DOG'S ANCESTRY A PUZZLE

Naturalists by No Means Agreed as to How the Present Favorite of Man Really Has Descended.

Naturalists and the world at large seem to generally accept the theory that the domestic dog is, in some sense, a collateral descendant of the wolf or jackal, says Harper's Weekly.

He states that the skull of almost every species of wolf and jackal differs from the skull of the shepherd dog to an extent that makes it impossible that this dog should belong in the same classification.

There are, moreover, other characteristics which the Indian wolf has in common with the dog, and which the ordinary wolf does not share with them.

The conclusion of this scientist is that the Indian wolf is the progenitor of the shepherd dog and the bloodhound. There were two primitive races of dogs analogous to these which were first domesticated in Central Asia.

Seemingly Authentic Incident Connected With Death of Rubinstein—Calls for Some Explanation.

Lillian Niebla in her reminiscences of Rubinstein says Rubinstein promised to demonstrate to her his belief in immortality.

Science has recently been studying the question as to whether or not snakes have really an appreciation to music. This applies particularly to the cobra, which responds to the plying of a gourd instrument played by the East Indian fair with a rhythmic movement suggesting a dance.

IS RIVAL OF EIFFEL

Woolworth Structure in New York Is Highest in U. S.

Huge Building Scrapes the Sky at 750 Feet—Edifice When Complete Will Have Cost Owners $13,500,000.

New York.—The Woolworth building, now almost completed, holds the record for height among all buildings ever erected by man. It is true, the Eiffel Tower in Paris is 234 feet higher, but it is a mere steel skeleton and cannot be classed as a building in the sense accepted for that term. The building proper, which occupies an area of 30,000 square feet, is 354 feet high and is surmounted by a tower, 85 by 84 feet, rising 346 feet above the main part of the building. The following list of the tallest structures raised by man may be interesting for purposes of comparison:

Colossus of Rhodes	105
Pantheon, Rome	150
St. Isaac's, St. Petersburg	350
Statue of Liberty (highest statue)	250
Great Pyramid of Cheops	450
St. Peter's, Rome	400
Rouen, Cathedral	490
Cologne Cathedral	510
Washington Monument	555 1/2
Singer Building	612 1-1/2
Metropolitan Tower	700 1/2
Woolworth Building	750
Eiffel Tower	954

The work of excavating for the foundations of the Woolworth building was begun on Nov. 4, 1910. Eighty-six caissons were sunk to a depth of 115 feet until they reached solid rock and the sixty-six concrete piers, resting on the rock, constitute the foundation of the structure.

The foundation was completed in the fall of 1911, when the erection of the steel frame was begun. The latter was completed in July of last year, and the brick and stone work was completed at the beginning of the present year. Twenty-four thousand tons of steel went into the making of the building and the total weight of the structure is estimated at 250,000 tons.

The building has fifty-five floors, twenty-five of which are in the tower, and the aggregate floor space is about thirty-three acres. The building and tower together contain about 2,000 offices, with 3,000 windows and as many doors.

To enable the occupants of the building to reach their respective floors there are thirty-four passenger elevators, of which twenty-four are grouped near the Broadway entrance, while the others are near the entrance from Barclay street and Park place.

The equipment of the building when fully completed will be thoroughly modern and as nearly perfect as it is possible to make it. The fifty-fourth floor will be used as an observatory, and on top of the structure, beneath the gigantic flag, will be placed a powerful searchlight. The twenty-eighth floor will be occupied by a luncheon club, and in the basement there will be a swimming pool, a restaurant and a rathskeller.

The total cost of the building is estimated at about $13,500,000, of which amount $4,500,000 was paid for the ground. The building was erected for F. W. Woolworth, who was born poor at Rodman, N. Y., April 13, 1852, went through public school and a business college, and in 1879 opened the first "five-cent store" at Utica, N. Y. The venture prospered, and he extended his business to other cities, and now has chains of more than 300 such stores throughout the country, from which he derives an enormous income.

More than half of the capital required for the erection of the Woolworth building was contributed by capitalists in France. The rent roll of the building is expected to be about $2,000,000 a year.

WORKS 60 YEARS FOR FIRM

Put on Payroll at Age of Fourteen—Is Considered One of the Best Employees.

