TOP BEEVES SELL AT $8.40

Same Figure Scored on Yearlings—Cows, Heifers, Etc., Steady to 10c Higher—Calves Stronger—Stockers and Feeders Are Firm.

The week opened with a fair run of cattle on sale at this point but with a moderate Monday supply at the five principal market centers. Local receipts were estimated early at 2,000 head but later it looked like a run of 2,500 or more. This was 800 in excess of last Monday's light offerings and also indicated an increase over a year ago. The total at five markets aggregated 24,200 head, a decrease of 13,000 compared with last Monday and a loss of 7,000 compared with the same day a year ago. Chief interest in receipt figures centered in the Chicago market. That point drew 18,000 cattle today as compared with the big run of 30,000 last Monday that threw the market in a state of semi-demoralization at all points.

The local receipts today included 17 loads of Texas grassers, 12 of which were billed direct to packers. Twenty loads of Colorado pulp-fed steers were on sale. The offering of corn-fed native beefs was light. Trade in beef steers was a little slow at the outset of business today. Sellers were bullish and demanded higher prices which buyers were reluctant to concede after the sharp reaction in prices on middle and closing days of last week. When a trading basis was established it was at prices generally steady to strong as compared with the extreme close last week, with spots on the better classes, especially yearlings, quoted 10c higher. Compared with last Tuesday, sales were quoted at 15 to 20c higher. Most Colorado pulp-fed steers cleared at $8.25 to $8.40, with some fair-fleshed horned steers from the same quarter going at $8.10. In the yearling class a top of $8.40 was bid for a pair of choice Herefords, about half heifers. Missouri fed steers, averaging 115 lbs., sold at $8.20, and a drove of Nebraska heifers, averaging 117 lbs., brought $8.35. Five loads of Oklahoma steers, meat-feds, from the southern division at $7.60.

Promises and flowery talk will attract attention and afford notoriety. Twistering the roads will inspire confidence. There's a difference.

Dividends amounting to 30 per cent are paid annually by the Krupp works in Germany. That shows the profit from working on war and war scares. On the other hand, German taxes mount higher and higher.

Floods this year have enabled the fish in the streams at the head of the Ozark Mountains to find free passage into the smaller streams and reports indicate an abundance of black bass, crappie, channel cat and jack salmon, greater than in many years. Missouri rivers furnish the cheapest black bass to be found in the United States.

A liberal estimate on Montana beef gathering during the coming season is approximately 75,000. During 1912 Montana shipped 168,872 cattle, a deficiency of 17,898 compared with the previous year but to make these figures a lot of stuff that would have been carried through another winter was gathered, high prices being the incentive. Montana shipped only 1,549 calves to Chicago last year, indicating that some stuff is being conserved.

MISSOURI'S OFFICIAL FLAG. Missouri is to have an official flag. It is one of the few states which has not made such an adoption long ago.

THE NEW HEDGE FENCE LAW. Property owners who neglect their hedges until they become a nuisance to the traveling public will be interested in knowing that further neglect is likely to bring upon them a fine of not less than $5 nor more than $100 for each offense.

AGRICULTURE IN GERMANY. Germany's agriculture is chiefly in the hands of peasant farmers. Four-fifths of the entire soil is cultivated by peasants farming up to 100 hectares (247 acres). Small holdings are on an increase owing to the breaking up of large estates.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

When Dolly Was Nearly Drowned. May's Doll Fell into the Water.

DADDY," said Jack one evening. "Evelyn and I went out to look for flowers today." "Did you find any?" asked daddy. "Only a few," said Jack, "and we gave them to mother."

value of agricultural products gives for wheat and barley, cattle, pigs, etc., and milk a total of $2,389,999 annually. The sugar-beet fields of Germany produced in the crop year 1912-13 an estimated 2,995,900 tons of sugar.

ILLINOIS COUNTY FREAKISH. Oats Raise Squirrels and Foxes—Calf Has Three Legs. Murphysboro, Ill., May 5.—Two mother cats that are rearing eight baby foxes between them, one old cat that is bringing up four young squirrels, a hog running over a 15-year-old boy and maiming him for life, a three-legged calf, and a hen that lays every day an egg three-inches long, these are a few things that are causing Murphysboro people to take notice.

