busters, met death yesterday in his efforts to unseat Arthur Scultz, an 18-year-old rider.

The horse slipped and fell during the furious battle for mastery, and dashed out its brains against a stone curb. Schuetz sustained a fractured skull in the fall.

Gray Eagle had been the mainstay of "wild west" and moving-picture shows for years, and there is no record of his having ever been mastered by any rider.