Pawtucket, R. I.—The long distance record for holding a job is believed to be that of Thomas McAloon, a seventy-four-year-old Pawtucket man, who has worked continuously sixty years for one concern.

Nor is Mr. McAloon content to rest on his laurels and retire from active life. Not a bit of it. As foreman of the "steaming" department of the largest finishing works in Pawtucket, he is right on the job every week day, rain or shine. He declares that, outside of a little loss of agility in his legs, he is just as good as ever, and can keep his men up to a championship of efficiency in pushing the work out just as well today as he could years ago.

There is not a man in this great establishment who can boast of the fact that he worked alongside of Foreman McAloon fifty years ago, for he has outdistanced them all. He is the oldest employe in this plant, both in age and in years of service, and is held in the highest esteem by the officials of this company. They feel, in spite of his age, he is a most valuable employe, and declare his retirement will have to come at his own request.

When a reporter called at the print works in Pawtucket, he found Alderman McAloon watching the work in the "steaming" room, keeping his eye on the intricate mechanism and seeing that the standard of work was kept up at all times.

"I was born to work," declared Alderman McAloon to the reporter, "and I mean to keep it up so long as I can stand on two feet."

"When I first came to work, it was a 12-hour day, reporting in the morning at 6:30 and quitting at 6:30, from March to September, and from seven o'clock in the morning to seven at night the remaining six months. The only vacations we had then were from Saturday night to the next Monday morning, except when there would be a breakdown or the factory was closed for repairs."

CRIES FOR HIS NEGRO CHUM

Son of His Father's Coachman Sent on Flier to Palm Beach to Play With Vinson McLean.

Washington, D. C.—"Send for 'Jack' Johnson," said Vinson Walsh McLean, the $100,000,000 baby, as he gazed disdainfully at his expensive toys and other appurtenances of Palm Beach. "I want 'Jack' Johnson to play with me."

Of course "Jack" Johnson was wired for, with instructions to start at once. By the way, he is not the pugilist, but a seven-year-old Washington darky boy. When the message summoning him arrived "Jack" almost rolled his eyes out of his head.

He often played with Vinson in the private park at Friendship, but to go to Palm Beach and play with him was beyond his wildest dreams. No conqueror entering a captured city ever was as proud as "Jack" Johnson appeared as he waved good-bye to envious friends from the window of a Palm Beach flier. He had a good cause for pride, for in Vinson's acquaintance in Washington are sections of millionaires and youthful sprigs of foreign nobility. But he passed them all by for the fun of making sand castles with "Jack" Johnson, the son of one of his father's stablemen.

RECIPE FOR SAVING

Head of Chicago Mission Tells How to Rescue Derelicts.

Harry Monroe Declares He Was a Tough, But Was Called From Life of Debauchery by Conviction of Its Hopelessness.

"With a Bible in one hand and a loaf of bread in the other—that's the only way to save the man that's down."

"Don't drop the bad man, the man that's strong and wrong. That's the man to stick to. If you win you've got a real one."

"Kindness is the thing. Slap him on the back. Help him 'get a front,' then make him hustle."

"The helpless booze fighter has just lost his nerve. He's a dead one. Help him materially as well as mentally. If you don't he's a goner. He can't make a play at all."

Chicago.—Harry Monroe gives these remedies for the redemption of those who have strayed or fallen.

The kindly little fat man with the twinkling eye and a handshake that has given hope to thousands thus sums up, in advice to others, the acts that have made him successful at Pacific Garden Mission.

Nearly everybody has heard of Harry Monroe. Among the derelicts he is known as a friend. Among church folk he is the genius who guides the Pacific Garden Mission, the "mother of American missions."

Still another class of people know Harry Monroe. Thirty-five years ago when Pacific Garden, at 67 West Van Buren street, was one of Chicago's most notorious "free and easies," saloon, cafe and dance hall, the "rounders" knew Monroe as a "pal."

Monroe was then a young tough who fought his way in and out of the dives of Whiskey Row. Water 34 years and most of the Should Not Look Old at 60."

heavily. An interviewer remarked about his youthfully pink cheeks and clear eye.

"That's from more than twenty years on the water wagon," laughed Harry Monroe. "You think I'm 50. Well, I passed the 60 mark last year."