EXHIBITION OF ROAD-MODELS. Arrangements are to be made by the United States Department of Agriculture, through Logan Waller Page, director of the office of public roads, to place an exhibition at the Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915 the greatest collection of road models ever displayed in any part of the world.

GIRLS MAKE GOOD FARMERS. Even Better Than Boys, According to Agricultural Department Examples. Leslie's girls have shown themselves better practical farmers than boys. The boys' corn-raising clubs organized by the agricultural department several years ago proved very successful, but this success has been eclipsed by somewhat similar clubs for girls more recently organized.

FLIP A COIN BEFORE WEDDING. Justice to Perform Marriage Ceremony Selected by Toss-Up. Belleville, Ill., May 5.—H. S. Tuckett, a railroad claim agent of Kirkwood, Mo., and Miss Ellen Kloekzin, of St. Louis were married by Magistrate Underwood of Belleville.

JAILED BY REBELS

Released American Tells of Horrors in Mexico. Crowded With Thirty-Four Others Into Sunless Dungeon About 20 Feet Square—Finally Freed by Federal Soldiers.

St. Louis, Mo.—Reduced from 170 pounds to a mere shadow by a long confinement in a Mexican dungeon, C. W. Macatee, once a resident of Chickasha, is now under the care of Dr. L. E. Manuel, the city physician, at Chickasha, Okla.

Stooped, thin and hollow almost beyond recognition, it was hard for men who knew him to believe that the thin wasted figure is the same man of sturdy physique who left here some years ago. Macatee says he went from here to Wichita, Kan., where he joined a Mexican colony, went to Mexico and purchased forty acres of land from the government.

The following is Macatee's own story: "I had about $250 in money and several hundred dollars' worth of horses and cattle and mules when the present Mexican revolution broke out. When the rebels captured Chihuahua they seized all the American colonists and demanded that they turn over all they possessed to the rebel leaders. They destroyed all we had, took our live stock and money and marched us in a hollow square of soldiers to prison. In Chihuahua there are two prisons—one known as the 'outside' prison and the other as the 'inside' prison.

"In company with thirty-four other Americans I was placed in the 'outside' prison, where for about sixteen months I did not see a ray of sunshine nor get a breath of fresh air except that filtered into the cell by a circular pipe that reached the roof. We were thrown into prison on April 15, 1911, and were liberated Aug. 15, 1912, when Madero's army recaptured Chihuahua.

"The cell which I shared with 34 other prisoners was possibly 20 feet square, and during all the time we were there the cell door was unlocked but three times—twice to clear the cell and once to remove the bodies of four of our comrades, which removal occurred two weeks after their death.

"We fared decidedly worse than a drove of hogs, and death came to my four companions absolutely from starvation. We could not get a particle of exercise, owing to the crowded condition of our cell, and eventually put in most of our time sleeping.

"We did not hear the federals when they battered down the front door of the prison, and the first knowledge we had that something unusual was taking place was when they battered down the inner doors to the cell rooms. We naturally thought that our hour of execution had come, but were happily mistaken. Being almost naked, we were given some clothing and smuggled across the lines to El Paso, where I stayed two weeks. It was fully that long before I dared to attempt to open my eyes in daylight. Even now I have to wear clouded glasses.

"I weighed 170 pounds when I went into prison, my weight was less than 100 pounds when I arrived in El Paso. I remember three of the men who were in prison with me—Charlie Gardner of Arkansas City, a man by the name of Woods and another named Atwell, from Kansas. "The English consul visited us once, but the consul from our own nation did not come to see us."

LORD MORLEY IS NEAR 75

English Biographer and Reviewer Receives Congratulations of Friends.

London.—Many eminent persons, including royalty, statesmen and men of letters, paused in the hurry to send a few words of greeting to Lord Morley congratulating him upon the beginning of his seventy-fifth year. For many years the Rt. Hon. John Morley was looked upon as the successor of his old friend Gladstone as England's most distinguished plain citizen. And since his elevation to the peerage five years ago Lord Morley has lost none of the public esteem. In his day he held many of the highest offices under the crown, and never failed to command the highest respect even from his most bitter political opponents. Since his retirement from the office of secretary of state for India two years ago Lord Morley has devoted himself almost wholly to literary work. As a biographer and reviewer he is probably without a peer in the English-speaking world today.

DEVIL TAVERN STILL EXISTS

Was Favorite Resort of Ben Jonson and Shadwell Located in London.

London.—At the present time it would be difficult to discover a London tavern ever called by the name of "The Devil." But in the eighteenth century 1 Fleet street, still in existence, was so called.

"The Devil's Tavern" was so called owing to the proximity of St. Dunstan's church and the fond recollection of an interlude between the saint and the Evil One.

This was Ben Jonson's favorite resort and here he presided over a club of which he was the founder. He wrote once: "The first speech in my 'Cataline,' spoken to Scylla's ghost, was written off I had parted with my friends at the Devil Tavern; I had drank well that night and had brave notions."

It was also the resort of Shadwell, pillorized as Og by Dryden in his "Abraham and Achitophel." Here the poets laureate used to rehearse their birthday odes, so carefully written with the minimum of emotion in the Augustan style, and here Killigrew had one of the scenes in his "Parson's Wedding."

PALACES ON PERU PLATEAU

Explorer Tells of Buried Inca City Uncovered in Jungle—Had Trouble with Officials.

New York.—Professor Hiram Bingham, head of the Yale Peruvian expedition, which has been conducting archaeological exploration work in the interior of Peru, reached New York with other members of the party from Colon. Professor Bingham said the exploration was conducted chiefly at Machu Picchu, the buried Inca city, discovered on the previous expedition, which stands on a plateau two thousand feet in height. The jungle was cleared away and more than one hundred burial caves were discovered. Ruins of baths, houses and palaces also were left bare, and practically the entire city uncovered. Professor Bingham added that the jungle will soon cover them again, unless steps are taken by the Peruvian government to keep them open.

"On this trip," said Professor Bingham, "we had a good deal of trouble with the Peruvian government. On the two expeditions I had previously made into Peru I had no trouble at all, but the ministry had changed and those in power at present were not at all friendly to American exploration."

CALLS HER DEARIE; ARRESTED

Husband Pleads Guilty, Blaming Christmas Spirit, but Spouse Insists It Must Have Been "Spirits."

New York.—When a man goes "lar" as to call his own wife on the street as "dearie" or "sweetheart," the offending husband ought to be haled to court.

Whatever other women's opinions may be about this, Mrs. Anna McDonald considered it her duty to do so, with the result that John S. McDonald found himself trembling before a police magistrate.

Behind him stood a policeman and he complaining wife determined to see justice done. "He ought to know better," she declared. "He is forty-nine years old."

PATRICK MEETS HIS CHILD

Greets Daughter, Now 16, from Whom He Was Paroled by Prison Sentence.

St. Louis.—For the first time since she was a child 4 years old, Miss Lilian Patrick and her father, Albert F. Patrick, recently paroled by Gov. Dix of New York, met here. The young woman, now 16 years old, arrived from Denver, Colo., with Patrick's mother, Mrs. Edward T. Patrick. They are at the home of John T. Milliken, Patrick's brother-in-law.

WILL ABOLISH FEUDAL RULE

Two Grand Duchies in Germany Will Enact Modern Constitution in 1913.

New-Strelitz, Macklenburg-Strelitz, Germany.—The Grand Duke Adolf Friedrich issued a rescript announcing that the estates would be convoked in extraordinary sessions in 1913, to enact a constitution for the two grand duchies of Mecklenburg-Schwerin and Mecklenburg-Strelitz, which are now the sole states in Europe not possessing a constitution. Previous attempts have been made for many years to modernize the existing feudal form of government, but these have always failed, owing to the attitude of the privileged classes.

SECRET OF HEALTH

Hale Scotchman Tells How to Pass Century Mark.