"Thirty years ago I staggered past this place. I was wandering aimlessly. I heard the stinging. I came in and sat through the service. Says I to myself, 'This is the game that's right. I'm wrong.' I tried to drive away that feeling, but it wouldn't go. I came back."

"I heard men tell their experiences in here. The testimony rang true. That appealed to me, so I said, 'Here goes. I quit the booze fight now.' That's what I did. It was an awful battle, but I won."

Mr. Monroe retold the story of the conversation of "Billy" Sunday, nationally known evangelist, when the latter was Capt. Anson's "fairy boy," the most promising athlete of the old White Sox.

Sunday and a group of drunken ball-players stopped to hear the street service on South State street that was being conducted by Colonel Clarke and Mr. Monroe. He left his fellows, joined the mission and, while accompanying the team in other cities, refused to play on Sunday and conducted mission services instead.

Mr. Monroe was asked what it is "Song—The Stuff that wins men That Gets the Heart and Pulls."

have fallen. He pointed to a sign on the mission wall—"How Long Since You Wrote to Mother?" and then, in a clear tenor voice, sang a sympathetic old song: "The Little Brown Church."

"Song," he said, "that is the stuff that gets to a man's heart, and pulls. Kindness is the thing, though. Most of the men who come in here are helpless booze-fighters. The booze-fighter has lost his nerve. He's a dead one. What he needs is a friend."

"Chicago is the mecca of the down and out, because they know that Chicago offers more kindness than any other city in the land. It is surprising how fast young chaps from the country strike the skids and go. They get dizzy in the big city, and fall. Kindness is the only thing that will bring them back."

MULE DRIVER SAVES 200 MEN

Youth Rushes Through Fire in Mine Shaft at Shenandoah, Pa., to Give Alarm.

Shenandoah, Pa.—John Monaghan, nineteen years old, a mule driver at Ellanowgan colliery here, saved the lives of 200 mine workers. He was driving through a tunnel when he discovered a fire in the timber supports of a passage.

The smoke and mine gases overcame the four mules, which dropped dead in their tracks.

Young Monaghan tied his handkerchief over his mouth and nostrils and at the risk of his life dashed through the fire and gave the alarm. Couriers warned the 200 mine workers and plotted them out of other openings. The fire was extinguished after a hard fight.

SING ON WAY TO GRAVE

Mourners Obey Deceased's Wish as They Go to Cemetery in France.

Paris.—When an old man named Joseph Hughes was buried recently at Arzon, near Nimes, the funeral procession, according to the terms of his will, followed the coffin with every one singing an old song of which Hughes had been fond. The old man, who met his death through falling upon the fire while his wife was preparing his supper, was of an original turn of mind and had kept his coffin under his bed for twenty years, using it as a wardrobe.

IN FAVOR OF SYNDICALISM

Son of Wealthy Shipbuilder Says Masses Have Right to Call for General Strike.

London.—The son and heir of Baron Armstrong, the Hon. William John Montagu Armstrong, avowed himself a "syndicalist," in a communication the other day to a newspaper in Newcastle-on-Tyne, where his father's great shipbuilding yards are located.

In his letter Mr. Armstrong affirmed that "the masses of the people are seething with justifiable discontent." "Their wages are low," he says, and their rents are high, while caste distinctions tend in twain the unity of all nations.

Mr. Armstrong, who will not be twenty-one until October, favors the use of politics for remedying social evils, but says that if constitutional means fail he advocates a general strike as the only alternative.

DIGGER PARALYZED IN GRAVE

Fellow Workmen Find Him in Throes of Death in Cemetery at Guildford, England.

London.—Sounds from an open grave startled men at work in Guildford (Surrey) cemetery. They found a fellow workman, who had a paralytic stroke, at the bottom of a grave which he was digging. He died shortly after being removed from the excavation.

Thief's Message.

A child's bank, with "In God We Trust" printed across the top, and containing $30 in dimes, was left untouched by a burglar who ransacked the home of Harry L. Kramer at California, Pa.

After searching and finding little, the marauder unearthed the little bank, which belongs to Kramer's ten-year-old daughter. The burglar evidently decided he would leave the house empty-handed rather than take the child's savings.

So, under the inscription "In God We Trust," he scribbled, "So did I—once," and departed.—Washington Post.

Then It's Dun.

Unlike most workers, the mosquito presents his bill before he does the job.—Montreal Star.