Leslie Fraser Duncan, Age Ninety-two, a Resident of London, Declares People Eat Too Much—He Lives on Two Meals a Day.

London.—The secret of health and long life is two meals a day. That has always been my rule, and—as it is to clinch the matter—"In the tallest Scotchman in London—six feet six inches in his socks!"

"Leslie Fraser Duncan, ninety-two, with flowing white beard and a face glowing with health, thus gave the secret of his vigor. "I began it as a boy," he said. "From when I was five years old, at my birthplace near Elgin, I used to walk six miles to school and six miles back, every day for twelve years—just 400,000 miles in all—and that was on two meals a day. At eight in the morning I breakfasted on porridge and milk and barley scones. Then I had nothing till about eight in the evening, when I had more porridge or brose. On that fare I grew to be six feet tall at sixteen, strong and hearty, and now I am six feet six inches."

"In 1845 I came to London, and all through a busy career of fifty years I worked twelve and fifteen hours a day. Now I get up at noon, and my variable diet, on which I hope to pass the century, for I am well and happy, is: "One o'clock—Breakfast, three boiled eggs, tea, and three slices of thin bread and butter. "Two o'clock—Glass of milk. "Four o'clock—Glass of milk. "Five o'clock—Tea, one boiled egg and thin bread and butter. "Eight o'clock—Dinner, one boiled egg and thin bread and butter. "I have not touched meat for seven years, and I did not eat it until I was twenty. I never smoked, except for a year when I was a young man in Edinburgh, and I have rarely touched alcohol. For years my drinking has been confined to four glasses of champagne a year—one on my birthday, one on my wife's birthday, one on Christmas day, and one on New Year's day.

FAMED AS WAR NURSE; DIES

Princess Salm-Salm Had Romantic Career as Wife of Soldier of Fortune.

Karlsruhe, Germany.—The death of Princess Agnes Salm-Salm brought to an end a romantic career. She was the daughter of an American colonel named Leclercq and was born at Baltimore 72 years ago. In her youth she gained some fame as an actress and then was married to Prince Felix Salm-Salm in 1862. The prince was a soldier of fortune. He served first in the German and then in the Austrian army, on leaving which he went to the United States, and joined the Union army during the Civil war, rising to the rank of brigadier general. After the war he went to Mexico, and became aide de camp to Emperor Maximilian, but went back to Germany and joined the Prussian army on the outbreak of the Franco-Prussian war. In 1870, he was killed in the battle of Gravelotte. The princess accompanied him through all his campaigns and in the Franco-Prussian war served as a hospital nurse and was decorated with the Iron cross for bravery. After the war she was married to Charles Henneke, in 1876. Princess Salm-Salm was well known in the United States. During the Civil war Governor Yates of Illinois awarded her a captain's commission and pay in recognition of her work in behalf of the Union, but she turned the money over to help the ill and wounded. The princess wrote a book dealing with her adventures, which was published in 1877.

LAD SWEEPED TO SEA BY GALE

Drinks Milk of Cocoanuts on Branches Until Picked Up by a Passing Steamer and Brought to N. Y.

New York.—"There's a coconut tree drifting ahead of the port bow. I do believe there's a human body on it!"

In the track of the recent West Indian hurricane, while the steamer Foxton Hall was passing debris of the storm sixty miles off the Jamaican coast, the vessel's first officer made his discovery, and was so sure of it that he sent a lifeboat to the tree. Half an hour later the boat crew was lifting a half-conscious pickaninny from its branches. The lad called himself "Willie Gee." He was a beachcomber at Port Antonio. When the hurricane came he sought refuge in a deserted hut, but, with it, he was blown to sea. He swam to the cocoa tree, where he drank milk from its nuts and, finally exhausted, fell asleep in its branches. He believed he floated for two days.

The steamer carried him back to his home among the beachcombers. A button on his ragged shirt when he was found was one an American had given him. "Kiss me," it read, "because I'm sterilized."

VARICOCELE CURED IN 5 DAYS

Without Knife, Pain or Danger. Dr. Whittier, 222 East 11th, Kansas City, Mo. (Pay When Cured)

MADE $70,000 IN TIPS.

After Ten Years' Work Greek Will Return With Fortune. Birmingham, Ala., May 5.—Seventy thousand dollars in ten years through this is what a Greek waiter, Spiro Chatichis, has accumulated in restaurants in this city. He is now preparing to return to Greece to establish himself in an extensive business. Chatichis kept accurate account of the number of people he served in that period. It aggregated 1,100,000. He says he averaged a tip of 5 cents from each person, making a total of $6,000. This he put out at interest as it came in and lived on his wages. It made him one of the wealthiest foreigners in this section. He made it all as a waiter. During the ten years he never missed a day from work.

Men, Back to Robust Vitality

M. S. CHENOWETH, M. D. 201 Ridge Bldg., Second Floor, 913 MAIN STREET, KANSAS CITY, MO. I have a quick and absolutely certain system of treating cases I undertake which positively insures the cure in less than half the time called for by the methods used in ordinary practice. Those suffering from VARICOCELE, HYDROCELE, BLOOD POISON or any other diseases tending to destroy and disfigure, are urged to call upon me without delay. These wasting diseases time-consuming their money and aggravating their illness by submitting to indirect, ineffectual, unscientific treatment that never did and never can cure, are invited to visit me and investigate my successful system. I positively guarantee results in all curable cases and frankly refuse to accept any other class. If for any reason it is too late to guarantee a cure. MENTALLY STRONG BUT VITALLY WEAK are the sad facts with many men. I overcome this condition and let you pay for any reasonable plan. I offer not only FREE consultation and advice, but of every case that comes to me I will make a careful examination and diagnosis without charge. WARNS ALL EUROPE

Italian Paper Declares Linking of Americas Is Menace.

Foreign Nations Are Urged to Consider the Growing Power of United States Over Peoples of the Hemisphere.

Rome.—That American "Dollar Diplomacy," working hand in hand with the great private financial interests of the United States in the commercial development of South and Central America, is creating the most serious problem facing the entire world today, is the declaration of Il Popolo Romano, the official organ of the Italian government.

In a leading article, in which a genuine note of alarm is sounded, the paper declares that the continuation of this American policy means the inevitable formation of a gigantic commercial federation of the three Americas in which the United States would naturally play the predominating part.

"While Europe is laboring with all its power to resolve the problem of the Balkan adjustment, on which depends in a large measure the entire continental peace, and while to insure for ourselves the benefits of internal tranquility we are compelled to spend our best forces in military preparations, the younger United States, on which the grave problems that harass Europe do not fall, gives itself to works of growth, of expansion and of development of the means of communication and transportation between the republics of the continent, and to create that union, which in time will be obliged to constitute itself as the Great American Federation, under the auspices of the United States of North America.

"Toward the carrying out of this conception, in both its political and economic aspects, the gigantic undertaking of the Panama canal, which will shortly be opened to the commerce of the world, and the project of a railroad to connect the continents—a project which is already on its way to completion—will play a most important part.

"In addition, there has recently been created, under the initiative of a powerful banking syndicate, a company for putting into direct and rapid communication the republics of Brazil, Uruguay, Argentina and Bolivia.

"Coupled then with the navigation of the Panama canal, it will be an easy matter for the United States to come into close commercial as well as political contact with the republics of the south by means of the great railroads, already under construction, which will link up the two continents.

"What is the end toward which this tenacious work on the part of the United States is leading? It is an end that can be seen with the naked eye. While the United States binds more closely together with its ties of steel the two parts of the continent, and at the same time asserts more strongly than ever its predominating economic and commercial influence in the two Americas, it is to be easily seen that the United States wishes only to exclude from the Americas the governments of Europe, and to exercise on the entire American continent a monopoly for its own profit.

"This in fact today creates the most serious problem that is now facing Europe, which has in Central and South America not only a glorious tradition and record of European civilization, but also gigantic interests commercially and economically.

"At the present moment this is not an immediate danger, but it would nevertheless be well for European diplomacy to begin to occupy itself with the problem—a problem that, at least according to our point of view, is vastly more important than that of the present one of the Balkans."

FAMILY CAT THWARTS ROBBER

Mr. O'Meara Gives His Pet Credit for Saving $4,000 by Acting as Burglar Alarm.

New Rochelle, N. Y.—A useless sort of a white cat curled up in a chair at the home of William O'Meara, a manufacturer. None of the family, at 30 Elk avenue, Forest Heights, could see much good in her. Today Mr. O'Meara knows her value is $4,000.

No one else would say she was worth $4,000 because her cries early the other morning saved that amount only for Mr. O'Meara. She played the successive roles of detective, guardian of the family valuables and alarm clock, she lifted her voice in one foreboding howl and a strong man saw visions of prison walls.

The burglar left by the window through which he had entered and Mr. O'Meara reached the sill to find the cat upon it, singing a requiem, but only for his departed coat and trousers. The rest, $150 in bills upon a bureau, a gold watch and several thousand dollars' worth of silver and jewelry, remained at home.

RAFFLES ATTEND A COTILLION

Philadelphia Police Arrest Society Young Man at Exclusive Club for Alleged Robberies.

Philadelphia.—A series of baffling and Raffles-like robberies in the exclusive Belvidere club at Germantown, in which vanity boxes and even a dainty pair of satin pumps with rhinestones studded heels formed part of the loot, has been solved, the police say, in the arrest of two young society men, sons of wealthy parents in Philadelphia. The accused men were arraigned still garbed in the evening clothes in which they were taking part in the Washington cotillion given at the Belvidere club. They are Charles Shapely, twenty-four years of age, and George Peberly, twenty-one years old.

The arrests caused excitement in the beautifully decorated banquet hall of the club, coming as they did when the minut of colonial times was in progress. The affair was a costumed one, but Shapely and Peberly had contented themselves with dominoes of red and black, respectively.

Detectives from the central bureau apparently had received a tip as to the red and black masks, because as the detectives slid across the waxed floor, sending dainty colonial clad and spotted belles scurrying in all directions they immediately grasped the immaculately clad and masked young men.

Despite their protests the latter were taken to the Germantown police station and placed in separate cells. Both refused to answer questions when brought before Lieutenant Jacob Buchanan.

GOVERNOR GRUBS STUMPS

Meanwhile Lawmakers Deliver Bills by Force—Broke Into Private Office.

Portland, Ore.—"I have been down on my farm grubbing stumps. I was so glad to get away from that bunch I could hardly nerve myself to go back," said Governor Oswald West here.

The governor's outburst came when he was informed that the speaker of the house and the president of the senate, with their respective chief clerks, had forced their way into his private office and left there the bills passed by both houses. The houses then adopted resolutions declaring that these constituted "delivery to the governor," who has five days after delivery in which to sign or veto them.

The legislature normally would have adjourned sine die last Saturday, but for fear the governor, with whom the majority is not in accord, would veto many measures, a five-day recess was taken, with intent not to adjourn until the governor had been compelled to pass upon all bills.

"I may go away again," said the governor, "and if I do there will be none of these roughnecks breaking into my office. What they did does not constitute 'delivery.'"

IS GIVEN HONOR MEDAL

Former United States Soldier Who Killed Diablo, Leader of the Apaches, Rewarded.

Lonsaoning, Md.—William A. Garnett, a newspaper man of Lonsaoning, this county, who served in the Eighth United States infantry from 1871 to 1876, has been awarded a medal of honor for his part in the defense of Camp Apache, Arizona, Jan. 9, 1875.

Garnett, on that day, when the Apache Indians attacked the post, shot the Chief Diablo. Garnett was at the corral some distance from the post and saw the Indians advancing. Taking a rifle and some cartridges from the cavalry saddler's shop in the corral, Garnett shot the chief and then ran to the post and joined his company.

The women and children in the post were locked in the stone guardhouses, and 200 regulars, under the command of Capt. William Baird, Sixth cavalry, defended the post and drove the Indians away.

Captain Baird is a son of General Absalom Baird, an army corps commander in the Civil war, and a native of Maryland. Mr. Garnett also recently received a government pension through a special act of congress.

BODY TO SCIENCE

Archdeacon Colley Was Champion of Psychic Research.

Eccentric Churchman Who Died Recently in England Requested That His Brain Might Be Inspected After Death.

London.—Archdeacon Colley, who died recently, won notoriety outside the church as a champion of spiritualism, and his challenge to Mr. Maske-lyne, which led to the latter's producing a "spirit form" from, and returning to, his side and the litigation which followed it are fresh in the public mind.

Eight years ago the archdeacon had his coffin made and stored in the music room of the rectory. In 1904 he made a will bequeathing his body to the University of Birmingham for dissection, "to be cut up in the interests of anatomical and surgical science when I have done with it."

In a letter to the university the archdeacon recalled that as a child he was laid out for dead and narrowly escaped being buried alive, and therefore asked that "it may be seen that I am really dead."

"Please, again, tell me what I should do," he wrote, "about giving in a letter or other form disposal of my mortal remains, to be brought under my hand with my coffin body, particulars of what I should write as to mental idiosyncrasies, bias of will, likes and dislikes, with whatever else may be useful when the top of my skull, as we arranged, shall be sawn off, to enable exploration to be made, that it may be known if I am, or have been, any more mad than other people."

Last New Year's day the archdeacon was carried round his church in the coffin, or box, clothed as he had expressed a wish to be clothed after death—a performance that startled a congregation already accustomed to his eccentricities. "I desired to impress on my parishioners that 'death is the gate of life,'" he said afterwards. "I hope and expect that after death and a spell of rest—which may be one year or 500—I shall return again for useful work. That is the doctrine I have taught, and the doctrine I believe in."

In the following months he announced to his congregation at Stockholm that he had resigned his living and that it was his intention to go to South Africa, where he had property. During the '80s, he said, he bought land near Johannesburg for which before the Boer war he was offered $4,000,000.

Of all his extraordinary spiritualistic experiences none is more amazing than his "psychic" parcels post. Here is his own story of his experience:

"At Southsea, some years ago, I with no little discomfort wore all day under my clothes and next the skin several yards of white muslin. In the evening, still wearing it, I cycled to Chichester, for a surprise visit to a young woman of my own developing. Making there an unwrapped up small bundle of the attire, and loosely pinning my card to it with no other address, I and a friend and the young woman's sister saw the muslin fade away, disappear, and melt like vapor from the lap of the little medium.

"It was then nearly midnight and I had willed the muslin to go to London to a friend. Next day came a telegram from my friend, quickly followed by a letter, to the effect that at the first hotel he had chanced on—having been to the opera and missed the last train that would have taken him to his home out of London—the muslin and card so insecurely pinned to it had fallen upon his face as he had gotten into bed, and seeing my name and address, he wired to me the first thing in the morning."

He afterward found that it had taken less than five minutes by aerial flight of about seventy miles from Chichester to secure midnight delivery of the goods in London somewhere at a chance hotel by psychic parcels post.

U. S. GIRLS TO STOP FAMINE

Fifty Coryphees Leave to Fill Places of Those Who Married Peers in London.

New York.—Half a hundred American chorus girls are on board the liner Majestic, bound for London to stem the drain of ballet beauties from the English stage by noblemen via the marriage altar route. For a time the London musical productions were threatened with a chorus famine, so popular has become the marriage of chorus girls into the English nobility.

So prevalent is this practice that a hurry-up call was finally sent to America and the group of girls was immediately dispatched. Arrangements are being made for further shipments, and before long it is anticipated that practically all London choruses will be composed of American girls.

Among the most notable of recent alliances between the stage and English nobility have been those of Zena Dare, the actress, who was married to the Hon. Maurice Brett, second son of Lord Esher; Denise Orme, the Gaiety Juno, who married the Hon. Richard Yarde-Buller, son of Lord Churston; Olive May, "the girl with the Chippendale legs," a Gaiety beauty who married Lord Victor Paget; and Camille Clifford, a former stage beauty, who is now the wife of the Hon. Henry Lyndhurst Bruce, son of Lord Aberdare.
